DEFENSE TRADE COOPERATION TREATIES IMPLEMENTATION ACT OF 2010

SEPTEMBER 23, 2010.—Ordered to be printed

Mr. KERRY, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, submitted the following

REPORT

[To accompany S. 3581]

The Committee on Foreign Relations, having had under consideration the bill S. 3581, to implement certain defense cooperation trade treaties, reports favorably thereon, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute and an amendment to the title, and recommends that the bill, as amended, do pass.

I. PURPOSE

The purpose of this bill is to provide a statutory basis for the President to implement the Treaty between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland Concerning Defense Trade Cooperation, done at Washington and London on June 21 and 26, 2007 (Treaty Doc. 110–7) and the Treaty between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of Australia Concerning Defense Trade Cooperation, done at Sydney, September 5, 2007 (Treaty Doc. 110–10). This is necessary to ensure that violations of the treaties, of their implementing arrangements, or of regulations issued pursuant to them would be subject to the criminal and civil sanctions enumerated for certain offenses under the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2751 et seq., hereinafter "the AECA"). The bill also ensures the application to activities under the treaties of existing AECA provisions relating to, inter alia, the approval of third-country transfers, a ban on incentive payments, and a reporting requirement in the event that a United States person is discriminated against, in the license-free defense trade regime created under the treaties, on the basis of race, religion, national origin, or sex. In addition, the bill requires legislative approval before certain changes to implementing arrangements to the two treaties may enter into effect for the United States.

II. COMMITTEE ACTION

The Treaty with the United Kingdom Concerning Defense Trade Cooperation was signed on June 21 and 26, 2007, and was received in the Senate and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations on September 20, 2007 (Treaty Doc. 110–7). A nearly identical treaty with Australia was signed on September 5, 2007, and was received in the Senate on December 3, 2007 (Treaty Doc. 110–10).

The committee held a public hearing on the treaties on May 21, 2008. Senator Biden chaired the hearing. Testimony was received from the Honorable John C. Rood, Acting Under Secretary of State for Arms Control and International Security. On July 3, 2008, Senators Biden and Lugar also submitted in writing questions for the record to the Honorable Michael B. Mukasey, Attorney General of the United States, and the Honorable Michael Chertoff, Secretary of Homeland Security. The transcript of that hearing and the text of the executive branch's answers for the record are provided in S. Hrg. 110–651.

On December 10, 2009, the committee held another public hearing on the treaties. Senator Kerry chaired the hearing. Testimony was received from the Honorable Andrew Shapiro, Assistant Secretary of State for Political-Military Affairs, and the Honorable James A. Baker, Associate Deputy Attorney General. On December 17, 2009, Senator Lugar submitted questions for the record to the Honorable John Merton, Assistant Secretary of Homeland Security for Immigration and Customs Enforcement, and Mr. Jayson P. Ahern, Acting Commissioner for Customs and Border Protection. The transcript of that hearing and the text of the executive branch's answers for the record are included in the executive report on the treaties.

Among the issues discussed in the committee's hearings and correspondence with the executive branch was whether implementing legislation should be enacted to clarify the treaties' operation in U.S. law and to provide authorities related to their enforcement. On July 14, 2010, Senator Lugar introduced S. 3581, the Defense Trade Treaty Implementation Act of 2010. Although the executive branch originally envisioned that the treaties would be self-executing, and thus would not require implementing legislation, the executive branch subsequently revised this position and accepted that the treaties would be implemented through legislation. On September 20, 2010, the Department of State transmitted to the committee an answer for the record stating the administration's revised position that, "the Treaties are not self-executing. They will be implemented through legislation and regulations thereunder."

On September 21, 2010, the committee considered the treaties and ordered them favorably reported by a voice vote, with a quorum present and without objection. The committee recommended a resolution of advice and consent to ratification for each treaty. At the same meeting, the committee considered S.

3581, adopted by voice vote a Kerry amendment in the form of a substitute, and by a voice vote ordered the amended bill favorably reported.

III. SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short Title.

This Act may be cited as the "Defense Trade Cooperation Treaties Implementation Act of 2010."

Section 2. Exemptions From Requirements.

Section (2)(a) of the bill would amend section 3(b) of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2753(b)), to include in the list of items for which the President's advance consent to a transfer to a third party is not required, those transfers that are permitted by one of the treaties without that advance consent. Section 3(a) of the AECA requires, among other things,[1] that before agreeing to sell or lease a defense article or defense service to any country or international organization, the recipient must agree that it will not, without the advance consent of the President, (1) transfer title to or possession of the defense article or related training or other defense service to anyone not an officer, employee, or agent of that country or international organization, and (2) not use or permit the use of such article or related training or other defense service for purposes other than those for which it was furnished. Section 505(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2314) contains a similar requirement prior to providing defense articles or related training or defense services on a grant basis. Section 3(b) of the AECA in turn exempts from those advance Presidential consent requirements certain types of retransfers of defense articles and services from the original recipient countries to a third party.

This provision is intended to make clear that transfers of title or possession permitted by the treaties are exempt from the AECA's advance Presidential consent requirements. For defense articles, services, and related technical data originally exported pursuant to the treaties, Article 7 of each treaty would permit transfers among members of that treaty's approved community of entities and individuals, including non-governmental entities. Such transfers would not require the consent of the United States Government. (Transfers to entities outside of each treaty's approved community, includ-

[1] Section 3(a) requires, in full that "No defense article or defense service shall be sold or leased by the United States Government under this Act to any country or international organization, and no agreement shall be entered into for a cooperative project (as defined in section 27 of this Act), unless-

(1) The President finds that the furnishing of defense articles and defense services to such country or international organization will strengthen the security of the United States and promote world peace;

(2) The country or international organization shall have agreed not to transfer title to, or possession of, any defense article or related training or other defense service so furnished to it, or produced in a cooperative project (as defined in section 27 of this Act), to anyone not an officer, employee, or agent of that country or international organization (or the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or the specific member countries (other than the United States) in the case of a cooperative project) and not to use or permit the use of such article or related training or other defense service for purposes other than those for which furnished unless the consent of the President has first been obtained;

(3) The country or international organization shall have agreed that it will maintain the security of such article or service and will provide substantially the same degree of security protection afforded to such article or service by the United States Government; and

(4) The country or international organization is otherwise eligible to purchase or lease defense articles or defense services.

ing to another recipient country, would continue to require advance U.S. consent.) In addition, Article 3(3) of each treaty permits the application of the treaty to defense articles, services, and related technical data that were originally exported pursuant to the Foreign Military Sales (FMS) program (that is, the program of government-to-government sales established under the AECA). As a result, the treaties would permit the UK or Australian Governments to transfer to other members of each treaty's approved community defense articles, services, and related technical data that had originally been transferred under the FMS program.

Subsection (b) of this section would add new subparagraph (C) to section 38(j)(1) of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2778(j)(1)) to exempt the treaties from a certain requirement in the AECA, and to establish limitations on the scope of each treaty. Section 38(j)(1)(A) establishes that the President may use the regulatory authority of the AECA to exempt a country from the licensing requirements of the AECA only if the United States has concluded a bilateral agreement with the foreign country that meets certain requirements as stipulated in section 38(j) of the AECA. The committee recommends that the Senate give its advice and consent to ratification of the treaties, which were not designed to meet the requirements established by section 38(j)(1)(A). The new clause (C)(i) would exempt the treaties with the United Kingdom and Australia from these requirements.

The provision would also limit the scope of defense articles, services, and related technical data for which license-free exports and transfers under the treaties could be conducted. In its presentation of the treaties to the Senate, the executive branch expressed its intention to exempt from each treaty's scope certain defense articles, services, and related technical data that it regarded as too sensitive to be transferred license-free, including defense articles listed in the Missile Technology Control Regime (MTCR) Annex, the Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC) Annex on Chemicals, the Convention on Biological and Toxin Weapons, and the Australia Group (AG) Common Control Lists (CCL). The committee welcomes the assurances from the executive branch in this regard. Furthermore, the resolutions of advice and consent to ratification for each treaty that the committee has recommended would require as a condition of advice and consent that the executive branch notify the Committee on Foreign Relations in the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the House of Representatives 30 days in advance of including within each treaty's scope a defense article, service, or related technical data that had previously been exempt from each treaty's scope.

Nevertheless, the committee believes that there are certain items that are so sensitive that Congress should explicitly exclude them from the scope of the defense trade cooperation treaties. In particular, the committee believes that certain defense articles, defense services, and related technical data that are controlled in accordance with various international nonproliferation regimes must not be included in any license-free defense trade regime. The committee recognizes that the controls under these regimes may in some cases be subject to periodic technical changes by the participating governments of those regimes, which may result in technical updates to the lists of items controlled by those regimes.

In particular, the new clause (C)(ii) would require that certain items listed on the Missile Technology Control Regime (MTCR) Annex (as that term is defined in section 74(a)(4) of the AECA (22 USC 2797c (a)(4)) be exempted from the scope of the treaties. New subclauses I and II would exempt from the treaties' scope all items in Category I of the MTCR Annex, while new subclause III would exempt from the treaties MTCR Category II defense articles and defense services that are for use in rocket systems (but not those items in Category II that are for use in unmanned aerial vehicles).

In referencing certain items controlled under United States Munitions List (hereinafter "USML") Category XIV, a new subclause IV would require the President to exempt from the scope of the treaties:

- Chemical agents currently listed in USML Category XIV(a), which include certain nerve agents, vesicant agents, and incapacitating agents that are among the chemicals listed on Schedules 1 and 2 in the Annex on Chemicals of the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on their Destruction (the Chemical Weapons Convention);
- Biological agents and biologically derived substances specifically developed, configured, adapted, or modified for the purpose of increasing their capability to produce casualties in humans or livestock, degrade equipment or damage crops, controlled under USML Category XIV(b);
- Equipment and its components, parts, accessories, and attachments, as controlled under USML Category XIV(f)(1), specifically designed or modified for military operations and compatibility with military equipment, for the dissemination, dispersion or testing of the chemical agents, biological agents, tear gases and riot control agents, and defoliants listed in USML Categories XIV(a), (b), (d), and (e), as well as tooling and equipment specifically designed or modified for the production of such equipment, components, parts, accessories, and attachments;
- Modeling or simulation tools specifically designed or modified for chemical or biological weapons design, development or employment, controlled under USML Category XIV(i); and
- Technical data as it relates to all of the items above.

By referencing USML Category XVI(a) and (b), proposed subclause IV would require the President to exempt from the scope of the treaties any article, material, equipment, or device, controlled under the USML, which is specifically designed or modified for the use in the design, development, or fabrication of nuclear weapons or nuclear explosive devices, as well as any article, material, equipment, or device controlled under the USML which is specifically designed or modified for use in the devising, carrying out, or evaluating nuclear weapons tests or any other nuclear explosions (including for modeling or simulating the employment of nuclear weapons or the integrated operational use of nuclear weapons). Subclause IV would also exempt from the scope of the treaties specifically designed or modified components and parts, accessories, attachments, and associated equipment for such items, as well as directly related technical data and defense services. The committee notes that the proposed subclause IV would not necessarily exempt from the scope of the treaties nuclear radiation detection and measurement devices specifically designed or modified for military applications.

Finally, this section would require that the United States exempt from the scope of the treaties those defense articles and defense services that the United Kingdom or Australia cannot adequately protect and control on its control lists. Again, the executive branch has stated that it intends to exempt such items from the scope of the treaties, but the committee recommends formalizing this statement in law.

Section 3. Enforcement.

Section (3)(a) would amend section 38(c) of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2778(c)) to ensure that any person who willfully violates the treaties will be subject to the criminal penalties established by section 38(c). Subsection (a) would also make clear that a violation of any rule or regulation issued pursuant to the AECA to implement or enforce the treaties would also be a violation of section 38(c). (The executive branch intends to amend the International Traffic in Arms Regulations (22 CFR Chapter I, Subchapter M, Parts 120–130; hereinafter "ITAR"), which are issued under the authority of section 38(a)(1) of the AECA, to specify requirements to export, reexport, transfer, retransfer, or otherwise dispose of defense articles and defense services pursuant to the treaties.) The committee believes that this provision is required to provide authority to prosecute those who violate the treaties' terms. The Justice Department relies on section 38(c) as the basis for its criminal prosecutions of export control offenses under the AECA.

Subsection (b) would amend section 38(e) of the AECA to further make clear that the authorities to levy civil penalties for violations of the AECA and regulations promulgated thereunder would also include carrying out functions under the AECA with respect to the export of defense articles and defense services exported or imported pursuant to the treaties. The committee believes that it is important, as with criminal penalties under section 38(c), to ensure that the President will have the authority to use the civil enforcement measures provided by the AECA to enforce regulations promulgated to implement and enforce the treaties.

Subsection (c) would add a new paragraph (4) to section 38(f), which would make clear that the limitations established in section 38(f)(2) on the exemption of a foreign country from the licensing requirements of the AECA would not apply with respect to the treaties, provided the President promulgates regulations to implement and enforce the treaties under sections 38 and 39 of the AECA. As noted above, the executive branch has indicated in testimony to the committee that it intends to promulgate regulations under the authority provided by the AECA to specify requirements to export, reexport, transfer, retransfer, or otherwise dispose of defense articles and defense services pursuant to the treaties.

As currently written, section 38(f)(2) (22 USC 2778(f)(2)) would require the President to notify the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives 30 days prior to authorizing a country-wide exemption from the licensing requirements of the AECA. Pursuant to section 38(f)(2)(B), the notification is to include a description of the scope of the exemption, as well as a determination by the Attorney General that the bilateral agreement establishing the exemption accomplishes certain things, namely:

> that the bilateral agreement concluded under subsection (j) requires the compilation and maintenance of sufficient documentation relating to the export of United States defense articles, defense services, and related technical data to facilitate law enforcement efforts to detect, prevent, and prosecute criminal violations of any provision of this Act, including the efforts on the part of countries and factions engaged in international terrorism to illicitly acquire sophisticated United States defense items.

As with the exception to section 38(j)(1)(A) of the AECA that would be added by section 2 of this bill, the committee, in recommending that the Senate gives its advice and consent to ratification of the treaties, has already considered this issue. Amending section 38(f) in this way will make clear that the determination required by section 38(f)(2) is not necessary to authorize an exemption for the United Kingdom and Australia from the licensing requirements of the AECA in order to give effect to the treaties. The committee is satisfied that the bill contemplated by the committee in conjunction the amendments to the ITAR that will be promulgated to implement and enforce the treaties makes this certification unnecessary.

Section 39A of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2779a) prohibits any United States supplier of defense articles or services "sold or licensed" under the AECA, as well as any employee, agent, or subcontractor thereof, from making any incentive payments (as that term is defined by section 39A(d) of the AECA) for the purpose of satisfying, in whole or in part, any offset agreement with that country. Any person who violates that prohibition is then subject to civil penalties. Because defense articles and services that are exported to the United Kingdom or Australia pursuant to the treaties would not require a license to be issued by the State Department, United States suppliers of such defense articles or services could potentially make incentive payments in connection with exports under the treaties that would be barred for exports that were licensed pursuant to the AECA. Subsection (d) would therefore amend section 39A(a) to ensure that suppliers of defense articles or services exported pursuant to the treaties would be barred from making incentive payments to satisfy part or all of an offset agreement with the United Kingdom and Australia.

Section 4. Congressional Notification.

With certain exceptions, section 3(d)(3)(A) of the AECA requires the President to notify Congress 15 or 30 days (depending on the recipient country) prior to approving transfers to third parties of defense articles or services above certain thresholds of value, "the [original] export of which has been licensed or approved under section 38" of the AECA. The AECA then states that the President may not consent to the transfer to the third party if there is enacted a joint resolution prohibiting the transfer. The AECA establishes expedited procedures for Senate consideration of a joint resolution to block the transfer.

Article 9 of each treaty requires that, with certain limited exceptions, the approval of the United States Government must be obtained before defense articles or defense services may be either retransferred to an entity in the same country that is not a member of that treaty's approved community or reexported to an entity outside of the UK or Australia. Because defense articles and services exported pursuant to the treaties would not be licensed or specifically approved pursuant to the section 38 (or would be transitioned into coverage by the treaty from an existing license or approval, as the treaties permit), current law would not require the President to notify Congress in advance of consenting to such retransfers or reexports of defense articles or services outside of the treaties' approved communities. Congress would in such a case lose the opportunity to prohibit retransfers or reexports outside of the approved communities defense articles that had been exported pursuant to the treaties (or that had been transferred into the treaty regime). The bill therefore would amend section 3(d)(3)(A) of the AECA to ensure that the President must notify Congress in advance of approving a transfer, provided it meets the same value thresholds applied to all other such transfers, of treaty-covered defense articles or services outside of the treaties' approved communities. This amendment would also ensure that a joint resolution prohibiting such a retransfer or reexport would enjoy the same expedited procedures provided for such resolutions to prohibit transfers of items originally licensed under the AECA.

Section 5(c) of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2755(c)) requires the President to notify the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations promptly in any instance in which a U.S. person is prevented by a foreign government on the basis of race, religion, national origin, or sex, from participating in the performance of any sale or licensed transaction under the AECA. Subsection (b) of this section would amend section 5(c) of the AECA to make clear that such report must also be submitted in any case in which a U.S. person is prevented from carrying out an export or import under the treaties for the same discriminatory reasons.

Section 25(a) of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2765(a)) requires that the President annually submit a report forecasting the sales and licensed commercial exports that are eligible to be exported, and that are expected, in the coming year. Subsection (c) would amend this reporting requirement to ensure that defense articles and services that are expected to occur using the treaties' license-free mechanisms are also included in this annual report.

Under section 36(c) of the AECA, for a direct commercial sale from a U.S. private company over a certain threshold of value to the United Kingdom or Australia, Congress must be formally notified 15 calendar days before the executive branch may issue a license for such an export. Licensed sales involving defense articles that are firearms controlled under category I of the USML and valued at $1 million or more must also be formally notified to Congress for review 15 days prior to the license for export being approved. After having been notified, Congress has an opportunity to enact a joint resolution prohibiting the proposed license for export.

As with a joint resolution prohibiting a transfer to a third party of a previously exported defense article or service, the AECA establishes expedited procedures that would govern consideration of such a joint resolution in the Senate. Section 36(d) similarly requires the President to notify Congress 15 days in advance of licensing the manufacture of any item of significant combat equipment in the UK or Australia, and it similarly establishes expedited procedures for the consideration of any joint resolution prohibiting such license. In both cases, the President must provide certain information about the proposed license when notifying the Congress of the pending license.

Because exports pursuant to the treaties are not licensed or specifically approved under the AECA, the President would not be required to provide the advance notification ordinarily required. The executive branch assured the committee that it would endeavor to provide some measure of advance notification. But a key purpose of the treaties is to expedite defense trade cooperation with these two allies. Subsection (d) would therefore amend sections 36(c) and 36(d) of the AECA require the President to notify the Congress 15 days in advance of an export pursuant to the treaty that would have met the thresholds established by the AECA. The notification is to include information ordinarily provided in such notifications. The amendment would not, however, provide for expedited procedures for a joint resolution prohibiting such a sale.

Section 39(a) of the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2779(a)) (a separate section from the section 39A discussed above) directs the Secretary of State to require adequate and timely reporting on political contributions, gifts, commissions and fees paid, or offered or agreed to be paid, by any person in connection with, among other things, commercial sales of defense articles or services "licensed or approved" under the AECA. Again, because exports of defense articles or services pursuant to the treaties are not licensed or specifically approved under the AECA, the committee recommends amending section 39(a) to ensure that exports pursuant to the treaties are covered in the same way. The committee believes that this amendment is particularly important because section 38(c) of the AECA subjects persons who violate section 39 to criminal prosecution.

Section 5. Limitation on Implementing Arrangements.

Each of the treaties left various aspects of the treaty regime to separate "Implementing Arrangements," which were concluded at a later date. Paragraph 1 of Article 14 of each treaty provides, in part: "The Implementing Arrangements may be amended or supplemented as mutually determined by the Parties."

Unlike the treaties themselves, the executive branch did not submit the Implementing Arrangements to the Senate for its advice and consent. Rather, the executive branch provided the texts of the Implementing Arrangements to the Senate for its information only. The executive branch later was explicit in an answer to a question for the record that it was not seeking the Senate's advice and consent to the ratification of the Implementing Arrangements as part of the treaties. The Implementing Arrangement for the U.S.-UK Treaty was signed on February 14, 2008, in Washington, and was provided to the committee shortly thereafter; the Implementing Arrangement for the U.S.-Australia Treaty was signed on March 14, 2008. (While each treaty makes reference to "implementing arrangements," the executive branch stated in an answer to a question for the committee record that it did not anticipate additional Implementing Arrangements for the treaties.) Copies of both Implementing Arrangements are appended at the end of this report.

Because changes to the Implementing Arrangements could have significant impacts on the nature and scope of the treaty regime, the committee believes that it would be inappropriate to permit such changes to be made without Congressional approval. Accordingly, the bill would require that any amendment to either of the Implementing Arrangements for these treaties, other than an amendment that addresses an administrative or technical matter, may enter into effect only if the Congress adopts, and there is enacted, legislation approving the entry into effect of that amendment for the United States.

Paragraph (b)(2) contains a list of amendments to specific provisions within the U.S.-UK and U.S.-Australia Implementing Arrangements that, if such amendment had the effect described in the list, would not be considered merely administrative or technical, and would therefore require the enactment of legislation to allow such amendment's entry into effect. The list is illustrative only. Any amendment to the Implementing Arrangements that is not technical or administrative must receive legislative approval before it may enter into effect for the United States, regardless of whether the amendment falls into one of the specific categories contained in the list.

Subsection (c) would require the President to notify the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the House of Representatives 15 days prior to the entry into effect of any technical or administrative amendment to one of the Implementing Arrangements. This provision would also permit the President to waive this requirement, and instead notify the committees within five days after an amendment came into effect, if the President determines and certifies to the committees that immediate entry into effect of such an administrative or technical amendment is important to maintain the viability and effectiveness of the treaty.

Two conditions must exist for the exception to apply. First, an amendment to an implementing arrangement must be solely administrative or technical in nature. Second, bringing that amendment into effect immediately must be important to maintaining the viability and effectiveness of one of the treaties. The committee does not expect that solely administrative or technical amendments to the implementing arrangements will ordinarily be so significant as to impact the viability and effectiveness of one of the treaties. Accordingly, the committee expects that this exception will seldom be invoked. If exercised, the exception would delay by 20 days the date by which the President is required to notify the relevant Congressional committees of the entry into effect of an administrative or technical amendment. The exception does not apply to any amendments that address matters other than administrative or technical matters, including any amendments of the sort described in subsection (b). Pursuant to subsection (a), such amendments will require legislative approval before they may enter into effect for the United States.

Section 6. Implementing Regulations.

This section gives the President the authority to issue regulations pursuant to the AECA to implement and enforce the defense trade cooperation treaties with the United Kingdom and Australia. It specifies that such regulations must be consistent with other applicable provisions of the AECA as amended by the bill, and with the terms of any resolution of advice and consent adopted by the Senate with respect to either treaty.

Section 7. Rule of Construction.

This section clarifies the intended scope in U.S. law of this bill and the defense trade cooperation treaties with the United Kingdom and Australia. Nothing in this Act, the U.S.-UK Treaty (and any implementing arrangement thereto), the U.S.-Australia Treaty (and any implementing arrangement thereto), or in any regulation issued to implement either treaty, shall be construed to modify or supersede any provision of law or regulation other than the AECA, as amended by this Act, and the ITAR. Thus, for example, regulations administered by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms regarding the importation of firearms will not be superseded.

IV. Cost Estimate

Rule XXVI, paragraph 11(a) of the Standing Rules of the Senate requires that committee reports on bills or joint resolutions contain a cost estimate for such legislation. To date, the committee has not received the Congressional Budget Office cost estimate.

V. Evaluation of Regulatory Impact

In accordance with paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the committee has considered the regulatory impact of this bill. The bill is intended to implement two defense trade cooperation treaties that will, if ratified, provide the opportunity for some U.S. arms exporters to export defense articles and defense services to certain entities in the United Kingdom and Australia without having to obtain an arms export license or other prior U.S. Government approval. By so doing, the treaties and this bill will ease somewhat the regulatory burdens imposed by the AECA (22 U.S.C. 2751 et seq.) and the ITAR (22 CFR Chapter I, Subchapter M, Parts 120–130).

VI. Changes in Existing Law

In compliance with Rule XXVI, paragraph 12 of the Standing Rules of the Senate, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman).

(c)(1) Subject to paragraph (5), in the case of 187 an application by a person (other than with regard to a sale under section 21 or section 22 of this Act) for a license for the export of any major defense equipment sold under a contract in the amount of $14,000,000 or more or of defense articles or defense services sold under a contract in the amount of $50,000,000 or more, (or, in the case of a defense article that is a firearm controlled under category I of the United States Munitions List, $1,000,000 or more) 191 before issuing such license the President shall transmit to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and to the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate an unclassified numbered certification with respect to such application specifying (A) the foreign country or international organization to which such export will be made, (B) the dollar amount of the items to be exported, and (C) a description of the items to be exported. Each such numbered certification shall also contain an item indicating whether any offset agreement is proposed to be entered into in connection with such export and a description of any such offset agreement. In addition, the President shall, upon the request of such committee or the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, transmit promptly to both such committees a statement setting forth, to the extent specified in such request a description of the capabilities of the items to be exported, an estimate of the total number of United States personnel expected to be needed in the foreign country concerned in connection with the items to be exported and an analysis of the arms control impact pertinent to such application, prepared in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and a description from the person who has submitted the license application of any offset agreement proposed to be entered into in connection with such export (if known on the date of transmittal of such statement). In a case in which such articles or services are listed on the Missile Technology Control Regime Annex and are intended to support the design, development, or production of a Category I space launch vehicle system (as defined in section 74), such report shall include a description of the proposed export and rationale for approving such export, including the consistency of such export with United States missile nonproliferation policy. (5) A nongovernmental United Kingdom entity or facility may apply to the UK MOD for inclusion in the United Kingdom Community.

(6) Where a nongovernmental entity applies for inclusion in the United Kingdom Community, the UK MOD and the United States Department of State will conduct an eligibility review based on the criteria described in paragraph (4) of this Section and will mutually determine whether to include that entity in the United Kingdom Community.

(7) The list of United Kingdom Community members, including revisions thereto, will be published by the UK MOD and the United States Department of State periodically in accordance with Sections 12 and 13.

(8) The UK MOD will inform nongovernmental United Kingdom entities and facilities of the results of their application.

(9) If one Participant considers that removal of a nongovernmental United Kingdom entity or facility from the United Kingdom Community may be in its national interest:

(a) It will advise the other Participant, and that Participant will have 24 hours to provide mitigating information concerning the entity or facility.

(b) At the end of 24 hours, unless decided otherwise, the Participant will formally notify the other Participant of its desire that the entity or facility be removed from the United Kingdom Community. (10) Her Majesty's Government will require nongovernmental United Kingdom entities or facilities applying for inclusion in the United Kingdom Community to acknowledge in writing that they will be bound by the Manual of Protective Security, as amended, in accordance with Section 10, and acknowledge the conditions identified in paragraph 4(b) of Section 11.

(12) When considering whether to grant an individual, other than a serving member of Her Majesty's Armed Forces, access to Defense Articles, the Participants will consult where national security considerations, including close ties to countries or entities of concern, to either Participant arise. Such access will not be granted until mutually determined by the Participants. The list of countries or entities of concern will reflect the laws and regulations of both Participants. The Participants will keep each other informed of relevant national security considerations. The Management Board representatives will promulgate such considerations within their respective organizations as required for the operation of the Treaty.

Section 8
Transition from Licenses or Other Authorizations

(1) Members of the United States Community wishing to make a transition from the requirements of a United States Government export license or other authorization to the processes established under the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement must surrender the existing license or other authorization and notify the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls of their intentions.

(2) Members of the United Kingdom Community wishing to make a transition from the requirements of a United States Government export license or other authorization to the processes established under the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement will obtain authorization from the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls, either directly or through the original United States exporter, using procedures established by the Participants before the items may be considered as Defense Articles Exported under the Treaty.

Section 9
Re-transfers and Re-exports

(1) All Re-transfers or Re-exports of Defense Articles will require authorization by Her Majesty's Government, except where identified in paragraph (12) of this Section. Authorization will be requested through the UK MOD process for the approval of the release of classified material (F680). In reviewing a request for authorization, the UK MOD will require supporting evidence that includes United States Government approval of the proposed Re-transfer or Re-export. The existence of UK MOD authorization to release is also a consideration in reviewing export license applications that may be required under the export control process of Her Majesty's Government.

(2) The UK MOD will update the F680 process to ensure the requirement in paragraph (1) of this Section is clear for requests relating to Defense Articles originally Exported or treated as if they were Exported under the Treaty. Her Majesty's Government will also update its procedures relating to Defense Articles originally Exported or treated as if they were Exported under the Treaty to:

(a) As part of the export control procedures, seek confirmation that F680 authorization has been obtained; and

(b) Make it a condition of relevant open licenses that F680 clearance must be obtained.

(3) Her Majesty's Government will require a United Kingdom Community member seeking to Re-transfer or Re-export to first approach the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls, directly or through the original exporter, to obtain United States Government approval.

(4) For Re-transfers, the F680 process must be followed when seeking permission for the Re-transfer of Defense Articles.

(5) For Re-exports, the F680 process must be followed when seeking permission for the Re-export of Defense Articles as well as any procedures that may be required under the export control process of Her Majesty's Government. Her Majesty's Government's audit procedures will check that relevant open license conditions have been met, including checks to ensure F680 process clearance has been obtained as required.

(6) In the event of authorization from Her Majesty's Government, the proposed Re-transfer or Re-export may take place. The Defense Articles thereafter will be considered to fall outside of the Scope of the Treaty and will be governed by the applicable terms of any license or authorization granted by the United States Government and, as appropriate, Her Majesty's Government, in place of the terms of the Treaty.

(7) In the event that an entity seeking Her Majesty's Government approval for Re-transfer or Re-export is unable to demonstrate to the UK MOD that it has obtained United States Government approval, the UK MOD will not give authorization for the proposed release of classified material, and therefore, will not give authorization for the proposed Re-transfer or Re-export.

(3) Her Majesty's Government will modify relevant regulations and guidance, including the Manual of Protective Security, to detail the requirements for the handling of Defense Articles Exported to the United Kingdom under the Treaty, including requiring that:

(a) On receipt of Defense Articles that have been Exported to the United Kingdom Community, the recipient is to ensure that the appropriate standard markings detailed above have been applied. In the event that irregularities are found, Her Majesty's Government will require the recipient to correct the marking and to notify the irregularity and action taken to the UK MOD. The UK MOD will report such notifications to the United States Government in order that corrective action can be taken with the United States exporter, in accordance with the GSA;

(b) All Defense Articles Exported to the United Kingdom Community will be marked, identified, transmitted, stored and handled in accordance with the Treaty;

(c) Defense Articles that are located within the United Kingdom, having been previously exported under a license or other export authorization, that are transitioned pursuant to Section 8, will be marked, identified, transmitted, stored, and handled in accordance with the Treaty, by the holding United Kingdom Community entity;

(f) Any material violations of the procedures established pursuant to the terms of the Treaty must be reported immediately, and all other violations must be reported as soon as reasonably practicable, to Her Majesty's Government, which will notify the United States Government as appropriate; and

(g) Defense Articles not be Re-transferred or Re-exported without the prior authorization of both the United States Government and Her Majesty's Government, and be in compliance with the process for seeking such authorizations. Upon such notification and, where appropriate, application, the appropriate Participant will, on an expedited basis, either issue a license or other authorization for such Defense Articles or provide other written guidance and direction regarding the disposition of such Defense Articles. Except as otherwise provided in this Section, the Treaty will apply until a license or other authorization or other written guidance and direction is issued. Pending such action, the Participants will require any member of the Approved Community in possession of such Defense Articles Exported or Transferred pursuant to the Treaty to not Transfer such Defense Articles without an appropriate license or other authorization, and to continue to abide by its obligations as a member of the Approved Community.

United States Foreign Military Sales

(1) Defense Articles acquired by the Government of Australia via the United States Foreign Military Sales (FMS) Program and transferred to the Government of Australia pursuant to Letters of Offer and Acceptance (LOAs), or equivalent agreements or arrangements, may be treated as if they were Exported pursuant to the Treaty once Delivery to the Government of Australia occurs. Defense Articles exempt from the scope of the Treaty at the time an LOA is executed should be contained in separate lines in the LOA and identified with an appropriate special note in the LOA terms and conditions.

(2) Prior to any initial Transfer of Defense Articles the following requirements will apply:

(a) The Government of Australia must determine that the Transfer falls within the scope of Article 3(1) and that, at the time of the Transfer, such Defense Articles are not exempt from the scope of the Treaty; and

(b) The Defense Articles will be marked or otherwise identified in accordance with the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement.

(3) Upon Transfer, such Defense Articles will be marked, identified, transmitted, stored and handled in accordance with the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement.

(4) The Government of Australia will maintain a register of FMS items that are subsequently Transferred under the Treaty within the Approved Community.

(5) Terms of the FMS LOA will govern except for those provisions related to the implementation of the Treaty. Procedures for transition of Defense Articles acquired and Delivered under the FMS Program that fall within the scope of the Treaty will be established in the Management Plan, as appropriate, based on the principles outlined in this Section.

Section 6
Approved Community

Government Members of the Australian Community

(1) In furtherance of Article 4(1)(a), the ADOD will maintain a list of Government of Australia authorities with facilities that are both accredited by the Government of Australia pursuant to the GSA and related to the scope of the Treaty. This list will be made available to the United States Government.

(2) The Participants will develop a process for notifying additions to and deletions from the list. This process will be administered by the ADOD and the U.S. DoD.

Nongovernmental Members of the Australian Community

(3) In furtherance of Article 4(1)(c), the Participants will implement a process to establish and maintain a list of nongovernmental Australian entities and facilities that will be included in the Australian Community. The process will be administered by the ADOD and the United States Department of State, based on the eligibility criteria and the processes identified below.

(4) The following are the criteria that the nongovernmental Australian Community entities and facilities will be assessed against, for inclusion on the List referred to in Article 4(1)(c):

(a) That the entity or facility must be on the Government of Australia's list of approved facilities for handling of classified information and material;

(b) Foreign ownership, control or influence;

(c) Previous convictions or current indictment for violations of United States or Australian export control laws or regulations;

(d) The United States export licensing history of the entity or facility; and

(e) National security risks, including interactions with countries identified or proscribed by Australian or United States laws or regulations.

(5) A nongovernmental Australian entity or facility may apply to the ADOD for inclusion in the Australian Community.

(6) Where a nongovernmental Australian entity applies for inclusion in the Australian Community, the ADOD will conduct an initial eligibility review and the ADOD and the United States Department of State will then mutually determine the inclusion of that entity in the Australian Community based on the criteria described in paragraph (4) of this Section. For this purpose, the Participants will share as much information as possible.

(7) The Australian Community list, including revisions thereto, will be published by the ADOD and the United States Department of State periodically in accordance with Section 13.

(8) The ADOD will inform nongovernmental Australian entities and facilities of the results of their application.

(9) If one Participant considers that urgent removal of a nongovernmental Australian entity or facility from the Australian Community may be in its national interest:

(a) It will advise the other Participant, providing as much information as possible, and that Participant will have 24 hours to provide mitigating information concerning the entity or facility.

(b) At the end of 24 hours, unless decided otherwise, the Participant will formally notify the other Participant of its desire that the entity or facility be removed from the Australian Community list. Upon such notification, the entity or facility will be suspended, requiring it to operate under United States and Australian export licenses and not under the Treaty pending a final decision on removal from the Australian Community by the Participants.

(c) The Participants will consult within 30 calendar days of notification regarding removal of an entity or facility. Consultation may include measures to be applied during the suspension period and any remedial measures to be imposed in lieu of removal.

(d) If after such consultation either Participant believes that such entity or facility should be removed from the Australian Community list, it will be removed. Otherwise any suspension will be rescinded, although such rescission may be conditional upon compliance with remedial measures.

(10) The Government of Australia will require nongovernmental Australian entities or facilities applying for inclusion in the Australian Community to acknowledge in writing the blanket authorization conditions identified in Section 11.

Access

(11) Pursuant to Articles 4(1)(b) and 4(1)(d), the Government of Australia will ensure that all personnel within the Australian Community requiring access to Defense Articles pursuant to the Treaty will be:

(a) Cleared to at least the level of a Government of Australia RESTRICTED security clearance, which includes indicators such as identity, nationality, and police record; and

(b) Undergo an additional check for indicators of significant ties.

(12) Where this additional check gives rise to concerns of there being significant ties to a country proscribed under section 126.1 of the International Traffic in Arms Regulations of the United States, then the Government of Australia will conduct a dedicated assessment for significant ties at the same standard for that of a Government of Australia SECRET security clearance.

(13) When considering whether to grant an individual access to Defense Articles, the Participants will consult where national security considerations, including significant ties to countries or entities of concern, to either Participant arise. Such access will not be granted until mutually determined by the Participants. The Management Board representatives will promulgate such considerations within their respective organizations as required for the operation of the Treaty.

(14) The Participants acknowledge that no nationals of third countries who are not also Australian citizens will be permitted access to Defense Articles pursuant to the Treaty without the prior authorization of both the Government of Australia and the United States Government, unless otherwise detailed in the Management Plan.

Transition from License or Other Authorizations

(1) Members of the United States Community wishing to make a transition from the requirements of a United States Government export license or other authorization to the processes established under the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement will notify the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls, of their intentions and surrender the existing license or other authorization. The Australian Community members affected by the transition and the Government of Australia will be notified in accordance with procedures detailed in the Management Plan.

(2) Members of the Australian Community wishing to make a transition from the requirements of a United States Government export license or other authorization to the processes established under the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement will obtain authorization, from the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls, either directly or through the original United States exporter, using procedures established by the Participants before the items may be considered as Defense Articles Exported under the Treaty. The Government of Australia will be notified in accordance with procedures detailed in the Management Plan.

Australian Community Exports and Transfers

(1) The Government of Australia will allow Australian Defence Articles to be exported from the Australian Community to the United States Community without requiring the relevant member of the Australian Community to seek individual export licences for each export. To this end, the Government of Australia will issue blanket authorizations to members of the Australian Community.

(2) The Government of Australia will require the relevant member of the Australian Community, where required by the Australian Customs Service, to make an export declaration in the Customs Integrated Cargo System quoting the blanket authorization, and notify the Government of Australia of all exports of Australian Defence Articles effected by it.

(3) The Government of Australia will require relevant members of the Australian Community to mark all Australian Defence Articles to be exported to the United States Community with the standard marking "//AUSTRALIAN UNCLASSIFIED USML //REL AUS and USA Treaty Community//" unless a revision to this standard identifier is determined by the Management Board. For exports and transfers of classified Australian Defence Articles, the standard marking or identification will include the relevant Australian national security classification level and read "//AUSTRALIAN CLASSIFICATION LEVEL USML//REL AUS and USA Treaty Community//" unless a revision to this standard identifier is determined by the Management Board.

(4) The Government of Australia will require relevant members of the Australian Community to maintain records of all of their exports of all Australian Defence Articles and Transfers of all Defense Articles pursuant to the Treaty.

(5) The Government of Australia will require the relevant member of the Australian Community to satisfy itself that the recipient of an Australian Defence Article to be exported by the Australian Community, or a Defense Article to be Transferred by the Australian Community, is a member of the United States Community before the export or Transfer occurs by seeking written confirmation from the relevant member of the United States Community. The Government of Australia will further require the relevant member of the Australian Community to seek from the relevant member of the United States Community:

(a) The name under which the United States Community member is registered with the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls; and

(b) Confirmation that the United States Community member will immediately advise of any change in its registration, eligibility, or status in the United States Community.

(6) The Government of Australia will require the relevant member of the Australian Community to liaise with the Australian Management Board representative before exporting Australian Defence Articles or Transferring Defense Articles, if the relevant member of the Australian Community is not satisfied with the information provided by the relevant member of the United States Community. The Participants acknowledge that the Australian Management Board representative may then liaise with his United States counterpart to verify the status of the relevant member of the United States Community.

(7) The Participants acknowledge that all Defense Articles Exported pursuant to the Treaty may be Transferred without members of the Approved Community needing to seek approval from either of the Participants, unless those Defense Articles are classified for purposes other than the Treaty, in which case the Defense Articles will be treated in accordance with the provisions of the GSA, and applicable provisions of Section 10.

(8) For Australian Defence Articles imported into the United States, the United States Government will require that such Australian Defence Articles be tracked and controlled in the United States as defense articles as defined under the United States International Traffic in Arms Regulations, even when such Australian Defence Articles are incorporated into other defense articles.

(9) For classified Australian Defence Articles exported to the United States Community, the Participants will provide advice and training to members of their respective Communities on handling requirements applicable to classified Australian Defence Articles, as contained in the Treaty, the GSA and Australian Department of Defence security and export policies.

(10) For Australian Defence Articles exported from the United States Community, the United States Government will:

(a) Maintain export control and brokering regulations, including civil and criminal penalties for any violation of those export control and brokering regulations by a member of the United States Community. The United States Community will be permitted to export Australian Defence Articles outside the Approved Community only in accordance with the United States Government's existing procedures for the export of Defense Articles.

(b) Consult with the Government of Australia on a list of countries with which the Government of Australia has significant national security and foreign policy concerns for the purpose of this paragraph. The list may include, but need not be limited to, countries with respect to which the Government of Australia:

(i) Has imposed bilateral sanctions;

(ii) May not export to because of foreign policy constraints; and

(iii) Has significant regional or international security issues.

(c) Obtain Government of Australia approval prior to export of classified Australian Defence Articles in accordance with the GSA.

Section 9
Re-transfers and Re-exports

(1) Except as provided in this Section, Defense Articles Exported under the Treaty may not be Re-transferred or Re-exported without the prior authorization of both the United States Government and the Government of Australia, and compliance with the process for seeking such authorizations. Members of the Australian Community may seek such authorizations from the United States Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls, directly or through the original United States exporter.

(2) The following processes apply to seeking authorization from the Government of Australia for the Re-transfer and Re-export of Defense Articles:

(a) The Government of Australia will require the relevant member of the Australian Community to notify it that a proposed Re-export or Re-transfer contains previously Exported Defense Articles, by making a declaration in the required form.

(b) The Government of Australia will require evidence of the approval of the United States Government before the Re-export or Re-transfer may be effected. This evidence may be either the conditions set out on the export's United States export license or by separate written notification; and

(c) If the relevant member of the Australian Community does not have written evidence that the United States Government approves the proposed Re-export or Re-transfer, the Government of Australia will not approve the application until such written evidence is obtained.

(3) In the event of authorization from the Government of Australia, the proposed Re-transfer or Re-export may take place. The Defense Articles thereafter will be considered to fall outside of the scope of the Treaty and will be governed by the applicable terms of any license or authorization granted by the United States Government and, as appropriate, the Government of Australia, in place of the terms of the Treaty.

(4) Any reincorporation or redevelopment of a Defense Article does not eliminate the requirement to obtain Government of Australia authorization for a proposed Re-transfer or Re-export of such Defense Article, under the processes described above.

(5) Re-transfer or Re-export of Defense Articles without the approval of the Government of Australia will be considered by the Participants to be a breach by the Approved Community member of the procedures established pursuant to the terms of the Treaty.

(6) Where Defense Articles are Re-transferred or Re-exported, markings and classifications arising solely from the Treaty will be withdrawn.

(7) Further to paragraph (1) of this Section, the following exceptions to the Re-transfer and Re-export provision of the Treaty and this Implementing Arrangement will apply pursuant to Article 9(1):

(a) Re-exports of Defense Articles from nongovernmental entities of the Australian Community to ADOD elements deployed outside the Territory of Australia conducting operations, including training, as mutually determined and listed pursuant to Sections 2(1) and 2(3), via ADOD transmission channels, or other transmission channels approved by the Principals or Management Board as described in Section 10; and

(b) Re-exports of Defense Articles from nongovernmental entities of the Australian Community to Approved Community members operating in direct support of ADOD elements deployed outside the Territory of Australia conducting operations, including training, as mutually determined and listed pursuant to Sections 2(1) and 2(3), via ADOD transmission channels, or other transmission channels approved by the Principals or Management Board.

(8) The Participants have mutually determined that the following exceptions to the Export and Transfer provisions of the Treaty, including this Implementing Arrangement, will apply:

(a) Exports or Transfers of Defense Articles from nongovernmental entities of the United States Community to ADOD elements deployed outside the Territory of Australia conducting operations, including training, as mutually determined and listed pursuant to Sections 2(1) and 2(3) via ADOD transmission channels, or other transmission channels approved by the Principals or Management Board; and

(b) Exports or Transfers of Defense Articles from nongovernmental entities of the United States Community to Approved Community members operating in direct support of ADOD elements deployed outside the Territory of Australia conducting operations, including training as mutually determined and listed pursuant to Sections 2(1) and 2(3) via ADOD transmission channels, or other transmission channels approved by the Principals or Management Board.

(9) In this Section, "ADOD transmission channels" includes electronic transmission of a Defense Article and transmission of a Defense Article by an ADOD contracted carrier or freight forwarder that merely transports or arranges transport for the Defense Article in this instance.

(10) Regardless of location, Approved Community members will ensure that Defense Articles provided pursuant to paragraphs (7) and (8) of this Section will be marked, identified, transmitted, stored and handled in accordance with the Treaty, including this Implementing Arrangement.

Marking and Classification

(1) The Participants will mutually determine policies and procedures necessary to implement Article 6 and Article 11 in accordance with the GSA. These policies and procedures will be reflected in the Participants' regulations and guidance. Such policies and procedures issued by the Participants will require that all Defense Articles Exported or Transferred under the scope of the Treaty be marked, identified, transmitted, stored and handled as provided below:

(a) All Defense Articles Exported or Transferred will be marked or identified prior to such movement, as follows: For Exports and Transfers of Defense Articles, the standard marking or identification will read "//RESTRICTED USML //REL AUS and USA Treaty Community//" unless a revision to this standard identifier is determined by the Management Board. For Exports and Transfers of classified Defense Articles, the standard marking or identification will read "//CLASSIFICATION LEVEL USML//REL AUS and USA Treaty Community//" unless a revision to this standard identifier is determined by the Management Board;

(b) Where Defense Articles are returned to the United States Community, any Defense Articles classified as "//RESTRICTED USML//Rel AUS and USA Treaty Community//" for the purposes of the Treaty will be handled by the United States Community in accordance with existing procedures for controlled unclassified information. Defense Articles with other classifications must continue to be protected in accordance with the GSA; and

(c) The standard marking and identification requirements for Defense Articles described herein will be implemented in each Participant's policies and procedures based on the following guidance:

(ii) Technical data (including data packages, technical papers, manuals, presentations, specifications, guides and reports), regardless of media or means of transmission (physical, oral or electronic) will be individually marked as indicated in paragraph 1(a) of this Section or, where such marking is impractical, will be accompanied by documentation (such as contracts, invoices, shipping bills, or bills of lading) that will identify the Defense Articles as Treaty controlled using the marking in paragraph 1(a) of this Section. For oral communication, a verbal notification clearly associating the Defense Articles with the appropriate markings as detailed in paragraph 1(a) of this Section will be given; and

(iii) Other intangible Defense Articles, including defence services, will be accompanied by documentation (such as contracts, invoices, shipping bills, or bills of lading) clearly identifying the Defense Articles and their appropriate markings as detailed in paragraph 1(a) of this Section. For oral communication, a verbal notification clearly associating the Defense Articles with the appropriate markings as detailed in paragraph 1(a) of this Section will be given.

(2) The Participants will each promulgate regulations to reflect that any conduct falling outside the terms of the Treaty and the procedures established pursuant to the terms of the Treaty, including Re-transfers and Re-exports of Defense Articles without the prior approval of the relevant Participant will be a violation of the laws of Australia or the United States (or both). For the United States, these laws include the United States Arms Export Control Act and International Traffic in Arms Regulations, a violation of which may attract criminal, civil, and administrative penalties or sanctions of these and other applicable laws and regulations.

(3) The Government of Australia will modify relevant regulations and guidance to detail the requirements for the handling of Defense Articles Exported to the Australian Community under the Treaty, including requiring that:

(a) On receipt of Defense Articles that have been Exported to the Australian Community under the Treaty, the recipient is to ensure that the appropriate standard markings detailed above have been applied by the United States Community member. In the event that irregularities are found, the Government of Australia will require the recipient to correct the marking and to notify the irregularity and action taken to the ADOD. The ADOD will report such notifications to the United States Government in order that corrective action can be taken with the United States exporter, in accordance with Article 17 of the GSA;

(b) All Defense Articles Exported to the Australian Community under the Treaty, will be marked, identified, transmitted, stored and handled in accordance with the Treaty;

(f) Any material violations of the procedures established pursuant to the terms of the Treaty must be reported immediately, and all other violations must be reported as soon as reasonably practicable, to the Government of Australia which will notify the United States Government as appropriate.
