in my 5th District of Michigan, and particularly the leadership of the Saginaw City Council and City Manager Reed Phillips. In October 1998, at the 71st annual Water Environment Federation Conference in Orlando, the City of Saginaw was presented with the Environmental Protection Agency’s 1998 National Sewer Overflow Control Program Excellence Award. The award is presented for innovation and quality for their combined sewer overflow control measures.

As we in the 5th District well know, the Saginaw River is a major contributor to the health of our region. This milestone is a testament to faith, to the perseverance of its congregants. As their lives have been made richer by their faith, so, too, has our community been made richer by the church’s presence. This church in the heart of one of Toledo’s oldest neighborhoods has housed generations of souls uplifted by the strength of prayer and each other as God’s Word was celebrated each Sunday for 130 years.

Third Baptist Church has been a cornerstone of the community, and is strongly supported by its members. Generations worship together, in the truest sense of church and community. Third Baptist’s motto is “Celebrating Our Godly Heritage Through Worship and Praise.” Its members live this testament, coming together to offer joyful songs, inspirational prayers, and deep, personal worship.

As 130 years are celebrated through several days, I know that the spirit of the church’s ancestors will be felt, and they will join today’s membership in the commemoration. As we look back on the past, may we also direct our vision toward the future.

TRIBUTE TO THE FARMERS’ ADVANCE

HON. NICK SMITH OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. SMITH of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Farmers’ Advance published in Camden, Michigan.

On October 13, 1998, the Farmers’ Advance and its precursor, The Camden Advance, will have served rural readers and advertisers for 100 years.

As a farmer, I rely on the Farmers’ Advance to keep me abreast of the weekly sales and prices of farm commodities, livestock and equipment. I also appreciate the excellent coverage of youth activities in 4-H and FFA shows and sales. In this rapidly changing time, the Farmers’ Advance continues to chronicle and celebrate traditional farm family values through its stories and photographs.

Mr. Speaker, there are some in this House who have campaigned for the impeachment of this President for more than six years. Their campaign, fueled by $40 million spent by the Office of Special Council, tens of millions spent by private sources, and millions more spent by assorted Congressional Committees, and the inevitable accompanying leaks have yielded us only a sad, sordid marital infidelity and an endless supply of headlines. These relentless campaign to impeach the President now hold their sponsors hostage to their own rhetoric. Having failed to find an impeachable offense, there is now relentless pressure to make do with the $60 million scandal—to make the scandal fit the bill.

Mr. Speaker, our Constitution contains a number of examples of purposely ambiguous language in addition to the phrase “high Crimes and Misdemeanors.” Consider such language as “due process.” It is precisely such elegant and flexible language which has enabled our democracy to develop, to encompass ever broader sectors of Americans, in ever deeper and more empowering ways.

It is reasonable to expect that as the process of electing our chief executive has become more and more democratic, Congress should not take into itself the power to limit a President, in James Madison’s words, “to the usual prerogatives of the executive, in the manner and degree in which he is employed in the performance of his other functions.”

Mr. Speaker, our Constitution contains a number of examples of purposely ambiguous language in addition to the phrase “high Crimes and Misdemeanors.” Consider such language as “due process.”
