GPO LANDS SPOT ON FORBES AMERICA'S BEST EMPLOYER LIST FOR FOURTH YEAR IN A ROW

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Government Publishing Office (GPO) has been named one of the best employers in America by Forbes for the fourth year in a row. GPO ranked in the top 20 amongst mid-sized agencies in Government Services. GPO joined the Library of Congress and Federal Communications Commission in the category for best Government agencies.

“For the fourth straight year, our teammates reaffirmed what I already know: GPO is a special agency and a great place to work,” said GPO Director Hugh Nathaniel Halpern. “We have high standards for our people and the service we provide to our Federal Agency customers. It is an honor to appear on America’s Best Employer list again. I look forward to watching our team continue to deliver on our vision of an America Informed.”

Forbes and Statista selected America’s Best Employers 2025 based on independent survey responses from more than 217,000 U.S. employees working at companies with a national workforce of at least 1,000 people. The survey evaluates employees’ personal and public assessments on key factors, including Atmosphere & Development, Salary & Wage, Company Image, Diversity, Working Conditions, and Workplace Environment. In May 2024 GPO was named to Forbes’ America’s Best Employer for New Graduates list, and in November 2024 GPO was named to Forbes’ America’s Best Employers for Veterans list for the third year in a row.

GPO’s second annual employee climate survey in 2024 revealed that 79 percent of GPO teammates rated their job satisfaction as high; 81 percent felt that their teams work well together, and 86 percent agreed that their work provides them with a sense of accomplishment.

GPO is the Federal Government’s resource for publishing trusted information for the Federal Government to the American people. The GPO is responsible for producing and
