

1982. As of April 1998, 2,955 Hoosiers have died from AIDS.

AIDS is certainly a global crisis, as almost every country has reported cases. The problem is particularly bad in developing nations. In certain regions of Africa and India, one out of four adults is infected. Lack of medical facilities and AIDS education make it unlikely that the rapid rate of infection will curb within the near future.

Can AIDS be prevented? According to the Surgeon General, the most certain way to control the AIDS epidemic is through using condoms, monogamous sexual relationships, and avoiding illegal intravenous drug use. There is no evidence that HIV can be transmitted through casual contact. With no cure for AIDS, educating those at risk of infection is currently the only way to halt the spread of the disease. Because needle sharing among intravenous drug users leads to the spread of HIV, some public health officials advocate the distribution of clean needles as part of drug abuse treatment programs.

What is the government doing? Since the 1980s, Congress has steadily increased funding for research, improving access to health care for AIDS patients and supporting public education initiatives. In 1998, the federal government will spend close to $9 billion on HIV/AIDS programs, compared to the $22 billion spent on cancer programs and the $43 billion for heart disease.

State and local governments are also fighting the epidemic. Indiana will spend approximately $1.2 million in state tax dollars on HIV/AIDS related prevention and health care services in 1998.

How are HIV/AIDS cost financed? HIV/AIDS cases are an enormous financial strain for individuals, insurance companies, and the government. The average cost of caring for an HIV/AIDS patient from infection to death is approximately $150,000 or an average $12,000 per year, largely spent on costly new drugs.

Private health insurance covers an average of 50% of the cost for caring for persons with HIV/AIDS. Medicaid also covers a sizeable amount of the cost of patient care. The Ryan White Comprehensive AIDS Resources Emergency (CARE) Act is the centerpiece of federal programs serving AIDS-related health care needs. CARE Act programs, implemented through public-private coalitions, are aimed at cutting the cost of care, reducing the need for expensive hospitalization, and developing support services across the nation.

Should there be mandatory testing? All donated blood is now screened for HIV, and testing is mandatory for military personnel and federal prisoners. There is broad agreement that individuals at high risk of contracting HIV should seek testing.

Due to costs, it is unlikely that sweeping mandatory tests, such as for medical practitioners, will be implemented. A preliminary HIV screening costs approximately five dollars per person. Each person who tests positive would require a follow-up test which would cost approximately fifty dollars. To implement nationwide tests would place a significant strain on government resources.

How are HIV/AIDS victims treated under the law? Americans with HIV/AIDS have often been targets of various forms of discrimination, although laws have been established to protect against discrimination. Under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, HIV/AIDS is considered a handicap, therefore making it illegal to discriminate against HIV/AIDS victims in hiring practices and in providing access to public facilities.

A recent Supreme Court decision declared that HIV infection without present symptoms is a disability due to the fatal nature of the disease. Thus, it is illegal for medical providers to refuse treatment to HIV-infected individuals on the basis of their medical condition.

What progress has been made? A great deal of progress has been made on AIDS research in the past decade. For example, drug "cocktails", which involve a combination of as many as ten different medications, are allowing HIV-infected people to live longer with a higher quality of life.

In June, the first human trials were begun in the study for an AIDS vaccine. However, experts still have serious concerns as to the effectiveness of any vaccine in stopping the spread of the disease.

Conclusion: Much still needs to be learned and done about HIV and AIDS. An aggressive strategy to combat the disease is urgently needed. A heavy emphasis must be placed on prevention through grassroots education. Research to develop treatment, cures and vaccines must be continued and expanded. Help must be given to developing countries where HIV/AIDS is spreading at a staggering rate. All of this could save millions of dollars and millions of lives. It is a battle worth fighting.

THE RENO_x '98 CONFERENCE IN RENO, NEVADA

HON. JOHN E. ENSIGN

OF NEVADA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 22, 1998

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. Speaker, rarely have policy-makers been able to agree on approaches to attack our environmental problems. Both sides of the aisle seem to muddy the waters with rhetoric that does nothing more than to exacerbate emotionalism and further ignore scientific reality. It is for this very reason that I am proud to announce an event being held later this month in my home state of Nevada. This event is specifically designed to cut through such rhetoric and provide real solutions to fight one of our most pressing environmental problems—the control of oxides of nitrogen or NO_x, one of the most pervasive air pollutants.

The Gunnerman Foundation and numerous other federal, state, and industry organizations are sponsoring the ReNO_x '98 Conference in Reno from July 26th through July 28th. Developing solutions to NO_x is just yet another in a long line of success stories for Gunnerman Foundation Chairman Rudy Gunnerman. Ten years ago, Mr. Gunnerman was called an alarmist for bringing to light critical air pollution problems. I call him a pioneer. His leadership has spurred technology and policy innovations on air pollution issues for over two decades.

Similarly, this conference will stimulate action on the issue NO_x. This conference will bring together industry, government and community interests to address barriers and develop policy recommendations that will benefit NO_x reduction strategies.

NO_x emissions come from cars and trucks, coal-burning power plants, and industrial combustion and waste disposal operations. NO_x emissions increased over 220 percent between 1940 and 1996, with a 9 percent rise from 1970 to 1996.

NO_x interacts with other compounds in the air to form ground-level ozone and acid rain—primary threats to human health and the environment. These critical air pollution problems have levied serious costs on our society, which range from asthma and other respiratory illnesses to the deterioration of our lakes, forests, soils, and our national monuments.

Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to commend the Gunnerman Foundation and Rudy Gunnerman for sponsoring this worthwhile forum. I invite my colleagues to join this effort to develop real solutions to an environmental problem that deserves our attention and commitment.

HONORING JOHN KORREY

HON. BOB SCHAFFER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 22, 1998

Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize John Korrey of Liff, Colorado who recently earned first place at the International Livestock Auctioneer Championship held in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Along with farming and ranching, Mr. Korrey and his wife, Janna, own Korrey Auction Services and co-run Primary Livestock Sales Management in Liff.

John Korrey decided to be an auctioneer when his father, a produce farmer, took him to livestock sales. He listened and watched the auctioneers and adopted each trait that appealed to him. When describing his auctioneering experiences, Mr. Korrey stated, "I didn't become a quality auctioneer overnight. It takes years of practice and learning. I learn everyday. Sales or mistakes, I always learn. If you are too old to learn, you are in major trouble."

With that energetic attitude, Mr. Korrey found himself competing in the International Livestock Auctioneer Championship. In the International competition 30 competitors auctioned cattle at the Alberta Fed Beef Expo in Strathmore, Alberta on the first day. On the second day, the top 10 auctioneers auctioned 3,000 cattle at the Calgary Fair.

Five judges measured competitors on appearance, mannerisms, and deportment, worth 20 points; spotting bids, repartee and time; worth 40 points. Each judge could award 100 points to each competitor. The competitors score was averaged over the two days with the high and low score tossed out. Korrey walked away from the competition with the top prize including $5000, a custom designed silver belt buckle, and an invitation to Jones and Vold Auction Company in Ponoka, Alberta.

Korrey's daughters, Heidi and Lacey, were at the auction cheering him on and had eight of the 10 winners placed correctly. When asked if his daughters placed him first, Korrey laughed and said, "They better. It was special to have them here."

This was Korrey's sixth year at the championship and he always finished in the top five. Although he will not be eligible to compete in next year's competition, Korrey can look forward to his new role as the contest's master of ceremonies. He will introduce all the competitors and conduct the auction at the Calgary Fair's champion livestock pens.

As a member of Congress representing Colorado's Fourth District where John Korrey lives, works, and shares his passion for auctioneering with his community, I am proud to honor this talented man. I congratulate him on this tremendous achievement. I also thank him for demonstrating excellence in a field which is so vital to this nation's ranching heritage and to rural Colorado.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1999

SPEECH OF

HON. NANCY PELOSI

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, July 21, 1998

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 4193) making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1999, and for other purposes:

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of full funding for the National Endowment for the Arts. Federal support is necessary to ensure that broad access to the arts is possible for citizens of all economic backgrounds and all regions of the country. Today, arts agencies in all 50 states and 6 territories receive federal funding through the NEA to support the arts. Prior to the creation of the NEA, few state arts councils awarded grants.

Arts funding in this country rests on the combined support of federal, state, and local public dollars, as well as private donations. Federal dollars are essential in leveraging other support. For example, in FY 1997, $99.5 million in federal dollars was matched with $280 million in state support and $675 million in local funding.

Last week, the House Committee on Appropriations voted 31-27 to provide funding for the NEA. Now, the Republican majority is seeking to undermine the work of the Committee, and set back arts in this country by passing a rule that will allow NEA funding to be zeroed out.

Opponents of the NEA suggest there is little accountability at the agency. However, over the last several years, the NEA has made substantial changes to address Congressional concerns and also make it more responsive to the public.

Recently, six Members of Congress were added to the NEA advisory body, a new NEA Chairman was unanimously approved by the Senate, and a new grant award program was established to provide for a more equal distribution of arts funds to underserved states. In addition, the NEA also implemented changes in its grant award program to improve accountability by prohibiting the shifting of funds from one project to another.

The NEA has been responsive to concerns raised by Congress and the public. New attempts to cut funding to this agency are without merit. Given that last month the Supreme Court uphold the use by the NEA of "general standards of decency" in awarding grants, the current attacks on the NEA for funding controversial projects are unwarranted.

Over the last three decades, the NEA has substantially increased arts activity in every state in this country. Federal support is needed to ensure that all Americans have an opportunity to discover and enrich their lives by experiencing the arts. I urge my colleagues to support full funding for the NEA.

IN CELEBRATION OF THE PRESENTATION OF THE AIR FORCE AIRMAN'S MEDAL

HON. LOIS CAPP

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 22, 1998

Mrs. CAPP. Mr. Speaker, I rise to bring to the attention of my colleagues the awarding of the Air Force Airman's Medal to Master Sergeant Tim Brown. Sergeant Brown is a member of the 30th Security Forces Squadron at Vandenberg Air Force Base, located in my district, on June 26th. The Airman's Medal is the highest award for heroism given during peacetime.

Master Sergeant Brown saved three people in the waters off Wall Beach, California on Christmas Day, 1997. Strong undertows pulled thirteen-year-old Melissa Woodward out to sea. Her father, Mark Woodward, and her uncle, Staff Sergeant Randy Sexton, were also caught by the undertow when they went to help the young girl. Colonel Paul Sowada heard their call for help from shore and radioed for assistance. Master Sergeant Brown responded to Colonel Sowada's call. None of the victims were seriously injured. Colonel Sowada also received the Airman Medal in a ceremony on June 12th.

I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating these two brave men on the awarding of such a special medal. They are to be commended for their noble efforts.

TRIBUTE TO COL. JIMMY JACOBS

HON. JOHN M. SPRATT, JR.

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 22, 1998

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to pay tribute to an outstanding American, an outstanding soldier, and an outstanding officer of the U.S. Army on the occasion of his retirement from active service. Col. Jimmy O. Jacobs retires after more than 28 years of dedicated service to this great Nation. Throughout his service Colonel Jacobs has provided tremendous leadership, guidance and counsel at all levels, from unit to the Office of the Secretary of Defense. He has consistently provided frank, thoughtful and deliberate advice to the high ranking Presidential appointees whom he has served both for the Office of the Secretary of the Army and the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Colonel Jacobs has over the years become recognized inside the Pentagon as the expert when an issue had to be worked quickly and correctly. His first and foremost concerns have always been what is best for soldiers, the U.S. Army, and our Nation. His brand of selfless service will stand for years to come as the standard for others to emulate.

Colonel Jacobs' illustrious career that began in 1970 culminates as the Executive Officer to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, Headquarters, Department of the Army. It is in this position that he has been able to directly influence the lives of our young soldiers and their families. For it is in the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel (DCSPER) where decisions are made affecting a soldier's wallet, housing assignment, points for promotion, and next assignment, among many others. Colonel Jacobs has been on hand to ensure that, when others might lose sight of that soldier on the ground, the correct decisions are made. He is the one who has ensured that the DCSPER hears those honest, frank opinions that he needs to hear before making life altering decisions. And on many occasions it was Colonel Jacobs himself providing those opinions.

Colonel Jimmy Jacobs was born in Bennettsville, South Carolina and graduated from Wofford College in Spartanburg, South Carolina. Colonel Jacobs was commissioned a second lieutenant through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program in 1969. The unfortunate and untimely loss of both parents while attending college prompted his request for a one-year deferment from active duty to ensure his two younger brothers graduated from high school. For that year he taught high school biology and coached football, reporting in 1970 to his first duty station in Cam Rahn Bay, Vietnam. After Vietnam, then Lieutenant Jacobs spent the following 10 years overseas serving selflessly in a wide variety of personnel positions at Headquarters, 6th U.S. Army, Europe, the Berlin Brigade, and the European Military Personnel Center. In 1981, the newly promoted Major Jacobs was assigned to Headquarters, 6th U.S. Army at the Presidio at San Francisco, to serve for three years in his functional area of public affairs. Following his assignment as Chief, Media Operations and Public Information, Major Jacobs was selected to attend Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Upon graduation he found himself being assigned once again to another overseas tour with the Military Personnel Center, Europe, in Schwetzingen, Germany.

After serving as Chief Officer Assignments and the Assistant Chief of Staff for Operations, the newly promoted Lieutenant Colonel Jacobs was reassigned to the Pentagon, Washington, D.C., in May 1988. For the next ten years, Lieutenant Colonel Jacobs served in alternating assignments between the Office, Secretary of Defense and the Office, Under Secretary of the Army as a Senior Military Assistant, Executive Officer, and Senior Military Deputy. During this period he was deservedly promoted to Colonel and subsequently assigned to his current position as the Executive Officer to the Army's Deputy Chief of Staff for personnel. In all these assignments, Colonel Jacobs has served with distinction and has earned our respect and gratitude for his many years of unselfish service to our Nation's defense.

It is with great pride that I congratulate Colonel Jacobs upon his retirement and wish him and his wife, Deborah, all the best as they move on to face new challenges and rewards in the next exciting chapter of their lives. I ask my colleagues to join me in heartfelt appreciation to a soldier whose selfless service has truly made a difference.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. SOLOMON P. ORTIZ

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 22, 1998

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, because of official business in my District (27th Congressional
