FEDERAL OIL AND GAS ROYALTY SIMPLIFICATION AND FAIRNESS ACT OF 1995

Mr. STEVENS. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 500, which is House bill H.R. 1975.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1975) to improve the management of royalties from Federal and Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas leases, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I rise to urge my Senate colleagues to support H.R. 1975, the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Fairness and Simplification Act, also known as the "royalty fairness" bill, which passed the House of Representatives on July 16, 1996. H.R. 1975 is identical in every respect to S. 1014, reported to the Senate by the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources on May 1 by a unanimous voice vote, with one exception: It makes a technical amendment in the effective date section that was not made in S. 1014. The technical amendment was included at the urging of the administration and, as a result, the Clinton administration strongly supports H.R. 1975. The bill also is supported by the governors of fourteen States.

This is historic legislation, Mr. President. It is the only legislative initiative taken in the last 14 years to cost effectively increase the Nation's third largest source of revenue—mineral royalties from Federal lands, more specifically, oil and gas royalties. This legislation would establish a comprehensive statutory plan to increase the collection of royalty receipts due the United States. Those receipts will help reduce our budget deficit. Without this legislation, an ineffective and costly royalty collection system will continue, perpetuating long delays and uncollected royalties.

Let me make clear, Mr. President: This legislation does not apply to Indian lands. It applies only to royalties from oil and gas production on Federal lands.

Let me also make absolutely clear that this bill does not—repeat, does not—provide royalty relief or lower royalty rates for oil and gas producers who operate on Federal onshore lands or the Outer Continental Shelf. H.R. 1975 is about royalty collection, not royalty rates. This bill is about improving government efficiency, not about increasing government bureaucracy. And this bill is about increasing revenues to the Federal Treasury, not about giving money away.

This legislation is historic for another reason, Mr. President: It would empower States to perform oil and gas royalty management functions, such as auditing and collecting, that are essential to bringing additional receipts to the Treasury and the States within a 7-year limitation period established by this legislation. By expanding the States' role in performing Federal oil and gas royalty management and collection functions consistent with Federal law and regulation, States will be given a great economic incentive that will benefit the Federal Treasury. The more aggressive States are in performing delegated functions, the greater their share of net receipts under the Mineral Leasing Act. That act requires 50 percent of all royalties from Federal onshore oil and gas production to be shared with the States from which that production comes.

H.R. 1975 establishes a framework for the federal oil and gas royalty collection program that will accelerate the collection of offsetting receipts to the Treasury by $80 million in the 1997-2002 period, half of which moneys would be shared with the States. These receipts result primarily from: (1) requiring the Secretary of the Interior and delegated States to timely collect all claims within 7 years rather than allow the claims to become stale and uncollectible; (2) requiring early resolution and collection of disputed claims before their value diminishes; (3) requiring federal and State resources to be used in a manner that maximizes receipts through more aggressive collection activities; and (4) increasing production on federal lands by creating economic and regulatory incentives. Without the statutory framework of this legislation, the Nation's third largest revenue source (the Interior Department's Minerals Management Service is the third largest source of revenue behind the IRS and Customs Service) will continue to be subject to greatly delayed collections and the risk of reduced receipts due to non-collection over time.

To achieve the goal of maximizing collections through more timely and aggressive collection efforts, this legislation would do the following specific things. It would require the Secretary, delegated States, and lessees to take action respecting a royalty obligation within seven years from the date that obligation became due. The provisions require that judicial proceedings or demands (e.g., orders to pay) be commenced or issued within seven years of the date when the obligation became due or be barred. Lessees would be required to maintain their records during the 7-year period in order to verify production volumes.

H.R. 1975 would expedite the administrative appeals process at the Interior Department by establishing a 33-month limitation on appeals. Presently, over $450 million in disputed claims languish in a bureaucratic appeals process and continue to lose value. By speeding up the appeals process, the Secretary would increase the value of those obligations and collections to the Treasury.

The legislation also would level the playing field for royalty payors by authorizing the payment of interest on overpayments. Present law requires lessees to pay interest on late payments and underpayments as a disincentive for being tardy or underpaying royalties, but does not compensate lessees who overpay royalties and who lose the time value of that money through some legitimate error.

And finally, Mr. President, the legislation would authorize the Secretary to allow prepayment of royalties and to provide other regulatory relief for "marginal properties," and require that adjustments or requests for refunds for underpayments or overpayments be pursued within a 6-year window coinciding with the 7-year limitation period.

Mr. President, I want to thank my colleague, Senator NICKLES, for introducing the Senate companion to H.R. 1975, S. 1014, last June. Senator DOMENICI and I joined Senator NICKLES as sponsors of this historic bill, and Senator THOMAS has been deeply involved as well. I want to thank Senators NICKLES, DOMENICI, and THOMAS for their efforts in regard to the royalty fairness legislation.

Mr. President, the fact that S. 1014 was reported from the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources on May 1 by a unanimous voice vote and subsequently drew the support of the Clinton administration, and the fact that the House swiftly passed H.R. 1975, speaks to the merits of this legislation, the lengths to which we have gone to resolve differences with the administration over the language of the bill, and the fact that this legislation is not partisan legislation.

This is good-government legislation, and no matter what criticism we may hear of it, it will be good for the taxpayers, good for the States, and good for the energy producing sector of our economy.

Importantly, Mr. President, H.R. 1975 will empower States to join in partnership with the Federal Government in assuming certain royalty management functions pursuant to a delegation of authority. By providing States with a role in performing oil and gas royalty management functions, we will be giving States the economic incentive to perform those functions in a more cost effective manner. Aggressive pursuit of royalty obligations by States will be rewarded by higher net receipts shares for the States, because 50 percent of oil and gas receipts are shared with the States, and it will result in higher receipts to the federal treasury.

This is a fiscal "win-win" no matter how you view it. This is good public policy. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Simplification and Fairness Act.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a letter dated June 6, 1996, from the Department of the Interior; a statement of administration policy, dated July 16, 1996, from OMB; a letter dated May 30, 1996, from Leon Panetta; and a DOE news release dated July 16, 1996, be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,

Washington, DC, June 6, 1996.

Hon. FRANK MURKOWSKI,

Chairman, Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: I am writing to express the views of the Department of the Interior on S. 1014, the "Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Simplification and Fairness Act of 1996." As you are aware, we have conducted extensive discussions with the staff of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee in an effort to address concerns and resolve differences raised by both parties.

S. 1014, as marked up and passed by the full Committee on May 1, incorporated negotiated language that is acceptable to the Department. After marking up the bill, the Committee staff and the Minerals Management Service identified a technical error, and the Committee has developed an amendment for Senate floor consideration. The amendment would correct an error in section 11, so that the effective date exception will apply to the appeals provision in section 115(h) and not to the records retention provision in section 115(f). The Department supports S. 1014 as reported out of the Committee, with the adoption of the pending technical amendment.

In general, S. 1014 would amend the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Management Act, the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act, and the Mineral Leasing Act. The amendments change the requirements that govern how the Secretary of the Interior manages royalty payments from Federal oil and gas leases onshore and on the OCS. The bill would limit the persons that can be held liable for royalty payments; establish a 7-year statute of limitations and detail the circumstances under which the statute of limitations can be tolled; establish time limits for administrative appeals decisions; require the Secretary to pay interest on all overpayments; process OCS refunds and credits in the same manner as onshore leases; undertake measures to encourage efficiency and reduce duplicate reporting; and relax reporting and payment requirements on marginal producing leases, including accepting prepayments of future royalties. Lastly, S. 1014 would change existing statutory authority for the Secretary to delegate royalty management activities to States.

This delegation issue has been of particular interest to the Department. Our priority has been to ensure that the delegation provision does not contain unacceptable bars to the exercise of Secretarial discretion. We believe that the language contained in the current version of S. 1014 provides new benefits for states by expanding the list of delegable authorities which a state may seek and requiring the Secretary, to make a decision regarding any pending state application for delegation within 90 days of its submission. At the same time, however, the bill preserves the Secretary's discretion regarding important decisions affecting public lands, unlike similar language in the companion House bill (H.R. 1975) which unacceptably diminishes the Secretary's discretionary authority. Certainly, we could not accept any amendments that would weaken the Secretary's authority as currently provided in S. 1014.

The Office of Management and Budget has advised that there is no objection to the presentation of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Sincerely,

SYLVIA V. BACA,
Acting Assistant Secretary for Land and Minerals Management.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT,
OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET,

Washington, DC, July 16, 1996.

STATEMENT OF ADMINISTRATION POLICY
(This statement has been coordinated by OMB with the concerned agencies.)

H.R. 1975—FEDERAL OIL AND GAS ROYALTY
SIMPLIFICATION/FAIRNESS

(Calvert (R) CA) and 10 cosponsors)

The Administration is committed to ensuring the efficient management of the Federal oil and gas program and to finding new ways for the States to work cooperatively and creatively with the Federal Government. Accordingly, the Administration strongly supports enactment of H.R. 1975 if amended to adopt the language of S. 1014, as reported by the Senate, with the technical amendment agreed upon by the Administration and the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee. The Senate reported bill maintains Federal discretion in delegating royalty collection and other duties to States while expanding the list of delegable authorities that a State may seek.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

Washington, DC, May 30, 1996.

Hon. FRANK H. MURKOWSKI,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. MURKOWSKI: I am writing to inform you of the Administration's position regarding the pending Oil and Gas Royalty Simplification and Fairness legislation (S. 1014). Let me assure you that the Administration remains committed to ensuring the efficient management of Federal lands and finding new ways for the States to work cooperatively and creatively with the Federal Government. The President shares your hope that an agreement can be reached on the State delegation issue.

In an effort to resolve this issue, Administration representatives, working with the staff of the Senate Energy Committee, were successful in reaching an agreement on language that would expand the list of delegable royalty management authorities, without reducing the Secretary of the Interior's responsibility with respect to the management of Federal lands. That language was included in S. 1014, which was reported out of the Senate Energy Committee on May 1st. The Administration supports S. 1014 as reported out of Committee, but will seek a minor technical amendment. The Administration believes this bill's State delegation language is acceptable, unlike the language included in H.R. 1975, the House Resources Committee bill on Royalty Simplification.

The Administration will continue to work with Congress as the legislative process moves forward, and stands ready to work in support of the language included in the Senate Energy Committee bill. I appreciate your interest and support in this important legislation.

Sincerely,

LEON E. PANETTA, Chief of Staff.

DOE NEWS

STATEMENT OF CHARLES B. CURTIS, DEPUTY
SECRETARY, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY
ON ROYALTY FAIRNESS

"The Clinton Administration is extremely pleased by passage in the House today of H.R. 1975, the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Simplification and Fairness Act. This legislation will improve the competitiveness of America's natural gas and oil industry by reducing red tape and making the federal regulatory structure more efficient and responsive.

"The Administration has worked hard to advance this legislation because we believe that simplifying royalty collection procedures will make it less costly for domestic energy producers to find and produce more natural gas and oil on federal lands. That, in turn, will reduce America's reliance on foreign oil. Furthermore, the Congressional Budget Office estimates that enactment of this measure will contribute an additional $51 million in federal revenues and $33 million in state revenues over seven years.

"The bipartisan support in the House for this bill is a major step forward in making government work for the American people. If the Senate also approves this legislation, it will be good news for American workers, good news for the U.S. Treasury and, most important, good news for our Nation's energy and National security."

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I speak today about extremely important legislation that we will pass in the Senate: The Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Simplification and Fairness Act of 1996.

This bill is a win-win solution for our beleaguered domestic oil and gas industry, oil and gas-producing States like my State of New Mexico, and the Federal Treasury.

As one of the three cosponsors of this legislation, I wish to commend Senator NICKLES for introducing the bill, Senator MURKOWSKI for joining with me as a cosponsor, and Senator THOMAS for fighting hard with us to move this bill through committee and past initial administration objections.

The bill before us reflects solid bipartisan support and the hard work of the majority and the minority to narrow our differences and reach a good compromise.

The Royalty Fairness bill will generate more revenue for the State and Federal Government, which means more funding will be available for New Mexico schools and for other vital State programs that depend on revenues from oil and gas royalties.

According to CBO, the Royalty Fairness bill has the potential to save taxpayers more than $50 million over 7 years. States keep half of the oil and gas royalties, and because of our legislation will have the potential to receive over $30 million of additional royalty revenue into their State treasuries when this bill is enacted into law.

Let me remind my colleagues that the Federal royalty collection system is our Nation's third largest source of revenue, and this bill makes long-needed improvements to that system.

This bill will finally give the oil patch more consistency and less uncertainty in the royalty collection process, which will, in turn, give a much-needed boost to our domestic oil and gas industry and lessen our dependence on foreign imports.

This is a good-government bill, a win-win bill, and I urge the President to sign this bill into law as soon as possible.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, today we have finally passed the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Simplification and Fairness Act of 1996. I introduced this bill last year. It is a bipartisan bill that has the support of the administration as well as 14 State Governors who represent 99 percent of all Federal onshore production, the Interstate Oil and Gas Compact Commission and industry trade associations who represent virtually 100 percent of all Federal lessees.

This bill amends the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Management Act of 1982 and applies to leases issued by the Secretary of the Interior on Federal onshore lands and the Outer Continental Shelf. The bill's objectives are to provide greater certainty, simplicity, fairness and administrative efficiencies in the laws that govern Federal royalties.

Over time, serious problems have developed with the ways courts and consequently the Minerals Management Service [MMS] have interpreted the Federal statute of limitations governing royalty collection. Basically the issue is: At what time does the statute of limitations begin to run on the underpayment of royalties?

Some courts claim that the statute of limitations does not begin to run until the MMS "should have known about the deficiency" in the amount the producer has paid [Mesa versus U.S. (10th Cir. 1994)]. Other courts have held that the current 6-year statute "is tolled until such time as the government could reasonably have known about a fact material to its right of action." [Phillips versus Lujan (10th Cir. 1993)].

Either of the above interpretations subjects producers to unlimited liability—a period that well exceeds the statute of limitations on other agency actions regarding producers. This situation has created a climate of deep uncertainty in the payment of royalties that was not intended by Congress and that is not in the best interests of consumers, producers, or ultimately the U.S. Government.

Oil and gas producers pay billions of dollars every year for the opportunity to drill on Federal land. The payment of royalties is a routine part of doing business with the Federal Government. There is no attempt here to alter that obligation to pay.

However, as in all other businesses, oil and gas producers need certainty in their business relationships and in their business transactions with the Federal Government. That certainty is not now present in the MMS's regulations or in numerous court decisions interpreting the applicable statute of limitations. Certainty can be achieved only through legislation. For that reason, I introduced the Royalty Fairness Act of 1995.

The main objective of this legislation is to establish a clear statute of limitations and identify the time when the statute of limitations begins to run on royalty payments. This bill establishes a 7-year statute of limitations and in most cases, the statute will begin to run when the obligation to pay the royalty begins.

In addition, this bill permits the Secretary of the Interior to delegate royalty collections and related activities to the States, it provides for adjustments or refund requests to correct underpayments or overpayments of obligations, it authorizes the payment of interest to lessees who make overpayments, and it provides alternatives for marginal properties including prepayment of royalties or regulatory relief.

In conclusion, the Congressional Budget Office estimates this bill would increase revenues to the U.S. Treasury by $36 million over 6 years, and cumulatively to the States by $9 million during the same interval. I am confident that passage of this bill is much needed to create a climate of certainty in the oil and gas industry as well as being very much in the national economic interest.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be deemed read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the bill be placed at the appropriate place in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (H.R. 1975) was deemed read the third time and passed.
