U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

THE WHITE HOUSE, January 21, 2004.

To the Senate of the United States:

With a view to receiving the advice and consent of the Senate to ratification, I transmit herewith the Additional Protocol Between the United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria amending the Treaty Between the United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria Concerning the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment of September 23, 1992, signed at Brussels on September 22, 2003. I transmit also, for the information of the Senate, the report of the Department of State with respect to this Additional Protocol.

My Administration has already forwarded to the Senate a similar Additional Protocol for Romania and expects to forward to the Senate shortly Additional Protocols for the Czech Republic, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, and the Slovak Republic. Each of these Additional Protocols is the result of an understanding the United States reached with the European Commission and six countries that will join the European Union (EU) on May 1, 2004 (the Czech Republic, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, and the Slovak Republic), as well as with Bulgaria and Romania, which are expected to join the EU in 2007.

The understanding is designed to preserve U.S. bilateral investment treaties (BITs) with each of these countries after their accession to the EU by establishing a framework acceptable to the European Commission for avoiding or remedying present and possible future incompatibilities between their BIT obligations and their future obligations of EU membership. It expresses the U.S. intent to amend the U.S. BITs, including the BIT with Bulgaria, in order to eliminate incompatibilities between certain BIT obligations and EU law. It also establishes a framework for addressing any future incompatibilities that may arise as European Union authority in the area of investment expands in the future, and endorses the principle of protecting existing U.S. investments from any future EU measures that may restrict foreign investment in the EU.

The United States has long championed the benefits of an open investment climate, both at home and abroad. It is the policy of the United States to welcome market-driven foreign investment and to permit capital to flow freely to seek its highest return. This Additional Protocol preserves the U.S. BIT with Bulgaria, with which the United States has an expanding relationship, and the protections it affords U.S. investors even after Bulgaria joins the EU. Without it, the European Commission would likely require Bulgaria to terminate its U.S. BIT upon accession because of existing and possible future incompatibilities between our current BIT and EU law.

I recommend that the Senate consider this Additional Protocol as soon as possible, and give its advice and consent to ratification at an early date.

GEORGE W. BUSH.

LETTER OF SUBMITTAL

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, DC, December 11, 2003.

The PRESIDENT,
The White House.

THE PRESIDENT: I have the honor to submit to you the Additional Protocol Between the United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria amending the Treaty Between the United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria Concerning the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment of September 23, 1992, signed at Brussels on September 22, 2003. I recommend that this protocol be transmitted to the Senate for its advice and consent to ratification.

This protocol is the result of an understanding that the United States reached with the European Commission and six countries that will join the European Union ("EU") on May 1, 2004 (the Czech Republic, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and the Slovak Republic), as well as with Bulgaria and Romania, which are expected to join the EU in 2007.

The understanding is designed to preserve our bilateral investment treaties ("BITs") with these countries after their accession to the EU by establishing a framework for avoiding or remedying present and possible future incompatibilities between our BITs with these eight countries and their future obligations of EU membership. In this regard, the understanding expresses the U.S. intent to conclude substantively identical amendments and formal interpretations of the BITs with each of these eight countries.

In addition, the understanding establishes a framework for addressing any future incompatibilities that may arise as European Union authority in the area of investment expands and evolves in the future. It endorses the principle of protecting existing U.S. investments in these countries from any future EU measures that may restrict foreign investment in the EU, and also clarifies certain protections afforded to U.S. investments in individual member states of the EU under the Treaty Establishing the European Community ("EC Treaty").

Finally, the understanding calls for the United States and each BIT partner to interpret, through an exchange of notes, two BIT provisions: (1) the right of each BIT Party to take measures necessary for the protection of its own essential security interests, and (2) the BIT prohibition on performance requirements.

Both interpretations were undertaken at the request of the European Commission to confirm the mutual understanding of the United States and Bulgaria in the context of EU enlargement. For example, the interpretation of the BIT provision on essential security interests confirms that, for Bulgaria, these interests may include interests deriving from Bulgaria's membership in the EU. As concerns the BIT prohibition on performance requirements, many U.S. BITs include a provision explicitly stating that the prohibition on performance requirements does not extend to conditions for the receipt or continued receipt of an advantage. The interpretation relating to performance requirements makes this explicit with respect to the U.S.-Bulgaria BIT. The two interpretations are enclosed for the information of the Senate.

Investment by the United States has played an important role in the economic transformation of these right countries, and the U.S. BITs have afforded important protections to U.S. investors. Prior to acceding to the EU, however, the European Commission has required that these countries terminate any international treaty containing incompatibilities with EU law. Without the understanding and the steps contemplated therein, including the specific amendments in this protocol, these countries would be required to terminate their U.S. BITs and the great majority of protections these treaties afford U.S. investors. Therefore, the understanding, together with the interpretations and specific amendments in the protocol, will preserve the benefits of these treaties and provide important additional protections for U.S. investors as the EU continues to evolve.

THE U.S.-BULGARIA PROTOCOL

The United States champions EU enlargement and, at the same time, intends that this BIT will continue to mutually benefit U.S. and Bulgarian investors. By undertaking these amendments of the BIT with Bulgaria, which would be brought into force just prior to its accession, incompatibilities between BIT protections and EU law are eliminated, and any future problems in this respect are addressed through a framework for consultations. This action preserves our BIT with Bulgaria after its accession to the EU, and is consistent with the policy of the United States to welcome market-driven foreign investment and to permit capital to flow freely to seek its highest return. Bulgaria is one of the newly democratized countries in Europe transitioning to a market economy, and foreign direct investment into Bulgaria is very much in both our countries' interests. Protection for investors facilitates investment activity, and thus directly supports U.S. policy objectives.

The principal substantives articles of the protocol provide as follows.

Article I: that the article of the BIT prohibiting performance requirements does not limit Bulgaria's ability to impose, as necessary under EU law, certain kinds of performance requirements in the agricultural and audio-visual sectors;

Article II: that the terms of the free trade area/customs union exception of the BIT shall apply, without limitation, to all of a party's obligations stemming from its membership in an economic integration agreement that includes a free trade area or customs union, such as the EU;

Article III: that the BIT Parties will consult promptly whenever either Party believes that steps are necessary to assure compatibility between the BIT and the EC Treaty;

Article IV: that, in certain specified sectors or matters, Bulgaria may take a reservation against the national treatment and most-favored-nation treatment obligations of the BIT, provided such reservation is necessary to meet Bulgaria's obligations under EU law, and subject to the following exception; that, notwithstanding any such new reservation, existing U.S. investments in Bulgaria shall remain protected under the national treatment and most-favored-nation treatment obligations of the Bulgaria for at least 10 years from the date of the relevant EU law necessitating the reservation; and finally, that the United States reserves the right to make or maintain limited exceptions to the national treatment obligation in two new sectors or matters, fisheries and subsidies, and to the most-favored-nation treatment obligation in one new sector, fisheries.

With respect to future developments in EU law, the United States recognizes that the possibility exists that these amendments may not suffice to ensure compatibility, and that consultations would be necessary to avoid or eliminate any incompatibilities that may arise. As noted above, the United States and Bulgaria expressly agree to such consultations in the protocol.

I support this protocol to the U.S. BIT with Bulgaria, and I favor its transmission to the Senate at an early date.

Respectfully submitted.

COLIN L. POWELL.

ADDITIONAL PROTOCOL
BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
AND THE REPUBLIC OF BULGARIA
AMENDING THE TREATY
BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
AND THE REPUBLIC OF BULGARIA
CONCERNING THE ENCOURAGEMENT AND RECIPROCAL
PROTECTION OF INVESTMENT OF SEPTEMBER 23, 1992

The United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria (hereinafter the "Parties");

Desiring to make more effective the Treaty Between the United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria Concerning the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment, with Protocol and Related Exchange of Letters, signed at Washington on September 23, 1992 (hereinafter "the Treaty");

Have discussed the intentions of the United States of America and the Republic of Bulgaria regarding the compatibility between the Republic of Bulgaria's obligations under the Treaty and obligations that arise from membership in the European Union;

Have acknowledged that the Republic of Bulgaria, in view of Article 307 of the Treaty Establishing the European Community and the terms of ongoing negotiations between the Republic of Bulgaria and the European Union relating to its future Act of Accession to the European Union, must, in order to complete the accession process, take all appropriate steps to eliminate incompatibilities between the Treaty Establishing the European Community and its other international agreements, including the Treaty;

Have concluded, as a result, that certain amendments to the Treaty are necessary in order to avoid such incompatibilities;

Have decided to conclude an Additional Protocol thereto; and

Have agreed upon the following articles:

Article I

As necessary for the Republic of Bulgaria to meet its obligations pursuant to measures adopted by the European Union, Article II, paragraph 5, of the Treaty shall not limit the ability of the Republic of Bulgaria to impose performance requirements:

- (a) in the agricultural sector that relate to the production, processing and trade of agricultural and processed agricultural products, that implement quotas, or that require the purchase or use of goods produced or services provided in the European Union or, with respect to goods produced or services provided, a particular level or percentage of content from a source in the European Union; or

- (b) in the audio-visual sector that relate to the production, distribution and exploitation of audio-visual works, that implement quotas, or that require the purchase or use of goods produced or services provided in countries of the Council of Europe or, with respect to goods produced or services provided, a particular level or percentage of content from a source in countries of the Council of Europe.

Article II

The Parties acknowledge that the terms of the customs union or free trade area exception found at Article II, paragraph 9(a), of the Treaty shall apply to all obligations of a Party by virtue of its membership in an economic integration agreement that includes a free trade area or customs union (e.g., the European Union), including obligations owed to nationals or companies of any third country.

Article III

Article V of the Treaty shall be amended by deleting the text of the existing article in its entirety and substituting the following text in its place:

“The Parties agree to consult promptly, on the request of either, to resolve any disputes in connection with the Treaty, or to discuss any matter relating to the interpretation or application of the Treaty. The Parties also agree to consult promptly whenever a Party believes that steps are necessary to assure compatibility between the Treaty and the Treaty Establishing the European Community with a view to assuring compatibility.”

Article IV

A. The Annex to the Treaty shall be amended by adding the following additional paragraphs:

6. Any exception by the Republic of Bulgaria exercised pursuant to paragraphs 4 or 5 above (i.e., through any law or regulation adopted by, or any European Union measure directly applicable within, the Republic of Bulgaria) shall not apply, for the time period set forth below in subparagraph (a), to investments of nationals or companies of the United States that are existing in the relevant sector on the date this amendment takes effect or on the date the European Commission publishes its proposal to enact the relevant measure in its Official Journal, whichever date is later.

- (b) In no case, however, may an exception exercised pursuant to paragraphs 4 or 5 above apply to an existing investment, as defined in this paragraph, to the extent that it would require divestment, in whole or in part, of such an existing investment.”

B. Paragraph 1 of the Annex to the Treaty shall be amended to reflect that the United States reserves the right to make or maintain limited exceptions to national treatment, as provided in Article II, paragraph 1, in the new sectors or matters it has indicated below:
