REMARKS OF THE HONORABLE STEPHEN HORN
GEORGE WASHINGTON: A WISE LEADER FOR AN EMERGING NATION

I congratulate the members of the National Park Service, not only on what you have done to preserve history in the nation's capital, but what you have done throughout the nation to give our fellow citizens, young and old, and visitors to our shores a view of the past and to convey the ideals of this nation which has given hope to those less fortunate. You do a great job, and all Americans appreciate it.

When we think of George Washington we think of a person of great character and presence. He was also a good listener, but when he spoke, other people immediately stopped to listen to what he had to say. He was a person of common sense. He was a wise leader.

He also had a sense of humor. Today in the United States Senate, Senator Craig Thomas of Wyoming will read the Farewell Address of President Washington. That tradition of the Senate reminds me that when Thomas Jefferson, who was not at the Constitutional Convention, came back from France, he visited his fellow Virginian and friend, George Washington, at Mount Vernon. He said, "George, you were President of the Constitutional Convention, why did you ever create the Senate of the United States?" Washington looked at Jefferson and said "Tom, why are you pouring your tea into a saucer?" Jefferson answered, "To cool it." "Thus so," smiled Washington, "that is why we created the Senate."

Washington was an outstanding executive, both military and civilian. He set the precedents for the office of the Presidency. When you think of his cabinet, you see four men of great talent: Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of State; Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury; General Henry Knox, Secretary of War; and Edmund Randolph, Attorney General. Few cabinets have had such overall distinction. Some might equal it, but it would take ten or twelve people to equal those four.

In his wise and visionary Farewell Address to the nation, which I mentioned earlier, Washington influenced the policy of political parties in this country for over 150 years, when he cautioned against permanent entangling alliances with foreign nations.

It was Washington's wisdom, his thoughtfulness, his presence and character that set the foundation for a nation that would expand from 13 small colonies, newly states, westward across a continent. He had vision, and the characteristics of great leaders. We honor him, with good reason, on this day.

REMARKS OF THE HONORABLE BILL RICHARDSON

I am honored to join my colleague, the Honorable Stephen Horn, Councilman Jack Evans, the Park Service and other distinguished guests as we gather at the foot of this imposing monument to honor our nation's first President.

While local residents may grow accustomed to this huge monument, those of us who come here from a far are awestruck by it. We are taken back by its size and shape, its power and the unbelievable view or vision it offers for those who travel to its top. In fact, its size, its power and its vision are very much like the man it recognizes and the man we are honoring today.

George Washington was so admired and revered that no man challenged him for the office of the Presidency—Washington is the only person to seek the office without opposition. His two terms were a great success. He governed with dignity as well as restraint. He provided stability and authority which our young nation so sorely needed. He understood the need to compromise and reach agreement with men of opposing views.

One could easily argue that George Washington understood the Presidency because as Chairman of the Constitutional Convention he helped design our democracy. But, planning for a democracy and instituting a democracy were two very different tasks. Thankfully, George Washington was heroic at both missions.

In fact, George Washington was exceptional at many endeavors. Long before his rise to military leader of the War for Independence, he was a farm boy who had to grow up fast after his father died when he was just 11 years old. He taught himself surveying. Upon the death of his half-brother, he became a land owner of Mount Vernon at age 20. He was an active member of his community and his church. The rest, as they say, is history.

When compared to George Washington's 263rd birthday, we in New Mexico are quite young. Our state is only celebrating our 83rd birthday this year. Even though we may be a bit younger than our nation's founding father, we join our fellow states and countrymen with great enthusiasm and praise in honoring President Washington on this anniversary of his birth.
