

Tibet at the March 16 meeting of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights in Geneva.

As the Dalai Lama has said, "Brute force, no matter how strongly applied, can never subdue the basic human desire for freedom and dignity. It is not enough, as communist systems have assumed, merely to provide people with food, shelter and clothing. The deeper human nature needs to breathe the precious air of liberty." It is time the government of China paid heed to his wise words.●

CLAWSON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE "BUSINESS PERSON OF THE YEAR"

● Mr. ABRAHAM. Mr. President, I rise today to acknowledge Tamara Van Wormer Tazzia, winner of the Clawson, Michigan Chamber of Commerce "Business Person of the Year" Award. Ms. Tazzia is the owner and manager of the Tri-Centre Business Complex in Clawson and has been very active in the Clawson Chamber of Commerce, serving as a board member, for the past five years. This month she will take over as president of the Chamber.

In addition to her involvement in the Chamber of Commerce, Ms. Tazzia has an impressive list of accomplishments. Ms. Tazzia has over ten years experience in property management and eighteen years of entrepreneurial business experience. She is a past vice-president of the National Association of Women Business Owners and past president of both the Troy Toastmasters and Bloomfield Hills Optimist Club.

Ms. Tazzia will be honored at the Clawson Chamber of Commerce Annual Awards Dinner Saturday, March 21, 1998. I congratulate Ms. Tazzia on her award and commend her for her involvement in her community.●

TRIBUTE TO WAYNE NEWTON

● Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a dear friend and perhaps the most recognizable Nevadan the world-over, Wayne Newton, for reaching his incredible fiftieth year in show business.

Wayne Newton has reached amazing goals in an industry in which success can be short lived. Before most Americans had heard of Elvis Presley or the Beatles, Wayne Newton released a best-selling record, sung for the President of the United States, and toured with the Grand Old Opry road show.

In a half-century, Wayne Newton has performed live for an astonishing fifteen million people and that number continues to grow each year. Tens of millions around the world have also enjoyed his talents through the radio, television, and movies.

Wayne's musical genius was recognized early in life. At the age of six, the precocious youngster was already dazzling audiences as the star of a radio show, which aired before he went to school each morning. During his adolescent years, he entertained us through the new medium of television, performing regularly on our favorite variety shows. Americans quickly discovered Wayne's irresistible stage presence, enchanting voice, and charming smile.

While still a teenager, he headlined a Las Vegas show and became one of the area's most popular attractions. Indeed, over the years, millions of tourists flocked to the Silver State to enjoy the sunny climate, scrumptious buffets, spectacular lights, magnificent resorts, and, to be sure, the singular magic of Wayne Newton. Wayne's nickname, Mr. Las Vegas, is richly deserved, and, as his career has grown and met with amazing success, so has that great city.

At the age of 21, his single "Danke Schoen" made music history. Many of his songs have topped the charts, and there are too many to mention here, but some of my favorites include "Heart," "Summer Wind," and "Red Roses for a Blue Lady."

Wayne Newton's gifts extend well beyond his extraordinary showmanship and musical talent. For example, he has distinguished himself as a skilled actor, having been featured in ten films, and countless television and cable programs.

Many Americans are aware that Wayne Newton has earned a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, but how many know that he has been awarded the Medal for Distinguished Public Service, Founder's Award of St Jude's hospital, the VFW's Hall of Fame Award, the American Legion's Exceptional Citizen Award and the Humanitarian Award of the American Cancer Society's Research Center—just to name a few? After fifty years before the public eye, Wayne Newton has become one of the world's most prolific entertainers, but he has always found time and energy to devote to scores of worthy causes.

Wayne Newton's career is the stuff of legend. I am confident there will be many more years in which visitors to Las Vegas will be mesmerized by this amazing performer. It is hard to imagine anyone reaching greater heights of success, but certainly, if anyone could, it's Mr. Las Vegas. However, to me the greatest attribute of Wayne Newton is the quality of his friendship. He is above all my good friend.●

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DELIBERATION SCHOLARSHIP FOUNDATION HONOREE

● Mr. ABRAHAM. Mr. President, I rise before you today to recognize Wesley A. Jones, of Grand Rapids, Michigan. Mr. Jones, has been honored by the Michigan Council of Deliberation Scholarship Foundation, an organization of which he is a member.

Mr. Jones is being honored as an outstanding individual for his many business and civic contributions. Currently, Mr. Jones serves as Deputy for the Orient for Michigan. In addition, he serves as Deputy for Michigan for the United Supreme Council and is active in the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Prince Hall Affiliation, Northern Jurisdiction and USA Inc. Mr. Jones should be commended for his community activism as well. He serves as an active member of his church, treasurer of the Grand Rapids Urban League Board of Directors and Chair of the Minority Business Committee of the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce. His activity extends even beyond these organizations. Mr. Jones, an engineer and businessman is a father of six and grandfather of eight. It is quite apparent that Mr. Jones selflessly and freely gives of his time.

I am pleased to recognize the good work of Wesley A. Jones. He has been rightfully honored by the Michigan Council of Deliberation Scholarship Foundation.●

RESTORING DIPLOMATIC READINESS

● Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, in the coming weeks, the Committee on the Budget will begin consideration of the concurrent budget resolution for Fiscal Year 1999. I would like to take a few minutes today to discuss the continuing need for our government to provide sufficient resources for international affairs. Since becoming the ranking Democrat on the Committee on Foreign Relations, I have focused special attention on this question, because I believe that adequate funding for these programs is essential to our national interest.

With the collapse of communism and the dissolution of the Soviet empire, the United States has emerged as the world's sole remaining superpower. With that position comes a responsibility to take a leading role in international affairs. Around the globe, American leadership is essential to preserving stability and security, and advancing prosperity and economic opportunity.

The United States cannot remain an effective world leader without devoting sufficient resources to diplomatic readiness. Just as we need to maintain and train robust military forces in order to protect our security, we need a well-trained and well-equipped diplomatic corps to advance our nation's numerous international interests. Indeed, with the reductions in our military presence overseas in the last decade, it is all the more important that we maintain a robust diplomatic presence around the globe, and that our diplomats, who work on the front line of our national defense, have the resources necessary to do their jobs.

It is sometimes said that, in the modern information age, embassies and the diplomats who staff them are no longer relevant. The assertion is, in my view, absurd. While modern technology has eased communications and travel
