GPO PARTNERS WITH YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY TO PRESERVE GOVERNMENT INFORMATION

WASHINGTON – Yale University’s Lillian Goldman Law Library signed a Memorandum of Agreement with the U.S. Government Publishing Office (GPO) to become a Preservation Steward. To help libraries meet the needs of efficient Government document stewardship in the digital era, GPO has established Preservation Stewards to support continued public access to U.S. Government documents in print format. These libraries contribute significantly to the effort to preserve printed documents. Through the agreement, many libraries also serve as digital access partners providing digital access to Government information. There are currently more than 60 libraries serving as Preservation Stewards across the United States.

“As a former Associate Law Librarian at Yale Law Library, I am of course thrilled to have this special library on board to help GPO deliver on its vision of an America Informed,” said GPO Superintendent of Documents Scott Matheson. “The preservation of and easy access to Government information remains critical to America’s democracy.”

GPO is the Federal Government’s resource for publishing trusted information for the Federal Government to the American people. The GPO is responsible for producing and distributing information products and services for all three branches of the Federal Government, including U.S. passports for the Department of State and the official publications of Congress, the White House, and other Federal agencies in digital and print formats. GPO provides permanent public access to Federal Government information at no charge through www.GovInfo.gov and partnerships with approximately 1,100 libraries nationwide participating in the Federal Depository Library Program.
