RESOLUTION

Calling on the President of the United States and the international community to take immediate steps to respond to and prevent acts of rape and sexual violence against women and girls in Darfur, Sudan, eastern Chad and the Central African Republic.

Whereas, during war, rape and sexual violence are often used systematically as a weapon of intimidation, humiliation, terror and ethnic cleansing;

Whereas it is estimated that between 250,000 and 500,000 women and girls were raped during the genocide in Rwanda;

Whereas, on September 2, 1998, the United National International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda found Jean Paul Akayesu guilty of rape and held that rape and sexual assault constitute crimes against humanity;

Whereas, on October 31, 2000, the United Nations Security Council adopted Security Council Resolution 1325, calling on all parties to an armed conflict to take, “special measures to protect women and girls from gender-based violence, particularly rape and other forms of sexual abuse”;

Whereas the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, which entered into force on July 1, 2002, states that rape and “any other form of sexual violence of comparable gravity” may constitute both “crimes against humanity” and “war crimes”;

Whereas since 2003, mass rape committed by members of the Sudanese armed forces and affiliated militias with the support of the Government of Sudan has been a central component of the Government of Sudan’s violence and ethnic cleansing in Darfur;

Whereas women and girls leaving Internally Displaced Persons camps in Darfur and refugee camps in eastern Chad, to seek firewood, water or outside sources of income are often attacked and subjected to rape and sexual violence perpetrated by members of the Sudanese armed forces and associated Janjaweed militia and other armed combatants;

Whereas, on July 19, 2004, Amnesty International reported that it collected the names of 250 women who had been raped in Darfur and information on 250 additional rapes;

Whereas, on January 25, 2005, the International Commission of Inquiry on Darfur, in a report to the United Nations Secretary General, reported numerous cases of mass rape throughout Darfur including an incident in which a large number of Janjaweed attacked a boarding school, and raped as many as 110 girls;

Whereas, on March 8, 2005, Doctors Without Borders reported that between October 2004 and the first half of February 2005, doctors from the organization treated almost 500 rape victims in numerous locations in South and West Darfur;

Whereas, on March 9, 2007, members of the United Nations High-Level Mission on the situation of human rights in Darfur reported that “rape and sexual assault have been widespread and systematic, terrorizing women and breaking down families and communities” and that “women are also attacked in and around refugee camps in eastern Chad”;

Whereas, on April 27, 2007, the International Criminal Court, acting under the authority provided in Security Council Resolution 1593, issued arrest warrants for Sudan’s Humanitarian Affairs Minister Ahmad Muhammad Harun and Janjaweed Colonel Ali Muhammad Al Abd-Al-Raham seeking their arrest for 51 counts including 6 counts involving rape;

Whereas under Sudanese law victims of rape have virtually no legal recourse and may in fact be charged with the crime of zina, or sexual intercourse outside of marriage, punishable by one hundred lashes if the victim is unmarried and death by stoning if she is married;

Whereas, on July 31, 2007, the United Nations Security Council adopted Security Council Resolution 1769 authorizing the deployment of a United Nations-African Union peacekeeping force (UNAMID) to Darfur and expressing strong concern about “on-going attacks on the civilian population and humanitarian workers and continued and widespread sexual violence” while “emphasising the need to bring to justice the perpetrators of such crimes”; and

Whereas, on August 20, 2007, the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, reported on attacks, abductions and systematic rapes of women by the Sudanese armed forces and associated militias occurring in Darfur, as well as the resulting pregnancies, “grave health risks,” and “psychological trauma” and declared that these acts may constitute war crimes: Now, therefore, be it
