

correct the exemption of agricultural activities from fugitive dust rules. In these submittals, the exemption for agricultural activities at subsection 4–2–020.B, along with the definition of “normal farm cultural practice” at subsection 4–2–030.2, were deleted; thus, correcting this deficiency. After the 12/02/02 adoption of this amendment, the Pinal County Governing Board amended its list of SIP measures (Chapter 1, Article 1, Section 105—SIP List) on 01/07/09 to reflect its 12/02/02 action and has submitted this list to EPA.

Pinal County’s submittal of Rules 2–8–302, 4–4, 4–5, 4–7, and 4–9 is intended to address and correct the Rule 4–2–030 “reasonable precautions” and Rule 4–2–050 recordkeeping deficiencies in our limited disapproval.

Should EPA complete a final approval action on the submitted rules, we will find that Pinal County has corrected the deficiencies described above. Consequently, sanctions will be terminated and our Federal Implementation Plan (FIP) obligation will be removed.

Today, we are also publishing an interim final determination with this proposal that will stay sanctions during the public comment period and while we review any public comments we may receive.

The TSDs have more information on our evaluation. Because correcting the 4–2–020 and 4–2–030 deficiencies only involved removing the agricultural activities exemption, we have not provided a TSD discussing this amendment to Rules 4–2–020 and 4–2–030.

C. EPA Recommendations To Further Improve the Rules

The TSD for Rule 4–7 describes additional rule revisions that do not affect EPA’s current action but are recommended for the next time Pinal County modifies Rule 4–7 and 4–9. Rule 4–9 contains an editorial error that should be corrected as soon as practicable.

D. Public Comment and Final Action

Because EPA believes the submitted rules fulfill all relevant requirements, we are proposing to fully approve them as described in section 110(k)(3) of the Act. We will accept comments from the public on this proposal for the next 30 days. Unless we receive convincing new information during the comment period, we intend to publish a final approval action that will incorporate these rules into the federally enforceable SIP and remove all sanctions and FIP obligations associated with our August 1, 2007 limited disapproval.

III. Statutory and Executive Order Reviews

Under the Clean Air Act, the Administrator is required to approve a SIP submission that complies with the provisions of the Act and applicable Federal regulations. 42 U.S.C. 7410(k); 40 CFR 52.02(a). Thus, in reviewing SIP submissions, EPA’s role is to approve State choices, provided that they meet the criteria of the Clean Air Act. Accordingly, this action merely approves State law as meeting Federal requirements and does not impose additional requirements beyond those imposed by State law. For that reason, this action:

- Is not a “significant regulatory action” subject to review by the Office of Management and Budget under Executive Order 12866 (58 FR 51735, October 4, 1993);
- does not impose an information collection burden under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.);
- is certified as not having a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.);
- does not contain any unfunded mandate or significantly or uniquely affect small governments, as described in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Pub. L. 104–4);
- does not have Federalism implications as specified in Executive Order 13132 (64 FR 43255, August 10, 1999);
- is not an economically significant regulatory action based on health or safety risks subject to Executive Order 13045 (62 FR 19885, April 23, 1997);
- is not a significant regulatory action subject to Executive Order 13211 (66 FR 28355, May 22, 2001);
- is not subject to requirements of Section 12(d) of the National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act of 1995 (15 U.S.C. 272 note) because application of those requirements would be inconsistent with the Clean Air Act; and
- does not provide EPA with the discretionary authority to address, as appropriate, disproportionate human health or environmental effects, using practicable and legally permissible methods, under Executive Order 12898 (59 FR 7629, February 16, 1994).

In addition, this rule does not have tribal implications as specified by Executive Order 13175 (65 FR 67249, November 9, 2000), because the SIP is not approved to apply in Indian country located in the State, and EPA notes that it will not impose substantial direct costs on tribal governments or preempt tribal law.

Regulation of Fuels and Fuel Additives: Changes to Renewable Fuel Standard Program; Notice of Availability of Expert Peer Review Record

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Request for comments.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (“EPA”) announces the availability of documents pertaining to the expert peer review record completed on the Renewable Fuel Standard Program (RFS2) Lifecycle Greenhouse Gas (GHG) Analysis. On May 5, 2009, EPA announced proposed revisions to the National Renewable Fuel Standard program (commonly known as the RFS program) as required by the Energy Independence and Security Act (EISA) of 2007. EISA established new renewable fuel categories and eligibility requirements, including setting the first ever mandatory GHG reduction thresholds for the various categories of renewable fuels. EISA also defined the term lifecycle greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. As part of proposed revisions to the RFS program and in accordance with the EISA definition of GHG emissions, EPA examined the GHG impacts associated with different types of renewable fuels. Several new pieces of analysis were developed to support this lifecycle assessment. EPA decided to initiate an independent peer review to help respond to stakeholder concerns and to ensure that the Agency makes decisions based on the best science available. The Agency, in accordance with the Office of Management and Budget and EPA peer review guidance contracted with independent, third party sources to conduct an external expert peer review of this work. The results of the expert peer review are being made available to the public for notice and comment to supplement the current record.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background: To meet the lifecycle requirements as defined by the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 (EISA), EPA, in consultation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE), developed a comprehensive methodology, including an assessment of significant indirect land use impacts. EPA has specifically relied on a number of expert peer reviewed models and data sources for individual components of the analysis. This methodology is described in detail in both the Preamble and Draft Regulatory Impact Analysis of EPA's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking available at:

<http://www.epa.gov/OMS/renewablefuels/#regulations>.

In addition, several new pieces of analysis were developed to support this lifecycle assessment and these new pieces underwent scientific expert peer review contemporaneously with the public comment period of the rulemaking. The new pieces of analysis presented for expert peer review were: (1) Land use modeling (use of satellite data/land conversion GHG emission factors); (2) Methods to account for the variable timing of GHG emissions; (3) EPA estimates of GHG emissions from foreign crop production (modeling and data used); (4) How the models EPA relied upon are used together to provide overall lifecycle estimates (not a review of models themselves but how the results of each have been used together).

The reviews were conducted following the Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) expert peer review guidance that ensures consistent government-wide implementation of expert peer review and according to EPA's longstanding and rigorous expert peer review policies.

In accordance with this guidance, EPA used independent, third-party contractors to conduct the external expert peer review. The contractor was responsible for identifying a list of expert reviewers and checking for possible conflict of interest. EPA provided the contractor with a description of expertise required and examples of experts that fit the expertise needed for each review. EPA also provided a list of names, submitted from several external sources, for the contractor to consider during the selection process. Further, EPA provided charge questions for each review which guided the review process. For these particular expert peer reviews, the charge questions were reviewed by OMB. As part of the review process, the Contractor also developed the expert peer review record which EPA is now publicly available. The expert peer reviewers were charged with working independently and were not asked to reach a consensus decision.

Notice of Availability: The expert peer review records completed in this process are now available in the public docket and available at <http://www.epa.gov/otaq/renewablefuels/index.htm>.

The docket includes: Materials provided to the expert peer reviewers; list of names and affiliations of the expert peer reviewers; a summary of comments, as well as comments attributable to individual reviewers.

Dated: August 7, 2009.

Director, Office of Transportation and Air Quality.
