

Commissioner of Patents shall issue a certificate that the term of said patent is extended for the additional period provided therein and shall cause notice of such extension to be published in the Official Gazette and marked upon copies of the patent for sale by the Patent Office, in such manner as the Commissioner may determine.

SEC. 4. (a) Upon the issuance of the certificate of extension, said patent shall have the same force and effect in law as though it had been originally granted for seventeen years plus the term of such extension, except as otherwise provided herein.

U. S. rights.

(b) No patent extended under the provisions of this Act shall in any way serve as the basis for any claim by reason of manufacture, use, or sale by or for the United States during the period of extension, and the rights of the United States shall remain in all respects as if such patent had not been extended.

Conflicting rights in patents, etc.

(c) No extension granted under the provisions of this Act shall impair the right of anyone who before the passage of this Act was bona fide in possession of any rights in patents or applications for patents conflicting with the rights in any patent extended under the Act, nor shall any extension granted under this Act impair the right of anyone who was lawfully manufacturing before the passage of this Act the invention covered by the extended patent, but any such person shall have the right to make, use, and vend the invention covered by such conflicting patent or application for patent, or to continue or resume such manufacturing, during the extension of the patent, subject to the payment of a reasonable royalty for any period subsequent to the date on which the extension of the patent was granted: Provided, however, That any licensee under a patent which is extended shall have the option of continuing the license for the period of the extension or any part thereof on the same terms and conditions as contained in the existing license, or of discontinuing said license on the expiration of the original term of the patent: Provided further, That in the event an extension is not issued until after the date of expiration of the original term of the patent, any article or device made after said date and before the issuance of the extension, which would have infringed the patent had the patent been in force, may be sold or used after the issuance of the extension without any liability for infringement of the patent during the extended term by reason of such making, using, or vending.

Action for infringement.

(d) In any action, for infringement after the expiration of seventeen years from the grant of the patent and during the period of such extension, the defendant may plead and prove that any material statement of the application for extension required by this Act is not true in fact; and if any one or more of such statements shall be found untrue in fact, judgment shall be rendered for the defendant, with costs.

[CHAPTER 446]

AN ACT

To provide for the organization of a constitutional government by the people of Puerto Rico.

July 3, 1950
[S. 3336]
[Public Law 600]

Whereas the Congress of the United States by a series of enactments has progressively recognized the right of self-government of the people of Puerto Rico; and

Whereas under the terms of these congressional enactments an increasingly large measure of self-government has been achieved: Therefore

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, fully recognizing the principle of government by consent, this Act is now adopted in the nature of a compact so that the people of Puerto Rico may organize a government pursuant to a constitution of their own adoption.

Puerto Rico.
Organization of constitutional government.

SEC. 2. This Act shall be submitted to the qualified voters of Puerto Rico for acceptance or rejection through an island-wide referendum to be held in accordance with the laws of Puerto Rico. Upon the approval of this Act, by a majority of the voters participating in such referendum, the Legislature of Puerto Rico is authorized to call a constitutional convention to draft a constitution for the said island of Puerto Rico. The said constitution shall provide a republican form of government and shall include a bill of rights.

Referendum.

Constitutional convention.

SEC. 3. Upon adoption of the constitution by the people of Puerto Rico, the President of the United States is authorized to transmit such constitution to the Congress of the United States if he finds that such constitution conforms with the applicable provisions of this Act and of the Constitution of the United States.

Transmittal of constitution to Congress.

Upon approval by the Congress the constitution shall become effective in accordance with its terms.

SEC. 4. Except as provided in section 5 of this Act, the Act entitled "An Act to provide a civil government for Porto Rico, and for other purposes", approved March 2, 1917, as amended, is hereby continued in force and effect and may hereafter be cited as the "Puerto Rican Federal Relations Act".

Puerto Rican Federal Relations Act.
