AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. EWING) at 1 p.m.

MORNING BUSINESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of May 12, 1995, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority leader and minority leader for morning hour debates. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to 30 minutes and each Member, other than the majority and minority leaders, limited to 5 minutes.

THE TRAGEDY OF JIMMY RYCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. DIAZ-BALART] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, a child is always special. Children are the hope of the world, and every child is blessed with the love of God and the goodness of heaven.

In south Florida we have all, our entire community, has been deeply wounded by the tragedy suffered by one very special child—Jimmy Ryce. And by the suffering, the incalculable suffering, of his wonderful family.

As our prayers go out for Jimmy's family so that God may give them the strength to endure, we also pray for Jimmy in Heaven, with full confidence that he is now at peace in the presence of the Lord.

No one in south Florida will ever forget Jimmy Ryce and we join together as a community to grieve for him.

Jimmy's family—his mom and dad, Claudine and Don, his sister Martha—have shown us all an example of extraordinary strength and of the will to somehow permit this tragedy to shield other children from similar future nightmares on Earth. Even before we all received the ultimately tragic news of the last few days, Don and Claudine Ryce had commenced a petition campaign to the President, a noble campaign that they, and now many in south Florida are continuing, urging him to require agencies in the executive branch to post in public places pictures of endangered children, so that the American people can help in the search for these children, while there is still time to save their lives.

Don and Claudine Ryce have also urged that the media run public service announcements publicizing the photographs and the peril of endangered children.

Together we will remember Jimmy Ryce as we strive to bring down the full weight of justice on monstrous beings who commit crimes against children, and as we work to protect children against such unspeakable crimes in the future.

THE NIGHTMARE OF THE TRAGEDY OF JIMMY RYCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. DEUTSCH] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEUTSCH. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleague, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. DIAZ-BALART], and all the Members from south Florida to rise today with great sadness to share with you the news that my constituent, 9-year-old Jimmy Ryce, was abducted, sexually assaulted, shot, and finally found dead just a few short miles from his Miami home.

What happened to Jimmy Ryce is really the worst imaginable thing anyone could possibly imagine in their wildest nightmares, and all of our community in south Florida, unfortunately, share the hopes and the fears and, to an infinitesimal degree, some of the suffering that the Ryce family is feeling today and will always feel.

One of the things that has happened during this period of time is, unfortunately, I have educated myself a little bit about what is going on in child abductions in this country. On several occasions during the last several months I spoke with the FBI and people involved in the investigation, people involved in the investigation of missing children. Over a thousand a year in this country fall into that category, and, again, unfortunately, there have been strides in what we have done as a society and what we have done as a country to try to help this insufferable tragedy.

In fact, south Florida, unfortunately, was an impetus to this several years ago when Adam Walsh was abducted and killed in south Florida and from the time that Adam Walsh was killed to today, and really through his family's work, there have been changes. There is now, in fact, a missing persons center clearinghouse the Federal Government operates for missing children, abused and abducted children, that has been helpful in solving many cases and actually having children returned to their families.

But, unfortunately, what the Ryce family found is there is still a lot more that we can do operationally as a country and as a government both on the Federal level, but on State and local levels as well, but on the Federal level. Some of the frustration dealing with the Federal Government during this ordeal really is worth hearing and talking about and changing. As the gentleman from Florida [Mr. DIAZ-BALART] pointed out and the Ryce family obviously knows, when they tried to spread the news of Jimmy's abduction, and they did an amazing job, the community did an amazing job, and we also on the floor of this Congress were talking about it and sending photos ourselves, but when they tried to do that through a network that exists in this country of post offices, Federal buildings that are everywhere in this country, they found they could not do it, which really makes no sense at all. And what will happen by the end of this week is that all of us in the south Florida delegation will be introducing legislation to correct that so that we can send out that information.

If I have learned anything about child abductions, it is that the more information that is out there, the more people see a child's face, the more chances that something will be solved, and even in this case, the lead was because of that.

There are other instances where the Ryce family actually had operational problems dealing with the Federal Government in terms of coordination. They found themselves there is no coordinated effort for missing children. There is for criminal fugitives, but there is not for missing children. The family was actually calling law enforcement throughout the State who had not even heard or were aware of what was going on.

I am committed, and I know my colleagues from south Florida, I believe, my colleagues throughout this country are committed to doing everything that we possibly can to make sure that there is less of a chance that something like this will ever happen again in this great country.

I think we all need to really feel and share some of the pain with the Ryce family because we are a community of America, and as a community we need to really work on ourselves as a community to make sure that the sickness that exists and the indescribable sickness is eliminated as much as we possibly can.

To the Ryce family, I can only say to them that their strength and their perseverance will, I am sure, be clear that there will be something that will occur in this time, and we know that Jimmy Ryce's soul is in Heaven, and we pray for its continuation.

UKRAINIAN COMMERCIAL LAUNCH POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. WELDON] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. WELDON of Florida. Mr. Speaker, tomorrow the Clinton administration will give away another U.S. industry: the United States domestic commercial space launch industry.

A decade ago, the United States held nearly 100 percent share of commercial space launches. Today the United States holds 30 percent of the market. This loss of market share is largely due to the fact that our competitors receive heavy subsidies from their governments.

Between 1996 and 2001, it is estimated that there will be 350 commercial satellite launches—120 of these will be geostationary launches. These are the high Earth-orbit, expensive launches that the United States dominated until recent years.
