

saying that the Senator from Nebraska has spoken again very eloquently and obviously with the experience that only a Governor can bring to a debate like this. The Senator from Nebraska has been Governor for a long period of time in a State that is not much different from South Dakota, my State. He recognizes the intricacies of making a program like this work and he recognizes as well the differences between a Nebraska and a Florida or a California.

I am delighted he brought up another issue that is also very important as we connect the relationship between success and expectation. We will only achieve success if we can truly make work pay. If we can make work pay, part of making it pay is to recognize that minimum wage today, if a person will work 40 hours a week, is still below the level of poverty. That is not making work pay.

As the Senator from Nebraska has said so well, if we are going to make this thing work, then we also have to recognize that pieces not directly related to welfare but having a significant impact on it, will have to be addressed as well.

So the Senator from Nebraska, as always, was able to hone in on those two or three principles that are key. I appreciate the contribution he has made to this effort. I look forward to working with him next week.
