nomination for Lieutenant Governor in 1970. He went on to win the election as the running mate of Thomas J. Meskill and served until his appointment to the Connecticut Superior Court. After serving for 10 years, he was nominated by Governor William A. O'Neill to the Appellate Court, where he served before becoming a justice on the highest court in Connecticut on September 25, 1987.

Justice Hull’s political career earned him the reputation for being a gifted writer and captivating speaker, and colleague once said his decisions would “forever enrich the literature of the law.” Justice Hull had great aspirations for the people of Connecticut and was one of the few politicians who managed to be well-liked on both sides of the aisle. Throughout his illustrious career, he maintained an optimistic activism that continually propelled the interests of Connecticut and its people forward. Justice Hull was a dedicated public servant who “had an enthusiasm for public office that was contagious.”

Justice Hull was a champion of the people and was one of the few to truly believe that government and politics should be “positive, energizing celebrations.” Although he was small in stature, T. Clark Hull’s charming personality and exuberance for serving the public made him a giant in the eyes of others. Upon retiring from the State Supreme Court in 1991, when he reached the mandatory retirement age of 70, Justice Hull continued to serve the public as a State referee and as co-chairman of a commission to study government efficiency. The commission made many recommendations to streamline government, and under the chairmanship of Justice Hull, Connecticut underwent the biggest reorganization in state government in nearly two decades.

T. Clark Hull has doubtless had a distinguished career. While he gained prominence as a long Connecticut politician, Justice Hull gained the respect of his colleagues and the general public for his good humor, exuberance for life, and his love of public service. The people of Connecticut are truly blessed to be able to call T. Clark Hull one of their own.

My thoughts and prayers go out to his wife Betty Jane, and his three sons Steven, Josh, and Treat.

THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE VERMONT AIR NATIONAL GUARD

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, on July 1, 1946, 27 World War II veterans formed the Vermont Air National Guard, and the Vermont Air National Guard was born. Today, when the 158th Fighter Wing pilots strap into the technological marvel that is the F-16, the Revolutionary War soldier painted on the tail stands as a stark reminder to us all: There is a direct lineage between the militia tradition that our Nation was founded on and which is very much alive today here in Vermont.

The original Green Mountain Boys were mostly farmers who left their homes in the 1700s to defend against encroaching New Yorkers and then fought enthusiastically against the British in the Revolutionary War. The Vermonters wore homespun civilian clothes, often with only a sprig of evergreen in their caps to identify each other in the field.

But the Green Mountain Boys were citizen soldiers, and throughout most of our history the American people have relied on the militia to defend them. It has only been in the recent past that we have created a large peacetime standing army. Now, with the former Soviet Union gone, we are seeing a renewed emphasis on National Guard and Reserve forces as the Nation’s premier insurance against worldwide aggression.

When I go to Vermont in the coming weeks, I will be giving the Vermont Air National Guard a token of my appreciation for the tremendous service that they have shown over the last 50 years. The list of aircraft that have been flown by the Vermont Air Guard reads like a who’s who of American air power—the P-47 Thunderbolt, the P-51 Mustang, the P-94 Starfighter, F-89 Scorpion, the F-102 Delta Dagger, the EB-57, the F-4 Phantom, and now the F-16 Falcon. Those who have served in Vermont have different memories depending on the aircraft and people of their line of duty since 1946.

WELFARE REFORM

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, I rise today to speak on behalf of the welfare reform bill that passed this body yesterday.

Much has been said on the House and Senate floor and in the media about the impact of this bill on children and the working poor. Those who have spoken out against the bill have called it, draconian, and legislative child abuse. Well, I disagree.

For the past 61 years we have allowed a program originally designed to help families through a difficult time to become a welfare program that discourages able-bodied citizens from working. The current welfare system takes away the dignity and self respect that comes from earning an honest living and has replaced it with generation after generation of families dependant on public assistance.

In the past 61 years instead of teaching our children about work ethics, responsibility, hard work and determination, we have taught them how easy it can be to live off public assistance. New ladies and gentlemen, that is abuse.

Everyday men and women get up in the morning, dress their children and get them ready for the day. After the morning routine, these same men and women get into their cars and negotiate traffic on their way to work. Everyday these people work long hours to provide for their families, pay the bills and if they are lucky put a little money away in a college or retirement fund. All this bill asks is that those who are able to work try to perform a service for their benefits.

The working men and women of America have been doing their part for CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

S9623

August 2, 1996

Mr. ROBB. Mr. President, today, at Arlington National Cemetery, the remains of Capt. John William Kennedy, U.S. Air Force, will be laid to rest with full military honors. Captain Kennedy’s mother, brother, relatives and friends will join a grateful Nation in paying final tribute to a courageous American who gave his life for his country.

This day and this ceremony are long overdue, Mr. President, because Capt. Kennedy lost his life over the Quangtin Province of the Republic of Vietnam. Though his family was told he was missing in action on August 16, 1971, he was not confirmed killed in action until May 1996.

Mr. President, this brings back sad memories for me, because during my own time in Vietnam, families of many of the young men who served under my command received word that their loved ones would not be coming home. But as difficult as this notification was, it was even more difficult for the families who could not learn with certainty the fate of their loved ones. The most painful ordeal was ultimately the seemingly endless uncertainty of MIA families.

With mixed emotions, I note that the terrible ordeal of the Kennedy family of Arlington, VA, is at last resolved. A sorrowful peace has finally been found. So I rise today, Mr. President, to honor the service rendered to our country by Captain Kennedy.

Captain Kennedy was serving as a forward air controller with the 20th Tactical Air Support Squadron based in Chu Lai. On August 16, 1971, Captain Kennedy failed to check in during normal radio checks while flying a visual reconnaissance mission over the Quangtin Province. He was listed as missing in action until July 1978, when his status was changed to presumed killed in action. Finally, in May of this year, after using new DNA identification techniques, Captain Kennedy’s family was notified that his remains have been recovered for burial.

Captain Kennedy graduated from the Virginia Military Institute in 1969 and then joined the U.S. Air Force. He graduated from pilot training in October 1970, where he was first in his class and was awarded the Undergraduate Pilot Training Office Training Award. He was then assigned to a national training command, and from there was assigned to the 20th Tactical Air Support Squadron in South Vietnam. He was serving there when his plane disappeared.

Captain Kennedy’s awards include the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Purple Heart, the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the National Defense Service Medal, the Vietnam Service Medal, and the Vietnam Campaign Medal.

Mr. President, Captain Kennedy’s distinguished service to his country clearly represents the very best of America. I believe I can speak for my colleagues in the U.S. Senate when I pay this tribute to a hero—and when I convey our gratitude to his family for sharing their exceptional son with us.

THE ARREST OF TWO TAIWAN STUDENTS IN ATLANTA

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I had the pleasure of meeting for the first time yesterday with the new representative from the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States, Mr. Jason Chih-chiang Hu. While it was a good opportunity to discuss areas of mutual interest, I was concerned to learn about an incident that occurred during the hotly contested championship table tennis match between the People’s Republic of China and Taiwan. It is my understanding that the incident was sparked when one of the students waved the national flag of the Republic of China during the championship match. The other individual was arrested when trying to assist his fellow student in resisting police arrest.

Mr. President, what began as an innocent, outward show of pride in his country ended with what would appear to be an excessive response. It is my hope that officials in Atlanta will carefully consider this situation and work towards a fair and equitable remedy that will not unduly punish these students.

Nationalism and love of flag and country are something we as Americans can appreciate. As we look around the various venues at the Olympics, I think we all feel a source of pride to see the stars and stripes waving in the stands and being carried by our athletes. What we may not understand is some of the history behind the conditions under which the Republic of China on Taiwan is able to participate in the Olympics.

Athletes from Taiwan were banned from participating in the International Olympic Games in the 1970’s due to Taiwan’s flag and anthem. It is my understanding that the charter by striking out all references to national flags and anthems, a committee flag and committee song of the National Olympic Committee of each individual nation are used to describe the flag and anthem each nation’s team uses. While almost all National Olympic committees use their national flag and anthem, the Republic of China, referred to in the Olympics as “Chinese Taipei,” are not allowed to use their flag and song.

Mr. President, this prohibition applies to the Chinese Taipei Olympic team—not its fans. It is my understanding that the charter does not contain references to restrictions on individuals participating as spectators in the Olympics.

Mr. President, while I do not have all the final details of this situation, I felt it was worthy of our notice. One purpose of the Olympic Games is for the world of nations to gather together in an atmosphere that allows us to overlook our differences. While that purpose is not always achieved, it is certainly a worthy goal. Therefore, it is my hope that we will see a swift and equitable resolution to this unfortunate situation.

UKRAINIAN INDEPENDENCE DAY

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, this year marks the fifth anniversary of Ukraine’s independence. Ukraine has adopted a new constitution, has taken part in its first Olympic games, and will celebrate the independence of its independence from the former Soviet Union.

On June 28, the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine, adopted a new Ukrainian constitution. The new Constitution establishes Ukraine as an independent,
