GPO PROMOTES BOATING SAFETY ON LABOR DAY WEEKEND

WASHINGTON – For over two centuries, the United States Coast Guard has been protecting the American public, the environment, and U.S. economic interests in the Nation's ports and waterways, along the coast, international waters, and in countless maritime regions to support our National security. In advance of the Labor Day holiday weekend when many families are out on the water, the U.S. Government Printing Office is offering for sale a number of its publications to spotlight the vital work of the U.S. Coast Guard, including the newly released 2006 Light Lists, which include sound signals and other aids to navigation.
