SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

This workshop will address endpoints for registration trials. Stakeholders, including industry sponsors, academia, and FDA, will be engaged to address challenging issues related to selection of endpoints and assessment methodologies in registration trials. Facilitation of efficient drug development, in the context of these issues, will be discussed.

Each day of the workshop will be devoted to a discussion of a single relevant disease area. The goal of the workshop day dedicated to eosinophilic esophagitis is to discuss its natural history, development of patient reported outcome measures, and biomarkers that might be used to study new treatments for both children and adults. The goal of the workshop day dedicated to pediatric inflammatory bowel disease (IBD) is to discuss issues related to the extrapolation of efficacy data from adult to pediatric patients, the definition and measurement of treatment benefit, and dose-finding strategies in pediatric patients. The goal of the workshop day dedicated to adult IBD is to discuss the definition and measurement of efficacy in adult ulcerative colitis registration trials, including the timing of endpoint assessment and the roles of specific endpoints and measurement tools. The goal of the workshop day dedicated to parenteral nutrition-induced liver disease is to discuss endpoints and their measurement for clinical trials in which parenteral nutrition-induced liver disease is either an efficacy or safety outcome measure.

Participation In the Public Workshop:

Registration: There is no fee to attend the public workshop, but attendees must register in advance. Space is limited, and registration will be on a first-come, first-served basis.
