See "Division Vote," pp. 1404–1409.

DOCUMENTS

Reading of, decided without debate. See also "Reading of Documents, Decided Without Debate," p. 768.

A motion to refer to a committee a document which has not been presented to the Senate and not in its possession is not in order.[1]

During the presentation of petitions and memorials, a motion to print a matter as a document is not in order upon objection.[2]

The Senate may order the printing of a document not provided for by law when it does not exceed 50 pages.[3]

ELECTORAL VOTE

See also "Electoral Vote," pp. 1011–1015.

The procedure for the electoral college count is determined by the Constitution and law.[1]

The Vice President or President pro tempore, in such a joint session is the Presiding Officer with the Speaker of the House of Representatives occupying the Chair on his left.

Pursuant to law, the electoral count occurs in joint session of the two Houses on the sixth day of January succeeding every meeting of the electors. The procedure for such joint sessions is defined in title 3 of the Code, sections 15–18.
