The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Bass).

WASHINGTON, DC, October 10, 1998.
I hereby designate the Honorable Charles F. Bass to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

As we pray for the needs of the world, O God, so too we pray for the concerns that are about us. Where there is anxiety, grant peace. Where there is illness, grant healing. Where there is alienation, grant reconciliation. Where we have missed the mark, grant forgiveness and grace. May all your blessings, O God, that touch us in our very hearts and souls, be with us this day and all our days. Amen.

The Chaplain, Reverend James David Ford, D.D., offered the following prayer:

If the 105th Congress adjourns sine die on or before October 12, 1998, a final issue of the Congressional Record for the 105th Congress will be published on October 28, 1998, in order to permit Members to revise and extend their remarks.

All material for insertion must be signed by the Member and delivered to the respective offices of the Official Reporters of Debates (Room HT–60 or ST–41 of the Capitol), Monday through Friday, between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. through October 27. The final issue will be dated October 28, 1998, and will be delivered on Thursday, October 29.

If the 105th Congress does not adjourn until a later date in 1998, the final issue will be printed at a date to be announced.

None of the material printed in the final issue of the Congressional Record may contain subject matter, or relate to any event that occurred after the sine die date.

Senators’ statements should also be submitted electronically, either on a disk to accompany the signed statement, or by e-mail to the Official Reporters of Debates at “Records@Reporters”.

Members of the House of Representatives’ statements may also be submitted electronically on a disk to accompany the signed statement and delivered to the Official Reporter’s office in room HT–60.

Members of Congress desiring to purchase reprints of material submitted for inclusion in the Congressional Record may do so by contacting the Congressional Printing Management Division, at the Government Printing Office, on 512–0224, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. daily.

By order of the Joint Committee on Printing.

JOHN W. WARNER, Chairman.

Effective January 1, 1999, the subscription price of the Congressional Record will be $325 per year, or $165 for 6 months. Individual issues may be purchased for $2.75 per copy. The cost for the microfiche edition will remain $141 per year; single copies will remain $1.50 per issue. This price increase is necessary based upon the cost of printing and distribution.

MICHAEL F. DIMARCO, Public Printer.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule 1, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from New York (Mr. Solomon) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. Solomon led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE
A message from the Senate by Mr. Lundregan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed with amendments and a joint resolution of the House the following titles:

H.R. 624. An act to amend the Armed Services Procurement Act of 1992 to clarify certain requirements and to improve the flow of interstate commerce.

H.R. 1021. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to convey certain lands in the State of Nevada to the State of Utah for certain purposes.

H.R. 3069. An act to extend the Advisory Committee on California Indian Policy to allow the Advisory Council to advise Congress on the implementation of the proposals and recommendations of the Advisory Council.

H.R. 3830. An act to provide for the exchange of certain lands within the State of Utah.

H.R. 4337. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to provide financial assistance to the State of Maryland for a pilot program to develop measures to eradicate or control nutria and restore marshland damaged by nutria.

H.R. 4697. An act to amend the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to clarify the circumstances in which a substance is considered to be a pesticide chemical for purposes of such Act and for other purposes.

H.R. 3044. An act to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to convey certain administrative lands in certain counties in the State of Arizona to the State of Arizona for certain purposes.

S. 2087. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to convey certain works, facilities, and titles of the Gila Project, and designated lands within or adjacent to the Gila Project, to the State of Arizona for certain purposes.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will entertain 1-minute statements at the end of legislative business.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF BILL TO BE CONSIDERED UNDER SUSPENSION OF THE RULES ON TODAY
Mr. Dreier. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 575, I announce the following suspensions to be considered today:

WAIVING REQUIREMENT OF CLAUSE 4(b) OF RULE XI WITH RESPECT TO CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE ON RULES
Mr. Solomon. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 166 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 599
Resolved, That the requirement of clause 4(b) of rule XI with respect to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House is waived with respect to any resolution reported from that committee for the remainder of the second session of the One Hundred Fifth Congress providing for consideration or disposition of any of the following:

(1) A joint resolution making continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1999, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any agreement reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

(2) A bill or joint resolution that includes provisions making continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1999, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any agreement reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

Section 1 shall be in order at any time for the remainder of the second session of the One Hundred Fifth Congress for the Speaker to entertain motions to suspend the rules, provided that the object of any such motion is announced from the floor at least two hours before the motion is offered. In scheduling the consideration of legislation under the authority, the Speaker or his designee shall consult with the Minority Leader or his designee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York (Mr. Solomon) is recognized for 1 resolution making general appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1999, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any agreement reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

Mr. Solomon. Mr. Speaker, for the purposes of debate only, I yield half my time to my great friend, the gentleman from South Boston, Massachusetts (Mr. Moakley); pending which I yield myself the balance of my time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for purposes of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution is a standard management tool for the end of Congress, and similar tools have been employed under previous Republican control of the House as well as Democrat control of this institution. It will allow us to expedite our business and adjourn the second session of the One Hundred Fifth Congress so that Members can go home and at least have a couple of weeks to campaign.

This resolution waives clause 4(b) of Rule XI, which requires a two-thirds vote to consider a rule on the same day it is reported from the Committee on Rules, against certain resolutions reported from that Committee on Rules. I know that sounds confusing, but it is technical.

This resolution applies this waiver to special rules reported from the Committee on Rules for the remainder of the second session of the 105th Congress, which provide for consideration
Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. Solomon), the retiring chairman of the Committee on Rules, who is retiring only because he is not going to be here any longer, not because he is retiring in effect, for yielding me the customary half-hour.

Mr. Speaker, this is the third martial law rule we have done in the last 10 days. It is one of the longest open-ended rules. This will last until the end of the session, instead of a date certain, which is a very, very dangerous way to legislate.

Mr. Speaker, it is not as if my Republican colleagues have not had time to get things done. They have had months and months and months to pass any bills they wanted. But instead of working on legislation to help the American people, my Republican colleagues have spent time raiding the Social Security fund to pay for tax cuts.

This Republican Congress has worked fewer days and enacted fewer bills than any Congress in decades. And those are not my words, that is from the Congressional Quarterly. It says that as long as the records go back, this Congress has worked fewer days and accomplished less. That is not me talking, that is not my leader talking. That is the Congressional Quarterly.

So, say the Congress has worked fewer days, enacted fewer bills than any Congress in decades, and the Congress has come up with no budget for the first time since the budget process was created. This Congress has passed no bills to improve public education. This Congress has passed no bills to reform managed care. This Congress has passed no bills to increase the minimum wage.

So here we are, Mr. Speaker, nearly at the end of the session with practically no substance left for legislation to show for 2 years of Republican-controlled Congress.

Mr. Speaker, Americans want decent health care and they believe their insurance companies may put good profits before good health.

We have heard far too many stories of people who have suffered very serious health problems, in some cases, even death, because their health insurance company would not authorize the procedures they needed.

The American people should be protected against not getting the care their doctor ordered as long as their doctor is allowed to put every bit of medical training to use when they treat them. And they should be able to appeal decisions made by the health insurance company, and even sue their health insurance for the first time.

But my Republican colleagues just did not get around to it.

The American people also deserve to have their Social Security protected.

The most recent Republican tax plan will rob future Social Security recipients of their benefits. Mr. Speaker, these people have worked as hard as anybody else for their Social Security and they deserve to know that it will be there when they need it. But this is just one of another issue. My Republican colleagues did not get around to it.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the American schools need our attention. One out of every three schools in the United States needs extensive repairs or replacement. If American children are going to compete in today's high-tech world, we need classrooms that are outfitted with the most modern technologies and conveniences, and we need class sizes that are not impossibly huge and hard to manage. But my Republican colleagues did not get around to it.

Mr. Speaker, if my Republican colleagues were so inclined, they could have passed some bills that would have made a big difference in American people's lives. But, unfortunately, they did not. So we can give them that opportunity right now. I urge my colleagues to oppose the previous question, and if the previous question is defeated, we can bring to the floor what American people really care about; bills dealing with reforming managed care, reducing class size, and protecting Social Security.

Otherwise, we stand here, Mr. Speaker, on the day this Congress was scheduled to adjourn, passing another martial law resolution, passing number three martial law resolution, in order to allow other bills to come up to the floor without giving Democrats much of a chance to read what is in them. Since passing an endless martial law means that the Democrats will not have a real lot of time to look at these bills, and since we should be taking care of other issues, I urge my colleagues to oppose this bill and defeat the previous question.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I was not going to seek time for myself and, instead, yield to others, but I am just inspired to get up here and respond to my good friend from Boston.

The gentleman talks about this Congress not having done anything. Well, let me tell you that my colleagues and I have not done. It has not increased spending. And, hopefully, when we get through negotiating with the President, we will not have increased spending at the end of this Congress. But from all that I am getting feedback on, this President is demanding that we increase spending, and that is why we have not adjourned yet.

Let me tell my colleagues what this Congress has done, though. We have passed a balanced budget for the first time in 16 years. And that is what my constituents sent me here to do, to cut taxes and put money back into the pockets of American citizens.
Mr. Speaker, the Republican majority tried to repeal affirmative action programs for disadvantaged youth and tried to destroy bilingual education. Mr. Speaker, perhaps the Republicans’ most sinister, most cynical, perversions was the attempt to kill the Head Start program by loading it down without non-germane killer amendments like Head Start vouchers.

In the past few days, we have seen a flurry of activity on measures that have languished for the past 2 years, but the record of this do-nothing Congress in the field of education is clear. Thus far, only three education bills have become law during this Congress: job training, higher education renewal and the IDEA program.

Mr. Speaker, we demand, the American public demands, that the Republican leadership take immediate action to enact legislation to modernize our decrepit, run-down public schools and to reduce our classrooms to manageable and teachable sizes.

Mr. Speaker, we should vote this rule down. This proposal is bad for this country and we should stay here until we finish the business of government, the business of the American people. I say vote “no” on this resolution.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, how much time is remaining between the two sides here, just to see where we balance out? The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York (Mr. SOLOMON) has 2½ minutes remaining. The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MOAKLEY) has 22 minutes remaining.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield whatever time he might consume to my very good friend from Michigan. Mr. DREIER, and I am not just referring to his tie, either.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the magnanimity of my very kind friend from Glens Falls.

Mr. Speaker, this is an incredibly ironic debate that we have embarked upon. I sat there listening to the comments of my very good friend from South Boston, the gentleman from Mississippi, the gentleman from California, the gentleman from Missouri. There was the attempt to kill the Head Start program, and failed their responsibility to give leadership in the area of critical national concern. Their scheme to enact school vouchers would have diverted hundreds of millions of Federal dollars earmarked for public schools and transformed our system of public education into a private and parochial school system.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the magnanimity of my very kind friend from Glens Falls.
rule is to make sure that we can do something.

Let us look at some of the things that we have, in fact, done. I will say that as I listened again to the litany of my friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts, I was struck with the fact that the United States Congress is not an automobile manufacturing plant. One is not graded based on the number of cars that they put out or the number of bills that they pass.

We are today at a point where I think based on, and I do not believe in all of these polls because, Lord knows, they are just a little picture at one point in time, but we all look at polls, and guess what? The 105th Congress has the highest approval rating of any Congress in recent history, and so it seems to me that we may be doing some things right.

What are some of the things that we have actually done? Well, we have kept the balanced budget in 29 years, and I think that in itself is tremendous. The President of the United States on October 1, the first day of the fiscal year, was very proud to hold a ceremony in the Rose Garden and proclaim that fact that we had a $60 billion budget surplus.

That all came about not because of what was done there, not because of the largest increase that was passed under the Democratic Congress and Democratic President back in 1993, but because a Republican Congress that took over following the 1994 election got us on the road towards fiscal responsibility. We dragged him, kicking and screaming, but we are very pleased that ultimately President Clinton embraced our themes of balancing the budget and cutting taxes.

We also, as the gentleman from New York (Mr. Solomon) has mentioned, have had a tremendous tax cut for working families. What has that brought us? It has brought us a lot of working families, and what has that done? Well, we have seen an increase in the flow of revenues to the Federal Treasury. That is what has helped us balance the Federal budget.

So it has been the first time in 16 years that we have been able to bring something that the Internal Revenue Service, what do I get complaints from people who for years have talked about the fact that the Internal Revenue Service has more power than the CIA or the FBI. They have the ability to go in and close down a business and harass people. What is it that this Congress has done? We are very proud that we have been able to reform the Internal Revenue Service so that we can make sure that rather than having to prove that you are not guilty, a taxpayer is innocent until proven guilty, which seems to me part of the American ideal. I am very proud of the fact that we have been able to reform the Internal Revenue Service. We have much more to do, much further to go, but we have been able to do that.

My friend from St. Louis, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Clay), for whom I have the highest regard, has gone through a great many concerns that he has raised in the area of education, and I think that that is a part of our education record here in the Congress. The chairman, the gentleman from New York (Mr. Solomon) reminded me that we, of course, want to empower local school districts and States, and we are very pleased rather than having so many of them centered right here in Washington, but as we move in that direction there are a number of very positive things that we have been able to do.

The A+ Plus Education Savings Accounts Act, Merit Pay and Teacher Testing, Higher Education Act amendments, loan forgiveness for new teachers, Dollars to the Classroom Act, which we just recently passed, the Reading Excellence Act, the Charter Schools amendments, ban on new Federal school tests, low-income D.C. Scholarships, expanded prepaid college tuition plans, quality Head Start, creating safer schools, bilingual education reform, all of these things that are designed to increase the level of competition so that we can have young people educated, so that they will be able to compete in this global economy.

Mr. Speaker, as we consider this rule that will allow us to continue to do more good things to help struggling American families, to help us keep some kind of restraint on the spiraling growth of the Federal Government, it seems to me that passage of this rule to allow us to consider those things helps us continue in our quest to do something.

When I hear his argument about doing nothing, I have to stand here Saturday morning at 10:30 pointing the finger, but I am reminded that there have only been two Cabinet meetings that have been held this year, one in January and one just a few weeks ago, and that seems to be the record of the executive branch.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Mr. Speaker, my very dear friend from California (Mr. Dreier) mentioned that we were not a car manufacturing organization. He is exactly right, but if we were, we would probably be producing the Edsel.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Pallone).

Mr. Pallone. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule. I listened very carefully to what the previous Republican speaker said, and basically what I understood him to say was that the reason we need this rule is because we have to get out of here as quickly as possible.

Let me say that I disagree with that completely. We should not be getting out of here as quickly as possible. We should be staying and getting things done that need to be done for the American people. Then I heard the previous Speaker say, "Well, it doesn't really matter if we haven't done much, maybe we have not done much, but that's okay because the American people don't want us to do much."

Again if you want to take credit and say it is great that you have a do-nothing Congress, that is fine, but I do not think that is a great accomplishment. A do-nothing Congress is a bad thing, and I want to say very emphatically that we have to accomplish a lot of things here before we leave, because the American people demand it.

I also listened to the gentleman from New York on the other side. He started talking about all these great things that he claimed came out of the Balanced Budget Act. I would remind him that the Balanced Budget Act was passed and signed into law over a year ago. So basically for the last year and more, nothing has been accomplished here.

I would also point out that those middle-class tax credits or the things that helped the middle class that were in the Balanced Budget Act only came about because the Democrats kept insisting on it, kept insisting that the middle class be the priority in terms of what that Balanced Budget Act accomplished. For many months we had to deal here with Republican proposals that would help only the wealthy and the well-to-do in this country, but we kept insisting over and over again that the concentration had to be on the middle class and the average American.

Mr. Speaker, we need to stay here. Let us defeat this rule, let us stay here and let us get accomplished the things that need to be accomplished. Let us come up with some funding to modernize our schools, to hire the additional 100,000 teachers so we can reduce class size. Let us address HMOs and the need for HMO reform.

We went over to the other body yesterday to try to bring it up, Mr. Michaud, the Democratic leader, tried to bring it up and the Republicans basically banged the gavel and said, "No, we're not going to deal with it." We need to address these issues.
Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Brown).

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for yielding me this time, and I rise to speak in favor of Social Security reform. One of the few major initiatives that the Republican majority with its work still unfinished wants to leave town as quickly as possible to go campaign.

Mr. Speaker, we need to stay here and we need to do some work. This do-nothing Republican Congress has failed to strengthen Social Security. This do-nothing Republican Congress has failed to pass or even consider, hold hearings or even discuss the President's plan to modernize the program. This do-nothing Republican Congress has failed to reduce class size in America's schools. This do-nothing Republican Congress has failed to curtail HMO or insurance company abuses.

Mr. Speaker, to be fair, this Republican Congress has done a few things. This Republican Congress has renamed National Airport. Give them credit for that. This Congress has allowed tobacco companies to kill tobacco legislation. Give them credit for that. This Republican Congress has allowed the big insurance companies to kill serious HMO reform. Give them credit for that. But, Mr. Speaker, this Republican do-nothing Congress has failed in the issues that matter to America, to strengthen Social Security, to pass the patients' bill of rights, to work on education reforms by reducing class size and modernizing schools.

Mr. Speaker, we should stay here until we finish the people's business.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFazio).

Mr. DeFAZIO. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, the Republican majority is in a big hurry to go home and spend the piles of campaign cash that they have raked in from special interests as a reward for all the legislation they have killed in this Congress.

First they killed campaign finance reform, essential if they could rake in the money and spend it. They killed tobacco legislation. A lot of money coming there. Then they killed, outrageously, patients' rights, something that millions of Americans are demanding, are being oppressed by HMOs, they killed that. Guess what? A lot of money coming in from the insurance industry. Then a couple of environmental laws, the Clean Water Act, Endangered Species Act and others. Yes, they are in a big hurry to go home. It is a lawless work killing legislation that would benefit millions of Americans, at the behest of a few wealthy special interests, while pretending to serve the majority of people in this country. They are in such a hurry after 107 days of work. As of today the average American has worked 200 days. Congress has worked 107. They have not got their job done.

Now they want to pass legislation funding those horrid educational programs and not allow Members of Congress time to read it. They say it is so essential we get it done and we get home. Why? Why can we not have one or two extra days to read the thousands of pages of legislation they are about to try and jam down our throats? I think it is going to be because of what is in there, all sorts of special pork. We know they are going to stuff it full of pork, and what is not in there? There is not going to be funding, if they have their way, for education. They are not going to fulfill the President's program on school construction, new teachers, smaller class sizes. There is not going to be patient protection. There is not going to be a summer break. They are going to use that time to be low-income heating assistance for senior citizens.

No, that is right. They do not want us to read it. They do not want us to debate it. They want to jam it down, go home, get their money and leave.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Let me just point out something to the membership. The last three speakers we have heard from, as a matter of fact all of the Democrat speakers today, appear on the National Taxpayer Union's big spender list, the biggest spenders in the Congress. We have heard them stand up here and want to spend more, spend more, spend more, spend more. That is the difference between the Republican and the Democratic Party.

Now, they say do-nothing. What do you think? What do you think we did just in the last couple of weeks? Let me tell you what we did in the taxpayer bill. We passed a provision providing marriage tax relief for 48 million Americans.

How many Americans are there in this country? I think it is 250, 260 million. Forty-eight million of them are being penalized right now for being married. We corrected that. But President Clinton will not sign it. Six million married taxpayers who are currently penalizing deductions on their returns will no longer need to do so. What do you think? President Clinton will not even sign that. We provided 68 million more Americans tax relief by excluding from taxation a portion of interest and dividend income. Can you imagine the President will not sign that?

All of you are always pontificating and using a lot of rhetoric about senior citizens, of which I am one, and I may be here next month. We included my bill which increased the Social Security earnings limit, thereby raising the amount of money senior citizens can earn without losing Social Security benefits, something that I have been trying to do in this body for years now.

There is a limitation of $14,500 and for income above that level senior citizens have to start paying a penalty. We raise that limit to $26,500 the first year, $38,500 the second year, and then the third year every senior citizen in America on Social Security can earn up to $26,500 without paying any penalty.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GOODLING) one of the outstanding members of this body. He is going to tell you what we have done for education.

Mr. GOODLING. I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, for anybody to come down to this House and indicate that we have a do-nothing Congress when it comes to education has to have been sleeping for the last 2 years. We just have finished a couple of days ago, what a love-in about education and all the things we have done.

We have passed 21 pieces of legislation that deal with education and job training. Let me tell you about some of the most important ones, a lot of them done in a bipartisan fashion. We passed Head Start. We did not just pass the usual same old Head Start. We said we are going to have quality Head Start. We are going to make sure that every child in this country has a real opportunity to become reading ready before they get to first grade and before they get stuck into special education.

We passed a special education bill, we passed a job training bill; not Washington knows all and Washington can do everything. We said the local level knows what is important and what has to be done to train people for the 21st century.

We passed a vocational education bill, not again one that talks about the 19th century, but what it is we do if we are going to be competitive in the 21st century.

We passed a child nutrition bill.

We passed a higher education bill that gives the lowest interest rates in 17 years. It gives the highest Pell grants. It gives quality teaching. It does not matter whether there are two people in a classroom or one person in a classroom or 32 people in a classroom, if there is not a quality teacher in that classroom, it really does not matter.

What the President is arguing about now is one simple thing: We want to, from Washington, D.C., control elementary-secondary education. There is not a poll that has ever been taken that says anybody in the United States wants this Federal Government to do that, and as long as I am in charge of that committee, I will guarantee we are not going to have any legislation that allows the Federal Government to take over elementary-secondary education. But that is what it is all about.

That is what that tobacco tax was all about. They wanted not a tax to try to do something to keep children from smoking. I have been involved with children for 22 years. One does not tell a teenager, do not smoke; teenagers tell teenagers do not smoke. It is the power, the pressure, of teenagers that causes them to smoke, and it is only that same pressure that will stop them from smoking. So do not give that facade to something or other, if we can do this, we somehow or other will stop them smoking. That whole deal was, I want $20 billion so I can control elementary-secondary education in this country. That is not going to happen, Mr. President.

So he had better get used to that. It will not happen. The local government will determine what happens in elementary-secondary education, not the Federal Government.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to once again talk about the imaginary educational program of the Republican Party, this phantom program that I keep hearing from the chairman of our committee, who just stated once again that they have passed 21 bills dealing with education. And I repeat what I said yesterday. Things is, there are only three educational bills that came out of that committee that are the law of the land; one is the IDEA, another is the higher education reauthorization, and the third is the Workforce Investment Act.

Now, they did pass some bills; they are not the law. But the skill of legislators is to get legislation into law. One bill, the Help Scholarship Private School Voucher bill, that passed this House, that never got here in the House, he takes credit for that. The Dollars to the Classroom Block Grant bill passed this House, but it died in the Senate. The bill terminating bilingual education died in the Senate. The juvenile justice bill died in conference. He is listing these bills as accomplishments in the field of education.

His own bill, he will not bring to this floor. He has got a bill in education that he is blocking right now that he will not bring to the floor; the Reading Excellence Act. The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GOODLING) will not allow his own bill to be brought to the floor because there is a little provision in there about national testing, and he is so concerned about testing that he refuses to bring his own bill to this floor. That is an imaginary list of accomplishments that the Republicans keep referring to.

Three education bills have passed this Congress in this session, not 21, and I wish the gentleman from Pennsylvania would correct the record.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert in the RECORD an article titled "Significant Education Accomplishments? Not This Congress."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Missouri?

There was no objection.

SIGNIFICANT EDUCATION ACCOMPLISHMENTS—NOT THIS CONGRESS

BILLS SIGNED INTO LAW

IDEA—signed into law in June 1997
Higher Education—signed into law in October 1997 Workforce Investment Act—signed into law in September 1998

PASSED BOTH CHAMBERS

Vocational Education—passed both chambers
Head Start Reauthorization—passed both chambers
Child Nutrition Reauthorization—passed both chambers
Charter School Bill—about to pass both chambers
Child Care Resolution—passed the House—a resolution not a solution
REPUBLICAN AGENDA BILLS WHICH DIED
HELP Scholarship Private School Voucher Bill—died in the Senate Dollars to the Classroom Block Grant Bill—died in the Senate
Bill terminating Bilingual Education—died in the Senate Juvenile Justice Bill—died in conference
MYSTERY BILLS
Reading Excellence Act—Chairman Goodling won’t allow his own bill to be brought up because he is blocking national testing.
Bipartisan bills which included Democratic priorities
3 major bills signed into law
4 bills being sent to the President
Partisan bills which are a part of the Republican agenda against public schools
3 bills died in the Senate
1 died in the House
Partisan politics being played with bipartisan bills
Chairman is refusing to bring his own reading bill to the floor, despite it being passed by the Senate. Let me say, my colleagues the day I am here to speak for special interests, I make no bones about it; the children of America are not being spoken for.

I ran for this Congress because I was a superintendent at the sorry education legislation that I saw coming through, cuts in doing away with child nutrition programs, cuts in every education program that made a difference for poor children in this country.

And my colleagues can argue about all the issues they want to argue about, but I am here to tell them if a child does not have a decent classroom to go to, they understand that education is not important. And they really do not care whether the money comes from the Federal Government, whether it comes from the State government, or from local government. And they know that someone does not care. And there is a big slip between the cup and the lip.

Congress must not abandon our schools. Over the next 5 years in this... country, we will have the fastest growing population at the high school age in the history of this country, and my State will be the fifth fastest growing State. We have just passed a $1.8 billion bond issue. I was on the telephone yesterday with a superintendent. He gets 3,500 students every year. We must help them, we can help them, and we should not go home until we do.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR), the minority whip.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, good morning. How are my colleagues this morning? I am glad everybody had their extra cup of coffee this morning.

Mr. Speaker, reality is that, over the last month and a half, my friends on this side of the aisle have tried to raid the Social Security Trust Fund, taking out billions of dollars. That cannot be denied.

We are on an education debate here this morning. The reality is that the leader of their party introduced legislation to eliminate the Department of Education. Just get rid of it. Just get rid of it. That kind of sets the tone for where they have been going on educational issues.

If you look at the budget this year on child care, the President requested $260 million so our children could learn to read. Republicans have zero dollars for that program. They cut $160 million out of a proven program that has worked year after year, decade after decade, the Head Start program.

Class size, trying to get those numbers down to a reasonable level so teachers can teach and children can learn and we can have more discipline in the classroom, we cannot get the bill up. We asked for one day to discuss education on this floor. They will not give it to us.

After-school program. Everyone knows that the juvenile crime problem in this country occurs between the hours of 3:00 and 6:00. That is when we have our teen pregnancies, we have our drinking, and we have our drug abuse and all those problems that plague our young people.

An after-school program, a safe haven for students and children, a mix of inner city people, older people, young people at our schools using our libraries and gyms and our labs and our crafts rooms, a $40 million cut from the Republicans.

School modernization, they will not bring it home.

On program after program, the deals with the education of our young people in this country, we have been shut out. All we ask before we go home is that this Congress give us one day, just one day to deal with the modernization program so that kids do not have to go to schools in trailers, so that kids do not have to go to school where plaster is coming down, so that we do not send them the wrong signal that they do not matter, one day so that we can pass legislation to reduce class size, so we can get a better product. But, no, they will not do it.

Somebody suggested the other day that perhaps we do not need the head of the Department of Education. If that is true, then I will stand up and ask for the resignation of the President of the United States of America. I have traveled all across the metropolitan region. My district, as the Speaker knows, goes from Westchester through the Bronx to Queens County.

The schools are crumbling. They are crumbling all across America. Classrooms are literally crumbling. Students are learning in the hallways. But we are just sitting idly by. That is wrong.

Last year, 120 Members of Congress showed their commitment to America's schools by cosponsoring a bill, the Partnership to Rebuild America Schools. This session, we have a similar proposal which I introduced with my good colleague the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGE). I say to my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GOODLING), we are not talking about taking over the schools. We are talking about a partnership. If we can be partners in rebuilding our highways, if we can be partners in rebuilding our roads and bridges and building prisons, then it seems to me we can be partners in modernizing our schools.

We have visited schools where computers cannot be installed because they do not have the wiring necessary. One school in lower New York, there were wires hanging out of the windows, and the vandals were clipping them because the school infrastructure could not hold those computer systems, the wires. That is wrong. We are not a Third World nation.

Our program will make interest-free loans available to school districts, they are going to be in control, across the country through the tax code. Under the bill, school districts will be able to issue bonds at no interest to fund the construction or renovation of school building.

Mr. Speaker, we simply cannot ignore the poor physical conditions of our schools any longer. Nationally there is a $12 billion problem. That is what is needed in school construction. Mr. Speaker, let us modernize our schools. We have that responsibility.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, my colleague, the gentleman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY), comes from one of the nicest areas in the world, Westchester County and New York City. But do my colleagues know the State of New York, under the great leadership of Governor George Pataki, pumps millions of millions of dollars into the school system? But do my colleagues know what? They do not tell them how to spend it. They do not tell them how to do it. They do not tell them how to use categorical programs. They give it to localities in block grants. They say, you know how to educate your children; your school board knows how to develop the curriculum for those children. We want to give them the autonomy to do that. The New York State Board Association wants to abolish the Federal Department of Education because they want all that bureaucratic waste to be put into the school districts themselves, so they can spend it the way they want to.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the outstanding gentleman from Pensacola, Florida (Mr. SCARBOROUGH).

Mr. SCARBOROUGH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to comment on a few statements that have been made on the floor today.

First of all, we hear again how Republicans wanted to raid the Social Security Trust Fund. I find this to be a ridiculous and tyrannical proposal. If the President is now asking for $38 billion more than what we have budgeted, I suppose it is acceptable to raid the Social Security Trust fund of $18 billion if we want to waste it on more Washington spending. It is not acceptable if we want to give a little more money back to the American people, the money they earn.

We hear Democrats complain about education. And yet under the Demo crats watch, from 1954 to 1994, the education system in America crumbled at an alarming, unprecedented rate. Now they come to us, and they tell us that we have a do-nothing Congress because we have failed to follow their failed approach to education.

I suspect each Democratic critic of our policies opposed the Dollars To The Classroom Act, where we guaranteed 95 percent of the money targeted for education would go into the classrooms and get out of Washington, D.C. bureaucracies. Of course this is a dangerous idea for statisticians because such an approach puts more trust in parents, in teachers, in principals that educate our children in public schools, than in bureaucrats and politicians in Washington, D.C.

Finally we hear calls of a do-nothing Congress. Such complaints come from a party that is led by a President who has held only two cabinet meetings this year. The purpose of the first cabinet meeting was to create a forum for the President to lie to his cabinet. The second cabinet meeting was for the President to apologize for lying at the first meeting. Now is this really a record that this democratic Congress is proud of? Do they really wish to cast the first stone?

On tobacco, we hear how Republicans want to get home and spend the tobacco money. Give me a break. In 1996, we learned that the Democratic Party got tobacco money through the States. Then they funneled it back up to Federal candidates. All the while their candidates rallied against big tobacco.

Stop being self-righteous. This Democratic party made some little money from campaign finance schemes that funded their campaigns in 1996, they obstructed and delayed our investigation. In fact, the ranking member of the Senate investigation said obstruction of the investigation was the Republicans' problem.

Mr. Speaker, such obstruction and delay is not the Republicans' problem. It is America's problem. We will continue to fight for education reform, for dollars in the classrooms, and to insure that America doesn't go under. The Republican agenda is not subverted by foreign interests.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, how much time remains on both sides? The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Bass). The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MOAKLEY) has 7 minutes remaining, the gentleman from New York (Mr. Solomon) has 4½ minutes remaining.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the chief deputy whip, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ).

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, my colleagues on the other side protest too much. The reason they want martial law, that they want to place martial law upon the House, is because they have not done their job. They have failed the country, and in doing so, they have failed our children.

Mr. Speaker, I have heard about their education initiatives, everything is a block grant. But why do they want to do that? Because they want to take the entitlement, the legal right that our children have in this country to receive this assistance, move it and abolish that assistance, and for the taxpayers of these communities as well. Republicans side against our children and reject it.

So other than spending most of this Congress and millions of dollars on one investigation after another, what have they been doing all year that they have to declare martial law? Frankly, it is hard to tell. My Republican colleagues cannot even pass a budget. With a balanced budget and a Federal surplus, they are 10 days into the budget year and they still cannot get a budget for America. American families cannot do that. They would not be able to get that way.

Vote against this law resolution, so we can have a martial law resolution that brings America's needs onto this floor, a real martial law for the right reasons.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI).

Ms. PELOSI asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule. I think this is a Congress of missed opportunities. I urge my colleagues to vote "no."

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to a gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Wynn).

Mr. WYNN. Mr. Speaker, I first thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, it is really quite simple. The Republicans want to go home. The Democrats want to go to work.

This has been a do-nothing Congress. Mr. Speaker, the fact of the matter is, Americans want a couple of simple things. More teachers, better trained teachers. The Democrats want to do that. The Republicans want to go home.

Talk to Americans and they will tell us we need school modernization. We have overcrowded classrooms, we need classrooms that are not wired to have Internet access. We need modernization. We need technological upgrades. We would like to do that. We would like to invest in education; the Republicans want to go home.

Mr. Speaker, in the final analysis, actions speak louder than words. They want to talk about then, there, what not and what how. The fact of the matter is, they have failed. They have not delivered. We need to go to work; we do not need to go home.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the chief deputy whip, the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. Delauro).

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this martial law rule.

We have had an entire session to pass legislation which would have improved the lives of the people in this country, the majority party has ignored, in fact, the majority party has ignored that opportunity. Instead of doing the people's work, they frittered away your time and our time.

What have we spent our time doing here? What have they accomplished this year?

Let us take a look at the RECORD. We have no budget. We have not finished appropriations. We have not protected Social Security. We have not reformed HMOs to ensure that healthy patients are more important than healthy profits of the insurance companies in this country, and we have not stopped the tobacco companies from targeting and killing our children.

What do they want to place? They want to place martial law upon the children. Stop being self-righteous. This Democratic majority did what the Republicans would not do.

Mr. Speaker, first of all, let me say, I cannot think of anybody other than this Speaker of the House that I would less like to yield martial law to. The way this House has been managed, if we give him martial law authority, God knows what might could happen.

Mr. Speaker, 3 days ago, the Republican National Committee decided it would start running $150,000 worth of ads in my congressional district to try to put me on the defensive for not raiding the Social Security Trust Fund to pay for $90 billion worth of taxes for rich people. They can find $90 billion in trust fund monies to give for tax cuts, but they cannot find any money to do a reduction in class sizes for our children in this country. The candidate who would save $90 billion in Social Security Trust Fund to give tax cuts to the wealthy people, but they cannot modernize our schools.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, last night the host of "Crossfire" quoted Edward Crane, President of the Cato Institute; we know that the Cato Instition, Edward Crane was quoted as saying, "The record of the 105th Congress, Republican-controlled in both Houses, is an abomination. Spending is up, and the Tax Code is more complex than ever."

Even the Congressional Quarterly says that as long as the records go back, no Congress has worked fewer days or accomplished less.

Since the American people deserve more from their Congress, I urge my colleagues to defeat this previous question. If the previous question is defeated, Democrats will be able to bring initiatives to the floor before this Congress adjourns. An initiative to modernize schools that the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GOODLING) talked about; reduce class size by hiring 100,000 new teachers; an initiative to implement true HMO reform that protects patients and lets the doctors and nurses make the decisions; an initiative for accountants and insurance companies; an initiative that saves 100 percent of the Social Security surplus and keeps it in the trust fund.

Mr. Speaker, I urge a "no" vote on the previous question to speed up consideration of school modernization,
HMO reform, and legislation to save Social Security.

Mr. Speaker, I include the following for the Record.
The amendment to be offered if the previous question is defeated,

Amendment offered by Mr. MOAKLEY of Massachusetts:

In the resolution, on page 2, line 12, after "thereon," insert

``(3) A bill or joint resolution pursuant to section 3 of this resolution, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disad-greement from a conference report, or

At the end of the resolution add the following:

``Sec. 3. Before the consideration of any motions to suspend the rules pursuant to section 2 of this resolution, it shall be in order to consider:

``(a) A bill or joint resolution that will reduce class size in kindergarten through 3rd grade to a nationwide average of 18 students per class and will help local school districts hire an additional 100,000 well-prepared teachers, any amendment thereto, any conference report, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference report.

"(b) A bill or joint resolution that will provide local school districts with interest-free financing to modernize existing classrooms and build new school buildings, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon,
or any amendment reported in disad-greement from a conference report.

"(c) A bill or joint resolution to remove 100% of the social security surplus from the spending control of Congress, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon,
or any amendment reported in disad-
greement from a conference thereon.

"(d) A bill or joint resolution to provide for a patients' bill of rights, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon,
or any amendment reported in disad-
greement from a conference thereon.

He does not allow for inflation. He does not allow for additional students in special ed., and there are hundreds and thousands of them every year. He cut special education, the one curriculum mandate that comes from the Federal level.

Now, what have we done in order to get more teachers? First of all, the GAO says there is no shortage of teachers now. That goes in the foreseeable future. But what did we do on the higher ed. bill? We said, okay, all of the teachers that are out there that are not teaching, we will let them reduce the amount that it costs them in their loan if they will go to the local school district that needs them, the center city, rural America. That is where they need them. They are out there doing other jobs.

Mr. Speaker, we increased impact aid, 2L plus billion dollars for education in the budget this year. We took care of some of the problems after school in the nutrition bill, because we said we are going to give schools food to feed and keep those youngsters there after school so they do not get into trouble.

We upgraded technology. All of these things that I have heard about, we have done. But most of all, we increased special ed. by $500 million.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I include the following
for the Record.
Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. (Mr. SOLOMON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks, and to include extraneous material.)

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, the previous speaker quoted Cato and their philosophy. The Cato Institute wants to slash the military budget of our country in half. They want to legalize marijuana. So much for the Cato Institute.

Mr. Speaker, I submit the following to emphasize Republican accomplishments on education, dealing with illegal drugs in our schools: Illegal drug use is behind most of the violence in this country. Over 50% of all men arrested for homicide test positive for illicit drugs at the time of arrest and illegal drugs are a factor in half of all family violence, most of it directed against women and children.

Illegal drugs are also the single most serious problem facing America's educational system. It has always bewildered me how President Clinton can claim to be the education President when drug use by school age children has doubled since he was elected President.

There is an obvious connection between the increase in illegal drug use which has occurred since President Clinton first took office and the educational problems facing our nation.

Illegal drug use has doubled since this President took office and according to the most recent reports drug use is still on the rise among eighth graders.

A person who uses illegal drugs is five times more likely to drop out of school than a non-drug user. Scientific studies show that illegal drugs—including marijuana—rob students of their motivation and self-esteem, leaving them unable to concentrate and indifferent to learning.

A recent study of 11th graders in our major cities showed that over half of the heavy drug users dropped out—twice the rate of those who are drug-free.

During the Reagan/Bush years drug use dropped from 24 million users in 1979 to 11 million users in 1992. These hard fought gains were wasted by President Clinton.

There is not a parent in America who sends their children off to school without worrying that they will become exposed to illegal drugs. And it is not just teenagers anymore. Parents now need to be very concerned about 7th and 8th grade children getting involved with illegal drugs.

Toady in America one third of all high school kids smoke marijuana. Today nearly half of all high school seniors have admitted to using illegal drugs. Since President Clinton was first elected. The trends of casual drug use for high school students have increased for virtually every illegal drug, including heroin, crack, cocaine, LSD and marijuana. This rise in teenage drug use also correlates closely with rising violence in our schools.

A recent study has also shown that students with the lowest grades were four times more likely to have used marijuana in the past month than those with the highest grade point average.

Since 1992, marijuana use has jumped 150% among 12 and 13 year old students and 200% among high school students. Nearly 1.5 million more middle school and high school students use illegal drugs than when President Clinton was first elected. I repeat, you cannot claim to be a President who cares about the education of our youth and solves the drug problem in this country. And President Clinton has demonstrated by his words—or lack of words—and by his deeds that he is not serious about winning the war on drugs. And our school systems have the casualties to prove it.

The Republican vision is of a do-everything, big government, micromanaged, high taxes, big spending, deficit-creating, liberal, bureaucratic, getting into every aspect of family life Congress.

The Republicans propose a limited Federal Government that cuts taxes, balances the budget, strengthens national defense, empowers local and State governments to solve local problems, and make sure government works.

Mr. Speaker, it is clear that the American people have rejected the liberal do-everything-badly vision of government. They support a Congress that is focused on doing some things well and helping families and communities solve local problems.

We are trying to do the things done here by passing this rule. I urge my colleagues to support this rule so that we can get things done and do the work that this Congress wants to do.

Mr. Speaker, I submit the following statement from the Committee on Rules which explains the previous question vote:

The Previous Question Vote: What It Means

House Rule XVII ("Previous Question") provides that the Speaker shall have a motion for the previous question, which, being ordered by a majority of the Members voting, if a quorum is present, shall have the effect to cut off all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions on which it has been asked or ordered.

In the case of a special rule or order of business resolution reported from the House Rules Committee, providing for the consideration of a specified legislative measure, the previous question is moved following the one hour of debate allowed for under House Rules.

The vote on the previous question is simply a procedural vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution that sets the ground rules for debate and amendment on the legislation it would make in order. Therefore, the vote on the previous question has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time to the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER), vice chairman of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, the American people, at least the massive numbers who tuned into C-SPAN this morning, have been lucky enough to see the decision of the real Democratic Party. Fifteen out-of-touch liberal extremists and one pretending to be a conservative.

The Democratic vision is of a do-everything, big government, micromanaged, high taxes, big spending, deficit-creating, liberal, bureaucratic, getting into every aspect of family life Congress.

The Republicans propose a limited Federal Government that cuts taxes, balances the budget, strengthens national defense, empowers local and State governments to solve local problems, and make sure government works.

Mr. Speaker, it is clear that the American people have rejected the liberal do-everything-badly vision of government. They support a Congress that is focused on doing some things well and helping families and communities solve local problems.

We are trying to do the things done here by passing this rule. I urge my colleagues to support this rule so that we can get things done and do the work that this Congress wants to do.

Mr. Speaker, I submit the following statement from the Committee on Rules which explains the previous question vote:

The Previous Question Vote: What It Means

House Rule XVII ("Previous Question") provides that the Speaker shall have a motion for the previous question, which, being ordered by a majority of the Members voting, if a quorum is present, shall have the effect to cut off all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions on which it has been asked or ordered.

In the case of a special rule or order of business resolution reported from the House Rules Committee, providing for the consideration of a specified legislative measure, the previous question is moved following the one hour of debate allowed for under House Rules.

The vote on the previous question is simply a procedural vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution that sets the ground rules for debate and amendment on the legislation it would make in order. Therefore, the vote on the previous question has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time to the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER), vice chairman of the Committee on Rules.
have been the key to the dynamic growth of American jobs, wealth, and trade over the past 7 years. One of the pillars of that massive economic expansion has been the worldwide rules-based trading system.

The current trading system is a very simple concept. It basically means that countries sit down and negotiate fair trading rules and then they live by them. Countries agree to follow the rules.

Now, to support free and fair trade is not to ignore human nature. Everyone knows that some people try to get an edge. In the international trading system, the same is true. Some countries always try to get an edge. They will not follow the rules. And what happens? People get hurt.

Mr. Speaker, the expansion of free trade has been one of the most important global developments of the past half century. However, it became increasingly clear in the 1980s, especially here in the United States, that we needed a better system to enforce international trade rules. Countries were cheating and Americans were being hurt. The result was the arduously negotiated Uruguay Round agreement.

The Uruguay Round was enacted by a strong bipartisan vote of the 103rd Congress when Democrats were in the majority. The agreement was negotiated by two Republican Presidents, signed by a Democratic President supported by 65 percent of congressional Democrats and 68 percent of congressional Republicans. One of the core features of that bipartisan agreement was that it would permit countries to enforce trade rules.

Today's bill is very important, but not because bananas or beef exports are critical to this country, although both industries provide good jobs to working families. The bill is important because we are approaching a critical crossroads in our relation to the rules-based system we signed up with. That is the Uruguay Round and the World Trade Organization, or WTO, as we are now more often referring to it.

Since the inception of the World Trade Organization in 1995, many cases have tested the rules-based trading system.

The United States has challenged unfair trade barriers in other countries, and we have had some of our own trade policies challenged. Not surprising, we have won some cases and we have lost some cases.

When a country loses a case because they are violating the rules, that country can attempt to alter the rules to make it easier for them to win. But that's not the rule. The United States Trade Representative has not, and I do mean not, we are regrettably, and I do mean regretfully, heading down the road to a potential trade retaliation, a trade war. This bill simply says that the United States Congress, which approved the Uruguay Round, is committed to making sure that those rules are enforced.

I sincerely hope that the European Union recognizes the self-destructive folly of its unfair trading regimes. I sincerely hope that they recognize the clear and unquestionable benefits of the rules-based trading system. I sincerely hope that they comply with the WTO decisions on their banana cartel and their restrictions on beef imports.

But if they do not, we are regrettably, and I do mean regretfully, heading down the road to a potential trade retaliation, a trade war. This bill simply says that the United States Congress, which approved the Uruguay Round, is committed to making sure that those rules are enforced.

I want to urge my Republican colleagues to forget about this bill and get down to much more pressing issues that are facing this country. Pass a bill to protect the Social Security surplus instead of raiding it for tax breaks. Pass a bill to reduce class sizes and repair schools. Pass a bill to make managed care plans lift their limits on health care services and allow their doctors to make decisions based on what is best for patients, not just what is profitable for the businesses. Pass a bill to reduce class sizes and repair schools. Pass a bill to make managed care plans lift their limits on health care services and allow their doctors to make decisions based on what is best for patients, not just what is profitable for the businesses.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to oppose this bill and I urge my colleagues to oppose this bill.
in two very important industries in this country, and that is exactly what we should be doing. It is a priority, and it must be addressed now as Congress gets ready to complete its work in the coming days and weeks.

Mr. Speaker, while few people hold such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Terrace Park, Ohio (Mr. PORTMAN).

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished vice chairman of the committee for yielding me this time, and I want to support the fair rule that the Committee on Rules has come up with today.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to back up for a minute. If I could, and focus on why we are here today and why this is, I think, such a critical vote for the future of the international trading system and for our economy.

This is about whether the World Trade Organization, the WTO that was talked about previously, which is the international organization charged with resolving trade disputes between nations, will work as we have promised it will. As was recalled, it is the highly touted agreement that this Congress approved just 4 years ago, calling it, among other things, “A vital tool for eliminating the remaining trade barriers facing U.S. farmers and ranchers,” which is at stake here.

I voted for the WTO, and I sold it to my constituents on the basis it would resolve these disputes, as did most Members of this House on both sides of the aisle. A majority on both sides of the aisle stood up here and said we are finally going to get to the point, finally, where we are resolving these trade disputes and forcing our trading partners, almost all of whom are more protectionist than us, to comply with international dispute resolution panels.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, our competitors in Europe have threatened to turn this highly touted WTO agreement into a paper tiger, and in doing so they have threatened the world economy. After several years of litigation, the European Union has lost two important WTO disputes, one involving bananas, the other involving beef hormones.

When the U.S. has lost, incidentally, we have complied. When the Japanese have lost, they have complied. But the U.S. has consistently refused to abandon their then-regimes and come into compliance with these international rulings, and has engaged in a calculated and deliberate foot-dragging strategy for years.

In fact, it is even worse than that. They have proposed new regimes that are even more inconsistent with international trading rules and, thus, the WTO. Indeed, our own able U.S. Trade Representative and former World Bank economist Charlene Barshesky, has said that the EU’s proposed solution is, “Even more WTO-inconsistent than their original WTO-inconsistent regime.”

Remember, we are here because that more inconsistent regime with regard to the banana case goes into effect on January 1, with regard to beef hormones, it is in May.

With so much hazy economic news in the headlines these days, Mr. Speaker, the last thing the world economy needs is a second round of protectionism by the European Union that threatens to undermine the WTO, the only thing that stands between orderly international trade and the economic disaster of protectionism worldwide, the law of the jungle.

U.S. farmers and farm workers, who depend on international trade, are counting on us to ensure that the world marketplace has a level playing field for U.S. products and for U.S. services.

As the gentleman from California noted earlier, the WTO system can only work if there is a threat of punishment for violations, because of the sovereignty clauses.

These two first cases will set the precedent. Unfortunately, they are the first two cases in which there is no choice in that. They are going to set the precedent to determine whether the United States will have the tools and will have the willpower to be able to respond when other nations willfully exclude American products from marketplaces. That is where we are.

The legislation is very simple. It is a clear, straightforward bill, carefully crafted to be consistent with section 301 of the U.S. trade laws, and designed to work in conjunction to get the European Union to do the right thing and follow international law.

It simply requires the U.S. Trade Representative to take the very actions authorized by international agreement, if the EU does not come into full compliance with the WTO, by the authorized specified deadlines.

In fact, these are the very actions that the U.S. Trade Representative has indicated she wants to take anyway, but she can’t guarantee to this Congress.

By voting for this measure, we can send a clear message to our international competitors. We will not stand idly by while they exclude our products and violate the international trading rules they have agreed to. We will not sit on our hands while they hurt U.S. jobs, U.S. businesses, U.S. farmers. We will not jeopardize the health of the world economy and the world trading system by their attempts to undermine a multilateral trading system under the WTO.

Mr. Speaker, whether we are free traders, whether we are fair traders, whether we are self-proclaimed protectionists, we must be for enforcing international trade agreements we have signed. We have to be.

Vote yes today for American workers, American farmers and American businesses.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from California (Ms. WATERS).

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in the strongest possible opposition to this politically motivated sneak attack on the small Caribbean banana farmers on behalf of the massive Chiquita Banana Corporation and its CEO Carl Lindner.

The Republican leadership, led by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. CRANE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARCHER) in the House, are trying to move this punitive attack on the small banana farmers from the former island colonies in the Caribbean.

This bill would force punitive, harsh measures on thousands of small farmers and their families throughout the Windward Islands of the eastern Caribbean. The small island nations of the Caribbean, which depend on the banana trade for their economic survival, are at great risk if this bill passes.

Let me just tell you what the real deal is. First of all, we have to ask ourselves, why at the eleventh hour do we get this sneak attack, with all of these people who are tied to Mr. Lindner, who have threatened to move this punitive attack on the floor talking about unfair trade practices? I will tell the Members why.

Chiquita Bananas and Mr. Lindner lost $356.9 million and now they have got their representatives running to the floor to make more money. He is worth $13 billion. That is not enough.

I tell my colleagues what he is trying to do. He is trying to get rid of the competition that comes from these small Caribbean islands.

Yes, there was a relationship between the European Union and the former colonies. It was a relationship that allowed them to sell their bananas on the European Union market, because they had been colonies depending on that relationship.

Now, with them having their independence, this is what they do to earn a living. These are small family farms. I have gone down through all of these countries. Countries like Dominica depend on this banana. It is 70 percent of its economy.

We took them to the WTO. It was my friend, Mickey Kantor, who was working for Carl Lindner. Mickey Kantor was with this administration, and I do not back up from Democrats or Republicans on this one. Mr. Lindner has bought his way through this House and through this administration. Mickey Kantor took the message from Carl Lindner. We went to the WTO, even though we do not grow any bananas here. This is not about American workers.

Mr. Lindner’s farms are all down through Central and South America, with slave labor, unfair practices. These people are at risk in these farms because they are at risk from the pesticides, with no help, limbs falling off. They make less than minimum wages, but Mr. Lindner wants to keep those farms going, wants to make more money, so he comes in here and gets all of you to act on his behalf, including Mickey Kantor, and the WTO made a decision.
The WTO ruled against these small farms, but they recognized it was wrong, so now the United States and the WTO and these small-farm islands are involved in negotiations and working so that they can help these little countries diversify their economies so they will not starve to death.

The drug dealers are just waiting to pounce on these little countries because they know, without the banana, they have nothing else.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. WATERS. No, I will not yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. Speaker, I will not yield because this is a shame, and I want the press to get this scandal about to happen. I want them to know what you are doing. As a matter of fact, this is the kind of legislating the American public hates, sneak attacks for billionaires who use their power to come to the floor of this Congress and get something done in the last minute.

Get out of the WTO's business. Let them work this out in the way that they are doing. Stop being lackeys for Carl Lindner. It is outrageous that you would do this today.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my very good friend from Los Angeles to yield. The reason being that when we as a Congress in a bipartisan way tried to really throw a life raft to those struggling nations in the eastern Caribbean by passing the Caribbean-based initiative, it is my understanding that my friend from Los Angeles voted actually against that initiative.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my very good friend, the gentleman from Bakersfield, California (Mr. THOMAS), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on House Oversight.

(Mr. THOMAS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, 20 years ago, I began meeting with European parliamentarians in a joint meeting between Members of Congress and the European parliament. It was over the discussion of the Europeans' failure to open their markets to agricultural products from the United States and, frankly, from other countries around the world.

They had what they called a common agricultural policy, but it was really a social policy. They wanted to make sure they subsidized their agriculture products to keep their people down on the farm.

Over those 20 years, the European Parliament and the European Union has grown and the United States has continued to grow, but there has been virtually no movement in opening European markets. The gentlewoman from California's desire to focus the debate on bananas frankly misses the mark completely. I would have wished it would have been the raisin issue that would have been the first issue in front of WTO. We could have used that. It could have been the pasta issue. It could have been the canned peaches issue. It is in fact the beef hormone issue, along with bananas. The argument that this is being done for some nefarious reason really misses the mark of world economics.

The entire world got behind the United States when we put a trading order in the network. Agricultural products were not even part of the agreement in the old world structure. Under the WTO, the commitment was agriculture would be covered and when you won a case, you could get it resolved.

The Europeans have no intention of changing. The American public is sure they subsidized their agriculture policy, but it was really a frank declaration that this is being done for some individual for some nefarious reason.

Get out of the WTO's business. Let them work this out in the way that they are doing. Stop being lackeys for Carl Lindner. It is outrageous that you would do this today.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I was just asking my very good friend from Los Angeles to yield. The reason being that when we as a Congress in a bipartisan way tried to really throw a life raft to those struggling nations in the eastern Caribbean by passing the Caribbean-based initiative, it is my understanding that my friend from Los Angeles voted actually against that initiative.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. BONIOR).

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, this trading system that we have developed recently, is it not wonderful? Is it not just, if you will excuse the expression, peaches? Is it not just the top banana? Is it not just a great system we have now?

All you have to do is pick the paper up every morning, turn on the news every evening, to understand that it is falling apart. It is a disaster. In case my friends have not noticed, in Asia people have no money to buy the products we are trying to sell them. They have no money in Russia to do the same thing. They have no money in Brazil, they have no money in Canada, and now we are going to pick on farmers, family farmers in the Caribbean who are trying to make a living for themselves and say, "The WTO knows what's best for you."

The WTO is a secret organization that meets in secret, we cannot find out when they meet. We just went through a week in this town where the leaders of the economic community in the world came here from the IMF and the World Bank in their limousines and their stretch limousines to try to get this mess in order.

But they will not get it in order because they miss the central point, and the central point is, when people do not have the money or the wherewithal to buy the product, the system will break down and will fail. And that is what is happening in Asia, it is what is happening in Russia, it is what is happening in Latin America, and we are right behind them.

So the question is on this bill not just a few farmers in the Caribbean, and God knows we ought to be looking out for them, because when we look into their interest, we look for the interests of our own workers and our own farmers. It is really a broader debate here. It is about if we are going to continue with a system of unfettered markets.

They are the people who worship at the altar of unfettered markets. But unfettered markets means that people like Mr. Lindner and the big corporate multinationals will dictate policy in every aspect of this world economy, to the detriment of working men and women and working men and women farmers. That is what this is about. That is what this bill is all about.

We say, well, why are you here on the floor talking about these poor farmers in the Caribbean? Because it is the whole idea of national interests. It is national interests under this same type of discrimination.

We used to sell tomatoes in Florida. That whole crop is disappearing because of WTO, NAFTA-related ideas.

What do you mean by that? I will tell you what I mean by that. I mean you send the tomatoes from Mexico into the United States. Those tomatoes are picked by kids who are 10 and 11 years of age, who do not go to school. They are sprayed by pesticides that are ille- gal here and are dangerous here. We have determined that.

Because of those standards on labor and environmental standards, they have put our farmers out of business in the tomato industry in Florida and on the Eastern Shore in Maryland. If you talk to the farmers in the Central Valley in California, they will tell you that because of these policies that we have, their products being shipped into Mexico are down between 50 and 85 percent of what they used to do.

That is what this bill is all about. When are we going to wake up? When are we going to start protecting the people who need the money to buy the products? Because without any money, the system collapses, and we are watching it collapse today.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Apparently my good friend has missed the past 7 years of dynamic economic growth which has taken place because of exports and imports to this country which have dramatically improved our standard of living. They are going down this road towards very, very intense class warfare once again. But let us look at the class warfare that they have embarked upon.

They are trying to penalize the people of Central America, in countries like Honduras where the per capita buying power is $2,000, or Guatemala where the per capita buying power is $3,460, actually against those who are in very, very sad shape in Jamaica, their per capita buying power is $3,260, and in Belize it is $2,960. So the fact of the matter is the people of Central America, who support us in this decision, believe that we are doing the right thing, are supportive of the WTO, they are being hurt and they are worse off than the ones we are supposedly helping.

All we are saying is that we need to have at least a modicum of fairness. I think that as we have heard now from the distinguished minority whip, it is important to look at the words of the minority leader, the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. GEPHARDT), who just this week in a letter said, “We have no reason to believe that the EU will comply with the WTO rulings on the banana case before the December 31, 1998 deadline set by the WTO. Failure to do so by the EU would set a terrible precedent for the WTO’s ability to open global markets, particularly in the agriculture sectors.”

We are talking about beef, we are talking about bananas in this case, but it comes to a point. I look at my friend from South Boston. I remember when he had a big opening of a Gillette plant. Back before we enacted the gift ban, he even sent a razor around to a few of us. Tell me, what is going to happen when the goal of exporting razors, when they are impacted negatively?

These are two instances that are very, very key and important, and they are the ones that are going to address effectively because someone who is a rancher and understands the needs of ranchers, the gentleman who serves on the Committee on Ways and Means who is from Stillwater, OK (Mr. WATKINS).

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. WATKINS).

(Mr. WATKINS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. Speaker, this is quite an interesting debate. I was seated on this side of the aisle for 14 years. I made a lot of friends on the Democratic side. I am now on the majority side, the Republican side.

I have been interested in this debate. It is part of the things that affect me as I try to serve my constituency, because I serve a great deal of cattle people, and this debate seems like it doesn’t even appear on this side of the aisle to be concerned about the United States. They are going through the lowest prices they have seen in years, the droughts. It seems like there is no concern about that.

I think the men and women on our side of the aisle have a concern. We cannot ignore the fact that we are in a global, competitive economy. I do not think anyone out there will deny that fact. We are not going to go back to an isolated country. Let me say if we are going to be a leader in the world, in the world economy, and I want to. I want our children to be a leader, not a follower, the free enterprise system, and be that leader out there in the economy, because we owe it to our children and we owe it to our grandchildren not to shirk our duty, but let us go out and lead.

I come to the floor to express my strong support for H.R. 4761 because today we have a blatant abuse and we have a sham, and yes, the sneak attacks we have heard, but it is being conducted by the European Union. Those are where we have got problems. Let me share with my colleagues why. Since 1989, the European Union has imposed a ban on beef treated with growth-producing hormones. Since 98 percent of all of our beef produced in the United States uses growth hormones, even though all of our scientists say we have got the grittiest quality beef in the world, even the European Union says we have the greatest quality of beef, we cannot sell our beef to the European Union because they have blocked us with that little clause.

Now both the WTO, the dispute settlement panel and the payment bodies have ruled that the EU is in violation of WTO law. They have ordered the EU to drop its ban by May 1999 through the appeal process, but now they are changing courses. They are going to just change and say we are not going to buy it for that, we will do so ourselves. If we do not put some teeth in the WTO, then we are just flaunting the situation and we are not carrying out and providing the needs of our American farmers and ranchers and working people. We have got to make sure we have got the quality beef.

Many of my colleagues may ask why this matter should be of concern to them. In a parochial sense, yes, it is important to many of us because the toll demand has taken on our cattlemen and ranchers is causing them to go bankrupt.

In a larger sense though the beef case is important because it will test whether or not the WTO framework can endure.

The United States helped create the WTO because it offered the first real opportunity to force other Nations to drop their unfair restrictions and open their markets to U.S. products. The key difference between the new WTO and the old GATT framework is that under the WTO parties in disputes agree that the WTO findings will be binding. If the EU refuses to abide by WTO’s ruling and fails to change its misguided policies, it will forever undermine the legitimacy of WTO. It will fail. If the EU refuses to comply, why should any other Nation be forced, why should the United States be forced to alter its policies and abide by WTO rulings?

We are talking about a major significant policy that is going to affect the future of this country, our economic position in the world and the future for our children and our grandchildren. I ask for my colleagues’ support for H.R. 4761.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. TRAFICANT).

(Mr. TRAFICANT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote no on this rule out of protest, protest of America’s trade policies.

It started in 1909 when we moved off of a sophisticated cereal process of continuously reducing protectionary tariffs, and it sounded so progressive.

Let my colleagues label me what they want, Mr. Speaker. We replace tariffs in America with the income tax, my colleagues, the 16th amendment, and if we want to debate tariffs, let us debate the income tax which has, in my opinion, destroyed the potential of economic gain on a perpetual basis.

The top Republican in our history, Theodore Roosevelt, once said: We must always equal, equal, the advantages of foreign industry versus American industry.

We have not done that. Now we have a World Trade Organization. I voted against NAFTA, GATT and the WTO. The WTO is another international organization we have to go to to remedy our problems. Beam me up.

Check out Venezuelan oil disputes. They voted with Venezuela, just like the United Nations. How much more money do we give them? They vote against Uncle Sam almost every time.

We may be talking about bananas today and beef hormone; what about steel? They are dumping steel in America at record levels, and Congress cannot act. We have to wait for someone in the steel industry to spend their money to take a shot with the WTO. Where is the problem?

Why manufacture in America, my colleagues? With this trade policy?

Here is exactly the way it is. America:

If someone manufactures in America, they have got IRS and Social Security, Workman’s Comp and Unemployment Comp, OSHA, EPA, banking regulations, security regulation, pension law, health insurance, local tax, State tax, local law. State law and a $20-an-hour manufacturing cost. If someone moves to Mexico, there is no IRS, no Social Security, no OSHA, no EPA, no pensions, no health insurance, no minimum wage, and they hire people at 50 cents an hour.

Mr. Speaker, if my colleagues do not think it is happening, they now have a $16 billion surplus. When we passed NAFTA, we had a $2 billion surplus.

We are screwed up here.

Now I want to talk about steel because we are about to give $18 billion to an International Monetary Fund that will bail out Brazil, that is dumping steel in the United States of America, and the rational is: give Brazil money so they could buy our products. How dumb are we?

We do not have to be protectionists, but, by God, we need a reciprocal trade agreement. When a country is screwing us, we should not have to go to some international group and ask them to help us. That is our job here.

I am voting no on the rule out of stone-cold protest to an economic policy that is going to drag us down an inexorable path to another depression.

Now, no one has said this on the floor, and they could call me what they want, but I am going to make this prediction: If we do not deal with illegal trade, if we do not deal with reciprocal trade agreements that are fair to give Uncle Sam a fighting chance in this global economy, my colleagues, we are down an inexorable path for failure and bankruptcy as a Nation. We are sub- siding the world, and the world is denys- ing us.

Mr. Speaker, I do not deme the ef- forts of my friend from Ohio. He has done a great job here, and bananas and beef hormones, I am sure, need attention. When we examine them, we do not build skyscrapers, we do not build industry with just bananas. Steel is a big part of it, too. Steel is a big part of it, too.

Later today there will be a move to try and help our steel industry. I am going to ask for my colleague's sup- port: And with that I will vote no on the rule out of protest.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mr. MOAKLEY. I yield to the gentle- woman from Texas.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentle- woman from California.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield a copy of the bill to my friend. We had it in the Committee on Rules last night.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I know I have seen it, but I said it is not at the desk for other people who want to know what the bill is all about.

Mr. DREIER. There it is right there.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California very much.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACK- son-Lee).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was granted permission to extend her remarks.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Frankly, Mr. Speaker, I do believe that this day should go down in congressional history as a congressional sneak at- tack day.

First, we have the marshal law, and that is a sneak attack against America. That is a law which will allow Speaker NEWT GINGRICH to make the laws for America, thereby denying a school modernization bill, denying the protection and reservation of Social Security, and denying the Patients' Bill of Rights.

We have a sneak attack against some of our very best neighbors, some of the individuals and nations that we are trying to do trade with, who buy our consumer goods, who create job opportuni- ties in America, our Caribbean na- tions, and our Caribbean neighbors.

Mr. Speaker, I voted for the CBI. I voted for the African Growth and Op- portunity Act. I did not vote for the fast track when it was politicized and it was determined that Americans would lose jobs. But I did vote for us to be friendly to our Caribbean neighbors because they represent an economic market for us.

We have a bill that was not even on the Floor, that Members have not even read, that frankly is a sneak attack against our Caribbean neighbors like Jamaica and countries where they are struggling to maintain an economy, where their economy is dependent upon bananas, you, with de- pressed salaries and compensation, but all that they have, where they are try- ing to bolster up their economy, where they have a trading relationship with the European nations. And now Amer- ica in a sneak attack wants to break those relationships so, therefore, we will not have the kind of economic sta- bility in our Caribbean nations.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I do not have the time to yield. I appreciate the gentleman's in- terest in this matter.

Mr. Speaker, what a disgrace. It frankly is a disgrace that we come to the floor of the House and violate the sacred relationships with those who are on our border who are seeking, Mr. Speaker, to maintain their economic base.

This is a sneak attack against our trade representatives because there are many of us who believe that they need to do a better job in working with the relationship that the Caribbean na- tions have with the European countries which give them their economic base. If we want to break that relationship, Mr. Speaker, then what is America doing to help bolster up the economy of the Caribbean nations?

We are already at a fragile inter- national monetary crisis. The Asian nations are struggling. Do we now want to have those on our very border trem- bleing and then collapse? Is this what we want to do with this sneak attack trade bill, break the very economic backs of these countries whose only sole income is the marketing and pro- ducing of bananas?

Are we so small, Mr. Speaker, this giant of a nation, that we cannot share the international economy so that small countries, barely surviving, can provide some kind of safety net for their own citizens?

This is a great day in America's his- tory. The big and ominous America crushing down on small countries, breaking their economic system, throwing people who are making pen- nies out into the streets because we are jealous, if you will, of the relationship they have with the Europeans.

I would be willing to find some solu- tion to this problem, Mr. Speaker, if we could sit around the trade table fairly with the Caribbean nations, with America, with our European friends, maybe with the banana folk that we are trying to build up over here. I do not think that our economy is on the collapse. They are doing quite well. I like bananas.

Frankly, Mr. Speaker, we need to get out of the business of a sneak attack and crashing down on our neighbors. I think we need to defeat this rule and defeat this agreement.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I was asking my friend the gentlewoman from Houston, Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) to yield just to make a couple of quick points. First of all, I would say that the countries of Central America, where the per capita buying power is in the $3,000 range, it is in the countries to which the gentle- woman is referring, are simply working for fairness.

The people of Honduras, with a $2,000 per capita buying power, versus those in Belgium and Japan who have roughly $3,000 per capita buying power, are the ones we are talking about who are seeking fairness. They support us in this effort.

We have been, for 7 years, trying to re- solve this, and we have finally got to the point where action needs to be taken before the Congress adjourns.

Mr. Speaker, I am happy to yield 2 minutes to my very good friend, the gentleman from West Chester, Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER).

Mr. BOEHNER. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for yielding me this time. Again, I was asking my friend today that the Members are not really at all interested in moving for- ward on this bill. Whether we are from a protectionist background or whether we believe in free and fair and open trade, everyone ought to be for this bill because what this bill says, very simply, is we are going to force the other countries in the world to live by an agreement that we all signed. The Congress of the United States signed onto the World Trade Organiza- tion. What we are saying today is we want the rest of the world to live up to the agreements that they signed onto with us.

We can talk about bananas. This fight has been going on for a long time. It is an issue that will probably con- tinue. But the World Trade Organiza- tion needs to make a decision and needs to follow through on it.

I have found it interesting that Members that have come down here to support the interests of Carib- bean farmers, small family farmers, us not forget the other issue in this bill. The other issue here is for cattle producers in America who over the last several years have dealt with the lowest prices they have had. Why do they have low prices? Because we exported our beef to some countries and some nations and areas of the world, including the European Union. The European Union has oversubsidized their farmers for years and flooded the markets and depressed prices for our farmers. We have heard from gentlewoman from Oklahoma (Ms. Watkins), and I am sure we will hear from several of our other colleagues about what the European Union is doing in terms of blocking our ability to export beef grown by U.S. farmers, U.S. family farmers, to the European Union. What this bill does today is force the WTO to do what they should be doing, and that is to enforce GATT and to enforce an agreement that we all agreed to. This is about keeping your word to the WTO to do what they should be doing, and we want to keep our word to U.S. farmers, U.S. family farmers, to the European Union. This is about keeping your word. We are taking action that we all agreed to. The United States has agreed to, 15 months must transpire so the Europeans can become compliant, and that date is January 15. He knows as well as I do that the facts we are taking this monumental, unprecedented action for bananas. Not one job will be created by this. I have to believe that, again, just as we took a vote 2 weeks ago on fast track, which we all knew was going to be defeated, this Congress has destroyed trade policy. I hope every lobbyist that watches this debate understands what is happening with the Republican rule of trade policy.

I want to bring a little light on this. First of all, this bill never went through the Subcommittee on Trade of the Committee on Ways and Means that had jurisdiction over this issue, and it had not come through the Committee on Ways and Means. This bill was introduced on the 9th of this month, and it was brought to the floor so quickly. We wonder why this was all happening, particularly in view of the fact the USTR, the U.S. Government cannot even act at this time. It has not even been 15 months since the WTO had made its ruling. Under the WTO ruling, which the United States has agreed to, 15 months must transpire so the Europeans can become in compliance, and that date is January 15. If we were talking about this on the 9th of January, I would say that is very timely. We should be making these statements and taking these actions. But the fact of the matter is we are bringing it up in the waning days of the session.

The administration has told Members informally they are going to take action, but they cannot take formal action yet because it is not January 2, 1999. Why are we doing this? We have never been against the WTO, the House of Representatives, never in the history of this institution. Why is this Congress doing this? We did not do it on semiconductors in the early 1980s against the Japanese. We did not do it for the movie industry. We have not done it for pharmaceuticals. We have not done it for aircraft. We have not done it for steel. We have not done it for autos and auto parts. But we are going to do it for bananas. We are going to do it for bananas. Do my colleagues know what I have checked. The only place in the 50 States where they produce bananas is in Hawaii. We have no Hawaii. We have no even going to create jobs by taking this action. Hawaii only produces a very small number. They do not even export out of their State. So all of a sudden we are taking this monumental, unprecedented action for bananas. Not one job will be created by this.

I have to believe that again, just as we took a vote 2 weeks ago on fast track, which we all knew was going to be defeated, this Congress has destroyed trade policy. I hope every lobbyist that watches this debate understands what is happening with the Republican rule of trade policy. Again, the United States is going to be regretted by this body. Hawaii only produces a very small number. We only represent a small part of the trading world, we only represent a small part of the consumers of the world; and this decision and decisions like it are going to be regretted by this body.

Mr. Dreier. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume to say that this action does not go into effect for 15 months, and I think it is very important to note, I would say to my friend, that this is the first, these are the first two items under the WTO structure. Bananas and beef are the first issues that the United States is going to be isolated on a little island. We only represent a small part of the trading world, we only represent a small part of the consumers of the world; and this decision and decisions like it are going to be regretted by this body.

Mr. Dreier. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume very briefly to say that this action does not go into effect for 15 months, and I think it is very important to note, I would say to my friend, that this is the first, these are the first two items under the WTO structure. Bananas and beef are the first issues that have been addressed by the WTO. The other issues that have been raised were long before the World Trade Organization even existed.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Moakley. Mr. Speaker, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from California (Mr. Matsui). Mr. Matsui. Mr. Speaker, just responding to my good friend from California, I have testified before, why not allow the administration to take its action. The administration will take action; the gentleman knows it, I know it. But what we want to do is do a little political game here. That is why we are doing that.

Mr. Dreier. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume to say to my friend that we asked the administration to do a letter and they flat out refused in response to our request.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to my friend, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Portman). actions prematurely we are, in fact, limiting the leverage of the administration and limiting the leverage of USTR, and that is clearly not in our interests.

Mr. Speaker, I think that this legislation will fail—adviser. And then we need to have USTR be able to run their course, taking actions which are consistent with the Uruguay Round and the WTO; and if we do so, I think we are going to be much better served.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to reserve the balance of my time so that we can hear another member of the minority talk about not protecting the rights of American workers.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, how much time remains on each side?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MOAKLEY) controls 4½ minutes; the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER) controls 4 minutes.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFazio).

Mr. DeFazio. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

The last statement was extraordinary. It is the Republican perception when they talk about American workers, they are talking about the CEO of a multinational company. That, to them, is the embodiment of the average American worker. When they talk about protecting American workers, they are talking also about the CEO of a giant agribusiness pharmaceutical company which produces bovine growth hormones.

They think it is great that the American people have to eat meat laced with bovine growth hormone and they will not even allow labeling of that so an American can know whether it is in the milk or in the meat, because there is a very wealthy guy running that company and they give lots of money to the Republican Party.

So we cannot even have labeling in this country, and now, what are we going to do? We are going to force the Europeans who have wisely said, we are not quite sure whether this stuff is safe, and we are not quite sure that we want our babies and our children to be ingesting beef and milk from cattle which have been laced with this experimental drug.

Now they have passed a law to say that. We are saying, no, you cannot have those kinds of laws. Where did we go to get their law overturned? The same place where they are going to get our consumer protection laws overturned; the WTO, a secret tribunal which meets in secret, gives decisions in secret, produces no case, no law, no documents. They just make rulings, no conflict of interest rules at all.

Now is this the American way? When I asked the past American Trade Representative, how can we bind ourselves to that kind of process? He said, well, you have got to understand, these other countries in this organization, they do not believe in our system of jusprudence, they do not believe in open courts, they do not believe in open arguments, any of that.

So, now we have set up a system where the multinationals are always going to win, and sometimes it will be U.S.-based multinational: Chiquita, Monsanto, any other times they will be European-based multinationals. But the losers will always be the consumers and the workers.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume to say to my friend, who thought it was sort of an extraordinary statement that I made, when I talked about protecting U.S. jobs and they do not have an interest in doing it, I was talking about jobs in marketing, in shipping, in accounting, and all of the other areas that are impacted by the banana industry; and as we talked about some of these other areas in ranching, look at all the people who work there.

Mr. Speaker. I yield 2½ minutes to my very good friend from Delmar, California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, it is every individual's right whether to support trade or not to support trade. I personally feel that during GATT, during NAFTA, during fast track, I think each and every one of us had pluses and minuses in those agreements. Why? I think our worst fear is not for the trade itself, but because under either a Republican or Democratic White House, I think you have to eat pabulum to be a member of the State Department. Because when it comes to the protection of our rights as Americans and our workers as Americans, we back off every time.

Let me give my colleagues a classic example. In China over 200 years ago, when we first had ships going into the China ports, there was a sailing ship, they tossed a bucket with a line over and it actually killed a Chinese worker. It killed the young lady. Well, the Chinese stormed the ship, and the Americans repelled boarders, and they would not let the sailor, would not give him up.

Well, then they said that if we did not turn over this worker, then they would cut all trade off from the United States. Well, what happened? With that, the United States gave in. They took the sailor and they executed him. So it seems, every time: And examples with avocados in NAFTA: We begged the administration not to let Mexico import avocados, for the farmers.

But yet the White House insisted that they did, against all of the Members from the States that raised avocados. And right now, California's crops are at risk.

And I do not berate my friends on the other side for being concerned. We need to focus on implementing these trade agreements in the White House under Republicans as well. But in this case, just like in the fast track, the words that I listened to from our farmers and our ranchers and many of my colleagues who represent agriculture districts is that this was the most important vote of the decade for our farmers and our ranchers. For one reason or not, some chose not to vote or to vote for it.

But I think in agreements like this, we need to focus on what is good for our American workers, and then focus on trade. The White House and the Department to carry those through. That is my concern for any trade agreement, not that the Republicans are doing this and the Democrats are doing that.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to read the last statement of the administration policy on this bill: "H.R. 4761 will undermine our ability to achieve a meaningful solution for U.S. interests and weaken our hand in these trade disputes."

Mr. Speaker. I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. STENHOLM).

Mr. STENHOLM. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MOAKLEY) for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to begin by recognizing the hard work and the persistence of our Trade Representative and the Department of Agriculture in pursuing the European compliance with WTO decisions on both beef hormones and bananas. Ambassadors Barshevsky and Scher, Secretary Glickman, and his team, and Paul Drzek, who has just left the Department and will be sorely missed, have tirelessly raised the beef hormone and banana issues at every opportunity and every level of the European Parliament.

Unfortunately, there is no way to make Europe play by the rules. Even this effort today will not force the Europeans to do anything to remove the barriers to free and fair trade, but it will provide them with a strong incentive to adhere to agreed-upon rules.

Listening to the debate today, I think we can see the difficulties that we have. There are those among us who honestly differ regarding what we should and should not do. I speak today not about bananas; I would just say this on bananas; I agree that we should encourage the Europeans to meet their obligation to provide aid to their former colonies. That aid, however, should not come at the expense of U.S. and Latin American trade interests.

Mr. Speaker, I speak today on behalf of beef. When we say that no one has been hurt in this country, they have been lying. Tens of millions of dollars have been lost in income to cattle producers all over this country; have been lost because of the refusal of the European Union to adhere to the rules that all of us believe in. And trade agreements should adhere to. That is the problem. By expediting the established process for retaliation against unfair trade practices, this bill will provide the European Union with an advance list of which of their products will lose favor- able tariffs. This list will likely be of great interest to Europeans whose jobs depend on exports of the products listed, just such a case. We can consider money and bananas are of interest to American ranchers and the thousands of Americans whose jobs depend on fair trade in bananas and beef.

I would like to express my thanks to the gentleman from Texas (Chairman Archer) for including consultation for trade in bananas and in beef.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

First, I would like to say that I believe that support of this rule is the right thing for us to do. Why? Because an overwhelming majority of Democrats and Republicans a few Congresses ago voted to establish a rules-based trading system. We did so in the pursuit of reduced tariff barriers so that we could improve opportunities for our manufacturers and producers to export, and also to improve the quality of life, equally important, here in the United States by allowing imports to come in.

Free trade is, in fact, the wave of the future and it is something that we need to recognize. Under this rules-based trading system, we have unfortunately run into a problem. Seven years ago, 7 years ago, this case was filed on bananas. We also have seen, following, the hormone case in beef. We are trying to resolve that. We have tried to get a letter, and I hope very much that we will still be able to get a strong letter from the administration raising concerns with the European Union about this.

But, Mr. Speaker, it is important to note that this is potentially just the beginning of many other trials in this country that could be detrimentally impacted by those kinds of negative actions by others of our trading partners who are not playing fairly. Mr. Speaker, we have got to do the fair thing. The American workers, it strongly urge my colleagues to support this rule.

Mr. KOLBE. Mr. Speaker, today marks a historic moment in U.S. economic history. Over fifty years ago, this nation embraced a multilateral, rule-based approach to our international trade policy with the creation of the GATT. Our acceptance of the role of multilateral institutions in international trade did not occur in a vacuum. It arose out of the ashes of the great depression and World War II. For two decades we witnessed the human damage which unilateral protectionism, nationalism and economic stagnation could bring, and we vowed never to let it happen again.

During the Uruguay round conference in 1948 the United States helped establish the framework for the creation of GATT. The objectives of the GATT system were simple: to promote trade liberalization and to guarantee stable conditions for market access on a non-discriminatory basis by creating a set of transparent, non-discrimination and settlement procedures. World leaders of that time believed—as I do today—that increased economic integration through trade would strengthen world stability and provide a bulwark of democracy in the emerging Cold War.

And the system, although far from perfect, worked. Nations opened their markets and began to view other nations as trading partners, rather than antagonists. The results have been dramatic. For the past fifty years the world has experienced a degree of economic growth and stability which was unimaginable to our forefathers. In my view, this stability and prosperity are in no small part due to the growth of international commerce among nations.

Since the adoption of the GATT we have been working to perfect the multilateral trading system. A great leap forward was taken when this Congress adopted the Uruguay Round Agreements Act in 1995. With the adoption of this act, the GATT and its successor organization the World Trade Organiza- tion have moved from its inception as a forum for discussing tariff reductions for trade in goods to cover such diverse and important areas as intellectual property, services and agriculture. Most important, the GATT moved away from a slow and ineffective dispute resolution forum to one based on clear, objective criteria, en- forced through a multilateral system of debate, consultation, negotiation, adjudication and consensus.

Clearly one of the most important benefits of the WTO is the enhanced dispute settlement procedures in our trading system. U.S. exporters with legitimate grievances against foreign trade barriers had to wait years before cases were resolved. The system was excruciatingly slow and—in the end—largely ineffective. In contrast, the new dispute settlement procedures provide U.S. exporters with a relatively quick and effective system for resolving trade grievances. And it has worked largely to our advantage. The United States won far more cases than any other nation and the WTO has become an effective tool in our trade arsenal to open foreign markets and level the playing field for U.S. exports.

This brings us to where we are today. We have a rule based system that works to our advantage and a dispute settlement process that enables us to bring multilateral legitimacy to our international trade complaints. Today, when we win a case in the WTO, our position is clearly strengthened vis-a-vis our trading partners. But we must have compliance.

The United States won two significant cases against the European Union. The first ruling determined that the EU banana import licenses and quota scheme was designed to favor European importers over U.S. suppliers. The second determined that the EU ban against U.S. beef was not based upon sound science but served as a non-tariff trade barrier to U.S. beef imports. But, rather than comply with these rulings and open their markets to U.S. products the EU is seeking to take advantage of a loophole in the system, a loophole which, if allowed to be exploited, will result in the destruction of the WTO as we know it.

When the WTO makes a ruling, we expect compliance within a reasonable period. If not, we will take actions consistent with the WTO to enforce our rights.

That is what this historic legislation does. It sets out a clear framework for compliance, a framework which is completely consistent with our international commitments under the WTO. I am proud to be a cosponsor of this bill and I urge my colleagues to show their support for American exporters and to protect our rights under the WTO. I urge my colleagues to vote yes on the rule for H.R. 4761.

Ms. CHRISTIAN-GREEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong opposition to H. Res. 588 the attached rule which would allow the House to vote to H.R. 4761, a very punitive bill which would destroy small Caribbean family farmers and their banana industry.

Why are my colleagues on the Majority side of this aisle so anxious to destroy the livelihood of these vulnerable Caribbean farmers? This last minute sneak attack against our Caribbean friends and in favor of the Chiquita Banana Corporation must not be allowed to stand.

We must not let our tiny neighbors in the Caribbean be the victims of our fight with the European Union and the WTO. I urge my colleagues to reject this last minute "cover of darkness trick". Say no to this unconscionable action and support our friends in the Caribbean. Vote against the rule and H.R. 4761.

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues, the gentlelady from California, in voicing my adamant opposition to this bill.

Last year, the World Trade Organization (WTO) issued an interim ruling against the European Union's (EU) banana program for the Caribbean. This ruling was in response to a U.S. claim of trade protections, on behalf of the Chiquita Banana Company, who wants to sell to European countries. The WTO ruling, if implemented, would destabilize the economic and social infrastructure of Caribbean countries. Yet, the ruling is particularly problematic given the fact that we have been unable to enact a Caribbean trade bill to assist this region with economic development.

This situation would be particularly harmful to eastern Caribbean countries, like Dominica, where banana exports account for 70 percent of the income and employment. We should not underestimate the impact this action will have on the enhancement of drug trafficking as an economic replacement for the banana industry.

The WTO has demonstrated neither understanding of, nor concern for the problems of these small developing countries. I have repeatedly called on the Administration to ensure that the thousands of small Caribbean
VETERANS' BENEFITS ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 1998

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H.Res. 592) providing for the concurrence by the House with amendments in the Senate amendment to H.R. 4330. The Clerk read as follows:

H. RES. 592

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution the House shall be considered to have taken from the Speaker's table the bill H.R. 4330, with the amendment of the Senate thereto, and to have concurred in the amendment of the Senate with the following amendments:

1. Amend the title so as to read: "An Act to amend title 38, United States Code, to improve benefits and services provided to Persian Gulf War veterans, to provide a cost-of-living adjustment in rates of compensation paid to veterans with service-connected disabilities, to enhance programs providing health care, compensation, education, insurance, and other benefits for veterans, and for other purposes.

2. In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the amendment of the Senate, insert the following:

(C) the increased risk of the illness among human or animal populations exposed to the agent, hazard, or medicine or vaccine identified under subparagraph (A) of that paragraph and the manifestation of such illness.

(D) the following scientific determinations concerning illnesses:

(1) For each illness identified under subparagraph (B) or (C) of subsection (c)(1), the National Academy of Sciences shall determine (to the extent available scientific evidence permits) whether there is scientific evidence of an association of that illness with Gulf War service or exposure during Gulf War service to one or more agents, hazards, or medicines and vaccines.

in making those determinations, the Academy shall consider:

(A) the strength of scientific evidence, the replicability of results, the statistical significance of results, and the appropriateness of the scientific methods used to detect the association;

(B) in any case where there is evidence of an apparent association, whether there is reasonable confidence that that apparent association is not due to chance, bias, or confounding;

(C) the increased risk of the illness among human or animal populations exposed to the agent, hazard, or medicine or vaccine identified under subparagraph (A) of that paragraph and the manifestation of such illness.

(D) the following scientific determinations concerning illnesses:

(1) For each illness identified under subparagraph (B) or (C) of subsection (c)(1), the National Academy of Sciences shall determine (to the extent available scientific evidence permits) whether there is scientific evidence of an association of that illness with Gulf War service or exposure during Gulf War service to one or more agents, hazards, or medicines and vaccines.

in making those determinations, the Academy shall consider:

(A) the strength of scientific evidence, the replicability of results, the statistical significance of results, and the appropriateness of the scientific methods used to detect the association;

(B) in any case where there is evidence of an apparent association, whether there is reasonable confidence that that apparent association is not due to chance, bias, or confounding;

(C) the increased risk of the illness among human or animal populations exposed to the agent, hazard, or medicine or vaccine identified under subparagraph (A) of that paragraph and the manifestation of such illness.

(D) the following scientific determinations concerning illnesses:

(1) For each illness identified under subparagraph (B) or (C) of subsection (c)(1), the National Academy of Sciences shall determine (to the extent available scientific evidence permits) whether there is scientific evidence of an association of that illness with Gulf War service or exposure during Gulf War service to one or more agents, hazards, or medicines and vaccines.

in making those determinations, the Academy shall consider:

(A) the strength of scientific evidence, the replicability of results, the statistical significance of results, and the appropriateness of the scientific methods used to detect the association;

(B) in any case where there is evidence of an apparent association, whether there is reasonable confidence that that apparent association is not due to chance, bias, or confounding;

(C) the increased risk of the illness among human or animal populations exposed to the agent, hazard, or medicine or vaccine identified under subparagraph (A) of that paragraph and the manifestation of such illness.

(D) the following scientific determinations concerning illnesses:

(1) For each illness identified under subparagraph (B) or (C) of subsection (c)(1), the National Academy of Sciences shall determine (to the extent available scientific evidence permits) whether there is scientific evidence of an association of that illness with Gulf War service or exposure during Gulf War service to one or more agents, hazards, or medicines and vaccines.

in making those determinations, the Academy shall consider:

(A) the strength of scientific evidence, the replicability of results, the statistical significance of results, and the appropriateness of the scientific methods used to detect the association;

(B) in any case where there is evidence of an apparent association, whether there is reasonable confidence that that apparent association is not due to chance, bias, or confounding;

(C) the increased risk of the illness among human or animal populations exposed to the agent, hazard, or medicine or vaccine identified under subparagraph (A) of that paragraph and the manifestation of such illness.

(D) the following scientific determinations concerning illnesses:

(1) For each illness identified under subparagraph (B) or (C) of subsection (c)(1), the National Academy of Sciences shall determine (to the extent available scientific evidence permits) whether there is scientific evidence of an association of that illness with Gulf War service or exposure during Gulf War service to one or more agents, hazards, or medicines and vaccines.
or preventive medicines or vaccines associated with Gulf War service.

(2) In making recommendations for additional studies, the Academy shall consider the anecdotal data and the value and relevance of the information that could result from such studies, and the cost and feasibility of carrying out such studies.

(g) Definitions.—(1) Under the agreement under subsection (b), the National Academy of Sciences shall conduct on a periodic and ongoing basis additional reviews of the evidence referred to in subsection (f) that became available since the last review of such information, evidence, and data under this section; and

(b) make determinations under the subsection referred to in subparagraph (A) on the basis of the results of such review and all other reviews previously conducted for purposes of this section.

(h) Reports by Academy.—(1) Under the agreement under subsection (b), the National Academy of Sciences shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs periodic written reports regarding the Academy's activities under this section.

(2) The first report under paragraph (1) shall be submitted not later than two years after entry into the agreement under subsection (b). The report shall include—

(A) the determinations and discussion referred to in subsection (e); and

(b) recommendations of the Academy under subsection (f).

(3) Reports shall be submitted under this subsection at least once every two years, as measured from the date of the report under paragraph (2).

(i) Reports by Secretary.—(1) The Secretary shall review each report from the Academy under subsection (b). After reviewing such report, the Secretary shall seek comments on, and evaluation of, the Academy's report from the heads of other affected departments and agencies of the United States.

(2) Based upon a review under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the available scientific and medical information regarding the health consequences of Persian Gulf War exposure and the development of research on the health effects of exposure to risk factors during service in the Persian Gulf War. The Secretary shall include in the report the Secretary's recommendations as to whether there is sufficient evidence to warrant a presumption of service-connection for the occurrence of a specified condition in Gulf War veterans. In determining whether to make such a recommendation, the Secretary shall consider the matters specified in subparagraphs (A) through (F) of subsection (e)(1).

(3) The report under this subsection shall be submitted not later than 120 days after the date on which the Secretary receives the report from the Academy.

(j) Sunset.—Section 707 of the Persian Gulf War Veterans' Health Status Act (title VII of Public Law 102-585; 38 U.S.C. 527 note) is amended—

(1) in the heading, by striking out "Persian Gulf War and Future Con";

(2) promoting the development of appropriate health policies, including monitoring, medical recordkeeping, risk communication, and use of new technologies.

(3) by adding at the end of subsection (b) the following new sentence:

"(k) Definition.—In this section, the term "toxic agent, environmental or wartime hazard, or disease associated with Gulf War service" means a biological, chemical, or other toxic agent, environmental or wartime hazard, or preventive medicine or vaccine as associated with Gulf War service.''; and

(4) by adding at the end of subsection (k) the following new paragraph:

"(l) Sunset.—This section shall cease to be operative on October 10, 1998, or such later date as the President may specify by presidential proclamation; or such later date as the President may specify by public law enacted after the enactment of this Act, on its recommendation.

(c) Report on Establishment of National Center.—Not later than 60 days after receiving the report under subsection (b), the Secretary specified in subsection (b)(2) shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs and Armed Services of the Senate and the Committees on Veterans' Affairs and National Security of the House of Representatives a joint report on the findings and recommendations contained in that report. Such report may set forth an operational plan for carrying out any recommendation in that report to establish a national center or centers for the study of war-related illnesses. No action to carry out such plan may be taken after the submission of such report until the end of a 90-day period following the date of the submission.

SEC. 104. COORDINATION OF ACTIVITIES.

Section 707 of the Persian Gulf War Veterans' Health Status Act (title VII of Public Law 102-585; 38 U.S.C. 527 note) is amended—

(1) in the heading, by striking out "government activities on health-related research" and inserting the following: "health-related government activities";

(2) in subsection (a), by striking out "research" and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(b) Public Advisory Committee.—Not later than January 1, 1999, the head of the department or agency on proposed research studies, research plans, or research strategies relating to the use of personnel designated under subsection (a) shall submit to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on—

"(c) Assessments.—The Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall seek to enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences to establish and support an independent organization, under which such entity shall assist in developing a plan for the establishment of a national center or national centers for the study of war-related illnesses and post-deployment health issues. The purposes of such a center may include—

"(d) Reports.—(1) Not later than March 1 of each year, the head of the department or agency designated under subsection (a) shall submit a report to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on—
"(A) the status and results of all such research activities undertaken by the executive branch during the previous year; and

(B) research priorities identified during that year.

"(2)(A) Not later than 120 days after submission of the epidemiological research study conducted by the Department of Veterans Affairs entitled 'VA National Survey of Persian Gulf Veterans—Phase III', the head of the department or agency designated under subsection (a) shall submit to congressional committees specified in paragraph (1) a report on the findings under that study and any other pertinent medical literature.

(B) on any findings of that study and any other pertinent medical literature which identify scientific evidence of a greater relative risk of illness or illnesses in family members of veterans who served in the Persian Gulf War theater of operations than in family members of veterans who did not so serve, the head of the department or agency designated under subsection (a) shall seek to ensure that appropriate research studies are designed to follow up on such findings.

(c) Public Availability of Research Findings.—The head of the department or agency designated under subsection (a) shall ensure that findings of all research conducted by or for the executive branch relating to the health consequences of military service in the Persian Gulf theater of operations during the Persian Gulf War shall be made available to the public through peer-reviewed medical journals, the World Wide Web, and other appropriate media.

(d) Outreach.—The head of the department or agency designated under subsection (a) shall consult with appropriate agencies and organizations and, upon the request of Congress, develop an appropriate outreach program to provide information to those who served in the Southwest Asia theater of operations during the Persian Gulf War relating to (1) the health risks, if any, resulting from any risk factors associated with such service, and (2) any services or benefits available with respect to such health risks.

SEC. 105. IMPROVING EFFECTIVENESS OF CARE FOR PERSIAN GULF VETERANS.

(a) Assessment of the National Academy of Sciences.—Not later than April 1, 1999, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences to review the available scientific data in order to—

(1) assess whether a methodology could be used by the Department of Veterans Affairs for determining the efficacy of treatments furnished to, and health outcomes (including functional status) of, Persian Gulf War veterans who have been treated for illnesses which may be associated with their service in the Persian Gulf War; and

(2) identify, to the extent feasible, with respect to the exposed illness, the extent of uncertainty in findings among such veterans and for any other chronic illness that the Academy determines to warrant such review, empirically valid models of treatment for such illness which employ successful treatment modalities for populations with similar symptoms.

(b) Action on Report.—(1) After receiving the report of the National Academy of Sciences under subsection (a), the Secretary shall, if a reasonable and scientifically feasible methodology is identified by the Academy, develop an appropriate mechanism to monitor and study the effectiveness of treatments furnished to, and health outcomes of, Persian Gulf War veterans who suffer from diagnosed illnesses which may be associated with their service in the Persian Gulf War.

(2) The Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on the implementation of paragraph (1).

(3) The Secretary shall carry out paragraphs (1) and (2) not later than 180 days after receiving the final report of the National Academy of Sciences under subsection (a).

SEC. 106. CONTRACT FOR INDEPENDENT RECOMMENDATIONS ON RESEARCH AND FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF CURRICULUM ON CARE OF PERSIAN GULF VETERANS

Section 706 of the Persian Gulf War Veterans' Health Status Act (title VII of Public Law 102-585; 38 U.S.C. 527 note) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

(d) Research Review and Development of Medical Education Curriculum.—(1) In order to further understanding of the health consequences of military service in the Persian Gulf theater of operations during the Persian Gulf War and of new research findings with implications for improving the provision of care for veterans of such service, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the Secretary of Defense shall seek to enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences of the United States Institute of Medicine of the Academy to—

(A) develop a curriculum pertaining to the care and treatment of veterans of such service and any health conditions associated with such service, and (2) recommend, to the extent feasible, curricular changes (including studies related to treatment modalities) to resolve areas of continuing scientific uncertainty relating to the health consequences of any aspects of such military service (including studies related to the health consequences of military service in the Persian Gulf theater of operations during the Persian Gulf War.

(2) Recommendations to be provided under paragraph (1)(B) include any recommendations that the Academy considers appropriate for additional scientific studies (including studies related to treatment modalities) in order to provide the most current scientific information.

(3) Not later than nine months after the date of enactment, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, in consultation with the National Academy of Sciences, shall carry out the research described in subsection (a).

(4) In carrying out the research described in subsection (a) the Secretary shall—

(A) include in the research a consideration of the health consequences of military service in the Persian Gulf theater of operations during the Persian Gulf War;

(B) ensure that the findings of all research conducted under the research described in subsection (a) are made available to the public through peer-reviewed medical journals, the World Wide Web, and other appropriate media.

(c) Final Report.—(1) The Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences under subsection (a) within 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) The Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on the findings under that study and any other pertinent medical literature.

(d) Outreach.—(1) The Secretary shall carry out outreach activities in order to—

(A) ensure that the findings of all research conducted under the research described in subsection (a) are made available to the public through peer-reviewed medical journals, the World Wide Web, and other appropriate media.

(B) develop an appropriate mechanism to monitor and study the effectiveness of treatments furnished to, and health outcomes of, Persian Gulf War veterans who suffer from diagnosed illnesses which may be associated with their service in the Persian Gulf War.

(2) The Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on the implementation of paragraph (1).

plcement for an election under this section shall be made; and
(2) the procedures under which any such application shall be considered.

An election to receive a benefit under this section shall be irrevocable.

A person may not make more than one election under this section, even if the election of the person is less than the maximum amount of the benefit available to the person under this section.

If a person insured under Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance elects to receive a benefit under this section and the person’s Servicemembers’ Group Life Inurance is thereafter converted to Veterans’ insurance as provided in section
1968(b) of this title, the amount of the benefit paid under this section shall reduce the amount of Veterans’ Group Life Insurance available to the person under section 1977(a)
of this title.

(“Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the amount of the accelerated death benefit paid under this section shall not be considered income or resources for purposes of determining eligibility for or the amount of benefits under any Federal or federally-assisted program or for any other purpose.”).

The table of sections at the beginning of each chapter is amended by inserting after she section relating to section 1979 the following new section:

Section 3.01 Ð Medal of Honor Special Pension.

(a) Increase. Ð Section 3.01(b) is amended by striking out “$400” and inserting in lieu thereof “$600.”

(b) Effective Date. Ð The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the first day of the first month beginning on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Section 3.02 Ð Accelerated Death Benefit for Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance and Veterans’ Life Insurance Participants.

(a) in General. Ð Section 3.02(a) is amended by inserting before the period at the end the fo-towing new section:

§ 3.10. Option to receive accelerated death benefit.

For the purpose of this section, a person shall be considered to be terminally ill if the person has a medical prognosis such that the life expectancy of the person is less than a period prescribed by the Secretary. The maximum length of such period may not exceed 12 months.

(b)(1) A terminally ill person insured under Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance or Veterans’ Group Life Insurance may elect to receive in a lump-sum payment a portion of the face value of the insurance as an accelerated death benefit reduced by an amount necessary to assure that there is an increase in the actuarial value of the benefit paid, as determined by the Secretary.

(2) The Secretary shall prescribe the maximum amount of the accelerated death benefit available under this section that the Secretary finds to be administratively practicable and actuarially sound, but in no amount may the amount of the benefit exceed the equal to 50 percent of the face value of the person’s insurance in force on the date the election of the person to receive the benefit is approved.

(3) A person making an election under this section may elect to receive an amount that is less than the maximum amount prescribed by the Secretary.

(4) The Secretary shall prescribe increments in which a reduced amount under this paragraph may be

The portion of the face value of insurance which is not paid in a lump sum as an accelerated death benefit under this section shall remain payable in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (2).

(5) Deductions under section
1969 of this title and premiums under section 1977(c) of this title shall be reduced, in a manner consistent with paragraph (2), in the face value of the insurance as a result of payment of an accelerated death benefit under this section, effective with respect to any amounts which would otherwise become due or after the date of payment under this section.

The Secretary shall prescribe regulations to carry out this section. Such regulations shall include provisions regarding—
(1) (a) The form and manner in which an ap-plcement for an election under this section shall be made; and
(2) the procedures under which any such application shall be considered.

An election to receive a benefit
under this section shall be irrevocable.

A person may not make more than one election under this section, even if the election of the person is less than the maximum amount of the benefit available to the person under this section.

If a person insured under Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance elects to receive a benefit under this section and the person’s Servicemembers’ Group Life Inurance is thereafter converted to Veterans’
insurance as provided in section
1968(b) of this title, the amount of the benefit paid under this section shall reduce the amount of Veterans’ Group Life Insurance available to the person under section 1977(a)
of this title.

(“Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the amount of the accelerated death benefit paid under this section shall not be considered income or resources for purposes of determining eligibility for or the amount of benefits under any Federal or federally-assisted program or
for any other purpose.”).

The table of sections at the beginning of each chapter is amended by inserting after she section relating to section 1979 the following new section:

§ 1980. Option to receive accelerated death benefit.

(1) by striking out “Payments of benefits” and inserting in lieu thereof “Any payments”; and
(2) by inserting “an insured or” after “or on account of.,”

Effective Date. Ð The amendments made by this section shall take effect 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Section 303. Assessment of Effectiveness of Insurance and Survivor Bene-tif Programs for Survivors of Veterans with Service-con-ected Disabilities.

(a) Report On Assessment. Ð Not later than the date of the enactment of this Act, the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs of the Senate and the House of Representatives shall submit to the Committees on Veterans’ Affairs shall submit to the Committees on Veterans’ Affairs of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report containing an assessment of the adequacy of the insurance and survivor benefits programs of the Department of Veterans Affairs (including the payment of dependency and indemnity compensation under chapter 13 of title 38, United States Code) in meeting the needs of survivors of veterans with service-connected disabilities, including survivors of cata-trophically disabled veterans who cared for those veterans.

(b) Report Elements. Ð The report on the assessment under subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) An identification of the characteristics that make a disabled veteran catastrophically disabled.

(2) A statement of the number of veterans with service-connected disabilities who participate in insurance programs administered by the Department.

(3) A statement of the number of survivors of veterans with service-connected disabilities who receive dependency and indemnity compensation under chapter 13 of title 38, United States Code.

(4) Data on veterans with service-connected disabilities that are relevant to the insurance administered by the Department, and an assessment how such data might be used to better determine the cost above standard premium rates of insuring veterans with service-connected disabilities under such programs.

(5) An analysis of various methods of accounting and providing for the additional cost of insuring the lives of veterans with service-connected disabilities under insurance programs administered by the Department.

(6) An assessment of the adequacy and effectiveness of the current insurance programs and dependency and indemnity compensation programs of the Department in meeting the needs of survivors of severely disabled or catastrophically disabled veterans.

(7) An analysis of various methods of meeting the transitional financial needs of survivors of veterans with service-connected disabilities immediately after the deaths of such veterans.

(8) Such recommendations as the Secretary considers appropriate regarding means of improving the benefits available to survivors of veterans with service-connected disabilities under programs administered by the Department.

SEC. 304. NATIONAL SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE PROGRAM.

(a) ELIGIBILITY OF CERTAIN VETERANS FOR DIVIDENDS UNDER NSLI PROGRAM.—Section 1912(b) is amended—

(1) by striking "sections 602(c)(2) and" and inserting ``(a)(1),''; and

(2) by striking "section'' and inserting "section''.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) and (b) shall apply to deaths occurring after the date of the enactment of this Act.

TITLE IV—MEMORIAL AFFAIRS

SEC. 401. COMMEMORATION OF INDIVIDUALS WHOSE REMAINS ARE UNAVAILABLE FOR INTERMENT.

(a) MEMORIAL HEADSTONES OR MARKERS FOR CERTAIN MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES AND SPOUSES.—Subsection (b) of section 2306 is amended to read as follows:

``(b)(1) The Secretary shall furnish, when requested, a headstone or marker for the purpose of commemorating an eligible individual whose remains are unavailable. Such a headstone or marker shall be furnished for placement in a national cemetery reserved for that purpose under section 2403 of this title, a veteran's cemetery owned by a State, or, in the case of a veteran, in a State, local, or private cemetery.

``(A) The spouse or surviving spouse of a veteran.

``(B) The term 'surviving spouse' includes an unmarried surviving spouse whose subsequent remarriage was terminated by death or divorce.''.

(b) ALTERNATIVE COMMEMORATION FOR CERTAIN SPOUSES.—Such section is further amended by striking at the end the following new subsection:

``(e)(I) When the Secretary has furnished a headstone or marker under subsection (a) for a veteran, and the Secretary shall, if feasible, add a memorial inscription to that headstone or marker rather than furnishing a separate headstone or marker under this subsection for the surviving spouse of such individual.

``(II) When the Secretary has furnished a memorial headstone or marker under subsection (b) for purposes of commemorating a veteran or an individual who died in the active military, naval, or air service, the Secretary shall, if feasible, add a memorial inscription to that headstone or marker rather than furnishing a separate memorial headstone or marker under that subsection for the surviving spouse of such individual.''

(c) MEMORIAL AREAS.—Section 2403(b) is amended to read as follows:

``(b) Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, a headstone or marker may be placed to honor the memory of individuals whose remains are not recoverable or identified; such headstone or marker shall be placed at a site selected by the Secretary, if feasible, at the end of the 90-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.''

§ 11201. Eligibility for veterans' burial and cemetery benefits

(a) ELIGIBILITY.—

``(1) IN GENERAL.—The qualified service of a person as described in paragraph (2) shall be considered to be active duty in the Armed Forces during a period of war for purposes of eligibility for benefits under the provisions of this chapter.

``(2) COVERED INDIVIDUALS.—Paragraph (1) applies to a person who—

``(A) receives an honorable service certificate under section 11201 of this title; and

``(B) is not eligible under any other provision of law for benefits under laws administered by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

``(3) EXCLUSION.—The Secretary shall reimburse the Secretary of Veterans Affairs for the value of benefits that the Secretary of Veterans Affairs provides to a person by reason of eligibility under this section.

``(4) APPLICABILITY.—

``(1) GENERAL RULE.—Benefits may be provided under this section to individuals referred to in subsection (a)(1) by reason of this chapter only for deaths occurring after the date of the enactment of this chapter.

``(2) Burial in national cemeteries.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), in the case of a veteran buried in a national cemetery, benefits may be provided under this section for purposes of commemorating a veteran or an individual who died in the active military, naval, or air service, if, by reason of the unmarked grave of an individual, the Secretary shall, if feasible, add a memorial inscription to that headstone or marker rather than furnishing a separate headstone or marker under this subsection for the surviving spouse of such individual.''

§ 11202. Qualified service

For purposes of this chapter, a person shall be considered to have engaged in qualified service if, between August 16, 1945, and December 31, 1946, the person—

``(1) was a member of the United States merchant marine (including the Army Transport Service and the Naval Transportation Service) serving as a crewmember of a vessel that was—

``(A) operated by the War Shipping Administration or the Office of the Doble A, Transportation (or an agent of the Administration or Office);

``(B) operated in waters other than inland waters (and ascribed to Coast Guard activities) serving as a crewmember of a vessel that was—

``(1) operated by the War Shipping Administration or the Office of the Doble A, Transportation (or an agent of the Administration or Office); and

``(2) while so serving, was licensed or otherwise documented for service as a crewmember of such a vessel or was similarly documented for service as a member of such a vessel by an officer or employee of the United States authorized to license or document the person for such service.''

§ 11203. Documentation of qualified service

(a) RECORD OF SERVICE.—The Secretary, or in the case of personnel of the Army Transport Service or the Naval Transport Service, the Secretary of Defense, shall, upon application—

``(1) issue a certificate of honorable service to a person who, as determined by that Secretary, engaged in qualified service of a nature and duration that warrants issuance of the certificate; and

``(2) correct, or request the appropriate official of the Government to correct, the service record of that person to the extent necessary to reflect the qualified service and the issuance of the certificate of honorable service.''

(b) TIMING OF DOCUMENTATION.—A Secretary receiving an application under subsection (a) shall act on the application not later than one year after the date of that request.

(c) STANDARDS RELATING TO SERVICE.—In making a determination under subsection (a)(1), the Secretary acting on the application shall apply the standards relating to the nature and duration of service that apply to the issuance of honorable discharges under section 404(a)(1)(B) of the GI Bill Improvement Act of 1977 (38 U.S.C. 106 note).

TITLE VI—HOUSING

SEC. 601. LOAN GUARANTEE FOR MULTIFAMILY TRANSITIONAL HOUSING FOR HOMELESS VETERANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 37 is amended by adding at the end the following new subchapter:

"SUBCHAPTER VI—LOAN GUARANTEE FOR MULTIFAMILY TRANSITIONAL HOUSING FOR HOMELESS VETERANS"

§ 3771. Definitions.

"For purposes of this subchapter:

(A) The term ‘veteran’ has the meaning given such term by paragraph (2) of section 101.

(B) The term ‘homeless veteran’ means a veteran who is a homeless individual.

(C) The term ‘homeless individual’ has the meaning given such term by section 103 of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 13902).

§ 3772. General authority

(a) The Secretary may guarantee the full or partial repayment of a loan that meets the requirements of this subchapter.

(b)(1) Not more than 15 loans may be guaranteed under subsection (a), of which not more than five such loans may be guaranteed during any period of time beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) A guarantee of a loan under subsection (a) shall be in an amount that is not less than the amount necessary to sell the loan in a commercial market.

(3) Not more than an aggregate amount of $100,000,000 in loans may be guaranteed under subsection (a).

(c) A loan may not be guaranteed under this subchapter unless, before closing such loan, the Secretary has approved the loan.

(1)(1) The Secretary shall enter into contracts with a qualified nonprofit organization, or a qualified nonprofit entity, that has experience in underwriting transitional housing projects to obtain advice in carrying out this subchapter, including advice on the terms and conditions for a loan that meets the requirements of section 3773 of this title.

(2) For purposes of paragraph (1), a nonprofit organization is an organization that is described in paragraphs (3) or (4) of subsection (a) of section 501 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and is exempt from tax under subsection (a) of such section.

(e) The Secretary may carry out this subchapter in advance of the issuance of regulations for such purposes.

(f) The Secretary may guarantee loans under this subchapter notwithstanding any requirement for prior appropriations for such purposes under any provisions of law.

§ 3773. Requirements

(a) A loan referred to in section 3772 of this title meets the requirements of this subchapter if each of the following requirements is met:

(1) The loan—

(A) is for—

(i) construction, rehabilitation of, or acquisition of a family transitional housing project described in subsection (b), or more than one of such purposes; or

(ii) refinancing of an existing loan for such a project; and

(B) may also include additional reasonable amounts for—

(i) financing acquisition of furniture, equipment, supplies, or materials for the project; or

(ii) in the case of a loan made for purposes of subparagraph (A)(i), supplying the organization carrying out the project with working capital relative to the project.

(2) The loan is made in connection with funding or the provision of substantial property or services for such project by either a State or local government or a nongovernmental entity, or both.

(3) For purposes of this subsection, a loan does not exceed the lesser of—

(A) that amount generally approved (utilizing prudent underwriting principles) in the consideration of approval of projects of similar nature and risk so as to assure repayment of the loan obligation; and

(B) 90 percent of the total cost of the project.

(4) The loan is of sound value, taking into account the creditworthiness of the entity (and the individual members of the entity) applying for such loan.

(5) The loan is secured.

(6) The loan is subject to such terms and conditions as the Secretary determines are reasonable, taking into account other housing projects with similarities in size, location, population, and services provided.

(b) For purposes of this subchapter, a multifamily transitional housing project referred to in subsection (a)(1) is a project that—

(1) provides transitional housing to homeless veterans, which housing may be single room occupancy (as defined in section 8(n) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437p(n)));

(2) provides supportive services and counselling services (including job counselling) at the project site with the goal of making such veterans self-sufficient;

(3) requires that each such veteran seek to obtain and maintain employment;

(4) charges a reasonable fee for occupying a unit in such housing; and

(5) maintains strict guidelines regarding sobriety as a condition of occupying such unit;

(5) Such a project—

(1) may include space for neighborhood retail services or job training programs; and

(2) may provide transitional housing to veterans who are not homeless and to homeless individuals who are not veterans if—

(A) at the time of taking occupancy by any such veteran or homeless individual, the transitional housing needs of homeless veterans in the project area have been met;

(B) the housing needs of any such veteran or homeless individual can be met in a manner that is compatible with the manner in which the needs of homeless veterans are met under paragraph (1); and

(c) The provisions of paragraphs (4) and (5) of subsection (b) are made applicable.

(d) In determining whether to guarantee a loan under this subchapter, the Secretary shall consider—

(1) the availability of Department of Veterans Affairs medical services to residents of the multifamily transitional housing project; and

(2) the extent to which needs of homeless veterans are met in a community, as assessed under section 107 of Public Law 102-405.

§ 3774. Audit

(a) The Secretary shall take such steps as may be necessary to obtain repayment on any loan that is in default and that is guaranteed under this subchapter.

(b) Upon default of a loan guaranteed under this subchapter, and the subsequent declaration of the loan as delinquent, the Secretary shall consider—

(1) the maximum guarantee; or

(2) the difference between—

(A) the total outstanding obligation on the loan including principal, interest, and expenses authorized by the loan documents, through the date of the public sale (as authorized under such documents and State laws); and

(B) the amount realized at such sale.

§ 3775. Audit

Throughout each of the first three years of operation of a multifamily transitional housing project with respect to which a loan is guaranteed under this subchapter, there shall be an annual, independent audit of such operation. Such audit shall include a detailed statement of the operations, activities, and accomplishments of such project during the year covered by such audit. The party responsible for obtaining such audit (and paying the costs therefor) shall be determined before the Secretary issues a guarantee under this subchapter.”.

(b) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections concerning chapter 37 is amended by adding at the end the following new items:

“SUBCHAPTER VI—LOAN GUARANTEE REVOLVING FUNDS

1. Title 38 of United States Code (as such section was in effect on the day before the effective date of this title).

(e) Agreement.—(1) An agreement between the Secretary and a participant in the Program shall be in addition to the requirements set forth in section 7604 of this title include the following:

(A) The Secretary's agreement to provide the participant with a scholarship under the Program for a specified number (from one to three) of school years during which the participant pursues a course of education or training described in subsection (c) that meets the requirements set forth in section 7602(a) of this title.

(B) The participant's agreement to serve as a full-time employee in the Veterans Health Administration for a period of time (hereinafter in this subchapter referred to as the 'period of obligated service') determined in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of up to three calendar years for each school year or part thereof for which the participant was provided a scholarship under the Program, but for not less than three years.

(C) The participant's agreement to serve under a scholarship in a Department facility selected by the Secretary.

(2) In a case in which an extension is granted under section 7603(c)(2) of this title, the number of school years which a scholarship may be provided under the Program shall be the number of school years provided for as a result of the extension.

(3) Any person who, as a part-time student, the period of obligated service shall be reduced in accordance with the number of credit hours required to be carried by a full-time student in the course of education or training being pursued by the participant, but in no event to less than one year.

§7673. Scholarship

(a) Scholarship.—A scholarship provided to a participant under paragraph (1) of subsection (a) of this section shall consist of payment of the tuition (or such portion of the tuition as may be provided under subsection (b) of this section) for the school year and payment of other reasonable educational expenses (including fees, books, and laboratory expenses) for that school year.

(b) Amount of Time.—The total amount of the scholarship payable under subsection (a)—

(1) in the case of a participant in the Program who is a full-time student, may not exceed three years; and

(2) in the case of a participant in the Program who is a part-time student, shall be the amount specified in paragraph (1) reduced in accordance with the proportion that the number of credit hours carried by the participant in that school year bears to the number of credit hours that could be carried by a full-time student in the course of education or training being pursued by the participant.

(c) Limitation on Years of Payment.—(1) Subject to paragraph (2), a participant in the Program may not receive a scholarship under subsection (a) for more than three school years.

(2) The Secretary may extend the number of school years for which a scholarship may be awarded under the Program to a participant who is a part-time student to a maximum of six school years if the Secretary determines that the extension would be in the best interest of the United States.

(d) Payment of Educational Expenses by Educational Institutions.—The Secretary may arrange with an educational institution in which a participant in the Program is enrolled for the payment of the educational expenses described in subsection (a). Such payments may be made without regard to subsections (a) and (b) of section 3504 of title 31.

§7674. Obligated Service

(a) In General.—Each participant in the Program shall be obligated to serve as a full-time employee of the Department for the period of obligated service provided in the agreement entered into under section 7603 of this title.

(b) Determination of Service Commencement Date.—(1) Not later than 60 days before a participant's service commencement date, the Secretary shall notify the participant of that service commencement date.

(2) As soon as possible after a participant's service commencement date, the Secretary shall—

(A) in the case of a participant who is not a full-time employee in the Veterans Health Administration, appoint the participant as a Department employee; and

(B) in the case of a participant who is an employee in the Veterans Health Administration but is not serving in a position for which the participant's course of education or training prepared the participant, assign the participant to such a position.

(3)(A) In the case of a participant receiving a degree from a school of medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, optometry, or podiatry, the participant's service commencement date is the date upon which the participant becomes licensed to practice medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, optometry, or podiatry, as the case may be, in a State.

(B) In the case of a participant receiving a degree from a school of nursing, the participant's service commencement date is the date on which—

(i) the participant's course completion date; or

(ii) the date upon which the participant becomes licensed as a registered nurse in a State.

(C) In the case of a participant not covered by subparagraph (A) or (B), the participant's service commencement date is the date of—

(i) the participant's course completion date; or

(ii) the date the participant meets any applicable licensure or certification requirement.

(d) A Ward of Scholarships.ÐNotwithstanding section 7672 of this title, the Secretary shall—

(A) if the extension would be in the best interest of the United States, extend the period of obligated service provided in the agreement entered into under subsection (a) for more than three school years.

(B) in the case of a participant who is a full-time employee in the Veterans Health Administration, extend the period of obligated service provided in the agreement entered into under this section for more than three school years.

§7675. Breach of Agreement; Liability

(a) Liquidated DAMAGES.—A participant in the Program (other than a participant described in subsection (b)) who fails to accept payment, or instructs the educational institution in which the participant is enrolled not to accept payment, in whole or in part, of a scholarship under the agreement entered into under section 7603 of this title shall be liable to the United States for liquidated damages in the amount of $1,500. Such liability is in addition to any period of obligated service or other obligation or liability under the agreement.

(b) Liability During Course of Education or Training.—(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), a participant in the Program shall be liable to the United States for the amount which has been paid to or on behalf of the participant under the agreement if any of the following occurs:

(A) The participant fails to maintain an acceptable level of academic standing in the educational institution in which the participant is enrolled (as determined by the educational institution under regulations prescribed by the Secretary).

(B) The participant is dismissed from such educational institution for disciplinary reasons.

(c) The participant voluntarily terminates the course of education or training in the educational institution in which the participant is enrolled, or the completion of such course of education or training.

(D) The participant fails to become licensed to practice medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, podiatry, or optometry in a State, fails to become licensed as a registered nurse in a State, or fails to meet any applicable licensure or certification requirement in the case of any other health-care personnel who provide either direct patient-care services or services incident to direct patient-care services, during a period of time determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary.

(E) In the case of a participant who is a part-time student, the participant fails to become a Department employee in the course of training being pursued by the participant, as a Department employee.
Authority for program.

SEC. 803. EDUCATION DEBT REDUCTION PROGRAM.

(a) PROGRAM AUTHORITY.—Chapter 76 (as amended by section 7602(a), (A) by striking out ``, per participant'' and inserting in lieu thereof ``, per participant''; and

(b) RELATIONSHIP TO EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS.—Education debt reduction payments under the Education Debt Reduction Program may be in addition to other assistance available to individuals under the Educational Assistance Program.

§7682. Eligibility.

(a) ELIGIBILITY.—An individual is eligible to participate in the Education Debt Reduction Program if the individual—

(1) is a recently appointed employee in the Veterans Health Administration serving under an appointment under section 7402(b) of this title in a position for which recruitment or retention of a qualified health-care professional determined by the Secretary is difficult; and

(2) owes any amount of principal or interest under a loan, the proceeds of which were used by or on behalf of that individual to pay costs relating to a course of education or training which led to a degree that qualified the individual for the position referred to in paragraph (1).

(b) COVERED COSTS.—For purposes of subsection (a)(2), costs relating to a course of education or training include—

(1) tuition payments to any given participant in the Education Debt Reduction Program if the individual—

(A) `A' is the amount the United States is paid by the individual during such year.

(B) `B' is the sum of—

(1) the amounts paid under this subchapter to or on behalf of the participant; and

(ii) the interest on such amounts which would be payable if at the time the amounts were paid they were loans bearing interest at the maximum legal prevailing rate, as determined by the regulations of the United States Treasury Department;

(c) recently appointed individuals.—For purposes of subsection (a)(2), an individual shall be considered to be a recently appointed individual if the individual has held that position for less than six months.

§7683. Education debt reduction.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Education debt reduction payments under the Education Debt Reduction Program shall consist of payments to individuals selected to participate in the program of amounts to reimburse such individuals for payments by such individuals of principal and interest on loans described in section 7682(a)(2) of this title.

(b) FREQUENCY OF PAYMENT.—(1) The Secretary may make education debt reduction payments to a participant in the Education Debt Reduction Program on a monthly or annual basis, as determined by the Secretary.

(2) The Secretary shall make such payments at the end of the period determined by the Secretary under paragraph (1).

(c) PERFORMANCE REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary may make education debt reduction payments to a participant in the Education Debt Reduction Program for a period only if the Secretary determines that the individual maintains at least the level of performance in the position or positions served by the participant during the period.

(d) MAXIMUM ANNUAL AMOUNT.—(1) Subject to paragraph (2), the amount of education debt reduction payments made to a participant for a year under the Education Debt Reduction Program may not exceed—

(A) $6,000 for the first year of the participant's participation in the Program;

(B) $8,000 for the second year of the participant's participation in the Program; and

(C) $10,000 for the third year of the participant's participation in the Program.

(2) The total amount payable to a participant in such Program for any year may not exceed the amount of the principal and interest on loans referred to in subsection (a) that is paid by the individual during such year.

§7684. Expiration of program.

"The Secretary may not make education debt reduction payments to individuals who have not commenced participation in the Education Debt Reduction Program before December 31, 2001."
(ii) by inserting "`, per participant in the Employee Incentive Scholarship Program, and per participant in the Education Debt Reduction Program" before the period at the end.

(b) Section 7636 is amended by striking "or a stipend" and inserting "a stipend, or education debt reduction".

SEC. 806. COMPLIANCE WITH APPROPRIATIONS PROVISION.

This title shall be considered to be the authorizing legislation referred to in the third proviso added by inserting "HEALTH ADMINISTRATION—MEDICAL CARE" in title I of the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Urban Renewal Act, 1968, and the reference in that proviso to the "Primary Care Providers Incentive Act" shall be treated as referring to this title.

TITLE X—OTHER MATTERS

SEC. 901. EXAMINATIONS AND CARE ASSOCIATED WITH CERTAIN RADIATION TREATMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 17 is amended by inserting after section 1720D the following new section:

"§ 1720E. Nasopharyngeal radium irradiation"

"(a) The Secretary may provide any veteran a medical examination, and hospital care, medical services, and nursing home care, in voluntarily determining that there is needed for the treatment of any cancer of the head or neck which the Secretary finds may be associated with the veteran's receipt of nasopharyngeal radium irradiation treatment in active military, naval, or air service.

(b) The Secretary shall provide care and services to a veteran under subsection (a) only on the basis of evidence in the service records of the veteran which document nasopharyngeal radium irradiation treatment in service, except that, notwithstanding the absence of such documentation, the Secretary may provide such care to a veteran who—

(1) served as an aviator in the active military, naval, or air service before the end of the Korean conflict; or

(2) underwent submarine training in active naval service before January 1, 1965.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect as of October 1, 1997.

SEC. 903. REPORT ON NURSE LOCALITY PAY.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than February 28, 1999, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report assessing the system of locality-based pay for nurses established under the Department of Veterans Affairs Nurse Pay Act of 1990 (Public Law 101-366) and now set forth in section 7451 of title 38, United States Code.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The report of the Secretary under subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) An assessment of the effects of the locality-based pay system on the retention of nurses employed in the Veterans Health Administration.

(2) An assessment of the manner in which that system is being applied.

(3) Plans and recommendations of the Secretary for administrative and legislative improvements or revisions to the locality pay system.

(c) AN EXPLANATION OF THE REASONS FOR ANY DECISION NOT TO ADOPT ANY RECOMMENDATION IN THE REPORT REFERRED TO IN SUBSECTION (A).

(d) DATES FOR SUBMISSION.—The report required under subsection (a) shall be submitted on or before August 1, 1998.

(e) REPORT TO BE SUBMITTED EACH YEAR.—The report required under subsection (a) shall be submitted each year at the time the President submits the budget for the next fiscal year under section 1105 of title 31 on the activities of the Department in preparing for and participating in, a domestic medical response to an attack involving weapons of mass destruction.

SEC. 906. ANNUAL REPORT ON PROGRAM AND EXPENDITURES OF DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS FOR DOMESTIC RESPONSE TO WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter II of chapter 5 is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"§ 530. Annual report on program and expenditures for domestic response to weapons of mass destruction"

(a) The Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and of the House of Representatives an annual report, to be submitted each year at the time that the President submits the budget for the next fiscal year under section 1105 of title 31 on the activities of the Department in preparing for and participating in, a domestic medical response to an attack involving weapons of mass destruction.

SEC. 1005. TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.

(a) SECTION REDESIGNATION.—Section 1103, as added by section 803(a) of the Act, is redesignated section 1103A.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section take effect with respect to motions filed on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SECTION 1101. INCREASE IN RATES OF DISABILITY COMPENSATION AND DEPENDENCY AND INDEMNITY COMPENSATION.

(a) RATE ADJUSTMENT.—The Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall, effective on the date of the enactment of this Act, increase the dollar amounts in effect for the payment of disability compensation and dependency and indemnity compensation by the Secretary, as specified in subsection (b).

(b) AMOUNTS TO BE INCREASED.—The dollar amounts to be increased pursuant to subsection (a) are the following:

(1) DISABILITY COMPENSATION RATES.—The dollar amounts in effect under section 1114 of title 38, United States Code.

(2) DIC FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN.—The dollar amounts in effect under section 1151 of such title.

(3) CLOTHING ALLOWANCE.—The dollar amount in effect under section 1162 of such title.

(4) NEW DIC RATES.—The dollar amounts in effect under paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 3813(a) of such title.

(5) DIC RATES.—Each of the dollar amounts in effect under section 3813(a) of such title.

(6) ADDITIONAL DIC FOR SURVIVING SPOUSES WITH MINOR CHILDREN.—The dollar amount in effect under section 3813(a) of such title.

(7) ADDITIONAL DIC FOR DISABILITY.—The dollar amounts in effect under sections 3813(a) and 3814 of such title.

(8) DIC FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN.—The dollar amounts in effect under sections 3813(a) and 3814 of such title.

(9) DETERMINATION OF INCREASE.—(1) The increase under subsection (a) shall be made in the dollar amounts specified in subsection (b) as in effect on November 30, 1998.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Each of the dollar amounts increased by the percentage as the percentage by which benefit amounts payable under title II of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 401 et seq.) are increased effective December 1, 1998, as a result of a determination under section 215(i) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 415(i)).

(3) Each dollar amount increased pursuant to paragraph (2) shall, if not a whole dollar amount, be rounded down to the next lower whole dollar amount.

(d) SPECIAL RULE.—The Secretary may, in special circumstances, consistent with the purposes of this section and the laws referred to in paragraphs (2) and (3), increase the amounts specified in section 1101, as increased pursuant to this section.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP).

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.Res. 592.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that each side be recognized and given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the House and Senate Veterans' Affairs Committees have reached an agreement on a wide-ranging package of veterans' program enhancements in our usual bipartisan fashion. I believe this bill is an excellent package of program reform for veterans. It is the result of the diligent work and efforts in making this come to passage today.

One of the most important provisions creates a new permanent framework for establishing a presumption of service connection for Persian Gulf war veterans. I urge every Member to support the passage of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Veterans' Programs Enhancement Act of 1998. This omnibus measure improves many of the benefits which a grateful Nation has provided to the many men and women who served in uniform and deserves the strong support of every Member of this body.

The legislation now before us is the result of the diligent work and cooperative efforts of many Members. In particular, I want to recognize and thank the Chairman of the Committee, the gentleman from Arizona, for his continued leadership on behalf of the Nation's veterans. I also want to commend the Chairman and Ranking Democratic Member of our Health Subcommittee, CLIFF STEARNS and LUIS GUTIERREZ; the Chairman and Ranking Democratic Member of our Benefits Subcommittee, JACK QUINN and BOB FILER; the Chairman and Ranking Democratic Member of our Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee, TERRY EVERRIT and JIM CLYBURN, and the other Members of the Committee who have contributed to this legislation. I also want to recognize the Democratic and Republican staffs for their outstanding efforts and their critical contributions to the legislative process and the measure before us.

The Veterans' Benefits Enhancement Act of 1998 includes numerous important provisions. This measure provides a cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) in the rates of compensation for veterans with service-connected disabilities and the rates of dependency and indemnity compensation for survivors of certain disabled veterans. These veterans and their families that the value of these benefits will not be diluted by increases in the cost-of-living. While the amount of the increase to veterans and their families will not be great because of minimal inflation, it will protect the purchasing power of these beneficiaries. By enacting this bill, we are keeping our promise to those veterans who have sacrificed their health and, in some cases, their lives for our nation. The adjustment to be provided to veterans in receipt of compensation for a service-connected disability are to be the same rate of increase being provided to beneficiaries of Social Security benefits. Our Nation owes much to those who have honorably served in our Armed Forces, as well as the American public, the need to bring a credible “third-party” perspective to the table.

Earlier this year I introduced H.R. 3279, the Persian Gulf Veterans Act of 1998, which provided for epidemiological studies to identify medical conditions which are more prevalent among Gulf War theatre veterans than comparable groups. This scientific approach provides an important means of identifying those medical conditions for which VA should compensate Gulf War veterans. I am pleased the compromise legislation we are considering today incorporates the intent of H.R. 3279.

Approximately 697,000 American men and women served our country during Operation Desert Shield and Desert Storm. Members of the Armed Forces were subject to the rigors of combat in a desert environment and to a variety of potentially toxic substances which alone, or in combination, may have adversely affected their health.

It may take years to determine why Gulf veterans are sick, but one thing is indisputable. Our veterans are suffering, and many share similar symptoms that are not attributable to any particular known cause. These symptoms, rather than unknown and unexplained causes, are an appropriate basis for granting compensation.

This approach will require scientists to determine which conditions are most likely the result of Gulf War service. This approach will also not require veterans to prove that a certain specific exposure caused an adverse health outcome; proof of which would require science and data that do not now, and may never, exist.

Determining the “prevalence” of the illnesses Gulf War theatre veterans experience is more than a challenge; it is a scientifically valid epidemiological approach endorsed by scientists from the President’s Gulf War advisory panel. On February 5, 1998, Dr. Arthur Caplan, a member of the President’s Advisory Board on Gulf War Veterans’ Illnesses, stated that his Committee felt a prevalence model gave the veterans the greatest benefit of the doubt. According to Dr. Caplan, “Gulf War Illness is a very real phenomenon. No one on this committee should doubt that for a moment. What should be determined is whether this commitment from this Congress and this administration to provide the health and disability benefits to all those who became sick when they came back from the Gulf.”

I am very pleased the measure before us today includes, in principle, many of the provisions contained in the Persian Gulf Veterans Act of 1998 and believe it will provide answers to the many health-related questions and concerns of our Gulf War veterans.

This measure before us also authorizes a study to determine scientifically-rigorous measures of health treatment provided to Gulf War veterans. Many veterans have told me heartbreaking stories about the deterioration of their health since their return from the Gulf. Some have been suffering for many years and are desperate for effective health care treatment. Finding meaningful ways of assessing outcomes can help scientists determine the best health care treatments so more veterans can benefit from them. Assessing effective treatment was an important part of my bill, H.R. 3279, and I thank my colleagues for including this provision in the compromise agreement.
This legislation also extends expiring authority for the health care assessment of spouses and dependents of Gulf War veterans. I have strongly supported this program but have been concerned that inadequate implementation by VA has hampered its usefulness. For the many dependents who seem to be suffering from ailments similar to those experienced by their spouses who served in the Gulf, providing them with a thorough physical examination is entirely appropriate and will, hopefully, ensure their peace of mind. This measure will provide the opportunity for more dependents to take advantage of this important program.

ELIGIBILITY FOR VA HEALTH CARE FOR PGW VETERANS

Another of the important component of this bill is the extension of eligibility for VA health care for PGW veterans with undiagnosed illnesses until the year 2002. Earlier this year, I introduced H.R. 3571 which extended this authority and am pleased this provision was incorporated in the measure before us today.

NATIONAL CENTER FOR WAR-RELATED ILLNESSES

In addition, this legislation requires VA to enter into a study to determine the agencies and resources best suited to examined war-related illnesses. A plan will be developed to assign an appropriate agency to advise VA and DOD regarding preparation for post-deployment medical responses and assess the extent to which activities such as medical record keeping and risk communication can be improved to enhance veterans’ post-combat health status.

AUTHORITY TO TREAT COMBAT VETERANS

This bill gives VA the tools to apply these lessons learned by allowing VA to treat veterans from a theater of combat for two years post-discharge and to establish a plan for examining the health status and health utilization of veterans of future combat periods. This measure applies “lessons learned” from past experience with the aftermath of war and its effect on veterans. We have learned that some veterans may experience illnesses following service unrelated to recognizable combat wounds. We have learned that the sooner we address these health sequences, the more likely veterans are to improve over shorter periods of time. We have learned that having systems in place to identify unusual health care utilization patterns among combat veterans can help us to quickly recognize trends that may indicate unique exposures or problems.

SEXUAL TRAUMA COUNSELING

Among the most important provisions contained in the measure before us is the extension of VA’s authority to provide sexual trauma counseling to victims of sexual assault during their military service. My good friend, LUIS GUTIERREZ, the Ranking Democratic Member of the Health Subcommittee, has worked tirelessly to reauthorize VA’s provision of sexual trauma counseling to veterans, and he is due much of the credit for the inclusion of this provision in the omnibus bill.

Some surveys indicate that up to 52% of women in the military state that they have been sexually harassed. Since the number of women entering the military continues to grow, the need for sexual trauma counseling will obviously continue. While I am pleased that we are extending the authorization of this valuable program today, I want to continue to work on improvements and enhancements to sexual trauma counseling eligibility in the future.

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING FOR HOMELESS VETERANS

Mr. Speaker, I am very glad that the provisions of H.R. 3039, the Veterans Transitional Housing Opportunities Act of 1998, approved by the House on May 19, 1998 are contained in H.R. 4110. These provisions will expand the supply of transitional housing for homeless veterans by authorizing VA to guarantee loans for self-sustaining housing projects specifically targeted at homeless veterans. Patterned after many successful programs across the country, residents of the housing projects established under this section would be required to seek and maintain employment, maintain sobriety, and pay a reasonable fee for their residence.

According to Department of Veterans Affairs statistics, one-third of the homeless men in this country are military veterans, and approximately 60% of those individuals are veterans of the Vietnam era. On any given night, more than 271,000 veterans sleep on America’s streets and highways. Although transitional housing has been identified as a major need for homeless veterans, there is an acute shortage of this type of shelter, largely because of the difficulty in obtaining financing. In fact, to accommodate the hundreds of thousands of homeless veterans, VA has fewer than 5,000 transitional-type beds either under contract or as part of its domiciliary program. I believe that the loan guaranty program established under H.R. 3039 will generate opportunities for localities to provide transitional housing for homeless veterans.

SELECTED RESERVE HOME LOAN ELIGIBILITY

The compromise measure also includes a provision which would extend for five years the eligibility of members of the Selected Reserve for veterans housing loans. A similar provision contained in H.R. 4110 in the Veterans’ Benefits Improvement Act of 1998, when it was approved by the House in August. The VA’s current authority to guarantee home loans for members of the National Guard and Reserve components will expire on September 30, 1999. More than 43,000 Selected Reserve members have bought their homes using a VA home loan, and 67 percent of these individuals were first-time buyers. This program has been very successful, and I am pleased that this extension is included in the compromise agreement.

VETERAN STATUS FOR MERCHANT MARINERS

Another provision in the compromise measure extends veteran status, for the purpose of burial benefits, to Merchant Mariners who served our nation between the dates of August 15, 1945 and December 31, 1946—the official end of World War II. Until now, this special group has not received the recognition of veteran status to which I believe they have long been entitled. The service of Merchant Mariners to our nation includes the heroic efforts put forth during World War II by the thousands of young men who volunteered for service in the United States Merchant Marines. Many of these mariners were recruited specifically to staff ships under the control and direction of the United States Government to assist the World War II effort. These seamen were subject to government control; their vessels were controlled by the government under the authority of the War Shipping Administration and, like other branches of military service, they traveled under sealed orders and were subject to the Code of Military Justice.

Some volunteers joined the Merchant Marines because minor physical problems, such as poor eyesight, made them ineligible for service in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps. Others were encouraged by military recruiters to volunteer for service in the Merchant Marines because the recruiter recognized that the special skills offered by the volunteer could best be put to use for our country by service in the Merchant Marines. Most importantly, all were motivated by their deep love of country and personal sense of patriotism to contribute to the war effort.

In order to staff our growing merchant fleet during World War II, the U.S. Maritime Commission established training camps around the country under the direct supervision of the Coast Guard. After completing basic training, which included both small arms and cannon proficiency, seamen became active members of the U.S. Merchant Marines. These seamen, often at great personal risk, helped deliver troops and war supplies needed for every Allied invasion site from Guadalcanal to Omaha Beach.

More than 6,500 Merchant Marines who served our country during World War II gave the ultimate sacrifice of their lives, including 37 who died as prisoners of war, and almost 5,000 World War II Merchant Mariners remain missing and are presumed dead. In addition, 733 U.S. Merchant ships were destroyed. Even after the surrender of Japan, members of our Merchant Marine fleet were in mortal danger as they continued to support the war effort by entering mined harbors to transport our troops safely home. After the war ended, they carried food and medicine to millions of the world’s starving people. It is important to remember that during the time period addressed by this bill, August 15, 1945 through December 31, 1946, 12 U.S. Flag Merchant Vessels were lost or damaged as a result of striking mines, and some of the Merchant Mariners serving on these vessels were killed or injured. Fully understanding the tremendous risks they faced, mariners nonetheless willingly went into mined harbors so that they could bring our American troops home to their families and friends. I believe these courageous Merchant Mariners, who were subject to the risks and dangers of war between V-J Day and V-E Day, should be appropriately and properly denied veteran status. They faced the very real hazards of war-time hostile actions and should not be denied the status of veteran for purposes of laws administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs because their sea-going contribution began after August 15, 1945.
With the enactment of this legislation, Congress officially recognizes the veteran status of these brave mariners for the purpose of burial benefits. As the author of the Merchant Mariner Fairness Act, H.R. 1126, which was cosponsored by more than 300 Members of the House, I well remember the enactment of that legislation which provided additional veterans' benefits to these brave mariners. Nevertheless, I am pleased this legislation will at long last provide overdue recognition and grant veteran status for burial benefits.

STATE VETERAN CEMETERY GRANT PROGRAM

The compromise agreement also modifies the current State Cemetery Grants Program to authorize VA to pay up to 100 percent of the cost of constructing and equipping state veterans' cemeteries. Under current law, VA may pay up to 50 percent of the cost of land and construction. This provision was contained in H.R. 4110, the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act of 1998, as approved by the House in August.

When the Department first proposed that the state cemetery program be altered, VA officials indicated that they intended the modified program to replace construction of new national cemeteries. Although we on the Committee were interested in the VA's proposed changes in the cemetery grants, we strongly disagreed with the VA's assertion that an improved state grant program would eliminate the need for future national cemetery construction. The Committee made it clear to the VA that continuing construction of new national cemeteries must be a high priority, and that the state grants program, although important, is merely a supplement to an expanding national cemetery system. The VA subsequently expressed complete support for the Committee's views regarding future national cemetery construction, and the Committee included the state grant program enhancements in H.R. 4110, as approved by the House in August.

EDUCATION

Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased that the compromise measure includes all of the education provisions contained in H.R. 4110, as introduced, the Veterans' Benefits Improvement Act of 1998, which was unanimously approved by the House on August 3, 1998. Although all of these provisions will enhance veterans' education programs, I particularly want to stress the importance of the sections of the bill which require the VA and the military services to provide additional information regarding Montgomery GI Bill benefits to active duty servicemembers.

We have been told by college and VA officials that too many active duty servicemembers and veteran students are not well informed regarding their Montgomery GI Bill (MGIB) benefits. They do not understand the payment procedures under the MGIB and, too often, do not know the amount of the benefit to which they are entitled. Additionally, we have been informed that some young veterans who have taken early-outs from their military service, specifically in order to enter college, discovered when they applied for their VA education benefits that, because they took an early-out, they had not fulfilled the minimum active duty service requirements and, consequently, had lost their eligibility for Montgomery GI Bill benefits. It is our expectation that the VA and service branches will work closely together to ensure full and effective compliance with the requirements of the compromise measure and that servicemembers will have the GI Bill information they need—when they need it.

I am very pleased that the bill we are considering contains the provisions of H.R. 3213, the USERRA Amendments Act of 1998, which was approved by the House on March 24, 1998. These provisions are, in part, derived from those of H.R. 166, the Veterans' Job Protection Act, a bill introduced by Congressman Boe Filner, the Ranking Democrat on the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee on Benefits.

For more than 50 years, Federal law has provided protection for members of the uniformed services (including active duty and Reserve/National Guard duty) who choose to return to their civilian employment following military service. This protection has long covered state and private employment and is codified at chapter 43, title 38, United States Code. In particular, protections for those who believed their veterans' reemployment rights had not been honored included the right to bring an action against a state or private employer in federal court.

In 1996, the Supreme Court reached a decision in Seminole Tribe of Florida v. Florida that had the unintended effect of making unconstitutional the right of state employees to sue their employers in federal court if the employees believe their veterans' reemployment rights had been violated. Since that decision, at least two court decisions have ruled against the veteran involved. This bill restores the protections and remedies for state employees that existed prior to the Seminole Tribe decision, and I appreciate the Senate's support for the House-passed legislation.

NASOPHARYNGEAL IRRADIATION THERAPY

The compromise measure addresses the long-standing need for treatment of disorders associated with nasopharyngeal irradiation therapy. This therapy, given to veterans, received higher doses of radiation than many of the atomic veterans who are eligible to receive care in VA today. Veterans who served on aircraft or submarines were routinely and, often, involuntarily exposed to this therapy for prevention of sinuses and ear infections that were believed to be caused by providing medical care for conditions thought to be related to such treatment is long overdue. Credit is due to the Administration which recommended enactment of similar legislation to Congress.

SPECIALIZED SERVICES FOR DISABLED VETERANS

The bill before us today includes a provision to require VA to make recommendations to Congress on the capacity and quality, developed with VA's Advisory Committee on the Seriously Chronically Mentally Ill and the Committee on Special Disabilities to managers' performance contracts. I thank the Committee's majority who agreed to hold the compelling hearing in July and to develop the provision before us today. Decentralizing VA management and taking away authority VA service chiefs once had for ensuring the integrity of these programs may be largely to blame for these programs' disintegration. Once these programs offered "state-of-the-art" Subsidies on Health for the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs conducted a hearing earlier this year which examined the need to further protect these special programs. Notwithstanding special legislative protection Congress enacted to ensure that capacity in these programs is maintained, both veterans and other witnesses indicated VA has, in large part, not provided this protection.

MEDAL OF HONOR PENSION

The Committee has been advised that veterans who have been honored with the Medal of Honor are often called upon to attend many civic events and ceremonies all over the country because of their receipt of the Medal of Honor. In order to assure that the cost of any such participation does not adversely impact the finances of these recipients of the Medal of Honor, the bill increases the amount of the special pension which they receive from $400 per month to $600.

LIFE INSURANCE ACCELERATED DEATH BENEFIT

Terminally ill veterans often suffer from severe financial hardship. In order to relieve this hardship, the bill allows terminally ill veterans with a life expectancy of less than 12 months to obtain up to 50% of the value of their veteran life insurance policy as an accelerated death benefit. In order to assure that the funds received will be available to the terminally ill veteran; accelerated death benefits will be exempt from income and resources for purposes of all Federal and federally assisted programs and for all other purposes.

Thank you Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 4110, as amended. For the benefit of all Members, I have attached a summary of the provisions of H.R. 4110, as amended.

Summary of H.R. 4110, as Amended

Title I—Provisions Relating to Veterans of Persian Gulf War and Future Conflicts

1. Provide for the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) to review and evaluate the available scientific evidence and determine whether there is scientific evidence of an association between illnesses experienced by Gulf War veterans and service in—or one or more agents, hazards, or medicines in—The Persian Gulf War. NAS would have the discretion to decide whether such scientific evidence would warrant a presumption of service connection. NAS would provide periodic reports as well as recommendations to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, who would be required to evaluate the report and provide a response to Congress.

2. Establish authority for VA to provide priority health care to treat illnesses that may be attributable to a veteran's service in combat during any period of war after the Persian Gulf War or during any other future period of hostilities (notwithstanding that there is insufficient medical evidence to conclude that such illnesses are attributable to such service). Treatment would be available under this special authority for a period of two years after such discharge from service. VA would be required to track the health status and health care utilization problems of Gulf War veterans.
patterns of veterans who receive care under this priority.
3. Extend VA's special authority to provide care to Persian Gulf veterans through December 31, 2000.
4. Require VA to enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences to (a) develop a curriculum (to take feasible and reasonable, to monitor and study the effectiveness of such treatments and health outcomes.
5. Require VA and DoD to enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences to determine whether there is a methodology by which VA could determine the efficacy of treatments provided to Persian Gulf and Vietnam veterans for illnesses which may be associated with their Persian Gulf War service. VA is to develop a mechanism, if scientifically feasible and reasonable, to monitor and study the effectiveness of such treatments and health outcomes.
6. Require VA and DoD to establish a national center for the health of Persian Gulf veterans.
7. Require VA to evaluate the health status of spouses and children of Persian Gulf War veterans through December 31, 1999, and to provide such examinations through VA or under its fee-based or other contract arrangements.

Title II—Education and Employment

- Education matters
  1. Change the way VA calculates the reporting fee for educational institutions that enroll veterans. Once a year, VA pays educational institutions a "reporting fee" to cover, in part, costs associated with the reporting the institutions must submit on enrolled veterans. This provision would base the reporting fee on the number of veterans who enroll in a school during the entire year rather than the current method of reporting the number of veterans enrolled on October 31 of the year.
  2. Make optional, rather than mandatory, an annual payment of 40 percent of the amount which a veteran-student under VA's work-study program is eligible to receive for their veteran-related work in VA regional offices, VA health care institutions, or at another VA or National Guard facilities. Current law requires the advanced payment.
  3. Allow a veteran-student in flight training to continue to receive VA educational assistance if the veteran has inadvertently failed to maintain the required flight certification.
  4. Waive the wage increase and minimum salary requirements for on-the-job training programs provided by State and local governments.
  5. Require the VA and military service branches to expand outreach services concerning VA education program requirements to members of the armed services.
  6. Require the VA and military service branches to establish a Special Allowance Program to provide emergency financial assistance to veterans with service-connected disabilities.
  7. Require the VA and military service branches to ensure that separating service members are well informed of the eligibility requirements for their education benefits.

Employment matters

- Clarify the enforcement of veterans' employment and reemployment rights with respect to a State (as an employer), under the Uniformed Service Employment and Reemployment Rights Act.
- Extend veterans' employment and reemployment rights to former members of the armed forces employed overseas by United States companies.
- Clarify Federal employee enforcement of employment and reemployment rights.

Title III—Compensation, Pension, and Insurance

- Increase the special pension provided to permanently disabled veterans who served on active duty in the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Coast Guard Medal of Honor Roll from $400 to $600 per month.
- Provide for the payment of accelerated death benefits in the cases of veterans who were members of the Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance and Veterans' Group Life Insurance policies.
- Direct VA to provide to Congress an assessment of the effectiveness and adequacy of insurance and benefits programs for the survivors of veterans with service-connected disabilities.
- Authorize the VA to issue dividends to the holders of National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) series policies. All other NSLI policies issue dividends.

Title IV—Memorial Affairs

- Authorize VA to furnish a memorial marker for certain members of the armed forces and spouses whose remains are unavailable for interment.
- Extend eligibility for burial in National Cemeteries and funeral benefits to veterans of the merchant marine on or after August 16, 1945 to December 31, 1946.
- Resignate the National Cemetery System (NCS) as National Cemetery Administration, elevating NCS to the same organizational status within VA as the Veterans Health Administration and the Veterans Benefits Administration. The provision would reauthorize the Director of the National Cemetery System as the Under Secretary for Memorial Affairs.
- Modify the existing State Cemetery Grants Program to authorize VA to pay up to 100 percent of the cost of constructing and equipping state veterans' cemeteries.

Title V—Court of Veterans Appeals

- Allow a sitting judge at the Court of Veterans Appeals nominated for a second term to remain on the bench for up to one year while awaiting Senate confirmation.
- Exempt veterans' survivor annuity benefits, including Social Security benefits, from state income tax.
- Provide the same adjustments for annuities to the survivors of deceased Court of Veterans Appeals judges as those received by the Judiciary Survivors' Annuities Fund annuitants.
- Direct the Court to submit a report on the feasibility of merging the retirement and survivor annuity plans with other federal court retirement and survivor annuity programs.
- Require the Court of Veterans Appeals of the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims.
TITLE IX—MISCELLANEOUS MEDICAL CARE AND MEDICAL ADMINISTRATION PROVISIONS

1. Authorize VA to develop and apply job-performance standards to VA network directors and any other officials responsible for the allocation and management of resources relating to the requirement to maintain special disability programs.

2. Provide ongoing authority to use pension funds above the $90 monthly limit for certain ongoing nursing home care for operating expenses of VA medical facilities.

3. Provide the VA to submit a report to Congress by February 1, 1999 and February 1, 2000 assessing the current system of locality-based pay for nurses.

4. Require the VA to provide an annual report to Congress on the Department’s activities relating to its preparation for and participation in a domestic medical response to an attack involving weapons of mass destruction.

5. Permit the interim appointment of the Under Secretary for Health for service until July 1, 1998.

TITLE X—OTHER MATTERS

1. Require that, except as specified in law, a facility, structure, or property (or major part of any facility, structure or property) of the Department be named for the geographic area where it is located.

2. Provide reversion rights to attorney positions at the Board of Veterans' Appeals for civil service attorneys who are members of the Board of Veterans' Appeals and whose appointments to the Board are terminated.

3. Afford the Board of Veterans' Appeals flexibility in scheduling hearings, and in considering and deciding appeals, so that unintended delays may be avoided. BVA would be authorized to postpone consideration and disposition of appeals in order to afford the appellant a hearing. BVA would also be authorized to schedule travel board hearings on the basis of the pending appeals' relative prior to the day the appeals were received.

4. Change the formula used by the Veterans Employment and Training Service to determine the number of Disabled Veterans Outreach Program Specialists (DVOPS) to reflect the working-age veteran population in each state.

TITLE XI—COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT

Increase, effective as of December 1, 1998, the rates of compensation for veterans with service-connected disabilities and the rates of dependency and indemnity compensation for survivors of certain disabled veterans.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Stump. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Stearns), the chairman of our Subcommittee on Health of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

Mr. STEARNS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4110, and I am also proud to be one of its key sponsors. As chairman of the Subcommittee on Health, we have had many hearings over the years on behalf of veterans in this conflict. Without saying there is many people on this House floor, on both sides of the aisle, that have done much to make this bill possible, particularly, of course, the chairman, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Stump), and the ranking member, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Lane Evans).

I particularly want to thank our dedicated Chairman Bob Stump for his leadership and work on behalf of veterans. I want to thank and acknowledge LANE EVANS, the Ranking Member of the full committee; LUÍS GUTIERREZ, the Ranking on the Health Subcommittee; and JOE KENNEDY for their hard work on this measure. I also want to thank CHRISS SHAYS for all his work on the Persian Gulf issue, which contributed to the bill we bring to the floor today. This legislation advances the extensive work this committee and the Congress have done over the years on behalf of Persian Gulf veterans. Its enactment will help ensure that these veterans receive services and benefits to which they are entitled.

This legislation is also forward-looking. It aims to apply the lessons of the Persian Gulf experience so as to avoid the problem of future combat for veterans. It has become clear, for example, that early treatment is important in overcoming health problems that may be linked to wartime service. This bill will authorize the VA in advance, to treat veterans of future combat situations for any illnesses that develop within 2 years after service. Our long study of the Persian Gulf experience and of prior conflicts underscores that we have much to learn about the effects of wartime service generally.

The bill also provides a mechanism for the establishment of a national center for the study of war-related illnesses to carry out and to foster education and improved clinical care. The bill will also extend to VA special authority to treat Persian Gulf War veterans, and it contains important provisions to improve VA's service delivery to those veterans and to improve the research efforts regarding these illnesses.

Mr. Speaker, millions of veterans depend upon the VA health care system. Accordingly, this bill would also address ongoing needs of this system, ranging from assuring adequate health care staffing to improving its infrastructure. As its title indicates, this legislation is truly aimed at improving veterans' programs.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the Members to support it. The House has passed this bill twice, Mr. Speaker. If it goes to the Senate, it will include a COLA bill. It is absolutely mandatory that the Senate move this to the President.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 4110, as amended. Many of the key provisions of this truly important legislation originated in the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee on Health, which I chair. So I particularly welcome the House action today and urge members to support this measure.

This legislation advances the extensive work this Committee and the Congress have done over the years on behalf of Persian Gulf veterans. Its enactment will help ensure that these veterans receive services and benefits to which they are entitled. At the same time this legislation is forward-looking in aiming to apply lessons of the Persian Gulf experience so as to avoid problems for veterans of future combat.

In studying the lessons of the Persian Gulf experience, it became clear to us that early treatment is important in overcoming health problems that may be linked to wartime service. Several years after the end of hostilities, Congress created special treatment authorities for Vietnam veterans and for Persian Gulf veterans (tied to presumed exposures to toxic substances). In hindsight, it would have been helpful for veterans of those conflicts if such legislation had been in place much earlier, before some of their acute health problems became chronic. This bill would build on this experience and authorize VA, in advance, to treat veterans of future combat situations for illnesses attributable to such service within two years after service. Under this legislation, such veterans would be eligible for VA care, regardless of whether their illnesses have been adjudicated as service-connected. While the other body was unwilling to agree to the duration- or treatment authority provided for in the House-passed bill, this is a most important provision.

Our long study of the Persian Gulf experience and of prior conflicts underscores that we have much to learn about the effects of wartime service. Significantly, this bill should help advance our understanding. To that end, it provides a mechanism for the establishment of a national center for the study of war-related illnesses to carry out and foster research, education, and improved clinical care of such illnesses, as proposed in House-passed H.R. 3980. The measure also provides authority to extend VA's special authority to treat Persian Gulf War veterans, and to improve VA service-delivery to those veterans.

The bill asks much of the Department of Veterans Affairs, but it also provides for VA to tap independent scientific expertise in carrying out its new responsibilities on behalf of Persian Gulf veterans. Congress has long looked to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences to carry out that role. For years, the Institute has done important work on veterans issues, from exhaustive reviews into the health effects of herbicides used in Vietnam, to ongoing analysis of the health consequences of service during the Persian Gulf War. The complexity and controversy associated with Persian Gulf War illnesses highlights the importance of bringing independent expertise and judgment to our questions. Under this legislation, the Institute would provide advice and recommendations to guide virtually every aspect of major decision-making associated with resolving the remaining problems and questions relating to the health consequences of veterans' service in this war, from compensation questions to identifying methods of improving the care provided to these veterans. As its title indicates, this legislation is truly aimed at improving veterans programs. This will be quite evident in the area of VA health programs—the focus of my subcommittee. For example, the measure we bring to the floor would:

- Establish authority for VA to provide priority health care to treat illnesses that may be attributable to a veteran's service in combat during any period of war after the Vietnam War or during any other future period of hostilities (notwithstanding that there is insufficient medical evidence to conclude that such illnesses are attributable to such service). Treatment would be available under this special authority for a period of two years after such veteran's discharge from service. VA would be required to track the health status and health care utilization patterns of veterans who receive care under this authority. VA would report on progress on the first eighteen months' use of that authority and on any recommendations to extend it; Extend VA's special authority to provide care to Persian Gulf veterans through December 31, 2001. Require VA to enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences or other appropriate independent organization to assist in developing a plan for the establishment of a national center for the study of war-related illnesses and post-deployment health issues. Several other provisions of the bill also call for contracting with the National Academy to assist in carrying out Government responsibilities relating to the health consequences of service in the Persian Gulf War. While the bill reflects the esteem in which the Academy is held, it is not our intention to require duplication of effort or to impose undue financial burdens on the Department. The bill is not intended, for example, to require VA to renegotiate contracts which have already been executed and which would otherwise carry out the requirements of the bill. Nor does the existence of multiple specific requirements (for VA, or VA and Department of Defense, to contract with NAS) in title I necessarily constitute a requirement that separate contracts involving separate research projects must be executed to carry out each provision. Where, for example, the scientific expertise required to address a particular requirement set forth in one section of the bill would in whole or in part serve to address a requirement set forth in a different section, the VA and Department of Defense could determine the efficacy of treatments provided Persian Gulf War veterans for illnesses which may be associated with their Persian Gulf War service and (b) develop a mechanism, if scientifically feasible and reasonable, to monitor and study the effectiveness of such treatment and health outcomes; and that VA and Department of Defense enter an agreement with the National Academy to (a) develop an educational curriculum (to take account of new research findings relating to care of veterans with illnesses that may be associated with Persian Gulf War services) for use in continuing education of VA and Department of Defense physicians, and (b) periodically review and provide recommendations regarding the Departments' research plans relating to Persian Gulf illnesses.

In further addressing concerns surrounding the health consequences of Persian Gulf service, the bill would:

- Provide authority to establish a public advisory committee (to include veterans of the Persian Gulf War) to provide advice to the Secretaries of Veterans Affairs, Health and Human Services, and Defense on proposed research studies, research plans, or research strategies relating to the health of Persian Gulf veterans; require the pertinent Executive branch departments to expand their annual reporting on the status and results of Persian Gulf research activities, to include their research priorities for the upcoming year, and to better coordinate their outreach activities; require publication of all Government-conducted research findings relating to care of veterans through the World Wide Web and elsewhere; extend VA's authority to evaluate the health status of spouses and children of Persian Gulf veterans through December 31, 1999, and to provide for such examinations through VA facilities, as appropriate and under contract, including through its fee basis program. The measure reflects a recognition that although the VA health care system is changing, Congress must address the special needs, ranging from infrastructure to system-management to health-care staffing. Accordingly, among its provisions, the bill provides for continuity in leadership of the Veterans Health Administration by authorizing the interim appointment of Under Secretary for Health of the former incumbent, the very able Dr. Kenneth Kizer. The measure also provides mechanisms to help attract and retain health-care professionals in positions where VA has experienced difficulties in recruiting or retaining qualified staff. Particularly noteworthy is a new education-debt reduction authority. The bill would also add to title 38 provisions modeled on VA's so-called “grow-your-own” employee-scholarship program, to provide an incentive for VA and Department of Defense employees to pursue advanced education or training for positions for which VA or a particular VA medical facility has recruitment and retention needs. The legislation also requires the establishment of an interagency, inter-service specific account applicable to VA network directors in the exercise of responsibilities associated with network management and resource allocation as they relate to VA programs dedicated to the specialized treatment and rehabilitative needs of disabled veterans. This legislation would also authorize major medical construction projects for funding in this or the following fiscal year. Finally, the bill addresses a unique problem relating to employee pay-parking at a facility in Hawaii; but in no way retreats from or alters the otherwise applicable requirements of section 8109 of title 38, United States Code.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. FELLER).

Mr. FELLER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his remarks. I want to do this because I also rise in strong support of H.R. 4110, the Veterans' Program Enhancement Act of 1998. I think this is a measure which is the result of bipartisan and bicameral cooperative efforts on behalf of our Nation's veterans.

Of particular importance to our Gulf War veterans are provisions from the bill introduced in the House by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) and by our ranking member, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LANE EVANS), and in the Senate by Senator ROCKEFELLER.

While we have to go further in the next Congress, these provisions will provide an independent third-party review by the National Academy of Sciences concerning the exposure to toxic substances present in the gulf theater and the prevalence of illnesses experienced by our Gulf veterans; it would authorize eligibility for VA health care for Persian Gulf Veterans until December 31, 2001; and it makes a number of changes to improve the health care offered to Gulf War veterans. All of these
Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman so tender his remarks, and to include extraneus material.)

Mr. FARR of California. Mr. Speaker, I thank both the chairman and the ranking member for all their hard work that brought this to the floor today. I appreciate particularly being able to work on section 404 of the bill, which expands the State Cemetery Grants Program.

The need for additional cemeteries to serve our Nation’s veterans is of critical importance. VAs have made to all the citizens of Illinois the commitment that they will maintain the commitment that has been made to the citizens of Illinois.

In my opinion, Mr. West’s office moved unilaterally without any congressional or Committee oversight, a departure from VA’s own policies and procedures in naming facilities.

Congress has well-established procedures for naming facilities of all kinds in honor of individuals. The VA chose to step outside its legal authority, ignoring procedures and precedent. VA’s own policy clearly states that the naming of VA facilities in honor of individuals will be done only by congressional mandate.

This situation has me very concerned about the VA’s apparent lack of regard for procedures. I am pleased that this legislation will address this issue and provide a solution.

Central Coast veterans won’t let a veto by Gov. Pete Wilson stop their drive for a veterans’ cemetery at Fort Ord. For the past three years, Giblin has helped lead a push by Central Coast veterans’ groups to persuade the state to develop a veterans’ cemetery on 156 acres at Artillery Hill at Fort Ord.

But the campaign was dealt a setback last week when Gov. Wilson vetoed a bill by State Sen. Bruce McPherson, R-Santa Cruz, that would have required the state to take a $20,000 look at the feasibility of a Fort Ord cemetery. “(McPherson) was surprised and disappointed,” said Arville Banos in Merced County. “That’s too far away for many survivors to travel, and it’s not convenient to public transportation.”

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise to thank the ranking member, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LAHOOD). This is a tribute to a bi-partisan, bicameral effort to help our veterans.

Mr. Speaker, I represent the Veterans Hospital in my community and, therefore, I see a lot of veterans. I see a lot of hospitalized veterans and I find the pleasure of going to the Veterans Hospital and not giving the Purple Heart to one who was hospitalized, but one who was a participant of a terrible, terrible oppression as a veteran of World War II, someone who was part of the Japanese death march, Mr. Arville Steele. So I know how important this is to those who have served in our military.

This is a good bill. This responds to the claims and the accusations that the Veterans Department was not responsive to those who were impacted by the Persian Gulf War. This is a good bill that allows for treatment of these individuals for at least a 2-year period and studies the impact of anything that might have happened to them as a result of the Persian Gulf War.

I am grateful to all of the committee members and I believe this is a good bill that should pass.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 4110, the Veterans Benefits Improvements Act of 1998. I am pleased that in the final days of this Congress, this body has decided to address the deserving Veterans of this Nation.

The bill contains two key provisions. First, it addresses the widespread unmet need and suffering of Persian Gulf veterans. This bill provides for the National Academy of Sciences to review and evaluate the available scientific evidence. It also determines whether there is scientific evidence of an association between illnesses experienced by Gulf War veterans and any environmental factors.

We need to let America’s troops know that, we will do everything in our power to protect their health and that of their families. This bill...
The VA has the authority to provide priority and benefits to veterans who served in the Persian Gulf War.

Second, this bill provides a cost of living adjustment to veterans who served in the Persian Gulf War. The bill will increase the rate of compensation for veterans with service-connected disabilities and the rates of dependency and indemnity compensation for survivors of certain disabled veterans.

From World War I to the Gulf War veterans were the best and the brightest that our Nation had to offer from each generation, therefore, we should in turn offer the best to our Nation's veterans.

Mr. Speaker, this bill expresses our gratitude to our Nation's veterans. They served this nation without hesitation or reservation and it is now time for us to ensure their future security without hesitation or reservation.

On behalf of the Veterans who reside in the 18th Congressional District, of Houston, and the 1,646,700 veterans in the State of Texas, I would like to encourage my colleagues support for this bill.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I yield my time to the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS).

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, thank you. I want to say, first of all, there has been a lot of important testimony here today from a lot of great witnesses, and I appreciate the leadership of the committee in bringing this hearing today to hear the concerns of the veterans who are ill as a result of exposure to a wide variety of toxins. They need to be treated.

We should presume that if illness strikes them, the reason is they were suffering from a veteran's illness in the Gulf War and they should be compensated accordingly. This bill goes a little way and only a little way to addressing those problems.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I yield further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, how much time do I have time remaining?

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. SHAYS).

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS).

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. SHAYS).

We have worked for days and days trying to strike a compromise with the Senate, and I will tell the gentleman that this was the best way we could come up with. I agree with him on some parts of the Persian Gulf War and I disagree with some, but we got every inch we could get.

Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, we need to properly diagnose, properly compensate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, when I make a unanimous consent, is that counted as part of my 30 seconds?
In naming the 982 acre site after President Abraham Lincoln, we not only acknowledge the role he played in creating the National Cemetery System, but also honor the memory of those brave men and women who answered our nation's call to defend democracy and freedom.

The Department of Illinois, Veterans of Foreign Wars certainly commend the Department of Veterans Affairs, Department of Defense, Congress and the local communities for their vision and initiatives in acquiring a portion of the former Joliet Army Ammunition Plant, and the beautiful Hoff Woods site for use as the new National Cemetery to serve the veterans and families of this mid-west region.

We certainly appreciate your introducing this most important legislation in the House of Representatives and look forward to the passage of same.

With warmest personal regards and best wishes, I remain

Sincerely,

DONALD HARTENBERGER,
Department Commander.

HON. JERRY WELLER,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE WELLER: The American Legion, Department of Illinois, takes great pride in supporting the introduction of legislation naming the new veterans cemetery at the former Joliet Arsenal the “Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery.”

On Saturday, April 5, 1997 at Normal, Illinois, our state Executive Committee approved a resolution commending the Department of Veterans Affairs, Department of Defense, Congress and the local community for their vision and initiatives in acquiring a portion of the former Joliet Army Ammunition Plant, and the beautiful Hoff Woods site, for use as the new National Cemetery to serve the veterans and families of the mid-west region.

A copy of the approved resolution is attached and we respectfully urge the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the United States Congress to confirm the designation of the former Joliet Arsenal as the “Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery” to honor all veterans and President Abraham Lincoln, who first established the National Cemetery system.

Sincerely,

VINCENT A. SANZOTTA, Department Adjutant.

AMVETS,
ILLINOIS STATE HEADQUARTERS,
Springfield, IL, September 26, 1997.

HON. JERRY WELLER,
Cannon House Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN WELLER: Our last State Executive Committee Meeting, held at the Hilton Hotel, Springfield, Illinois, on September 12-14, 1997. At this meeting it was voted unanimously to endorse your legislation to name the Joliet National Cemetery as the Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery. Since Mr. Lincoln was instrumental in establishing the original National Cemetery, it is only fitting that he finally receives the honor of having a National Cemetery named after him.

Sincerely,

JERRY F. FOSTER,
Department Commander.

HONOR ABE AT THE NATIONAL CEMETERY

Among his many accomplishments, Abraham Lincoln created the National Cemetery System in 1862 to provide proper, registered resting places for the nation’s Civil War dead. Today there are more than 100,000 cemeteries, and to be buried in one is a singular honor for the people who have served their country in the armed forces.

Now there is an opportunity to memorialize this gracious act by America’s 16th and—by most assessments—greatest president. As reported recently by the Tribune’s William Presecky, a move is afoot to name the country’s newest and second-largest national cemetery after Lincoln, as part of the peace-time conversion of the former Joliet Arsenal.

There could be no more appropriate choice in a more appropriate setting.

Though born in Kentucky and raised in Indiana, Lincoln was forever identified with Illinois—the land he chose to pursue his career in law and politics, where he honed his rustic genius and magnanimous spirit.

From here he left to stage his tragic presidency; to here he returned for eternity.

The cemetery—to open in 1999 on 982 acres of the arsenal site—will be bordered one day by more than 19,000 acres of restored tallgrass prairie, the symbol of the promising pioneer Illinois that lured Lincoln.

The process of naming a national cemetery is a lengthy one, requiring congressional and presidential approval, with the recommendation coming from the Department of Veterans Affairs. Many names are expected to be submitted, including those of other early settlers, and there will be many disappointments.

The wise course is to unite in consensus now for Lincoln, in the spirit of the great conciliator.

HEY, LAHOOD: LINCOLN’S NAME BELONGS ON NATIONAL VETERANS’ CEMETERY

The arrogance of U.S. Rep. Ray LaHood just plain upsets me. I’m angry at the Peoria congressman’s selfish attitude. The swagger he has worked to bring the veterans cemetery here.

The arrogance of U.S. Rep. Ray LaHood has attacked the use of Abraham Lincoln’s name. Tell him no! The time conversion of the former Joliet Arsenal, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and American Ex-Prisoners of War.

“Clearly, it is proper to name the second-largest veterans cemetery in the nation after the man who established the national veterans cemetery system especially since no national veterans cemetery, even in Springfield, has ever honored Abraham Lincoln,” Weller said.

“Let’s continue to build momentum of this name selection and pass this legislation into law. We feel this is a great honor for Abraham Lincoln, veterans and the entire state of Illinois.

Amen to that comment.

By the way, LaHood told me his opposition to use of the Lincoln name here—and he vowed to continue that opposition—is based upon conversations with public officials in Springfield and all over central Illinois.

I checked with our sister newspaper in Springfield, The State Journal Register, and they haven’t reported one story about folks down there objecting to the use of the Lincoln name. Not even one letter to the editor, I was told.

Oh well, this isn’t the first time I’ve wondered where a politician got the information he used in shooting off his mouth.

I would urge local veterans, veteran organizations and other readers to drop the congressman a line about his greedy attitude on the use of Abe Lincoln’s name. Tell him no one can hog a state and national treasure. Write to U.S. Rep. Ray LaHood, 320 Cannon HSO, Washington, D.C. 20515, or call him at (202) 225-6201.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR—AMAZED AT ‘ARROGANCE’

I am amazed at the arrogance of U.S. Rep. Ray LaHood to publicly deny the respectful use of President Abraham Lincoln's name to be affiliated with the new National Veterans Cemetery, which will be located at the old Army ammunition plant just south of Elwood.

Anyone who says he represents the majority view of those people in his district community, and state as Rep. LaHood proclaims to, should be ashamed if he thought he is unfit to represent anyone on any issue.

We owe many thanks to U.S. Rep. Jerry Weller for his concern and devoted efforts to bring to the project to a respectable and honorable conclusion. I hope that Rep. LaHood remembers that as long as our Stars and Stripes fly over this great nation that it is the majority view at the end, that the unfished devotion of some four million of our friends, neighbors, sons and daughters for around 222 years now, who gave up everything to ensure our sovereignty to that very end.

LEONARD SELTZER, Manhattan.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN BEST NAME FOR NATIONAL CEMETERY HERE

There is one surprising facet to the national cemetery system that may not have come to your attention. None is named after the president who started the cemeteries. Free burial in the cemeteries is offered to veterans (and their spouses) who have served this nation.

The national cemeteries are shrines to our fallen heroes. Veterans do not have to be buried in national cemeteries. That is their option. Many select this free service and their families are honored to have burials in hallowed ground.

There are more than 100 national cemeteries in various parts of the country, including the most famous being Arlington National Cemetery, the home to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and burial ground of famous leaders such as President John F. Kennedy.

The national cemetery system dates to the Civil War. The federal government began providing this service after it was signed into law by President Abraham Lincoln, commonly called the founder of the national cemetery system.

The surprising part about the cemeteries is that none is named after President Lincoln. That can be corrected if the new national cemetery on the former Joliet arsenal is named after him.

That name has received bipartisan support in Congress from Illinois Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun, a Democrat, and Rep. Jerry Weller, a Republican from Morris.

Local veterans have shown considerable support for the Lincoln name. Many names have been suggested, including numerous ideas from Herald News readers.

Abraham Lincoln is by far the best choice for this cemetery in our back yard. The name of the distinguished Illinois is called the Land of Lincoln and his ties extend across the state.

The Lincoln name has not yet been officially approved in Washington D.C. We understand there is also some opposition from one member of the Illinois congressional delegation.

The opposition is based on other areas of the state claiming exclusive use of the Lincoln name.

We beg to differ. Lincoln belongs to all of Illinois. The area is fortunate that we are being honored with a national cemetery and that Lincoln's name has not been used before.

The Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery is welcome here and so his name. Lincoln should have his name on a national cemetery and his home state is the best choice for this honor. We hope federal officials see the wisdom of naming this cemetery after Abraham Lincoln.

LAHOOD WON'T QUIT ON CEMETERY NAME

WASHING:—Refusing to surrender in a mini-civil war among Illinois' congressional delegation, Rep. Jerry LaHood, R-Peoria, on Monday questioned whether Acting Veterans Affairs Secretary Togo West had the authority to bestow Abraham Lincoln's name on a new veterans cemetery in Illinois.

A Veterans Affairs Department spokesman said West clearly had the authority under federal regulations, though he acknowledged it was not surprising this last Wednesday effectively short-circuited LaHood's effort to block Lincoln's name from being used at the cemetery, which is under construction at the former Joliet Arsenal.

LaHood believes the naming could harm tourism in Springfield, where Lincoln is buried, since people may believe the 16th president is interred at the Joliet cemetery. However, two other members of the state's congressional delegation—Rep. Jerry Weller, a Republican from Morris, and Carol Moseley-Braun—backed the Joliet proposal, saying Lincoln is identified with the entire state, not just his hometown.

At a recent fiscal budget matters, West "assured our committee (that it) would have some say in this," LaHood said. "They knew of my objections."

On Monday, LaHood fired off a letter to West in which he questioned West's authority to unilaterally approve the cemetery name and asked him to reconsider.

"Your discussions with Congress . . . certainly falls short in this case," LaHood wrote. "In the past, the naming of a Department of Veterans Affairs facility has required a congressional mandate or executive order."

Department spokesman Terry Emison cited federal statutes that say the department secretary is "responsible for naming national cemeteries."

However, he added that, "Generally, (the authority) has not been exercised."

He said he was uncertain why.

In a memo to the director of the National Cemetery System, West called his move "an unprecedented action of the Department of Veterans Affairs policy."

It was warranted by Lincoln's ties to Illinois, the fact that Lincoln initiated the National Cemetery System and support for the name among veterans' groups, West wrote.

Mr. QUINN. Mr. Speaker, there has been considerable interest this Congress in the health status of Persian Gulf war veterans and the government's response to the concern that many veterans who served in the gulf and are suffering from disease related to exposure to gulf, and to pay compensation for such illnesses. These bills would rigidly define the circumstances in which the Secretary of Veteran Affairs would pay compensation for gulf war illnesses.

Mr. LAHOOD. I agree. I think that the Secretary of Veterans Affairs the authority to establish presumptions that certain illnesses are related to service in the gulf, and to pay compensation for such illnesses. These bills would rigidly define the circumstances in which the Secretary of Veterans Affairs would pay compensation for gulf war illnesses.

Mr. Speaker, several of the bills introduced this Congress would provide that the Secretary of Veterans Affairs ought to respond to the scientific evidence as it is produced, nor would it have any responsibility to respond to the analysis and conclusions of the National Academy of Science on the scientific evidence to support establishing a presumption.

It is my belief that Congress has always had the preeminent role in establishing which diseases veterans should be compensated for on a case-by-case basis. Congress, we must not end-run around the committee, which had jurisdiction over this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, section 301 of the bill increases the pension paid to those who have been awarded the Medal of Honor from its current $400 to $600. When this special benefit was first created in 1916, the amount was a modest $10. This amount was modest for two reasons; first because Congress did not want to begin paying substantial payments to honor distinguished service, and second, because Congress did not want a payment to diminish the honor of the Medal. Those purposes inform our action today.

In truth, it is difficult to say that a payment of modest amount, is adequate to honor the valor of those who have been awarded the Medal of Honor. It would be easy to say that they deserve a much higher monthly pension. The amount which we authorize today is still quite modest, but is perhaps more generous when adjusted for inflation than the amount originally authorized in 1916. One reason to be more generous is that the living veterans who have been awarded the highest military award for valor are often asked to make public appearances on behalf of patriotic causes. These appearances are frequently asked to travel and incur expenses in connection with civic work and patriotic activities. These stories Americans should be encouraged to continue their inspirational and motivational activities on behalf of all Americans. That is why we approved the increase which is contained in this measure today.

I want to thank the ranking Democrat on the subcommittee, BOB FILER, for working throughout the 105th Congress with me and other members of the subcommittee. Mike Brinck, our former subcommittee staff director, if you're listening, thanks for all the hard work. To my Chairman BOB STUMP, and Ranking Member LANE EVANS, my thanks for all your help and leadership. I look forward to seeing you the 106th Congress.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 4110, the Veterans’ Benefits Improvement Act.

H.R. 4110 authorizes a full-cost-of-living adjustment for veterans with service-connected disabilities and the rates of dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) for the survivors of certain disabled veterans, for fiscal year 1999. It also simplifies VA education programs, makes Reservists and National Guard members permanently eligible for the VA Home Loan Program, and makes internal improvements to the operation of the U.S. Court of Veterans Appeals.

The disability compensation program is intended to provide some measure for those earning potential has been adversely impacted as a result of disabilities incurred during military service.

The survivors benefit program is intended to provide partial compensation to the appropriate survivors for a loss of financial support due to a service-connected death.

Congress has provided an annual cost-of-living adjustment to these veterans and survivors since 1976. This legislation also addresses a potential future problem for the Court of Veterans Appeals. Beginning in 2004, five of the six original appointees on this court will be eligible for retirement.

Moreover, the last 2 years have seen a substantial increase in the workload and backlog of cases pending before the court.

This legislation permits the Court of Veterans Appeals to operate in a manner similar to other Federal courts, whereby retired judges are permitted to volunteer their services in a limited capacity, typically 25 percent of a normal workload. These judges receive a retired pay equal to that of an active judge in exchange for their services.

This goal of the provision is to provide an effective measure to help reduce overall workload and shorten the time that veterans must wait for decisions on their appeals.

Finally, H.R. 4110 makes permanent the authority of the VA to guarantee home loans for National Guard and Reserve members. This authority was previously set to expire on September 30, 1999.

Mr. Speaker, I believe this is worthy legislation and an appropriate response of this legislative body to the sacrifices made by our Nation’s veterans and their families.

Accordingly, I urge all of my colleagues to support this measure.

Mr. RODRIGUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise to remind us of the covenant we have with our Nation’s veterans to ensure they receive the benefits and medical attention they deserve. This legislation ensures that benefits and priority health care will be upgraded to keep up with changing times.

This bill provides a cost of living index, while improving and expanding education, burial and disability benefits.

This bill helps Persian Gulf veterans. They have been sitting on the sidelines suffering from undiagnosed illnesses while scientists try to figure out whether or not this is “service-connected.” When it comes to the health of veterans and their families, they need coverage up front.

In the meantime, this bill will increase public input and public knowledge of on-going research into undiagnosed illnesses among veterans.

I commend my colleagues on the VA committee for the bipartisan nature in which we are able to conduct our business.

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I deeply regret that H.R. 4110 did not contain a presumption of exposure for Persian Gulf War veterans. The Subcommittee on Human Resources of the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs and Oversight chaired by the gentleman from Connecticut, Mr. SHAYS, held over a dozen hearings for the last 32 months. As the Ranking Minority on this Subcommittee, I am proud to say that these hearings were conducted on a totally bipartisan fashion which later resulted in two important bills, introduced by Mr. SHAYS and myself with over 200 co-sponsors. These bills tracked two major recommendations of our oversight report, H.R. 4036 and H.R. 4035. Our oversight report recommended two important changes in the manner in which the VA procedurally handles the presumption of exposure and a prohibition against a waiver of informed consent requirements by the FDA for the use of experimental or investigational drugs, unless the President approves. Tragically, neither provision was included in a rush to push this bill forward. I believe that there are important provisions in H.R. 4110 but no one should be under the allusion that this bill will really meet the needs of Persian Gulf War veterans or any veterans who may face similar battle conditions in the future.

Ms. PRIYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, today, I rise in support of H.R. 4110, the Veterans Programs Enhancement Act of 1998, which will help us continue our care for nation’s veterans. I am particularly pleased that this legislation includes a bill, which I introduced H.R. 4602, naming the Veterans Outpatient Clinic in Columbus, Ohio after Chalmers P. Wylie.

I would like to express a note of personal thanks to Chairman Stump and Ranking-Member LANE EVANS of the House Veterans’ Affairs Committee, as well as Chairman SPECKER and Ranking-Member ROCKEFELLER of the Senate Veterans’ Affairs Committee for their support during the development of this legislation. I would also like to express my appreciation for the support of all 18 members of the Ohio congressional delegation, who were original co-sponsors of this legislation. Finally, I would like to thank Senator Mike DeWine and Senator John Glenn for their efforts and support in the Senate.

Sadly, on August 14, 1998, former Representative Chalmers Wylie passed away at the age of 77. First elected to the House of Representatives in 1966, Chalmers Wylie served thirteen terms, rising to ranking member of the House Banking, Finance, and Urban Affairs Committee. Mr. Wylie dedicated his life to serving Ohio and, in particular, the people of the 15th District. He earned the respect and admiration of everyone with whom he came in contact and, still today, constituents speak of him fondly wherever I go.

While many knew of Chalmers Wylie’s wonderful service in the House of Representatives, few people knew of his distinguished service in World War II. Chalmers Wylie was an Army combat veteran who was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds sustained while rescuing fallen comrades in Germany. Mr. Wylie also was awarded the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, the Presidential Unit Citation with two oak-leaf clusters, the Croix de Guerre and Belgian Fourragier.

During his service in Congress, Chalmers Wylie also served as a distinguished member of the Veterans’ Affairs Committee. In this position, he fought for the veterans of our nation and was instrumental in improving veteran access to medical care in Columbus, Ohio through the establishment of the Veterans Affairs Outpatient Clinic. It is a fitting end to our legislative session to have Members of Congress honor one of our own. Chalmers Wylie was a distinguished Member of Congress, a dedicated veteran, and a devoted Ohioan, and he is deserving of this proper tribute.

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with deep concern about our country’s failure to properly diagnose, effectively treat and fairly compensate veterans who are ill because of their service in the Gulf War. Today, the House considered and passed H.R. 4110, the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act. While I supported the bill, I am profoundly disappointed. H.R. 4110 does not address the issue of presumption of service connected disability for our Gulf War Veterans.
In March 1996 responding to requests by veterans, the Subcommittee on Human Resources, which I chair, initiated a far-reaching oversight investigation into the status of efforts to understand the clusters of symptoms and debilitating maladies known collectively as "Gulf War Syndrome." After 13 hearings, Representatives TOWNS, SNOWBARGER, SANDERS and I introduced H.R. 4036, the Persian Gulf War Veterans Health Act of 1998 with strong bipartisan support and that of the Gulf War veterans' community and the veterans' community at large.

H.R. 4036 would establish in law the presumption of service-connection for illnesses associated with exposure to toxins present in the war theater. The Secretary of Veterans Affairs (VA) would be required to accept the findings of an independent scientific body as to the illnesses linked with actual and presumed toxic exposures. The bill would also require the VA to commission an independent scientific panel to conduct ongoing health surveillance among Gulf War veterans.

The key provisions of H.R. 4036, not contained in a "presumption of exposure" of sick veterans to one or more toxins known to be present during the war. This provision is critical because many of the sick Gulf War veterans, who now number more than 100,000, have a difficult time establishing service connection properly due to missing or inadequate medical records. No other proposed House bill contains such a presumption.

By establishing a rebuttable presumption of exposure, and the presumption of service-connection for exposure effects, the bill places the burden of proof where it belongs—on the VA, not the sick veteran.

The bill embodies a principal finding and legislative recommendation of an oversight report adopted without dissent by the Government Reform and Oversight Committee last November. We owe it to the brave men and women who have come forward to assist our ongoing VA oversight, and to all Gulf War veterans, to follow through with this proposal and properly diagnose, effectively treat and fairly compensate our Gulf War veterans.

It is essential we address the problems faced by our veterans and pass a bill establishing a rebuttable presumption of exposure, and presumption of service-connection for exposure effects. We should place the burden of proof on the Veterans Affairs Department, not on the sick veterans.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 592.

The question was taken.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

PRIVILEGES OF THE HOUSE—FAILING ON THIS MOTION WILL BE POSTPONED

Mr. VISCLOSKY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of the privileges of the House and offer a privileged resolution that I noticed pursuant to rule IX and ask for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the resolution. The Clerk read as follows:

RESOLUTION

A resolution, in accordance with House Rule IX, Clause 1, to express the sense of the House that its integrity has been impugned because the anti-dumping provisions of the Trade and Tariff Act of 1930, (Subtitle B of title VII) have not been expeditiously enforced;

Whereas the current financial crises in Asia, Russia, and other regions have involved massive devaluation in the currencies of several key steel-producing and steel-consuming countries, along with a collapse in the domestic demand for steel in these countries; Whereas the crises have generated and will continue to generate surges in United States imports of steel, both from the countries whose currencies have depreciated in the crisis and from steel producing countries that are no longer able to export steel to the countries in economic crisis;

Whereas United States imports of finished steel signals the onset of global trade policies when countries the People's Republic of China, Japan, Korea, India, Taiwan, Indonesia, and Malaysia have increased by 79 percent in the first 5 months of 1998 compared to the same period in 1997;

Whereas year-to-date imports of steel from Russia now exceed the record import level of 1997, and steel imports from Russia and Ukraine now approach 2,500,000 net tons;

Whereas foreign government trade restrictions and restraints of trade distort international trade and investment patterns and result in burdens on United States commerce, including absorption of a disproportionate share of diverted steel trade;

Whereas the European Union, for example, despite also being a major economy, in 1997 imported only one-tenth as much finished steel products from Asian steel producing countries as the United States did and has restricted imports of steel from the Commonwealth of Independent States, including Russia;

Whereas the United States is simultaneously facing a substantial increase in steel imports from countries within the Commonwealth of Independent States, principally in Asia, caused in part by the closure of Asian markets;

Whereas there is a well-recognized need for improvements in the enforcement of United States trade laws to provide an effective response to such situations: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the House of Representatives calls upon the President to—

(1) take all necessary measures to respond to the surges resulting from the financial crises in Asia, Russia, and other regions, and for other purposes;

(2) pursue enhanced enforcement of United States trade laws to respond to the surge of steel imports into the United States, using all remedies available under those laws including offsetting duties, quantitative restraints, and other authorized remedial measures as appropriate;

(3) pursue with all tools at his disposal a more equitable sharing of the burden of accepting the importation of steel products from Asia and the countries within the Commonwealth of Independent States;

(4) establish a task force within the executive branch with responsibility for closely monitoring United States imports of steel; and

(5) report to the Congress by no later than January 5, 1999, with a comprehensive plan for responding to this import surge, including ways of limiting its deleterious effects on employment, procurement, and investment in the United States steel industry.

Mr. VISCLOSKY (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be considered as read and printed in the record.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The resolution is read in full.

The Clerk completed reading the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does any Member desire to be heard on whether the resolution presents a question of the privileges of the House?

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Visclosky).

Mr. VISCLOSKY. Mr. Speaker, I offer this resolution as a question of privilege to bring attention to a catastrophic situation facing this Nation. The trade laws that the Congress has enacted over the last 60 years are designed to ensure that American workers are not hurt by unfair and illegal trade practices. The Congressional intent, as represented by the Trade and Tariff Act of 1930, is being ignored at the present time.

The U.S. steel industry and its workers are suffering because the Asian and Russian financial crises have led those countries to dump their steel on our market. The U.S. has been reluctant to respond by using its legal trade tools to prevent the storm. In America, the demand for domestic steel has decreased dramatically in mills in Alabama, West Virginia, Utah, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, and workers have been laid off because of the decreased demand for American steel. American workers should not have to pay the price of the administration's refusal to enforce trade laws which the Congress has enacted and supports. This impinges on the integrity of this House.

American steel workers, the most efficient in the world, cannot continue to be besieged by foreign steel products while waiting indefinitely for trade cases to be settled. Damage to the American steel industry is extensive, steady, and rapidly growing. We need to protect our American steel workers by stemming the tide of illegally dumped steel, and the administration's failure to act again directly impinges on the integrity of this House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Calvert). The Chair is prepared to hear arguments on this question of privilege from other Members, including those... who have noticed virtually identical resolutions on this topic, in lieu of entertaining those other resolutions separately today.

This comports with the principle that recognition on a question of order is within the discretion of the Chair. Members must address the question of order.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to talk about the steel crisis that is escalating out of control and is having a devastating effect on the people of the First Congressional District of Arkansas as well as people around the country. I am a free trader so long as the rules of free trade are rigorously enforced. Fair trade is imperative to support free trade.

What is not fair is the export of the Asian and Russian crisis to our shores. Currently Japanese and Russian and other foreign steel companies are unable to sell their excess capacity at home. These foreign steel producers are dumping their products on the U.S. market by selling at prices less than their cost and below those in their home markets.

As a result, this growing steel import crisis is causing injury to our domestic steel communities and the industry. It is threatening the jobs of people in the First Congressional District of Arkansas and across America. As a result, the steel imports in May 1998 increased 78.5 percent over the level of previous year. Through June 1998 the imports from Japan were up 113.7 percent, while imports from Korea rose 89.5 percent.

Mr. Speaker, we need to protect American workers and American industry by stopping the illegal dumping of steel from other countries. Now is the time to act. We have the responsibility and the opportunity to correct this problem, and I assure my colleagues that I will do everything I can to help. We cannot afford to wait.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, I am not addressing and will not address the deplorable plight and condition of the steel industry at this time. But I believe there are some precedents in legal arguments concerning the privileges of the House and its Members to advance privileged resolutions. I would like to make those arguments, and I want to make it clear through the legislative intent and history of today’s request for a ruling that we are challenging past precedents on the rulings and questions of privilege, and today’s efforts are another step forward to bring back to the powers of the House those which the Constitution deems are within the jurisdictional authority of the House.

Having said that, specifically article I, section 8 clearly states that Congress shall regulate commerce with foreign nations. Congress. Not the White House, not the Trade Rep., not the World Steel Organization. Although they can assist the Congress, they do not have the mandated authority to undertake the actions necessary for remedy in this condition. And I hope Congress is listening. I know they want to get out of here. But let us not talk about steel. Let us talk about the Constitution.

Having said that, I believe that this matter of privilege today is within the scope of the Rules Committee and the House of Representatives for the following reasons. While I admit past precedents did not destroy the powers of Congress, the decisions of past Congresses, as upheld by the Chair, have diminished the Congress, specifically the House of the people. In that legal question is, if congressional powers are being diminished and there is a condition that does not lend itself to remedy by the House who has the mandated power to remedy, then the resolution must be heard on the question of a ruling.

So the Traficant appeal is saying, by the nature of past decisions, Parliamentarians and the Chair have upheld denying the resolutions of privilege, while I maintain that decision has created a diminishing power and authority that is duly granted to the Constitution, duly granted to the Members of the House of Representatives, and strips us of those powers specifically. That is what my question of a ruling is on.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, having said that, I would like a parliamentary inquiry with the Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman may state his inquiry.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Article I, section 8 of the Constitution clearly in force?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair cannot interpret the Constitution in response to parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Does article I, section 8 of the Constitution grant specific powers to the Congress?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is not a proper parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TRAFICANT. In closing, ladies and gentlemen, this is more than some trickery here. I want to say this to every Member in the House. We have delegated our authority. What we have not delegated has been usurped, and both sides of the aisle has allowed that to happen, and by not challenging this today and reversing past precedents, we in fact have diminished and destroyed what powers we are granted under the Constitution.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to be heard on the question of privilege.

Mr. Speaker, the resolution under consideration, I believe, does constitute a question of privileges of the House, because the trade laws that the Congress has enacted over the last 60 years are designed to ensure that American workers are not hurt by unfair and illegal dumping of manufactured products, including steel. A resolution of interest represented by the Trade and Tariff Act of 1930, is being specifically ignored.

This is not a partisan matter. It is a matter that concerns Members on both sides of the aisle. It is not a matter limited to the present administration in Washington, the Clinton administration. It is an issue that has spread over several administrations, going back to the 1970s, the Carter administration, later the Reagan administration, the Bush administration, Congress, through our congressional steel caucus, on a bipartisan basis has advocated vigorous action against unfairly traded steel.

I am happy to yield at this point to the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHUSTER. I thank the gentleman for yielding and I rise for two purposes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman cannot yield on a question of order but the Chair will recognize each Member separately.

Mr. SHUSTER. I was going to ask to be able to speak out of order for a unanimous-consent request.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will hear each Member on his own time, but on a question of order a Member cannot yield time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. I thank the Chair for the ruling.

Shortly after the end of World War II a famous American historian and journalist, John Gunther, wrote a book that makes America a great nation is the fact that it can roll over 90 million tons of steel ingots a year, more than Great Britain, prewar Germany, Japan, France and the Soviet Union combined.

Gunther wrote: “This is a steel age.” We still live in that steel age. Steel is still the most versatile building material in an industrial society. We are the world’s most efficient producer of steel. American steel industry has lost 300,000 jobs over the last decade, has closed over 450 plants, modernized its facilities to the tune of $50 billion of investment. We have gone from 10 man hours to produce a ton of steel in 1981 to 1½ to 3 hours depending on the type of steel today to produce a ton of steel compared with 4½ to 5 hours in Japan, 6½ hours in the European Union and 10 hours in Russia. And yet steel from those countries is being sold in the United States at below cost of production in the country of origin, and this administration, like previous administrations, until prodded by Congress, has not acted decisively to protect our domestic industry, our basic building block security industry.

We need to act. This resolution that we propose as a point of privilege calls on the administration to act, we ought to bring that resolution to the House floor before this session of Congress adjourns, and I urge the Chair to rule in the interests of working men and women of America, in the steel valley, the Mon Valley of Pennsylvania-Ohio, and the taconite industry of northern Minnesota and northern Michigan and in the interest of America’s standing in the world community as a powerful economic force.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Calvert). The gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Ney).

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I stand today to support this Visclosky privileged resolution which expresses the sense of the House that the integrity of our anti-dumping provisions of the Trade and Tariff Act of 1930 have not been enforced.

My colleague from Ohio (Mr. Traficant) I think has eloquently and adequately expressed the ability of this Congress to consider this privileged resolution.

Trade laws that were enacted 60 years ago, Mr. Speaker, were designed to protect American workers. That is what this government did. It designed laws to protect American workers so they are not hurt by unfair trade practices.

The U.S. steel workers and the steel industry are suffering in one of the worst ways in recent modern times because the Asia and Russia financial crisis has led those countries to illegally dump their steel on the market. It could not be any clearer.

Steel, formerly produced for domestic consumption in Asia is now being shipped to the United States where it is sold at prices below the cost of production. Steel prices have fallen 20 percent in the last 3 months alone. The Europeans have protected itself and the steel industry against dumping by erecting temporary barriers on steel imports. So Europe has stood up for its workers; that is what Europe has done, Mr. Speaker. The European steel industry will weather the storm while the American steel industry and its workers are announcing new layoffs daily.

We need to push for this resolution. We need to push the White House to do everything they can to stop illegal dumping practices that are damaging our steel industry.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I ask where is the Congress? Where is the White House? Where is the United States Government? Today we have a chance to answer those questions. We are here, by supporting the Visclosky resolution, to finally stand up for steel workers, to stand up for working Americans, to stand up for families in this country and to stand up for the United States. This is mandatory, it is a must, it is the right thing to do.

Mr. Speaker, I support the Visclosky privileged resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hears further argument. As the Chair hears further argument, the Chair will reiterate the ruling of February 7, 1995.

When a Member offers a resolution as a question of privilege pursuant to rule IX, the Speaker may in his discretion hear argument on whether the resolution constitutes a question of the privileges of the House, but that argument should not range to the merits of the underlying matter.

The gentleman from New York.

Mr. HINCHLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say a word on this resolution because I think the issue that is raised is critically important to the Members of this House and to the people of this country, and it is one that we ought to have a full and complete debate on. This resolution is in recognition of the statements that have been made just a few moments ago with regard to the impact that the dumping of steel is having on congressional districts and the people in those congressional districts. We have those congressional districts and their families across the country. This is an aggravated symptom of a much larger problem however.

Mr. Speaker, we are in the midst of a global economic crisis, and one of the features of that global economic crisis is the propensity of some nations in the world suffering the effects of deflation to attempt to dump their products, both manufactured products and commodities, in markets of other countries. We are in a most vulnerable position indeed to this particular activity, and we have not done nearly enough to protect our economy from the effects of this kind of dumping.

One of the things that we ought to do immediately is to petition the Federal Reserve to reduce interest rates substantially so that we may buttress our economy from the effects of this kind of dumping and the larger effects of the global economic crisis.

In addition to that, we have a major issue that is currently before the Congress with regard to the International Monetary Fund which this Congress has not yet addressed. We need to increase the funding for the IMF, and if we were to do so, that increase in funding would make it less likely that resolutions of this nature would have to be brought to the floor.

We are in an important issue right now. We need to decide this issue, bring that question of IMF funding before on the floor so that we can have a full and complete debate on it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would remind the Members that the issue before the Members is neither the advisability of the United States trade policy nor the actions of the administration on trade, but rather the procedural question of whether the resolution offered by the gentleman from Indiana is illegal and a violation of the laws that the Legislative Branch has enacted. U.S. trade laws are supposed to protect commerce in this country and to protect the jobs of the people whom we serve.

Mr. Speaker, I think that we are here as a Congress to say that Congress needs to take action on the crisis posed by cheap subsidized steel imports from developing countries that are trying to earn foreign exchange to repay their own onerous debts. American steel is under siege, and we need to stand up for American steel and for American jobs.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will keep his remarks to the issue of the parliamentary question of order.

Mr. KUCINICH. So, therefore, I rise in favor of the privileged motion for H. Con. Resolution 328. I ask the Chair to grant the privileged motion. Otherwise I ask Members to vote for a motion to appeal a ruling of the Chair and vote for H. Con. Resolution 328. It is important that we stand up for America and stand up for American steel.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will hear from one more Member, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Doyle).

Mr. DOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to be heard on the question of privilege offered by the gentleman from Indiana. The resolution under consideration constitutes a question of privilege of the House because trade laws enacted by the House over 60 years ago are being ignored. These laws were specifically designed to ensure that American workers are not hurt by unfair and illegal dumping of manufactured products including steel.

I am sorry to say that the congressional intent, as represented by the Trade and Tariff Act of 1930, is specifically ignored. This is an external crisis caused by steel dumping in the U.S. by foreign producers for whom any price for steel is higher than the price they would get at home.

Because of a result of the Asian and Russian financial crisis, there is no market for steel in their home countries. This is a crisis addressable by laws currently in effect which are not being enforced.

U.S. steel remains very competitive. But steel was being dumped in the U.S. at the cost of production, which is illegal and a violation of the laws that the Legislative Branch has enacted. U.S. trade laws are supposed to be enforced by the Executive Branch.

The administration has failed to stop these illegal activities, and the dignity of this House is being impugned. I urge the support of the resolution.

Mr. WELLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bring attention to a crisis that is of utmost importance to the future of the American steel industry and to thousands of steelworkers around the country, many of which I represent in the 11th Congressional District in Chicago's south suburbs.

Mr. Speaker, the American steel market is in the midst of a crisis due to a unprecedented flow of below market value foreign steel. The economic problems in Russia, Asia and Latin America has led to large scale dumping of foreign steel on the U.S. market. The steel industry's most widespread complaint is that the current administration has turned its back on American workers and American workers. In fact, the problem has only grown worse since this spring. Steel imports for this past July were up almost 45% over July 1997. Imports from Japan and South Korea are up over 113% and 89% respectively.

The impact of this dumped steel has already resulted in layoffs and reduced orders in factories around the country. U.S. Steel has laid off over 100 workers in Pittsburgh, and is planning to lay off more workers as orders continue to slow. Geneva Steel has had to let go of over 500 employees, and Northwestern Steel and Wire Company in my state of Illinois has laid off as many as 450 workers because of these unfair trade practices. Even Acme Steel Company in Chicago has been forced to file for bankruptcy protection putting even more jobs in question. I have over 20 firms in my district that produce steel or steel products. Some of these firms are large cooperatives like Birmingham Steel whose mill in Joliet, Illinois employs almost 400 people, while others are small family owned businesses like Bellson Scrap and Steel in Bourbonnais. Without immediate action to stem the tide of this unfairly dumped steel, I fear that these steel producers and their workers will face severe harm.

Mr. Speaker, both the steel industry and the steelworkers union have filed suit to stop these unfair practices, but, without swift action by the Administration to stop this unchecked flow of steel, it may be too late for many of our steel companies and steel workers to wait for the courts resolution.

The steel industry has rebounded from the financial difficulties of the 1980's that cost our country over 150,000 jobs. The American steel industry once in decline, now produces the lowest cost and highest quality steel on the planet. If we fail to ensure that American steel plays on a level playing field with the rest of the world, than we place American steel companies on a level playing field with the rest of the world. If we fail to ensure that American steel producers are put on a level playing field with the rest of the world. If we fail to ensure that American steel producers are put on a level playing field with the rest of the world. The trade complaint goes first to the International Trade Commission, which is scheduled to report its findings in late November whether the imports have injured the domestic industry. If so, the Commerce Department could set tentative duties by late April.

Well before then, however, coalition members said they plan to file unfair trade complaints against so-called low-cost countries in Asia, Latin America and the former Soviet bloc on other widely traded products, such as high quality cold-rolled steel, heavy-duty plate and multipurpose coils.

In the next few months, "we will be meeting with you many more times," as more complaints are brought, according to Canonnet, chairman and chief executive of Bethlehem Steel, promised reporters. The coalition, he added, will go after "all products and all countries that are trading unfairly. No one is excluded."

There is almost sense of tragedy in the steel industry's current troubles. Since 1990, the industry has spent an estimated $50 billion on more-productive equipment and mills to bring itself up to world standards. Some 325,000 jobs were eliminated in the process.

But just as the industry seemed finally to have put its house in order, Asia's economies came apart. With few consumers in their traditional markets and the three nations turned toward exports to keep their factories busy and avoid layoffs that could be politically disruptive.

Some executives and workers said they felt cheated.

Over the last 12 years, for instance, investors spent $420 million on Geneva Steel Inc., which enabled the Provo, Utah-based company to survive while every other traditional steel mill west of the Mississippi River went under.

Geneva Steel has fired 270 employees and put another 335 on temporary layoff because of falling orders.

"Years and years of work will go down the drain very quickly if something does not happen," said Robert Grow, its president.

Other steelmakers are cutting back as well. Nucor Corp. has slowed production at three mills, including one in Crawfordsville, Ind. U.S. Steel has shut a blast furnace at its Gary Works that accounts for 7.5 percent of its total iron output, and has laid off about 100 workers in Pennsylvania.

And Northwestern Steel and Wire Co. of Sterling, Ill., recently said it would fire 450 workers if it exits nearly 50 production lines in part because of heightened competition from low-priced imports.

"This is not a regional problem," said George Becker, president of the United Steelworkers union, which joined in the trade complaint. "This is happening all over the United States, from Provo to Alabama, in Pennsylvania and south of Chicago."

Mr. Lipinski. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of this privileged resolution.

For far too long, this Administration has turned its back on American workers. The Administration's failed trade policies have failed American workers. Free trade at any cost? I don't think so especially when American workers are the ones who suffer.

The current international economic circumstances hit our steel industry hard. Asian nations such as Taiwan, China, Indonesia, Thailand, Malaysia, Korea and Japan have been illegally dumping their steel in our market. In the five months of 1998, U.S. steel imports from these Asian nations increased by 79 percent from the same period in 1997. Compare that with the European Union which, despite being a major economy, only imported one-tenth as much finished steel products from Asia as the U.S. did.

And what is the difference between the European Union and the U.S.? The difference is the European Union enforces their trade laws—the U.S. does not.

Mr. Speaker, this body passed tough trade laws that level the playing field as we compete in the global economy, but these trade laws only work if they are enforced. And right now, under this Administration, charged with enforcing out trade laws and the responsibility of protecting American jobs and American industry from in equitable, foreign competition fails to do so, it is unfair. This worsens the U.S. trade deficit, exports American jobs, and causes a contractionary effect on U.S. economic growth. It is wrong for American workers to bear the burden of this nation’s failed trade policies.

I urge all of my colleagues to join me in support of this resolution.

Mr. ENGLISH of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my views on the ruling of the Chair on the question of whether this is in fact a “Privileged Resolution” under the rules of this House.

I support the ruling of the Chair. I do not believe that this is in fact a privileged resolution under the rules of the House. I do believe that this issue should be brought up under regular order. I fully support the underlying resolution, H. Con. Res. 328, of which I am an original cosponsor. I urge the House of Representatives to call up and pass this important legislation under its regular order of business.

I call on the President, and the Administration to act expeditiously to eliminate the damage being caused by illegal dumping of foreign steel products in America. Russia, Brazil, Korea, China, and Japan should not be allowed to export their economic mismanagement to the United States. Dumping is an unfair, intolerable and illegal trade practice that is hurting American steel companies and puts American jobs at risk.

Due to economic crises, Korean, Japanese, Russian, and other foreign steel companies cannot sell their products domestically. In order to liquidate their inventory, foreign steel producers are “dumping” their products in the U.S. by selling at prices below production cost in their home and U.S. markets. Steel imports in May 1998 increased a staggering 28.5 percent from last year.

Over the last decade, U.S. steel has revited to become one of the most competitive industries in the world. This enormous accomplishment is now in jeopardy due to illegal traded steel imports.

H. Con. Res. 328 is valuable legislation that calls on the Administration to act and respond to the surge of unfairly traded steel imports resulting from the financial crises in Asia, Russia, and other parts of the world. It is an important step in addressing the problem through tariffs and should be brought up and passed by the House.

An economic crisis in Russia and Asia does not give these countries the right to violate trade laws. Congress and the Administration need to act now to enforce the laws and stop this economic crisis in the U.S. steel industry. We need a level playing field for everyone who participates in the global market place.

I support the underlying resolution, but Mr. Speaker I am compelled on procedural grounds to oppose the motion of the Gentleman from Indiana. By invoking this procedure, the Gentleman has unnecessarily politicized what should be a consensus issue in this House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The Chair is prepared to rule on whether the resolution offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. VISCLOSKY) presents a question of the privileges of rule IX.

The resolution offered by the gentleman from Indiana calls upon the President to address a trade imbalance in the area of steel imports. Specifically, the resolution calls upon the President to pursue enhanced enforcement of trade laws, to establish a task force on monitoring imports, and to submit a report to Congress by the date certain on that matter.

A resolution expressing the legislative sentiment that the President should take specified action to achieve desired public policy end does not present the question affecting the rights of the House, collectively, its safety, dignity, or integrity of its proceedings as required under rule IX.

In the opinion of the Chair, the resolution offered by the gentleman from Indiana is purely a legislative proposition, properly initiated through the introduction in the hopper under clause 4 of rule 22.

The Chair will note a recent relevant precedent on this point. On February 7, 1995, Speaker GINGRICH ruled, consistent with the landmark ruling of May 6, 1921 by Speaker Gillett, that a resolution invoking legislative powers enumerated in the Constitution and requiring a multifaceted evaluation and report by the Comptroller General on the proposed support of the Mexican pesos did not constitute the question of the privileges of the House.

In his ruling, Speaker GINGRICH stated: “Were the Chair to rule otherwise, then any alleged infringement by the Executive Branch, even, for example, through the regulatory process conferred on Congress by the Constitution would give rise to the question of the privileges of the House.”

Although constitutional prerogatives have not been invoked in the text of the resolution before us today, the principle put forth in the 1995 ruling is nevertheless pertinent, as evidenced by the debate on this question. To permit a question of the privileges of the House addressing presidential trade policies through this invocation of the Constitution would permit any Member to advance virtually any legislative proposal as a question of the privileges of the House.

Accordingly, the resolution offered by the gentleman from Indiana does not request constitute a question of the privileges of the House under rule IX and may not be considered at this time.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, parliam entary inquiry.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, I do not mean to belabor the House.

My question is, the ruling of the Chair is only enforced by an affirmativ e vote to sustain the Chair’s ruling. If the House votes to overturn the ta ble of this, does it not then set a precedent to give back to the House which exists within its mandated constitutional authority? If we vote in deference to the Chair’s ruling, does it not allow us to thus change precedent, change the rules of the House, and allow debate on such issues?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The ruling of the Chair is subject to appeal and could be overturned.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, question. If it is overturned, the ruling of the Chair then would allow these issues of privilege to exist for constitutional powers granted to the Congress.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair cannot anticipate the precedent effect of a future action. If the appeal were taken and the Chair was overruled, the resolution would be pending.

Mr. TRAFICANT. I thank the Chair. Mr. VISCLOSKY. Mr. Speaker, I appeal the ruling of the Chair.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is: Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I move to lay the appeal on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. DAVIS) to lay on the table the appeal of the ruling of the Chair.

The question was taken; and the appeal was laid on the table.
October 10, 1998

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This 15minute vote on tabling the appeal will be followed by votes on the four questions postponed earlier today.
Without objection, each postponed vote will be conducted as a 5-minute vote.
There was no objection.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER
PRO TEMPORE
The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I, and the Chair’s prior announcement, the Chair will now put each question on which further proceedings were postponed earlier today in the following order:

Ordering the previous question on House Resolution 589 by the yeas and nays; the adoption of House Resolution
589; the adoption of House Resolution 588 by the yeas and nays; and suspend the rules and agree to House Resolution 592.
Also in the current series will be the following five questions: H.R. 4567, by the yeas and nays; House Resolution 334, de novo; House Concurrent Resolution 320, by the yeas and nays; H.R.
2616, by the yeas and nays; and 852, by the yeas and nays.
The Chair will reduce to 5 minutes the time for any electronic vote in this series, and remind the Members to stay on the floor.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi and Mr. CONYERS changed their vote from "yea" to "nay."

So (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendment was concurred in.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

NATIONAL SALVAGE MOTOR VEHICLE CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT OF 1996

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAROHO). The unfinished business is the question of suspending the rules and passing the Senate bill, S. 852, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. BLUETTEN) that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 852, as amended, on which the yea and nays are ordered.

This will be a 5-minute vote.

The vote was taken by electronic device and there were—yeas 271, nays 133, not voting 28, as follows:
Mr. HALL of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that my name be removed as cosponsor of H.R. 859.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

LOWER EAST SIDE TENEMENT NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE ACT OF 1998

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Resources be discharged from further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 1408) to establish the Lower East Side Tenement National Historic Site, and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The Speaker asked for objection.

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the "Lower East Side Tenement National Historic Site Act of 1998."

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS. —Congress finds that—

(1) A FFILIATED SITE. —The historic site is dedicated to interpreting immigrant life within a neighborhood long associated with the immigrant experience in the United States, New York City's Lower East Side.

(2) C OORDINATION. —The Secretary, in consultation with the Museum, shall develop a general management plan for the Lower East Side Tenement Museum, through a special resource study, find

(3) ESTABLISHMENT OF HISTORIC SITE. —This Act may be cited as the "Lower East Side Tenement National Historic Site Act of 1998."

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS. As used in this Act:

(1) H ISTORIC SITE. —The term "historic site" means the Lower East Side Tenement, a nonprofit organization established in New York City, State of New York, which owns and operates the tenement building at 97 Orchard Street in the City of New York, State of New York, is designated a national historic site.

(2) MUSEUM. —The term "Museum" means the Lower East Side Tenement Museum, a nonprofit organization established in New York City, State of New York, which owns and operates the tenement building at 97 Orchard Street and manages other properties in the vicinity of 97 Orchard Street as administrative and program support facilities for 97 Orchard Street.

(3) SECRETARY. —The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 4. ESTABLISHMENT OF HISTORIC SITE.

(a) I N GENERAL. —To further the purposes of this Act and the Act entitled "An Act to provide for the preservation of historic American sites, buildings, objects, and antiquities of national significance, and for other purposes", approved August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461 et seq.), the Lower East Side Tenement at 97 Orchard Street, in the City of New York, State of New York, is designated a national historic site.

(b) COORDINATION WITH NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM. —(1) AFFILIATED SITE. —The historic site shall be an affiliated site of the National Park System.

(2) COORDINATION. —The Secretary, in consultation with the Museum, shall coordinate the operation and interpretation of the historic site with the Statue of Liberty National Monument, Ellis Island National Monument, and Castle Clinton National Monument. The historic site's story and interpretation of the immigrant experience in the United States is directly related to the themes and purposes of these National Monuments.

(c) OWNERSHIP. —The historic site shall continue to be owned, operated, and managed by the Museum.

SEC. 5. MANAGEMENT OF THE SITE.

(a) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT. —The Secretary may enter into a cooperative agreement with the Museum to ensure the site's interpretation, and preservation of the historic site designated by section 4(a).

(b) TECHNICAL AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE. —The Secretary may provide technical and financial assistance to the Museum to interpret and preserve the historic site, including making preservation-related capital improvements and repairs.

(c) GENERAL MANAGEMENT PLAN. —(1) IN GENERAL. —The Secretary, in consultation with the Museum, shall develop a general management plan for the historic

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 520, I was unavoidably detained. Had I been present, I would have voted "yes."

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to remove my name as a cosponsor of H.R. 3014.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHood). Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from California?

There was no objection.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 3014

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that my name be removed as cosponsor of H.R. 3014.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Texas?

There was no objection.

So (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill, as amended, was passed.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.
(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this title are—
(1) to ensure the preservation, maintenance, and interpretation of this site and to interpret the history of immigration and tenement life in the latter half of the 19th century and the first half of the 20th century, the housing reform movement, and tenement life in the United States;
(2) to ensure continued interpretation of the nationally significant immigrant phenomenon associated with New York City’s Lower East Side role in the history of immigration to the United States; and
(3) to enhance the interpretation of the Castle Clinton, Ellis Island, and Statue of Liberty National Monuments.

SEC. 102. DEFINITIONS.
As used in this title:
(a) HISTORIC SITE.—The term "historic site" means the Lower East Side Tenement found at 97 Orchard Street on Manhattan Island in New York City, State of New York, and designated as a national historic site by section 103.
(b) MUSEUM.—The term "museum" means the Lower East Side Tenement Museum, a nonprofit organization established in the City of New York, State of New York, which owns and operates the tenement building at 97 Orchard Street and manages other properties in the vicinity. It is an administrative and program support facility for 97 Orchard Street.
(c) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 103. ESTABLISHMENT OF HISTORIC SITE.
(a) IN GENERAL.—To further the purposes of this title and this Act entitled "An Act to provide for the preservation of historic American sites, buildings, objects, and antiquities of national significance, and for other purposes", August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461 et seq.), the Lower East Side Tenement Museum is dedicated to interpreting immigrant life within a neighborhood long associated with the immigrant experience in the United States, New York City’s Lower East Side, and its importance to United States history; and
(b) AFFILIATED SITE.—The historic site shall be an affiliated site of the National Park System.

SEC. 104. MANAGEMENT OF THE HISTORIC SITE.
(a) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT.—The Secretary may enter into a cooperative agreement with the museum for the operation of the historic site.
(b) TECHNICAL AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary may provide technical and financial assistance to the Museum to mark, interpret, and preserve the historic site, including making preservation-related capital improvements and repairs.
(c) GENERAL MANAGEMENT PLAN.—(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Museum, shall develop a general management plan for the historic site that defines the role and responsibility of the Secretary with regard to the interpretation and the preservation of the historic site.

SEC. 105. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.
There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out this title.

TITLE II—OTHER MATTERS
SEC. 201. CASA MALPAIS NATIONAL HISTORIC LANDMARK, ARIZONA.
(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds and declares that—
(1) the Casa Malpais National Historic Landmark was occupied by one of the largest and most sophisticated Mogollon communities in the United States;
(2) the landmark includes a 5-room masonry pueblo, including stairways, Great Kiva, rock wall, and 95 burial sites, walls, a prehistoric trail, and catabolm chambers where the deceased were placed;
(3) the Casa Malpais was designated as a national historic site by the Secretary of the Interior in 1964; and
(4) the State of Arizona and the community of Springerville are undertaking a program of interpretation and preservation of the landmark.
(b) PURPOSE.—It is the purpose of this section to assist in the preservation and interpretation of the Casa Malpais National Historic Landmark for the benefit of the public.
(c) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT.—(1) IN GENERAL.—In furtherance of the purpose of this section, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to enter into cooperative agreements with the State of Arizona and the town of Springerville, pursuant to which the Secretary may provide technical assistance to interpret, operate, and maintain the Casa Malpais National Historic Landmark and also provide financial assistance for planning, staff training, and development of the Casa Malpais National Historic Landmark, but not including other routine operations.
(d) APPROPRIATIONS.—Any such agreement may also contain provisions that—
(1) the Secretary, acting through the Director of the National Park Service, shall have right to access at all reasonable times to all public portions of the property covered by the agreement for the purpose of interpreting the landmark; and
(2) no changes or alterations shall be made in the landmark except by mutual agreement between the Secretary and the other parties to all such agreements.

SEC. 202. PROVISION FOR ROADS IN PICTURED ROCKS NATIONAL LAKE SHORE.
Section 2 of the Act of November 15, 1966, entitled "An Act to establish in the State of Michigan the Pictured Rocks National Lake Shore, and for other purposes" (16 U.S.C. 460m-5), is amended as follows:
In order to help the Tenement Museum to develop joint programs, with the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, which could only enhance the visitors’ experience. This building is the first tenement in the Nation to be preserved as a historic site, and represents a unique opportunity for the public to interpret his rich cultural heritage, which has contributed to the very fabric in the formation of America.

Finally, I would like to commend the president of the museum, Ruth Abrams, and her staff for all of their tireless efforts in preserving an important part of our Nation’s history.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this important legislation.

Ms. VELAZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, the popularity of historical sites like Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty attests to the value of this nation’s rich immigrant history and the importance Americans place on understanding their heritage. But the story of the immigrant experience does not end at Ellis Island.

The Lower East Side Tenement Museum offers us a rare opportunity for the public to interpret the story of America’s urban working-class immigrant life, the housing reform movement, and tenement architecture in the United States. Affiliated status would allow this private non-profit museum to fully participate in the programs and activities of the National Park Service and to receive government grants. Current Park Service trinity of Ellis Island, Clinton Castle and the Statue of Liberty at no cost to American taxpayers.

By making the museum an affiliate of the National Park Service, the immigrant story is personalized—linking Ellis Island, the Statue of Liberty and a Lower East Side Tenement. As visitors understand this story more fully, they will gain greater insight into who they are and where they came from. I urge all of you to support this national treasure.

The amendment in the nature of a substitute was agreed to.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

WEIR FARM NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE, CONNECTICUT

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment to the Senate bill (S. 1718) be reprinted in the Record.

In order to help the Tenement Museum to serve the public better, I introduced H.R. 2201, in July 1997. Senators DAMATO and MOYNIHAN followed by introducing the Senate equivalent in November of that year. Our legislation would designate the Lower East Side Tenement Museum as an affiliate of the National Park Service. The Tenement Museum is located at 97 Orchard Street in Manhattan’s Lower East Side, the heart of America’s immigrant tradition. The building was erected in 1863 and, over the course of 69 years, served as the first American home for thousands of immigrants from around the world.

Statue of Liberty attests to the value of this nation’s rich immigrant history and the importance Americans place on understanding their history and the importance of administrative facilities for the historic site.

As visitors understand this story more fully, they will gain greater insight into who they are and where they came from. I urge all of you to support this national treasure.

Senators DAMATO and MOYNIHAN followed by introducing the Senate equivalent in November of that year. Our legislation would designate the Lower East Side Tenement Museum as an affiliate of the National Park Service. The Tenement Museum is located at 97 Orchard Street in Manhattan’s Lower East Side, the heart of America’s immigrant tradition. The building was erected in 1863 and, over the course of 69 years, served as the first American home for thousands of immigrants from around the world.

Statue of Liberty attests to the value of this nation’s rich immigrant history and the importance Americans place on understanding their history and the importance of administrative facilities for the historic site.

The Secretary shall keep development of the property acquired under paragraph (1) to a minimum so that the character of the acquired property will be similar to the natural and undeveloped landscape of the property described in subsection (b).

(3) AGREEMENTS.—Prior to and as a prerequisite to any development of visitor and administrative facilities on the property acquired under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall enter into 1 or more agreements with the appropriate zoning authority of the town of Wilcox Ranch, Emery County, Utah, for the purposes of—

(A) developing the parking, visitor, and administrative facilities for the historic site; and

(B) managing bus traffic to the historic site and limiting parking for tour large buses to an offsite location.

(b) INCREASE IN MAXIMUM ACQUISITION AUTHORITY.—Section 7 of the Wilcox Ranch, Utah, for Wildlife Habitat Act of 1998 (16 U.S.C. 460c-2 note; Public Law 101-485, 104 Stat. 1173) is amended by striking "$5,000,000" and inserting "$6,000,000".

SEC. 2. ACQUISITION AND MANAGEMENT OF WILCOX RANCH, UTAH, FOR WILDLIFE HABITAT.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The lands within the Wilcox Ranch in eastern Emery County, Utah, support a habitat for wild turkeys, eagles, hawks, bears, cougars, elk, deer, bighorn sheep, and many other important species, and Range Creek within the Wilcox Ranch could become a blue ribbon trout stream.

(2) These lands also contain a great deal of undisturbed cultural and archeological resources, including ancient pottery, arrowheads, and rock houses which were constructed centuries ago.

(3) These lands, while comprising only approximately 8 acres of Federal lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management,

(A) Acquisition of the Wilcox Ranch would benefit the people of the United States by preserving and enhancing important wildlife habitat, ensuring access to lands of the Bureau of Land Management, and protecting priceless archeological and cultural resources.

(B) These lands, if acquired by the United States, shall be conveyed by the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources at no additional expense to the Federal Government.

(b) ACQUISITION OF LANDS.—As soon as practicable after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall acquire, through purchase, the Wilcox Ranch located in Emery County, in eastern Utah.

(c) FUNDS FOR PURCHASE.—The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to use not more than $5,000,000 from the Land and Water Conservation Fund established under section 2 of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1964 (16 U.S.C. 460f-7c) for the purchase of the Wilcox Ranch.

(d) MANAGEMENT OF LANDS.—Upon payment by the State of Utah of one-half of the purchase price of the Wilcox Ranch to the United States, or transfer by the State of Utah of lands of the same value to the United States, the Secretary of the Interior shall acquire, through purchase, the Wilcox Ranch located in Emery County, in eastern Utah, title, and interest of the United States in and to those Wilcox Ranch lands acquired under subsection (a) by the State Division of Wildlife Resources for wildlife habitat and public access.

(a) CONVEYANCE REQUIRED.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey, without consideration and for educational related purposes, to Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, Florida, a nonprofit corporation authorized to do business in the State of Florida, all right, title, and interest of the United States, if any, to a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 16 acres in Yavapai County, Arizona, more fully described as the parcel lying east of the east right-of-way boundary of the Willow Creek Road in the southwest one-quarter of the northeast one-half of section 2, township 14 north, range 2 west, Gila and Salt River meridian.

(b) TERMS OF CONVEYANCE.—Subject to the limitation that the conveyance is to be used only for educational related purposes, the conveyance under subsection (a) is to be made without any other conditions, limitations, reservations, restrictions, or terms by the United States. If the Secretary of the Interior determines that the conveyed lands are not being used for educational related purposes, at the option of the United States, the lands shall revert to the United States.

SEC. 3. LAND CONVEYANCE, YAVAPAII COUNTY, ARIZONA.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF EXCHANGE.—If the non-Federal lands described in subsection (b) of this section are conveyed to the United States, the Federal land and non-Federal lands to be exchanged shall be equalized through a cash payment or the provision of goods or services as agreed upon by the Secretary and the party conveying the non-Federal lands.

(b) APPLICABILITY OF OTHER LAWS.—Except as otherwise provided in this section, the Secretary of the Interior shall comply with the provisions of title 43, United States Code, including the Environmental Protection Agency’s regulations implementing title 43, United States Code, applicable to the Federal land and non-Federal lands to be exchanged under this section.
proposed expansion that is acceptable to not only the Park Service, but more important, to the residents in the Ridgefield-Wilton, Connecticut area.

I am proud to have worked for the passage of this important legislation, and I would urge support of this important legislation.

Mrs. KENNELLY of Connecticut, Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this bill introduced by my colleagues from Connecticut Senator JOE LIBERMAN, Senator CHRISTOPHER DODD, and Congresswoman JIM MALONEY.

The Weir Farm National Historic Site was added to the National Park System by Congress in 1990. This beautiful site in Connecticut was the home of painter J. Alden Weir, a leader of the impressionist movement in American art during the last century. Like Monet, Giverny, this picturesque and genuinely American landscape served as the inspiration behind Weir's paintings and a generation of other American artists who journeyed to the site of the old shipyards during World War II and preserved for generations to come. The city of Richmond, California, has come. The city of Richmond, California, has established the Rosie the Riveter on the site of the Kaiser shipyards during World War II where so many of the Liberty ships were constructed. By passing this legislation, Congress honors these women who did so much to help us win World War II. I urge my colleagues to join me in passing this important bill.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank Representative HANSEN for bringing this legislation before the House for consideration. I am deeply grateful for his support and the work he has done on H.R. 3910.

The industrial, cultural, and natural heritage legacies of Michigan's automobile industry are nationally significant; they have made this a greater country. In cities across Michigan, such as Detroit, Dearborn, Flint, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Ann Arbor, the automobile was designed and manufactured and in turn helped establish and expand the United States as an industrial power. The industrial strength of the automobile manufacturing was vital to defending freedom and democracy in two world wars and fueled our economic growth in the modern era.

Automobile heritage is more than the assembly lines and engineering rooms where cars were created and built. Turning a vision into a reality, the story of the automobile is a tale of shared sacrifices and American leadership. The history of millions of Americans who fought, during the labor movement, for good wages and benefits. This industry shaped 20th Century America like no other; it is the quintessential American story. It is a story worth celebrating and sharing.

The end product of all this hard work and cooperation, the Automobile National Heritage Area, creates something special and lasting for over a year to secure this important tribute to the famed Tuskegee Airmen of World War II.

Mr. Speaker, by any standard, the Tuskegee Airmen were and are American heroes.

Despite a widespread belief that they, as African-Americans, did not possess the abilities to be effective war fighters, the famed Tuskegee Airmen of World War II proved that they were among the best pilots in the North African, Sicilian, and European Campaigns.

Affectionately known as the "Red Tails" (for the red paint on the tails of their aircraft) by the bomber crews they protected, the pilots of Tuskegee did not lose a single bomber in their care to enemy fighters. Because of their heroic service, the Tuskegee Airmen were one of America's most highly decorated fighter groups of World War II. Upon returning home, the Tuskegee Airmen had won 150 Distinguished Flying Crosses, one Legion of Merit, one Silver Star, 14 Bronze Stars, and 744 Air Medals. But the price was high. Of the 450 pilots that saw combat during World War II, 66 were killed in action and another 32 were taken prisoners of war.

However, Mr. Speaker, the contributions of the Tuskegee Airmen did not end with the war. Because of their demonstrated ability as an effective fighting force and their individual heroism, the Tuskegee Airmen gave President Harry S. Truman all the proof he needed to justify his decision in 1948 to desegregate the United States military.

And in the following decades, the Airmen's accomplishments during the war served as an inspiration for the civil rights movement as a whole.

Last August, I asked the National Park Service to conduct a feasibility study for developing Moton Field at Tuskegee University, Alabama. I have been working for over a year to secure this important tribute to the famed Tuskegee Airmen of World War II.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support the rich history and tradition of the automobile. Support this unique American story. Support H.R. 3910.

This bipartisan bill is supported by the leadership on both sides of the aisle, the Resources Committee, the Administration, and the National Park Service. H.R. 3910 creates two new historic sites that will help further our nation's celebration of the "American Experience."
This legislation will allow the National Park Service to tell the American people the most accurate and comprehensive story of Tuskegee Airmen—a story about individuals who overcame racism and intolerance in their own country, so that they could fight oppression and intolerance by the Axis powers in Europe.

The Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site will focus on life at Moton Field and the accomplishments of the Airmen themselves. Specifically, the park will highlight:

1. The impact of the Tuskegee Airmen during World War II;
2. The training process for the Tuskegee Airmen and the strategic role that Tuskegee Institute (now Tuskegee University) played in that training;
3. The African-American struggle for greater participation in the U.S. military and more significant roles in defending their country;
4. The significance of successes of the Tuskegee Airmen in leading to desegregation of the U.S. military shortly after World War II; and
5. The impact of Tuskegee Airmen accomplishments and subsequent civil rights advances of the 1950s and 1960s.

Mr. Speaker, we should neither discount nor forget the influence of the Tuskegee Airmen on the "American Experience." The Tuskegee Airmen, in my view, should be immortalized, honored, and thanked for their courageous and selfless efforts to preserve and protect the freedom that every American enjoys today. I believe that the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site will be a fitting and worthy tribute to these American heroes.

Unfortunately, time has begun to take its toll on the Tuskegee Airmen. Many are no longer with us. That is why I would like to move forward with this legislation as quickly as possible so that the remaining Airmen will have the opportunity to see their legacy enshrined in the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site.

Passing H.R. 3910 is the first step in making this project a reality. Again, the story of the Tuskegee Airmen is one that I believe must be told and I believe—and I hope my colleagues will agree—that it deserves nothing less.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3910 is a good bill that has wide bipartisan support. Therefore, I urge my colleagues to pass this important legislation.

Mr. HANSEN (during the reading).

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment in the nature of a substitute be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

The amendment in the nature of a substitute was agreed to.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

The title of the Senate bill was amended so as to read:

Amend the title so as to read: "To amend the Weir Farm National Historic Site Establishment Act of 1990 to authorize the acquisition of additional acreage for the historic site to permit the development of visitor and administrative facilities and to authorize the appropriate entity to oversee the development of the National Historic Site, to acquire the property, and for other purposes."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SEC. 6. MANAGEMENT DUTIES OF THE AUTOMOBILE NATIONAL HERITAGE AREA PARTNERSHIP.

(a) HERITAGE AREA MANAGEMENT PLAN.—

(1) SUBMISSION FOR REVIEW BY SECRETARY.—The Board of Directors of the Partnership shall, within 3 years after the date of enactment of this Act, develop and submit for review to the Secretary a management plan for the Area.

(2) PLAN REQUIREMENTS, GENERALLY.—A management plan submitted under this section shall:

(A) present comprehensive recommendations for the conservation, funding, management, and development of the Heritage Area; and

(B) be prepared with public participation;

(C) integrate existing Federal, State, county, and local plans and involve residents, public agencies, and private organizations in the Heritage Area;

(D) include a description of actions that units of government and private organizations are recommended to take to protect the resources of the Heritage Area; and

(E) include potential resources of Federal and non-Federal funding for the conservation, management, and development of the Heritage Area.

(2) ADDITIONAL PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—The management plan shall also include the following, as appropriate:

(A) An inventory of resources contained in the Heritage Area, including a listing of property in the Heritage Area that should be conserved, restored, managed, developed, or maintained because of the natural, cultural, or historical significance of the property as it relates to the themes of the Heritage Area.

The inventory may not include any property that is privately owned unless the owner of the property consents in writing to that inclusion.

(B) A recommendation of policies for resource management that consider and detail the application of appropriate land and water management techniques, including (but not limited to) the development of intergovernmental cooperative agreements to manage the historical, cultural, and natural resources and recreational opportunities of the Heritage Area in a manner consistent with the support of appropriate and compatible economic development and other uses of the Area.

(C) A program for implementation of the management plan, including plans for restoration and construction and a description of any program or law requiring the recipient of such money to make a contribution in order to receive such money; and

(D) An analysis of means by which Federal, State, and local programs may best be coordinated to promote the purposes of this Act.

(E) An interpretive plan for the Heritage Area.

(3) APPROVAL AND DISAPPROVAL OF THE MANAGEMENT PLAN.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 60 days after submission of the Heritage Area management plan by the Board, the Secretary shall approve or disapprove the plan. If the Secretary has not approved the plan after 60 days, the plan shall be considered approved.

(B) DISAPPROVAL AND REVISIONS.—If the Secretary disapproves the management plan, the Secretary shall notify the Board in writing, of the reasons for the disapproval and shall make recommendations for revision of the plan. The Secretary shall approve or disapprove proposed revisions to the plan not later than 60 days after receipt of such revisions from the Board. If the Secretary has taken no action for 60 days after receipt, the plan and revisions shall be considered approved.

(b) PRIORITIES.—The Partnership shall give priority to the conservation, funding, management, and other actions that result in achieving the purposes of this Act. Such decisions shall be based on the relative degree to which the Heritage Area effectively fulfills the objective of the Partnership and to the Partnership, considering the management plan and its implementation.

(c) CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN REQUIREMENTS.—The Partnership may not, as a condition of the award of technical assistance or grants under this section, require any recipient of such technical assistance or a grant to enact or modify land use restrictions.

(d) DUTIES OF OTHER FEDERAL AGENCIES.—

(1) ASSISTANCE AND GRANTS.—Unless prohibited by statute, the Partnership shall provide technical assistance and, subject to the availability of appropriations, grants to units of government, nonprofit organizations, and other persons upon request of the Partnership, and to the Partnership, regarding the management plan and its implementation.

(2) PROHIBITION OF CERTAIN REQUIREMENTS.—The Partnership may not, as a condition of the award of technical assistance or grants under this section, require any recipient of such technical assistance or a grant to enact or modify land use restrictions.

(e) LOCAL AUTHORITY AND PRIVATE PROPERTY.—

(1) LACK OF EFFECT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed to modify, enlarge, or diminish any authority of Federal, State, or local governments to regulate any use of land under any other law or regulation.

(2) LACK OF ZONING OR LAND USE POWERS.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed to grant powers of zoning or land use control to the Partnership.

TUSKEGEE AIRMEN NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE, ALABAMA

Northeast corner of the town of Hampton, Lane County, Utah, as indicated on the map entitled "Hampton Town Parcel," dated July 21, 1998.

TUSKEGEE AIRMEN UNIVERSITY.—The term "Tuskegee University" means the institution of higher education by that name established in Tuskegee, Alabama, and conducted by Booker T. Washington in 1881, formerly named Tuskegee Institute.
SEC. 302. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) The struggle of African-Americans for greater roles in North American military conflicts spans the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries. Opportunities for African-American pilots in the United States military were always very limited and controversial. Quotas, exclusion, and racial discrimination were based on the prevailing attitude in the United States that all African-Americans did not possess the capacity, aptitude, and skills to be successful military pilots. After succumbing to pressure exerted by civil rights groups and the black press, the military was forced to train a small number of African-American pilot cadets under special conditions. Although prejudice and discrimination against African-Americans in national phenomena, such as the military, was not a southern trait, it was more intense in the South where it had hardened into rigidly enforced segregation. Such was the environment where the military chose to locate the training of the Tuskegee Airmen.

(2) The military selected Tuskegee Institute as the site of primary flight training primarily because of the school's existing facilities, engineering and technical instructors, and a clientele with ideal flying conditions.

(b) DESCRIPTION OF HISTORIC SITE. —The Secretary shall be responsible for the establishment, operation and maintenance of the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site.

(c) THE STRUGGLE OF AFRICAN-AMERICANS.—During World War II, the Tuskegee Institute was one of the few institutions to train African-American pilots. Tuskegee Institute was named for the school's second president, Robert Russa Moton. Consequently, Moton Field was constructed Moton Field with the assistance of Tuskegee Institute to operate a primary flight school at Tuskegee University.

(d) DETROIT STRIKE.—These included the school's existing facilities, engineering and technical instructors, and a clientele with ideal flying conditions.

(e) C OOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS GENERALLY.—The Secretary may enter into cooperation agreements with Tuskegee University, other educational institutions, the Tuskegee Airmen, individuals, private and public organizations, and other Federal, State, and local agencies in furtherance of the purposes of this title. The Secretary shall consult with Tuskegee University in the formulation of and available for public inspection in the appropriate offices of the National Park Service.

(f) SUBSEQUENT EXPANSION.—Upon completion of special resource study entitled “Moton Field/Tuskegee Airmen Special Resource Study”, dated September 1998. Subsequent agreement or unauthorized use of any property owned by Tuskegee University or Tuskegee University may be acquired only by donation. Property donated by Tuskegee University shall be used only for purposes consistent with the purposes of this title. The Secretary may also acquire by the same methods personal property associated with, and appropriate for, the interpretation of the historic site.

(g) ADMINISTRATION OF HISTORIC SITE.—The Secretary shall consult with Tuskegee University as its principal partner in determining organizational structure, developing the ongoing interpretive themes, and establishing policies for the wise management, use and development of the historic site. With the agreement of Tuskegee University, the Secretary shall engage appropriate departments, and individual members of the University's staff, faculty, and students in the continuing work of helping to identify, research, explicate, interpret, and format materials for the historic site. Through the President of the University, or with the approval of Tuskegee University, the Secretary shall seek to engage Tuskegee alumni in the task of providing artifacts and historical information for the historic site.

(h) DEVELOPMENT.—Operation and development of the historic site shall reflect Alternative C, Living History: The Tuskegee Airmen experience. The historic site shall also reflect the resources of the Tuskegee Airmen in leading to desegregation of the Armed Forces shortly after World War II and the impacts of Tuskegee Airmen accomplishments on subsequent civil rights advances of the 1950's and 1960's.

(i) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall assure that the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Site Boundary Map, numbered N.H.S.-TA-80,000, and dated September 1998. Such map shall be on file and available for public inspection in the appropriate offices of the National Park Service.
any major cooperative agreements with other universities or federal agencies that may affect Tuskegee University’s interests in the historic site. To every extent possible, the Secretary shall seek to complete cooperative agreements requiring the use of higher educational institutions with and through Tuskegee University.

SEC. 302. TUSKEGEE AIRMEN NATIONAL CENTER.

(a) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT FOR DEVELOPMENT.—The Secretary shall enter into a cooperative agreement with Tuskegee University to define the partnership needed to develop the Tuskegee Airman National Center on the grounds of the historic site.

(b) PURPOSE OF CENTER.—The purpose of the Tuskegee Airman National Center shall be to extend the ability to relate more fully the story of the Tuskegee Airmen at Moton Field. The center shall provide for a Tuskegee Airmen Memorial, shall provide large exhibit space for the display of period aircraft and equipment used by the Tuskegee Airmen, and shall house a Tuskegee University Department of Aviation Science to occupy historic buildings within the Moton Field complex until the Tuskegee Airman National Center has been completed.

(c) REPORT. —Within 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary, in consultation with Tuskegee University and the Tuskegee Airmen, shall prepare a report to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate.

(d) TIME FOR AGREEMENT. —Sixty days after the report required by subsection (c) is submitted to Congress, the Secretary may enter into the cooperative agreement under this section with Tuskegee University, and other interested partners, to implement the development and operation of the Tuskegee Airman National Center.

SEC. 305. GENERAL MANAGEMENT PLAN.

Within 2 complete fiscal years after funds are first made available to carry out this title, the Secretary shall prepare, in consultation with Tuskegee University, a general management plan for the historic site and shall submit a copy of the management plan to the Committee on Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate.

of the National Park Service.
(c) STUDY AND REPORT.—The Secretary of the Interior shall study the Knob Creek Farm property, and any lands acquired pursuant to the provisions of this section, to determine the extent to which the Knob Creek Farm property, and any lands acquired pursuant to the provisions of this section, may be included in the Abraham Lincoln National Birthplace Historic Site, and shall submit a report to the Congress containing the results of the study. The purpose of the study shall be to:
(1) Identify significant resources associated with the Knob Creek Farm and the early boyhood of Abraham Lincoln;
(2) identify those to the long-term protection of the Knob Creek Farm's cultural, recreational, and natural resources.
(3) Examine the incorporation of the Knob Creek Farm into the operations of the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site and establish a strategic management plan for implementing such incorporation. In developing the plan, the Secretary shall—
(A) determine infrastructure requirements and property improvements needed at Knob Creek Farm to meet National Park Service standards;
(B) identify current and potential uses of Knob Creek Farm for recreational, interpretive, and educational opportunities; and

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 2106

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Arches National Park Expansion Act of 1998”.

SEC. 2. EXPANSION OF ARCHES NATIONAL PARK, UTAH.

(a) BOUNDARY EXPANSION.—The first section of Public Law 92-155 (16 U.S.C. 272a) is amended—

(1) by striking “That (a) subject to” and inserting the following:

“SECTION 1. ESTABLISHMENT OF PARK. (a) IN GENERAL.—(1) INITIAL BOUNDARIES.—Subject to; and (2) by striking ‘Such map’ and inserting the following:

(2) EXPANDED BOUNDARIES.—Effective on the date of enactment of this paragraph, the boundaries of the park shall include the area consisting of approximately 3,140 acres and known as the ‘Lost Spring Canyon Addition’, as depicted on the map entitled ‘Boundary Map, Arches National Park, Lost Spring Canyon Addition’, numbered 138/60,000-B, and dated April 1997.

(3) MAPS.—The maps described in paragraphs (1) and (2).

(b) INCLUSION OF LAND IN PARK.—Section 2 of Public Law 92-155 (16 U.S.C. 272a) is amended—

(1) by striking “The Secretary” and inserting the following:

(2) by adding at the end the following:

(c) LIVESTOCK GRAZING.—Section 3 of Public Law 92-155 (16 U.S.C. 272b) is amended—

(1) by striking “The Secretary” and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

(d) WITHDRAWAL FROM MINERAL ENTRY AND LEASING; PIPELINE MANAGEMENT.—Section 5 of Public Law 92-155 (16 U.S.C. 272d) is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall administer, protect and develop the park in accordance with the Federal land laws (including the mineral leasing laws), the Federal land laws generally applicable to units of the National Park System, including the Act entitled ‘An Act to establish a National Park Service, and for other purposes’; approved August 25, 1916 (39 Stat. 535); and

(2) by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

“(b) LOST SPRING CANYON ADDITION.—(1) INITIAL BOUNDARIES.—Subject to valid existing rights, all Federal land in the Lost Spring Canyon Addition shall be administered by the National Park Service.

(2) WITHDRAWAL.—(A) Subject to valid existing rights, all Federal land in the Lost Spring Canyon Addition shall be withdrawn from entry, location, selection, leasing, or other disposition under the public land laws (including the mining leasing laws).

(3) EFFECT.—The inclusion of the Lost Spring Canyon Addition in the park shall not affect the operation or maintenance by the Northwest Pipeline Corporation (or its successors or assigns) of the natural gas pipeline and related facilities located in the Lost Spring Canyon Addition on the date of enactment of this Act.

(4) EFFECT ON SCHOOL TRUST LAND.—(A) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(A) the school trust land described in paragraph (1) of this subsection is located within the Lost Spring Canyon Addition included within the boundaries of Arches National Park by the amendment by subsection (a); and

(B) the parcel was originally granted to the State of Utah for the purpose of generating revenue for the public schools through the development of natural and other resources located on the parcel.

(C) it is in the interest of the State of Utah and the United States for the parcel to be exchanged for Federal land of equivalent value outside the Lost Spring Canyon Addition to permit Federal management of all lands within the Lost Spring Canyon Addition.

(LAND EXCHANGE.—Public Law 92-155 (16 U.S.C. 272d) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 8. LAND EXCHANGE INVOLVING SCHOOL TRUST LAND. (a) EXCHANGE REQUIREMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If, not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this section, and in accordance with this section, the State of Utah offers to transfer all right, title, and interest of the State in and to the school trust land described in subsection (b) to the United States, the Secretary—

(1) ACHIEVE.''

(2) by adding at the end the following:

(4) EFFECT ON SCHOOL TRUST LAND.—(A) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the school trust land described in paragraph (1) of this subsection is located within the Lost Spring Canyon Addition included within the boundaries of Arches National Park by the amendment by subsection (a); and

(2) the parcel was originally granted to the State of Utah for the purpose of generating revenue for the public schools through the development of natural and other resources located on the parcel.

(2) LAND EXCHANGE.—Public Law 92-155 (16 U.S.C. 272d) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 8. LAND EXCHANGE INVOLVING SCHOOL TRUST LAND. (a) EXCHANGE REQUIREMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If, not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this section, and in accordance with this section, the State of Utah offers to transfer all right, title, and interest of the State in and to the school trust land described in subsection (b) to the United States, the Secretary—

(1) shall accept the offer on behalf of the United States; and

(2) not later than 180 days after the date of acceptance, shall convey to the State of Utah all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the land described in subsection (b).

(2) SIMULTANEOUS CONVEYANCES.—Title to the school trust land shall be conveyed at the same time as conveyance of title to the Federal lands by the Secretary.

(3) VALID EXISTING.—The land exchange under this section shall be subject to valid existing rights, and each party shall succeed to the rights and obligations of the other party with respect to any lease, right-of-way, or permit encumbering the exchanged land.

(b) DESCRIPTION OF PARCELS.—

(1) STATE CONVEYANCE.—The school trust land to be conveyed by the State of Utah under subsection (a) is section 16, Township 22 South, Range 22 East of the Salt Lake base and meridian.

(2) FEDERAL CONVEYANCE.—The Federal land to be conveyed by the Secretary consists of approximately 639 acres, described as lots 1 through 12 located in the N 1/2 N 1/2 of section 1, Township 25 South, Range 18 East, Salt Lake base and meridian.

(3) EQUAL VALUE.—The Federal land described in paragraph (2) shall be considered to be of equivalent value to that of the school trust land described in paragraph (1).

(c) MANAGEMENT BY STATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—At least 60 days before undertaking or permitting any surface disturbing activities to occur on the land acquired by the State of Utah under this section, the State shall consult with the Utah State Office of the Bureau of Land Management concerning the extent and impact of such activities on Federal land and resources and conduct, in a manner consistent with Federal law, inventory, mitigation, and management activities in connection with any archaeological, paleontological, and cultural resources located on the acquired lands.

(2) PRESERVATION OF EXISTING USES.—To the extent that it is consistent with applicable Federal law governing the use and disposition of State school trust land, the State shall preserve existing grazing, recreational, and wildlife uses of the land described in subsection (a), if a majority of the members of the State school land board vote unanimously to take from the land board the land described in subsection (a).

(4) IMPLEMENTATION.—Administrative actions necessary to implement the land exchange under this section shall be completed not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this section.”.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

NATIONAL CAVE AND KARST RESEARCH INSTITUTE ACT OF 1997

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker’s table the Senate bill (S. 231) to establish the National Cave and Karst Research Institute in the State of New Mexico, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.
The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 469

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the 'National Cave and Karst Research Institute Act of 1997'.

SEC. 2. PURPOSES. The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to further the science of speleology;
(2) to centralize and standardize speleological information;
(3) to foster interdisciplinary cooperation in cave and karst research programs;
(4) to promote public education;
(5) to promote national and international cooperation in protecting the environment for the benefit of cave and karst landforms; and
(6) to promote and develop environmentally sound, sustainable resource management practices.

SEC. 3. ESTABLISHMENT OF THE INSTITUTE.

(a) IN GENERAL. The Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Director of the National Park Service, shall establish the National Cave and Karst Research Institute (referred to in this Act as the 'Institute'),

(b) PURPOSES. The Institute shall, to the extent practicable, further the purposes of this Act,

(c) LOCATION. The Institute shall be located in the vicinity of Carlsbad Caverns National Park, in the State of New Mexico. The Institute shall not be located inside the boundaries of Carlsbad Caverns National Park.

SEC. 4. ADMINISTRATION OF THE INSTITUTE.

(a) MANAGEMENT. The Institute shall be jointly administered by the National Park Service and a public or private agency, organization, or institution, as determined by the Secretary.

(b) GUIDELINES. The Institute shall be operated and managed in accordance with the study and the consideration of management agreements under section 10(e) between the Secretary of the Interior and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and its relevant political subdivisions, including the towns of Framingham, Wayland, Sudbury, Lincoln, Concord, Carlisle, Bedford, and Billerica.

(c) CONTRACTS AND COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS. The Secretary may enter into a contract in furtherance of this Act with any agency, organization, or institution to carry out this Act.

(d) LEASING OR ACQUIRING A FACILITY. The Secretary may lease or acquire a facility for the Institute.

SEC. 5. FUNDING.

(a) MATCHING FUNDS. The Secretary may spend only such amount of Federal funds to carry out this Act as is matched by an equal amount of funds from non-Federal sources.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this Act.

The Senate bill was read a third time, was passed, and a motion to recommit the bill to a Committee of the Whole was defeated.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

SUDBURY, ASSABET, AND CONCORD WILD AND SCENIC RIVERS ACT

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the Senate bill (S. 469) to designate a portion of the Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord Rivers as a component of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.
The Congress finds the following:

(1) Title VII of Public Law 101-658—

(A) designated segments of the Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord Rivers in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, totaling 29 river miles, for study and potential addition to the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System; and

(B) directed the Secretary of the Interior to establish the Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord River Study Committee to advise the Secretary of the Interior in conducting the study and the consideration of management agreements under section 10(e) between the Secretary of the Interior and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

SEC. 4. MANAGEMENT.

(a) FEDERAL ROLE. The Director of the National Park Service or his or her designee shall represent the Secretary in the implementation of the Plan and the provisions of this Act with respect to each of the segments designated by section 3.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this Act.

SEC. 5. FUNDING.

(a) MATCHING FUNDS. The Secretary may spend only such amount of Federal funds to carry out this Act as is matched by an equal amount of funds from non-Federal sources.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this Act.
in the implementation of the Plan, except that the total cost to the Federal Government of activities to implement the Plan may not exceed $100,000 each fiscal year.

(4) The Secretary of the Interior, to the extent the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1281(c)), any portion of a segment not already within the National Park System shall not undergo this.

(A) become a part of the National Park System;

(B) be managed by the National Park Service;

(C) be subject to regulations which govern the National Park System.

(b) WATER RESOURCES PROJECTS.—(1) In determining whether a proposed water resources project would have a direct and adverse effect on the values for which the segments designated under section 3 were included in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System, the Secretary shall specifically consider the extent to which the project is consistent with the Plan.

(2) The Plan, including the detailed Water Resources Study incorporated by reference therein and such additional analysis as may be incorporated in the future, shall serve as the primary source of information regarding the federal interest to maintain instream flows and potential compatibility between resource protection and possible additional water withdrawals.

(3) The Plan Management.—(A) The zoning by-laws of the towns in Framingham, Sudbury, Wayland, Lincoln, Concord, Carlisle, Bedford, and Billerica, Massachusetts, as in effect on the date of enactment of this Act, are deemed to satisfy the standards and requirements under section 6(c) of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1277(c)). For the purpose of this section, the towns are deemed to be “villages” and the provisions of that section which prohibit Federal acquisition of lands through condemnation shall apply.

(B) The United States Government shall not acquire by any means title to land, easements, or other interests in land along the segments designated under section 3 or their tributaries for the purposes of designation of the segments under section 3. Nothing in this Act shall prohibit Federal acquisition of interests in land along those segments or tributaries under other laws for other purposes.

SEC. 5. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(A) DIRECTOR.—The term “Director” means the Director of the National Park Service.

(B) PLAN.—The term “Plan” means the plan prepared by the Study Committee and the National Park Service entitled “Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord Wild and Scenic River Study, River Conservation Plan” and dated March 16, 1995.

(C) STUDY COMMITTEE.—The term “Study Committee” means the Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord River Study Committee established by the Secretary of the Interior under title VII of Public Law 101-628.

SEC. 6. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of the Interior to carry out this Act not to exceed $100,000 for each fiscal year.

AMENDMENT IN THE NATURE OF A SUBSTITUTE

OFFERED BY MR. HANSEN

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment in the nature of a substitute.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment in the nature of a substitute offered by Mr. HANSEN: Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

SECTION 1. DESIGNATION OF SUDBURY, ASSABET, AND CONCORD SCENIC AND RECREATIONAL RIVERS, MASSACHUSETTS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) The Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord Wild and Scenic River Study Act (title VII of Public Law 101-628; 104 Stat. 4497)—

(A) designated segments of the Sudbury River originating at the first bridge in the town of Framingham, to its confluence with the Assabet River.

(B) designated segments of the Assabet River from Egg Rock at the confluence of the Sudbury and Assabet Rivers downstream to the Route 3 Bridge in the town of Billerica, as a recreational river.

(C) The segments referred to in subparagraph (A) shall be managed in accordance with the plan entitled ‘‘Sudbury, Assabet and Concord Wild and Scenic River Study, River Conservation Plan’’, dated March 16, 1995.

(2) The study determined the following river segments are eligible for inclusion in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System based on their free-flowing condition and outstanding scenic, recreation, wildlife, cultural, and historic values:

(A) The 16.6-mile segment of the Sudbury River, originating at the first bridge in the town of Framingham, to its confluence with the Assabet River.

(B) The 4.4-mile segment of the Assabet River from Egg Rock at the confluence of the Sudbury and Assabet Rivers downstream to the Route 3 Bridge in the town of Billerica.

(C) The 8-mile segment of the Concord River from Egg Rock at the confluence of the Sudbury and Assabet Rivers to the Route 3 Bridge in the town of Billerica.

(3) S TUDY COMMITTEE.—The term ‘‘Study Committee’’ means the Sudbury, Assabet, and Concord River Study Committee (in this section referred to as the ‘‘Study Committee’’). The Study Committee in conducting the study and in the consideration of management alternatives should the rivers be included in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

(4) Notwithstanding section 10(c) of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1281(c)), any portion of a segment designated by the amendment made by subsection (b)(2) is not already within the National Park System shall not under this section—

(A) become a part of the National Park System;

(B) be managed by the National Park Service; and

(C) be subject to regulations which govern the National Park System.

(D) WATER RESOURCES PROJECTS.—In determining whether a proposed water resources project would have a direct and adverse effect on the values for which the segments designated by the amendment made by subsection (b)(2) is not already within the National Park System, the Secretary of the Interior shall specifically consider the extent to which the project is consistent with the Plan.

(5) The Study Committee voted unanimously on February 23, 1996, to recommend that the Congress include these segments in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System for management in accordance with the plan.

(6) Designated segments of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1274(a)) is amended—

(i) by designating the four undesignated paragraphs after paragraph (156) as paragraphs (157), (158), (159), and (160), respectively; and

(ii) by striking at the end the following new paragraph:

(161) SUDBURY, ASSABET, AND CONCORD RIVERS, MASSACHUSETTS.—(A) The 29 miles of river segments in Massasssachusetts, as follows:

(i) The 14.9-mile segment of the Sudbury River beginning at the Danforth Street Bridge in the town of Framingham, downstream to the Route 2 Bridge in Concord, as a scenic river.

(ii) The 1.7-mile segment of the Sudbury River from the Route 2 Bridge downstream to its confluence with the Assabet River at Egg Rock, as a recreational river.

(2) Pursuant to sections 10(a) and section 1281(e) of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1281(e), 1282(b)(1)), the Director shall offer to enter into cooperative agreements with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, its relevant political subdivisions, the Sudbury Valley Trustees, and the Organization for the Assabet River. Such cooperative agreements shall be consistent with the plan and may include provisions for financial or other assistance from the United States to facilitate the long-term protection, conservation, and enhancement of the segments designated by the amendment made by subsection (b)(2).

(3) The Director may provide technical assistance to the staff of the Sudbury Valley Trustees in the implementation of the plan, except that the total cost to the Federal Government of activities to implement the plan may not exceed $100,000 each fiscal year.

(4) Notwithstanding section 10(c) of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1281(c)), any portion of a segment designated by the amendment made by subsection (b)(2) that is not already within the National Park System shall not under this section—

(A) become a part of the National Park System;

(B) be managed by the National Park Service; and

(C) be subject to regulations which govern the National Park System.

(5) The plan, including the detailed Water Resources Study incorporated by reference therein and such additional analysis as may be incorporated in the future, shall serve as the primary source of information regarding the federal interest to maintain instream flows and potential compatibility between resource protection and possible additional water withdrawals.

(6) The United States Government shall not acquire by any means title to land, easements, or other interests in land along the segments designated under section 3 or their tributaries for the purposes of designation of the segments under section 3. Nothing in this Act shall prohibit Federal acquisition of interests in land along those segments or tributaries under other laws for other purposes.
in the plan and such additional analysis as may be incorporated in the future, shall serve as the primary source of information regarding the flows needed to maintain instream resources and potential conflicts between resource protection and possible additional water withdrawals.

(e) The Army Corps of Engineers Act for the purpose of designating the segments made by subsection (b)(2) or their tributaries for the purposes of designation of the segments under the amendment in this section shall prohibit Federal acquisition of interests in land along those segments or tributaries under other laws for other purposes.

(f) Authorization of Appropriations.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of the Interior to carry out this section not to exceed $10,000 for each fiscal year.

SEC. 2. CHATTahoochee RIVER NATIONAL RECREATION AREA.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that:

(1) The Chattahoochee River National Recreation Area is a nationally significant resource whose values of the 2,000-foot wide corridor andtributaries under other laws for other purposes.

(2) The population of the metropolitan Atlanta area continues to expand northward, leaving dwindling opportunities to protect the scenic, recreation, natural, and historic values of the 2,000-foot wide corridor adjacent to each bank of the Chattahoochee River and its impoundments in the 48-mile segment known as the area of national concern.

(3) The State of Georgia has enacted the Metropolitan River Protection Act in order to protect the corridor, and the river corridor of the Chattahoochee River has been adversely affected by land use changes occurring within and outside its boundaries.

(4) Visitor use of the Chattahoochee River National Recreation Area has shifted dramatically since the establishment of the national recreation area from waterborne to land-based activities.

(5) The State of Georgia and its political subdivisions along the Chattahoochee River have been engaging in cooperative efforts with the United States of America to link existing units of the national recreation area with a series of linear corridors to be established within the area of national concern and elsewhere on the river by submitting a revised map or other boundary description to the Congress. Such revised boundaries shall take effect on the date 6 months after the date of such submission. Within such 6-month period, the Congress adopts a joint Resolution disapproving such revised boundaries. Such revised map or other boundary description shall be prepared by the Secretary after consultation with affected landowners and with the State of Georgia and affected political subdivisions.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this section are to:

(1) increase the level of protection of the remaining open spaces within the area of national concern along the Chattahoochee River and to enhance visitor enjoyment of such areas;

(2) assure that the national recreation area is managed to standardize acquisition, planning, design, construction, and operation of the linear corridors; and

(3) authorize the appropriation of Federal funds to cover a portion of the costs of the Federal, State, local, and private cooperative effort to add additional areas to the Chattahoochee River National Recreation Area in order to establish a series of linear corridors linking existing units of the national recreation area and to protect other undeveloped portions of the Chattahoochee River corridor.

(c) AMENDMENTS TO CHATTahoochee NARA ACT OF 1978.—The following amendments made by section 102(a)(16) U.S.C. 460i et seq.) is amended as follows:

(1) Section 101 (16 U.S.C. 460i) is amended as follows:

(A) By inserting after "numbered Chat-20,003," and dated September 1994" the following: "and on the maps entitled "Chattahoochee River National Recreation Area Interim Boundary Maps 1, 2, and 3 and dated August 6, 1998." SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) in 1946, Secretary of the Interior J.A. Krug, by means of the authority granted the Secretary of the Interior under section 2 of the Historic Sites Act of August 21, 1935, established the Adams Mansion National Historical Site, located in Quincy, Massachusetts; in Massachusetts, for the benefit, education and inspiration of the people of the United States, to preserve, maintain, and interpret the home, property, birthplaces and burial site of John Adams, John Quincy Adams, and Abigail Adams, in Quincy, Massachusetts, to be administered as part of the Adams National Historic Site; and

(7) that the sites and resources associated with the second President of the United States, his wife Abigail Adams, and John Quincy Adams, sixth President of the United States, require recognition as a national historic park in the National Park System.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to establish the Adams National Historical Park in the National Park System with no overarching enabling or authorizing legislation; and

(2) S ECRETARY.ÐThe term ``Secretary'' means the Secretary of the Interior.

As used in this Act:

(1) HISTORICAL PARK.ÐThe term ``historical park'' means the Adams National Historic Park established in section 4.

(2) SEC. 3 DEFINITIONS. Ð As used in this Act:

(a) ESTABLISHMENT. Ð In order to preserve for the benefit and inspiration of the people of the United States as a national historical park certain properties in Quincy, Massachusetts, associated with John Adams, second President of the United States, his wife Abigail Adams, John Quincy Adams, sixth President of the United States, and his wife, Louisa Adams, the Secretary shall establish the Adams National Historic Park as a unit of the National Park System.

(b) BOUNDARIES. Ð The historical park shall be comprised of the following:

(1) All property administered by the National Park Service in the Adams National Historic Site as of the date of enactment of this Act, as well as all property previously authorized to be acquired by the Secretary for inclusion in the Adams National Historic Site, as generally depicted on the map entitled "National Historic Park" numbered NERO 386980, and dated April 1998.

(2) All property authorized to be acquired for inclusion in the historical park by this Act or other law enacted after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) VISITOR AND ADMINISTRATIVE SITES. Ð To preserve the historical character and landscape of the main features of the historical park, the Secretary may acquire up to 10 acres of land that is identified as a visitor, administrative, museum, curatorial, and maintenance facilities adjacent to or in the general proximity of the property depicted on the map referenced in paragraph (1) of this subsection.

(d) MAP. Ð The map of the historical park shall be on file and available for public inspection in the appropriate offices of the National Park Service.

SEC. 5. ADMINISTRATION.

(a) IN GENERAL. Ð The park shall be administered by the Secretary in accordance with this Act and the regulations issued by the Secretary. The park shall be operated as a unit of the National Park System. The park shall be operated as a unit of the National Park System.

(b) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS. Ð (1) The Secretary may enter into cooperative agreements with interested individuals and entities to provide for the preservation, interpretation, development, interpretation, and use of the park.

(2) Any payment made by the Secretary pursuant to a cooperative agreement under this paragraph shall be subject to an agreement that conversion, use, or disposal of the project so assisted for purposes contrary to the purposes of the Act, as determined by the Secretary, shall result in a right of the United States to reimbursement of all funds made available to such a project or the portion of the increased value of the project attributable to such funds as determined at the time of such conversion, use, or disposal, whichever is greater.

(c) ACQUISITION OF REAL PROPERTY. Ð For the purposes of this Act, the Secretary is authorized to acquire real property with appropriate funds by donation, or by exchange, within the boundaries of the park.

(d) REPEAL OF SUPERCEDED ADMINISTRATIVE AUTHORITY. Ð (1) Section 312 of the National Parks and Recreation Act of 1978 (Public Law 96-81; 92 Stat. 3479) is amended by striking "(a)" after "SEC. 312"; and strike subsection (b) in its entirety.

(2) The first section of Public Law 96-435 (94 Stat. 3816) is amended by striking "(a)" after "SEC. 312"; and strike subsection (b) in its entirety.

(e) REFERENCES TO THE HISTORIC SITE. Ð Any reference in any law (other than this Act), regulation, document, record, map, or other paper of the United States to the Adams National Historic Site shall be considered to be a reference to the historical park.

SEC. 6. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There is authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this Act.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Resources be discharged from further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 2468) to designate the Biscayne National Park Visitor Center as the Dante Fascell Visitor Center, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, and I shall not object, I just want to take this time to thank the chairman of the full committee the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), and the gentleman from Utah (Mr. HANSEN) the chairman of the subcommittee for all of their effort and all of their work to bring these matters to the full House and for their consideration, a number of which will be sent directly to the President for his signature.

I would like to thank the staffs on both sides of the aisle for all of their work over the last 48 hours to get this into shape so that we could proceed in this manner. I shall not object. Again I want to thank them very much for all of their hard work.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California for his kind remarks.

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 2468

Bellevue enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Dante Fascell Biscayne National Park Visitor Center Designation Act".

SEC. 2. DESIGNATION OF THE DANTE FASCCELL VISITOR CENTER AT BISCAYNE NATIONAL PARK.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The Biscayne National Park visitor center, located on the shore of Biscayne Bay on Convoy Point, Florida, is designated as the "Dante Fascell Visitor Center."

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other document of the United States to the Biscayne National Park visitor center shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Dante Fascell Visitor Center."

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bills just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Utah?

There was no objection.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the provisions of clause 5 of rule I, the Chair announces that he will postpone further proceedings today on each motion to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered, or on which the vote is objected to under clause 4 of rule XV.

Such rollcall votes, if postponed, will be taken Monday, October 12, 1998.

CONDEMNING THE TERROR, VENGEANCE AND HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES AGAINST SIERRA LEONE

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H.Res. 559) condemning the terror, vengeance, and human rights abuses against the civilian population of Sierra Leone, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. RES. 559

Whereas the ousted Armed Forces Revolutionary Council (AFRC) and the Revolutionary United Front (RUF) have mounted a campaign of terror, vengeance, and human rights abuses on the civilian population of Sierra Leone;
Whereas the AFRC/RUF violence against civilians continues with at least 1,200 people killed by rebel forces and 150,000 displaced by rebels; (the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) estimates that every victim who makes it to medical help is only 1 of 4 who have been wounded or killed); Whereas the AFRC/RUF continues to abduct children and forcibly train them as combatants, in numbers estimated by UNICEF to exceed 3,000 since March 1998; Whereas the humanitarian consequences of this campaign have been the flight of more than 250,000 refugees to Liberia in the last 6 months and the increase of internally displaced Sierra Leoneans to over 250,000 in camps and towns in the north and east; Whereas the governments of Guinea and Liberia are having great difficulty caring for the huge number of refugees, now totaling 600,000 in Guinea and Liberia, and emergency appeals have been issued by the United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR) for $750,000 for emergency food, shelter, sanitation, educational, psychological, and social services; Whereas evacuation and hunger-related deaths have begun in the north with more than 500 people dying since August, 1998, a situation that will only get worse in the next months; Whereas the humanitarian community is unable, because of continuing security concerns, to deliver food and medicine to the vulnerable groups within the north and east of Sierra Leone; Whereas the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) and its military peacekeeping arm called ECOMOG are doing their best, but require additional logistics and support to either bring this AFRC/RUF rebel war to a conclusion or force a negotiated settlement; Whereas arms and weapons continue to be supplied to the AFRC/RUF in direct violation of a United Nations arms embargo; Whereas United Nations Under Secretary for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator Sergio Viera de Mello, Amnesty International, Human Rights Watch, and Refugees International, following May through June 1998 visits to Sierra Leone, have condemned, in the strongest terms, the terrible human rights violations done by the AFRC/RUF rebels to civilians; and, Whereas the Representative of the United Nations Secretary General for Children and Armed Conflict, Olara Otunu, following a May 1998 visit to Sierra Leone, called upon the United Nations to make Sierra Leone one of the pilot projects in the rehabilitation of child soldiers: Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) urges the President and the Secretary of State to give high priority to bringing the conflict in Sierra Leone and to bringing stability to the region in general;
(2) urges the State Department to give the needed logistical support to ECOMOG and the Government of Sierra Leone to bring this conflict to a rapid conclusion;
(3) condemns the use of children as combatants in the conflict in Sierra Leone;
(4) urges the establishment of a secure humanitarian corridor to strategic areas in the north and east of Sierra Leone for the delivery of foods and medicines by the Government of Sierra Leone and humanitarian agencies already in the country mandated to deliver this aid;
(5) urges the President and the Secretary of State to strictly enforce the United Nations arms embargo on the Armed Forces Revolutionary Council and Revolutionary United Front (AFRC/RUF) rebel forces;
(6) urges the President and the Secretary of State to work with the Economic Community of West African States, Monitoring Group, ECOMOG, and the United Nations to ensure there are sufficient African forces and arms provided to its military peacekeeping arm ECOMOG;
(7) urges the President and the Secretary of State to support the United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR) appeal for aid to the Sierra Leonean refugees in Guinea and Liberia, and other countries; Whereas the United Nations Special Representative of the Secretary General for Children and Armed Conflict, to continue in his efforts to work in Sierra Leone in the establishment of programs designed to rehabilitate child combatants;

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN).

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on this measure.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(MR. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to support this resolution offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. EHlers) and cosponsored by the distinguished chairman of our Subcommittee on Africa, the gentleman from California (Mr. ROYCE).

Mr. Speaker, the situation in Sierra Leone is horrifying. Rebel soldiers are terrorizing the civilian population, killing and maiming innocent people, including women and children. The instability in Sierra Leone has overflowed its borders and is impacting on neighboring Liberia and Guinea. Hundreds of thousands of people have been displaced from their homes and are suffering from the continuing conflict, relying on the generosity of the international community.

Mr. Speaker, there is a peacekeeping force in Sierra Leone known as the Economic Community of West African States Monitoring Group, ECOMOG, made up of soldiers from other African nations. In many cases ECOMOG is all that stands between innocent civilians and ethnic atrocities. This resolution will put the Congress on record supporting ECOMOG and other positive institutions in Sierra Leone. Accordingly, I urge my colleagues to support this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I support this resolution. The United States must take steps to stop the killing, human rights abuses and humanitarian disaster that is taking place in Sierra Leone. This resolution puts the House on record behind a series of actions that would help. It sends an important message to all parties to the conflict as well as to our administration. I urge my colleagues to support the resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Tennessee for his supporting remarks.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. EHLERS), the author of this resolution.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for his support of the bill and that which I also for bringing the bill to the floor.

While our Nation and many nations are very concerned about bloodshed and potential warfare in the Balkans, we tend to ignore the problems in Africa, a continent that is in danger of drowning in an ocean of blood if further action is not taken.

A good example of that is the nation of Sierra Leone, a peace-loving nation, which unfortunately on May 27, 1997 suffered a coup in which the Armed Forces Revolutionary Council seized power from Sierra Leone’s democratically elected government. It, together with another armed group, the Revolutionary United Front, began a nine-month regime characterized by abuse of power and misgovernment.

The neighboring nation of Sierra Leone decided to take action to end the bloodbath and to restore the democratically elected government. This organization, the Economic Community of West African States, better known as ECOWAS, and its military peacekeeping arm, called ECOMOG, led a West African peacekeeping force in February 1998. This force sought to restore the democratically elected government of Sierra Leone.

Since the civilian government was restored successfully, the deposed military junta has engaged in a campaign of terror against the government, the civilian population and ECOMOG. They have fled into the bush, particularly in the eastern part of the country, and continue their battle of terror from that region.

As a result of this conflict, thousands of civilians have become victims of gross violations of human rights, mostly at the hands of the rebels, the AFRC/UF. Abuses include physical mutilation, torture, murder. Hundreds of men, women and children have been abducted, raped, sold into forced labor. Worst of all, young children are being inducted into combat and taught to kill before they are old enough to recognize what they are doing.

Approximately a quarter million refugees from Sierra Leone have fled into neighboring Guinea and Liberia. The location of the refugee camps does not allow for provision of adequate relief, and it is essential that the ECOMOG forces be able to conquer the rebel forces, which unfortunately are receiving arms from some unknown sources.

There is poor security, a lack of resources and minimal access to these camps, resulting in hundreds of deaths simply because the aid forces are not able to reach those needing relief. Arms and weapons continue to be supplied to the rebels in direct violation of the United Nations arms embargo. The international community has simply refused to arm and adequately and adequately to this growing humanitarian crisis within and outside of Sierra Leone.

Therefore, this resolution urges in the strongest terms that the President and Secretary of State of our Nation give high priority to solving the conflict in Sierra Leone and to bring stability to West Africa in general. It also urges the State Department to give logistical support to ECOMOG and to the government of Sierra Leone. It also concedes that children as combatants, and urges the establishment of a secure humanitarian corridor for the safe delivery of food and medicine to all those who are suffering.

Furthermore, the resolution urges the President and Secretary of State to strictly enforce the United Nations armed embargo on rebel forces. It also urges the President and Secretary of State to work with West African states nations to ensure that there are sufficient African forces and arms provided for peacekeeping.

It is a very serious situation and has resulted in considerable human suffering, and I urge that this resolution be adopted, and once again I thank the gentleman for taking this bill up and yielding this time to me.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to commend the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. EHLERS), who is not a member of our committee, for bringing this critical situation to the attention of the floor at this time, and we commend him.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution H. Res. 559, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

INTERNATIONAL RELIGIOUS FREEDOM ACT OF 1998

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and take from the Speaker’s table the bill (H. R. 2431) to establish an Office of Religious Persecution Monitoring, to provide for the imposition of sanctions against countries engaged in a pattern of religious persecution, and for other purposes, with Senate amendments thereto, and concur in the Senate amendments.

The Clerk read the title of the bill. The Clerk read the Senate amendments, as follows:

Senate amendments:

Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

S E C. 2. FINDINGS; POLICY.

(a) Findings. Ñ Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The right to freedom of religion undergirds the very origin and existence of the United States. Many of our Nation's founders fled religious persecution abroad, cherishing in their hearts and minds the ideal of religious freedom. They established in law, as a fundamental right and as a pillar of our Nation, the right to freedom of religion. From its birth to this day, the United States has prized this legacy of religious freedom and honored this heritage by standing for religious freedom and offering refuge to those suffering religious persecution.

(2) Freedom of religious belief and practice is a universal human right and fundamental freedom articulated in numerous international instruments, including the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the Helsinki Accords, the Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Intolerance and Discrimination Based on Religion or Belief, the United Nations Charter, and the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.

(3) Article 18 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights recognizes that "Everyone has the right to believe in, to manifest, and to practice his religion or belief, and to have a free thought with a conscience, and religion. This right includes freedom to change his religion or belief, and freedom, either alone or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief by teaching, practice, worship, and observance.".

Article 18(1) of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights recognizes that "Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience, and religion. This right includes freedom to change his religion or belief, and freedom, either alone or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in worship, observance, practice, and teaching".

Governments have the responsibility to protect the fundamental rights of their citizens and to pursue justice for all. Religious freedom is a fundamental right of every individual, regardless of race, sex, country, creed, or nationality, and should never be arbitrarily abridged by any government.

(4) The right to freedom of religion is under renewed and, in some cases, increasing assault in many parts of the world. More than one-half of the world's population lives under regimes that severely restrict or prohibit the freedom of their citizens to study, believe, observe, and freely practice the religious faith of their choice. Religious believers and communities suffer both government-sponsored and government-tolerated violations of their rights to religious freedom.

In many of the many forms of such violations are state-sponsored slander campaigns, confiscation of property, surveillance by security police, and partitioning of their beliefs. Among the many forms of religious persecution, severe prohibitions against construction and repair of places of worship, denial of the right to assemble and relegate of religious communities, illegal states, and religious leaders and believers in many countries face such severe and violent forms of religious persecution as detention, torture, beatings, forced marriage, rape, imprisonment, enslavement, mass resettlement, and death merely for the peaceful belief in, change of or practice of their faith. In many countries, religious leaders are targeted by national security forces and hostile mobs.

(6) Though not confined to any particular region or regime, religious persecution is often particularly widespread, systematic, and heinous under totalitarian governments and in countries with militant, religious-based political parties.

(7) Congress has recognized and denounced acts of religious persecution through the adoption of the following resolutions:

(A) House Resolution 226, One Hundred Fourth Congress, expressing the sense of the House of Representatives with respect to the persecution of Christians worldwide.

(B) Senate Concurrent Resolution 71 of the One Hundred Fourth Congress, expressing the sense of the Senate regarding persecution of Christians worldwide.

(C) House Concurrent Resolution 102 of the One Hundred Fourth Congress, expressing the sense of the House of Representatives concerning the emancipation of the Iranian Bahá’í community.

(b) Policy.—It shall be the policy of the United States, as follows:

(1) to condemn violations of religious freedom, and to promote, and to assist other governments in the promotion of, the fundamental right to freedom of religion.

(2) to seek to cause the United States security and development assistance to governments other than those focused in gross violations of the right to freedom of religion, as set forth in the Religious Freedom Act of 1981, in the International Financial Institutions Act of 1977, and in other formulizations of United States human rights policies.

(3) To be vigorous and flexible, reflecting both the unwavering commitment of the United States to religious freedom and the desire of the United States for the most effective and principled response, in light of the range of violations of religious freedom by a variety of persecuting regimes, and the status of the relations of the United States with different nations.

(4) To work with foreign governments that affirm and protect religious freedom, in order to develop multilateral and initiatives to combat violations of religious freedom and promote the right to religious freedom abroad.

(5) Standing for liberty and standing with the persecuted, to use and implement appropriate tools in the United States foreign policy apparatus, including diplomatic, political, commercial, charitable, educational, and cultural channels, to promote respect for religious freedom by all governments and peoples.

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF STATE ACTIVITIES

SEC. 101. OFFICE ON INTERNATIONAL RELIGIOUS FREEDOM: AMBASSADOR AT LARGE FOR INTERNATIONAL RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF OFFICE.—There is established the Department of State’s Office on International Religious Freedom that shall be headed by the Ambassador at Large for International Religious Freedom appointed under section 103.

(b) APPOINTMENT.—The Ambassador at Large shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

(c) DUTIES.—The Ambassador at Large shall have the following responsibilities:

(1) IN GENERAL.—The primary responsibility of the Ambassador at Large shall be to advance the right to freedom of religion abroad, to denounce the violation of that right, and to recommend appropriate responses by the United States and other international bodies.

(2) ADVISORY ROLE.—The Ambassador at Large shall be a principal adviser to the President and the Secretary of State regarding matters affecting religious freedom abroad, and shall consult with United States officials regarding the implementation of United States policy toward governments that violate the freedom of religion or that fail to ensure the existence of governments that respect the freedom of religion.

(3) DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATION.—Subject to the direction of the President and the Secretary of State, the Ambassador at Large shall use his diplomatic resources to represent the United States in matters and cases relevant to freedom of religion abroad.

(4) REPORTING RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Ambassador at Large shall coordinate the reporting responsibilities described in section 102.

(d) FUNDING.—The Secretary of State shall provide the Ambassador at Large with such funds as are necessary to perform the duties of the Office.

SEC. 102. REPORTS.

(a) PORTIONS OF ANNUAL HUMAN RIGHTS REPORTS.—The Ambassador at Large shall assist the Secretary of State in preparing those portions of the Annual Human Rights Reports that relate to freedom of religion and freedom from discrimination based on religion and those portions of other information provided Congress under sections 116 and 502 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2151m, 2304) that relate to the right to freedom of religion.

(b) ANNUAL REPORT ON INTERNATIONAL RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

(1) DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION.—On September 1 of each year or the first day thereafter on which the appropriate House of Congress is in session, the Secretary of State, with the assistance of the Ambassador at Large, and, taking into consideration the recommendations of the Commission, shall prepare and transmit to Congress an Annual Report on International Religious Freedom including information with respect to matters involving international religious freedom. Each Annual Report shall contain the following:

(i) STATUS OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.—A description of the status of religious freedom in each foreign country, including—

(A) trends toward improvement in the protection and promotion of the right to religious freedom and trends toward deterioration of such right;

(B) violations of religious freedom,—An assessment and description of the nature and extent of violations of religious freedom in each foreign country, including the action of one religious group by another religious group, religious persecution by government and non-governmental entities, persecution targeted at religious minorities, and the refusal of a foreign government to return United States citizens to the United States.

(c) PREPARATION OF REPORTS REGARDING VIOLATIONS OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.—

(1) STANDARDS AND INVESTIGATIONS.—The Secretary of State, with the assistance of the Secretary, shall, as deemed appropriate or relevant by the Ambassador at Large, maintain a consistent reporting standard and thoroughly investigate reports of violations of the internationally recognized right to freedom of religion.

(2) CONTACTS WITH NONGOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS.—In compiling data and assessing the respect of the right to religious freedom for the Human Rights Reports, the Annual Report on International Religious Freedom, and the Executive Summary, the United States mission personnel shall, as appropriate, seek out and maintain contacts with religious and non-governmental organizations, with the consent of those organizations, including receiving reports and updates from such organizations and, when appropriate, investigating such reports.

(3) AMENDMENTS TO THE FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT.—

(C) by adding at the end of paragraph (6) ‘‘(i) wherever applicable, violations of religious freedom, including particularly severe violations of religious freedom; (ii) other information provided Congress under section 401(b) or 402(c).’’.

(2) CONTENTS OF HUMAN RIGHTS REPORTS FOR COUNTRIES RECEIVING SECURITY ASSISTANCE.—Section 202(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2304(b)) is amended—

(A) by inserting ‘‘and with the assistance of the Ambassador at Large and the United States Agency for International Religious Freedom’’ after ‘‘Labor’’; and

(B) by inserting after the second sentence the following new sentence: ‘‘Such report shall also include a description of such right under title IV and title V of this Act in opposition to violations of religious freedom, including particularly severe violations of religious freedom’’.

SEC. 103. ESTABLISHMENT OF A RELIGIOUS FREEDOM INTERNET SITE.

In order to facilitate access by nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) and the public around the world to international documents on the protection of religious freedom, the Secretary of State, with the assistance of the Ambassador at Large, shall maintain an Internet site containing major international documents relating to religious freedom, the Annual Report, the Executive Summary, and any other documentation or references to other sites as deemed appropriate or relevant by the Ambassador at Large.

SEC. 104. TRAINING FOR FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICERS.

Chapter 2 of title I of the Foreign Service Act of 1980 is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

‘‘SEC. 708. TRAINING FOR FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICERS.—

‘‘(A) By the Secretary of State, with the assistance of other relevant officials, such as the Ambassador at Large, shall provide training to foreign service officers in the Department of State under section 103(b) of the United States Agency for International Religious Freedom appointed under section 101(b) of the United States Agency for International Religious Freedom Act of 1998, and the'} director of the National Foreign Affairs Training Center, shall establish as part of the standard training provided after January 1, 1999, for officers of the Service, including chiefs of mission, in the field of internationally recognized human rights. Such training shall include—

(1) instruction on international documents and policy in human rights and religious freedom, which shall be mandatory for all members of the Service having reporting responsibilities relating to human rights and for chiefs of mission; and

(2) instruction on internationally recognized right to freedom of religion, the nature, activities, and beliefs of different religions, and the various aspects and manifestations of violations of religious freedom.

SEC. 105. HIGH-LEVEL CONTACTS WITH NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS.

United States chiefs of mission shall seek out and contact religious nongovernmental organizations to provide high-level meetings with religious nongovernmental organizations where appropriate and beneficial. United States chiefs of mission and Foreign Service officers abroad shall seek to meeting with imprisoned religious leaders where appropriate and beneficial.

SEC. 106. PROGRAMS AND ALLOCATIONS OF FUNDS BY UNITED STATES MISSIONS ABROAD.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) United States diplomatic missions in countries to which engage in deliberate violations of the internationally recognized right to freedom of religion should develop, as part of their annual program planning, a strategy to promote respect for the internationally recognized right to freedom of religion, and

(2) in allocating or recommending the allocation of funds or the recommendation of candidates for programs and grants funded by the United States Government, United States diplomatic missions should give particular consideration to those programs and candidates deemed to assist in the promotion of the right to religious freedom.

SEC. 107. EQUAL ACCESS TO UNITED STATES MISSIONS ABROAD FOR CONDUCTING RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to this section, the Secretary of State shall permit, on terms no less favorable than that accorded other nongovernmental organizations and nongovernmental leaders, access to the premises of any diplomatic mission, in consultation with the Assistant Secretary of State for Defense, the Human Rights and Labor, and the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Ambassador at Large, the Assistant Secretary of State for Democracy, Human Rights and Labor, United States chiefs of mission, and Foreign Service officers, for international experts, and nongovernmental human rights and religious groups, shall prepare and maintain issue briefs on religious freedom, on a country-by-country basis, on religious leaders believed to be imprisoned, detained, or placed under house arrest for their religious faith, together with brief evaluations and critiques of religious freedom policies and practices of the United States Government.

(b) AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION.—The Secretary shall, as appropriate, provide religious freedom issue briefs to executive branch officials and Members of Congress in anticipation of bilateral contacts with foreign leaders, both in the United States and abroad.

TITLE II—COMMISSION ON INTERNATIONAL RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

SEC. 201. ESTABLISHMENT AND COMPOSITION.

(iv) 3 members of the Commission shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, of which 2 of the members shall be appointed upon the recommendation of the leader in the House of Representatives of the political party that is not in the majority of the House;

(2) SELECTION.—

(A) Members of the Commission shall be selected among distinguished individuals noted for their knowledge and experience in fields relevant to the issue of international religious freedom, including foreign affairs, international law, and the promotion of the right to religious freedom.

(B) Each Member of the Commission shall be required to obtain a security clearance.

(3) TIME OF APPOINTMENT.—The appointments required by paragraph (1) shall be made not later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) TERMS.—The terms of office of each member of the Commission shall be 2 years. Members of the Commission are eligible for reappointment to a second term.

(d) WHERE TO MEET.—The Commission shall meet at least once each year, at the call of the Chair of the Commission.

(e) QUORUM.—Six voting members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum for purposes of transacting business.

(f) MEETINGS.—Each year, within 15 days, or as soon as practicable, after the issuance of the Country Report on Human Rights Practices, the Commission shall convene. The Commission shall otherwise meet at the call of the Chair, or if no Chair has been elected for that calendar year, at the call of six voting members of the Commission.

(g) VACANCIES.—Any vacancy of the Commission shall not affect its powers, but shall be filled in the manner in which the original appointment was made.

(h) ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPORT.—The Secretary of State shall assist the Commission by providing the Commission with such administrative services of the Office of as may be necessary and appropriate for the Commission to perform its functions. Any employee of the executive branch of Government may be detailed to the Commission without reimbursement to the agency of that employee and such detail shall be on an intermittent or part-time basis.

(i) FUNDING.—Members of the Commission shall be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence at rates authorized for members of agencies of the United States Government, United States chiefs of mission, or officials of the United States Government, as authorized by section 5751 of title 5, United States Code, while away from their homes or regular places of business in the performance of services for the Commission.

SEC. 202. DUTIES OF THE COMMISSION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Commission shall have as its primary responsibility—

(1) the annual and ongoing review of the facts and circumstances of violations of religious freedom presented in the Country Reports on Human Rights Practices, the Annual Report, and the Executive Summary, as well as information from other sources;

(2) the making of policy recommendations to the President, the Secretary of State, and Congress with respect to matters involving international religious freedom;

(b) POLICY REVIEW AND RECOMMENDATIONS IN RESPONSE TO VIOLATIONS.—The Commission, in evaluating United States Government policies in response to violations of religious freedom, shall include a recommendation for policies of the United States Government with respect to each foreign country the government of which has engaged in or tolerated violations of religious freedom, including diplomatic inquiries, diplomatic protest, official public protest, denunciation in multilateral fora, the initiation or cancellation of cultural or scientific exchanges, delay or cancellation of cultural or scientific exchanges, delay or cancellation of working, official, or state visits, reduction of certain assistance funds, termination of other assistance for the purpose of transferring funds, imposition of trade sanctions, imposition of broad trade sanctions, and withdrawal of the chief of mission;

(c) POLICY REVIEW AND RECOMMENDATIONS IN RESPONSE TO PROGRESS.—The Commission, in evaluating the United States Government policies with respect to countries found to be taking steps and actions to improve in respect for the right of religious freedom, shall include a recommendation for policies, including private commendation, official public commendation, open discussions of religious freedom, including diplomatic inquiries, diplomatic protest, official public protest, denunciation in multilateral fora, the initiation or cancellation of cultural or scientific exchanges, or both, termination or reduction of existing assistance programs and actions, an increase in targeted trade sanctions, imposition of broad trade sanctions, and withdrawal of the chief of mission;

(d) EFFECTS ON RELIGIOUS COMMUNITIES AND INDIVIDUALS.—Together with any specific policy recommendations provided under subsections (b) and (c), the Commission shall also indicate its evaluation of the potential effects of such policies, if implemented, on the religious communities and individuals whose rights are found to be violated in the country in question.

(a) The Special Adviser, and the Commission, shall, as a matter of practice, take into account any findings or recommendations by the Commission with respect to the foreign country.

(b) The President, in determining whether to take action under paragraphs (1) or (2) described in any of the subparagraphs, whichever period is longer.

(c) Whenever the President determines that the government of that country has engaged in or tolerated particularly severe violations of religious freedom in that country during the preceding 12 months or since the date of the last review of that country under this section in response.

(d) The President shall seek to determine the agency or instrumentality thereof and the specific officials thereof that are responsible for the particularly severe violations of religious freedom described in section 202.

(e) The President shall, in consultation with the appropriate congressional committees—

(A) the population of the country whose government is targeted by the Presidential action or actions; and

(B) the humanitarian activities of United States government programs.

(f) The President shall notify the appropriate congressional committees in advance of the action and the President shall, after the requirements of sections 403 and 404 have been satisfied, but not later than 90 days (or 180 days in case of a delay under paragraph (3)) after the date of designation of the country under that subsection, carry out one or more of the following actions under subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B):

(A) PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.—One or more of the Presidential actions described in paragraphs (9) through (15) of section 405(a), as determined by the President.

(B) COMMENSURATE ACTIONS.—Commensurate action in substitution to any action described in subparagraph (A).

(2) SUBSTITUTION OF BINDING AGREEMENTS.—A determination that noneconomic policy options designed to bring about cessation of the particularly severe violations of religious freedom have reasonably been exhausted, including the consultation required in section 403.

(3) AUTHORITY FOR DELAY OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.—If, on or before the date that the President is required (but for this paragraph) to take action under paragraph (3), the President determines and certifies to Congress that a single, additional period of time not to exceed 90 days is necessary:

(A) for the continuation of negotiations that have been commenced with the government of that country to bring about a cessation of the violations by the foreign country;

(B) for the continuation of multilateral negotiations into which the United States has entered to bring about a cessation of the violations by the foreign country;

(C)(i) for a review of corrective action taken by the foreign country after designation of such country as a country of particular concern; or

(ii) in anticipation that corrective action will be taken by the foreign country during the 90-day period, then the President shall not be required to take action until the expiration of that period of time.

(4) EXCEPTION FOR ONGOING PRESIDENTIAL ACTION.—The President shall not be required to take action under this subsection in the case of a country of particular concern for religious freedom, if with respect to such country—

(A) the President has taken action pursuant to this Act in the current year; or

(B) such action is in effect at the time the country is designated as a country of particular concern;

(C) the President reports to Congress the information described in section 404(a)(1), (2), (3), and (4) regarding the actions in effect with respect to the country; and

(D) at the time the President determines a country to be a country of particular concern, if that country is already subject to multiple, broad-based sanctions imposed in response to human rights abuses, and such sanctions are ongoing, the President may determine that one or more of these sanctions also satisfies the requirements of this subsection.

In a report to Congress pursuant to section 404(a)(1), (2), (3), and (4), and, as applicable, to section 408, the President must designate the specific sanction or sanctions which he determines satisfy the requirements of this subsection. The sanctions so designated shall remain in effect subject to section 409 of this Act.

(5) EVALUATION.—A determination that the President takes action under this Act, or any amendment made by this Act, that a foreign country has engaged in or tolerated particularly severe violations of religious freedom shall be construed to remove the termination of assistance or other activities with respect to that country under any other provision of law, including section 116 or 502B of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2153n, 2304).

SEC. 403. CONSULTATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—As soon as practicable after the President decides to take action under section 401 in response to violations of religious freedom and the President decides to take action under paragraphs (9) through (15) of section 405(a) or (b) (commensurate action in substitution thereto) with respect to that country, or not later than 90 days after the President designates a country as a country of particular concern for religious freedom under section 402, the President shall submit a report to Congress containing the following:

(1) IDENTIFICATION OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.—An identification of the Presidential actions described in paragraphs (9) through (15) of section 405(a) or (b) (commensurate action in substitution thereto) taken to be taken with respect to the foreign country.

(2) EVALUATION.—A description of the violations giving rise to the Presidential action or actions to be taken.

(3) PURPOSE OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.—A description of the purpose of the Presidential action or actions.

(4) EVALUATION.—An evaluation, in consultation with the Secretary of State, the Ambassador at Large, the Commission, the Special Adviser, the parties described in section 403(c) (one or more of which may be, among others, the foreign government or its agents) and whoever else the President deems appropriate, of—

(i) the impact upon the foreign government;

(ii) the impact upon the population of the country;

(iii) the impact upon the United States economy and other interested parties.

SEC. 404. DISCLOSURE.—The President may withhold part or all of such evaluation from the public but shall provide the entire evaluation to Congress.

SEC. 405. DESCRIPTION OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.

(a) DESCRIPTION OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.—Except as provided in subsection (d), the President's actions referred to in this subsection are the following:

(1) A private demarche.

(2) An official public demarche.

(3) A public condemnation.

(4) A public condemnation within one or more multilateral fora.

(5) The delay or cancellation of one or more scientific exchanges.

(6) The delay or cancellation of one or more cultural exchanges.

(7) The delay or cancellation of one or more working, official, or state visits.

(8) The delay or cancellation of one or more working, official, or state visits.

(b) ASSUMPTION OF THE ABILITY TO WITHDRAW, LIMIT, OR SUSPEND United States development assistance in accordance with section 116 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

(10) Directing the Export-Import Bank of the United States, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, or the Trade and Development Agency not to approve the issuance of any (or a specified number of) guarantees, insurance, extensions of credit, or participations in the extension of credit with respect to the specific government, agency, instrumentality, or official found or determined by the President to be responsible for violations under section 401 or 402.

(12) Consistent with section 701 of the International Financial Institutions Act of 1977, directing the United States executive directors of international financial institutions to oppose and vote against loans primarily benefiting the specified government, agency, instrumentality, or official found or determined by the President to be responsible for violations under section 401 or 402.
grant any other specific authority (or a specified number of authorities), to export any goods or technology to the specific foreign government, agency, instrumentality, or official found or determined by the President to be responsible for violations under section 401 or 402, under—
(A) the Export Administration Act of 1979; (B) the Arms Control Act; (C) the Atomic Energy Act of 1954; or (D) any other statute that requires the prior review and approval of the United States Government as a condition for the export or reexport of goods or services.

(14) Prohibiting any United States financial institution from making loans or providing credits totaling more than $10,000,000 in any 12-month period to the specific foreign government, agency, instrumentality, or official found or determined by the President to be responsible for violations under section 401 or 402.

(15) Prohibiting the United States Government from procuring, or entering into any contract for the procurement of, any goods or services from the foreign government, entities, or officials found or determined by the President to be responsible for violations under section 401 or 402.

(b) COMMENSURATE ACTION.—Except as provided in subsection (d), the President may substitute any other action authorized by law for any action described in paragraphs (9) through (15) of subsection (a) if such action is commensurate in effect to the action substituted and if the action would further the policy of the United States as set forth in section 2(b) of this Act. The President shall seek to take all appropriate and feasible actions authorized by law to obtain the cessation of the violations. If commensurate action is taken, the President shall report such action, together with an explanation for taking such action, to the appropriate congressional committees.

(c) EAGLE BILLS.—The President may negotiate and enter into a binding agreement with a foreign government that obligates such government to cease, or take substantial steps to cease, the publication of information under this section in the same manner and to the same extent as the President may limit the publication of findings and determinations described in section 654(c) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2414(c)), if the President determines that the publication of information under this section—
(1) would be harmful to the national security of the United States; or
(2) would not further the purposes of this Act.

(d) EXCEPTIONS.—Any action taken pursuant to subsection (a) or (b) may not prohibit or restrict the provision of medicine, medical equipment, or supplies, food, or other humanitarian assistance.

SEC. 406. EFFECTS ON EXISTING CONTRACTS.

The President shall not be required to apply or maintain any Presidential action under this subtitle—
(1) in the case of procurement of defense articles or defense services—
(A) under existing contracts or subcontracts, including the exercise of options for production quantities, to satisfy requirements essential to the national security of the United States; (B) that determines in writing and so reports to Congress that the person or other entity to which the Presidential action would otherwise be applied is a sole source supplier of the defense articles, that the defense articles or services are essential, and that alternative sources are not readily or reasonably available; or
(C) that determines in writing and so reports to Congress that such articles or services are essential to the national security under defense coproduction agreements; or
(2) that determines in writing and so reports to Congress that such contracts entered into before the date on which the President published his intention to take the President’s action—

SEC. 407. PRESIDENTIAL WAIVER.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b), the President may waive the application of any of the actions described in paragraphs (9) through (15) of section 405(a) (or commensurate action in substitution therefor) with respect to a country, if the President determines and so reports to appropriate congressional committees that—
(1) the respective foreign government has ceased the violations giving rise to the Presidential action; (2) the exercise of such waiver authority would further the purposes of this Act; or
(3) the important national interest of the United States requires the exercise of such waiver authority.

(b) CONSEQUENTIAL NOTIFICATION.—Not later than the date of the execution of a waiver under subsection (a), the President shall notify the appropriate congressional committees of the waiver or the intention to execute the waiver, together with a detailed justification thereof.

SEC. 408. PUBLICATION IN FEDERAL REGISTER.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b), the President shall cause to be published in the Federal Register the following:

(1) DETERMINATIONS OF GOVERNMENTS, OFFICIALS, AND ENTITIES OF PARTICULAR CONCERN.—Any designation of a country as a country of particular concern for religious freedom under section 402(b)(1), together with, when applicable and to the extent practicable, the identities of the officials or entities determined to be responsible for the violations under section 402(b)(2).

(2) PRESIDENTIAL ACTION REPORTS.—A description of any Presidential action under paragraphs (9) through (15) of section 405(a) (or commensurate action in substitution therefor) and the effective date of the Presidential action.

(3) DELAYS IN TRANSMITTAL OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTION REPORTS.—Any delay in transmittal of a Presidential action report, as described in section 404(b).

(4) WAIVERS.—Any waiver under section 407.

(b) LIMITED DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION.—The President may limit publication of information under this section in the same manner and to the same extent as the President may limit the publication of findings and determinations described in section 654(c) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2414(c)), if the President determines that the publication of information under this section—
(1) would be harmful to the national security of the United States; or
(2) would not further the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 409. TERMINATION OF PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.

Any Presidential action taken under this Act with respect to a foreign country shall terminate on the earlier of the following dates:

(1) TERMINATION DATE.—Within 2 years of the effective date of the Presidential action unless expressly reauthorized by law.

(2) FOREIGN GOVERNMENT ACTIONS.—Upon the determination by the President, in consultation with the Commission, and certification to Congress that the foreign government has ceased or taken substantial and verifiable steps to cease the particularly severe violations of religious freedom.

SEC. 410. PRECLUSION OF JUDICIAL REVIEW.

No court shall have jurisdiction to review any Presidential determination or agency action under this Act or any amendment made by this Act.

Subtitle II—Strengthening Existing Law

SEC. 421. UNITED STATES ASSISTANCE.

(a) IMPLEMENTATION OF PROHIBITION ON ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE.—Section 116(c) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2153(c)) is amended—
(1) in the text above paragraph (1), by inserting “and in consultation with the Ambassador at Large for International Religious Freedom” after “Labor”;
(2) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (1); (3) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (2) and inserting “; and”; and
(4) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“whether the government—
(1) has engaged in or tolerated particularly severe violations of religious freedom, as defined in section 3 of the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998; or

(b) IMPLEMENTATION OF PROHIBITION ON MILITARY ASSISTANCE.—Section 502(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2304(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(4) in determining whether the government of a country engages in a consistent pattern of gross violations of internationally recognized human rights, the President shall give particular consideration to whether the government—
(1) has engaged in or tolerated particularly severe violations of religious freedom, as defined in section 3 of the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998; or

SEC. 423. EXPORTS OF CERTAIN ITEMS USED IN PARTICULARLY SEVERE VIOLATIONS OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

(a) MANDATORY LICENSING.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Commerce, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, shall include on the list of crime control and detection instruments or equipment under section 502B(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2414(c)), if the President determines or agency action is taken to terminate any Presidential action under paragraphs (9) through (15) of section 405(a) (or commensurate action in substitution therefor) and the effective date of the Presidential action.

(b) LICENSING BAN.—The prohibition on the issuance of a license for export of crime control and detection instruments or equipment under section 502B(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2414(c)) shall apply to the export and reexport of any item included on the list of crime control instruments.

TITLE V—PROMOTION OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

SEC. 501. ASSISTANCE FOR PROMOTING RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:—

...
(1) In many nations where severe violations of religious freedom occur, there is not sufficient statutory legal protection for religious minorities or there is not sufficient cultural and social understanding of international norms of religious freedom.

(2) Accordingly, in the provision of foreign assistance, the United States should make a priority of developing legal protections and cultural respect for religious freedom.

(b) Allocation of Funds for Increased Promotion of Religious Freedoms.—Section 116(e) (the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2151n(e)) is amended by inserting "including the right to free religious belief and practice" after "adherence to civil and political rights".

SEC. 502. INTERNATIONAL BROADCASTING.

Section 303(a) of the United States International Broadcasting Act of 1994 (22 U.S.C. 6220a) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (6);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (7) and inserting ";"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(12) promoting respect for and guarantees of religious freedom abroad by interchanges and visits between the United States and other nations of religious leaders, scholars, and religious and legal experts in the field of religious freedom.

SEC. 504. FOREIGN SERVICE AWARDS.

(a) Performance Pay.—Section 405(d) of the Foreign Service Act of 1980 (22 U.S.C. 3965(d)) is amended by inserting after the first sentence the following:

"Such service in the promotion of internationally recognized human rights, including the right to freedom of religion, shall serve as a basis for granting awards under this section.

(b) Foreign Service Awards.—Section 614 of the Foreign Service Act of 1980 (22 U.S.C. 4013) is amended by adding at the end the following new sentence: "Distinguished, meritorious service in the promotion of internationally recognized human rights, including the right to freedom of religion, shall serve as a basis for granting awards under this section.

TITLE VI—REFUGEE, ASYLUM, AND CONSULAR MATTERS

SEC. 601. USE OF ANNUAL REPORT.

The Annual Report, together with other relevant documentation, shall serve as a resource for immigration judges and consular, refugee, and asylum officers in cases involving claims of persecution on the grounds of religion. Absence of reference by the Annual Report to conditions described by the alien shall not constitute the sole grounds for a denial of the alien’s claim.

SEC. 602. REFUGEE POLICY.

(a) Training.—Section 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1157(d)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(f) The Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall provide all United States officials adjudicating refugee cases under this section with the same training as that provided to officers adjudicating asylum cases under section 208.

"(2) Such training shall include country-specific conditions, instruction on the internationally recognized freedom of religion, instruction on methods of religious persecution practiced in foreign countries, and applicable distinctions within a country between the nature of and treatment of various religious practices and believers.

(b) Training for Foreign Service Officers.—Section 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1980, as added by section 104 of this Act, is further amended—

(1) by inserting "(a)
"(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(b) The Secretary of State shall provide sessions on refugee law and adjudications and on patterns of religious persecution seeking recognition as a commission for a United States consular officer. The Secretary shall also ensure that any member of the Service who is assigned to a position that may result in determining requests for consideration for refugee admissions, including any consular officer, has completed training on refugee law and refugee adjudications in addition to the training required in this section.

(c) Guidelines for Refugee-Processing Posts.—

(1) Guidelines for Addressing Hostile Biases.—The Attorney General and the Secretary of State shall develop and implement guidelines that address potential biases in personnel of the Immigration and Naturalization Service that are hired abroad and other duties which could constitute an effective barrier to a refugee claim if such personnel carries a bias against the claimant on the grounds of religion, race, nationality, sex, marital status, social group, or political opinion. The subject matter of this training should be culturally sensitive and tailored to provide a nonbiased, non-adversarial atmosphere for the purpose of refugee adjudications.

(2) Guidelines for Refugee-Processing Posts in Establishing Agreements with United States Government-designated Refugee Processing Entities.—The Attorney General and the Secretary of State shall develop and implement guidelines to ensure uniform procedures for establishing agreements with United States Government-designated refugee processing entities and personnel, and uniform procedures for such entities and personnel responsible for preparing refugee case files for use by the Immigration and Naturalization Service during refugee adjudications. These procedures should ensure, to the extent practicable, that case files prepared by such entities accurately reflect information provided by the refugee applicants and that genuine refugee applicants are not disadvantaged because of their refugee status due to faulty case file preparation.

(d) Annual Consultation.—The President shall include in each annual report on proposed refugee admissions under section 207(d) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1157(d)) information about religious persecution of refugee populations eligible for consideration for admission to the United States. The Secretary of State shall include information on religious persecution to each individual seeking admission to the United States on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 605. STUDIES ON THE EFFECT OF EXPELLED REMOVAL PROVISIONS ON ASYLUM CLAIMS.

(a) Studies.—

(1) Commission Request for Participation by Experts on Refugee and Asylum Issues.—If the Commission so requests, the Attorney General shall invite experts designated by the Commission, who are recognized for their expertise and knowledge of refugee and asylum issues, to conduct a study, in cooperation with the Comptroller General of the United States, to determine whether immigration officers described in paragraph (2) are engaging in any of the conduct described in such paragraph.

(2) Duties of Comptroller General.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study alone or, upon request by the Commission in cooperation with experts designated by the Commission, to determine whether immigration officers described in paragraph (2) are engaging in any of the conduct described in such paragraph.

(b) Reports.—

(1) Commission Request for Participation by Experts on Refugee and Asylum Issues.—If the Commission so requests, the Attorney General shall invite experts designated by the Commission, who are recognized for their expertise and knowledge of refugee and asylum issues, to conduct a study, in cooperation with the Comptroller General of the United States, to determine whether immigration officers described in paragraph (2) are engaging in any of the conduct described in such paragraph.

(2) Duties of Comptroller General.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study alone or, upon request by the Commission in cooperation with experts designated by the Commission, to determine whether immigration officers performing duties under section 235(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1225(b)) are engaging in any of the conduct described in such paragraph.
(1) PARTICIPATION BY EXPERTS.—In the case of a Commission request under subsection (a), the experts designated by the Commission under that subsection may submit a report to the committee designated under paragraph (2). Such report may be submitted with the Comptroller General’s report under subsection (a)(2) or independently.

(2) DUTIES OF COMPTROLLER GENERAL.—Not later than September 1, 2000, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the Committees on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives and the Senate, the Committee on International Relations of the Senate a report containing the results of the studies conducted under subsection (a)(2). If the Commission requests designated experts to participate with the Comptroller General in the preparation and submission of the report, the Comptroller General shall grant the request.

(c) ACCESS TO PROCEEDINGS.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), to facilitate the studies and reports, the Attorney General of the United States and, in the case of a Commission request under subsection (a), the experts designated under subsection (a) to have unrestricted access to all stages of all proceedings conducted under section 235(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply in cases in which the alien objects to such access, or the Attorney General determines that the security of a particular proceeding would be threatened by such access, so long as any restrictions on the access of experts designated by the Commission under subsection (a) do not contravene international law.

TITLE VII—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS
SEC. 701. BUSINESS CODES OF CONDUCT.
(a) CONGRESSIONAL FINDING.—Congress recognizes the increasing importance of transnational corporations as global actors, and their potential for providing positive leadership in their host countries in the area of human rights.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that transnational corporations operating overseas, particularly those corporations operating in countries the governments of which have engaged in or tolerated violations of religious freedom as defined in the Annual Report, should adopt codes of conduct—

(1) upholding the right to freedom of religion of their employees; and

(2) ensuring that a worker’s religious views and peaceful practices of belief in no way affect, or be allowed to affect, the status or terms of his or her employment.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendments be considered as read and printed in the RECORD. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT) each will be recognized for 20 minutes. The chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN).

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 days in which to revise and extend their remarks on this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the SPEAKER pro tempore is not entitled to objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the legislation before us, H.R. 2431, represents a culmination of years of work on behalf of many people who are persecuted around the world on account of their religion, work which has been carried on tirelessly by the distinguished gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), the principle House sponsor of this measure and by the distinguished chairman of our Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), as well as by many other Members of this body who cosponsored H.R. 2431.

Mr. Speaker, I was pleased to join with the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) as an original cosponsor of this measure, worked closely with them as we moved this measure through the legislative process. Our Committee on International Relations approved this measure on March 25. It passed the House on March 14 by a vote of 374 in favor to 41 opposed. The bill then went over to the Senate where it received very careful consideration and was revised significantly. In most respects I prefer the House-approved version to what passed the Senate yesterday, but on balance I believe that we have before us a worthy measure that will contribute significantly to the struggle to eliminate religious oppression around the world.

Before concluding my remarks there are several technical points that I must know about the text before us. First, section 405(c) urges the President to negotiate and enter into “binding agreements” with foreign governments that are engaged in religious persecution.

As stated in the text of 405(c), the purpose of that provision is to, quote, enter into a binding agreement with a foreign government that obligates such government to take substantive steps to address and phase out the act, policy or practice constituting the violation of religious freedom, close quote. In other words, the agreement should be binding on the foreign government in question. Nothing in that section suggests or is meant to suggest that these agreements may obligate the United States to do anything or otherwise bind our Nation in any way.

This provision most emphatically is not a grant of authority to the President to enter into agreements that would legally bind our Nation or supersede U.S. law. This section is not intended to open the door to committing the United States to extend benefits or make any other binding promise to a foreign country as a quid pro quo for them to stop persecuting their own people.

Second, section 407(a) authorizes the President to waive sanctions imposed on foreign countries under this legislation. Obviously this waiver authority extends only to sanctions that have been imposed pursuant to this legislation.

This authority does not extend to the same or similar sanctions that have been imposed on foreign countries pursuant to other provisions of law. Particularly, it does not extend to the ongoing sanctions under other laws that, pursuant to section 402(c)(4)(D), have been determined to satisfy the requirements of this law.

Third, section 409 calls for the termination of sanctions imposed under this legislation after 2 years unless they are expressly reauthorized by law. The legislation, however, requires the President to impose sanctions on individual countries each year if his yearly review finds that conditions there merit them.

In this regard, section 402(c)(4) provides that when a country was sanctioned during a prior year under this law and those sanctions are still in effect, the President need not reimpose those sanctions or impose additional sanctions.

It is not the purpose of this law, however, to turn sanctions on and off like a light switch. Sections 409 and 402(c)(4) in combination are not to be interpreted to provide for a temporary lapse in sanctions with respect to countries that have, over a period of 2 years or more, engaged in or tolerated particularly severe violations of religious freedom.

Rather, the structure of the legislation and common sense would require continuity of these sanctions with respect to such countries. The 2-year sunset provision of section 409 would not provide for a lapse in sanctions with respect to such countries because new action would be required in connection with the President’s annual review and that new action would be subject to a new 2-year clock.

I have reviewed each of these technical issues with the principal House sponsor of the measure, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), and he assures me that in each case he shares my understanding. If there were not a shared understanding among all of us about the meaning of these provisions, I would have insisted on referral of the Senate amendment to the Committee on International Relations. I would have not have permitted the measure to come before the House in its current form.

With these understandings, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support the measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

(Mr. CLEMENT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2431.

Mr. Speaker, I am glad that we were able to work through the process to reach a compromise on the legislation before us today. It is a fully bipartisan bill. It does not target one group or one country. Rather, it seeks to promote and protect religious freedom of all peoples throughout the world. This is an objective that deserves all of our support, and it respects all religions and faiths in the world.

Mr. Speaker, we are poised on the brink of an historic vote to help millions of our persecuted brothers and sisters around the world. The words of our first President, George Washington, ring out across the years as if written to us for this day: "I beg you will be persuaded that no one would be more zealous than myself to establish effectual barriers against the horrors of spiritual tyranny and every species of religious persecution."

This morning, with historic unity and courage, the Senate voted 98 to 0 to stand against the horrors of religious persecution. I rise now after more than a year of work on this bill, in heartfelt support for the International Religious Freedom Act. Let us finish the job. With one voice, let us tell religious believers around the world that we have heard their cries and we are acting. Let us, with one voice, tell persecuting regimes around the world that we will not be silent and that we will not let their crimes go unchecked.

Even as we speak, there are those suffering, including John Hanford, Steve Moffitt, Elaine Petty, Jim Jatras, Cecile Shea, including John Hanford, Steve Moffitt, Elaine Petty, Jim Jatras, Cecile Shea, Pam Sellars. I commend the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) and his staffer Ann Huiskes.

What is so remarkable about this bill is that it is bipartisan in nature. I know just how bipartisan the effort was, because my staffer, Laura Bryant, was one of the original drafters of this bill together with my colleague on the other side, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DeLAY), and his fine staffer, Will Inboden. They worked together for over a year with the staff of other Senators and Congressmen, with grassroots groups, with the administration to have a bill we can all heartily support.

Let me mention some of the heroes from the grassroots of many faiths. From the Episcopalian church, the first to support the bill, Tom Hart and Jerry Skipper. From the American Jewish Committee, Rich Foltin. From the Southern Baptist Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission, Will Dodson. From the Anti-Defamation League, Stacy Burdett, and there were many others from many faiths, including Chuck Colson and Nagy Kheir.

It also creates a high level Ambassador at Large who will forcefully advocate for religious freedom around the world, and a high-level, independent commission of experts to provide policy recommendations.

It also creates an annual report by the State Department to shed the light of exposure on violations of religious freedom around the world. It requires our government to take action every year in each country where violations occur, from the list of options ranging from diplomatic discussions to targeted economic sanctions for the worst of violators.

Before imposing a sanction, the President must renegotiate with the foreign government to end the persecution, and consult with religious groups and U.S. business interests about the potential impact of economic action against that country. The action may be waived if justifiable.

Finally, there is extensive long-term promotion of change, from broadcasting to human rights training for our foreign service and immigration officers. Last long, in times of terrible hardship for the people of God, the prophet Isaiah said that what is acceptable to God is to undo the bands of the yoke and to let the oppressed go free. Mr. Speaker, this is not just a bill. This is a step towards the greatest precious freedom, the right dearer to every human heart. This is a historic step for the freedom of the people of God in every country to worship Him in freedom and in peace.

Mr. Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to join with the Senate in saying to the world, with one voice, that the United States stands for freedom of religion in every country, for every person, for every man, for every woman. We cannot be silent.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT), for his supporting arguments on behalf of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 7 1/2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), the chairman of the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), our chairman, foryielding.

Mr. Speaker, first of all, let me begin by expressing my deep gratitude to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) for his courage and persistence in pushing this important bill through the long and arduous road to final passage. Frankly, I am disappointed, and I know many of my colleagues are, that the Senate amendments have somewhat weakened our bill. For example, the House had given the President a great deal of flexibility in deciding whether to impose sanctions against governments that severely persecute religious believers. However, the Senate stretches flexibility almost to the breaking point. I am informed that this was necessary in order to avoid a filibuster.

Even with the Senate amendments, I must say very clearly that the bill creates what I sincerely hope will be a strong and independent Commission on International Religious Freedom, which can be a voice on behalf of persecuted people around the world, and it provides modest but important safeguards for refugees and asylum seekers.

I just wanted to make it very clear that our Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights, which I chair, will work with the Commission in any way to ensure that it acts boldly and in an unfettered way to expose religious persecution wherever and whenever it exists, even when it is not politically expedient.

Mr. Speaker, recently the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights held a hearing for the purpose of taking testimony from 5 witnesses to religious persecution: a Catholic from Pakistan, a Protestant from China, a Buddhist from Tibet, and a Bahai from Iran, each of whom had witnessed religious persecution firsthand.

Each of these people had seen close friends or relatives imprisoned, tortured, even executed for their faith, or had suffered such horrors themselves. Each presented compelling and recent evidence that religious persecution is not a problem that will go away if we just pretend that it does not exist.

This hearing was the latest in a series of hearings that our Subcommittee has had, focusing in whole or in part on the persecution of religious believers. Other hearings focused on worldwide anti-Semitism; on the persecution of Christians around the world; on the 1995 massacre of Bosnian Muslims in Srebrenica; on the enslavement of black Christians in the Sudan; and on the use of torture against religious believers and other prisoners of conscience.

We have heard from Palden Gyatso, a Tibetan Buddhist monk who displayed—actually brought into the House, into our committee room—the instruments of torture that had been used against him by his communist jailers from the PRC.

We heard from Hasan Nuhanovic, a Muslim who unsuccessfully begged, begged the United Nations peacekeepers, UNPROFOR, not to turn his mouth, father and brother over to the murderous Bosnian Serb militia.

We heard from a Russian Jewish member of parliament who observed, and I quote, that “anti-Semitism was the first industry to be privatized in the post-Soviet Russia.”

We heard from the Karen refugees whose villages in Thailand were burned by the Burmese military dictatorship, which openly used their Christian religion as an excuse to conduct cross-border raids against them; and from Christians and Buddhists subjected to imprisonment and torture by the communist governments of China and Vietnam.

Wherever we hear from victims themselves, and whenever we hear from those victims, they make it very clear that the United States should press hard for an end to religious persecution abroad. This is important because the Clinton administration and some business people who had opposed the Freedom From Religious Persecution Act have suggested that by publicly demanding an end to the mistreatment of these people, we are more likely to hurt them than help them.

Personally, I believe it may be true occasionally in the short run that a totalitarian dictatorship used to being coddled by the United States Government will react with anger when we suddenly tell them they behave in a responsible and civilized fashion. This is true whether the issue is religious persecution, nuclear proliferation, or anything else.

In the long run, however, as we learned from the apartheid fight, these governments will act in their own self-interest. If we send them a strong and consistent message that economic and other benefits of a close relationship with the U.S. can be expected to flow to a government if and only if that government treats its own people decently, we are likely to save lives and promote human rights and freedom in the long run.

What we do to other governments that persecute religious believers, it is also important that the U.S. put its own house in order. One way we can do this is to monitor and improve our treatment of refugees, with special reference to religious refugees. Unfortunately, in recent years, the U.S. commitment to refugees, both in the amount we spend on protection overseas and the number of refugees we admit into the U.S., has declined sharply.

In the last 4 years, our State Department has asked for and gotten a raise for itself every single year. Yet, the only major account in the Department that increased, and for an increase in the refugee budget. The administration’s fiscal year 1999 budget request for refugees was $63 million lower than the amount we spent in fiscal year 1995. And this is when the world is absolutely awash in refugees.

The number of refugees admitted to the U.S. has gone down in this administration from 130,000 to 75,000 in only 4 years. These declining resettlement rates encourage first-asylum countries to forcibly repatriate refugees to countries where they face serious danger.

For example, in recent years we have seen Tibetan Buddhists forced back from Nepal into the hands of the Chinese. Christians from Vietnam and Bahais forced back from Iran to Turkey. We need to reverse that trend and restore the American tradition of a safe haven for the oppressed. In the words of President Ronald Reagan, the United States can and must be “a shining city on a hill.”

Finally, I want to address those critics who suggest that by paying special attention to religious persecution, we somehow diminish the importance of those who have suffered persecution for other reasons. Nothing could be further from the truth, and it is no accident that those in Congress who have been the strongest in their support of persecuted believers also have stood up for all the other human rights issues as we have tried to deal with them in this body.

Again, I want to just ask all of my colleagues to support this legislation. It is a compromise; it does not go near as far as I would like to see it, as far as the House, but it is certainly a step in the right direction.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Wolf), has spent 18 years fighting against religious persecution and deserves the lion’s share of credit. He is the one who made this a reality as the House, and I want to thank him for his great work.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Blagojevich) whose brother, Rob, has lived in the Nashville, Tennessee, area for a number of years.

Mr. BLAGOJEVICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. Clement) who, as the House knows, has tried to deal with them in this body.

I would also like to thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT) for allowing me the time and for his efforts on this particular bill. This is a very important bill, and it really is about all of the things that America is about.

Our country, Mr. Speaker, was founded on the concepts of religious freedom and settled by people who were seeking a land where they could worship free from persecution. The Freedom From Religious Persecution Act was written in that spirit.

Mr. Speaker, when we speak of the need to promote democracy in our world, religious freedom should not be considered ancillary to this goal. In fact, freedom of conscience is a cornerstone of all democratic rights.

In our country, the concept of freedom of speech and freedom of association are the effects of the first European immigrants who came to this land to worship, to preach, and to form churches of their choice. One of the founding documents of our democracy is the Mayflower Compact, an agreement resting on the idea of the mutual consent of the original Indian inhabitants by people who voyaged halfway around the globe to find a place where they could worship according to their conscience.

Today, our freedoms serve as an inspiration for others around the world. That is why so many people seek to come to these shores, to live their lives in a manner they see fit, to raise their families with their values and their beliefs, and to search for truth and inspiration in what they define it. The Freedom From Religious Persecution Act is our answer to those people who look to the United States as a beacon of religious liberty.

One of these is the Assyrian people. Our esteemed colleague, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Eshoo) is of Assyrian descent.

In recent years the Assyrians have been subject to gross violations of their rights. Murder, rape, assault, and forced conversions to Islam have become commonplace, as armed death squads attempt to force Assyrians out of their ancestral home.

In Iraq, Assyrians suffer at the hands of both the government of Saddam Hussein and the Kurdish rebels who battle for northern control of that country. According to Amnesty International, the two main Kurdish factions in Iraq support assassination squads who hunt Assyrians and other religious minorities.

But much of the assault on the Assyrian culture is less overt. Last week, for example, in northern Iraq, Assyrian students were told that they could only attend Kurdish secondary schools. This oppressive move forces Assyrians to sacrifice their language, their culture, and their identity.

Just last week, the Members of this House voted to support opposition to Saddam Hussein’s regime. But our support of an alternative to Hussein’s dictatorship is hollow if we do not insist that the alternative also uphold democratic values and respect the rights of all people.

The Freedom From Religious Persecution Act will provide the United States Government with a powerful tool to ensure respect for religious diversity and freedom of conscience.

We often view America’s role as a global leader in terms of economic or military might. As Henry Kissinger said, “Our Nation cannot rest its policy on power alone.” America’s leadership comes from our commitment to powerful ideals. I urge my
The gentleman said in his statement the examples that he had seen come before his committee of religious oppression, and he too has traveled throughout the world to hear firsthand of those deprived of practicing the gift of faith that he himself has. I want to also commend Senator SPECTER in the Senate who, along with the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), started this process going. It was the leadership of the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) and Senator SPECTER that first shone the bright light of this Congress and of this country on religious persecution throughout the world. Though it is not the original bill that we are passing today, I thank the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) for starting the process and at least giving us a bill that we can use as a standard to see, perhaps, if we can go further in the future, if that is necessary. Hopefully, it will not be, that this bill will be sufficient.

Others have talked about the provisions of the bill. I just want to mention a couple that I am particularly pleased are contained in it. The bill establishes a bipartisan independent commission to review the state of religious freedom and make policy recommendations to the President.

It establishes an ambassador for international religious freedom under the direction of the Secretary of State, the ambassador will help the Secretary review and report on the state of religious freedom and to make recommendations to the President regarding U.S. action in support of religious freedom.

It strengthens our assistance, refugee and counselor laws and calls for a business code of conduct to promote religious freedom.

The bill requires the President to determine violators, and particularly severe violators of religious freedom.

As was mentioned, the bill passed by 98-to-zero. I assume it has the support of the administration. It certainly gives the President a great deal of flexibility.

Mr. Speaker, as my colleague know, faith is a gift. What people believe is so much a part of them, it is impossible for them to change that. How, and then why, does it require courage for people to practice their religion? It should not have to. It is visible now in this en lighten world that we live in, because of the leadership of the likes of the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) and Senator SPECTER and so many others who worked on this, life will be easier for those who want to practice the gift of faith that God has given them.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) once again for his outstanding leadership on human rights.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate the chairman of the committee, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), for his leadership in bringing the original legislation, which I frankly prefer, but it clearly has the support that this final product has; and I thank the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) once again for his outstanding leadership on human rights.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SPECKER). Mr. Speaker, I thank the Chairman for yielding me this time.

I also rise to congratulate the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SPECKER), the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), and Senator SPECTER for all of their leadership in moving this important bill forward, the International Freedom Act. It will, for the first time, establish in the United States, Mr. Speaker, a structure for the U.S. Government to actively investigate oppression of religious belief and take real action against all religious persecution.

It will strengthen, for the first time, the State Department Country Reports on International Religious Freedom that each year at the State Department provide accurate, accessible information to congressional executive branch officials concerning religious prisoners. It will create a special report on religious persecution so that the Congress and the President together may act.

Finally, it will require the President to take action against all countries that engage in violations of religious freedom, and this bill offers a list of options ranging from diplomatic protests to terminating diplomatic exchanges and a variety of economic sanctions.

It is certainly a bill whose time has arrived in our effort to take sanctions against the tragic scourge of religious persecution worldwide, and I thank again the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) and the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) for all of their leadership in this regard. I ask unanimously we have votes on both sides of the aisle to support this worthy bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SCARBOROUGH).

Mr. SCARBOROUGH. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the chairman, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) and the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI) and others for their work on this important bill.

I commend Abe Rosenthal of the New York Times who, for well over a year has been fighting to get the word out about religious persecution across the globe. And Michael Horowitz at the Hudson Institute who has also done just a wonderful job in making sure that Members like myself are educated on this very important issue.

This religious persecution act is an important first step toward protecting the freedom of all to worship as they choose. For too long, America has turned its eyes away from those who are suffering religious persecution across the globe. And for too long, America has kept silent when we should have said more.

We should have said more about Tibet where so many have been crushed by the oppressive hand of Chinese occupation. Where over 1 million citizens have been driven from their land, while their culture and monasteries have been destroyed.
In Sudan, over 2 million Christians may have been killed for simply pursuing the worship of God.

Sudanese children have been beaten, tortured and even crucified for being Christians. And as the Baltimore Sun reported last year, children in Sudan are being sold into slavery for less than $50. Russell Kirk once said, regardless of a country’s stated output, a society that forgets its values is vanquished.

I believe today’s action is a positive first step towards our country recognizing that America has a responsibility to ensure religious freedom at home and across the globe.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I have someone who has been on the international affairs staff for 5 years, Elana Broitman, and she is leaving to go to New York City with her husband. She has worked with us on this issue, the International Religious Freedom Act, and many other issues and she has been an outstanding member of the staff. We are going to miss her very, very much. And I just wish her well in her new endeavors.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to join in with the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT) in wishing our staff member, Elana Broitman, success in her future endeavors. We will miss her on our committee.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), author of this legislation, and an outstanding leader.

(Mr. WOLF asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, in my prepared statement, I mention all of the people, many who are on the floor who have really done an outstanding job, and many names are there. I do want to cover some, and I hope if I run out of time, the gentleman may even yield me a minute or two:

The gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) for being faithful and always there, always dependable, always willing, never saying no, and for his staff that worked and compiled and tried and pushed and pulled.

To the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), who was the same way, and his staff that were always there, always willing, always setting the record, making the hearing.

To the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARMY), the majority leader, who came to our gathering and put the prestige of the leadership on this to make sure that this bill would not fall through the cracks as we get to the end.

To the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), who was always there on all of these issues. There was no center aisle dividing line. And Carolyn and her staff are always dependable, never saying, “Well, we may not” and “that may be,” and “the administration says,” always, always, always there.

Senator SPECTER, Senator COATS, my good, close friend DAN COATS, whom I hate to see leaving the Congress, former Senator Bill Armstrong and so many of the other senators. Mr. Horowitz, who is out of town with his daughter being married.

The gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT), Laura, John Hanford and many others who all came together and worked on this.

Mr. Speaker, this really is an example of people sending a message. As Abe Rosenthal said in his column last Friday, and I will read it; and Abe Rosenthal, as the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SCARBOURGH) said, was always there. I do not know how he got the ink from the New York Times, but always shaking things up to make sure that this would not be forgotten.

He said, Very soon, millions of people persecuted for their religion will find out whether America has finally confronted persecuting governments with a permanent searchlight and the threat of penalty. . . . MOUTH to ear they will find out in underground Protestant and Catholic churches in China and in prisons run by expert torturers for those refusing to pray in government-run churches. The persecuted will find out in Sudan wilds and deserts where Christians and animist refugees starve and die under government attack. They will find out in Pakistani villages where Christians homes have been set afire. Or in the village south of Cairo where Coptic Christian clergy are sending frantic word that 1,000 Copts were tortured by Egyptian police.

When we do this tonight, I will tell my colleagues that in Tibet, when after there last year they told me they listen to Radio Free Asia in Tibet. In Lhasa tomorrow morning, they will know that this Congress, the people’s Congress, the people’s body, cares about what happens in Drapchi Prison, cares about the Catholic priests who are being arrested, the Catholic bishops, the Muslims who no one speaks out for in the northern part of the country, the Protestant house churches, all of those people will know.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good legislation. I think both sides have taken a lot of good steps. Obviously, perhaps better people, wiser than we, can make it better. If they are, I guess fine. But until that time, I think this is good. I hope it will pass with unanimous consent.

But again, on behalf of the voiceless, we have given them a voice, all of those I named and all who are in here on their behalf.

Mr. Speaker, rise in strong support of the measure before us, to concur in the Senate amendment to H.R. 2431, the Freedom from Religious Persecution Act. What is before us is not the measure the House passed. It is different. However, I believe it is critical that the Congress do its duty and deal with the issue of religious persecution and I strongly support this measure. I hope you will, too.

In his column last Friday in the New York Times, A.M. Rosenthal wrote.

Very soon, millions of people persecuted, arrested and tortured for their religion will find out whether America has finally confronted persecuting governments with a permanent government searchlight and the threat of penalty. . . . MOUTH to ear they will find out in underground Protestant and Catholic churches in China and in prisons run by expert torturers for those refusing to pray in government-run churches. The persecuted will find out in Sudan wilds and deserts where Christian and animist refugees starve and die under government attack. They will find out in Pakistani villages where Christian homes have been set afire. Or in the village south of Cairo where Coptic Christian clergy are sending frantic word that 1,000 Copts were tortured by Egyptian police.

Rosenthal’s words should be taken to heart. I would add my own comments. In Tibet, Tibetan Buddhist monks and nuns who are, at this moment, being tortured and beaten in Drapchi prison and the other Chinese-run prison that will find out. In Iran, the families of the two Baha’i men sentenced to death last week and the 36 Baha’i faculty members arrested will know what we do today. In Pakistan, Ahmadi Muslims fearful of their lives will know in China, the Muslims being persecuted in Xinjiang Province will hear the result of the vote in the House today.

Mr. Speaker, the other body passed this bill, now called the International Religious Freedom Act, by a unanimous vote of 98-0. I’m told the White House supports this measure. It also has the support of a broad coalition of religious and civic groups, including the Christian Coalition, the National Association of Evangelicals, the U.S. Catholic Bishops’ Conference, the National Jewish Coalition, the Anti-Defamation League, the Christian Legal Society, the Traditional Values Coalition, the Episcopal Church, B’nai B’rith, Justice Fellowship, the American Jewish Committee, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, the United Methodist Church—Women’s Division, and the American Coptic Association.

Passing this historic legislation will send a message of hope to millions of people worldwide who are being persecuted for their religious beliefs. Passing this bill will help ensure that eliminating religious persecution becomes a prominent goal of our foreign policy and will help loosen the chains of government oppression endured by many today.

This bill meets the goals Senator SPECTER and I set out to achieve when we introduced the Freedom from Religious Persecution Act in May, 1997. First, we wanted to ensure that the State Department has a permanent mechanism for monitoring the plight of people persecuted for their faith. Second, we wanted to establish a framework for taking action against countries that persecute people for their faith. Both of these goals are met in this legislation and I pleased that I can strongly support it today.

The International Religious Freedom Act contains a number of important provisions:

It establishes a 9-member Commission on International Religious Liberty to report annually on religious freedom violations abroad and recommend policy options to the administration. This provision, in my view, greatly enhances the legislation because it helps ensure that this issue will get attention by an independent body of experts and puts pressure on the State Department and the White House to accountable.

It creates an Ambassador-at-Large for Religious Liberty in the State Department to serve as a focal point to address religious freedom issues.
This person would represent the U.S. abroad and help provide expertise and leadership within the Department on this fundamental human rights issue.

It provides the President with a list of options from which to choose when imposing sanctions on a country found to be violating religion.

Like the House bill, it contains a number of provisions designed to promote religious freedom abroad, such as incentives for foreign service officers who show meritorious service in promoting religious freedom, requiring the creation of a State Department Internet site to promote religious freedom, recommending high-level contacts with religious non-government organizations, requiring the State Department to prepare prisoner lists and issue briefs for prisoners.

It also includes a provision allowing equal access to U.S. missions abroad for conducting religious activities in places where religious activity is otherwise prohibited. This will help American citizens abroad who desire to worship, safely do so in local churches and would otherwise have nowhere to go. In places like Saudi Arabia, this is a real problem.

The International Religious Freedom Act is a good bill and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Many, many people have worked hard to get this bill where it is today. First, I want to thank my colleagues here in the House, parcularly the distinguished Majority Leader Dick Armey, International Relations Committee

Chairman Ben Gilman and Chris Smith, Tony Hall, Nancy Pelosi, and Bob Clement for their tireless leadership on and support for this bill and many other human rights issues. I also want to thank members of their staff, Heidi Stirrup and Brian Gunderson in the Office of the Majority Whip, Steve Rademacher and Rich Garon with the House International Relations Committee; Joseph Rees of the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights; Bob Zachritz with Representative Hall; and Carolyn Bartholomew with Representative Pelosi and Laura Bryant with Representative Clement for their efforts. I also want to thank Anne Huiskes on my staff for pouring her heat and soul into this bill in the past two years and acknowledge the good work of John Hanford who over the years has committed his life to working on these issues and advocating on behalf of people being persecuted around the world.

Mr. Speaker, there are a number of Members of the other body who are to be comcended for their leadership in moving this legislation through the Senate. First and foremost, I want to commend and applaud the leadership of Senator Arlen Specter for being out front on this issue and introducing the Senate version of the Freedom from Religious Persecution Act. I also want to comcend the distinguished Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, who has done so much work in getting religious persecution legislation and Senator Don Nickles and Senator Joe Lieberman, the authors of the International Religious Freedom Act, for their work and leadership. I applaud them for sticking with this issue when many would have given up. I am also extremely grateful for the faithful efforts of Senator Dan Coats who kept his shoulder to the wheel in shepherding this legislation through the U.S.

Senate. This is a truly commendable effort.

I also want to acknowledge the important work of the staff involved with this measure in the Senate: Gretchen Birkle with Senator Specter, Elyaneetty with Senator MACK, Sharon Payt with Senator Brownback, Steve Moffit with Senator Nickles, Jim Jatras with the Senate Majority Committee, Pam Sellers and Sharon Soderstrom with Senator COATS, Fred Downey with Senator Lieberman, and Bill Gribbin in the Office of the Senate Majority Leader.

Finally, I want to thank all those groups who helped generate support for this legislation and who work tirelessly each and every day to bring to attention to this issue. My sincere thanks goes out to Michael Horowitz with the Hudson Institute; Chuck Colin and Marium Bell with Justice Fellowship; Gary Bauer of the Family Research Council with the Focus on the Family; Senator Bill Armstrong; John Carr with the U.S. Catholic Bishops Conference; Ari Storoch with the National Jewish Coalition; Steve McFarland with the Christian Legal Society; Jess Hordes [HOR-DES] and Darcy Oshinsky with the National Action League; Rabbi David Saperstein with the Religious Action Center for Reformed Judaism; Nina Shea, Paul Marshall and Joseph Assad with the Center for Religious Freedom at Freedom House; Diane Knippers and Faith
McDonnell with the Center for Religion and Democracy; Mary Beth Markley with the Inter-country Campaign for Tibet; Steve Snyder with International Christian Concern; Rich Cizik with the National Association of Evangelicals; Don Hodel, Randy Tate and Jeff
Taylor with the Christian Coalition; Dr. Richard Land and Will Dodson with the Southern Baptist Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission;
Rev. Stan DeBoe with the International Fellows of Christians and Jews; Nani Khed with the American Coptic Association; Neal
Hogan with the Catholic Alliance; Father Keith Rockefeller with the Human Rights Under Islamization and Dr. David Adams with the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. There were many, many others involved. I know I left some out, but I applaud all that has been done on behalf of this measure and this issue.
Today is truly a historic day in the Congress. I urge my colleagues to vote yes on the International Religious Freedom Act. It will help millions of people around the world.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to fully endorse the statements made in support of H.R. 2431, the Freedom from Religious Persecution Act, by the distinguished gentleman from Tennessee, Mr. Clement.

Mr. Speaker, I am glad that we were able to work through the process to reach a compromise on the legislation before us today. It is a fully bipartisan bill. It does not target one group or one country. Rather, it seeks to promote and protect religious freedom of all people throughout the world. This is an objective that deserves all of our support.

Mr. CRANE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the Senate amendment to the International Religious Freedom Act, H.R. 2431.

I abhor the persecution of anyone because of their faith, whether they are Buddhists, Muslims, Jews, fellow Christians, or people of other faiths. Unfortunately, I was forced to oppose this bill when the House last considered it because I did not believe that it would achieve the desired result of curbing religious oppression by governments around the world.

While the goal of the bill is the elimination of religious persecution, the means proposed in the bill would do nothing to influence countries who do not want to see our leading world. International religious freedom is commendable, the mechanisms of the House bill did not allow for enough flexibility for a U.S. response sized to confront a particular foreign government engaged in religious persecution. Instead of a "one size fits all" approach including trade sanctions, denial of for-gain aid and multinational assistance was mandated, leaving the President very narrow authority to craft appropriate responses.

Instead, I urged my colleagues to modify the bill to allow the executive branch more flexibility to change the behavior of governments in order to stop religious persecution. I feared that, in certain instances, some of the proscribed sanctions would only anger foreign governments and could have the perverse effect of increasing more religious persecution instead of less.

I am grateful that my concerns and suggestions for improvements to this bill have been heeded and adopted by our colleagues in the other body. The Senate amendments give the Administration the flexibility it needs to appropriately respond to incidents of religious persecution. Furthermore, the sanction of contracts is protected by the bill which will prevent incidents where, for example, American farmers are prevented from fulfilling binding agreements with targeted countries. In today's global economy, where there are a variety of sources for products and commodities, sanctions that do not allow existing contracts to be honored only injure American producers.

It is my hope that this bill, as it is now drafted, will allow the United States to respond appropriately to international religious persecution. I certainly believe that we have an obligation to promote our values of religious freedom and democracy. However, our foreign policy must be crafted to achieve these goals, not to be a visceral and important reaction to repehensible persecution.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the Senate changes to H.R. 2431.

The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. Gilman) the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill, H.R. 2431.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendments were concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

TORTURE VICTIMS RELIEF ACT OF 1998

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to the bill, (H.R. 4309) to provide a comprehensive program of support for victims of torture.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) (Mr. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 2 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on this measure.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this important measure addresses a critical area of our efforts to combat human rights abuses, treatment of those individuals who have suffered the effects of torture at the hands of governments as a means of destroying dissent and opposition. I commend the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), our distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights, for introducing this resolution.

The resolution rightly recognizes the importance of treating victims of torture in order to combat the long-term devastating effects that torture has on the physical and psychological well-being of those who have undergone this pernicious form of abuse.

Torture is an extremely effective method to suppress political dissidence, and for those governments which lack the legitimacy of democratic institutions to justify their power, torture can provide a bulwark against popular opposition.

It has been pointed out that for political leaders of undemocratic societies, torture is useful because it aims at destroying personality, to rob those individuals who would actively involve themselves in opposition to oppression of self-confidence and other characteristics that produce leadership.

Fortunately, there are now able treatment regimes for the types of disorders that torture may induce. The resolution before the House will help ensure that these treatments are readily available to torture victims in this Nation and throughout the world that are in need of them.

Accordingly, I urge all of my colleagues to join in approving this legislation, the Torture Victims Relief Act of 1998.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 4309, the Torture Victims Relief Act of 1998. I would also like to commend the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) for his work on the bill, and on behalf of torture victims.

I understand that the Senate has amended the bill to replace the original authorization language for the domestic treatment centers. This change impacts the jurisdiction of the Committee on Commerce. The provisions pertaining to the jurisdiction of the Committee on International Relations remain unchanged.

This is an important bill that deserves our support. U.S. assistance for the rehabilitation and treatment of torture victims is an important first step in overcoming this terrible abuse of human rights.

I would also like to commend the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), my chairman. As a relatively new member of the Committee on International Relations, I have watched him and observed him. He has always been fair, he is always focused, and he is one of the hardest working Members I have ever been around. He represents us well nationally and internationally.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. CLEMENT) for his kind remarks.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), chairman of our Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I too want to thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) for his work on this important legislation and all of these human rights initiatives. He has been steadfast and I for one—and I know I speak for many—appreciate his support, his kindness and his words, and also thank the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS), the principal cosponsor of this legislation, along with 30 other bipartisan Members who have cosponsored H.R. 4309.

Mr. Speaker, this is a bipartisan bill. This legislation provides $31 million over 2 years to help heal and to mitigate at least some of the agony and some of the suffering that is truly unendurable, for those who have endured grotesque torture around the world.

We have heard testimony time and time again that torture persists in many, many despotic countries. We have also heard from those who have suffered and their advocates on what steps the United States and other free countries ought to take to try to lessen some of that suffering.

Those who suffer cruelly at the hands of these governments usually bear the scars, physically, emotionally, and psychologically, for the rest of their lives. For most, if not all, the ordeal of torture does not end when they are released from a gulag, a laogai or a prison camp.

These victims, Mr. Speaker—and there are millions of them around the world and an estimated 400,000 survivors of torture living in the United States—need our help. To date, we have done far too little to assist these walking wounded.

The Torture Victims Relief Act contains a number of important provisions designed to assist torture victims. First, Mr. Speaker, it authorizes grants for rehabilitation for victims of torture and related purposes in both domestic and foreign treatment centers.

Specifically, the bill authorizes $12.5 million in fiscal year 1999, $7.5 million in fiscal year 2000, from the Department of Health and Human Services for contributions to centers of treatment for victims of torture in the United States. There are currently 15 of those centers.

I want especially to thank the gentleman from Virginia (Chairman BUXLEY) for working with us on this, because that money comes from a different spigot, not a foreign aid spigot, and he came forward and was very helpful. Also, I thank Senator RODLEY for working with us on this.

I would also like to commend the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) for his kind words, and also thank the Honorable Senator RODLEY for working with us on this, because that money comes from a different spigot, not a foreign aid spigot, and he came forward and was very helpful. Also, I thank Senator RODLEY for working with us on this.

The legislation also authorizes an additional $5 million in 1999, $7.5 million in fiscal year 2000, for a total of $20 million for international torture victim centers. There are currently about 175 of those centers around the world.

All of these centers, Mr. Speaker, both domestic and international, are seriously underfunded. As a matter of fact, the Denmark-based International Rehabilitation Council for Torture Victims, the IRC, estimates the worldwide need for assisting victims of torture to be about $28 million and only a small portion of this has been met.

H.R. 4309 also authorizes a voluntary contribution from the United States to the U.N. Voluntary Fund to the Victims of Torture in the amount of $3 million in 1999 and another $3 million in 2000. I am proud to say that our bipartisan efforts have already had an effect, because we have been pushing this bill for a number of years now. In 1995, the U.S. contribution was $1.5 million, when we originally introduced this bill. The administration had proposed to cut the fiscal year 1996 contribution by two-thirds to $500,000. Eventually, in response to the bipartisan support for this initiative, they put it up to $1.5 million. Now we will increase that to $3 million each fiscal year.

Mr. Speaker, the bill also provides specialized training for foreign service officers in the identification of evidence of torture, techniques for interviewing torture victims, and related subjects.

Finally, the bill contains an expression of the Sense of Congress that the United States shall use its voice and its vote in the United Nations to support the investigation and elimination of practices prohibited by the Convention Against Torture.

Mr. Speaker, I truly believe that whatever one’s religion is—and I am a Christian, I am a Catholic, and others’ sentiments come out of their deeply-held faiths—but one of the scriptures that motivates me is Matthew’s gospel, the 25th chapter, when our Lord said, whatever you do to the least of my brethren, you do likewise to me. Whether it be the unborn or a persecuted believer, Bahá’í, a Jewish person, whatever, at any given time he or she comes on our behalf, we need to stand up for those people.

In keeping with that scripture, I really believe, Mr. Speaker, that this legislation helps those people after they have been abused to get through that crisis and come to healing and to reconciliation with the trouble and ordeal they have experienced.

Mr. Speaker, I want to make one final point. Grover Joseph Rees, the chief counsel and staff director of the Subcommittee on International Operations and of Human Rights, is the reason this legislation is on the floor, and I do want to thank him for his steadfast work on it. He used to be the general counsel at INS. He knows the inside of that building, and that is why we hired him on the committee, but more importantly, he knows what is going on around the world and has been absolutely invaluable in these kinds of issues, whether it be religious freedom or in the case of this assistance to the torture victims. So I want to thank Joseph for his excellent work on this legislation.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. Bruce VENTO), and I would just note that the State of Minnesota has more water than the State of Tennessee.

(\text{Mr. VENTO asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.})

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation and would commend the authors of this, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS), and the others, other of my colleagues from Minnesota. I think about a third of the sponsors are from Minnesota. And the reason for that, of course, is because of our interest in this and the history of the Center for Victims of Torture, which is located in the Twin Cities.

I would invite my colleagues, if they are traveling through the Twin Cities, if they have a deep interest in this, to stop by and visit. I am certain we would love to have them about it. We have had it in place for nearly 13 years. It was instituted really at the request and response of Governor Rudy Perpich in 1985. The Center has treated almost 600 persons at this particular center to date.

When we celebrate June 26 as an international day in Minnesota, it was pointed out that there are 124 nations around the globe, 124 nations, that still engage in torture and that with the force and intimidation of the civil population. And so we are trying to respond to this with a dozen or so centers across the United States and around the world. And at the time this particular center was started, the United Nations only provided $10,000.

So we began to look at this, and this center itself has grown by itself, on a nonprofit basis, raising nearly $1 million a year, treating these broken persons and trying to take away the nightmare. We call it rising from the ashes, in terms of these broken spirits and broken bodies that are delivered to our shores.

So as we embrace these persons and give to them the type of protection from religious persecution, from political persecution, I think we have to be cognizant of the fact that they are going to need more than just refuge in this country. They need a helping hand.

We are doing research in Minnesota on this. Our health care facilities, Regents Hospital, as an example, in my district, has done much to treat these through special clinics, but it does cost a great deal. There is a lot of volunteerism, but a lot that come in, but, most importantly, I think it is very significant that we are raising on the floor today and actually participating in helping in this problem, which is on overload.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this important human rights bill that protects and provides hope to survivors of torture.

According to the Center for Victims of Torture (CVT), it is estimated that as many as 400,000 victims of torture now reside in the United States with an estimated 12,000 to 15,000 residing in my home state of Minnesota. The Center itself has grown by itself, on a vision of the Sense of Congress that the United States shall use its voice and its vote in the United Nations to support the investigation and elimination of practices prohibited by the Convention Against Torture.

Mr. Speaker, I truly believe that whatever one’s religion is—and I am a Christian, I am a Catholic, and others’ sentiments come out of their deeply-held faiths—but one of the scriptures that motivates me is Matthew’s gospel, the 25th chapter, when our Lord said, whatever you do to the least of my brethren, you do likewise to me. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this important human rights bill that protects and provides hope to survivors of torture.

According to the Center for Victims of Torture (CVT), it is estimated that as many as 400,000 victims of torture now reside in the United States with an estimated 12,000 to 15,000 residing in my home state of Minnesota. The Center’s clients have come from around the world—52 percent from Africa, 25 percent from South and Southeast Asia, 11 percent from Latin America, six percent from the Middle East and three percent from Eastern Europe. An estimated two-thirds of CVT clients are seeking asylum from persecution at the time they first contacted the Center.

Torture survivors suffer from severe psychological effects such as fear, guilt, nightmares, flashbacks, anxiety and depression. The debilitating nature of torture makes it extremely difficult for survivors to hold steady jobs, study for new professions and careers or acquire other skills for a successful integration into our nation’s culture. Congress should provide hope for these talented, educated and productive people who were purposefully disabled by their countries governments.

The Torture Victims Relief Act provides an important first step in healing the wounds of government-inflicted torture on individuals, their families and their communities. Specifically, this bill funds a total of $12.5 million for grants to centers and programs that treat victims of torture in foreign countries and centers in the United States that aid victims of torture. Such funds will cover the costs of supporting torture victims, including rehabilitation, social and legal services and research and training for health care providers. Furthermore, this legislation expresses that the President and the U.N. Voluntary Fund find new and innovative ways to support victim programs and encourage the development of new such programs. Finally, this bill provides training for foreign service officers to help them identify torture and its effects upon innumerable victims.

Torture is a crime against humanity. It is the single most effective weapon against democracy. As Members of Congress, it is our responsibility to protect and shield the world from this strategic tool of repression. I urge all members to support this much needed legislation that will respond to the evils of torture and its physical, social, emotional and spiritual consequences upon our communities.

Mr. CLEMENT. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise to speak on behalf of H.R. 4309, which provides assistance to the over 190 centers around the globe that help people recover from the painful and de-humanizing effects of torture.

Torture is, under all circumstances, a heinous, cruel, and inhuman act that we must fight to prevent at each opportunity. It must be prevented whether it is the result of religious persecution, political reprogramming, organized intimidation, or simply because an individual needs to make another feel less than human. But there are times when we cannot prevent it. Torture happens. It happens in every region of the world—in Africa, the Far East, Central America, Eastern Europe, and Central Asia. We have well documented and shocking reports of torture in Sudan, China, Tibet, Mexico, and Kosovo.

More intolerable is the fact that we must add the United States to that list where torture takes place. Just a few months ago, we saw the tortured slaying of James Byrd, Jr. in Texas. I do not believe we need to remind anyone one of the details of that atrocity. And just yesterday, we had an incident in Wyoming where a young gay man was taken a mile outside of South Dakota.
the town and brutally bludgeoned and burnt, and then tied to a fence like a scarecrow. The young man's name is Matthew Shepard, and my prayers this afternoon are with him and his family. Shockingly, there are 15 torture treatment centers in the United States. I bet that few Americans knew that before today.

This bill authorizes $5 million dollars for the next fiscal year to be given as grants to centers and programs that treat the victims of torture in foreign countries, and then authorizes another $5 million to be spent in this country, to aid similar victims to recover from their physical and mental injuries. The Centers, both near and far, provide rehabilitation, social services, and legal expertise to those victims who seek their assistance. All of these services are instrumental in the effort to make sure that these victims can move forward and lead lives that have some semblance of normalcy.

Additionally, H.R. 4309 requires the Secretary of State to provide torture rehabilitation training to its foreign service officers. This training will improve our personnel's ability to identify torture victims and guide them through the necessary process of seeking relief. The training also includes special gender-specific training, which will ensure that when our officers interact with torture victims who have been raped or violated, that they will not worsen the victim's delicate physical or mental state.

Furthermore, this bill expresses the sense of Congress that the President, through our representative to the United States, should support humanitarian, anti-torture efforts throughout the world. That is to be done by advocating that the United Nations Voluntary Fund find new ways to support torture victim treatment programs; by supporting the U.N. Special Rapporteur on Torture and the U.N. Committee Against Torture; and by pushing for the expansion of those programs into countries where reports indicate that systematic torture is prevalent.

I urge all of you to vote with me today, and reach out to those victims that have suffered at the hands of others unnecessarily.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) for his cooperation in moving this bill forward.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs.ro tempore). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to H.R. 4309.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendment was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXPRESSING SENSE OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES REGARDING CULPABILITY OF HUN SEN FOR WAR CRIMES, CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY, AND GENOCIDE IN CAMBODIA

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 533) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding the culpability of Hun Sen for war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide in Cambodia (the former Kampuchea, the People's Republic of Kampuchea, and the State of Cambodia), as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

WHEREAS the United States should establish a tribunal for the purpose of investigating Hun Sen and individuals under his authority for their criminal culpability for crimes against humanity and international crimes; and

WHEREAS the United States should work with other interested countries and non-governmental organizations to relate to information any country or organization may have concerning allegations of violations of international humanitarian law after 1978 posed against Hun Sen and any individual under his authority in Cambodia and give all such information to the tribunal; and

WHEREAS the United States should work with other interested countries and non-governmental organizations to relate to information any country or organization may have concerning allegations of violations of international humanitarian law after 1978.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DAVIS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN).

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on House Resolution 533, the measure under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may con- sume.

Mr. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 533 expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding the culpability of Hun Sen for his violations of international humanitarian law after 1978 in Cambodia.

I want to commend the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER), a member of our Committee on International Relations, for introducing this resolution condemning Hun Sen's violations of international law over the past 20 years. We thank him for his outstanding leadership on this issue.

I also want to thank the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERETZ), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific of the Committee on International Relations, for his work on this important measure and for his continuing attention to the crisis in Cambodia.
I am a proud cosponsor of this resolution, which I support fully. It is incredibly important that this House express its concern about the violence that has plagued and continues to plague Cambodia, and make every effort to bring those responsible for this unnecessary violence to justice.

If tyranny, and especially tyrants like Hun Sen, are allowed to thrive in an atmosphere of impunity, violence and destruction will reign not only in Cambodia but elsewhere as well. Our Nation must take a clear and strong stand and take action to bring this senseless killing to an end and to punish those who are responsible.

Before I close, Madam Speaker, I want to express my general concern about the situation in Cambodia and the pervasive high levels of violence that exist there. The extrajudicial violence must come to an end. Our Nation must use its influence and leverage to pressure any government which is forming to move in a direction of democracy and respect for human rights.

The administration must also seek to garner support from other key nations, such as France, Australia, and Japan, to do the same. The Cambodian people deserve the truth and the international community should accept no less.

I yield 7 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER), the sponsor of this resolution and a member of our committee.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Madam Speaker, House Resolution 533 is intended to help support democracy in Cambodia and prevent a new “killing fields” by serving as the first step to bringing the violent dictator and former Pol Pot trigger man, Hun Sen, to justice. This legislation urges the United States Government and other interested countries to create an appropriate international judicial tribunal for the indictment and trial of Hun Sen.

For the past 20 years, since he was among a core group of former Khmer Rouge officials installed as leaders during the Vietnamese Communist occupation of Cambodia, Hun Sen has been at the center of massive violations of international human rights law, including murder, torture, and other widespread abuses of the Cambodian people.

During the past month, Hun Sen’s storm troopers have cracked down on nonviolent pro-democracy demonstrators, including students and Buddhist monks, and tens of thousands of ordinary people. There are numerous reports by United Nations human rights monitors describing shallow graves containing mutilated bodies with clothing and body parts of those who were known to have been arrested by Hun Sen’s security forces.

Bodies of other victims have been reportedly seen floating down rivers and streams. Buddhist temples and monasteries have been raided and monks whipped by soldiers and goons carrying electric batons and rifle butts. Amnesty International reports that at least 200 democracy protestors arrested are still unaccounted.

New atrocities continue to emerge. For example, United Nations human rights monitors have been sheltering independent reporters in Cambodia, Cambodians themselves, Cambodian reporters and editors who have been shot and bludgeoned to death, the case of Nate and Carol, who have been washed off officially as being a robbery attempt.

This legislation was amended after my staff spent long hours in discussion with the State Department in an effort to find a common position to stopping the regime. But let’s remember that the case of Nate and Carol, which has been shrugged off officially as being a robbery attempt.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield 7 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER), the sponsor of this resolution and a member of our committee.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Madam Speaker, House Resolution 533 is intended to help support democracy in Cambodia and prevent a new “killing fields” by serving as the first step to bringing the violent dictator and former Pol Pot trigger man, Hun Sen, to justice.
thugs that this resolution is simply the opinion of Congress, a signal that he need not worry about his ongoing human rights violations and crackdown on democrats. Satisfied with knowing the embassy was kowtowing to his point, the conflict between Hun Sen then demanded, after this press release, demanded that the embassy hand over a Cambodian democracy leader, Kem Sokha, who is being provided asylum in the embassy.
A "yes" vote on this resolution will send a message to Hun Sen that the United States House of Representatives does count and that we are speaking for the American people, and that the House of Representatives will not tolerate murder as a political tool and the denial of democracy by Hun Sen and his thugs.
Madam Speaker, dictators such as Hun Sen must understand the United States Congress, whose Members are elected by the American people, represent the freedom and stand by democrats and ordinary people around the world who are struggling for justice and human rights. There is no excuse for un-elected bureaucrats in our State Department to scorn congressional processes in order to appease dictators.
As far as trawls go, we must not permit legal action in Cambodia, which is moving forward, to focus exclusively on a handful of geriatric Khmer Rouge leaders while former Khmer Rouge like Hun Sen are creating today's killing fields by murdering and torturing with impunity. Today's killers must understand that they will be held accountable for their actions and they must permit democracy and respect for human rights and the rule of law to take place. That is what this legislation is all about.
I would ask my colleagues to join me in support of this resolution.
Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.
Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER) for his eloquent support of this resolution.
Madam Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERUETER) vice chairman of our committee and the chairman of the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific.
Mr. BERUETER. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.Res. 533 and I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. This resolution, of course, addresses the precarious human rights situation in Cambodia and the brutal behavior of the illegal junta in Cambodia and its strongman, Hun Sen. I use that term "illegal junta" advised-ly. The gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER) is to be particularly commended for this legislation and also for his continued focus on Cambodian affairs. Without question, the people of Cambodia have suffered enormously in the past few decades, almost beyond human understanding. They have suffered through colonial rule, Civil War, the genocidal horror of Pol Pot and the Khmer Rouge and then the Vietnamese invasion. Prolonged negotiation and various political factions finally led to the Paris Peace Accords of 1991. A $3 billion international peacekeeping effort resulted in elections in 1993 where 90 percent of the population voted. Though the 1993 elections were not free and fair, the strongman Hun Sen and his formerly communist Cambodian People's Party CPP, Hun Sen simply refused to turn over the reins of power to the victorious FUNCINPEC party. A tortuous and largely unsuccessful power-sharing arrangement with FUNCINPEC's leader Prince Ranariddh lasted until July 1997 when a bloody coup d'état ousted First Prime Minister Ranariddh and his supporters. Hun Sen's 1997 coup dealt a body blow to the fragile democratic institution which had been taking root in the long-suffering country. In the weeks and months that followed nearly all political activity except that of Hun Sen's CPP came to a halt. Most prominent opposition politicians, including Prince Ranariddh, fled for their lives into exile. Of those who chose to remain or were too slow in fleeing, many were murdered.
On July 26 of this year, the long-awaited election was held but this has done little to effectively reduce the long-standing differences or to restore credibility to the governance of the Cambodian people. The party of Hun Sen seems almost certain to continue to hold the reins of power and opposition parties will continue to be marginalized.
Madam Speaker, this is a situation where there are no simple answers and no clear blacks and whites. However, one constant thread has continued throughout this sordid mess, that is, the appalling behavior of Hun Sen. His forces have been responsible for the summary arrest, torture and murder of hundreds of opposition leaders. He has done everything in his power, including the 1997 coup, which is exactly what it was, despite the fact that the State Department never called it that because they knew it would result in kind of sanctions being imposed under law, to prevent the will of the people from being reflected in their properly elected leaders.
These concerns, and others, are reflected in H.Res. 533, which highlights the human rights violations which have been perpetrated by the Hun Sen regime. This Member would say that the author of the resolution, the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER) has worked very constructively with others interested in the fate of Cambodia to ensure that his resolution has the broadest support possible and has crafted a resolution that merits broad support.
The gentleman has mentioned before what has happened with respect to the State Department and our embassy in Cambodia, and I am concerned about what he said. Unfortunately, I have some verification of it, too. In fact, my office was contacted suggesting that to protect Americans or the personnel at our embassy in Cambodia, this resolution was brought to the floor of the House of Representatives. We cannot be intimidated in this body. We cannot start down that slippery slope. The Members will not permit that kind of behavior.
I know that kind of threat by Hun Sen or people who represent him only confirm what he is, a bloody murderer. We will not be silenced. And so I want my colleagues to know, this is a resolution which is appropriate to express our concerns about the terrible things that have happened and that continue to happen under Hun Sen.
Madam Speaker, I urge support of
H.Res. 533.
Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) the distinguished chairman of our Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights.
Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank the distinguished gentleman for yielding me this time.
Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution and express my gratitude to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER) for authorizing it and for helping to bring it to the floor today and to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERUETER) for his strong support for it and also to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GIL-MAN) for the very powerful words they have expressed on this floor, and to my friends on the other side of the aisle.
Madam Speaker, the self-styled "international community has disappeared and is in no position to persuade the pro-democracy parties in Cambodia—which between them soundly defeated the dictator Hun Sen in the recent election, despite the regime's attempts to intimidate voters and to silence the opposition—they have tried to get them to fold their tents and just sink away into oblivion. But to their credit, the democratic opposition has refused to give up. This is because they know Hun Sen and his government all too well. They know that he is a monster, as the gentleman from Nebraska pointed out a moment ago. He is bloodthirsty. He kills. They know that as a Khmer Rouge commander who split with Pol Pot, he did it not out of some moral principle, but in a factional power struggle. They knew that he has killed many of his political opponents, probably by the thousands, and will kil more if he is given the opportunity. And they know that the only hope for Cambodia is for the forces of freedom and democracy to hold on as long as they can. This resolution comes at a very timely moment. It will give them some hope, yes, maybe a small and modest amount of hope, but it will give them some hope that those of us in the international community, those of us in the People's House know what is going on and we stand in solidarity with those pro-democratic forces. It is a very good resolution. I commend this resolution to the attention of my colleagues, and I urge your strong support of it.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. EMERSON). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, House Resolution 533, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

The title of the resolution was amended so as to read: "Resolution expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding the culpability of Hun Sen for violations of international humanitarian law after 1978 in Cambodia (the former People's Republic of Kampuchea and the State of Cambodia)."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING FORMER SOVIET UNION'S REPRESSIVE POLICIES TOWARD UKRAINIAN PEOPLE

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 295) expressing the sense of Congress that the United States continue to assist the government of the former Soviet Union for violations of international humanitarian law after 1978 in Cambodia (the former People's Republic of Kampuchea and the State of Cambodia)."

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Con. Res. 295

Whereas this year marks the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933; and

WHEREAS millions of Ukrainians died, not by natural causes such as pestilence, drought, floods, or a poor harvest, but by policies designed to punish Ukraine for its aversion and opposition to the government of the former Soviet Union's oppression and imperialism, including the forced collectivization of agriculture; and

WHEREAS, when there was famine-stricken, the government of the former Soviet Union exported 1,700,000 tons of grain to the West while offers from international relief organizations to assist the starving population were rejected on the grounds that there was no famine in Ukraine and no need for the assistance; and

WHEREAS, when the borders of Ukraine were tightly controlled and starving Ukrainians were not allowed to cross into Russian territory in search of bread; and

WHEREAS, in the book "The Harvest of Sorrow", British historian Robert Conquest explains, "A quarter of the rural population, men, women, and children, lay dead or dying, and rest in various stages of debilitation with no strength to bury their families or neighbors.";

WHEREAS the Commission on the Ukraine Famine was established on December 13, 1985, to conduct a study with the goal of expanding the world's knowledge and understanding of the famine; and

WHEREAS the Commission's report to Congress confirmed that the government of the former Soviet Union consciously employed the brutal policy of forced famine to repress the Ukrainian population and to oppress the Ukrainians' inviolable religious and political rights; and

WHEREAS the Commission on the Ukraine Famine presented 4 volumes of findings and recommendations, 10 volumes of archival material, and over 200 cassettes of testimony from famine survivors to the newly independent Government of Ukraine in 1993, during the official observances of the 60th anniversary of the Ukrainian famine in Kyiv, Ukraine: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Sense of Congress—)

SECTION 1. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—
(1) the victims of the government of the former Soviet Union-engineered Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933 be prominently remembered on its 65th anniversary;
(2) the Congress condemns the systematic disregard for human life, human rights, human liberty, and self-determination that characterized the repressive policies of the government of the former Soviet Union during the Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933;
(3) the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933, in contrast to the policies of the government of the former Soviet Union, Ukraine is moving toward democracy, a free-market economy, and full respect for human rights, and it is essential that the United States continue to assist Ukraine as it proceeds down this path; and
(4) any supplemental material that will assist in the dissemination of information about the Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933, and thereby help to prevent similar future tragedies around the world.

SEC. 2. TRANSMITTAL OF THE RESOLUTION.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives shall transmit a copy of this resolution to—
(A) the President;
(B) the Secretary of State; and
(C) the co-chairs of the Congressional Ukrainian Caucus;
(2) the Congress, by unanimous consent, shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Government of Ukraine.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN).

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on this measure.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.
(Mr. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, as a member of Congress it has been one of my greatest privileges to serve as a member of the Commission on the Ukraine Famine that the Congress established back in December of 1985. Now that the Cold War has ended we may not always recollect how very expert the former Soviet communist regime was at denying the truth and only now have recent developments opened the secrets of that despicable regime in the states of the former Soviet Union.

The work of the Ukrainian Famine Commission had to be conducted without the benefit of such access and such freedom of speech and thought in what was then the Soviet Union. Still through its diligent work the Commission verified the following: That Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin and other communist leaders knew people were starving to death in Ukraine as a result of their policies and that the Soviet regime and its leaders did nothing to help the famine's victims, instead using it as a means to better subdue Ukrainian resistance to the communist regime and the rule of Moscow.

The resolution before us today simply restates the facts about the Ukrainian famine. To my mind, it serves as an important reminder, not just of the innocent victims of the famine but of the reasons why the United States and its democratic allies engaged in a Cold War of over four decades' length to rid the world of the Soviet regime, its cruelty and hypocrisy.

I want to thank the original sponsors of this resolution who are my colleagues who have served on the Ukraine Caucus here in the Congress for bringing this measure to the floor today. Those original sponsors are the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. LEVIN), the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FOX) a member of our Committee on International Relations, the gentleman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR), the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. DAN SCHAEFER), and the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. SLAUGHTER).

Madam Speaker, I fully support this resolution, and urge its approval.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, is one of the most devastating tragic events of the 20th century, a stark reminder of man's inhumanity to man. The scope and depth of this tragedy has been documented in many books, including such seminal works as Robert Conquest's Harvest of Sorrow, and by the comprehensive report of the Commission on the Ukraine Famine that the Congress established back in December of 1985.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, is one of the most devastating tragic events of the 20th century, a stark reminder of man's inhumanity to man. The scope and depth of this tragedy has been documented in many books, including such seminal works as Robert Conquest's Harvest of Sorrow, and by the comprehensive report of the Commission on the Ukraine Famine that the Congress established back in December of 1985.
Commission on the Ukraine Famine created by Congress in the 1980s to study the famine. One only has to read some of the eyewitness accounts of survivors included in the famine commission report to appreciate the in calculable yet completely avoidable human suffering experienced at that time in the Ukraine.

The truth of the matter is, Madam Speaker, that the 1932-1933 famine engineered by Soviet Dictator Stalin could have been prevented. Its 7 million deaths were not due from natural causes, but because of the policies designed to punish the Ukrainian people for their opposition to Soviet rule.

One of the findings of the 1988 Report to Congress of the Ukraine Famine Commission characterizes the famine with chilling succinctness, stating, and I quote: "Joseph Stalin and those around him committed genocide against Ukrainians in 1932 to 1933."
The famine indeed constituted genocide, Madam Speaker, with Stalin using food as a political weapon to achieve his aim of suppressing any Ukrainian expression of political and cultural identity and self-assertion. The famine is a glaring illustration of the brutality of a totalitarian, imperialistic regime in which respect for human rights is a mockery and the rule of law is a sham. This man made famine would have been impossible in an independent, democratic country which respected human rights and the rule of law.

The Ukraine is slowly, Madam Speaker, if unevenly, overcoming the legacy of the brutal Soviet Communist rule as it moves to consolidate its democracy, its market economy and full respect for human rights; and it is fitting and proper, I would finally say, that this country, through its foreign aid, through its investments, support those who aspire to democracy in the Ukraine and also to try to alleviate at least some of the suffering those people are experiencing.

Madam Speaker, just let me say finally that we have had hearings in our subcommittee, we have had hearings in the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe, which I chair. One of those hearings, one of the most telling and devastating that I have ever chaired, was to hear what the aftermath of those experiences, will be from the near meltdown at Chernobyl and the cancers that are proliferating, particularly among small and now growing children, adolescents, and into adulthood. It is like a time bomb for those people, and we need to do more to try to mitigate some of that suffering.

But the famine, as this resolution clearly points out, was man-made with this resolution we say, "Never again."

Mr. ROTHMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise as a proud member of the Congressional Ukrainian Caucus to urge my colleagues to support the passage of H. Con. Res. 295. Very appropriately, this bill expresses the sense of Congress that the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933 should serve as a reminder of the brutality of the government of the former Soviet Union's repressive policies towards the Ukrainian people.

As I have remarked in the past, the Ukrainian Famine is but one terrible chapter in the world history that for too long has gone un noticed by both the American people and by this august body. By passing H. Con. Res. 295 today, Congress will be bringing the world's attention to this tragedy and will help heal the emotional wounds of those who endured the Ukrainian Famine.

I know that the Ukrainian-Americans I am so very proud to represent in New Jersey eagerly await the passage of this resolution. This resolution offers a small measure of justice to the thousands of the Ukrainian-Americans who still suffer from the cruelty exactly upon them by Soviet authorities earlier this century.

Mr. Speaker, I urge all my colleagues who care deeply about human rights, who care unleashed the horror of the Ukrainian Famine, to support the passage of this worldwide resolution.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to express my appreciation to Mr. Gilman and Mr. Hamilton for their help in scheduling this resolution on the Floor. I would like to thank the other co-chairs of the Congressional Ukrainian Caucus, Ms. Kaptur, Mr. Schaffer, Ms. Slaughter, and especially Mr. Fox. Finally, I thank Carol Ertel, Dan Jourdan and Lisa Mulcrome of my personal staff.

Mr. Speaker, House Concurrent Resolution 295 commemorates the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine of 1932 to 1933. At least seven million Ukrainians died—not by natural causes of drought or flood or a poor harvest—rather, with a cold pile suddenly million died because the leaders of the former Soviet Union chose to use food as a weapon.

Seeking to punish Ukraine for its opposition to Soviet policies of forced collectivization of agriculture and industrialization, Joseph Stalin unleashed the horror of the Ukrainian Famine. For years after these events transpired, the deaths of seven million Ukrainians were covered up and officially denied by the government of the former Soviet Union. Today we remember.

House Concurrent Resolution 295 expresses the sense of Congress that the victims of the Soviet-engineered Ukrainian Famine be solemnly remembered. In this resolution, Congress condemns the systematic disregard for human life, human rights, human liberty, and self-determination that characterized the repressive policies of the government of the former Soviet Union during the Ukrainian Famine of 1932 and 1933.

It is important that we remember the Ukrainian Famine and its victims. We must remember and do everything we can to prevent similar tragedies from happening again.

Even now, half-way around the world, another man-made famine is being inflicted on the people of Kosovo. The Serbian security forces are forcing thousands more to abandon their homes and in the midst of already destroyed crops and livestock of Kosovo. Over one-third of Kosovo's villages and thousands of homes have been deliberately destroyed. Hundreds of innocent men, women and children have been killed and tens of thousands more are without food and shelter as winter comes on.

The most meaningful way to honor the memory of the seven million the Ukrainians who died in the Great Famine is to prevent such senseless tragedies from happening again.

Mr. Speaker, government-induced famine is never justified. I urge all of my colleagues to join me in supporting House Concurrent Resolution 295.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in solemn tribute to a moment in history that none of us should ever soon forget, the Ukrainian famine of 1932-33. As a co-chair of the Congressional Ukrainian Caucus, I am pleased that the House leadership has chosen to bring this resolution to the floor. I would also like to thank my friends at the Ukrainian Congress Committee of America for working so hard on this issue.

Mr. Speaker, on this, the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian famine, we pay respect to the victims of this tragedy so that we may educate a new generation of Americans about this tragic, and ultimately preventable event. This event differed from what we often think of as a typical, young democracy. Its essence is that it was man-made. The famine was created by a repressive government, with its sole purpose to break the collective will of a proud people for whom the principles of private ownership and individual rights were, and continue to be, deeply embedded in their backgrounds and traditions.

In the late 1920's, the Soviet government of Josef Stalin began to take steps to collectivize agriculture by whatever means necessary, including the use of harsh and coercive tactics. What nobody could have ever imagined was that these methods would include a forced famine that would lead to the deaths of more than 7,000,000 people in towns and villages throughout Ukraine. While horrified Ukrainians watched as their neighbors either lay dying or desperately searched for food, the Soviet government exported over 1,700,000 tons of grain to the West and denied farmers access to vital materials to feed their families.

Mr. Speaker, today Ukraine stands out as a flag of young democracy. It's response and its government working to build a system of fair competition and free markets. And as it struggles to put aside years of Communist rule, government corruption, and weak property laws, we stand here humbled by the lessons of past and pledged to learn from those mistakes.

In the late 1920's, the Soviet government of Josef Stalin began to take steps to collectivize agriculture by whatever means necessary, including the use of harsh and coercive tactics. What nobody could have ever imagined was that these methods would include a forced famine that would lead to the deaths of more than 7,000,000 people in towns and villages throughout Ukraine. While horrified Ukrainians watched as their neighbors either lay dying or desperately searched for food, the Soviet government exported over 1,700,000 tons of grain to the West and denied farmers access to vital materials to feed their families.

Mr. Speaker, today Ukraine stands out as a flag of young democracy. It's response and its government working to build a system of fair competition and free markets. As it struggles to put aside years of Communist rule, government corruption, and weak property laws, we stand here humbled by the lessons of past and pledged to learn from those mistakes.
Mr. Speaker, 65 years ago the Ukrainian people were suffering from an horrific man-made catastrophe. It is a testament to their strength as a people that today's Ukraine is progressing with democratic and economic reforms, and is one of our strongest allies in the region.

I am proud to stand in support of H. Con. Res. 295, and I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important resolution.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. EMERSON). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 295.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES REGARDING THE TERRORIST BOMBING OF THE UNITED STATES EMBASSIES IN EAST AFRICA

WHEREAS, On August 7, 1998, 254 people, 12 of whom were United States citizens, were killed when a bomb exploded at the United States Embassy in Nairobi, Kenya, and 9 people were killed when a bomb exploded at the United States Embassy in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania; and

WHEREAS, These bombs were detonated minutes apart and were clearly coordinated; and

WHEREAS, In both cases, truck bombs, driven by suicide bombers, and laden with explosives, approached the embassies but were diverted from attaching their primary targets by quick thinking Embassy security staff; and

WHEREAS, The bombs exploded injuring thousands of innocent civilians and destroying millions of dollars worth of local property; and

WHEREAS, The Governments of Israel and France immediately sent search and rescue teams to aid in the aftermath of the bombings; and

WHEREAS, On August 7, 1998, Pakistani police arrested suspect Muhammad Sadig Odeh, who confessed to being part of a team which was orchestrated and financed by Osama bin Laden; and

WHEREAS, Osama bin Laden, an exiled Saudi Arabian businessman who is believed to be currently living in Afghanistan, is a known sponsor of international terrorism against secular Middle Eastern regimes and has publicly stated his support for attacks against American influence, Americans, and American interests; and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives—

(1) expresses our dismay for the mayhem and destruction visited upon the Governments and people of Kenya and Tanzania;

(2) expresses our recognition of the two of the victims of that terrible bombing of two of our embassies in Africa, August 7, which was a tragic day in this country's history and in their history. Many innocent people were injured or lost their lives because of senseless, cowardly acts of terrorists. We are grateful to the many friends who responded to our Nation, who responded immediately with assistance, the Israelis, the French, the Britons, the Germans, the Japanese and the Australians. Terrorism is a global problem, and we must stand united with our international partners to dismantle organizations which seek to terrorize our civil societies.

I fully support the resolution of the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS), and I urge full support of the House.

I want to thank the original sponsors of this resolution—those original sponsors: the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. LEVIN, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, a member of our International Relations Committee, the gentleman from Ohio, Ms. KAPTUR, the gentleman from Colorado, Mr. BOB SCHAEFFER, and the gentleman from New York, Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to have the opportunity to consider this very important piece of legislation today, and I thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) and the members of the Committee on International Relations, as well as our other colleagues, for their expediting of this piece of legislation.

Like us all, I shared the shock, sorrow and outrage of the entire Nation when I learned of the bombings of the U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania.

I am a leader of many groups, and one has a grudge against the United States is ludicrous and pathetic. The thought that one can settle a vendetta against the United States or the West by planting a bomb in Africa would be laughable were it not for the loss of Americans' lives and others in Kenya and Tanzania.

Our embassy workers do more than process visas. They promote investment in the United States, they facilitate the selling of American products overseas, and they assist Americans who are lost or who have lost their money or passports or are imprisoned in foreign countries. To murder these public servants because one has a grudge against the United States is ludicrous and pathetic.

The thought that one can settle a vendetta against the United States or the West by planting a bomb in Africa would be laughable were it not for the loss of Americans' lives and others in Kenya and Tanzania.
courageous individuals whom we must thank for their assistance in the aftermath of the bombing are too numerous to mention at this time.

First of all, the governments and the people of Kenya and Tanzania were instrumental in preventing more death and destruction. The people of the governments of Israel, France, the United Kingdom, Germany, Japan, Australia and others provided vital assistance for which all Americans are extremely grateful.

Numerous United States Federal and local agencies gathered quickly on the sites, and their outstanding work in securing the scenes paved the way for superlative investigative work which has already led to some arrests in these cases.

This resolution expresses the intention of the House to examine whether the United States facilities overseas are being met. This issue is particularly relevant to the work that we do under the guidance and leadership of the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) in this committee.

We must examine all of our facilities overseas and where weaknesses exist, reinforce those facilities. We must support this administration and the next administration in building alliances with like-minded friends to ensure that terrorists who wish to harm the United States are eliminated.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I want to commend the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) for the resolution, for his eloquent remarks in support of it.

Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield as much time as he may consume to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), our distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights.

Mr. SMITH. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) for introducing this legislation and for giving us this opportunity as a body, Democrats and Republicans, to express our condolences not just to the American families but also to those in Kenya and Tanzania who lost loved ones or had loved ones hurt very severely, and also to thank the countries of Kenya and Tanzania for the cooperation they have given in trying to apprehend these cowardly terrorists.

Let me also remind the body that within hours of that horrific act, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), chairman of the Committee on International Relations, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER), who is the ranking member on the Helsinki Commission, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDOZI) and I convened a press conference on the gentleman and the lady. The gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) and others were all very supportive of that.

We made it clear that no terrorist should take any solace in any bickering that they may see going on in the whips of whatever the President's problems may be, we are united in our fight against terrorism; that we will stand shoulder-to-shoulder in trying to apprehend terrorists; and that when you pick on Americans, when you go after Americans, we are absolutely united.

I think that message is coming across. This resolution will help. I want to commend the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) for bringing us this important resolution.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Madam Speaker, I would like to echo and associate myself with the remarks of the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH).

Madam Speaker, I have no more speakers, and I yield back the rest of our time.

Mr. GILMAN. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) for his very forceful remarks in support of the resolution.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, it is with great sadness that we all recall the day early this past August when several American officials were killed and injured when terrorist planted bombs exploded at the U.S. embassies in Nairobi and in Tanzania.

These bombs sent powerful explosions throughout U.S. embassy buildings in Nairobi and Dar-es-Salaam, causing significant damage to both buildings, and resulting in the death and wounding of numerous individuals. These bombs were timed and cowardly acts that preyed on innocent people. As a member of this Congress, we must not tolerate this violence! These bombings were a sobering reminder that violence can occur even in parts of the world where you would least expect it. We must continue to deliberate over what actions to take, both to step up security at other U.S. installations and embassies around the world and to see what help we can give to the Kenyan and Tanzanian authorities in their investigation of the two blasts. These bombings were devastating to all of us here in Congress.

The last major attack against a U.S. facility abroad was in June 1996, when a car bomb devastated a military housing complex near Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, killing 19 Americans. The culprits are not known to have been found. In the last attack, the U.S. worked with local officials in both countries to rapidly move medical, engineering, security and other support personnel and equipment from U.S. facilities inside and outside the region to both locations.

In addition, the U.S. has taken appropriate security measures at our embassies and military facilities throughout the region and around the world. Along with the President we must pledge to use all the means at our disposal to bring those responsible to justice, no matter what or how long it takes. As a member of Congress, I believe the United States should do everything it can to assure that American citizens serve in safety. The families and the loved ones of the American and African victims of these cowardly attacks will of course remain in our thoughts and prayers, and we must continue to express our outrage at the devastation caused by these terrorist acts.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. EMERSON. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 523, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION ACT OF 1998

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill (H.R. 3528) to amend title 28, United States Code, with respect to the use of alternative dispute resolution processes in United States district courts, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

Senate amendments: Page 2, after line 3 insert: "SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF POLICY.
"Congress finds that--

"(1) alternative dispute resolution, when supported by the bench and bar, and utilizing properly trained neutrals in a program adequately administered by the court, has the potential to provide a variety of benefits, including greater satisfaction of the parties, innovative methods of resolving disputes, and greater efficiency in achieving settlements;"

"(2) certain forms of alternative dispute resolution, including mediation, early neutral evaluation, minitrials, and voluntary arbitration, may have potential to reduce the large backlog of cases now pending in some federal courts throughout the United States, thereby allowing the courts to process their remaining cases more efficiently; and"

"(3) the continued growth of Federal appellate court-annexed mediation programs suggests that this form of alternative dispute resolution can be equally effective in resolving disputes in the federal trial courts; therefore, the district courts should consider including mediation in their local alternative dispute resolution programs;"

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE).

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the bill H.R. 3528.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, H.R. 3528 is designed to address the problem of high case-loads burdening the Federal courts. This legislation will provide a quicker, more efficient method by which to resolve some Federal cases when the parties or the courts so choose. H.R. 3528 directs each Federal trial court to establish some form of alternative dispute resolution, popularly known as ADR, which could include arbitration, mediation, mini-trials, or early neutral evaluation or some combination of those for certain civil cases.

The bill also provides for the confidentiality of the alternative dispute resolution process and prohibits the disclosure of such confidential communications.

The version considered today is substantially the same as the one we passed under suspension in April, with minor Senate clarifications. The bill has no known opposition and is supported by the American Bar Association, the Judicial Conference and the Department of Justice.

This legislation will provide the Federal courts with the tools necessary to encourage use of alternatives to expensive Federal litigation. In sum, this is a good bill that will offer our citizens a reasonable and cost-effective alternative to expensive Federal litigation, while at the same time still guaranteeing their right to have their day in court.

I urge my colleagues, Madam Speaker, to pass H.R. 3528.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 3528, the Alternative Dispute Resolution Act of 1998. As litigation increases, so do litigation costs. It is our desire that all of us all agree Congress should do all it can to encourage opposing parties to try alternative dispute resolution.

While I am concerned about the bill's provision making this process mandatory, since the overwhelming majority of Federal courts already have some form of alternative dispute resolution, the mandatory provision is a de jure insult but not so much de facto. As one who served in the Federal courts and in the State courts, I am mindful of the tremendous need for alternative dispute resolution.

The Federal courts have been willing to implement alternative dispute resolution. This bill now says they must. I would prefer that the decision whether to adopt a particular court-annexed ADR program be left to the courts, but I think this bill has it both ways. It requires mandatory alternative dispute resolution but retains some flexibility for the courts to determine for themselves exactly what kind.

The legislation has improved dramatically from what it reflected upon introduction. There is more flexibility for the courts to determine how to proceed once they set up an alternative dispute resolution program. I appreciate the positive changes that have been made and urge my colleagues to support this bill, and thank the sponsor and cosponsors, my good friend, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Cobles), for bringing this action for our consideration.

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3528, the Alternative Dispute Resolution Act of 1998.

This Bill passed the House in April, by a vote of 405 to 2, and it is here again, with Senate Amendments.

Alternative Dispute Resolution is commonly referred to as "ADR." ADR includes a range of procedures, such as mediation, arbitration, peer panels and ombudsmen.

Traditional dispute resolution in America also always involves a Plaintiff and a Defendant, battling each other in a court, before a judge or jury, to prove that one is right and one is wrong.

It is time consuming, and it is expensive, too expensive for most wage earners to afford, and often too time-consuming to be of much practical use.

According to one writer has observed, a process that has to pronounce "winners and losers necessarily destroys almost any pre-existing relationship between the people involved. . . . and it is virtually impossible to maintain a civil relationship once people have confronted one another across a courtroom."

The Bill before us requires all U.S. District Courts to establish a voluntary alternative dispute resolution program within the courts.

The purpose of the Bill is to guarantee that all litigants have another way to resolve their differences, short of a full trial.

Mediation is a voluntary process in which a neutral third party—mediator—assists two or more disputants, to reach a negotiated settlement of their differences.

The process allows the principal parties to ventilate their conflicts, clear up misunderstandings, find areas of agreement, and incorporate these areas of agreement into solutions that the parties themselves construct.

The process is quick, efficient and economical.

It also facilitates lasting relationships between disputants.

A recent survey by the Government Accounting Office showed that mediation is the ADR technique of choice among the five federal agencies and five private corporations that were surveyed.

The Report stated, “Most of the organizations we studied had data to show that their ADR processes, especially mediation, resolved a high proportion of disputes, thereby helping them avoid formal redress processes and litigation.”

In a taped message on Law Day, May 1st, Attorney General Janet Reno said, “Our lawyers are using mediation . . . to resolve . . . employment . . . cases. I have directed that all of our attorneys in civil practice receive training in mediation and mediation facilitation.”

On that same day, President Clinton issued a memorandum, creating a federal interagency committee to promote the use of ADR methods within the federal government, pursuant to the Administrative Dispute Resolution Act of 1996.

In addition, the Civil Rights Act of 1991 encourages the use of mediation and other alternative means of resolving disputes that arise under the Act or provisions of federal laws amended by the title.

And, in 1995, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission broadened its policy on ADR which encourages the use of ADR in appropriate circumstances.

ADR can provide faster, less expensive, less contentious and more productive results in eliminating disputes.

In sum, ADR is effective and is legislatively and administratively encouraged.

Mediation is the ADR method of choice. It is the wave of the future, an effective tool.

In the next Congress, I intend to introduce legislation to further encourage the use of ADR.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I strongly support H.R. 3528, this important legislation relating to the Alternative Dispute Resolution Act of 1998.
Resolution of 1998. Alternative Dispute Resolution, whether mediation, neutral evaluation, arbitration, mini-trial or any other fair procedure that the courts can oversee, and which makes litigation less burdensome, is in my view welcome and something that we should all support.

As a member of the Judiciary Committee, I support reporting out this bill which provides the appropriate standards for federal courts throughout the nation to continue to develop workable alternative dispute resolution methods, and I am pleased that we worked with the judicial conference and the department of justice to craft legislation which is not objected to by those important institutions.

I support the legislation before us. According to the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, the vast majority of the 94 federal district courts have established dispute resolution programs, in effect, simply because it works. It is efficient, less expensive and, it works for all parties involved. I hope my colleagues throughout Congress support this legislation.

Madam Speaker, I have no further speakers, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendments to H.R. 3046 agreed to, the bill ordered to the table.

POLICE, FIRE, AND EMERGENCY OFFICERS EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1998

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3046) to provide financial assistance for higher education to the dependents of Federal, State, and local public safety officers who are killed or permanently and totally disabled as the result of a traumatic injury sustained in the line of duty, as amended.

H.R. 3046

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Police, Fire, and Emergency Officers Educational Assistance Act of 1998.”

SEC. 2. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR HIGHER EDUCATION TO DEPENDENTS OF PUBLIC SAFETY OFFICERS KILLED OR PERMANENTLY AND TOTALLY DISABLED IN THE LINE OF DUTY.

(1) in the heading for subpart 2, by striking “Civilian Federal Law Enforcement” and inserting “Public Safety”;

(2) in section 1211(1), by striking “civilian law enforcement” and inserting “public safety”;

(3) in section 1212(a)—

(A) in paragraph (1)(A), by striking “Federal law enforcement” and inserting “public safety”;

(B) in paragraph (2), by striking “Financial” and inserting the following: “Except as provided in paragraph (3), financial”;

(C) by adding at the end the following:

“(3) The financial assistance referred to in paragraph (2) shall be reduced by the sum of—

“(A) the amount of educational assistance benefits from other Federal, State, or local governmental sources to which the eligible dependent would otherwise be entitled to receive; and

“(B) the amount, if any, determined under section 1214(b).”;

(4) in section 1214—

(A) by inserting “(a) in General.—” before “The”;

(B) by adding at the end the following:

“(b) SLIDING SCALE.—Notwithstanding section 1213(b), the Attorney General shall issue regulations regarding the use of a sliding scale based on financial need to ensure that an eligible dependent who is in financial need receives priority in receiving funding under this subpart.

(5) in section 1216(a), by inserting ‘‘and each dependent of a public safety officer killed in the line of duty on or after October 1, 1997,” after “1992,;” and

(6) in section 1217—

(A) by striking paragraph (2); and

(B) by redesignating paragraphs (3) and (4) as paragraphs (4) and (5) respectively.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks on the bill under consideration.

The United States Capitol serves as an international symbol for peace and justice, and yet on July 4, 2004, a violent and angry gunman shattered that image and took the lives of two heroic and dedicated police officers. It is a national tragedy, but the sacrifices made by Officers Gibson and Chestnut were not the first and will not be the last.

Even as we work to further secure the lives of our law enforcement officers, we can and must seek out new ways in which to express our gratitude. This legislation provides such an opportunity. Nationwide, police departments offer emotional, spiritual and financial support to spouses and children of deceased officers.

The Federal Government, too, offers several benefits and assistance programs. For example, the program we are amending today as a result of a bill we passed in the last Congress provides educational assistance to dependents of Federal officers who are permanently disabled or killed in the line of duty.

H.R. 3046, the Police, Fire and Emergency Officers Act of 1998, amends the Federal educational assistance benefits to dependents of State and local law enforcement officers killed or permanently injured in the line of duty. Thankfully, there is a small number of people who are eligible under the program at the Federal law enforcement level.

The Bureau of Justice Assistance, within the Department of Justice, anticipates that additional funding for other public safety officers’ dependents should not pose any new financial changes.

Specifically, the costs to Federal law enforcement dependents assistance program are estimated to be $315,000 in 1998, including the estimated number of new survivors. That number includes, Madam Speaker, $162,000 for 30 Federal survivors, plus $333,000 for an estimated 55 new survivors under the extension of the legislation.

Madam Speaker, this legislation can have an enormous impact on the quality of life for a child whose mother or father may have died while in service to the public. The Congress should pass this legislation as an expression of thanks to those public safety officers who have given their lives for the good of our citizenry.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3046, the Federal Law Enforcement Dependents Assistance program, an important change in Federal law that we should all be focused on today and proud to see enacted into law.

I know that the ranking member, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS), the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE), the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FOX), the gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE) and other Members who are cosponsors originally of this matter stand proud of its coming forward today.

This legislation, originally authorized by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM), my colleague, of the Subcommittee on Crime, would amend the law to extend Federal educational assistance benefits to dependents of State and local law enforcement officials killed in the line of duty.

We can all hope that the number of eligible beneficiaries of this change will, one day, be zero. But sadly, that will probably not be the case. It is the lesson we can do to say to law enforcement officers, Federal and State who give their lives in the line of duty, that we will help take care of their children.
This legislation comes too late for a police officer friend of mine named Reuben in Miami, Florida, who will be buried on tomorrow. His children, Rasheda, Jeanette and Shelton, would be beneficiaries if this law were retroactive. It would benefit the families of those police and firefighters who have fallen in the line of duty and those families will face situations and circumstances, contexts and situations which may require of them literally the ultimate sacrifice of their life.

Knowing that that is the milieu within which they conduct themselves, we find ourselves, I think, often supposedly dealing with ultimate things, if you will, and very heavy and profound matters at hand, but none of us can possibly only intellectually, unless we recognize that this is something that is faced every day, every hour that someone is on the job.

Madam Speaker, this bill, which was put forward by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Fox), was with the very able assistance of the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCollum), who has also been acknowledged by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Fox), as being crucial to getting us to this point. This bill expands the Federal Law Enforcement Dependent Assistance program to public safety officers. As has been indicated, it was established in 1996, and there are now, as the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Coble) has indicated, some 30,000 individuals under the Federal law which are now benefiting.

It is an interesting word also, “beneficiary.” This is a benefit that is hardly sought by any of these individuals or their families, and they all wish most deeply that they were not the recipients of what otherwise is seen as a solicitous term, “beneficiary.”

There are some 55 others now, because we are extending this to the State and local level. We have talked often on this floor over the past several years about trying to extend the opportunity to the local level of decision-making. But as the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Fox) indicated to me when I first began to talk about it, not every jurisdiction has the financial means to enable them to see to the education of the children of those who may have fallen in the line of duty.

What we are trying to do here is kind of like, if you will, the opportunity for us to show the gratitude that we all feel towards those who have put their lives literally on the line for us. This bill then provides a means to meet this vital need.

In effect, what happens is that it provides educational assistance to the survivors of Federal law, that is to say the Federal law as it now exists is extended to provide assistance to the children of those killed or permanently and totally disabled in the line of duty. We have talked was created to help these dependents of those killed in the line of duty or disabled to afford higher education, and it is, in fact, administered by the Bureau of Justice Assistance within the Department of Justice.

We have worked very, very hard to see to it that this does not place any financial burden, as such, or more than has already existed to this point.

In Hawaii, we have had only three police officers killed in the line of duty since 1991. We are fortunate that not more law enforcement officers and others have been killed to this time. Other jurisdictions have not been so lucky.
Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I too yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3046 as amended).

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on the Judiciary be discharged from the further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 1525) to provide financial assistance for higher education to the dependents of Federal law enforcement officers who are killed or permanently and totally disabled as the result of a traumatic injury sustained in the line of duty, and asking for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on the Judiciary be discharged from the further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 1524) to provide financial assistance for higher education to the dependents of public safety officers who are killed or permanently and totally disabled in the line of duty.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3610) to authorize and facilitate a program to enhance training, research, and development, energy conservation and efficiency, and consumer education in the oilheat industry for the benefit of oilheat consumers and the public, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read the bill as follows:

S. 1524

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Public Safety Officers Educational Assistance Act of 1998”.

SEC. 2. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR HIGHER EDUCATION TO DEPENDENTS OF PUBLIC SAFETY OFFICERS KILLED OR PERMANENTLY AND TOTALLY DISABLED IN THE LINE OF DUTY.

MOTION OFFERED BY MR. COBLE

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I offer a motion.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. COBLE moves to strike out all after the enacting clause of S. 1525 and insert, in lieu thereof, the provisions of H.R. 3046 as passed by the House.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

A similar House bill (H.R. 3046) was laid on the table.

ADORNMENT FROM SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1998 TO SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1998

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns today, it adjourn to meet at 2 p.m. tomorrow, Sunday, October 11, 1998.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina? There was no objection.

HOUR OF MEETING ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1998

Mr. COBLE. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns tomorrow, it adjourn to meet at 12:30 p.m. on Monday, October 12, 1998 for morning hour debates.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina? There was no objection.

NATIONAL OILHEAT RESEARCH ALLIANCE ACT OF 1998

Mr. DAN SCHAEFER of Colorado. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3610) to authorize and facilitate a program to enhance training, research, and development, energy conservation and efficiency, and consumer education in the oilheat industry for the benefit of oilheat consumers and the public, and for other purposes, as amended.

general economy of the United States and the millions of Americans who rely on oilheat for commercial and residential space and hot water heating.

SEC. 2. DEFINITIONS.
For the purposes of this Act—
(1) the term ‘‘Alliance’’ means a National Oilheat Research Alliance created pursuant to section 104 of this Act;
(2) the term ‘‘consumer education’’ means the provision of information that will assist consumers and other persons in making evaluations and decisions regarding oilheat and other nonindustrial commercial or residential space or hot water heating fuels;
(3) the term ‘‘exchange’’ means an agreement that entitles each party or its customers to receive product from the other party and requires only an insubstantial portion of the volumes involved in the exchange to be settled in cash or property other than the product;
(4) the term ‘‘industry’’ means those persons involved in the production, transportation, and sale of oilheat, and in the manufacture and distribution of oilheat utilization equipment, in the United States, but such term does not include the ultimate consumers of oilheat; and
(5) the term ‘‘industry trade association’’ means the industry trade association or other organization that represents the interests of one or more members of the qualified industry organizations as defined in section 5(c)(6).

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.
(a) GENERAL DEFINITIONS.—
(1) the term ‘‘Alliance’’ means a National Oilheat Research Alliance created pursuant to section 104 of this Act;
(2) the term ‘‘conversion’’ means an agreement by retail marketers and wholesale distributors for the exchange of oilheat and other oil and other energy sources, other than for the purpose of marketing oilheat or other energy sources.
(3) the term ‘‘No. 1 distillate’’ means fuel oil classified as No. 1 distillate by the American Society for Testing and Materials which is indubitably dyed in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to section 408(b)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.
(4) the term ‘‘oilheat’’ means—
(A) No. 1 distillate; and
(B) No. 2 dyed distillate, which is used as a fuel for nonindustrial commercial or residential space or hot water heating;
(5) the term ‘‘qualified industry organization’’ means the National Association for Oilheat Research and Education or a successor organization;
(6) the term ‘‘qualified State association’’ means the organization that the qualified industry organization or other organization that the qualified industry organization, or, after its establishment under this Act, the Alliance, determines best represents retail marketers in a State;
(7) the term ‘‘retail marketer’’ means a person engaged primarily in the sale of oilheat to the ultimate consumer;
(8) the term ‘‘Secretary’’ means the Secretary of Energy; and
(9) the term ‘‘wholesale distributor’’ means a person who—
(A) produces;
(B) imports; or
(C) transports across State boundaries and among local marketing areas.
(10) the term ‘‘wholesale distributor’’ means a person who—
(A) produces;
(B) imports; or
(C) transports across State boundaries and among local marketing areas.
SEC. 4. REFERENDA.
(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—The industry, through the qualified industry organization, may conduct, at its own expense, a referendum among retail marketers and wholesale distributors for the creation of a National Oilheat Research Alliance. The Alliance, if established, shall reimburse the qualified industry organization for the cost of referendum accounting and documentation, including attorney’s fees for improvements therein with funds collected pursuant to this Act. Voting rights of a retail marketer in such referendum shall be based on the volume of oilheat sold in a State by the retail marketer in the previous calendar year or other representative period. Voting rights of a wholesale distributor in such referendum shall be based on the volumes of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate sold in a State by the wholesale distributor in the previous calendar year or other representative period. All persons voting in the referendum shall be based on the volume of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate sold in that State. Upon approval of those persons representing two-thirds of the total volume of oilheat voted in the retail marketer class and No. 2 dyed distillate voted in the wholesale distributor class, the Alliance shall be established, and shall be authorized to levy assessments in accordance with section 6. All persons voting in the referendum shall certify to the independent auditing firm the volume of oilheat, No. 1 distillate, or No. 2 dyed distillate represented by their vote. Except as provided in subsection (b), a State shall not participate in the Alliance if less than 50 percent of the retail marketer vote in that State in favor of the rules established by this subsection, is in favor of the creation of the Alliance. A qualified State association may notify the qualified industry organization of its recommendation of the State under this subsection shall not be conducted in that State.
(b) SUBSEQUENT STATE PARTICIPATION.—A State that has not participated initially in the Alliance may subsequently elect to participate by conducting a referendum in accordance with subsection (a).
(c) TERMINATION OR SUSPENSION.—On the Alliance’s own initiative, or on petition to the Alliance by retail marketers and wholesale distributors representing 90 percent of the volume of oilheat or weighted No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate in each class, the Alliance shall, at its own expense, hold a referendum, to be conducted by an independent auditing firm selected by the Alliance, to determine whether the industry favors termination or suspension of the Alliance. Termination or suspension shall not take effect unless it is approved by persons representing more than one-half of the total volume of oilheat voted in the retail marketer class and more than one-half of the total volume of oilheat voted in the wholesale distributor class, or is approved by persons representing more than two-thirds of the total volume of fuel voted in either such class.

SEC. 5. NATIONAL OILHEAT RESEARCH ALLIANCE.
(a) SELECTION OF MEMBERS.—Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c)(3), the qualified industry organization shall select all members of the Alliance. The qualified industry organization shall select a member representing a State to the Alliance. Vacancies in unexpired terms may be filled in the same manner as were the original appointments.
(b) REPRESENTATION.—In selecting members of the Alliance, the qualified industry organization shall give due regard to selecting a member that represents the industries with funds collected pursuant to this Act. The membership of the Alliance shall be as follows:
(1) one member representing each State with oilheat sales in excess of 32,000,000 gallons per year;
(2) if less than 24 States are represented under paragraph (1), one member for each of the States with the highest volume of annual oilheat sales as necessary to cause the total number of States represented under paragraph (1) and (2) to be 24;
(3) 5 representatives of retail marketers, one each to be selected by the qualified State associations of the 5 States with the highest volume of annual oilheat sales;
(4) 5 additional representatives of retail marketers;
(5) 21 representatives of wholesale distributors;
(6) 6 public members, who shall be representatives of significant users of oilheat, the oilheat research community, or other groups knowledge about oilheat.

Other than the public members, Alliance members shall be full-time employees or owners of businesses in the industry, except that members described in paragraphs (3), (4), and (5) may be employees of the qualified industry organization or an industry trade association.
(c) COMPENSATION.—Alliance members shall receive compensation for their services, or shall be reimbursed for expenses relating to their service, except that public members, upon request, may be reimbursed for reasonable expenses related to their participation in Alliance meetings.
(d) TERMS.—Alliance members shall serve terms of 3 years and may serve not more than 2 full consecutive terms. Members filling unexpired terms may serve not more than a total of 7 consecutive years. Former members of the Alliance may be returned to the Alliance if they have served members for less than 1 year.
(e) Initial appointments to the Alliance shall be for terms of 1, 2, and 3 years, as determined by the qualified industry organization, staggered to provide for the subsequent selection of one-third of the members each year.
(f) FUNCTIONS.—(1) The Alliance shall develop programs and projects and enter into contracts or agreements for implementing this Act, including programs—
(A) to enhance consumer and employee safety and training;
(B) to provide for research, development, and demonstration of clean and efficient oilheat utilization equipment; and
(C) for consumer education, and any program for the payment of the costs thereof with funds collected pursuant to this Act. The Alliance shall coordinate its activities with industry trade associations and others as appropriate to provide efficient services and to avoid unnecessary duplication of activities.
(2) Research, development, and demonstration activities authorized under paragraph (1)(B) shall include all activities incidental to research, development, and demonstration of clean and efficient oilheat utilization equipment. Such activities include obtaining a patent, including payment of attorney’s fees for making and perfecting a patent application. Such activities do not include research, development, and demonstration of oilheat utilization equipment with respect to which technically feasible and commercially feasible operations have been verified, except that funds may be provided for improvements to existing equipment until the technical feasibility and commercial feasibility of the operation of those improvements have been verified.
(3) Activities authorized under paragraph (1) (A) or (B) shall not include advertising, promotions, or consumer surveys in support of advertising or promotions.
(4) Activities related to research, development, and demonstration, safety, consumer education, and training shall be given priority.
(h) ADMINISTRATION.—The Alliance shall select from among its members a Chairman and other officers, who may establish and authorize committees and subcommittees of the Alliance to take specific actions the Alliance is authorized to take, and shall adopt rules and bylaws of business and the implementation of this Act. The Alliance shall establish procedures for the solicitation of industry comment and recommendations on any significant actions, decisions, and projects to be funded by the Alliance. The Alliance may establish advisory committees of persons other than Alliance members. Each member of the Alliance shall be the first to make known in the collection of the assessment pursuant to section 6) plus amounts paid under paragraph (2) shall not exceed 7 percent of the funds collected in any fiscal year, except that during the first year of its operation such expenses and amounts shall not exceed 10 percent of such funds.

(2) The Alliance shall annually reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Government relating to the Alliance. Such reimbursement for any fiscal year shall not exceed the amount that the Secretary determines is twice the average annual salary of 1 employee of the Department of Energy.

(i) BUDGET.—Before August 1 each year, the Alliance shall publish for public review and comment the budget of the Alliance for the following fiscal year, including the probable costs of all programs, projects, and contracts and a recommended rate of assessment sufficient to cover such costs. Following this review and comment, the Alliance shall submit the proposed budget to the Secretary and to the Congress. The Secretary may recommend programs and activities and the Secretary may appropriate. The Alliance shall not implement a proposed budget until after receiving the Secretary's recommendations, or after the expiration of 60 days after submitting the proposed budget, whichever occurs first.

(k) RECORDS; AUDITS.—The Alliance shall keep books and records that clearly reflect all of the acts and transactions of the Alliance and make public such information. The books of the Alliance, including fee assessment reports and applications for refunds, shall be audited by a certified public accountant at least once each fiscal year and at such other times as the Alliance may designate. Copies of such audit shall be provided to all members of the Alliance, the qualified industry organization, and to other members of the industry upon request. The Alliance shall establish policies and procedures for auditing compliance with this Act that shall conform with generally accepted accounting principles. The Secretary shall make available to the Alliance any information the Alliance requires to prove compliance except for information the Secretary is prohibited by law from releasing.

(l) PUBLIC ACCESS TO ALLIANCE PROCEEDINGS.—All meetings of the Alliance shall be open to the public after at least 30 days advance public notice.

(3) The minutes of all meetings of the Alliance shall be made available to and readily accessible by the public.

(m) ANNUAL REPORT.—Each year the Alliance shall prepare and make publicly available a report which includes an identification and description of all programs and projects undertaken by the Alliance during the previous year as well as those planned for the coming year. Such report shall also detail the allocation or planned allocation of Alliance resources for each such program and project.

OILHEAT SALES.—For purposes of this section, the volume of oilheat sold annually in a State shall be determined on the basis of information provided by the Energy Information Administration with respect to the preceding calendar year or other equivalent period.

SEC. 6. ASSESSMENTS.

(a) AMOUNT.—The Alliance shall set the initial assessment at no greater than two tenths of 1 cent per gallon of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate. Thereafter, annual assessments shall be made in the amounts determined by the plans and programs developed by the Alliance, except that under no circumstances shall the assessment be greater than one-half cent per gallon of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate unless approved by a majority of those voting in a referendum in both the retail marketer class and the wholesale distributor class. In no case may the assessment exceed one cent per gallon of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate annually, and no increases may occur unless approved by a two-thirds vote of the Alliance.

(b) COLLECTION RULES.—The assessment shall be collected upon the sale of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate by a wholesale distributor to a person other than a wholesale distributor, including a sale made pursuant to an exchange. The wholesale distributor shall be responsible for payment of the assessment to the Alliance with this Act and shall provide documented proof of the volume of fuel sold. A person who has no ownership interest in No. 1 distillate or No. 2 dyed distillate is responsible for paying the assessment under this section. Assessments shall be made on all No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate sold in a State that is participating in the Alliance, and are payable to the Alliance on a quarterly basis. Any No. 1 distillate or No. 2 dyed distillate previously assessed shall not be subject to further assessment. A wholesale distributor shall within 30 days of the year of sale to receive payments from a purchaser for No. 1 distillate or No. 2 dyed distillate may apply for a refund directly from the Alliance. Such refund may not exceed the amount of the assessments levied upon the No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate for which payment was not received. The owner of No. 1 distillate and No. 2 dyed distillate distillate imported after the point of sale described in the first sentence of this subsection shall be responsible for payment of the assessment to the Alliance at the point of sale. The amount in excess of the assessment pursuant to section 15 percent of the funds raised in the State. A qualified State association may request that the Alliance provide any portion of the remaining 85 percent of the funds raised in the State. A request under this subparagraph shall—

(i) specify the amount of funds requested;
(ii) describe in detail the specific uses for which the requested funds are sought; and
(iii) include a commitment to comply with this Act in using the requested funds; and
(iv) be made publicly available.

The Alliance shall not provide any funds in response to a request under this subparagraph unless it determines that the funds will be used to directly benefit the oilheat industry. The Alliance shall monitor the use of funds provided under this subparagraph, and shall impose whatever terms, conditions, and reporting requirements it considers necessary to ensure compliance with this Act.

SEC. 7. COMPLIANCE.

The Alliance may bring suit in Federal court to compel compliance with an assessment levied by the Alliance under this Act. A successful action may require the defendant to pay the defendant of the costs incurred by the Alliance in bringing such action.

SEC. 8. LOBBYING RESTRICTIONS.

No funds collected by the Alliance shall be used in any manner for influencing legislation or elections, except that the Alliance may reimburse the Secretary in the discrete changes in this Act or other statutes that would further the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 9. DISCLOSURE.

Any consumer education activity undertaken with funds provided by the Alliance shall include a statement that the activities were supported, in whole or in part, by the Alliance.

SEC. 10. VIOLATIONS.

(a) PROHIBITION.—Any consumer education activity undertaken with funds provided by the Alliance, that includes—

(1) a reference to a private brand name;
(2) a false or unwarranted claim on behalf of oilheat or related products;
(3) a reference with respect to the attributes or use of any competing product, is prohibited.

(b) RECORDING AND TRANSMITTAL OF COMPLAINTS.—A public utility aggrieved by a violation described in subsection (a) may file a complaint. Such complaint shall be transmitted concurrently to the Alliance and to any qualified State association undertaking the consumer education activity with respect to which the complaint is made. Upon receipt of a complaint under this subsection, the Alliance, and any qualified State association undertaking the consumer education activity with respect to which the complaint is made, shall cease those consumer education activities.

(c) RESOLUTION OF DISPUTE.—Not later than 10 days after a complaint is filed and transmitted under subsection (b), the complaining party, the Alliance, and any qualified State association undertaking the consumer education activity with respect to which the complaint is made shall meet to attempt to resolve the complaint. If the parties in dispute are resolved in those discussions, the complaint shall withdraw its complaint.
In particular, H.R. 3610 authorizes the oilheat industry to conduct a referendum among its retailers and wholesalers for the creation of a National Oilheat Research Alliance, NORA. If the oilheat industry approves such a referendum, NORA will be authorized to collect annual assessments from oilheat wholesalers to cover its planning and program costs.

Madam Speaker, this is a good bill, and I urge its passage.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HALL of Texas. Madam Speaker, yield myself such time as I may consider.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3610, and I certainly want to thank the gentleman from Colorado (Chairman Dan Schaefer) and the gentleman from Virginia (Chairman Bliley) for bringing this bill to the floor.
I compliment the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GREENWOOD) for working to bring this bill to the commitee to ensure that the funds are properly used.

Madam Speaker, it is my understanding that both the heating oil industry and the gas industry are satisfied with this approach, and I appreciate their efforts to work this out.

I am pleased to support the bill and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. BLILEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3610, the National Oilheat Research Alliance Act. This bill has strong support from the oilheat industry and Members of the Commerce Committee on both sides of the aisle.
Oilheat is an important and economical source of home and commercial heating for many Americans and many residents of my home State, Virginia. It plays a vital role in keeping homes and businesses warm in the winter in many parts of the United States.
In 1996, homes and businesses purchased more than 10 billion gallons of heating oil, with most of it concentrated in New England and the Mid-Atlantic.

Oilheat is virtually the only home heating fuel without a national industry promotion program. Thus, in order for home heating fuel to compete with other home heating fuels on a fair and equitable basis, it must obtain greater resources. This bill would allow the oilheat industry to do research, education and marketing without using any Federal money. In parcular, H.R. 3610 allows the heating oil industory to establish an oilheat check-off fee to fund research, development, and consumer education programs related to oilheat.

Oilheat plays an important role in keeping homes and businesses warm in the winter in many parts of this country. This legislation will give the oilheat industry a fair chance to undertake research and development activities targeted at finding new and more efficient ways to use oilheat.

Significantly, this bill which was proposed by the oilheat industry does not require the expenditure of significant amounts of Federal money.
Through this bill, the oilheat industry is looking for ways to help itself, not a government handout.
Ms. NORTON. Madam Speaker, I each will control 20 minutes. The entire Congress, has come to

Whereas for 20 years the Offices of Inspectors General have worked with Congress to facilitate effective oversight to improve the programs and operations of the Federal Government: Now, therefore,

Resolved by the Senate and House of Re-

Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Congress--

(1) commends the Offices of Inspectors General and their employees for the dedication and professionalism displayed in the performance of their duties; and

(2) reaffirms the role of Inspectors General in promoting economy, efficiency and effectiveness in the administration of the programs and operations of the Federal Government.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN) and the gentle-woman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN).

Mr. HORN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to recommend and extend their remarks on S.J. Res. 58.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. HORN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

As chairman of the House Subcommittee on Government Management, Information, and Technology and on behalf of the gentleman from Indiana (Chairman BURTON) of the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight, the committee to which we are responsible for overseeing the economy and efficiency of the Federal Government, I am rising to recognize a very important asset we have in the war that we have waged consistently against waste, fraud and abuse within the Federal Government.

Madam Speaker, 20 years ago this month, to more effectively combat waste and mismanagement in Federal programs, on a bipartisan basis the predecessor of the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight—then known as the Committee on Government Operations—worked to establish Inspectors General in our largest executive agencies. Later, the Inspector General Act of 1978 was expanded so that today we have inspectors general in 27 major agencies and in 30 of our smaller Federal agencies.

Not only the Committee, the House Subcommittee on Government Management, Information, and Technology, but the entire Congress, has come to rely heavily on the critical work of the inspectors general. Their audits and their inspections help root out serious problems in various Federal programs and bring them into the light of day so both the administration and Congress can deal with them.

In April 1998, the subcommittee conducted a series of hearings which examined financial management practices in the Federal Government. One of these hearings focused on the status of financial management practices in the Medicare program.

It has a new, very able administrator and I wish her well in bringing efficiency to this complex agency.

At that hearing, the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services exposed a stunning $20,300,000,000 in waste, fraud and abuse in the Medicare program. The Medicare program is one of this Nation’s most important programs. Every dollar invested by the taxpayers and by Congress on behalf of its beneficiaries must be utilized for quality medical and health care. Medicare was saved by our majority. Its benefits will be available to the generations yet to come.

With the exposure of problems such as this, Congress can work to improve programs on a bipartisan basis, make them more efficient, more effective and less costly. American taxpayers deserve no less from us than to provide the utmost accountability for their hard-earned money.

With this resolution, we salute the inspectors general and their staffs and we thank them for their two decades of extremely important work on behalf of the American people and Congress.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. NORTON. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution and urge its adoption by the House. The Committee on Government Reform and Oversight has a long history of working in a bipartisan manner with the inspectors general to eliminate waste, fraud and abuse in Federal programs. Indeed, the original authorizing statute establishing inspectors general in the executive branch was drafted by the Government Operations Committee 20 years ago.

The close relationship between the inspector general, the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight is entirely appropriate. The Inspector General community is one of Congress’ principal watchdogs in the executive branch. There is much we can learn from each other as we work to ensure that our government operates in the most effective and efficient manner possible.

IGs have a very difficult job, in part because they are asked to serve so many masters. They are appointed by the President, but report to the Congress as well as the agency head. As independent investigators within the Federal agencies, they are often the last person a manager wants to hear from, and Members of Congress can get very upset when the need or cost of pet projects are questioned. Yet, in many instances the toughest jobs are the ones which need doing the most. That is certainly the case with IGs.

During fiscal year 1997, IGs returned $3 billion to the Federal Government in restitution and recoveries and their audit identified other $25 billion in funds which could be used more effectively. There have been more than 15,000 successful criminal prosecutions and over 6,000 debarments, exclusions, and suspensions of companies or individuals doing business with the government.

Similar accomplishments are made year after year. The IGs have more than proven their usefulness to Congress and the American public. The Chief Financial Officers Act, the Government Management Reform Act and the Government Performance and Results Act have given the IGs some new responsibilities, particularly to ensure that Congress has complete and reliable financial information. Their work in this area is invaluable to policymakers and managers/executives throughout the administration.

Madam Speaker, it has been 20 years since the passage of the original IG act, and 10 since the 1988 amendments authored by Senator GLENN. The original act established IGs in six Cabinet level departments. One measure of its success is the fact that today there are inspectors general in all departments, and also in most major independent agencies.

Madam Speaker, as this resolution states in part, inspectors general serve the American taxpayer by promoting economy, efficiency and integrity in the administration of the programs and operations of the government.

May I add that when it came time to choose a United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, I asked the President to appoint the Inspector General from the Department of the Interior, Wilma Lewis. She has already shown what the experience of an IG can do for the city, the Nation’s capital. I urge Members to support this resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HORN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

As a member of the Committee to which the resolution referred, I would like to mention just a few items that are in a statement offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON). In the fiscal year 1997, which ended September 30, 1997, the inspector general audits identified $25 billion in funds that year that could be put to better use. They returned to the government $3 billion in restitution and investigative recoveries. They had more than 15,000 successful criminal prosecutions and over 6,000 debarments, exclusions, and suspensions of companies or individuals doing business with the government.

They are on our frontline, Madam Speaker, and we appreciate them for their 20 years of very difficult work. Under various administrations, there has sometimes been a difficulty between the Inspector General and the Secretary of an executive department or the administrator of a particular program. Administrators listen to the Inspector General and do the right thing. Generally, the inspectors general have prevailed.

Madam Speaker, I urge the passage of this timely resolution.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURTS AND JUSTICE TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS ACT OF 1998

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 4566) to make technical and clarifying amendments to the National Capital Revitalization and Self-Government Improvement Act of 1997, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 4566

SEC. 9. WAIVER OF MAXIMUM ENTRY AGE REQUIREMENT FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER POSITIONS IN THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

(a) In General.—Notwithstanding any maximum entry age which the Attorney General may have established for law enforcement officers in the Department of Justice under section 1203(b) of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997, any employee of the District of Columbia Department of Corrections may be hired by the Department of Justice pursuant to section 1203(b) of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 in a law enforcement officer position if such employee will have completed at least 10 years of covered service when the employee attains the minimum retirement age provided in section 8422(g) of title 5, United States Code.

(b) Separation.—Notwithstanding section 8422(b) of title 5, United States Code, any employee hired by the Department of Justice in a law enforcement position who is described in subsection (a) shall be separated from service with the Department on the last day of the month in which such employee becomes 57 years of age, except that if the Attorney General judges that the public interest so requires, the Attorney General may exempt an employee from automatic separation under this subsection until that employee becomes 60 years of age.

SEC. 10. EFFECTIVE DATE.

Except as otherwise specifically provided, this Act and any amendments made by this Act shall take effect as if included in the enactment of title XI of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Davis) and the gentlewoman from District of Columbia (Ms. Norton) each will control 20 minutes. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Davis).

Mr. DAVIS. Virginia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that this Act and any amendments made by this Act be considered as if included in the enactment of title XI of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Mr. Davis is recognized.

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Davis) and the gentlewoman from District of Columbia (Ms. Norton) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Davis).

Mr. DAVIS. Virginia. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of the passage of H.R. 4566, the District of Columbia Courts and Justice Technical Corrections Act of 1998. This measure has been favorably reported to the House by the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight. H.R. 4566 makes technical corrections to the National Capital Revitalization and Self-Government Improvement Act of 1997. This measure clarifies a number of D.C. employee related matters and resolves a potential dispute involving the District of Columbia Public Defenders Service.

Most importantly, this legislation will give further protection to employees of the D.C. Department of Corrections that are displaced by the federal assumption of correctional functions. H.R. 4566 is the result of many hours of hard work and negotiations between the Congress and the administration. I want to thank the ranking member on the subcommittee, the gentlewoman from District of Columbia (Ms. Norton), the gentleman from Indiana (Chairman Burton), the gentleman from California (Mr. Waxman) and the Committee on Ways and Means for their assistance on this legislation.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. NORTON. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, let me begin my thanking the gentleman from Indiana (Chairman Burton); the gentleman from California (Mr. Waxman) ranking member; and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Davis) for their leadership and support in bringing to the floor H.R. 4566 to attend to some unfinished business of the National Capital Revitalization and Self-Government Improvement Act of 1997.

The revitalization act is already pulling the District out of insolvency by relieving the city of the most costly State functions, missions that are not performed by any other city in the country. However, the experience with such complicated and comprehensive legislation in the Congress is that technical corrections are almost always necessary. There is no need to detain the House on these small technical matters. One set of the corrections in this bill concerns detailed procedures that are necessary to accomplish the employee transfers, retirements and terminations while minimizing unnecessary dislocation, frustration and stress. The second set of technical corrections relates to matters involving the courts and various components of the justice system that have been transferred from the District of Columbia to the Federal Government.

The transfer of Lorton to the Federal Government is in the first year of transition. The transfer of court costs has already taken place. The provisions of H.R. 4566, therefore, are overdue. I strongly urge the passage of this bill to tie up the loose ends and avoid unnecessary problems in this complicated and unprecedented transition.

Madam Speaker, I urge back the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Madam Speaker, I urge support for the passage of this bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the resolution offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarrow), the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 4566, as amended.

Mr. SCARBOUR. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 590) recognizing and honoring Hunter Scott for his efforts to honor the memory of the captain and crew of the USS Indianapolis and for the outstanding example he has set for the young people of the United States, as amended.

H. Res. 590

Whereas 13-year-old Hunter Scott of Cantonment, Florida, has received international recognition for his efforts to honor the memory of the captain and crew of the USS Indianapolis, which sank in the Pacific Ocean during the final days of World War II; whereas Hunter Scott has spent the past two years seeking recognition for the crew of the USS Indianapolis, many of whom perished as a result of shark attacks and exposure after being stranded in the water for four days; whereas Hunter Scott’s extensive work is the subject of legislation before this Congress, supported by Democrats and Republicans alike; whereas Hunter Scott’s work ethic, love of country, and strength of character serve as a shining example to the young people of the United States; and whereas Hunter Scott has helped the crew of the U.S.S. INDIANAPOLIS receive international recognition from the New York Times, USA Today, the Associated Press, CBS, Nickelsodeon, and other print and broadcast media: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives recognizes and honors Hunter Scott for his efforts to honor the memory of the captain and crew of the U.S.S. INDIANAPOLIS and for the outstanding example he has set for the young people of the United States.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarrow) and the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Cummings) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarrow).

Mr. SCARBOUR. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. On the cover of the New York Times earlier this summer was the headline, A Boy’s School Project Aims to Revise History. It told the story of...
Hunter Scott, a middle schooler who is trying to change history as it was written 50 years ago.

In the closing days of World War II, the U.S.S. Indianapolis had its hull pierced by three Japanese torpedoes. Twelve minutes later the ship went down. On board were almost 1,200 crew members and only 300 survived, the others dying of shark attacks and exposure.

For half a century, the 316 remaining survivors and crew members of the worst disaster in Naval history tried in vain to defend the honor of their captain, Charles McVay. This year a new secret weapon was employed in their quest, and that weapon was a 13-year-old boy named Hunter Scott.

Two years ago Hunter came to my district office to show me a middle school history project that he had made. Now, this extraordinary history project actually contained clear, convincing evidence of the Indianapolis crew's bravery and of the injustice that he could make a difference, that he could right a wrong and that he could turn a bright searing light on an injustice and bring about the proper and just conclusion to this 53-year-old injustice.

Madam Speaker, Congress should be grateful for what a young man like Hunter Scott has done.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Cummings. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, today I thank the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Burton), the gentleman from California (Mr. Waxman), the chairman of our subcommittee the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Mica), and I commend the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough) for this legislation.

Madam Speaker, it was just Thursday I had the pleasure of managing a resolution that recognized KidsPeace, an organization that established National KidsDay and National Family Month. KidsPeace established these celebrations to focus our attention on the importance of the role we, as parents, should play in nurturing and encouraging them.

The parents of Hunter Scott have done just that, and look at the outcome. Hunter brought to the attention of this body and the American people a tragedy that occurred decades before his birth. The 13-year-old boy researched and uncovered evidence that suggested Charles B. McVay, III, the captain of the U.S.S. Indianapolis, was wrongly convicted of negligence for the loss of the U.S.S. Indianapolis near the end of World War II. McVay was the first officer in the history of the United States Navy to be court-martialed for losing his ship to enemy fire in time of war.

After conducting interviews with survivors of the U.S.S. Indianapolis and uncovering other information, Hunter felt that McVay was wrongly accused and brought his case to this body, the House. Recent history Hunter has been lobbying the Congress to, quote, erase all mention of a court-martialed and conviction from Captain McVay's records and get a Presidential Unit Citation for the U.S.S. Indianapolis and her crew.

Hunter found that Navy officials knew enemy submarines were in the vicinity of the U.S.S. Indianapolis and did not give Captain McVay that information.

Two years ago Hunter wanted to help him on his mission, and he had viewed Hunter's report, including newly declassified documentation that he had dug up and we decided that we wanted to help him out.

Hunter's documents showed that Captain McVay was not given the intelligence that would have helped him avoid the disaster and that he did nothing improper to justify the court-martial. The legislation was introduced in Washington and gained almost 300 co-sponsors, including those of the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. Carson) who certainly helped out a great deal, the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. Mink) and also the gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. Abercrombie).

The parents of Hunter Scott have come to Washington and created quite a stir. He commanded international media coverage and met with many key Members of the House and Senate, including Speaker Gingrich, Majority Leader Armey and National Security Chairman Floyd Spence. The New York Times, ABC, NBC, CBS, CNN, Forbes, the Atlanta Constitution and media outlets across the world followed Hunter's work. But because of some entrenched interests who do not want to admit that these are wrong 50 years ago, this bill did not get a chance to come up on the floor this session.

That is why we are here today, to pass a congressional resolution honoring Hunter Scott and recognizing the brave Indianapolis crew since Hunter is a shining example of all that is good about our young people today.

But we are also here today to serve notice on those who refuse to right a half-century wrong, that the 53-year-old fight of the Indianapolis survivors to clear their good captain's name will move forward in the next session of Congress. We will also fight for the Presidential Unit Citation for the Indianapolis crew that was so richly deserved by them. We will also fight for Mr. McVay's brother Kimo who has been working for so many years to right this wrong.

The gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough)收益率 for a escort from Guam to the Leyte Gulf in the Philippines where the ship was attacked and sunk by a torpedo with hundreds of lives lost.

Two years ago Hunter began his sixth grade research project by placing an ad in the local newspaper which led to his obtaining a list of the ship's survivors. He contacted the survivors who shared stories, photos and mementos of their ordeal on the Indianapolis. Though the Navy stands by the court-martialed

Congressional Record – House

Maryland (Mr. Cummings) for his inspiring words.

Madam Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. Mink).

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. I want to pay tribute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough) and to the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. Carson) my Democratic colleagues for their tremendous efforts in trying to carry the voice of this young man from Florida, Scott to the places that could make a difference, to change that historic error that was uncovered by Hunter Scott as a result of his tenacious and industrious work in a school project.

I am standing here today because I am not only moved by this young man and by the commitment that he undertook and the courage that he evidently felt in raising this issue to this huge government that very few of us can very easily change but also to put himself to make the points that he felt were so important in order to correct history. I stand here today because my connection is not just an intellectual one or an inspirational one with Hunter Scott but because there is a person in the State of Hawaii who has been working on this issue for decades. He is the son of Captain McVay, a very, very well-known and well-regarded person in my State, Kimo Wilder McVay, who has been trying and trying and trying to get people to listen to what he believed was a terrible injustice done to his father. He has spoken to the people in the State and taken his anguish feeling to many, many quarters.

Recently our State legislature adopted a resolution incorporating all the findings of Mr. McVay that he had pursued. But the world was not open to him in terms of raising this issue to the cognizance of the national government, because today to pay special tribute to Hunter Scott, because this young man, 12 years of age, a seventh grader in a school in Florida, was able to gather together the evidence, the history, the commentary of the survivors of the U.S.S. Indianapolis and put it together in a very, very telling history report which he sent me a copy.

I was tremendously moved. His letter is something that should be placed in the record, and I ask unanimous consent, Madam Speaker, to do so.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. Emerson). Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Hawaii?

There was no objection.

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Madam Speaker, he starts off by saying, My name is Hunter Scott. I am 12 years old and in the seventh grade. And I have been pursuing this matter of the war time disaster, and he goes on to detail almost day by day, hour by hour what happened exactly to the U.S.S. Indianapolis, and it is a very, very moving, well-documented, well-researched piece of evidence.

The letter in its entirety is as follows:

October 12, 1997.

Hon. Patsy T. Mink, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.

Dear Representative Mink: My name is Hunter Scott. I am 12 years old and in the seventh grade. Enclosed are several recent newspaper articles about my history fair project on the U.S.S Indianapolis tragedy in 1945. This ship was the last ship that sank in the history of the U.S. Navy, in which only 316 of 1,196 men survived including its skipper Charles F. McVay, who was court-martialed and found guilty. I have also included a video cassette of my appearances on NBC Nightly News with Tom Brokaw, and TNN's "Prime Time County". I would like to thank you in advance for any help you could give me. Congressmen Scarborough and Bono have already agreed to help me in my quest to help clear Captain McVay's name, and honor the ship and its crew.

Captain McVay is the only skipper ever court-martialed for losing his ship in a time of war, despite the fact over 700 ships were lost in WWII. I have thoroughly investigated the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the U.S.S Indianapolis and I feel Captain McVay should not be found guilty (see attachment A). I would like your help and guidance in my quest to help clear Captain McVay's name on behalf of his sons, Charles IV and Kimo, and the 150 living survivors.

I have been advised that the best course of setting this historical record straight would be for Congress to take action in the form of a joint Resolution (attachment B). This resolution would express the sense that Congress recognizes an injustice was done and order that all mention of the court-martial and conviction of Captain Charles McVay be expunged from the records. It would be signed by the President and become public law. It is never too late to set an injustice straight.

I have been talking with the remaining survivors for over a year, and feel this injustice needs to be corrected. These men range in age from age 69 to 92 and time is running out for them to see the day when the honor of their captain is restored. I, along with the survivors feel this is part in the mission that ended WWII has been overshadowed by Captain McVay's court-martial. Even though I am 12 years old, I would be willing to testify before the Congress and pleaded the case for Captain McVay. I have the greatest collection of information pertaining to this incident of anyone in the world, and I would like to make it available to you and other members of Congress.

Please let me know what you can do to help me on behalf of the survivors and the McVay family.

Sincerely,

Hunter Scott.

I wish that we could come here to the floor, Madam Speaker, today to not just hear the elaborate efforts of this young man, but to give him the greatest reward of all, and that is to say that the resolution that is a result of his work, H. Res. 590 that was introduced by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough), is indeed being taken up by the Congress and being adopted because that is really the recognition, I am sure, that he seeks, and so like the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough), I hope that we will be able in the 106th Congress to persuade enough people to understand the message contained in Hunter Scott's letters and in his transmissions to the Congress to finally pass this, rectify the wrong that occurred over 50 years ago.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, those who teach our children often say that we must teach to their strengths, and I am so glad that when our next speaker heard about this young man's efforts she realized that he had a strong conviction to do something and to make sure that he righted a wrong, as I said a little bit earlier.

I am so glad that the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. Carson) from Indianapolis took his situation, working with the gentlewoman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough) working with the Speaker, working with many, many others, the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. Mink) and the gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. Abercrombie) who will speak later, and together and saw that this young man had a strength, they did not turn their faces away from him, they looked into his eyes and said:

"We will help you."

Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. Carson), my distinguished colleague.

Ms. CARSON asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.

Ms. CARSON. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding this time to me, and thanks to the gentlewoman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough) in whose district this young man that we pay special tribute today resides, and always to the honorable gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. Mink) who has the privilege of having a dear relative of one of the casualties of this tragic situation with whom she shares her district and to Members of Congress all.

Let me suggest to the House of Representatives today that when Hunter Scott first came to Washington in pursuit of justice, as my colleagues have heard described here today, that I met the young man at the airport when he first flew in from Florida because of my enduring appreciation for the young man and his work and we created a House bill, House bill 3710, that the gentlewoman from Florida (Mr. Scarborough) and I co-authored, along with other Members of this distinguished body, asking for the relief, especially the remission and toll that individuals who were aboard the U.S.S. Indianapolis, a city whom I represent and whom that ship was proudly named for, to try to vindicate in some way before the remaining 12 survivors went to meet their maker.

We will meet Hunter Scott at the airport and enjoyed and experienced all the enthusiasm that he had for this project in terms of redemption, I was reminded of the great poet that said that the lion shall lay down with the lamb, and a little child shall lead them, and, as I have been here in this 108th Congress, I thought of Congress as being the lion and hopefully that this is a 12-year war in the United States Navy’s worst disaster at sea. The Navy, embarrassed by forces of great disaster, has never recognized heroism of the crew and instead court-martialed the captain Charles McVay.

I, too, have a relative and a survivor of the U.S.S. Indianapolis who still remains in Indianapolis, Indiana. My colleagues have heard the tragic subsequent events that followed the sinking of the U.S.S. Indianapolis and the fact that America was so jubilant that the war was over they did not even discover the U.S.S. Indianapolis had not come to shore. And I think that this country and Old Glory that we salute here on this floor on a daily basis owes it to America and certainly owes it to the survivors of the U.S.S. Indianapolis, reversing a very bad item on the record of those who survived this ship and to give a very special salute to a young man who stands as a beacon for so many young people around this country in terms of what can, in fact, be accomplished if one holds fast the dreams and does not let dreams die.

Mr. SCARBOROUGH. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE).

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Madam Speaker, there are sometimes opportunities for us on this floor to enlighten ourselves and the public in a way that is not generally available under other means and other circumstances. This is one of those instances thanks to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SCARBOROUGH) in particular and young Hunter Scott. I am sure young Mr. Scott would be only too happy to have the accolades which have extended to him today be set aside if we could come to the kind of conclusion that we think the activity here today warrants. But that is not the case.

Also I think Madam Speaker, that we often find ourselves in a position where we are attempting to convey information not just to ourselves, but because we are the Congress of the United States, to the Nation as a whole and to the war in the United States Navy. In that process we forget that there are those who have impacted individually and collectively in the most personal way. And as the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK) has indicated, we have, as a result of our residents in Hawaii, just one such instance. The son of the captain resides in our district and is known to the gentlewoman from Hawaii and myself; well, I guess all of her life and for the better part of 9 years, a wonderful gentleman, and gentleman is the appropriate word, I can assure my colleagues, who in some respects can be said to be a victim as well.

As my colleagues know, fate is often cruel and history capricious and arbitrary in the way it is implemented, and so it probably seems to those who do not know the circumstances and the facts a situation in which one would expect the son of the captain that has to carry this burden of court-martial, expect the son to take this position of trying to vindicate the father and, therefore, able to dismiss the factual circumstances around the incident, if any.

So, while there was empathy and sympathy certainly by those of us who knew Kimo McVay, we understood as well, or thought we understood as well, that there was likely little that could be done about us to go show that even though we by virtue of being Members of Congress are optimistic in nature, nonetheless it did not occur to us. Shame on us really. Shame on us. It did not occur to us that there was perhaps something that could be done.

I have not thought about the biblical phrase, and a little child shall lead them, but it certainly jumped to the forefront of my thoughts today as I contemplated what to say at this particular moment.

But we have all been admonished in a way, all brought up a little short to say yes, not only can an individual make a difference, but did that tragedy such. For the colleagues know, fate is often cruel and history capricious and arbitrary in the way it is implemented, and so it probably seems to those who do not know the circumstances and the facts a situation in which one would expect the son of the captain that has to carry this burden of court-martial, expect the son to take this position of trying to vindicate the father and, therefore, able to dismiss the factual circumstances around the incident, if any.

And I suppose then, Madam Speaker, in conclusion I can say that it is perhaps somewhat to our credit then that when this information was presented to us and when we had to confront the work that was presented by this young man, we did in fact then move, and move expeditiously, and work in a non-partisan basis to arrive at this point today.

And we want to make sure that as he goes throughout his life, and he continues on this wonderful journey called life, that he is strengthened and encouraged by us. We have not given up just as he has not given up.

And I leave these simple words from the Bible with him, and I hope that that will be imprinted in the DNA of every cell of his body until he dies, and they are simply these: 'They who wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall rise up with wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint.'

To Hunter I say: Thank you so much for giving so much. Thank you so much for bringing us together around a cause. Thank you so much for being sensitive to the family that still grieves for they know that their loved one has been wronged. Thank you so much for coming to the Congress of the United States of America and presenting that research to us. We promise, we promise that we will go forward with all of the same kind of strength, the same kind of power and the same kind of convictions that you have.

With that, Madam Speaker, I encourage all of our Members to support this legislation.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SCARBOROUGH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

I just wanted to thank the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CUMMINGS) for his very eloquent remarks, I would like to thank the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. CARSON), the gentlewoman from Hawaii (Mrs. MINK), the gentleman from Florida (Mr. ABERCROMBIE) and of course Hunter for all he has done and also obviously Admiral McVay’s son, Kimo.
I think it says an awful lot about this country. It says an awful lot about Hunter’s fighting spirit, that he is keeping this battle going. In fact, it is a bit ironic, but again I think it is positive, when the reporters asked Hunter as he assumed his seat how he made it through that press conference, when Kevin McAvey was reduced to tears, one of the last questions they asked him was, “What do you want to do when you grow up?” He said, “I want to go to the Naval Academy, and I wish to be an officer.” I think that says an awful lot about him, that we can recognize and we can love an institution, like we in Pensacola and Hawaii love the United States Navy, and still recognize that they make mistakes; and when they make mistakes, they need to correct those mistakes. With the help of Hunter and all of Hunter’s new-found friends here, that is exactly what we are going to do in the 106th Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BRADY). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SCARBOROUGH) that the House suspend its rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 590, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF BILLS TO BE CONSIDERED UNDER SUSPENSION OF THE RULES ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1998

Mr. SCARBOROUGH. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 575, I announce the following suspensions be considered under suspension of the rules on Monday, October 12, 1998:

(1) in the first sentence of subsection (c), by striking "knowingly" and inserting the following:

"(f) PENALTIES.—

"(1) KNOWING VIOLATIONS.—Any person who knowingly violates the provisions of this section shall be fined under title 18, United States Code, or imprisoned not more than 180 days, or both.

"(2) OTHER VIOLATIONS.—Any person who otherwise violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this Act (including a regulation issued under this Act) shall be fined under title 18, United States Code, or imprisoned not more than 180 days, or both.

"SEC. 12. USE OF PROCEEDS OF CERTAIN SALES.

(a) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this section are to receive proceeds from sales of abandoned items derived from fish, wildlife, and plants available to the Service and to authorize the use of those proceeds to cover costs incurred in shipping, storing, and disposing of those items.

(b) USE OF PROCEEDS.—Section 3(c) of the Fish and Wildlife Improvement Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 742(c)) is amended—

(1) by striking "Notwithstanding" and inserting the following:

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), notwithstanding; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(3) PROHIBITION ON SALE OF CERTAIN ITEMS.—In carrying out paragraph (1), the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Commerce may not sell any species of fish, wildlife, or plants, or derivative thereof, for which the sale is prohibited by another Federal law.

"(3) USE OF REVENUES.—The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Commerce may each expend any revenues received from the disposal of items under paragraph (1), and all sums referred to in the first sentence of section 3(d) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1540d) and the first sentence of section 6(d) of the Lacey Act Amendments of 1961 (16 U.S.C. 3375d)—

(1) for the purpose of making payments in accordance with those sections; and

(2) by paying costs associated with—

(i) shipping items referred to in paragraph (1) and from the place of storage, sale, or disposal; or

(ii) storage of the items, including inventory, and security for those items;

(iii) appraisal of the items;

(iv) sale or other disposal of the items in accordance with applicable law, including the following commissions and related expenses;

(v) payment of any valid liens or other encumbrances on the items and payment for any measures required to clear title to the items; and

(vi) in the case of the Secretary of the Interior only, processing and shipping of eagles and other migratory birds, and parts of migratory birds, for Native American religious purposes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. Young) and the gentleman from California (Mr. Miller) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. Young).

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I am presenting to the House a modified version of S. 1677, the Wetlands and Wildlife Enhancement Act. This measure was approved by the other body on September 30th.

The first two sections of the bill extend the North America Wetlands Conservation Act and provides for the creation of the National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act of 1978 for an additional 5 years. These two important conservation programs are dedicated to improving and acquiring wetlands for both migratory birds and non-game species. In fact, as a result of the North American Wetlands Conservation Act, more than 3 million acres of wetlands have been purchased in the United States and Canada over the past 7 years.

Section 3 of this bill is designed to clarify the membership of the North American Wetlands Conservation Council. I am pleased that Ducks Unlimited, which has contributed some
S$0 million for essential migratory bird wetland projects will continue to serve on the Council in the future. Mr. Speaker, the House version of this legislation was overwhelmingly adopted on May 19th of this year.

Section 6 of this proposal is the text of my bill, H.R. 2963, the Migratory Bird Treaty Reform Act. This measure was extensively debated on the House on September 10 and adopted by a vote of 328 to 90. That time, the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee has conducted a hearing on this bill and reported it favorably.

During these deliberations, the Senate suggested that this bill be changed in several ways. I have incorporated those modifications, which increase the maximum criminal penalties for baiting and direct the Secretary of the Interior to study the effects of changing strict liability to the ‘knows or reasonably should know’ standard. In terms of penalties, these are maximum levels and will only be imposed in the most severe and egregious cases.

H.R. 2963 will not allow baiting and will not imperil any migratory bird population. What it will do is allow hunters to simply present evidence in their own defense.

The current strict liability interpretation is one where even a small part or amount of bait is present, you are guilty, it is fundamentally wrong. This violates one of our most basic constitutional protections, that a person is innocent until proven guilty. Further, “knows or reasonably should know” standard has been effectively used in the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas for over 20 years. During that time, no migratory bird populations have been put at risk, there has been an 88 percent conviction rate in baiting cases and, not surprisingly, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has never attempted to overturn or challenge this legal standard. It is time we provide fairness and equity to migratory bird hunters throughout this country.

Section 6 of the bill incorporates the text of H.R. 2807 and H.R. 3113. These measures were overwhelmingly adopted by the House of Representatives. The fundamental goal is to eliminate the U.S. market for illegally obtained rhino and tiger products and to extend the Rhinoceros and Tiger Conservation Fund. This Fund has supported 40 conservation projects in 10 range states in Africa and Asia. Without this legislation, these two magnificent species will continue to slide towards extinction.

Finally, the last sections of the bill implement the text of S. 3317. This measure was approved by the other body on September 21. This legislation is designed to make several minor changes in four units of our National Wildlife Refuge System and to reduce the penalties for those individuals who unintentionally violate certain provisions of the National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act.

Briefly, this section would remove 37 acres from the Upper Mississippi National Wildlife and Fish Refuge, 1,430 acres from the Kilochook Coordination Area, and a 634-acre easement from the Lake Elsie National Wildlife Refuge. These lands have lost the wildlife values that led to their inclusion in the system and, therefore, they should be removed.

Finally, this section renames a refuge in the State of Oregon to better reflect the true nature of the unit. In the future it will be called the Klamath Marsh Wildlife Refuge.

This is a good bill, Mr. Speaker. These changes are minor housekeeping matters that are noncontroversial. They have been suggested by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and I find no objection to their enactment.

Mr. Speaker, this is a comprehensive conservation measure that is good for migratory bird hunters, our Refuge System, essential wetland habitat acquisition, and the most endangered species, rhinos and tigers, on earth. Each of these provisions, except for the minor refuge changes, has been fully debated and resoundingly approved by this body, and I urge an ‘aye’ on S. 1677.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. MILLER of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of S. 1677, a package of bills which have already passed the House with broad bipartisan support. In particular, it reauthorizes the highly successful North American Wetlands Conservation Act. This program has protected more than 10 million acres of wetlands in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This bill also reauthorizes the program of grants for the conservation of rhinoceros and tigers, and prohibits trade in products labeled as containing rhino or tiger products. Although trade in rhino and tiger products is banned under United States and international law, many products claiming to contain rhino and tiger continue to be available in the United States. Because of the increasing rarity of these magnificent animals, many rhino and tiger products are being sold as containing rhino and tiger and do not actually contain them, but nevertheless they help perpetuate the illegal market in rhino and tiger parts.

I do not support the provisions of this bill that relax the standard under which hunters may be cited for shooting birds over bait. However, this bill contains changes to the House-passed bill which substantially increase the penalty for baiting violations and required study of the impacts of these policy changes. The bill also authorizes new wetland projects.

Overall, Mr. Speaker, this is a good package and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good bill, Mr. Speaker. The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill, as amended, was passed. The title of the Senate bill was amended so as to read: “A bill to reauthorize the North American Wetlands Conservation Act and the Partnerships for Wildlife Act, and for other purposes.” A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

NATIONAL FISH AND WILDLIFE FOUNDATION ESTABLISHMENT ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1998

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill (S. 2095) to reauthorize and amend the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act, as amended. The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Amendments of 1998.”

SEC. 2. PURPOSES.

Section 2(b) of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3701(b)) is amended by striking paragraph (1) and inserting the following:

“(2) to encourage, accept, and administer private gifts of property for the benefit of, or in connection with, the activities and services of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration to further the conservation and management of fish, wildlife, and plant resources;”.

SEC. 3. BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE FOUNDATION.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT AND MEMBERSHIP.—Section 3 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3702) is amended by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

“(1) in general. The Foundation shall have a governing Board of Directors (referred to in this Act as the ‘Board’), which shall consist of 25 Directors appointed in accordance with subsection (b), each of whom shall be a United States citizen.

“(2) REPRESENTATION OF DIVERSE POINTS OF VIEW. To the maximum extent practicable, the membership of the Board shall represent diverse points of view relating to conservation and management of fish, wildlife, and plants.

“(3) NOT FEDERAL EMPLOYEES. Appointment as a Director of the Foundation shall not constitute employment by, or the holding of an office of, the United States for the purpose of any Federal law.

(b) APPOINTMENT AND TERMS. Section 3 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3702) is amended by striking subsection (b) and inserting the following:

"(b) APPOINTMENT AND TERMS.-(1) The Director of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the Under Secretary of Commerce for Oceans and Atmosphere shall be Directors of the Foundation.

"(2) APPOINTMENTS BY THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.—(A) In General.—Subject to subparagraph (B), and in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce and considering the recommendations submitted by the Board, the Secretary of the Interior shall appoint 23 Directors who meet the criteria established by subsection (a), of whom—

"(i) at least 6 shall be knowledgeable or experienced in fish and wildlife management; and

"(ii) at least 4 shall be knowledgeable or experienced in ocean and coastal resource conservation.

"(B) TRANSITION PROVISION.—The 15 Directors serving on the day before the date of enactment of this paragraph shall continue to serve until the expiration of their terms.

"(C) INITIAL APPOINTMENTS TO NEW MEMBER POSITIONS.—Of the Directors appointed by the Secretary of the Interior under paragraph (2)(B)(i), the Secretary shall appoint—

"(i) 2 Directors for a term of 2 years;

"(ii) 3 Directors for a term of 4 years; and

"(iii) 3 Directors for a term of 6 years.

"(D) VACANCIES.—(A) In General.—The Secretary of the Interior shall fill a vacancy on the Board; to the maximum extent practicable those appointments shall be made not later than 45 calendar days after the date of enactment of this paragraph.

"(B) APPOINTMENT AND TERMS.-(1) The Secretary of the Interior shall, in accordance with the requirements of this section, appoint the Director of the Foundation for a term of 6 years.

"(2) APPOINTMENTS.—In consultation with the Board, the Secretary of the Interior shall appoint the Director of the Foundation for a term of 6 years; to the maximum extent practicable those appointments shall be made not later than 45 calendar days after the date of enactment of this paragraph.

"(3) TERMS.—(A) In General.—Subject to subparagraph (B), each Director (other than a Director described in paragraph (3)) shall be appointed for a term of 6 years.

"(B) INITIAL APPOINTMENTS TO NEW MEMBER POSITIONS.—Of the Directors appointed by the Secretary of the Interior under paragraph (2)(B)(ii), the Secretary shall appoint—

"(i) 2 Directors for a term of 2 years;

"(ii) 3 Directors for a term of 4 years; and

"(iii) 3 Directors for a term of 6 years.

"(4) VACANCIES.—(A) In General.—The Secretary of the Interior shall fill a vacancy on the Board; to the maximum extent practicable those appointments shall be made not later than 45 calendar days after the occurrence of the vacancy.

"(B) APPOINTMENTS TO FILL UNEXPIRED TERMS.—An individual appointed to fill a vacancy that occurs before the expiration of the term of a Director shall be appointed for the unexpired term of such Director.

"(5) REAPPOINTMENT.—An individual (other than an individual described in paragraph (1)) shall not serve more than 2 consecutive terms as a Director, excluding any term of not less than 6 years.

"(6) PROCEDURAL MATTERS.—Section 3 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3702) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(h) PROCEDURAL MATTERS.—The Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall not apply to the Foundation.

"(i) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—(1) Section 4(c)(5) of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3702(c)(5)) is amended by striking "Directors of the Board" and inserting "Directors of the Foundation".

"(2) Section 6 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3705) is amended by striking subsection (c), and inserting in lieu thereof—

"(3) Section 7 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3705) is amended by inserting "or the Department of Commerce" after "Department of the Interior".

"SEC. 4. RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF THE FOUNDATION.—(a) PRINCIPAL OFFICE OF THE FOUNDATION.—Section 4(a)(3) of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3708(a)(3)) is amended by inserting after "the Federal Government" the following: "or in the State of Maryland or Virginia that borders on the District of Columbia".

"(b) INVESTMENT OF FEDERAL FUNDS.—Section 4(c) of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3703(c)) is amended by—

"(1) redesigning paragraphs (3) through (7) as paragraphs (7) through (11), respectively; and

"(2) by inserting after paragraph (2) the following:

"(3) to invest any funds provided to the Foundation by the Federal Government in obligations of the United States or in obligations or securities that are guaranteed or insured by the United States;

"(4) to deposit any funds provided to the Foundation by the Federal Government into an account that provides for an agency or instrumentality of the United States;

"(5) to make use of any interest or investment income that accrues as a consequence of the actions taken under paragraphs (2) and (4) to carry out the purposes of the Foundation;

"(6) to use Federal funds to make payments under cooperative agreements entered into with willing landowners to provide substantial long-term benefits for the restoration or enhancement of fish, wildlife, and plant resources on private land;

"(c) AGENCY APPROVAL OF ACQUISITIONS OF PROPERTY.—Section 4(e)(1) of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3703(e)(1)) is amended by striking subparagraph (B) and inserting the following:

"(B) the Foundation notifies the Federal agency that administers the program under which the funds were provided;".

"(d) REPEAL.—Section 304 of Public Law 102-440 (16 U.S.C. 3702 note) is repealed.

"(e) AGENCY APPROVAL OF ACQUISITIONS AND GRANTS.—Section 4(e)(3)(B) of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3703(e)(3)(B)) is amended by striking clause (ii) and inserting the following:

"(ii) the Foundation notifies the Federal agency that administers the program under which the funds were provided of the proposed conveyance or acquisition of Federal funds, and the agency does not object in writing to the proposed acquisition or conveyance within 45 calendar days after the date of the notification;".

"(f) REPEAL.—Section 304 of Public Law 102-440 (16 U.S.C. 3702 note) is repealed.

"(g) TERMINATION OF CONDEMNATION LIMITATION.—Section 4 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3703) is amended by striking subsection (d).

"(h) EXPENDITURES FOR PRINTING SERVICES OR CAPITAL EQUIPMENT.—The Foundation shall not make any expenditure of Federal funds for printing services or capital equipment that is greater than $10,000 unless the expenditure is approved by the Federal agency that administers the Federal program under which the funds were provided.".

"SEC. 5. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 10 of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 3709) is amended by striking subsections (a), (b), and (c) and inserting the following:

"(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Fish and Wildlife Foundation for each of fiscal years 1999 and 2000—

"(A) $25,000,000, to the Department of the Interior;

"(B) $5,000,000, to the Department of Commerce.

"(2) REQUIREMENT OF ADVANCE PAYMENT.—The amount made available as a fiscal year under paragraph (1) shall be provided to the Foundation in an advance payment of the entire amount on October 1, or as soon as practicable thereafter.

"(3) USE OF APPROPRIATED FUNDS.—Subject to paragraph (4), amounts made available under paragraph (1) shall be provided to the Federal agency for use for Federal purposes, unless on a 1-to-1 basis, contributions (whether in currency, services, or property) made to the Foundation by private persons and State and local government agencies.

"(4) PROHIBITION ON USE FOR ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES.—No Federal funds made available under paragraph (1) shall be used by the Foundation for any administrative expenses of the Foundation, including for salaries, travel and transportation expenses, and other overhead expenses.

"(5) ADDITIONAL AUTHORIZATION.—(1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to the amounts authorized to be appropriated under subsection (a), the Foundation may accept Federal funds provided under any other Federal law for use by the Foundation for the purpose of conservation or management of fish, wildlife, and plant resources in whole or in part, contributions (whether in currency, services, or property) made to the Foundation by private persons and State and local government agencies.

"(6) USE OF FUNDS ACCEPTED FROM FEDERAL AGENCIES.—Federal funds provided to the Foundation under paragraph (1) shall be used by the Foundation for matching, on a 1-to-1 basis, contributions (whether in currency, services, or property) made to the Foundation by private persons and State and local government agencies.

"(7) PROHIBITION ON USE OF GRANT AMOUNTS FOR LITIGATION OR LOBBYING EXPENSES.—The Foundation shall not use any grant provided under this section for any activity related to the introduction of legislation pending before Congress.

"(8) CONSTRUCTION.—The Foundation shall not use any grant provided under this section for any activity related to the introduction of legislation pending before Congress.

SEC. 6. LIMITATION ON AUTHORITY.

The National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act (16 U.S.C. 390l et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 11. LIMITATION ON AUTHORITY."

"Nothing in this Act authorizes the Foundation to perform any function the authority for which is devoted to the National Park Foundation by Public Law 90-209 (16 U.S.C. 196c et seq.)."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) and the gentleman from California (Mr. MILLER) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON). (Mr. SAXTON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the bill before the House, S. 2095, provides for the reauthorizations of the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation. Since its creation in 1984, the Foundation has fostered many partnerships through a challenge grant program, awarding over 2,800 peer reviewed competitive grants to more than 1,000 organizations, leveraging approximately $5 million Federal dollars into $300 million for on-the-ground conservation.

New Jersey is typical of the many activities and partnerships the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation enables. At Cape May, for example, the foundation has supported migratory bird habitat improvements. In my area it has supported the improvements at the Edwin B. Forsythe National Wildlife Refuge, and one of its Earth Stewards student grants to the Smithville Elementary School won a prestigious national award.

During the 105th Congress, the Subcommittee on Fisheries Conservation, Wildlands and Oceans of the Committee on Resources held several hearings on the effectiveness of the foundation, the success or failure of its matching grants program and whether our taxpayers' money is being soundly invested.

This bill addresses many of the concerns that the Members raised in the oversight process. We have kept the current authorization level for the Department of Interior at $25 million, the same as in past legislation.

The bill provides for the use of foundation grants to cover lobbying and litigation and revokes authority to prohibit State and local condemnation.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is a combination of issues that both Members of the House and Senate were interested in having addressed in a final bill.

This bill will allow the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation to continue the good work that they do for our National Fish and Wildlife Resources. I think it is a compromise that the House of Representatives should support, and I urge my colleagues to join me in adopting this bill.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers at this time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

THE SPEAKER pro tempore.

Mr. BRADY of Texas. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) that the House pass the Senate bill, S. 2095, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5, rule I, and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered made on this motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to paragraph (B), the Speaker asks the Sergeant at Arms to count Members present and absent.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers at this time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

MISSISSIPPI SIOUX TRIBES JUDGMENT FUND DISTRIBUTION ACT OF 1998.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 391, to provide for the disposition of certain funds resulting from the judgment of the United States Supreme Court in Mississippi Sioux Tribes v. United States, decided June 20, 1994.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the grounds that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

(4) the payment of any existing obligation or debt (existing as of the date of the distribution of the funds) arising out of any action referred to in paragraph (1), (2), or (3);

(5)(A) the payment of attorneys' fees or expenses of any covered Indian tribe referred to in subparagraph (A) or (C) of section 4(a)(2) for litigation or other representation for matters arising out of the enactment of Public Law 92-555 (25 U.S.C. 1300d et seq.); except that—

(b) the amount of attorneys' fees paid by a covered Indian tribe under this paragraph with funds distributed under section 4 shall not exceed 10 percent of the amount distributed to that Indian tribe under that section;

(c) the payment of attorneys' fees or expenses of any covered Indian tribe referred to in section 4(a)(2)(B) for litigation and other representation for matters arising out of the enactment of Public Law 92-555 (25 U.S.C. 1300d et seq.); in accordance, as applicable, with the contracts numbered A00C14200392 and A00C14200993, that the Secretary approved on February 10, 1978 and August 16, 1988, respectively; and

(7) the payment of attorneys' fees or expenses of any covered Indian tribe referred to in section 4(a)(2)(B) for litigation or other representation with respect to matters arising out of this Act.

(c) MANAGEMENT.—Subject to subsections (a), (b), and (d), any funds distributed to a covered Indian tribe pursuant to sections 4 and 7 may be managed and invested by that Indian tribe pursuant to the American Indian Trust Fund Management Reform Act of 1994 (25 U.S.C. 4003 et seq.).

(d) WITHDRAWAL OF FUNDS BY COVERED TRIBES.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), each covered Indian tribe may, at the discretion of that Indian tribe, withdraw all or any portion of the funds distributed to the Indian tribe under section 4 and 7 in accordance with the American Indian Trust Fund Management Reform Act (25 U.S.C. 4001 et seq.).

(2) EXEMPTION.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the requirements under subsections (a) and (b) of section 202 of the American Indian Trust Fund Management Reform Act (25 U.S.C. 4022(a) and (b)) and section 203 of such Act (25 U.S.C. 4023) shall not apply to a covered Indian tribe or the Secretary.

(3) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the applicability of section 202(c) of the American Indian Trust Fund Management Reform Act (25 U.S.C. 4022(c)).

SEC. 6. EFFECT OF DISTRIBUTIONS TO COVERED INDIAN TRIBES ON BENEFITS.

A payment made to a covered Indian tribe or an individual under this Act shall not—

(1) for purposes of determining the eligibility for a Federal service program or service of a covered Indian tribe, household, or individual, be treated as income or resources; or

(2) otherwise result in the reduction or denial of any other program to which the tribe is entitled to Federal law (including the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 301 et seq.).), the covered Indian tribe, household, or individual, would otherwise be entitled.

SEC. 7. DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS TO LINEAL DESCENDANTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to section 8(e), the Secretary shall, in the manner prescribed in section 202(c) of Public Law 92-555 (25 U.S.C. 1300d-4(c)), distribute the lineal descendants of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribes of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tri...
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) and the gentleman from California (Mr. MILLER) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) (Mr. SAXTON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks).

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In rise in support of S. 391, the proposed Mississippi Sioux Tribe's Judgment Fund Distribution Act of 1998. S. 391 would provide for the disposition of judgment funds appropriated by Congress in 1998, plus accrued interest to pay the Mississippi Sioux Indians for 27 million acres of ancestral lands which the Indian Claims Commission ruled were taken without justification.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this is a noncontroversial measure that was originally passed out of the House last year. The bill reverts to the compelling claims of the Sisseton-Wahpeton Sioux Tribe and the lineal descendants to the 1968 judgment fund award to the tribe for the lands taken in violation of their treaty rights. The 1968 amount was approximately $5.8 million, but was never distributed.

Mr. Speaker, this is a noncontroversial measure that was originally passed out of the House last year. The bill reverts to the compelling claims of the Sisseton-Wahpeton Sioux Tribe and the lineal descendants to the 1968 judgment fund award to the tribe for the lands taken in violation of their treaty rights. The 1968 amount was approximately $5.8 million, but was never distributed.

The House passed legislation, H.R. 976, redistributed the remaining $15 million by awarding the lineal descendants the principal, $5.1 million, but giving the tribe the accumulated interest of $13.5 million. The Senate amended that plan by giving the lineal descendants the greater share of the award.

Basically, the Senate plan gives the lineal descendants $10.5 million and the tribe $4.5 million. The Senate would also require that lineal descendants verify that they are, in fact, descendants from a Sisseton-Wahpeton Sioux ancestor. Finally, the Senate bill also contains a table of contents for the act.

I am concerned that there is such a vast difference in the amounts going to the tribes between the House and the Senate bills, and I want to express my reservations about whether or not this is fair to the tribes. I wish we had a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

House bill

Section 101 directs that each amendment in the final report or any other Federal affirmative action programs. The case involved a Caucasian subcontractor who submitted a low bid on a Federal lands highway construction contract, but lost to a company that was certified as “disadvantaged.”

Adarand v. Pena, which heightened the standards for review of the constitutionality of such programs, must be subject to special scrutiny. The Court held that the program: (1) serve a compelling government interest, and (2) be narrowly tailored to address that compelling interest, which in this case is fighting discrimination.

It is important to note that the Supreme Court did not strike down the DBE program or any other Federal affirmative action program. The Court noted that the program question meets the new test outlined by the Court, it is Constitutional and may continue to exist. In the case of the DBE program, the Department of Transportation has determined that the Constitutional concerns can be addressed through changes in the Department’s regulations. To that end, the Department has proposed a number of regulations intended to address the “narrow tailoring” requirements of “strict scrutiny” by (1) giving priority to race-neutral measures in meeting program goals, and (2) limiting the potential adverse effects of the program on other parties.

Subsection 1101(a) authorizes funds from the Highway Trust Fund (HTF) other than the Mass Transit Account for major Federal-aid highway programs and the Federal lands highways program for fiscal years 1998 through 2003. Subsection 1102(b) continues the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise program. It also allows an entity or person that is prevented from participating in the DBE program to be eligible to receive Federal funds.

The Conference General is required to conduct a study of the DBE program within three years of the date of enactment of this Act. Recent court decisions have established new standards for review of the constitutionality of programs such as the DBE provisions enacted for the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982, require that 10 percent of the funds provided for the Federal-aid highway program be allocated to DBE businesses. The DBE program, which originated in the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982, requires that 10 percent of the funds provided for the Federal-aid highway program be allocated to DBE businesses. The Department of Transportation has determined that the Constitutional concerns can be addressed through changes in the Department’s regulations. To that end, the Department has proposed a number of regulations intended to address the “narrow tailoring” requirements of “strict scrutiny” by (1) giving priority to race-neutral measures in meeting program goals, and (2) limiting the potential adverse effects of the program on other parties.

Subsection 1110(a) authorizes funds from the Transportation Infrastructure Act (other than the Mass Transit Account) for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 for the Interstate and National Highway System (NHS) Program, the Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement Program, and the Federal lands highways program. Section 1111 continues the provisions in current law regarding the disadvantaged business enterprise (DBE) program. The DBE program, which originated in the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982, requires that 10 percent of the funds provided for the Federal-aid highway program be allocated to DBE businesses. The Department of Transportation has determined that the Constitutional concerns can be addressed through changes in the Department’s regulations. To that end, the Department has proposed a number of regulations intended to address the “narrow tailoring” requirements of “strict scrutiny” by (1) giving priority to race-neutral measures in meeting program goals, and (2) limiting the potential adverse effects of the program on other parties.

The Conference adopts the House provision, with the following modifications.

October 10, 1998

H10480 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD – HOUSE
Subsection 1102(a) sets the annual obligation limitation for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003. The annual obligation limitations is tied to the Highway Trust Fund tax revenues for the previous fiscal year and will change as such revenues change, in accordance with subsection 1102(h).

Subsection 1102(b) of the Conference provision modifies the list of programs that are exempt from the annual obligation limitation for Federal-aid highways and highway safety construction programs. Exempt programs include emergency, demonstration projects authorized by the Surface Transportation Assistance Act, minimum allocation funds, and a portion of minimum guarantee funds.

Paragraph 1102(c)(1) of the Conference provision states that the Secretary does not distribute obligation authority for certain programs, including administrative expenses.

Paragraph 1102(c)(2) of the Conference provision provides an amount of obligation authority equal to the amount of the unobligated balance of amounts made available in previous fiscal years for Federal-aid highway and highway safety programs for which funds are allocated by the Secretary. Paragraph 1102(c)(3) of the Conference provision provides that the Secretary may calculate certain ratios used to distribute the obligation authority.

Paragraph 1102(c)(4) of the Conference provision states that each high priority project, the Appalachian development highway system, and the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Bridge Authority Act under this Act shall receive the same proportional distribution of obligation authority to budget authority as virtually all other Federal-aid highway and highway safety programs. $2 billion of minimum guarantee funds shall receive an equal amount of obligation limitation. Sections 1601 (codified at 23 U.S.C. 407) authorize the Secretary to make available in this Act for high priority projects, reinforce the intent of the Conferences in paragraph 1102(c)(4) that each high priority project receive the same proportion of obligation authority to budget authority as every other Federal-aid highway program, and that such obligation authority is tied to the Federal-aid highway program. Subsection 117(g) directs that “[o]bligation authority attributable to funds made available to carry out this section shall only be available for the purpose of this section.” Section 117(a) directs the Secretary to make available budget authority to carry out each project authorized in subsection 2(a) in the amount listed for each project in such section. The effect of these two provisions in section 117 is to require that obligation authority attributable to the budget authority provided for each such project be available for each such project. Section 117, in expressly stating that the budget authority for high priority projects is made available only for individual projects, articulates Congress’ intent that each individual project be funded.

In this respect, the provisions authorizing high priority projects are distinct from those that provide for the obligation of funds for the Appalachian development highway system, which provide for budget authority to be available only for the purposes of the Appalachian development highway system. The provisions authorizing obligation authority for high priority projects have been included in the Federal Highway Trust Fund Program because they are intended to be used to fund high priority projects, whereas the provisions authorizing obligation authority for the Appalachian development highway system are intended to be used to fund the Appalachian development highway system in future fiscal years.

Subsection 1102(h) provides that the obligation limitation imposed in subsection (a) shall be increased by an amount equal to the amount of funds determined pursuant to section 251(b)(1)(B)(i)(cc) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 for such fiscal year. The obligation authority shall be distributed in accordance with this section.

In subsection 1102(i), the Conference adopts the Senate approach of a separate limitation on obligations for the expenses of administering the provisions of law for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs in the Appalachian development highway system.

S E C. 1103. A P P O R T I O N M E N T S

House bill

Subsection 1104(a) directs the Secretary to apportion funds to the States for Federal-aid highway programs and the Federal lands highway programs, a sum not to exceed 1 percent of such funds for the purpose of administering the Federal-aid highway program. Subsection 1104(b) directs the Secretary to apportion funds available to the States for the National Highway System, congestion mitigation and high priority programs, surface transportation program, high risk road safety improvement program, and Interstate maintenance according to specified formulas.

Subsection 1104(c) increases funding for Operation Lifesaver and the High Speed Rail Corridor Program. Funding for Operation Lifesaver is increased from $300,000 to $500,000 annually. Funding for the High Speed Rail Corridor Program is increased to $25 million per year. In addition, the subsection specifically designates the Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minnesota, to Chicago, Illinois, segment as a part of the High Speed Rail Corridor (also known as the Chicago Hub). The Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois Departments of Transportation have completed preliminary feasibility studies on the Minneapolis/St. Paul-Chicago segment and the Federal Railroad Administration has provided funding for the segment under the Next Generation High Speed Rail Corridor Program.

Subsection 1104(d) directs the Secretary to set-aside 3 percent of recreational trails projects to each State under this Act as a prelude to consideration for the reallocation of eligibility for costs related to feasibility studies, design, and construction of this corridor for high speed rail.

Subsection 1104(e) provides technical corrections to 23 U.S.C. 104(e) and directs the Secretary to transmit to Congress within the first 21 days of each fiscal year a written statement setting forth the reasons for or against making an apportionment in a timely manner. This subsection has been included in response to the withholding of apportionments in fiscal year 1997. The apportionments were held up for several months due to an error in crediting receipts into the Highway Trust Fund. Ultimately, a correction was made resulting in the redistribution of nearly $1 billion in Federal-aid highway funds. The withholding was done administratively. This amendment would require a written explanation of any withholdings in the future.

Subsection 1104(f) amends the metropolitan planning set-aside provision in 23 U.S.C. 104(f) by deleting the references to outdated funding programs and providing that the set-aside shall not be deducted from funds made available for the recreational trails program.

Subsection 1104(g) directs the Secretary to apportion funds available to the States for the recreational trails program as follows: 50 percent equally among eligible States and 50 percent in amounts proportional to the degree to which such States provide nonFederal-aid fuel use in each such eligible State. This subsection also directs the Secretary to set aside 3 percent of recreational trails projects to each State under this Act for administrative and research costs of the program.

Subsection 1104(h) provides the table referenced in the NHS apportionment formula.

Subsection 1104(i) requires that up-to-date data be used for formulas. Subsection 1104(j) provides the mechanism for adjustments to programs in fiscal year 1998 to take into consideration the Surface Transportation Extension Act of 1997 (STEA) which provided funds to the Highway Trust Fund for a portion of fiscal year 1998. The STEA requires that the Secretary deduct any funds received under that Act from any apportionments made by this Act for fiscal year 1998. Subsection (j) also requires that the Secretary ensure that the total apportionments to each State under this Act are reduced by the amount apportioned to each such State under the STEA.

Senate amendment

Subsection 1104(b) sets forth the process by which the Secretary is required to reduce the amounts made available under this Act for fiscal year 1998 by the amounts made available under the Surface Transportation Extension Act of 1997.

Subsection 1104(i) provides for the basis for distributing apportioned funds among the States. This basis includes provisions for apportioning funds to the following programs: Interstate and National Highway System, the congestion mitigation program, the high speed rail corridor program, the surface transportation program, and other apportionment adjustments, using current indicators to measure the needs, expenditures, and conditions of the Federal-aid highway system, and air quality severity in nonattainment and maintenance areas.
Subsection 1102(a) replaces the apportionment formulas provided in ISTEA with apportionments based on current transportation measurements in each state. By contrast, ISTEA apportioned a majority of NHS funds to states based on each State's historical share of apportionments received in 1987 through 1991.

To ensure an efficient and competitive transportation network into the 21st century, this section provides for the use of indicators that measure the needs, condition, extent, and use of the Nation's transportation network today. Many apportionment factors used in this section are drawn upon the suggested alternate apportionment formula suggested in the General Accounting Office's report, "Highway Funding, Alternatives for Distributing Federal Funds," November 1991.

The Interstate and National Highway System (INHS) program funds are apportioned in three components. The Interstate maintenance component of INHS is apportioned based on a State's share of total Interstate land miles and total Interstate vehicle miles traveled within the State. The Interstate bridge component is distributed according to the State's share of total square footage of structurally deficient and functionally obsolescent Interstate bridges within the State. The National Highway System component is distributed based on a State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials (excluding Interstate lane miles), (2) total vehicle miles traveled on principal arterials (excluding Interstate lane miles), (3) total diesel fuel use, and (5) total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The apportionment formula guarantees a minimum of 1/2 of 1 percent of funds apportioned under the INHS program. This section also preserves the basic structure of the apportionment formula for the Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement (CMAQ) program, using population and the severity of air pollution as the apportionment factors. The apportionment formula for CMAQ adds a weighting for carbon monoxide nonattainment and maintenance areas, ozone maintenance areas, and submarginal ozone nonattainment areas. These areas were added because they are required under the Clean Air Act to adhere to maintenance plans designed to reduce air pollution. As in current law, each state is guaranteed a minimum share of 1/2 of 1 percent of total apportionments based on CMAQ apportionment formulas.

The Surface Transportation Program (STP) funds are apportioned based on a State's share of the following: (1) total Federal-aid highway lane miles, (2) total vehicle miles traveled on Federal-aid highways, (3) total square footage of deficient bridges on Federal-aid highways (excluding deficient bridges on the Interstate and other principalarterial networks), (4) diesel fuel use, and (5) total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The apportionment formula guarantees a minimum of 1/2 of 1 percent of funds apportioned under the STP program.

Subsection 1102(b) provides that deposits into the Highway Trust Fund as a result of section 9001(e) of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 shall be accounted for in determining any State's apportionments or allocations under titles 23, United States Code, or this Act.

In all cases, the factors to be used in the apportionment formulas are to be based on the latest available data and are to be updated periodically.

Subsection 1102(e) amends 23 U.S.C. 104(i) to authorize the Secretary to use administrative funds to reimburse the Office of the Inspector General for certain Transportation for annual audits of financial statements in accordance with 31 U.S.C. 3521.

Subsection 1102(f) makes technical changes to 23 U.S.C. 104(e) concerning notification to States and to 23 U.S.C. 104(f) concerning the metropolitan planning set-aside. The purpose of these changes is to address the congressional direction to the Secretary to ensure metropolitan areas with the metropolitan planning requirements continued from current law.

Subsection 1103 replaces the provisions concerning the apportionment of funds for programs for which funds are apportioned or set-aside under 23 U.S.C. 104 and 107. The new provisions include several modifications to the INHS program. The Conference substitute amends section 104 to provide that the INHS program is to be set aside from surface transportation program funds in each of fiscal years 1993 to 2003 to be allocated by the Secretary to authorize the Secretary to set aside Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects.

Subsection 1103(c) requires the Secretary to report annually to Congress a set-aside report that provides for the Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects. The INHS program is to be apportioned as follows: 25 percent based on each State's share of total diesel fuel used on highways, 40 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 15 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 10 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, and 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The Conference substitute amends section 104(m) to require the Secretary to submit to Congress an annual, rather than monthly, report on States' obligation amounts and unobligated balances for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs.

Subsection 1103(d) amends 23 U.S.C. 104(a) to redefine 104(a) to make clear that the Federal share of project costs are to be apportioned based on current transportation measurements and 25 percent based on each State's share of total diesel fuel used on highways, 40 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 10 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, and 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The Conference substitute amends section 104(i) to require the Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects to be apportioned based on current transportation measurements and 25 percent based on each State's share of total diesel fuel used on highways, 40 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 10 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, and 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The Conference substitute amends section 104(a) to require the Secretary to set aside Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects. The INHS program is to be apportioned as follows: 25 percent based on each State's share of total diesel fuel used on highways, 40 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 10 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, and 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The Conference substitute amends section 104(m) to require the Secretary to submit to Congress an annual, rather than monthly, report on States' obligation amounts and unobligated balances for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs.

Subsection 1103(e) amends 23 U.S.C. 104(a) to require the Secretary to set aside Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects. The INHS program is to be apportioned as follows: 25 percent based on each State's share of total diesel fuel used on highways, 40 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 10 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, and 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The Conference substitute amends section 104(m) to require the Secretary to submit to Congress an annual, rather than monthly, report on States' obligation amounts and unobligated balances for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs.

Subsection 1103(f) amends 23 U.S.C. 104(d) to fund Operation Lifesaver as a set-aside from the surface transportation program, rather than from the administrative takedown for the Federal-aid highway program. This section also increases the funding for Operation Lifesaver from $300,000 to $500,000 for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003. The funds shall be used for public education programs designed to reduce the number of accidents, deaths and injuries at highway-rail intersections and with railroad rights-of-way.

Supplemental funding is designed to be set aside from surface transportation program funds in each of fiscal years 1993 to 2003 to be allocated by the Secretary to authorize the Secretary to set aside Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects.

Subsection 1103(g) requires the Secretary to report annually to Congress a set-aside report that provides for the Federal share of project costs for metropolitan planning projects. The INHS program is to be apportioned as follows: 25 percent based on each State's share of total diesel fuel used on highways, 40 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, 10 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles, and 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate lane miles. The Conference substitute amends section 104(m) to require the Secretary to submit to Congress an annual, rather than monthly, report on States' obligation amounts and unobligated balances for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs.

Subsection 1103(h) amends 23 U.S.C. 104 to require the Secretary to submit to Congress an annual, rather than monthly, report on States' obligation amounts and unobligated balances for Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement (CMAQ) program funds, with several modifications. The Conference adopts a substitute provision which contains several modifications. The Conference adopts a combination of the House formula and a modified Senate formula for apportioning National Highway System program funds. After setting aside $16 million for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 for the territories and $18.8 million for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 for the Alaska Highway System, the remainder shall be apportioned as follows: 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; 30 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; 35 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; 35 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; and 10 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes.

The previously selected rail corridors under the program are: (1) San Diego to Sacramento; (2) Toledo to Milwaukee; (3) Miami to Tampa, FL; (4) Washington, D.C. to Charlotte, NC; (5) Vancouver, B.C. to Eugene, OR. The New York City-Albany-Buffalo corridor is an example of a project that meets the intent of this section because of its current travel at high rates of speed and its level of ridership. Section 1221 adds a new subsection to 23 U.S.C. 104. This new section requires the Secretary to transfer funds under the railway-highway crossing hazard elimination in high speed rail corridors program for a Gulf Coast high speed rail corridor. The Conference substitute amends section 1131(a) to replace the Senate provision concerning the percentage of the administrative takedown for the Federal-aid highway program. The Conference substitute adopts a substitute provision which contains portions of both the House and Senate apportionment formulas, with several modifications. The Conference adopts a combination of the House formula and a modified Senate formula for apportioning National Highway System program funds. After setting aside $16 million for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 for the territories and $18.8 million for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 for the Alaska Highway System, the remainder shall be apportioned as follows: 5 percent based on each State's share of total lane miles of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; 30 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; 35 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes; and 10 percent based on each State's share of total vehicle miles traveled on lanes of principal arterials, excluding Interstate routes.
House and Senate formulas for apportioning Interstate maintenance (IM) funds (retaining a separate IM formulas, as in the House bill) and apportionments such as follows: 33 1/3 percent based on State vehicle miles traveled, 50 percent based on State vehicle miles on Interstate routes open to traffic, 33 1/3 percent based on each State’s share of vehicle miles traveled on certain designated metropolitan planning set-asides, 33 1/3 percent based on each State’s share of non-urban freight transportation. The conference adopts the Senate’s $25.5 million funding level for the High Speed Rail Corridors program, includes funding under the program for state specific corridors that were included in both the Senate and the House bills and reports, and includes the Senate bill’s criteria for the Secretary to consider in selecting corridors, and authorizes $15 million to be appropriated for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 to carry out this subsection. The conference subsection in subsection 1103(k) of the Senate bill, which reflects the Administration’s view that the $500,000 in funding improvements to the Minneapolis/St. Paul-Chicago segment to the Midwest High Speed Rail Corridor. In subsection 1103(l), the conference adopts the House provision concerning certification of apportionments and notice to the House and Senate by the Secretary when apportionments are not made in a timely manner.

In subsection 1103(e), the conference adopts the House provision amending the definition of “light rail system” to exclude rail service in the metropolitan planning set-aside provision in 23 U.S.C. 104(f) and the Senate provision technically amending 104(f)(3) concerning the Federal share.

In subsection 1103(m), the conference adopts the Senate provision authorizing an administrative takedown for the recreational trails program, with a modification. The Conference provision modifies the maximum permissible percentage the Secretary can deduct for administration, research, and technical assistance costs from 3 percent to 3 1/2 percent. The House and Senate provisions apportioning Recreational Trails program funds are the same, and this apportionment formula is not changed in this conference report.

In subsection 1103(g), the conference adopts the Senate provision concerning audits of the Highway Trust Fund.

In subsection 1103(h), the conference adopts the two Senate provisions concerning reports on obligations, with a modification to combine both provisions in a single subsection.

In subsection 1103(i), the conference adopts the Senate provision concerning the transfer of highway and transit funds, with a modification that would authorize the Secretary to apply only publicly-owned intercity or intracity passenger rail line is not adopted.

In subsection 1103(j), the conference adopts the Senate provision concerning the effect of certain delay in deposits into the Highway Trust Fund.

In subsection 1103(k), the conference adopts the Senate provision making technical amendments to 23 U.S.C. 104(f), with a modification striking the clause in 104(f)(1) excluding funds apportioned from the metropolitan planning set-aside.

In subsection 1103(l), the conference adopts the majority of the Senate provisions making modifications to 23 U.S.C. 157, United States Code, to correct references therein to 23 U.S.C. 104 and the Senate provision repealing 23 U.S.C. 150, which is out of date.

In subsection 1103(m), the conference adopts the House provision on adjustments for the Surface Transportation Extension Act of 1997 (STEA), with a modification providing that the STEA obligation authority shall be considered to be an amount of obligation authority available for the fiscal year under this Act, and excluding Massachusetts from the provision offsetting the State’s STEA funds from the State’s fiscal year 1998 authorizations under this Act.

Subsection 1103(n), provides that for purposes of apportioning funds for Federal-aid highway programs under 23 U.S.C. 104, 105, 106, and 107(a)(1) for any of the 50 States and the District of Columbia. This definition differs from the definition used in U.S.C. 23 in that it does not include the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

Subsection 1103(o) makes several technical corrections to 23 U.S.C. 104.

SEC. 1104. MINIMUM GUARANTEE

House bill

Subsection 1111(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 157 to direct the Secretary to allocate minimum location funds for fiscal year 1998 and thereafter, and it specifies the programs that are subject to the minimum allocation calculation in such provision. It provides that a State is guaranteed a ninety-five percent return in its formula program funds compared to its percentage contribution to the Highway Trust Fund, rather than the current ninety percent.

Subsection 1111(b) provides that a State may use funds it receives under the minimum allocations, under any purpose eligible under the surface transportation program.

Subsection 1111(c) makes conforming amendments to 23 U.S.C. 157.

Subsection 1111(d) ensures that no State that is a net donor to the Highway Trust Fund receives a percentage of total Federal-Aid highway program funds that is less than the percentage it received in the last year of ISTEA.

Subsection 1111(e) ensures that after making all the prior calculations under 23 U.S.C. 157, no State shall receive a final Highway Trust Fund return of less than ninety percent.

Senate amendment

Subsections 1112(c) and (d) replace the existing five apportionment adjustments with two apportionment adjustments, the ISTEA transition and the minimum guarantee adjustment. The ISTEA transition adjustment is a ceiling (a “maximum transition”) and a floor (a “minimum transition”) for this adjustment. The maximum transition ensures that a State’s apportionments under this section may not increase by more than a specified percentage (e.g., 45 percent in 1998) over its ISTEA average funding level. The minimum transition adjustment provides that State’s apportionments will either: (1) increase by a specified percentage (e.g., at least 7 percent in fiscal year 1998) from the average of any apportionment under the ISTEA (excluding funds apportioned for Interstate Construction, Interstate Substitution, the so-called “Hold Harmless” program, and the Federal-aid highway program), or (2) be equal to at least the amount that a State received in fiscal year 1997 from all apportioned programs in ISTEA, excluding Hold Harmless and感兴趣项目。The other apportionment adjustment provides a minimum guarantee based on total apportioned funds. This minimum guarantee is divided into two components. The first component provides that a State will receive a minimum share of total apportioned funds equal to 90 percent of its share of contributions into the Highway Trust Fund. The second component guarantees to each State 90 percent of the minimum allocation under current law. The minimum guarantee is actually achieved if the 90 percent minimum allocation calculation was modified to apply to all apportioned funds, States would come close to reaching a 90 percent guarantee, but not reach that 90 percent guarantee, because the 90 percent minimum allocation received by one State diluted the percentage for all other States. The 90 percent guarantee calculation in ISTEA I eliminates this problem and achieves at least a 90 percent guarantee for all States. The amount apportioned to each State under the first component of the minimum guarantee calculation will vary as each State’s share of contributions varies from year to year.

The second component of the minimum guarantee provides a minimum share for States listed in the table in the new section 1105(b) and title 23. This calculation applies to States with unique characteristics such as low population density or small land areas.

Conference substitute

In section 1104, the conference adopts the Senate’s minimum guarantee provision, with several modifications. First, the conference amendment contains a single minimum guarantee component, which provides additional funds to ensure that each State’s percentage of total apportionments for the Interstate maintenance program, the National Highway System, the bridge program, the congestion mitigation and air quality improvement program, the surface transportation program, metropolitan planning, minimum guarantee, high priority projects, Appalachian development highway system, and recreational trails programs shall be at least 90.5 percent and shall equal the percentage for each such State listed in the table in 23 U.S.C. 105(b). Beginning in FY 1999, these percentages in the formula shall be adjusted annually to ensure that each State’s return on its percentage contributions to the Highway Trust Fund in the latest fiscal year for which data is available is at least 90.5 percent. After adjusting the percentage for any State falling below 90.5 percent, the Secretary shall normalize the remaining percentage to ensure that the total percentages is equal to 100 percent. No State shall receive less than $1 million annually in minimum guarantee funding.

Second, the conference provision states that the first $2.8 billion of minimum guarantee funds shall be available to the States for any project eligible under the surface transportation program. The amount of minimum guarantee funds in excess of $2.8 billion flow back to the States as Interstate maintenance, National Highway System, surface transportation program, bridge, and congestion mitigation and air quality improvement program funds in amounts proportional to the prior provisions for congressional districts, or apportionments to each State for each fiscal year and are added to each State’s formula apportionment for such program.

The conference’s minimum guarantee provision is codified at 23 U.S.C. 105, replacing the current section 105.

SEC. 1105. REVENUE ALIGNED BUDGET AUTHORITY

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.
Senate amendment

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute

In section 1105, the Conference adopts a provision that adds the following new section 110 to title 23, United States Code, (thereby repealing current section 110, relating to project agreements) to annually adjust highway funding levels associated with the Interstate System and making appropriate simultaneous adjustments to the Highway Trust Fund receipts. In subsection 110(a) there is included a provision that, in fiscal year 2000 and each fiscal year thereafter, the Secretary shall, in determining the amount made available for apportioned programs, take into account the annual Highway Trust Fund receipts and shall allocate an amount of funds to each State that is equal to the annual amount of Federal highway spending made available in the prior fiscal year for each State. In subsection 110(b) the Conference adopts a provision that provides for Federal-aid highway spending to be distributed to each State in proportion to each program's share of total Federal assistance. The remaining amount shall be distributed to each State in proportion to the ratio of funds authorized for all apportioned programs. The Conference directs the Secretary to be consistent with the Highway Trust Fund for all Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs. The Conference directs the Secretary to be consistent with the Highway Trust Fund for all Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs. The Conference directs the Secretary to be consistent with the Highway Trust Fund for all Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs. The Conference directs the Secretary to be consistent with the Highway Trust Fund for all Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs.

Section 1106. FEDERAL-AID SYSTEMS

House bill

Subsection 1106(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 103 to strike existing provisions for the interim eligibility and approval of the National Highway System Designation Act of 1995, and to increase the mileage of the National Highway System in accordance with the Federal-aid highway program. The Conference directs the Secretary to carry out the Federal-aid highway program and to coordinate with the Interstate System and other Federal-aid highway programs.

Subsection 1106(b) strikes the language for the designation of the National Highway System in accordance with the Federal-aid highway program. The Conference directs the Secretary to carry out the Federal-aid highway program and to coordinate with the Interstate System and other Federal-aid highway programs.

Subsection 1106(c) modifies the National Highway System to include intermodal connectors on the map submitted to Congress by the Secretary on May 24, 1995.

Subsection 1106(d) allows the National Highway System to be modified to accommodate changes in the Strategic Highway Network (SHAWNET).

Subsection 1106(e) makes several technical and conforming amendments to subsection 103(b) of title 23, United States Code.

Subsection 1106(f) makes technical amendments to subsection 1106(a) of this Act.

Subsection 1106(g) states that amendments made by this section shall not affect apportionments made under 23 U.S.C. 104 before the date of enactment of this Act.

Subsection 1106(h) directs the Secretary to report to Congress not later than 24 months after the date of enactment of this Act on the condition of and the improvements made to existing projects that serve intermodal freight transportation facilities.

Subsection 1106(i) designates the Secretary to conduct a national competition among children under the age of 14 to design a logo sign for the National Highway System.

Subsection 1106(j) designates certain routes as part of the National Highway System.

The House bill makes no changes to existing NHS eligibility, but it provides for the Secretary to carry out the Federal-aid highway program and to coordinate with the Interstate System and other Federal-aid highway programs.

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute

In subsection 1106(b), note [the second subsection 1106(b)] of this Act, the Conference adopts the Senate provision amending 23 U.S.C. 103 concerning the condition of and the improvements made to certain projects that serve intermodal freight transportation facilities. The Conference directs the Secretary to carry out the Federal-aid highway program and to coordinate with the Interstate System and other Federal-aid highway programs.

In subsection 1106(c), the Conference makes amendments to several sections in title 23, United States Code, to conform those sections to the changes made by section 1106.

In subsection 1106(d), the Conference adopts the House provision on the inter-modal corridor study. The study was required by ISTEA and the Conference determined that there was a need for the planning process, availability of funding, and other issues identified by the Secretary.

SEC. 1107. INTERSTATE MAINTENANCE PROGRAM

House bill

Section 105 of the House bill amends 23 U.S.C. 119 to modify the Interstate maintenance program to restore construction of segments of the Interstate as an eligible activity. It also eliminates the annual certification requirement, and it updates the listing of routes eligible for funding under the program.

Section 113 establishes a new program to fund major reconstruction or improvement projects on the Interstate system. In order to be eligible, a project must cost over $200 million or cost more than 50 percent of a State's Federal-aid highway apportionments; it must be ready to go to construction; the State must agree to not transfer funds appropriated for Interstate maintenance projects to MoU projects; and the funds must be obligated within one year. Two-thirds of the funds are allocated to the States in the ratio that each State's cost of eligible projects bears to the total national cost of eligible projects. For the years 1998 through 2003, these funds are to be distributed based on the Interstate projects that are eligible for Interstate maintenance projects. The remainder of the funds are allocated on a discretionary basis. If funds cannot be used in any given fiscal year, the extra funds are apportioned as Interstate maintenance funds. Projects must be included within the planning process. The Secretary is required to report on the expected future need to reconstruct the Interstate System and to recommend methods for apportioning the funds.

Senate amendment

Section 1118 amends 23 U.S.C. 104 to direct the Secretary to set aside a total of $100 million from the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS apportionment, to be obligated at the discretion of the Secretary for the reconstruction, rehabilitation, or reconstruction of any route on the Interstate system or for the replacement, rehabilitation, or seismic retrofit of a highway bridge component.

Section 1118 adds a new paragraph 104(k)(3) to title 23, United States Code, which provides that the Secretary may award funds under this program for Interstate 4R projects to those States the Secretary determines (1) will obligate funds provided under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS apportionment, to be obligated at the discretion of the Secretary for the reconstruction, rehabilitation, or reconstruction of any route on the Interstate system or for the replacement, rehabilitation, or seismic retrofit of a highway bridge component.

Section 1118 adds a new paragraph 104(k)(3) to title 23, United States Code, which provides that the Secretary may award funds under this program for Interstate 4R projects to those States the Secretary determines (1) will obligate funds provided under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS apportionment, to be obligated at the discretion of the Secretary for the reconstruction, rehabilitation, or reconstruction of any route on the Interstate system or for the replacement, rehabilitation, or seismic retrofit of a highway bridge component, and (2) where the ratio of its percentage of total national cost of eligible projects to eligible States for Interstate 4R projects is less than its percentage of Federal-aid highway apportionments and allocations under sections 1103 through 1106 of ISTEA and the funds apportioned to it for the Interstate maintenance component of the INHS program and (2) change the rules regarding the ability to transfer these funds to other Federal programs and to use a portion of these funds for the construction of single-occupant vehicle lanes.

Current law allows a State to transfer up to 20 percent of its Interstate maintenance apportionment to other program categories without the Secretary's approval. Transfers above the 20 percent amount need to be approved by the Secretary. Section 1209 would increase the percentage of funds that a State may transfer from the Interstate components of the INHS program to 30 percent.

Section 1209 also provides that if a State certifies to the Secretary that the sums appropriated to it for the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS program are in excess of its Interstate needs, it may transfer an additional 20 percent of these Interstate component funds to its apportionments under the NHS or STP program.

This section lists the activities eligible for funds apportioned under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs. In general, this section continues the prohibition against using apportionments provided under the Interstate components of the INHS program for the construction of new travel lanes that are not high occupancy vehicle (HOV) lanes. This section does allow, however, a State to use 30 percent of its STP funds for transportation enhancement activities. This is a reduction from current law which requires 10 percent set-aside. This section also allows the Secretary to advance transportation enhancement funds without a State's certification of its public outreach involvement process associated with transportation enhancement projects. This section requires the Secretary to implement the surface transportation enhancement program.

In subsection 1107(a), the Conference provision adopts language that was included in both the House and Senate bills to expand 1M program eligibility to include projects to reconstruct routes on the Interstate system. The Conference also adopts the House provision updating the listing of routes eligible for Interstate maintenance funds and eliminating the annual certification requirement.

In subsection 1107(b), the Conference provision amends 23 U.S.C. 118 to revise and update the current Interstate discretionary program. Subsection 1107(b) directs the Secretary to set aside $50 million for fiscal year 1998 and $100 million for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 for the reconstruction of Interstate maintenance funds for resurfacing, restoring, rehabilitating, and reconstructing Interstate routes and toll roads on the Interstate system.

In subsection 1107(c), the Conference provision amends 23 U.S.C. 118 to increase the amount of funds available for the Interstate component of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs. This section lists the activities eligible for funds apportioned under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs.

This section includes the activities eligible for funds under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs. This section includes the activities eligible for funds under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs.

This section includes the activities eligible for funds under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs. This section includes the activities eligible for funds under the Interstate maintenance and Interstate bridge components of the INHS formula, which include intelligent transportation systems (ITS) capital improvement programs.
Subsection 1223(c) eliminates the current requirement in 23 U.S.C. 133(e)(3)(A) that payments made by the Secretary to the States under section 133 cannot exceed the Federal share of costs incurred as of the date the State requested payment. Striking this requirement (1) conforms the current provisions of section 133 to the changes made to 23 U.S.C. 133(e)(3)(A) to increase States’ flexibility in calculating the non-Federal share of transportation enhancements projects, and (2) permits States to use the same type of non-Federal match that is used to fund intercity passenger rail infrastructure, including Amtrak; (2) publicly or privately owned passenger rail vehicles and facilities used to provide intercity passenger service by bus or rail; and (3) infrastructure-based intelligent transportation systems and associated operations and maintenance systems; and, (6) environmental restoration and pollution abatement projects carried out as part of transportation projects. This section also expands STP funding eligibility to include natural habitat mitigation under the same circumstances in which wetlands mitigation is currently eligible for STP funds, and establishes a preference for the use of mitigation banking.

ISTEA was a landmark law in that it gave the States unprecedented flexibility in spending Federal-aid highway funds. This section increases the flexibility of the original ISTE A by allowing States to use their STP funds on publicly or privately owned vehicles and facilities used to provide intercity passenger service by bus or rail; and, (3) infrastructure-based intelligent transportation systems and associated operations and maintenance systems; and, (6) environmental restoration and pollution abatement projects carried out as part of transportation projects. This section also expands STP funding eligibility to include natural habitat mitigation under the same circumstances in which wetlands mitigation is currently eligible for STP funds, and establishes a preference for the use of mitigation banking.

In subsection 1108(a), the Conference provides that the Secretary may amend the Secretary’s provisions adding STP eligibility to include bridge projects that exceed $10 million in costs or represent costs that exceed twice the amount of funds that States receive under the bridge program.

In subsection 1108(f), the Conference adopts the House provision eliminating the voucher-by-voucher process and permitting a more flexible non-Federal match.

In subsection 1108(e), the Conference adopts the Senate provision regarding surface transportation program allocations in urbanized areas.

In subsection 1108(f), the Conference adopts the House provision up to 15 percent of STP funds to be used on minor collectors in rural areas, with the modification that the Secretary may suspend the application of this provision in any area determining that it is being used excessively.

In subsection 1108(g), the Conference adopts the House provision encouraging the use of youth corps to perform transportation enhancement projects.

The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision eliminating the percentage of STP funds set-aside for transportation enhancement activities.

Conference substitute

In subsection 1108(a), the Conference provides that the Secretary may amend the Secretary’s provisions adding STP eligibility to include bridge projects that exceed $10 million in costs or represent costs that exceed twice the amount of funds that States receive under the bridge program.

In subsection 1108(f), the Conference adopts the House provision eliminating the voucher-by-voucher process and permitting a more flexible non-Federal match.

In subsection 1108(e), the Conference adopts the Senate provision regarding surface transportation program allocations in urbanized areas.

In subsection 1108(f), the Conference adopts the House provision up to 15 percent of STP funds to be used on minor collectors in rural areas, with the modification that the Secretary may suspend the application of this provision in any area determining that it is being used excessively.

In subsection 1108(g), the Conference adopts the House provision encouraging the use of youth corps to perform transportation enhancement projects.

The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision eliminating the percentage of STP funds set-aside for transportation enhancement activities.

Section 10. HIGHWAY BRIDGE PROGRAM

House bill

Subsection 107(a) amends the bridge program to allow States to use up to 15 percent of STP funds to be used on minor collectors in rural areas, with the modification that the Secretary may suspend the application of this provision in any area determining that it is being used excessively.

In subsection 1108(f), the Conference adopts the House provision eliminating the voucher-by-voucher process and permitting a more flexible non-Federal match.

In subsection 1108(e), the Conference adopts the Senate provision regarding surface transportation program allocations in urbanized areas.

In subsection 1108(f), the Conference adopts the House provision up to 15 percent of STP funds to be used on minor collectors in rural areas, with the modification that the Secretary may suspend the application of this provision in any area determining that it is being used excessively.

In subsection 1108(g), the Conference adopts the House provision encouraging the use of youth corps to perform transportation enhancement projects.

The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision eliminating the percentage of STP funds set-aside for transportation enhancement activities.

program in 1995 through 1997 to other Federal-aid transportation projects are not eligible for an allocation from this set-aside. New paragraph 104(k)(2) also requires the Secretary to allocate $10 million in Interstate maintenance component funds set aside under this section to eligible States for Interstate 4R and bridge projects. An eligible State is a State (1) that ranks among the lowest 10 percent of all States in per capita personal income, (2) where the ratio of its percentage of total Federal-aid highway program apportionments for fiscal years 1998 through 2003 to its percentage of estimated contributions to the Highway Trust Fund for the same period is less than 1.00, and (3) where the State's percentage of total Federal-aid highway program apportionments for fiscal years 1998 through 2003 is less than its percentage of total Federal-aid highway program apportionments and allocations under section 1103 through 1106 of ISTEA. The Secretary, in consultation with the EPA Administrator and maintains the basic eligibility criteria and modifies the eligibility provision for projects that were eligible under section 1109, the Conference adopts the House provision amending 23 U.S.C. 144, with the following modifications: (1) a comparison of the costs of the discretionary bridge program in fiscal year 1998, the Conference substitute sets aside $25 million of bridge program apportionments and provides that such funds shall be available only for the seismic retrofit of the Golden Gate Bridge in California. For each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003, the Conference substitute sets aside $25 million of bridge program apportionments and provides that not exceed $25 million of such funds shall be available for projects for the seismic retrofit of bridges on projects in the New Madrid fault region.

In expanding bridge program eligibility to include anti-icing and de-icing compositions, Section 111(a) of the House bill clarifies that the Secretary is to implement the CMAQ program. Subsection 1110(b) makes various changes to Section 1122, the Senate provision amending 23 U.S.C. 149(b) relating to eligible projects. It makes programs that reduce motor vehicle emissions that are caused by extreme cold start conditions eligible under the CMAQ program and codifies currently eligible activities under the CMAQ program. Subsection 1122(a) sets aside $100 million of bridge program apportionments and allocations under section 1103 through 1106 of ISTEA. The Conference substitute adopts provisions from the Senate bill to allocate CMAQ funds to such entities. This section also defines eligible alternative fuel projects.

The Conference substitute adopts provisions from both the House and Senate bills. In subsection 1110(c), the Conference adopts the Senate provision regarding the eligible uses of CMAQ funds by States receiving the minimum CMAQ apportionment. In subsection 1110(d), the Conference adopts the Senate provisions regarding partnerships with nongovernmental entities and alternative fuel projects, with a modification that directs the Secretary to cooperate with certain water-phased hydrocarbon fuel emulsion technologies to reduce emissions of hydrocarbon, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, or nitrogen oxides from motor vehicles. In subsection 1110(e), the Conference adopts the Senate amendment regarding the study of the effectiveness of the CMAQ program, with the following modifications: (1) the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, rather than the Secretary, is to implement the program; (2) the projects to be examined to include allocation of the negative effects of traffic congestion, (c) a comparison of the costs of achieving air pollution emissions reductions under the program to the costs that would be incurred if similar reductions were achieved by other measures, and (d) recommendations to extend the scope of the program to address traffic-related improvements not currently covered by the program.

SEC. 1111. FEDERAL SHARE

House bill

Subsection 120(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 120(c) to provide that the Federal share of the cost of priority control systems for transit vehicles at signalized intersections may be 100 percent.

Subsection 120(b) amends title 23 to allow a State to use revenues generated through tolls as its non-Federal matching share of projects costs funded under title 23 other than emergency relief projects or projects under chapter 53 of title 49, United States Code. A State may do so only if it agrees to enter into an agreement with the Secretary that the State maintains its non-Federal capital expenditures at or above the average level for the previous three years. This provision is a continuation of a program established by ISTEA.

Subsection 13(c) technically amends the Federal share provisions of 23 U.S.C. 120(a) and (b) to move from a strict percentage to a limitation. This change allows for an increased non-Federal share at a State’s option. It does not allow the Secretary to impose a requirement that the non-Federal share maintain its current level of effort test, and therefore, must maintain its non-Federal share provisions of 23 U.S.C. 120(a) and (b). The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision giving States the option to determine a lower Federal share for projects that were significantly disadvantaged in achieving air pollution emissions reductions under the program to the costs that would be incurred if similar reductions were achieved by other measures, and (d) recommendations to extend the scope of the program to address traffic-related improvements not currently covered by the program.

Senate amendment

Subsection 1112(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 120 to allow a State to apply the Federal share of a Federal-aid highway project. This change will give States the flexibility to carry out more projects than would be possible with a straight 20 percent non-Federal share. Nothing in this section is intended to require a State to lower the Federal share payable on any project funded under this Act. Section 1122(a) also codifies in 23 U.S.C. 120 a provision established in section 104 of ISTEA which allows States to apply all revenues used for specified capital improvement projects in an F-Federal share for projects of 23 U.S.C. 120(c) other than emergency relief projects. To receive this credit, a State must meet a maintenance of effort test. The Conference allows States to drop a “high year” from the three year maintenance of effort test, if that year is at least 130 percent greater than the average for the two other preceding years.

Paragraph 1122(b)(1) makes conforming amendments to 23 U.S.C. 130 concerning railway highway grade crossing projects.

Conference substitute

In subsection 1111(a), the Conference adopts the Senate provision giving States the option to determine a lower Federal share for a project than the one determined under 23 U.S.C. 120(a) and (b). The Conference does not adopt the House provision technically amending the Federal share provisions in 23 U.S.C. 120(a) and (b).

In subsection 1111(b), the Conference adopts the House provision permitting an increased Federal share of project costs for priority control systems for transit vehicles under title 23.

In subsection 1111(c), the Conference adopts the nearly-identical House and Senate provisions concerning States using toll revenues as a credit for the non-Federal share of project costs, with modifications. The Conference provision includes the Senate’s provision of the standard maintenance of effort test for States where any of the preceding 3 fiscal years’ non-Federal transportation capital expenditures average less than 100 percent of such expenditures for the remaining 2 preceding fiscal years. The Conference provision also clarifies that payments made by a State for the non-Federal share of Federal-aid highway projects in which the non-Federal share is considered non-Federal transportation capital expenditures.

In subsection 1111(d), the Conference adopts the Senate’s amendments to 23 U.S.C. 130 concerning railway highway grade crossing projects.

SEC. 1112. RECREATIONAL TRAILS PROGRAM

House bill

Section 114 codifies the Recreational Trails program authorized in ISTEA as 23 U.S.C. 206. The program distributes to States a portion of gas tax revenues attributable to non-highway uses for trails projects. The Secretary is required to administer this program for the purpose of providing and maintaining recreational trails. The Federal share of the cost of any recreational trails project under this section does not exceed 50 percent of project costs, but States are given the flexibility to meet this requirement on a program-wide basis. Federal agency project sponsors must meet project requirements, pay project costs, and certain other Federal programs can be used as matching funds. Eligible costs include educational programs, the development, construction, rehabilitation of trails, and the acquisition of easements.

The 30 percent figures under the Assured Access to Funds requirement and the 40 percent figures under the Diversified Trail Use requirement are minimum requirements that can be exceeded. States should not treat their projects as if they were meeting three mutually exclusive categories. There can be overlap between the Diversified Trail Use requirement and the Assured Access to Funds requirement. There should be diversified motorized use projects, diversified non-motorized use projects, and projects that benefit both motorized and non-motorized use simultaneously.

Subsection 114(c) repeals the existing Recreational Trails program section in ISTEA.

Subsection 114(d) terminates the Recreational Trail Advisory Committee by the end of fiscal year 2002.

Subsection 114(e) directs the Secretary to encourage States to use qualified youth conservation or service corps to construct and maintain recreational trail projects.

Senate amendment

Section 1107 continues the existing Recreational Trails Program. Under this provision, the Recreational Trails Program is to be funded through the Diversified Trail Use Fund under the Highway Trust Fund. The annual contract authority is as follows: $17,000,000 for fiscal year 1998; $20,000,000 for fiscal year 2000; $24,000,000 for fiscal year 2001; $24,000,000 for fiscal year 2002; and $25,000,000 for fiscal year 2003. The provision of current law relating to National Recreational Trails is codified in 23 U.S.C. 206.

The Federal share payable for projects under the Recreational Trails program is increased from 50 percent to 80 percent. In addition to the Federal share of project costs, other Federal agencies may contribute additional funds from the Recreational Trails Program. However, the Federal share, using limited Federal funds, of any individual project may not exceed 80 percent; the combined share of all Federal agencies may not exceed 95 percent. The Federal share for this program is consistent with the Federal share available for other Federal-aid highway projects.

This provision retains the current requirement regarding the States’ use of annual appropriations: at least 30 percent of Federal funds must be used to facilitate non-motorized recreation; and no more than 20 percent of Federal funds must be used for motorized recreational purposes. A State must use the remaining amount of funds for diverse recreation purposes, including motorized and nonmotorized recreational trail use. Experience with implementing Recreational Trail projects in the past has shown that these projects benefit to trail projects were significantly disadvantaged in meeting the higher non-Federal matching requirements.

To the extent practicable and consistent with other requirements, States are to give consideration to projects that benefit the natural environment or mitigate and minimize impacts to the environment.

The amount that the Secretary may deduct to pay the costs of administration of the program is reduced from three percent to one percent; see section 1102 of the Act.

Subsection 120(b) directs the Secretary to terminate the National Recreational Trails Advisory Committee as soon as is practicable. The Advisory Committee was established in ISTEA and includes the review of the allocation and utilization of moneys under the Recreational Trails program; (2) establish review criteria for trail-side and trail-head facilities; and (3) recommend changes in Federal policy to advance the purposes of the program. The Advisory Committee has completed these tasks and is no longer necessary. This provision does not affect the State advisory committees that are responsible for implementing the Recreational Trails program.

Conference substitute

The Conference substitute adopts the Senate language with several modifications. The substitute clarifies that a State may use funds appropriated under this section for construction on new trails only if the construction is permissible under some other Federal law or is otherwise required by a statewide comprehensive outdoor recreational plan (SCORP) that is in effect. Due to a lack of funding for other trails, some States may not have updated SCORPs in effect; so the requirement that projects be included in a SCORP would apply only to those States that have a current updated SCORP in effect. This provision also places a cap on the amount that a State can expend on educational programs to promote safety and environmental protection at 5 percent of annual apportionments.

The substitute provision also modifies existing law to exclude all small States with a total area of less than 9,000 square miles from the requirement to expend annual apportionments for trails and trails related projects at a minimum of 30 percent for motorized recreation and 30 percent for non-motorized recreation. The substitute further provides that a State trail advisory committee may waive the motorized/nonmotorized requirement if the State notifies the Secretary that the State does not have sufficient projects to meet the diversity requirements.

This includes a modified House provision which allows States to make grants under section 104(h) to private organizations, municipal, county, and Federal government after the Secretary’s review from the recreational advisory committee for uses consistent with this section.
In subsection 112(a)(3) of the House bill, the Conference adopts the Senate provisions concerning the use of Federal funds to implement transportation planning and project selection for Indian reservations, as well as the provision allowing Indian tribes to apply directly to the Secretary for authority to conduct Indian reservation roads projects.

Senate amendment

Section 1106 retains the structure of the Federal lands highway programs (FLHP) and the process for inclusion of FLHP projects in the Statewide and Metropolitan planning process has been streamlined.

Section 1106 also authorizes Federal land management agencies to sue their program funds to provide the non-Federal share of FLHP projects. FLHP project funds may be used to provide the non-Federal share of 23 projects undertaken on projects providing access to Federal lands. The streamlining of the planning process is to be implemented through notice, and comment rulemaking process. Because many FLHP projects are constructed, improved, or maintained by the States, the views of the States are to be considered in this process. Eligibility of FLHP funds is extended to expressly include transit facilities. Federal lands highways funds are to be authorized and eligibility is important, as bus systems can reduce congestion and other negative impacts of passenger vehicle traffic on Federal lands.

Section 1122, the current requirement that States and Federal lands highways programs provide for separate allocations for public lands highways and for forest highways, is retained. Similarly, Federal lands highway programs provide for non-Federal share of any Federal-aid highway project. The current 1 percent set-aside from States’ bridge program funds to include a project to replace Indian Reservation Bridges is replaced with a $9 million non-Federal share of any Federal-aid highway project providing access to or within Federal or Indian lands.

Senate amendment

Section 1109 eliminates two obsolete tax evasion study requirements in current law. It eliminates the annual report on motor fuel tax enforcement and the report on the feasibility and desirability of using dye and marking in motor fuel tax enforcement activities.

This section codifies at 23 U.S.C. 143 and expands the successful tax evasion program in section 1040 of ISTEA. It provides $5 million in contract authority for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 to continue joint Federal Highway Administration/Internal Revenue Service (IRS) State motor fuel tax compliance projects across the Nation, as established in section 1040 of ISTEA. In addition, this section permits each State to use up to 10 percent of its Surface Transportation Program apportionments for programs to halt fuel tax evasion. All costs of tax evasion projects are to be paid by the Federal government.

This section also authorizes an additional $8 million for the Secretary to complete the development of an excise fuel reporting system, as well as $2 million annually for the operation and maintenance of the system. This system will provide essential information regarding the sampling and refinement of motor fuel to compare with terminal fuel receipts and fuel deliveries. This new program, along with the continuing programs, is intended to ensure that the successful, coordinated regional and national approach to combat fuel tax fraud can continue and improve.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision with some modifications. The Conference substitute expressly provides the excise fuel reporting system with authority to assess a lump sum amount of funding for fuel tax evasion projects each year ($10 million in fiscal year 1998 and $5 million for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003), and provides that priority be given to the establishment and operation of an automated fuel reporting system by the IRS.

Section 1115, Federal Lands Highway Program

House bill

Subsection 117(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 120 to enable Federal land managing agencies to provide the non-Federal share of any Federal-aid highway project. Similarly, Federal lands highway programs provide for the non-Federal share of any Federal-aid highway project providing access to or within Federal or Indian lands.

Subsection 117(b) amends 23 U.S.C. 202 to provide for separate allocations for public lands highways and for forest highways. ISTEA established them as one program with different methods of distribution. This subsection reconstitutes them as separate programs and sets forth the method of allocating funds for the two programs. The public lands funds are allocated through an administrative formula. The forest highway program allocation is based on a statutory formula. This subsection also provides that, for fiscal year 2000 and thereafter, all Indian Reservation Roads funds shall be allocated in accordance with a formula established in regulations under a negotiated rulemaking process.

Subsection 117(c) amends 23 U.S.C. 203 to clarify what constitutes the point of obligation of funds (at which the Federal government is required to pay its contribution to project costs) under the Federal-aid highways program.

Subsection 117(d) amends 23 U.S.C. 204 to reflect the new separate public lands and forest highways programs and to increase the flexibility of transportation planning with respect to Federal lands highways programs. Regional significance of transportation projects funded from the Federal lands highways program be coordinated with States and metropolitan planning organizations (MPOs), and that once the Federal lands highways program transportation improvement program (TIP) is approved by the Secretary, the TIP shall be used to pay the Federal and non-Federal share of the metropolitan planning organization plans without further action by the States or MPOs. Subsection 117(d) also revises 23 U.S.C. 206 to authorize the Secretary to transfer public lands highways funds to the appropriate Federal land managing agency to cover both the administrative and the project costs of the agency. Section 117(d) also requires that up to 1 percent of Indian Reservation Roads funds be set aside for transportation-related administrative costs of the management agencies, and it directs the Secretary to establish a pilot program to permit no more than $10 million to be transferred to the Secretary to provide transportation-related administrative costs of the management agencies.

Senate amendment

Subsection 117(b) amends 23 U.S.C. 120 to provide for separate allocations for public lands highways and for forest highways. ISTEA established them as one program with different methods of distribution. This subsection reconstitutes them as separate programs and sets forth the method of allocating funds for the two programs. The public lands funds are allocated through an administrative formula. The forest highway program allocation is based on a statutory formula. This subsection also provides that, for fiscal year 2000 and thereafter, all Indian Reservation Roads funds shall be allocated in accordance with a formula established in regulations under a negotiated rulemaking process.

Subsection 117(c) amends 23 U.S.C. 203 to clarify what constitutes the point of obligation of funds (at which the Federal government is required to pay its contribution to project costs) under the Federal-aid highways program.

Subsection 117(d) amends 23 U.S.C. 204 to reflect the new separate public lands and forest highways programs and to increase the flexibility of transportation planning with respect to Federal lands highways programs. Regional significance of transportation projects funded from the Federal lands highways program be coordinated with States and metropolitan planning organizations (MPOs), and that once the Federal lands highways program transportation improvement program (TIP) is approved by the Secretary, the TIP shall be used to pay the Federal and non-Federal share of the metropolitan planning organization plans without further action by the States or MPOs. Subsection 117(d) also revises 23 U.S.C. 206 to authorize the Secretary to transfer public lands highways funds to the appropriate Federal land managing agency to cover both the administrative and the project costs of the agency. Section 117(d) also requires that up to 1 percent of Indian Reservation Roads funds be set aside for transportation-related administrative costs of the management agencies, and it directs the Secretary to establish a pilot program to permit no more than $10 million to be transferred to the Secretary to provide transportation-related administrative costs of the management agencies.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision amending 23 U.S.C. 204 to allow the Secretary to pay the Federal share of Federal lands highway projects and to transfer public lands highways funds to the appropriate Federal land managing agency to cover both the administrative and the project costs of the agency. Subsection 117(d) also requires that up to 1 percent of Indian Reservation Roads funds be set aside for transportation-related administrative costs of the management agencies, and it directs the Secretary to establish a pilot program to permit no more than $10 million to be transferred to the Secretary to provide transportation-related administrative costs of the management agencies. The Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions concerning the use of Federal-aid funds for transportation planning and agency coordination are substantially equivalent. The Conference adopts the Senate language on this subject in subsection 1115(c).

The Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions clarifying the point of obligation for Federal lands highways program projects are substantively equivalent. The Conference adopts the Senate language on this subject in subsection 1115(d).

The Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions on streamlined transportation planning and agency coordination are substantively equivalent. The Conference adopts the Senate language on this subject in subsection 1115(d).
In subsection 1115(e), the Conference adopts a Senate proposal to establish a refuge road project as part of the Federal lands highways program, allocating $20 million for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 based on the needs of the various refuges in the National Wildlife Refuge System to fund projects to maintain and improve refuge roads and other eligible Federals lands program projects located in or adjacent to wildlife refuges.

Subsection 1115(f) makes several amendments to titles 23 to conform the provisions of that title to the changes made by this section.

Section 112 amends the National Highway System Designation Act of 1965 (40 U.S.C. App. 201.) to require the Secretary to execute an agreement with the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Bridge Authority or any Capital Region jurisdiction (Virginia, Maryland, or the District of Columbia) before funds made available under this section are available for construction of the replacement bridge.

The agreement must identify whether the Authority or Federal land management agencies will accept ownership of the new facility and must include a financial plan that identifies the total cost, schedule, and source of funds necessary to complete the project. The agreement must also (1) require that the project include at least 2 HOV, express bus, or rail transit lanes; (2) include all provisions described in the environmental impact statement for this project; and (3) require the Authority and Capital Region jurisdictions to fully involve affected States in all aspects of the project. The Secretary is authorized to use the funds made available under this section for the acquisition of new land and for the replacement bridge.

The definition of the project is modified to require that replacement bridges will be the preferred alternative identified in the record of decision in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act.

Section 112 amends the National Highway System Designation Act of 1965 (40 U.S.C. The definition of the project is modified to require that replacement bridges will be the preferred alternative identified in the record of decision in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act.
through each State, the degree of leveraging of Federal funds provided under this section, and the value of the cargo carried by commercial vehicle traffic. $125 million for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 is authorized to carry out this program.

Subsection 1116(g) provides that if the total amount of funds authorized but unallocated for the three grant programs under this section exceeds $4 million at the end of any fiscal year, the amount in excess of $4 million shall be apportioned to all States and shall be available for any purpose eligible for funds under the STP program.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House provision, with modifications.

First, subsection 1119(b) of the Conference provision creates two categories of corridors eligible for funding. The first category is those corridors identified by Congress as high priority corridors in section 1105(c) of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA). The second category consists of corridors selected by the Secretary after considering 6 factors listed. Those factors address: changes in commercial traffic due to the enactment of NAFTA, the extent to which transportation planning carried out under this section, and the value of commercial cargo. These factors only apply to the second category of corridors selected by the Secretary.

Second, in subsection 1119(c), the Conference provision conditions the use of grant funds for environmental review and construction on the Secretary's review of a corridor planning, transportation and management plan. The plan is intended to ensure that funds be used for projects that have, to the extent possible, completed environmental and financial analyses and therefore are ready to proceed. The plan will also ensure that the corridor program be used to finance useable segments and not result in the construction of corridors unconnected to existing transportation facilities. However, the plan need only be reviewed, not approved by the Secretary.

Third, the Conference adopts the Senate provision requiring that the corridor planning carried out under this section be coordinated with transportation planning carried out by State and metropolitan planning organizations along the corridor, and, to the extent appropriate, with the transportation planning activities of Federal land management agencies and tribal, Mexican, and Canadian governments.

SEC. 1119. COORDINATED BORDER INFRASTRUCTURE PROGRAM

House bill

Subsection 1119(a) establishes the coordinated border infrastructure and safety program, the purpose of which is to improve the movement of people and goods across the Nation's land borders.

Subsection 1119(b) identifies eligible uses for funds under the program. They include construction of facilities, operational improvements, modifying regulatory procedures, and international planning and coordination.

Subsection 1119(c) establishes eight criteria that are to be considered by the Secretary when allocating funds for projects.

Subsection 1119(d) requires that a certain amount of the funds provided for the program be used to construct State motor vehicle safety facilities.

Subsection 1119(e) requires that at least 40 percent of funds are used on projects on the U.S.-Canadian border and at least 40 percent of funds are used on projects on the U.S.-Mexico border; at least 2 projects on each border shall be located at high volume ports of entry.

Subsection 1119(f) specifies that funds made available for this program are contract authority.

Subsection 1119(g) defines "border region" and "border State." Senate amendment

Section 1116 of the Senate bill establishes three grant programs: (1) border crossing planning incentive grants, (2) transportation planning incentive grants, and (3) trade corridor and border infrastructure safety and congestion relief grants. Federal share of the cost of any project carried out under these grant programs shall not exceed 80 percent.

In subsection 1116(b), the Secretary is directed to make grants to States or MPOs that have certified they are engaged in joint planning with their counterparts in Mexico and Canada for joint planning activities and to improve the movement of people and vehicles through international gateways. This subsection provides $1.4 million in contract authority for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 to carry out this grant program.

In subsection 1116(d), the Secretary is directed to make grants to States or MPOs for projects to relieve traffic congestion; improve enforcement of motor carrier safety laws; or provide for continued planning and development of, and safe movement of goods along, trade corridors. The subsection includes 11 grant selection factors, including the extent to which commercial vehicle travel has increased and is expected to increase within States since the enactment of NAFTA, the extent of transportation improvements at the border or ports of entry since the enactment of NAFTA, the extent of international truck-borne commerce related to the proposed project, and the extent to which commercial vehicle traffic is expected to increase as a result of the proposed project, and the degree of demonstrated coordination with Federal inspection agencies. The Secretary is directed to make grants to States or MPOs for projects at ports of entry with high traffic volume.

In subsection 1119(d), the Conference adopts the Senate provision permitting the Secretary to transfer no more than $10 million in funding made available to carry out this section and section 1118 to the Administration for General Services to construct transportation infrastructure necessary for law enforcement in border States.

HIGH RISK ROAD SAFETY IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

House bill

Subsection 110(a) creates a new program within the Federal-aid highway program to fund construction and operational projects that improve the safety of high risk roads. States are to allocate funds under this program to those projects that have the highest benefit to cost ratio up to fifty percent of the highest benefit to cost ratio of any Federal funding provided under this program can be transferred to each State's National Highway System or Surface Transportation Program apportionments.

In subsection 110(b), the Conference adopts the Senate provision permitting the Secretary to transfer no more than $10 million in contract authority per year from the High Risk Road Safety Improvement Program to the STP Program.

The Conference adopts the Senate provision requiring that the Secretary, in carrying out this program, consider the impact of projects on surrounding communities and in accordance with any applicable provisions of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976 (as amended) and other safety organizations.

Senate amendment

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference does not adopt the House provision.

COORDINATE FEDERAL LANDS PROGRAM

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1115 establishes a new section 207 in chapter 2 of title 23, United States Code, which provides a funding source for public roads or bridges owned by States or their political subdivisions that cross, are adjacent to, or provide access to, Federal lands and Indian reservations (including reservoirs owned by the Army Corps of Engineers). The purpose of this program is to supplement the efforts of the Federal government in developing and maintaining roads or bridges that serve territorially owned lands and Indian reservations (including reservoirs owned by the Army Corps of Engineers). The Cooperative Federal Lands Transportation Program ensures that funding will be provided for projects in States where greater than 4.5 percent of the land within the State borders is held in trust or owned by the Federal government. Funds are provided directly to these States for projects that provide access to Federal lands and Indian reservations. This section provides $74 million in contract authority per year from the Highway Trust Fund.

Conference substitute

The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision.
Subsection 123(a) requires the Secretary to develop performance-based criteria for distributing up to 5 percent of Interstate main- tenance, bridge program, high risk road safety improvement program, Surface Transportation Program, and Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement program funds.

Subsection 123(b) establishes the factors the Secretary shall consider in developing the performance-based criteria.

Subsection 123(c) requires the Secretary to submit to Congress the criteria developed under this section.

The mid-course correction legislation provided for the Conference substitute provision to approve a system of performance bonuses to States pursuant to section 123.

Senate amendment
The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute
The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision defining "Federal-aid highway project," and makes minor technical corrections to the definitions.

The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision defining "Federal-aid highway funds" and "Federal-aid highway program." The Conference adopts the Senate provision amending the term "highway safety improvement project" and makes a technical correction defining, in carrying out this provision, States should minimize any negative impact on safety and access for bicyclists and pedestrians in accordance with the Secretary's guidance.

The Conference adopts the Senate provision defining "maintenance area." The Conference does not adopt the Senate provision amending the definition of "operational improvement." The Conference defines "refuge road" as a public road providing access to or within a unit of the National Wildlife Refuge System and for which title and maintenance responsibility is vested in the U.S. Government.

The Conference adopts the Senate provision defining "transportation enhancement activities," with modifications. The substitute requires that transportation enhancement activities relate, rather than have a direct link to, surface transportation. It does not include the House provision adding graffiti and litter removal as eligible activities. It retains the Senate provision regarding bicycle and pedestrian facilities. The Conference adopts a guidance that must be projects that are for transportation, rather than recreation, purposes. The Conference provisions also adopt the House provision requiring the Secretary to prescribe design guidance for accommodating bicycles and pedestrians. Senate amendment

Section 111(b) requires the Secretary to consider the safety devices such as installation of audible traffic signals and audible warning of solid white lines on highway bridges located on fully access-controlled highways. If the bridge is being replaced or rehabilitated with Federal funds, the Department is encouraged to work with the States to ensure that bicycling and pedestrian interests are represented in State and MPO decisionmaking.

This section also provides that bicyclists and pedestrians shall be given consideration in the comprehensive Statewide and metropolitan planning process. The Conference substitute also adopts the Senate provision requiring design guidance, with two modifications. First, the substitute clarifies that the guidance must include recommendations to amend and update AASHTO policies relating to highway and street design standards. Second, it extends the deadline for issuance of the guidance to 18 months. The Conference does not adopt the House provisions for the construction of bicycle transportation and pedestrian facilities, or for the construction of bicycle transportation facilities.

Conference substitute
The Conference adopts the House provision with modifications. The substitute clarifies that safety devices such as installation of audible traffic signals should be considered where appropriate. It also retains the provision in current law, 23 U.S.C. 134(i), which clarifies that eligible bicycle projects must be projects that are for transportation, rather than recreation, purposes. The Conference substitute also adopts the House provision requiring the Secretary to prescribe design guidance for accommodating bicycles and pedestrians.

Subsection 124 amends 23 U.S.C. 134 by setting seven general goals and objectives that may be adopted in the planning process. They include: supporting economic vitality; increasing safety and security; increasing accessibility and mobility; protecting the environment; integrating the transportation system; promoting efficiency; and preserving existing facilities. These replace the existing list of nineteen planning factors. The language also includes: enhancing economic vitality; promoting development of the national highway system; promoting efficiency; and preserving existing facilities. These replace the existing list of nineteen planning factors. The Conference substitute also adopts the Senate provision requiring a study of highway and street design standards. It extends the deadline for issuance of the guidance to 18 months.

Subsection 1203 requires the Secretary to consider the impact of non-motorized transportation of a Federal-aid highway project. It also requires that bicycle safety be taken into account when the Secretary decides whether to fund projects under 23 U.S.C. 130. Safety device provisions shall include installation and maintenance of audible traffic signals and audible signs. This section also requires the Secretary and AASHTO to study design standards for bicycle projects. The Conference substitute adopts the Senate provision requiring the Secretary to consider the impact of non-motorized transportation of a Federal-aid highway project. It also requires that bicycle safety be taken into account when the Secretary decides whether to fund projects under 23 U.S.C. 130. Safety device provisions shall include installation and maintenance of audible traffic signals and audible signs. This section also requires the Secretary and AASHTO to study design standards for bicycle projects. The Conference substitute adopts the Senate provision requiring the Secretary to consider the impact of non-motorized transportation of a Federal-aid highway project. It also requires that bicycle safety be taken into account when the Secretary decides whether to fund projects under 23 U.S.C. 130. Safety device provisions shall include installation and maintenance of audible traffic signals and audible signs. This section also requires the Secretary and AASHTO to study design standards for bicycle projects.

Subsection 123(d) amends the definition of "transportation enhancement activities" in 23 U.S.C. 130(a) to expressly provide that tourist and welcome center facilities associated with scenic or historic highway programs are eligible transportation enhancement projects.

Section 123(d) amends the definition of "transportation enhancement improvement" in 23 U.S.C. 101(a) to expressly provide that tourist and welcome center facilities associated with scenic or historic highway programs are eligible transportation enhancement projects.

Section 123(d) amends the definition of "transportation enhancement improvement" in 23 U.S.C. 101(a) to expressly provide that tourist and welcome center facilities associated with scenic or historic highway programs are eligible transportation enhancement projects.
current project selection process set forth in ISTEA.

This section makes the following substantive changes to current law. First, this section amends the currentNEPA regulations to clarify that transportation planning factors found in current law into seven issues to be considered in the planning process. Second, it gives States flexibility to move projects within a 3-year Transportation Improvement Program without FHWA approval if the Governor and metropolitan planning organization agree. Third, it eliminates the requirement that transportation improvement programs identify the source of funds for individual projects by Federal funding category. Fourth, this section adds freight shippers to the list of stakeholders to be given opportunities to comment on plans and transportation improvement programs (TIPs). Finally, it provides that, for urbanized areas, the planning process for this Act, metropolitan planning area boundaries shall cover at least the urbanized area and the area expected to become urbanized within the 20-year forecast period and shall require the agreement of the Governor and MPO. Such boundaries are not required to include the entire ozone or carbon monoxide nonattainment areas, as identified under the Clean Air Act.

Section 1602 reaffirms that the requirements in current law and practice. To date, State courts have affirmed that NEPA does not apply to State plans or programs continue to be subject to NEPA. The Conference substitute adopts the House provision allowing States to include an illustrative list of projects that would be included in the TIP if additional resources were available. The illustrative list does not affect the fiscal constraint requirements of the TIP.

The Conference substitute adopts the Senate provision allowing States to move projects within a three-year transportation improvement program without separate approval or action by the Federal Highway Administration if the MPO concurs. The substitute also includes a provision requiring States to consult with local officials with responsibility for transportation when formulating plans and programs.

The Conference substitute provides for hanced consultation between local officials and States when compiling the State transportation improvement programs. This consultation may occur through a variety of mechanisms, including, where appropriate, regional development organizations. In certain cases, regional development organizations may serve to ensure the participation of local officials and the public in the planning process in a coordinated manner.

The Conference substitute adopts a combination of both the Senate and House provisions. The Conference substitute retains the current structure and most of the statewide planning provisions found in current law. It retains the current project selection process set forth in ISTEA. This section makes the following substantive changes to current law. First, it streamlines the 20 statewide planning factors found in current law into seven broader issues to be considered in the planning process. Second, it gives States flexibility to move projects within a 3-year transportation improvement program without FHWA approval or action if the Governor and metropolitan planning organization agree. Third, it eliminates the requirement that transportation plans or programs continue to be subject to NEPA. The Conference substitute adopts the House provision allowing MPOs to include an illustrative list of projects that would be included in the TIP if additional resources were available. Projects undertaken pursuant to the high risk road safety program must be selected by the State in consultation with affected local officials. This section also includes a provision to study the effectiveness of local planning.

Conference substitute

The Conference substitute adopts a combination of both the Senate and House provisions. The Conference substitute retains the basic current metropolitan planning structure and processes. As included in both bills, the 16 planning factors are streamlined to seven general factors to be considered in the planning process. In considering the relationship between transportation and quality of life, metropolitan planning organizations are encouraged to consider the interaction between transportation decisions and local land use decisions appropriate to each area. The language clarifying that quality based selection process requirements to Qualifications Based Selection (QBS) be used for consistent and equitable contract administration, accounting, and audits while providing for the use of FAR QBS simplified acquisition procedures for contracts under $150,000. This clarification is provided that requires the Secretary to establish a certification procedure. to ensure that any legislation enacted by a State since November 28, 1995, to exercise its option complies with the time frames and substantivity criteria contained in Section 307 of the National Highway System Designation Act of 1995. Subsection 1225(a) allows a State to procure consultant services under a single contract for preparation of both the environmental analysis and subsequent engineering and design services if the State has conducted an independent multi-disciplined review of the objectivity of the analysis.

Conference substitute

In section 1205, the Conference adopts a substitute provision, which includes (1) the House and Senate provision striking language from 23 U.S.C. 129(b)(1)(i) and (ii) and the process for adopting alternative requirements to QBS procedures, clarifying that the time for adopting such alternative procedures does not apply to projects which do not meet the requirements for applications to QBS procedures, (2) the House provision authorizing and stating the terms under which a State may procure the services of a consultant under a single contract for both environmental analyses and engineering design work for a project.

SEC. 1206. ACCESS OF MOTORCYCLES

House bill

Section 135 specifies that State or local governments may not restrict access of motorcycles to any highway facilities for which Federal-aid funds were used.

Senate amendment

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute

In section 1206, the Conference adopts the House provision with modifications to clarify that this provision only applies to Federally-assisted highways open to traffic and to add language to the motorcycle access limitations to make the primary purpose of which is to restrict access of motorcycles. This provision does not override or affect the applicability of any local jurisdictional, safety, or other local laws or regulations which are within the jurisdiction's authority to regulate safety.

SEC. 1207. CONSTRUCTION OF FERRY BOATS AND FERRY TERMINAL FACILITIES

Subsection 121(a) provides that the funds made available under section 121(b)(3)(C) of the House bill to carry out the ferry boat and ferry terminal program authorized in section 1064 of ISTEA shall be available until expended.

Subsection 121(b) requires the Secretary to conduct a study of ferry transportation in the United States, including the territories, to identify existing ferry operations and to identify potential domestic ferry routes. The provision requires the study to be submitted to Congress.

Subsection 121(c) amends 23 U.S.C. 129(c) to expand the conditions in which Federal funds may be used in ferry construction to include public transportation facilities and to permit federally-funded ferries to be leased without the approval of the Secretary.

Senate amendment

Subsection 122 clarifies that the construction of ferry boats and ferry terminal facilities are eligible uses of National Highway System, Surface Transportation Program, and Coastal Border Air Quality Improvement program funds. This simply clarifies how the program is currently administered and does not amend or weaken any of the underlying eligibility requirements of the NHS, STP, or CMAQ programs.

Section 186 reauthorizes the ferry boat and ferry terminal program in section 1064 of ISTEA.

Subsection 187 requires the Secretary to conduct a study of ferry transportation in the United States, including the territories, to identify existing ferry operations and develop information on the ferry routes. The Secretary is required to submit the study to Congress within one year of enactment of this Act.

Conference substitute

Subsection 1207(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 129(c) to expand the eligible uses of Federal funds in ferry construction to include publicly operated or majority publicly owned ferry boats and terminal facilities, if the Secretary determines that a majority publicly owned ferry boat or terminal facility provides substantial public benefits. In subsection 1207(b), the Conference reauthorizes the ferry boat and ferry terminal facilities program in section 1064 of ISTEA and makes available to the program. The funds made available to the program shall remain available until expended, and establishes a $20 million annual set-aside for ferry boats, ferry terminal facilities, and approaches to such facilities within marine highway systems that are part of the NHS and as designated for Alaska, New Jersey and Washington State.

In subsection 1207(c) the Conference adopts the House provision requiring a study of ferry transportation, with modifications. The substitute adds language to ensure that the study includes identification of the potential for high speed and alternative-fueled ferry services. It also requires that the study be submitted to the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the United States Senate, rather than the Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee.

The Conference does not adopt the Senate language concerning ferry boat and ferry terminal facility eligibility for NHS, STP, and CMAQ funds.

SEC. 1208. TRAINING

House bill

Subsection 129(a) amends section 140(a) of title 23 to allow a State to reserve training positions for persons who receive welfare assistance, except that such placement shall not adversely impact current employees or positions.

Subsection 129(b) expands the list of eligible activities under the training program to include summer transportation institutes and training in highway technology.

Senate amendment

Subsection 2009 moves the highway construction training provisions of 23 U.S.C. 140(b) to 23 U.S.C. 506(d) to consolidate the programs into the provisions in the research subtitle. Proposed subsection 506(d) continues to allow the Secretary to develop and administer highway construction and technology training programs and to develop and fund summer transportation institutes. This section allows the Secretary to deduct up to $10 million each year before making apportionments under section 104(b) for these programs. In developing and administering these training programs, the Secretary may reserve training positions for individuals who receive welfare assistance from a State.

Subsection 1702 makes a conforming amendment to strike 23 U.S.C. 140(b).

Conference substitute

In section 1208, the Conference adopts a substitute provision. In subsection 1208(a), the Conference adopts the House provision to permit the Secretary to reserve training slots for welfare recipients, with a modification that any such reservation of training slots shall not preclude workers participating in an apprenticeship, skill improvement, or other employment program from being referred to or hired to on highway projects. In subsection 1208(b), the Conference adopts the provision included in both the Senate and House bills to include highway technology training and the development and funding of summer transportation institutes as eligible uses of funds under 23 U.S.C. 140(b).

SEC. 1209. USE OF HOV LANES BY INHERENTLY LOW EMISSION VEHICLES

House bill

Section 145 authorizes States to permit an electric vehicle with fewer than 2 occupants certified as an inherently Low Emission Vehicle to operate in high occupancy vehicle lanes until September 30, 2003, and authorizes the State to revoke this permission if the State determines it is necessary.

Senate amendment

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House provision, with a modification eliminating the requirement that the Low Emission vehicle be only an electric vehicle.

SEC. 1210. ADVANCED TRAVEL FORECASTING PROCEDURES PROGRAM

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1603 establishes a new program, the purpose of which is to provide for the completion of Advanced Travel Forecasting Procedures (ATFP), formerly known as the Transportation Analysis Simulation System (TRANSIMS), and to provide support for early deployment of ATFP programs to State governments, metropolitan planning organizations, and other transportation management areas. The ATFP model is a large-scale travel simulation that will provide a practical mechanism for transportation planning, particularly with respect to congestion, air quality, and safety, including crash prevention. A total of $4 million for fiscal year 1998; $3 million for fiscal year 1999; $6.5 million for fiscal year 2000; $5 million for fiscal year 2001; $4 million for fiscal year 2002; and $2.5 million for fiscal year 2003 in contract authority is provided.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision.

SEC. 1211. AMENDMENTS TO PRIOR SURFACE TRANSPORTATION LAWS

House bill

Subsection 134(h) repeals a requirement that the Federal government oversee certain bridge commissions created by Congress in Public Law 87-441. Such duties would be assumed by State and local authorities.

Subsection 134(a) makes certain changes and additions to Section 1105(c) of ISTEA relating to high-priority corridors.

This subsection clarifies that all of ISTEA High Priority Corridor 18 and that portion of High Priority Corridor 20 from the vicinity of Carthage, Texas, to Laredo, Texas, at the Mexican Border is included in the Interstate Route I-69. It also directs States to erect Interstate Route I-69 signs along segments that are at Interstate standards and consolidates existing Interstate designations, specifically, along U.S. 59 in the Houston area. The National Highway System Designation Act of 1995 designated Corridors 18 and 20 as future Interstates and gave States the authority to erect signs designating them as future Interstates. It is the intent of the Committee.
that States have the authority to erect signs specifically designating future Interstate Route I-69 along all of Corridor 18 and along the designated portions of Corridor 20.

As the New York State Department of Transportation submits its plans for the development of Route 219, the Federal Highway Administration is encouraged to consider, as one of the factors in its development, economic opportunities that would be afforded the Seneca Indian Nation located at the junction of Route 219 and Route 17. For example, and consistent with a facility that included a welcome center that provided traveler and tourist information would be a valuable economic development opportunity for the States involved.

Senate amendment
Section 1124 modifies section 355 of the National Highway System Designation Act of 1995 to permit New Hampshire to meet the safety belt use law requirement under 23 U.S.C. 153 through a performance requirement. Through the end of fiscal year 2000, New Hampshire’s is deemed to have met the safety belt use requirements of section 153 upon certification by the Secretary that the State has achieved: (1) a safety belt use rate in each of fiscal year 1997 through 2000 of at least 50 percent; and (2) a safety belt use rate in each succeeding fiscal year thereafter of not less than the national average safety belt use rate.

Section 1126 amends section 205 of the National Highway System Designation Act of 1995 which states that the Secretary shall not require States to use or plan to use the metric system with respect to designing, constructing, and operating Federal-aid highways. This Section does not require any State to modify its current use of the metric system for Federal-aid highway projects.

Section 129(c) establishes a motor carrier operator training facility in Minnesota. Section 129(d) establishes a motor carrier operator training facility in Pennsylvania. Section 132(a) authorizes the Secretary to fund the production of a documentary about vehicle weight provisions in 23 U.S.C. 127 with respect to certain cargo in the States of Colorado and Louisiana and with respect to certain highways in New Hampshire and Maine. Section 1410 directs the Secretary to analyze the safety, infrastructure, cost recovery, environmental, and economic implications of the operations of vehicles on Interstate Route 95 in Maine and New Hampshire and establishes a temporary moratorium on the withholding of funds from Maine and New Hampshire under 23 U.S.C. 127.
House bill

Subsection 133(h) requires the Secretary to conduct a study to determine the practices in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania regarding the use of specific service food service.

Subsection 134(i) requires a study of the impact of truck weight standards on specialized hauling vehicles.

Subsection 135(h) requires the General Accounting Office (GAO) to evaluate procurement practices and project delivery. The study shall access the impact a utility company's failure to relocate in a timely manner has on the delivery and cost of Federal-aid highway and bridge projects.

Subsection 141 directs the Transportation Research Board to conduct a study on the current laws, regulations, and practices regarding truck sizes and weights and to make recommendations taking into account impacts on transportation, environment, and service to communities.

Subsection 412 directs the Secretary to conduct a study on the effectiveness and determinants of State laws and regulations with penalties for violations of commercial vehicle weight laws. The Secretary shall issue a report to Congress not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this act.

Subsection 502 of the Senate provision establishes a motor carrier operator training facility in Minnesota.

Subsection 503 of the Senate provision on improving bicycle and pedestrian infrastructure provides language to clarify that reduction in Federal-aid highway and bridge projects shall result from this study should be made only if appropriate.

Subsection 502 of the Senate provision directs the Secretary to study the feasibility of extending high speed rail passenger service from Atlanta, Georgia, to Charleston, South Carolina.

Subsection 503 of the Senate provision directs the Secretary to report to Congress on the results of the study on September 30, 1999.

Subsection 117(f) provides funding to the Smithsonian Institution for transportation-related activities, including exhibitions and educational outreach programs, the acquisition of transportation-related artifacts, and transportation-related research programs, and authorizes $5 million annually to carry out these activities.

Subsection 117(g) directs the Secretary to conduct a comprehensive assessment of the state of transportation infrastructure on the southwest border, with a modification to ensure that the assessment of the adequacy of law enforcement and narcotics abatement activities include their relationship to infrastructure in the border area.

Subsection 133(a) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(b) of the Conference adopts the House provision on procurement practices and project delivery.

Subsection 133(c) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(d) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(e) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(f) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(g) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(h) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(i) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(j) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(k) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(l) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(m) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(n) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(o) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133(p) of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

Subsection 133{ZZ} of the Conference adopts the House provision on specialized hauling vehicles, with a modification to require the Secretary to conduct a similar study in conjunction with the National Academy of Sciences.

The Senate amendment

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.
In subsection 1214(a), the Conference adopts the House provision to study methods to improve pedestrian and vehicular access to the Chain of Rocks Bridge in St. Louis, Missouri.

In subsection 1214(b), the Conference adopts the House provision funding transportation-related exhibits, artifacts, and research at an Institute of Transportation History, but reduces the annual authorization for these activities from $5 million to $1 million.

In subsection 1214(c), the Conference adopts the House provision funding the New River Visitors Center.

In subsection 1214(d), the Conference authorizes and provides for the allocation of $1.5 million to construct part or all of an Indian reservation having a land area of 10 million acres or more.

In subsection 1214(e), the Conference directs the Secretary to make an annual $1 million grant to the Minnesota Historical Society for the establishment of the Minnesota Transportation History Network.

In subsection 1214(f), the Conference authorizes $300,000 for fiscal year 1999 for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to resurface the entrance road to the Sachuest Point National Wildlife Refuge.

In subsection 1214(g), the Conference authorizes $300,000 for fiscal year 1999 for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to remove asphalt runways at Ninigret National Wildlife Refuge.

In subsection 1214(h), the Conference authorizes $3 million for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 for the State of Rhode Island to make improvements to the T.F. Green Intermodal Facility.

In subsection 1214(i), the Conference authorizes $500,000 for fiscal year 1999 for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for the midtown visitor center at Sachuest Point National Wildlife Refuge.

In subsection 1214(j), the Conference authorizes $75,000 for fiscal year 1999 for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to pave the entrance road to the Ninigret National Wildlife Refuge.

In subsection 1214(k), the Conference authorizes $1 million for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for the education center at the Rhode Island National Wildlife Refuge complex.

In subsection 1214(l), the Conference authorizes $1 million for fiscal year 1999 for the National Park Service to revitalize the Tred Avon as a visitor center for Richmond National Battlefield Park.

In subsection 1214(m), the Conference authorizes $500,000 for each of fiscal years 1999 through 2003 to the Corps of Engineers for the State of Missouri to use to resurface and maintain city and county roads that provide access to Corps of Engineers reservoirs.

In subsection 1214(n), the Conference authorizes $250,000 for each of fiscal years 1999 and 2000 to the Department of the Interior for the Shenandoah Valley Battle Area of the National Historic District Commission to use to develop a Civil War battlefield plan for the Shenandoah Valley.

In subsection 1214(o), the Conference provides that the Administrator of the General Services Administration shall seek the approval of the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works and the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure before taking any action that leads to government ownership of the Department of Transportation's headquarters facility.

In subsection 1214(p), the Conference authorizes $5 million in fiscal year 1999 for the State of Mississippi to use to replace and widen the box bridges on the Natchez Trace Parkway.

In subsection 1214(q), the Conference authorizes $2.943 million in fiscal year 1999 for the Lolo Pass Visitor Center in Idaho.

In subsection 1215(a), the Conference provides funding for the Puerto Rico highway program for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003. The subsection specifies how the funds shall be administered and states that the amounts treated as being apportioned to Puerto Rico shall be deemed to be required for purposes of the imposition of any penalty provisions in titles 23 and 49, United States Code.

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.
Interstate System eligible for funds apportioned for the National Highway System and the Surface Transportation Program.

Subsection 133(b) makes the Cuyahoga River Bridge in Ohio eligible to receive funds apportioned under the congestion mitigation and air quality improvement program.

Subsection 133(c) gives the State of Connecticut flexibility in the use of Interstate Construction fund balances. It also gives the State additional obligation authority to use these funds.

Subsection 133(d) clarifies that private entity expenditures for construction of specific toll roads in Southern California may be credited to the State's non-Federal share.

Subsection 133(e) permits the continued collection of tolls on the International Bridge, Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

Subsection 133(g) makes certain food services eligible to be listed on current logo signs.

Senate amendment

Subsection 1105(c) clarifies eligibility under the ER program for a 600-foot bypass for Route 1, south of San Francisco, in San Mateo County, which was and is still subject to periodic landslides and closures.

Section 1129 provides eligibility for the Ambassador Bridge in Detroit, Michigan, under the Airport Access program and the National Highway System program.

Section 1804 permits the continued collection of tolls at the International Bridge, Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

Section 1809 requires the Secretary to allow the continuance of commercial operations at certain service plazas on Interstate 95 in Maryland.

Conference substitute

In subsection 1217(a), the Conference adopts the Senate provision concerning a project in San Mateo County, California.

In subsection 1217(b), the Conference adopts the Senate provision on the Ambassador Bridge.

In subsection 1217(c), the Conference adopts the Senate provision on the Cuyahoga River Bridge, with a modification. The bridge is eligible to receive funds from the surface transportation program.

In subsection 1217(d), the Conference adopts the House provision giving Connecticut flexibility in the use of its Interstate Construction fund balances.

The Conference funds that the House and Senate provision concerning the collection of tolls on the International Bridge at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, are substantively the same as those in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, are substantively the same as those in the House bill.

SEC. 1218. MAGNETIC LEVITATION TRANSPORTATION TECHNOLOGY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

House bill

Subsection 312(d) provides $5,000,000 per year for the fiscal years through 2003 for grants for the development of low speed magnetic levitation technology for public transportation purposes in urban areas.

Senate amendment

Section 1119 establishes the magnetic levitation transportation technology development program (MAGLEV) to: (1) provide financial assistance to conduct pre-construction planning activities for a number of selected projects, which are consistent with requirements established by the legislation, including involvement in a corridor that exhibits partnership potential; and (2) select one of the planned projects for Federal participation in the costs of design, construction and deployment in revenue service. MAGLEV is defined as systems capable of safe use at a speed in excess of 240 miles per hour.

Within 360 days of enactment the Secretary is required to solicit applications for financial assistance for eligible projects. The projects selected for funding under this phase of the program must meet stringent eligibility requirements established by the legislation. Project selection will be on the basis of criteria established by the Secretary prior to solicitation of applications.

Following pre-construction planning activities for selected projects, the Secretary is required to select a single project for Federal participation in the cost of final design, engineering and construction of a segment of the project that can be operated in revenue service. The project will be designed to meet Federal capital costs (including total capital costs of guideways, stations, vehicles and equipment) shall not exceed 20 percent of total project cost. The use of Federal funds will be restricted to the capital costs of the guideway (excluding stations, vehicles, and equipment). The non-Federal share of pre-construction planning activities shall be at least 20 percent.

This section provides $10 million for fiscal year 1999 and $20 million for fiscal year 2000 in contract authority from the Highway Trust Fund to conduct pre-construction activities for selected projects and other necessary purposes. It also authorizes appropriations for fiscal years 1999 to 2003. It is provided that, for projects on Federal or Indian Lands, a Federal land management agency may contribute the non-Federal share payable on such projects. Subsection 165(f) provides contract authority from the Highway Trust Fund of $17 million in each of fiscal years 1998 and 1999, $19 million for each of fiscal years 2000 and 2001, $21 million for fiscal year 2002, and $25 million for fiscal year 2003.

Conference substitute

In section 1219, the Conference adopts the Senate provision, with a modification to include the House savingiare clause language, providing that the Secretary shall not withhold a grant or condition receipt of a grant or technical assistance to a State for any action that would not be inconsistent with the authority provided in chapter 1 of title 23. Section 1219 codifies this program at 23 U.S.C. 162.

Paragraph 1101(a)(1) authorizes $23.5 million for each of fiscal years 1998 and 1999, $24.5 million for each of fiscal years 2000 and 2001, and $25.5 million for fiscal years 2002 and 2003 for the National Scenic Byways program.

SEC. 1220. ELIMINATION OF REGIONAL OFFICE RESPONSIBILITIES

House bill

Section 507 requires that the Secretary eliminate programmatic responsibility of regional offices of the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) as part of the agency's efforts to restructure its field offices, including elimination of regional offices, creation of technical resources centers, and delegation to State offices. The Conference amendments to the implementation purposes.

The Conference adopts the House provision in title I of the Act.

SEC. 1219. NATIONAL SCENIC BYWAYS PROGRAM

House bill

Section 311 directs the Secretary to carry out a National Scenic Byways program and codifies the program at 23 U.S.C. 162. To be eligible for the program, a road must be nominated by a State or a Federal land management agency. Funds are available for technical assistance, including planning, development of management plans, and safety improvements. The Federal share is the same as for other Federal-aid highway projects. This program is the continuation of a similar program established by ISTEA.

Senate amendment

Section 1501 codifies the National Scenic Byways program at 23 U.S.C. 165. Subsection 165(a) directs the Secretary to carry out the National Scenic Byways program and designate roads having special scenic, historic, cultural, natural or archaeological qualities as National Scenic Byways or All-American Roads. Criteria for designation have been defined in the FHWA Interim policy notice, which was published in the Federal Register in May 1995.

Subsection 165(b) directs the Secretary to make grants and provide technical assistance to the States to implement National Scenic Byways, State scenic byways, and All-American Roads projects and to plan, develop, and implement a program for Federal or Indian Lands. A Federal land management agency may contribute the non-Federal share payable on such projects. Subsection 165(f) provides contract authority from the Highway Trust Fund of $17 million in each of fiscal years 1998 and 1999, $19 million for each of fiscal years 2000 and 2001, $21 million for fiscal year 2002, and $25 million for fiscal year 2003.

Conference substitute

In section 1219, the Conference adopts the Senate provision, with a modification to include the House savingiare clause language, providing that the Secretary shall not withhold a grant or condition receipt of a grant or technical assistance to a State for any action that would not be inconsistent with the authority provided in chapter 1 of title 23. Section 1219 codifies this program at 23 U.S.C. 162.

Paragraph 1101(a)(1) authorizes $23.5 million for each of fiscal years 1998 and 1999, $24.5 million for each of fiscal years 2000 and 2001, and $25.5 million for fiscal years 2002 and 2003 for the National Scenic Byways program.

SEC. 1220. ELIMINATION OF REGIONAL OFFICE RESPONSIBILITIES

Conference substitute

In section 1220, the Conference adopts the House provision, with modifications. The Conference substitute permits the Federal Highway Administration to retain programmatic decisionmaking authority at the regional offices for the motor carrier safety program. It also requires the Secretary to give preference to sites that are regional, modern, FHWA regional offices and that are in locations that minimize the travel distance between technical resource centers and the FHWA division offices they will serve.

Section 1221. Transportation and Community and System Preservation Pilot Program

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1064 authorizes a new Transportation and Community and System Preservation Pilot Program to investigate and address the relationships between transportation projects, community preservation, and the environment. The pilot program consists of three parts: (1) a comprehensive research program; (2) a planning assistance program to provide funding to States, metropolitan planning organizations (MPOs), and local governments that want to begin integrating their transportation planning with community preservation, environmental protection, and land use policies; and (3) an implementation assistance program to provide funding to States, MPOs, and local governments that want to develop state-of-the-art approaches to integrate their transportation plans and programs with their community preservation and environmental planning programs.

The research program established by subsection 1064(b) examines the experiences of communities in uniting transportation, community, and environmental goals with decisionmaking processes. As part of this research, projects carried out with planning or implementation assistance funds made available by this section shall be monitored and analyzed.

The planning assistance authorized in subsection 1064(c) is intended to provide financial resources to States and communities that wish to explore integrating their transportation programs with community preservation and environmental programs. Providing this planning assistance, the Secretary is directed to give priority consideration to applicants that demonstrate commitment to public involvement and to bring non-Federal resources to the proposed projects.

The implementation assistance authorized in subsection 1064(d) provides financial resources to States and communities that have established community preservation programs to enable them to carry out projects that address transportation efficiency while meeting community preservation and environmental goals. Any activities eligible for funding under title 23 or chapter 53 of title 49 of the United States Code are eligible for assistance under this program, including corridor preservation activities necessary to carry out transit-oriented development plans or traffic calming measures.

Subsection 1064(d) authorizes $20 million for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003 to carry out this program.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision with modifications adding Macon country, the Appalachian region and technically amending section 405 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 to add Halsey county in Alabama, Elbert and Hart counties in Georgia, Yalobusha county in Mississippi, and Montgomery and Rockbridge counties in Virginia to the Appalachian region.

Senate amendment

Section 2012 adds section 403 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 to provide funding under section 108 of the Federal-aid Highway Act for the Appalachian region and technically amending section 405 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act to ensure that section 403 of such Act is still in effect.

Section 1223. Transportation Assistance for Olympic Cities

House bill

Subsection 130(a) states the purpose of this section is to assist and support States and local government, including State transportation agencies and local governments, with projects with surface and aviation-related transportation issues necessary to host international quadrennial Olympic and Paralympic events in the United States. Subsection 130(b) authorizes the Secretary to give priority to transportation projects related to Olympic events from certain highways and transit discretionary accounts.

Subsection 130(c) directs the Secretary to participate in State and metropolitan planning activities related to Olympic events.

Subsection 130(d) authorizes the Secretary to provide assistance from funds provided for the general operating expenses of the Federal Highway Administration for the development of an Olympic and Paralympic transportation management plan.

Subsection 130(e) authorizes the Secretary to provide funds to States and local governments for carrying out transportation projects related to Olympic events from certain highway and transit discretionary accounts.

Subsection 130(f) establishes Federal share of the cost of such projects at 80 percent.

Subsection 130(g) authorizes the Secretary to give preference in aviation programs for projects that are Olympic related.

Senate amendment

Section 1130 authorizes the Secretary to provide assistance to States and local governments with projects to provide surface transportation and projects relating to international quadrennial Olympic and Paralympic events. Subsection 1130(b) provides that the Secretary may give preference, in allocating Interstate and bridge discretionary funds, to transportation projects relating to Olympic or Paralympic events. Subsection 1130(c) directs the Secretary to participate in transportation planning with States and MPOs relating to Olympic or Paralympic events. Subsection 1130(d) provides that funds made available for highway research, technology, and training programs relating to Olympic or Paralympic events shall be used for projects relating to Olympic or Paralympic events.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts Senate amendment.

Section 1225. Substitute Project

House bill

Subsection 144(a) authorizes the Secretary to give preference in aviation programs for projects that are Olympic related.

Section 1131. National Historic Covered Bridge Preservation

House bill

Subsection 1132 authorizes a new grant program that provides funds to assist the States in their efforts to rehabilitate or repair and to preserve the Nation's historic bridges.

Subsection 1132(a) authorizes the term "covered bridge" as a covered bridge that is primarily made of wood and includes the roof, flooring, trusses, joints, walls, piers, footways, support systems, and underlying land. It defines the term "historic covered bridge" as a covered bridge that is at least fifty years old or is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Subsection 1132(b) directs the Secretary to develop and maintain a list of historic covered bridges and collect and disseminate information concerning historic covered bridges. It also directs the Secretary to foster education programs relating to the history, construction techniques, and contribution to society of historic covered bridges. It also directs the Secretary to sponsor or conduct research on the history of covered bridges. It also directs the Secretary to sponsor or conduct research, and study techniques, on protecting covered bridges from rot, fire, natural disasters, or weight-related damage.

Subsection 1132(c) directs the Secretary to make a grant, subject to availability, to a State that submits a plan for a project that may be made for a project to rehabilitate or repair or preserve a historic covered bridge. It may be made only if, to the maximum extent practicable, the project is carried out in the most historically appropriate manner and preserves that existing structure of the bridge, and the project provides for the replacement of wooden components with wood-iron components.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts Senate amendment.

Section 1226. Substitute Project

House bill

Subsection 144(a) authorizes the Secretary to give preference in aviation programs for projects that are Olympic related.

Section 1227. Substitute Project

House bill

Subsection 144(a) authorizes the Secretary to give preference in aviation programs for projects that are Olympic related.
Subsection 1702(l) technically amends 23 U.S.C. 115 to prevent the Secretary from approving advance construction projects. Therefore, the funds provided in this provision are not to be used to mitigate degrading wetlands through highway construction. In subsection 1702(m), the Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions striking three out-of-date provisions from 23 U.S.C. 115 are substantively equivalent and the Conference adopts the provision.

Subsection 1702(n) strikes an out-of-date provision, 23 U.S.C. 148, on development of a national scenic and recreational highway.

Subsection 1702(o) strikes out-of-date language from 23 U.S.C. 152(e) concerning the apportionment of hazard elimination funds.

Subsection 1702(p) strikes an out-of-date provision, 23 U.S.C. 155, concerning access highways to public recreation areas on certain lakes.

Conference substitute

In subsection 1226(a), the Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions striking three out-of-date provisions from 23 U.S.C. 115 are substantively equivalent and the Conference adopts theSenate amendment.

In subsection 1226(b), the Conference adopts the House provision amending 23 U.S.C. 138 concerning the effect of the release of Federal-aid highway funds.

In subsection 1226(c), the Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions striking out-of-date language from 23 U.S.C. 124(b) concerning the construction of toll roads are substantively equivalent and the Conference adopts the provision.

In subsection 1226(d), the Conference finds that the House and Senate provisions striking 23 U.S.C. 126 concerning the use of motor vehicle and fuel taxes for highway construction projects are substantively equivalent and the Conference adopts the House language.

Nondiscrimination

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1202 amends sections 108 and 323 of title 23, United States Code, to expand the flexibility provided to States and local governments to use their Federal-aid highway apportionments under title 23.

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1204 amends 23 U.S.C. 121 to remove a restriction which applies the Federal/non-Federal matching rate to each payment that a State receives. This amendment will make the Federal-aid highway program more like other Federal programs, including the Federal transit program, and will give the State greater flexibility in managing their funds.

Senate amendment

Section 1204 amends 23 U.S.C. 121 to remove a restriction which applies the Federal/non-Federal matching share requirement to each payment a State receives. The revised section 121 makes the requirement applicable to total project costs rather than to individual payments. The increased flexibility provided by these changes will result in a simplified program that is easier for State departments of transportation to administer. The changes also make the Federal-aid-highway program more compatible with other Federal programs, particularly the Federal mass transportation program; projects are often administered jointly by FHWA and the Federal Transit Administration.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House provision, making only technical modifications and retaining the provision as a separate section, as in the Senate bill.

SEC. 1303. PROCEEDS FROM THE SALE OR LEASE OF REAL PROPERTY

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 156 of title 23, United States Code, requires States to change fair market value

The Conference adopts a Senate provision with a modification to clarify that costs of services are not eligible for a non-Federal share.

Sec. 1302. Payments to States for Construction

House bill

Subsection 134(d) amends 23 U.S.C. 121 to remove a restriction which applies the Federal/non-Federal matching share requirement to each payment a State receives. The revised section 121 makes the requirement applicable to total project costs rather than to individual payments. The increased flexibility provided by these changes will result in a simplified program that is easier for State departments of transportation to administer. The changes also make the Federal-aid-highway program more compatible with other Federal programs, particularly the Federal mass transportation program; projects are often administered jointly by FHWA and the Federal Transit Administration.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House provision, making only technical modifications and retaining the provision as a separate section, as in the Senate bill.

Sec. 1303. PROCEEDS FROM THE SALE OR LEASE OF REAL PROPERTY

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 156 of title 23, United States Code, requires States to change fair market value for the use of airspace acquired in connection with a federally funded project. Section 1205 expands the requirement in section 156 to apply to the net income generated by a State from the lease, sale or other use of real property acquired with Federal financial assistance from the highway account of the Highway Trust Fund. The revised section 156 applies regardless of all State and property interests acquired with Federal-aid highway funds. As in current law, the Secretary may grant exceptions for social, environmental or economic purposes.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision with the inclusion of the following clarifying report language. The purpose of the exception is to provide the States (with the Secretary’s approval) the flexibility to charge less than fair market value for lands bought with Highway Trust Fund dollars if the proceeds sold or leased, would be used for some purpose of public benefit that would outweigh the general desire to receive fair market value for the property, such as if the lands would be used as parkland or as a recreation area.

SEC. 1304. ENGINEERING COST REIMBURSEMENT

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1210 amends 23 U.S.C. 102(b) to provide an exception to the requirement that a State commence construction or acquisition of right-of-way on a project within 10 years after the awarding of contracts, and the inspection of projects that are other than under current law. For NHS projects, a State may request that the Secretary no longer review and approve the design, plans, specifications, estimates, contract awards, and inspection of projects under title 23. Subsection 1222(a) also requires the Secretary to develop a set of procedures on each usable project segment of right-of-way on a project within 10 years or such longer period as the State requests and the Secretary determines to be reasonable.

SEC. 1305. PROJECT APPROVAL AND OVERSIGHT

House bill

Subsection 130(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 106 to require life cycle cost analysis on each usable project segment on the National Highway System and requires the analysis to conform with Executive Order 12893 on infrastructure investment.

Section 501 consolidates and codifies the current practices used by the Secretary to approve and oversee Federal-aid highway projects and further streamlines that process. This section requires that for projects on the NHS (including the Interstate system), the Secretary and each State will enter into an agreement as to the appropriate level of right-of-way within 10 years or such longer period as the State requests and the Secretary determines to be reasonable.

SEC. 1306. LIFE-CYCLE COST ANALYSIS

House bill

Subsection 130(a) amends 23 U.S.C. 106 to require life cycle costs analysis on each usable project segment on the National Highway System and requires the analysis to conform with Executive Order 12893 on infrastructure investment.

Section 501 consolidates and codifies the current practices used by the Secretary to approve and oversee Federal-aid highway projects and further streamlines that process. This section requires that for projects on the NHS (including the Interstate system), the Secretary and each State will enter into an agreement as to the appropriate level of right-of-way within 10 years or such longer period as the State requests and the Secretary determines to be reasonable.

SEC. 1307. DESIGN-BUILD CONTRACTING

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1224 provides authority, two years after the date of enactment of this Act, for State transportation departments to use the design-build approach for construction of eligible title 23 project segments. Design-build is an innovative method of highway contracting that is only allowed on an experimental basis under current law. It differs from traditional contracting in that it combines, rather than separates, responsibility for design and construction phases of a highway project. This section allows States to use their State design-build contracting procedures in statute or procedures authorized by Congress to certify contractors for the past eleven years. The FHWA may work with this institution in carrying out this National certification program and use the existing expertise in the area.

In subsection 1305(b), the Conference adopts the House provision concerning financial plans, with a modification codifying the provision at 23 U.S.C. 106(h).

In subsection 1305(c) the Conference adopts the House life-cycle cost provision with modifications. The Conference directs the Secretary to conduct life-cycle cost analysis of projects on the National Highway System. In making a recommendation, the Secretary shall consult with the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials and the FHWA may use the existing expertise in the area.

In subsection 1307(e) the Conference adopts the Senate provision with the following modifications. Subsection 1307(a) allows a State to award a design-build contract for a project using any procurement process permitted by applicable State and local law. Subsection 1307(c) requires the Secretary to consult with the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials and affected industry representatives before issuing regulations to carry out this section.

Subsection 1307(e) provides that the design-build amendments made in this section shall not take effect 3 years after the date of enactment of this Act and provides that, during the 3-year transition period, the Secretary may approve design-build contracts to be awarded using any process permitted by applicable State and local law.

Subsection
1307(f) requires the Secretary to submit a report to Congress within 5 years after the date of enactment of this Act. The report shall analyze the effectiveness of design-build contracting procedures.

SEC. 1308. MAJOR INVESTMENT STUDY INTEGRATION

House bill

Section 503 requires the Secretary to issue new regulations regarding the major investment study (MIS) requirement as a separate requirement and integrate this requirement, which is a requirement in the planning regulations under the Federal-aid highway program, with the environmental review process for transportation projects. The two processes are currently not integrated, although many of their requirements and purposes often are similar.

Senate amendment

The Senate bill contains no comparable provision.

Conference substitute

The conference substitute adopts the House provision, with a modification to require that the new regulations promulgated under this section integrate the MIS requirement as part of the NEPA process and that the analyses required to be undertaken pursuant to the planning provisions of title 23 and chapter 53 of title 49, United States Code, and the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 for Federal-aid highway and transit projects. The Conference provision also specifically limits the scope of such regulations; they shall be no broader than the scope of the current MIS requirement in 23 CFR 450.318.

SEC. 1309. ENVIRONMENTAL STREAMLINING

House bill

Section 505 establishes a coordinated environmental review process for highway construction projects so that whenever practicable, all environmental reviews, analyses, opinions and any permits, licenses, or approvals relating to the project are conducted concurrently and within cooperatively established time periods. The time periods must be consistent with those established by the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) in implementing the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). Agreed upon time periods may be extended by the Secretary, if, upon good cause shown, the Secretary and the Federal agency determine that an extension is necessary as a result of information that could not reasonably have been anticipated when the time periods for review were established. In the event that an agency fails to complete its review of an agreed upon time period, the Secretary may close the record.

The House bill further directs the Secretary, in consultation with CEQ, to establish a State environmental review demonstration program to allow a limited number of States to assume responsibility for implementing NEPA for highway projects. The pilot program is authorized for three years.

Senate amendment

Section 1225 requires the Secretary to develop an integrated decisionmaking process for surface transportation projects. Using the environmental review process under NEPA, the section establishes a mechanism to coordinate the permitting process for surface transportation projects, encouraging consolidation of Federal, State, local, and Tribal decisionmaking to maximum extent practicable consistent with the consideration of environmental impacts. The section further encourages the use of collaborative, problem solving and consensus building approaches to implement the integrated process.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House language with the following three modifications.

First, the provisions establishing a pilot program to delegate responsibility for compliance with the requirements of NEPA to up to eight States is deleted. Second, the language directs consideration of documentation to the determination of the Secretary with respect to the purpose and need of a highway project is deleted. Third, the conference substitute limits the authority of the Secretary to close the record in the event that another agency fails to meet an agreed-upon deadline for completing its environmental review process for highway projects. The conference substitute also specifically limits the scope of such regulations; they shall be no broader than the scope of the current MIS requirement in 23 CFR 450.318.

SEC. 1310. UNIFORM TRANSFERABILITY OF FEDERAL-AID HIGHWAY FUNDS

House bill

Section 505 creates a new uniform transferability of Federal-aid highway funds and codifies this provision at 23 U.S.C. 110. (This creates a second section 110 in title 23, because section 110 of this Act codified the requirements established by the Balanced Budget Act of 1997.)

Subsection 505(a) applies to any highway project that is set aside for a program which does not allow at least 50 percent of the apportioned or set-aside funds to be transferred to another category. The provision allows an agency to transfer up to 50 percent of any funds apportioned to it, as well as any funds within that apportionment that have special requirements or constitute a set aside, to another category.

Subsection 505(b) sets rules for the transferability of certain funds set aside within the surface transportation program. STIP, programs are a set-aside for the hazard elimination and rail-highway grade crossing programs, metropolitan planning funds, and the sub-State suballocation. For funds set aside for transportation enhancements, up to 50 percent of the difference between the amount set aside for enhancements for the fiscal year and the amount set aside for transportation enhancements in fiscal year 1996 can be transferred. For funds apportioned for the CMAQ program, a State may transfer up to 50 percent of the difference between the fiscal year CMAQ funding for the fiscal year and its fiscal year 1997 CMAQ apportionment.
The Conference adopts the House provision, with a modification to extend the report deadline to 18 months after enactment, rather than one year.

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1406 establishes a new program to encourage States to increase seat belt usage in passenger motor vehicles. This new program provides incentive grants to States that either obtain a State seat belt usage rate above the national average, or increase the State seat belt usage. The Secretary shall determine annually: (1) those States that achieved a usage rate higher than the national average, and the amount of Federal government budget savings from Federal medical insurance programs associated with the higher seat belt usage rate; (2) those States that increased the seat belt rate compared with the State's base rate, and the resulting Federal government budget savings from Federal medical insurance programs. Under this section, the Secretary is required to allocate to each State in fiscal years 1999 through 2003, the amount of Federal medical savings that resulted from either increases in seat belt usage over the national average or increases over the State's base rate. States may use such funds for any program eligible for assistance under title 23, United States Code. This section provides $60 million for fiscal year 1998, $70 million for fiscal year 1999, $80 million for fiscal year 2000, $90 million for fiscal year 2001, and $100 million for fiscal years 2002 and 2003.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision, with modifications increasing authorizations for the programs and providing that, for fiscal year 1999, any unallocated funds under this section shall be apportioned to the States as STP funds, and for fiscal years 2000 through 2003, the Secretary shall use any unallocated funds authorized under this section to make allocations to States that have developed plans to carry out innovative projects to promote increased seat belt use rates.

SEC. 1404. SAFETY INCENTIVES TO PREVENT OPERATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES BY INTOXICATED PERSONS

House bill

Section 209 directs the Comptroller General to conduct a study to evaluate the effectiveness of State 0.08 and 0.02 blood alcohol content (BAC) laws in reducing the number and severity of alcohol-related crashes. This section requires the Comptroller General to report to the Congress within two years with the results of the BAC study.
Senate amendment

Section 1408 directs the Secretary to withhold 5 percent of a State's Interstate Maintenance, National Highway System, and Surface Transportation Program apportionments in fiscal year 2002 and 10 percent of such apportionments in fiscal year 2003 and thereafter if the State has failed to enact and enforce a law providing that an individual with an alcohol concentration of 0.08 percent or greater while operating a motor vehicle has committed the offense of driving while intoxicated. The section also provides that if the State has withdrawn from apportionment under this section on or before September 30, 2003, and then comes into compliance with this section within 3 years, the Secretary shall apportion to the States the withheld funds. If a State fails to come into compliance within the 3-year period, the withheld funds shall lapse.

Conference substitute

In section 1404, the Conference adopts a substitute provision authorizing a total of $500 million for incentive grants. The Conference substitute directs the Secretary to apportion funds authorized to carry out this section to any State that has enacted and is enforcing a law providing that an individual with an alcohol concentration of 0.08 percent or greater while operating a motor vehicle shall be deemed to have committed a per se offense of driving while intoxicated. States may obligate funds apportioned under this section only for core drunk driving countermeasures and law enforcement activities to prevent drunk driving. For fiscal years 2001 and 2002, States failing to enact or enforce the described minimum penalties for repeat drunk drivers with high alcohol concentrations shall have 1 1/2 percent of their INHS and/or STP funds transferred to their Section 402 high alcohol concentrations shall have 1 1/2 percent of their INHS and/or STP funds transferred to their Section 402 program to fund alcohol-impaired driving countermeasures and law enforcement activities to prevent drunk driving. For fiscal year 2003 and thereafter, States that have failed to enact or enforce a repeat intoxicated driver law with high alcohol concentrations shall have 3 percent of their INHS and/or STP funds transferred to their Section 402 program to fund alcohol-impaired driving countermeasures or law enforcement activities to prevent drunk driving, with the State able to use all or a portion of the transferred funds for the State's hazard elimination programs.

SEC. 1406. MINIMUM PENALTIES FOR REPEAT OFFENDERS FOR DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED OR DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE

House bill

The House bill contains no comparable provision.

Senate amendment

Section 1405 establishes a new program to address the growing problem of repeat, hard core drunk drivers with high alcohol concentrations by requiring States to enact repeat intoxicated driver laws or else have a percentage of their highway construction funds transferred to their Section 402 highway safety program. The section requires States to enact and enforce penalties for drunk drivers who have an alcohol concentration of 0.08 percent or greater while operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.
with but a limited investment.) The project also must have the potential to be self-sustaining from user charges or other non-Federal dedicated funding sources, be on a State or local government entity's plan and, assuming the availability of funding, be on a fiscally-constrained State transportation improvement program. An application for credit assistance may be submitted by a State or local government entity or any other entity. The Secretary will select among potential candidates based on various criteria, including the project's regional or national significance, its potential to create economic benefits, its credit-worthiness, the degree of private sector participation, and other factors.

Forms of assistance that can be provided under this program include direct loans, loan guarantees, and lines of credit. In all cases, the Secretary will act as the primary investor, with Federal participation limited to no more than 33 percent of total project costs. The Secretary is authorized to enter into agreements with project sponsors of containing terms and conditions designed to assist the projects in leveraging additional funds, while ensuring that the program operates in a fiscally-prudent manner. The State in which a project is located may identify a State or local government entity to assist the Secretary in servicing the Federal credit instrument.

The Secretary may provide credit assistance to demonstrate to the capital markets the viability of making transportation infrastructure investments where returns depend on residual project cash flows after serving senior municipal revenue bonds or other capital market debt. An objective of the program is to help the financial markets develop the capability ultimately to supplant the role of the Federal government in helping fund large projects of national significance. That is why loan guarantees are limited to major institutional lenders, such as defined benefit pension funds, which may be potential providers in the future of supplemental and subordinate capital for projects. The Conference would like the Secretary to encourage Federal borrowers to prepay their direct loans or guaranteed loans as soon as practicable from excess revenues or the proceeds of municipal or other capital market debt obligations. The Secretary also may consider allowing third parties to enter into agreements with the capital markets, if such transactions can be arranged upon favorable terms.

The Conference recognizes that the Congress enacted the Deficit Reduction Act of 1995. This section modifies the Senate language by expressly providing, in paragraph 1511(i)(2), that the requirements of titles 23 and 49, United States Code, shall apply to repayments from projects assisted by the SIB, and that such repayments shall be considered to the Federal funds.

Subtitle F—High Priority Projects

SEC. 1601. HIGH PRIORITY PROJECTS
the purposes of this section and shall remain available until obligated . . . ." This means that the obligation authority provided for high priority projects is reserved solely for such projects and cannot be used for any other Federal-aid highway program or project. Further, section 1102 of TEA 21, which directs the distribution of obligation authority for Federal-aid highway programs, provides in subsection 1102(g) that obligation authority distributed for a fiscal year for high priority projects "shall be in addition to any limitation imposed on obligations for Federal-aid highway and highway safety construction programs for that year." The treatment of obligation authority for high priority projects under these two provisions further articulates the intent of Congress that high priority project funds and obligation authority shall be separate from and in addition to a State's regular Federal-aid highway apportionments.

Furthermore, including high priority projects in the minimum guarantee calculation serves the separate purpose of ensuring that the distribution of Federal-aid highway funds between the States is as equitable as possible. It does not mean that each State's high priority projects were funded from what would have been the State's regular formula apportionment, and therefore provides no support for the position that project funds should be offset from a district's allocation of Federal-aid highway formula funds. This interpretation is contrary to the express language of section 1603, as cited above.

Subsection 1603(b) clarifies that by listing high priority projects in section 1602 of this Act and similar projects in previous legislation, Congress is establishing the limits of the projects for purposes of eligibility for association with Federal-aid highway funding. The listing or identification of a project is not intended to define the scope of the project for purposes of complying with all Federal requirements, including those of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). As the associated Federal-aid highway funding for these projects typically is not sufficient to finance the Federal share of all improvements within the project limits, Congress recognizes that a State needs the flexibility to advance logical segments of the overall project. The management of a project must still have to connect logical termini, have independent utility, and not restrict consideration of alternatives for other reasonably foreseeable improvement improvements. This provision does not waive safety or contracting requirements for the underlying segment.

In the case of the South Lawrence Trafficway in Kansas, the State may advance the segment between U.S. 59 and Kansas Route 10 as a non-Federal-funded project without triggering NEPA.

TITLE V—TRANSPORTATION RESEARCH

Subtitle A—Funding

SECTION 503. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS

Senate bill

Section 2001 of the Senate bill provides contract authority for fiscal years 1998 through 2003 to carry out the research and technology deployment program established by the Transportation Instation Reorganization Act of 1995, the transportation research, development and technology transfer programs established by Public Law 103-465, and the infrastructure investment needs report, and the study of the future strategic highway program.

House bill

Subparagraphs 127(a)(3)(F), (G), and (H) authorize funding for discretionary highway research programs; transportation education, professional training, and technology deployment; and the transportation technology innovation and demonstration program for fiscal years 1998 through 2003.

Section 625 of the House bill allocates the funds made available under subparagraph 127(a)(3)(G) of the bill for the National Highway Institute, the Eisenhower Fellowship Program, the national technology deployment initiative program, and university transportation centers.

Conference substitute

Subsection 5001(a) and (b) of the Conference substitute provide contract authority for fiscal years 1998 through 2003 for the following research and technology deployment program under 23 U.S.C. 502, 506, 507, and 508, and section 5112 of this Act; the technology deployment program; and the Bureau of Transportation Statistics; and university transportation research.

Subsection 5001(c) allocates certain research funds for specific projects and programs, such as long term pavement performance, innovative bridge research and construction, the National Highway Institute, and comparison.

Subsection 5001(d) authorizes the Secretary to transfer up to 10 percent of the funds allocated within each paragraph of subsection (c) for any other project or program within that paragraph.

SECTION 5002. OBLIGATION CEILING

Senate bill

Subsection 2001(c) of the Senate bill establishes a limitation on obligations for the research and technology program, the international highway transportation outreach program, the infrastructure investment needs report, and the study of the future strategic highway program.

House bill

Subsection 103(d) of the House bill provides that the general obligation limitation for Federal-aid highway programs established in subsection 103(a) applies to transportation research programs carried out under chapter 3 of title 23, United States Code, and title VI of the House bill.

Conference substitute

Section 5002 of the Conference substitute establishes, for each of fiscal years 1998 through 2003, an annual limitation on obligations of amounts available under subsection 5001(a) for research programs.

SECTION 5003. NOTICE

House bill

The Senate bill contains no similar provision.

House bill

Whenever funds authorized under this title or amendments thereto are subject to a reprogramming notice the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations, Section 604 requires concurrent notice to the Committees on Transportation and Infrastructure and Science and Technology of the House of Representatives and to the Committees on Environment and Public Works and on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate. The section also requires the Secretary to provide notice to these committees of any major reorganization of programs, projects, or activities of the Department for which funds are authorized by this title at least 15 days prior to the reorganization's effective date.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House provision with a modification to strike reference to the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Subtitle B—Research and Technology

SECTION 5001. RESEARCH AND TECHNOLOGY PROGRAM

Senate bill

Section 2005 amends the table of chapters in title 23 by adding a new chapter, "Chapter 5—Research and Technology," and provides definitions for their terms "safety" and "federal laboratory."
Section 2001 requires the Secretary to establish performance measurement procedures for evaluating the performance and results achieved in the highway apportionment formula. This section also requires the BTS Director to coordinate responsibilities for long-term data collection with other efforts to support the Government Performance and Results Act (GPRA). This section codifies the following existing BTS initiatives: (1) the BTS’ Transportation Data Base, including various data on competing and complementary modes of transportation, intermodal combinations, international movement, and local and intercity movements; (2) the BTS’ National Transportation Library; (3) the general content of the BTS’ National Transportation Atlas Data Base (NTAD). This section requires the Director of the Bureau to study freight factors, such as diesel fuel data and miles of international trade traffic. The BTS Director also is required to recommend to Congress what improvements are needed in such a collection for use in the highway apportionment formula. This section authorizes the BTS to establish grants and enter into cooperative agreements with public and nonprofit organizations to conduct research and development for BTS’ major activities.

House bill

Section 633 makes certain changes to the purposes and authorities of the Bureau of Transportation Statistics and provides funding for the Bureau. It requires the establishment of a National Transportation Library, an atlas database, and an intermodal transportation data base. The Bureau is authorized to make research and development grants. Projects are included that may gather certain proprietary or private information that is gathered by the Bureau in the course of its work. This section is not discussed. The Bureau is given certain responsibilities under the Government Performance and Results Act of 1993.
SECTION 5110. UNIVERSITY TRANSPORTATION RESEARCH

Senate bill

Section 2003 directs the Secretary to make grants to or contract with non-profit institutions of higher learning to establish one university transportation center in each of the 10 Federal administrative regions that comprise the Federal regional boundary. Section 2003 also directs the Secretary to make grants to not more than 4 additional university transportation centers to address advanced transportation issues, including criteria and eligibility requirements for the above grants, and limits the Federal share of the cost of establishing and operating a university transportation center and carrying out related research activities under this section to not more than 50 percent.

House bill

Subsection 624(a) establishes the University Transportation Research program in Chapter 55 of Title 49 consolidating the existing University Transportation Centers and University Research Institutes. The program consists of a center representing each Federal region and an additional ten centers selected at large. The selection criteria, objectives of the program, and other requirements are established by the University.

Senate bill

Subsection 624(b) establishes the Transportation Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences (referred to as the "Board" in this section) to conduct a study to determine the goals purposes, research agenda and projects, administrative structure, and fiscal needs for a new strategic highway research program to replace the program established under 23 U.S.C. section 307(d). It directs the Board to consult with the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials in the implementation of this study. This section instructs the Board to submit a final report on the results of this study to the Secretary, the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate, and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives.

House bill

Section 611(e) is substantially the same as the Senate version but requires the results of the study to be submitted to the Committee on Science of the House of Representatives.

SECTION 5112. COMMERCIAL REMOTE SENSING PROJECTS AND SPATIAL INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES

Senate bill

Section 2020 authorizes $10 million each year from FY 1999 through 2003 for such grants. The Secretary is to consult with other Federal agencies and universities experienced in this area to carry out the program.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the Senate provision.

SECTION 5113. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THE YEAR 2000 PROBLEM

Senate bill

Section 605 expresses a sense of Congress that the Department of Transportation should give high priority to making sure that all of its computer systems are reprogrammed to ensure effective operation in the year 2000 and beyond. The Department needs to assess immediately the risk of year 2000 problems with its systems and to develop a plan and a budget to correct year 2000 problems for its mission-critical programs. The Department also need to begin considering the continuation of the contingency plans, in the event that certain systems are unable to be corrected in time.

Conference substitute

The Conference adopts the House provision.

SECTION 5114. INTERNATIONAL TRADE TRAFFIC

Senate bill

Section 2004 of the Senate bill includes a provision directly the Bureau of Transportation Statistics to conduct a study of international trade traffic, including measures of international trade that could be used as formula factors, and to submit the results of this study to Congress within 3 years of the date of the enactment of this Act.

SECTION 5117. TRANSPORTATION TECHNOLOGY INNOVATION AND DEMONSTRATION PROGRAM

Senate bill
The Senate bill contains no similar provision.

House bill
Section 632 directs the Secretary to carry out a transportation technology innovation and demonstration program. This section directs the Secretary to develop or improve systems for the use of concrete pavement, motor vehicle safety, asphalt pavement, hazardous materials monitoring, motor carrier advanced sensor control, outreach and technology transfer activities, transportation economic and land use systems, intelligent transportation infrastructure, and corrosion control and prevention. It directs the Secretary to make grants to the Texas Transportation Institute to continue the TransLink Research Program and to continue research into the fundamental properties of asphalts and modified asphalts. It establishes a national center for transportation management and research and development, as well as an infrastructure technology institute.

Conference substitute
The Conference adopts the House provision with modifications such that the Secretary is directed to study corrosion control and prevention and develop transportation economic and land use systems. The Secretary is further directed to continue research into the fundamental properties of asphalts and modified asphalts. This section also establishes an Advanced Traffic Monitoring and Response Center, and a Recycled Materials Resource Center.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. TAUSCHER) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mrs. TAUSCHER addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)
In the hallways and passages beyond, this Congress has found itself consumed by the events leading up to a regrettable decision. Speculation of impending elections, national budgets, the economy, and the fate of legislation all have been offered and examined through the prism of the President's uncertain fate.

Today, my remarks are not about politics. They concern things having nothing to do with party, power, or influence. Today I would like to send a strong message to my daughters Jennifer, Emily, and Sara. They do not care about politics; they do not care about it any way. And at their young ages, they should not have to.

In fact, I am troubled as a father that they are now asking as many questions as they do about our President, broaching subjects that young girls should not have to consider, and about which no father in America should ever have to endure. But I want them to care very much about what I am about to say.

Tonight, I speak as much as I can, no matter whether I am in Washington or in Colorado, no matter if I am too busy or not, no matter how many fund-raising events I have to return. I try to teach them everything I know about what is important in life; and I try to show them by words and by my actions what I believe to be from the bottom of my heart what I am telling them. It is a huge responsibility, bigger than I ever imagined, because I know that they look up to me. Jennifer and Emily and Sara, I never want to let you down. I think they also know that I love them, and I feel about the American flag with a very special respect. I believe that they understand that, because they know that only you can decide whether or not you will be able to keep your integrity.

Mr. Speaker, if my daughters were here in front of me today, I would tell them that only you can decide whether or not you will be able to keep your integrity. To my daughters, I will say my message to you today concerns not you only, but the people you will meet in life, the families you will marry into, the State in which you live and the country that we all love.

I want you to care about the honesty and integrity of our country. I want you to care about other people in your lives, and I want those people to care about you too. I want you to cherish the fact that every person cares about honesty and integrity. I want you to avoid those who do not. That means you must judge. You must be able to say with firm conviction what is right and what is wrong. You must not be afraid to ever do so, no matter what anyone else says.

I do not want to live in a country where people are afraid to make judgments or who could not even make them if they wanted to. I do not want to live in a country where people are indifferent to the truth, where lies are told and accepted as easily as the truth. I do not want to live in a country where people are so morally confused they have to ask why it all matters. I do not want to live in a country where wrongdoing, lies, deceit and betrayal are dismissed with the comment that "everyone else does it."

My daughters, I want you to know that God, everyone else does not do it. Everyone else does not do it. I do not care what the polls say. I do not care what sophisticated people living in New York or Washington, D.C. think. I do not care if the people who belong to exclusive clubs have something to say about it.

To each of my daughters, I do not care if you are the last person on this planet. I want you to be a person of honesty and integrity who knows right from wrong and who is not afraid to say so. I want you to think that honoring the promises you make to other people are promises that must not be broken, but I want you to think that the promises you make to God are promises that matter even more.

Most of all, I want you to know that these are the things that matter most. And that is my message today from your father who loves you very, very much.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BRADY of Texas). The Chair will remind the visitors in the gallery that they should not display approval or disapproval.

CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT REFLECTS VALUES THAT MAKE AMERICA GREAT

(Mr. GIBBONS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GIBBONS, Mr. Speaker, allow me to restate what President Eisenhower said a long time ago, and I quote: “In all those things which deal with people, be human. In all those things which deal with people’s money, or their economy, or their form of government, be conservative and do not be afraid to use the word.”

And so today, Republicans come forward with programs in which there are such words as “balanced budgets,” and “cutting expenditures,” and all the kind of things that mean this economy must be conservative, it must be solvent.

But they also come forward and say we are concerned with every American’s health, with a decent house for him, and we are concerned that he will have a chance for health and his children for education. We are going to see that he has power available to him. We are going to see that everything takes place that will enrich his life and let him as an individual, hard-working American citizen have full opportunity to do for his children and his family what any decent American should want to do.

These remarks were made by President Eisenhower in 1954, and they are still ringing true today for the American people and the Republican party.

Let the other side stop their demagoguing and begin supporting a conservative government that reflects rather than undermines the values that have made America great: Faith, family, personal freedom and responsibility.

DON’T WAG THE DOG

(Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, he is “wagging the dog.” To those who think the White House scandal is a private matter having no effect on the country, just ask America’s farmers and ranchers.

On the eve of the impeachment vote, President Clinton vetoed the agriculture appropriations bill. Without warning, without compassion, and without logic, the President pulled the rug out from underneath America’s farmers and ranchers.

In the movie “Wag the Dog,” a fictional President created a make-believe war in another country. But today, the real President has declared real war on real farmers and real ranchers, real Americans with real families.

Mr. Speaker, this President’s escapade to move the crisis he created from the White House to the farmhouse is an outrage. Do not attack America’s farmers, Mr. President. Do not insult the ranchers. Do not destroy the farm economy. Do not do it, Mr. President. Do not wag the dog.

SPECIAL ORDERS GRANTED

By unanimous consent, permission to address the House, following the legislative program and any special orders heretofore entered, was granted to:

The following Members (at the request of Mr. MILLER of California) to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material:

The Senate met at 12 noon, on the expiration of the recess, and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. THURMOND).

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Dear God, help us to put into action what we believe. We believe in You as sovereign of this Nation. Strengthen our wills to seek to do Your will. Our motto is, “In God we trust.” Help us to trust You in the specific decisions that must be made.

We believe You have called us here to serve. Help us to be servant leaders, distinguished for diligence. Make this a “do it now” quality of day in which we live life to the fullest.

We affirm Your presence, we accept Your love, we rejoice in Your goodness, we receive Your guidance, and we praise Your holy name. Amen.

NOTICE

If the 105th Congress adjourns sine die on or before October 12, 1998, a final issue of the Congressional Record for the 105th Congress will be published on October 28, 1998, in order to permit Members to revise and extend their remarks.

All material for insertion must be signed by the Member and delivered to the respective offices of the Official Reporters of Debates (Room HT–60 or ST–41 of the Capitol), Monday through Friday, between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. through October 27. The final issue will be dated October 28, 1998, and will be delivered on Thursday, October 29.

If the 105th Congress does not adjourn until a later date in 1998, the final issue will be printed at a date to be announced.

None of the material printed in the final issue of the Congressional Record may contain subject matter, or relate to any event that occurred after the sine die date.

Senators’ statements should also be submitted electronically, either on a disk to accompany the signed statement, or by e-mail to the Official Reporters of Debates at “Records@Reporters”. Members of the House of Representatives’ statements may also be submitted electronically on a disk to accompany the signed statement and delivered to the Official Reporter’s office in room HT–60.

Members of Congress desiring to purchase reprints of material submitted for inclusion in the Congressional Record may do so by contacting the Congressional Printing Management Division, at the Government Printing Office, on 512–0224, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. daily.

By order of the Joint Committee on Printing.

JOHN W. WARNER, Chairman.

NOTICE

Effective January 1, 1999, the subscription price of the Congressional Record will be $325 per year, or $165 for 6 months. Individual issues may be purchased for $2.75 per copy. The cost for the microfiche edition will remain $141 per year; single copies will remain $1.50 per issue. This price increase is necessary based upon the cost of printing and distribution.

MICHAEL F. DiMARIO, Public Printer.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HAGEL). The Senate majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, this morning, the Senate will be in a period for morning business until 12:30 p.m. Following morning business, the Senate can be expected to consider any legislative or Executive Calendar items cleared for consideration, although I don’t expect any items to be cleared today. Votes are not anticipated during Saturday’s session of the Senate, and it is expected that the Senate will not be in on Sunday, but we will be in on Monday afternoon at a time we will discuss with the Democratic leadership.

During Friday’s session, the Senate passed a continuing resolution allowing Government to operate until midnight Monday. So it will be anticipated that by Monday afternoon, we will have agreement on an omnibus appropriations bill or we need to consider another short-term continuing resolution.

Negotiations are ongoing at this time, with regard to a number of issues, including the tax extender issue, a number of authorizations and appropriations issues, all of which could end up in the omnibus appropriations bill. Of course, there is a possibility on Monday, or at some point, some of the bills that are being discussed in connection with the omnibus appropriations bill might move separately. One example is the Treasury-Postal Service conference report. If we can get an agreement in the omnibus bill on some of the issues involved in that bill, that became controversial, if we get that worked out, we can move the bill freestanding, but all of that is in the process of being discussed right now.

We will update our colleagues as progress is being made, I think that progress is occurring. A lot of negotiations are going on this morning and will continue throughout the afternoon. We have had meetings between the congressional leadership and the White House this morning. We expect to meet again at 5 o’clock this afternoon to get an assessment of where we are. We are getting Senators and House Members, Democrats and Republicans, involved in all those negotiations.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to executive session to consider the following nominations on the Executive Calendar: Nos. 672 through 865 and all nominations in the Secretary’s desk in the Army, Marine Corps and Navy.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now return to legislative session.

ORDERS FOR MONDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1998

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand in recess until 2 p.m. on Monday, October 12. I further ask unanimous consent that the time for the two leaders be reserved.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I further ask unanimous consent that there then be a period for the transaction of morning business until 3 p.m.—that will be on Monday—with Senators permitted to speak for up to 5 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, we will come in at 2 p.m., unless there is some need to change it on Monday. We will be in a period for morning business until 3 p.m., and the Senate will then proceed to any legislative or Executive Calendar items that may be cleared for action, and particularly when we do get to the final day, it is my hope and my expectation that some conference reports or some bills that may be available can be cleared for action. I know there is a possibility of that being available, and also nominations still continue to be a possibility, although all of that depends on how the negotiations go. We can’t be tied up trying to work through nominations and conference reports while also being involved in negotiations on the omnibus bill. Senators will be advised of the voting situation as long as possible, hopefully 24 hours in advance of any recorded vote.

EDUCATION

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, let me just say briefly, Mr. President, on the education issue, it is very difficult to deal with these negotiations fairly and honestly and productively when you have the President and the Democratic leadership coming out and bashing negotiators on issues like education. It also makes it difficult, when you have that happen, to be able to work with people with whom you disagree philosophically, and try to work in good faith, but also it begins to diminish respect and trust.

That is one of the biggest problems we have right now. It is so difficult to maintain a sufficient level of trust to be able to get your work done. I think most people who know me—Senators on both sides of the aisle—know that is very important to me. I strive to be trustworthy myself and to keep my word, and I find it very hard to work with people who I don’t have that same feeling about.

When it comes to education, I will stand aside to nobody, especially a bunch of people who went to private schools and they howl and scream about what ought to happen in public schools. I went to public schools from the first grade right through college. I went to Duck Hill Elementary and Grenada Elementary and Pascagoula Junior High School. My wife went to public schools. My children went to public schools.

I believe and care about education and public schools. I worked for the University of Mississippi. My mother was a former schoolteacher. She taught school for 19 years.

For the President to get up down there and demagoguery this issue about how he is not getting his principles in education is very hard for me to accept. Mr. President. What he wants is a Federal education program. He wants it dictated from Washington. He wants it run by Washington bureaucrats, and he wants it his way.

I don’t have faith in Washington bureaucrats. When the money comes to Washington it trickles down through the Atlanta bureaucracy and trickles down to the Jackson bureaucracy, by the time it gets to the teachers and the kids, half of it is gone. And they are told, you must spend it this way or that way, when may not be the way it is needed.

I have faith in local school administrators, local teachers, parents, and, yes, the children, to make the decisions about what is needed for reading, what is needed in remedial math, what is needed to fight the drug problem. And so that is the basic difference for the American people. I ask you, who do you trust on education? The local officials, the local school officials, the parents, or Washington bureaucrats? That is the choice.

President Clinton and his bureaucrats, the liberals in Washington, they want to run education and manipulate education from Washington, DC. The Republicans say we should return the money to the local level. If the schools want to use it for reading, fine. If they want to use it for extra teachers, great. If they want to use it for more school construction, that is their choice. If they want to use it for a drug-free school program great; do that.

That is the difference. Who do you trust? Local officials or national officials? Who do you trust on education? The son of a schoolteacher and people who went to public education, or pampered people who went to private schools and then stand on their mounts and look down their noses and tell us what ought to happen in public education?

I have about had it on this issue, and I am sending a warning to the President of the United States: I am not going to tolerate a whole lot more demagoguery on this subject.

Mr. THURMOND addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, I want to commend the able majority leader for his remarks on just what he said. Are the local people going to control education or is Washington going to control it? I am in thorough, thorough agreement with the able majority leader in what he has had to say.

ORDER FOR RECESS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask the Senate stand in recess under the previous order.

I withhold that for one second.

Mr. CHAFEE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

(The remarks of Mr. CHAFEE pertaining to the introduction of S. 267 are located in today’s RECORD under “Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.”)

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask the Senate stand in recess under the previous order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion. All those in favor—Mr. DORGAN, I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This is not a unanimous consent.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask the Senate stand in recess under the previous order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion. All those in favor—Mr. DORGAN. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I rise to speak in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If the Senator from Tennessee would suspend, there is a motion to recess pending.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the motion to recess.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Tennessee.

REGARDING THE MEDICARE+CHOICE PROGRAM

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, the Medicare+Choice program was created as part of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 to provide Medicare beneficiaries with high quality, cost effective options, in addition to the continuing option of traditional fee-for-service Medicare. When fully implemented, Medicare+Choice will provide seniors with one stop shopping for health care; including hospital and physician coverage, prescription drugs, and even preventive benefits, at a savings.
This change in Medicare is monumental. It is dramatic. And it is essential to preserving and strengthening Medicare for our seniors and individuals with disabilities. This change breeds challenges—some that can be predicted, which came with Medicare+Choice, and others which seem surprisingly hesitant to participate? Are the pullouts the beginning of a trend which will ultimately undermine the Medicare+Choice program, which was specifically designed to restore Medicare’s fiscal health and give seniors more options? To what extent are insurance companies and health plans over-reacting to natural “growing pains” associated with the implementation of policies? Who to call? What to do? We as a government must respond. This Administration must move decisively to respond to the problem of the pullouts. We on the National Bipartisan Commission on the Future of Medicare are working hard to address ways to strengthen the security provided by Medicare. And the red flags raised by the announcements this week underscore the importance of this work. No longer can we be satisfied with an outdated, 30 year old bureaucracy as the best way to provide health care for our nation’s seniors. A typical 65 year old senior who retires moves from a private sector health care system—with a variety of quality, low cost options, including prescription drug coverage, and catastrophic out-of-pocket protections—to a more limited, antiquated government program, without any limits on how much you are required to pay and no drug coverage. By updating Medicare, we not only ensure its continued existence past the current bankruptcy date 10 years from now, but we provide continuity of care, limited out of pocket expenses, and a mechanism for improving quality of care that you the patient receive.

As of October 8, forty-three of the current health care plans participating in Medicare announced their intention not to renew their Medicare contracts in 1999. Another 52 plans are reducing service areas. These withdrawals result in over 414,292 beneficiaries in 371 counties face the daunting task of securing alternative coverage provided by Medicare by January 1, 1999. Although this represents a number of today’s beneficiaries about one percent, those who have relied on their health plan to bridge the traditional gap between Medicare and Medigap now must either find another HMO (which means switching doctors in many cases), or move back to traditional fee-for-service Medicare which frequently means more personal expense. Should these individuals choose the traditional Medicare option they will probably also scramble to find a supplementary Medigap policy, with likely higher premiums than their original Medigap policy and perhaps fewer benefits. 10% of the disadvantaged beneficiaries live in areas where no alternative Medicare option, they will probably return to that program.

In the serious dilemmas this disruption has caused for those seniors, the extent to which HMOS pulled out sent shock waves throughout the Federal government and health care industry. There are many profound questions provoked by this announcement. Why are insurance companies, hospital systems, and physicians who once applauded the Medicare+Choice program now seemingly hesitant to participate? Are the pullouts the beginning of a trend which will ultimately undermine the Medicare+Choice program, which was specifically designed to restore Medicare’s fiscal health and give seniors more options? To what extent are insurance companies and health plans over-reacting to natural “growing pains” associated with the implementation of policies? Who to call? What to do? We in government should listen to this message.

The Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), the government agency in charge of Medicare, is surprisingly optimistic and upbeat about the long term feasibility of Medicare+Choice. They urge skeptics to remember that the program is in its infancy. They point to Medicare HMO participation, which after a rocky start in the mid 1980s, now boasts one in six Medicare beneficiaries. They anticipate increased enrollment as more Medicare recipients have a greater understanding of their options and of how the opportunity to have a plan that meets specific needs meaning better care with greater security, not less. To date, full scale educational efforts have only occurred in five states. The beneficiary education program, which includes literature and health insurance education will change this. And that is a government responsibility.

HCFA also takes issue with the HMOS’ assertion that it is underpaying managed care plans. They cite evidence obtained by the Physician Payment Review Commission in 1997 that Medicare has been paying $2 billion a year too much to managed care plans. This observation led to the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act, which included a provision for nationwide expansion by August, 1999. Most seniors are still unaware of their options in their regions. Many associate expanded choice with insecurity. Only time will tell if this will change. And that is a government responsibility.

HCFA states that the pulls of HMOs is the beginning of a trend which will ultimately undermine the Medicare+Choice program, which was specifically designed to restore Medicare’s fiscal health and give seniors more options. To what extent are insurance companies and health plans over-reacting to natural “growing pains” associated with the implementation of policies? Who to call? What to do? We in government should listen to this message.
averages, rather than individuals, and the reality of where people live, we must commit to address reasonable compensation in greater detail. The reality is: the reimbursement system for health care plans is surprisingly dis-associated with the actual outcome delivery care. We must invest today in designing and implementing a realistic, scientifically based reimbursement structure.

A key component of the Balanced Budget Act was the move toward equity in payment across the country. Many HMOs were counting on receiving additional funds, following review by HCFA on the vast geographic disparities in payment. However, HCFA decided to postpone this adjustment until 2000, based on inadequate funds following an across-the-board 2% update. Thus, the so-called “blended rates” will not be applied until 2000.

HCFA plans to incorporate risk adjustment in 2000 to reduce selective enrollment by plans and reduce total over-payments to managed care plans. HCFA has also recognized the adjustments necessary in implementing new plans, and has thus allowed leeway with enrollment plans. There are some who feel that recent developments could have been avoided if HCFA acted more rapidly and more responsibly in carrying out Congress’ mandate. Congressman Bilirakis, chairman of the House Commerce Subcommittee on Health and the Environment, stated that federal health officials were “guided by a rigid bureaucratic mentality which led to ossification rather than modernization of the Medicare program.”

The decision of so many managed care plans to withdraw and downsize their Medicare contracts raises a red flag. We must first resolve the immediate coverage disruptions facing many of our seniors. Then we—this Congress, this President, HCFA, the insurance industry and seniors—must pledge to work together to make this program a success. Not only in the short term, but with an eye to the future. To survive, Medicare must change. Medicare needs the flexibility to respond to the changing health care environment, not only for our generation, but for our children and grandchildren. Now is the time for commitment and compassion, rather than overreaction or pre-mature failure of changes made to date. Knee jerk reactions, rather than thoughtfully moving to solve the problems, will only wreak further havoc on this evolving program. A commitment to education, and a more rational, responsive administrative and oversight structure must be pursued to meet future needs in Medicare and the care of our seniors. On a positive note, there are 48 pending applications of private plans wishing to enter the Medicare Market; 25 plans have filed their comments on service areas. By working with HCFA, the insurance industry, hospitals, health care providers, and beneficiaries, we can assure that the Medicare Choice program will reach its full potential of better and more secure care for seniors and individuals with disabilities.

Also embedded within my remarks is a challenge to the Congress. Although we just passed, last year, the Balanced Budget Act that stretched the solvency of Medicare until 2008, it is clear that the Congress must promptly revisit Medicare once the National Bipartisan Commission on Medicare and the Budget Act was the move toward equity in payment across the country.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

EDUCATION AND THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I would like to respond briefly to the comments made by the majority leader earlier this morning on the subject of education.

I have great respect for our Senate majority leader. He and I agree on some things and disagree on others, but I always have great respect for his opinion. But on the issue of schools and what kind of, if any, involvement the Federal Government shall have on this issue, I think we have a very substantial disagreement.

State and local governments, especially local school boards, will always run our school system, and that is how it should be. I don’t suggest, and would never suggest, that we change that. However, there are some things that we can and should aspire to as a nation in dealing with education. One is to improve and invest in the infrastructure of our schools. I have spoken on the floor a good number of times about the condition of some of the schools in this country. I won’t go into that at great length; let me just describe a couple of them.

At the Cannon Ball Elementary School in Cannon Ball, ND, most of the children going to that school are Indian children. There are about 150 students who must share only 4 bathrooms and one water fountain. Part of the school has been condemned. Some of those students spend time in a room down in the older part of the school that can only be used during certain days of the week because the stench of leaking sewer gas frequently fills that room with noxious fumes that requires it to be evacuated.

They can’t connect that school to the Internet because the wiring in that 90-year-old facility will not support technology. The young students going through those schoolroom doors are not getting the best of what this country has to offer. And that school district simply does not have the funds on its own to repair that school or build a new one.

I challenge anyone in this Congress to go into that school building and say no to young Rosie in third grade who asked me, “Mr. Senator, can you buy my trailer?” Can we change anyone to go into that school, and decide whether that is the kind of school you want your children to go to. Can you say that your children are entering a classroom that you are proud of? I don’t think so.

That school district doesn’t have the capacity to repair that school on its own. It has a very small tax base that will not support a bonding initiative for building a new school. There are schools like that—the Cannon Ball Elementary School, the Alaskan Indian School on the Turtle Mountain Reservation—all over this country, and we ought to do something about it. We can do something about it we enacted a number of proposals on school construction. That ought to be a priority for this Senate. So, too, ought this Senate have as its priority trying to help State and local governments and school districts reduce class size. It makes a difference.

I have two children in public schools, in grade school. One goes to school in a trailer, a portable classroom. The other is in a class with 28 or 29 students. And it has almost always been that way. Would it be better if they were in schools with class sizes of 15, 16 or 18 students? Of course, it would. Does a teacher have more time to devote to each student with smaller classrooms? Of course. Of course. Can we do something about that? Only if this U.S. Senate determines that education is a priority. Only if we decide to do something about it. I am not suggesting that we decide that we ought to run the local school systems; that is not the case at all. But we should decide that we as a nation have the capability and the will to modernize and help construct the kind of schools that all of us would be proud to send our children to.

NEED FOR URGENT ACTION ON HOME HEALTH CARE

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, as we reach the conclusion of this 105th Congress, I note that there are a good many issues yet to be discussed and resolved. I wanted to come to the floor to talk about one issue that is very important, the issue of home health care. It is vitally important that Congress take action on this issue before adjourning.

I am very familiar with home health care. This is not theory to me. It is not an issue that I just read about and only understand from books and manuals and rules and regulations.

One snowy Wednesday evening in January a number of years ago, my mother was killed in a tragic man-slaughter incident in North Dakota. She had gone to the hospital to visit a friend and on her drive home, four blocks from home, a drunk driver going 80 to 90 miles an hour and being chased by the police hit her and killed her instantly.

During this same period, my father was having significant health problems, and as so often is the case, my mother was the bulk of his care at home in Bismarck, ND. I will perhaps never forget the moment of having to wake my father up and tell him that my mother had lost her life.

In addition to the shock of losing our mother, my family understood that we were also going to have to struggle to make sure my father got the care he needed. In the days ahead, we began talking about what we could do to help my father in his fragile state of health. One of the discoveries we made was that there is in this country a system of home health care. Through this system, skilled health care providers will come into the home on a routine basis to help to meet the health care needs of those who desperately need it.

My family used the home health care system and the services of wonderful nurses and others who worked in home health care for my father. It allowed us to keep my father out of a nursing home that was in the home that he had lived in for so many years with my mother.

Was that important? Yes. It was very important and made life much, much better for him. And it occurred because we have a home health care system that could provide the noninstitutional care needed to allow my father to continue to live at home. My father is gone now, but I still remember how important that home health care was and still is to millions of families all across this country.

Home health care is a wonderful Medicare benefit because it allows older Americans to remain at home and to be independent where they are most comfortable, rather than having to go into more costly hospitals or nursing homes.

But at this time, we have in our country a very serious financing problem with home health care that is jeopardizing this Medicare benefit. Before we end this session of the Congress, we need to do something to address it. I would like to describe just for a moment what that problem is.

Some states have a system more fair to the historically efficient home health care providers. There have been dozens of bills introduced to solve the problem, and to date more than two-thirds of the Senate from both political parties have cosponsored one or more of these bills, or have gone on record in support of efforts to address the problem.

With nearly 70 Senators cosponsoring or supporting legislation of this type, I think we ought to, before Monday evening or whenever we adjourn, fix the home health care system.

I know my colleagues on the Senate Finance Committee have been working to develop legislation that will at least deal with the most pressing problems in this interim payment system and to stabilize the home health agencies.

One of the challenges they face is to do this in a fiscally responsible way that will not harm other areas of Medicare, Medicaid, or the Social Security program.

It is also important, I think, not to be asking older Americans, especially those who have reached the age of declining income, to shoulder the cost for this change through a new copayment on home health services.

I know that the Congress can meet this challenge if it decides this is a priority between now and perhaps Monday evening. Congress must, in my judgment, begin to select the right priorities.

We seem to be at loggerheads here in negotiations between the House and the Senate, the Congress and the President, Democrats and Republicans. Between now and when we complete the final omnibus spending bill, we must make choices about what our priorities are, what is more important, and what is less important.

I ask that we decide that dealing with the home health care payment system is more important. That it be one of the priorities.

This is something we can do. It is not something that is terribly difficult. It is simply a choice that we will make—Democrats, Republicans, liberals, conservatives, all of us deciding together how we will spend limited resources on nearly unlimited wants in this country.

Mr. President, I know others wish to speak, and I would say to the majority leader that this will be an interesting couple of days. He, I am sure, will have a significant challenge working with all of us to try to figure out what the priorities will be in the closing hours of this session. It is my fervent hope that one of those priorities will be to address the interim payment system in home health care.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the previous unanimous consent agreement with respect to morning business on Monday, October 12, be amended so that 30 minutes are under the control of Senator Bob KERREY, 15 minutes under the control of Senator FORD, and the remaining 15 minutes under the control of Senator LOTT, or my designee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

EXTENSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that morning business be extended until 3 p.m., with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each for debate only with no motions in order, and at 3 p.m. the Senate automatically stand in recess under the previous order.

I further ask that during morning business the following Senators be recognized: Senator John KERRY for 15 minutes, Senator DASCHLE for 30 minutes, Senator KENNY for 20 minutes, Senator LOTT for 15 minutes under the control of Senator KEMPTNER, Senator GRAMS for 20 minutes, and Senator DOMENICI for 20 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, and I shall not object, I would like to inquire of the Senator from Mississippi, is that the only morning business leadership would intend to have on Monday? I would like to have 15 minutes in morning business on Monday as well.

Mr. LOTT. I think we will be able to extend that. It was just we had specific requests. Senator Bob KERREY was here. He needs 30 minutes on intelligently. We had thought we would have at least an hour just in general, but we are getting specific requests. I am sure we will extend it. On Monday, hopefully, we will be able to do some business and, hopefully, even do the omnibus appropriations bill. But there is no need to limit it just to that. We will extend it.

Mr. DORGAN. Would the Senator be willing to add me for 15 minutes on Monday?

Mr. LOTT. I certainly will. I ask unanimous consent that Senator DORGAN have 15 minutes in morning business as well on Monday, October 12.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, would the Senator be kind enough to make a similar request on my behalf?

Mr. LOTT. Why don’t I just ask for 15 minutes every morning for Senator KENNEDY for the remainder of the year.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is that the Senator’s request?

Mr. LOTT. No.

Mr. KENNEDY. And a happy birthday to you.

Mr. LOTT. I amend that request to include 15 minutes for Senator KENNEDY on Monday morning, also.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the majority leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. I hope my friend, our majority leadership, had a joyous and happy birthday.

Mr. LOTT. Thank you very much.

Mr. KENNEDY. Maybe it is spilling over to today. But we wish to thank him.

FUNDING EDUCATION

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I appreciate the opportunity to speak on the Senate floor this afternoon about matters which I am very hopeful can be addressed and will be addressed and I think should be addressed in the remaining hours before the Congress acts finally on the area of education and what we are going to do finally in trying to meet the responsibilities that we have to assure a smaller class size for the 53 million Americans who will be attending and are attending schools across this country, which is literally the equivalent of the total number of teachers.

I am very hopeful that in the ultimate and final budget agreement there will be an agreement on the President’s recommendation of 100,000 teachers over the period of the next 5 years, and that we will also embrace the very, very important and, I think, essential school modernization program which effectively would provide about $22 billion in interest-free bonds to local communities across this country in order to modernize their schools.

What we have seen now is a rather dramatic change in the demography and the growth in the total number of children who are going into the school systems all across this country, and at the same time you have seen a continued deterioration in many of the school buildings across the country. That is certainly true in my State, which has many of the oldest school buildings in the country. It is true in many of the other States across this country, and even in a number of the rural communities.

As a matter of fact, the General Accounting Office did a study in terms of what would be necessary in our country in order to make sure that we are going to have good classrooms for the students, and it was estimated to be $110 billion. That is what the need is according to a nonpartisan evaluation of what the conditions are in our school buildings across the country.

Therefore, the recommendation the President has made for $122 billion is a very modest recommendation. We have not embraced that recommendation at the present time. The urging of the President of the United States is that before we move out from this Congress, we ought to be about the business of addressing that particular education issue. Education is second to every family in this country. It is of essential importance to every young person in this Nation, and it is a matter of enormous importance in terms of our country being able to compete in a global economy.

So the urgency of these proposals—one is to have a reduced class size and the second is to be able to modernize our classrooms—is enormously important. If we look over the amount of resources we devote to education in the budget of this country, we will find that it is only about 2 percent. It is only 2 percent of our national budget.

This is the 1998 Federal budget, and you can see from this pie chart the allocation of resources for education is only 2 percent. If you ask people what percent of a dollar they believe goes to education, I think most Americans would think 10 or 12 percent, or 10 or 12 cents should be going to education. If you asked what they believe they would like to see the numerator, it would be even higher.

We are only talking about 2 percent. So the real question is, in a time now when our appropriators and negotiators are meeting to resolve on what will be a $1.7 billion budget, will we be able to find the resources to provide for the reduced class size for K through 3—$1 billion for fiscal 1999, $7 billion over the next 5 years—to see a dramatic reduction in the number of students per class in K through 3, that is what we are trying to do, and to modernize our school buildings all across this country.

Those are two priorities. I must say I strongly agree with the Senator from Massachusetts, and with Leader GEPHARDT who said we should not leave this city until we respond in a positive way to make sure those requirements are fulfilled, because there is nothing that is more important than meeting the needs of the children of this country.

Finally, Mr. President, I think this is important to do for a number of reasons. Every day that children go into these school systems, they go into dilapidated schools, they go to classrooms with windows broken or with poor heating or poor air-conditioning in the course of the early fall and the late spring and early summer in many other parts of the country, where the pipes are leaking, or where some schools are actually closed in the wintertime because of the failure of the heating system, we are sending a very powerful message to those children.
our children and we ought to be about the business of looking out for the interests of these children to make sure they are going to have a well-qualified teacher in every classroom in this country. That ought to be our hope, that ought to be our challenge, and that ought to be our mission. That ought to be an effort made in the local community. It ought to be an effort made at the State level. But we should not say we are going to abandon our national interest by saying we are not going to interfere if there are inadequate capabilities, or an inability, which is too often the case, to help and assist local communities, particularly when so many local communities such as we have seen in the recent times in Chicago and many other communities—my own city of Boston—are making this extraordinary effort to enhance the academic achievement for the children of this country and in those communities.

We ought to be able to say we will be a partner with you, we are willing to be a partner with the local community, we are willing be a partner with the State, and we are going to be a partner in helping to modernize our facilities. Otherwise, I believe that we are going to convince the next generation that we are serious about their education is going to be a hollow one. No child will go into a classroom and see that it is in a deteriorated condition and then be exposed to other areas where everything is bright and shiny and new because of greater expenditures and not say, “What is really important? What do our parents really think is important? Where they are spending the money is what is bright and shiny and new.”

When we are not expending the resources in the classrooms, we send a very powerful message—it may be a subtle message but it is a powerful one—that we are not prepared as a nation to be doing the things that ought to be done to upgrade the classrooms in this country.

I hope in the remaining hours of this process, as our leaders, our appropriators and leaders, members of those committees, get together to work out the final budget, as we are starting over for the next year, that the education budget is going to have the priority that every American family wants it to have, and that is priority No. 1. I hope when we come to that No. 1 we are going to say, “The size of the teachers in those classrooms will be such that the teacher is going to be able to identify and spend some moments with each child in that classroom. That is the hope and desire of the teachers who have committed themselves to excellence, to trying to enhance that academic achievement and accomplishment. Let’s be a partner with the local communities and the States that are embarking on that effort.”

Let us, as we are going through the final days now—let’s not leave town. Let’s not say we will take whatever is served up to us in the budget. Let us say education is important. We can go about the business of trying to make a difference in the classrooms and in the quality of the people who will be in those classrooms. Let us resolve that we will do that before we leave this town. That is, I think, an important responsibility that we have. We should not fail our children.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Roberts). The Senator from Minnesota.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. GRAMS. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the work of domestic violence shelters and centers in my home state of Minnesota. As my colleagues may know, October is recognized as “National Domestic Violence Awareness Month.” This is a time to strengthen our resolve to end domestic violence and sexual assault. More importantly, it is a time to remember those who have suffered and died as a result of these terrible crimes.

I am very concerned about the number of domestic violence incidents in our society. Americans should not have to live in fear of being abused by anyone, let alone a family member.

In my view, community-based domestic violence shelters and centers should be commended for their support for victims of physical, emotional, and sexual abuse. Their efforts to provide education and assistance to battered women and children have helped families and communities escape domestic violence.

I ask unanimous consent the names of these Minnesota organizations be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the list was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. President, domestic abuse is not an insurmountable problem facing our society. We must work together to curb this problem that crosses over economical, cultural, and political boundaries.

Through the efforts of community groups, families, and law enforcement, Americans can take meaningful steps toward eradicating the presence of this crime in their daily lives.

PRINCIPLE, COURAGE, AND TAX CUTS

Mr. President, Minnesota will have the opportunity this month to participate in a variety of National Domestic Violence Awareness Month initiatives. Throughout October, citizens will raise public awareness through candlelight vigils, rallies, and marches throughout our communities.

One of the more creative programs will be an art exhibit honoring 30 Minneapolisis public school students who are finalists in the “Speak Up” domestic violence awareness poster contest.

This initiative, co-sponsored by the Harriet Tubman Center and Intermedia Arts in Minneapolis, will encourage students to increase public awareness and prevention of family violence. The competition will award scholarships to twelve individuals who present various domestic violence themes in their artwork.

Next fall, these works will be part of the Annual Domestic Violence Art exhibit in the Senate Office Building sponsored by my colleague, Senator Paul Wellstone.

I am certain many Members of Congress will visit this exhibit to admire the important contributions of these young Minnesotans toward raising the consciousness of our communities about the issue of domestic abuse.

Domestic violence is not an insurmountable problem facing our society. We must work together to curb this problem that crosses over economical, cultural, and political boundaries.

PRINCIPLE, COURAGE, AND TAX CUTS

Mr. GRAMS. Mr. President, I want to take the remaining part of my time this morning to talk about a subject I have worked on for the 6 years I have been in Congress, and that is trying to raise the awareness of the issue of taxes in this country, that we are now taxed at an all-time high, and that Americans need and deserve some form of tax relief.

So, Mr. President, I wanted to take time to rise today to express my disappointment over the Senate’s failure to fulfill its obligations to the tax-payers to consider and to pass any kind of tax relief bill this year.

Fiscally, socially, morally, this is a tremendous mistake, and I believe my colleagues are wrong. I am equally disappointed at President Clinton’s threats to veto this important legislation had it passed. It is the same case as last year when, in the State of Virginia, when then-candidate for Governor Gilmore was pledging a tax cut of his own. The President said at that time that Virginians would be “selfish” to vote for tax relief. This year he says “to squander money on a tax cut”—again, that is how President Clinton is describing our attempt this year to let working Americans keep more of their money—‘‘to squander money on a tax cut.’’

Unfortunately, there is a pattern here, and apparently neither President Clinton nor Washington has changed their mind. Both want as much money as they can get from the taxpayers, so they can spend it the way they think is best.

According to Webster’s Dictionary, the definition of ‘‘squander’’ is ‘‘to spend extravagantly or foolishly.’’ I say to President Clinton that I am shocked that you actually believe taxpayers squander their salaries in this way and that only Washington can spend the money wisely. With such highly placed disregard for the fiscal abilities of the American people, I believe it is no wonder that Washington has been unwilling to give the taxpayers more control over their own dollars.

Let me focus first this morning, Mr. President, on the budget surplus. In a recent series of high-profile celebrations, folks here in Washington could hardly wait to rush to the cameras to claim credit for the $70 billion budget surplus that Washington has slap their own backs with. Politicians have been humming happy ditties all around this town while approving big-ticket spending items right and left.

Meanwhile, those same politicians pontificated over the surplus to ‘‘save Social Security first.’’

The truth is, the White House didn’t generate this surplus, nor did the U.S. House or the Senate. The politicians have no rightful claim to the surplus. Washington should not be allowed to sit around and dream up ways to spend even more money because a surplus has arrived.

Working Americans are responsible for propelling our economy forward and generating this budget surplus. They deserve to get it back. Meanwhile, those same politicians pontificated over the surplus to ‘‘save Social Security first.’’

As I campaign in the coming weeks, I urge my colleagues to review the CBO’s ‘‘August Economic and Budget Outlook,’’ which shows precisely where revenues will come from in the next 10 years. The data shows that the greatest share of the projected budget surplus—outside the money earmarked for Social Security—comes from the taxpayers, not the FICA taxes.

In 1998, individual income, corporate, and estate taxes make up nearly 80 percent of total tax revenue growth, while the share of FICA tax is about 20 percent. Economists are expected to grow by $723 billion, or 60 percent, over the next 10 years.

What I am saying, Mr. President, is that the taxpayers generated the surplus, outside the money earmarked for Social Security. The Government has no right to absorb it. It is only moral and fair to return at least a portion of it to the taxpayers.

If we don’t return at least a portion of the surplus to the taxpayers, and do it soon, Washington is going to spend it, leaving nothing then for tax relief for the vitally important task of actually trying to preserve and save Social Security. Such spending will only enhance the costly ‘‘incomes taxes paid by the taxpayers, not the FICA taxes.’’

Mr. President, the situation we find ourselves in today reflects two very different principles of government: Are we going to embrace tax cuts for working Americans, or are we going to embrace more spending for social engineering?

I am proud to serve here as a member of the Republican Party—a party which, since its creation, has firmly held that a person owns himself, a person owns his labor, and a person owns the fruits of his labor. We believe the pursuit of individual and States rights and a restricted role for the Federal Government create economic growth and prosperity.

The two parties have traditionally offered a marked choice—a choice between our principles of government: Are we going to embrace tax cuts for working Americans, or are we going to embrace more spending for social engineering?

The Republican Party, on the other hand, believes Government should be limited only to that amount needed for necessary services, and this is, indeed, a choice between two futures: a choice between small Government or big Government, a choice between discipline or irresponsibility, a choice between individual freedom or servitude to a bigger Government, responsibility or dependency, long-term economic prosperity for the Nation or some form of economic stagnation.

Mr. President, that is exactly why the American taxpayers ushered in an era of Republican congressional leadership in 1994, a new majority that pledged to provide fiscal discipline, individual freedom, personal responsibility, and prosperity for all people.

Unfortunately, Congress has so far delivered on only a small portion of that pledge, blocked by the competing forces of tax-and-spend versus tax relief and personal empowerment. The choice I spoke of a moment ago has been blurred as both parties fight in a misguided effort to purchase some measure of the people’s trust.

They think you can run out and with their own money buy the trust of the American people. But in doing so, Congress has allowed annual Federal spending to increase from $1.5 trillion in 1994 to $1.73 trillion today. In fact, Federal spending has never been higher. During the same period, the national debt has grown from $4.9 trillion to $5.7 trillion, an $810 billion increase in our national debt.

Mr. President, take a look at the current debate over the supplemental spending to be included in the omnibus appropriations bill. A week ago, we were hearing encouraging words that much of this would be offset by cuts in other programs. Now, as we careen toward adjournment, it appears there will be as much as $20 billion in emergency spending—costs of course—and the report this morning is that there could be even more as we work and maybe have to give in to the administration demands for more money to be spent in order to avoid a Government shutdown.

Mr. President, despite a $70 billion budget surplus, total taxation is at an all-time high. The tax relief Congress enacted last year does not go nearly far enough. I am proud we had the courage to enact the $500 per-child tax credit, which I authored in 1993, but when our tax bill overall returns to the taxpayers only one cent for every dollar they send to Washington—especially now, during a time of surpluses—I believe it is not enough.

Working Americans see their earnings taxed, and then re-taxed repeatedly. Washington taxes their income when they first earn it. It is then subject to excise taxes when they spend it. And their savings and investments are also taxed. And when they die, the Government is the first to put their hands into the estate.
Farmers and small business owners cannot easily pass their businesses on to their families because the huge estate and gift taxes still exist. The government imposes a 43 percent tax on all American couples simply because they are married. Even seniors—retired people like our mandate—the 105th Congress did not complete the job.

Our progress has fizzled not because our efforts have lost the support of the people—in fact, two thirds of the American people supported tax relief during the 1996 elections, and broad tax relief still enjoys overwhelming support today—but because some in Congress have lost their backbones. They have lost the courage to make a stand on principle and not abandon their moral compass in the face of rising deficits.

In too many instances, this Congress has become a willing collaborator of President Clinton's tax-and-spend policies. We have helped to build a bigger, more expensive government, and in doing so, we have abandoned our promise of tax relief for working Americans.

Mr. President, each time Congress makes a promise to the taxpayers—and then deserts them—Congress comfort itself by saying it would come back next year and enact an even larger tax cut. This is self-deceiving at best.

If we do not take a stand today, what is going to happen to make us more courageous a year from now? Besides, each year we wait, the Government takes an ever-greater bite of the earnings of working Americans and the Government gets bigger and becomes harder to trim in the future.

Another point I would like to make, Mr. President, is that a tax cut is not spent, convoluted ear-splitting, tax-cutting practices of Washington would we consider a cut in tax rates to be spending. The reason is simple: first, it is the taxpayers' money that supports the Government running; second, tax relief not only ensures a healthy and strong economy, but also makes the Government get its work done; third, tax relief benefits all Americans, and Congress approved that spending every time. In the next 5 years, Washington will raid another $600 billion from the Social Security trust funds. Those politicians who insist on using the surplus for Social Security have voted for most, if not all, of those spending bills, and so it is those politicians who in the last 15 years have stripped the trust funds of any surplus.

Mr. President, despite the rhetoric about saving Social Security, few have come up with a concrete plan to save it. The Balanced Budget Act of 1997 means Washington can legally use the money to fund its favorite non-Social Security programs, rendering these “assets” little more than Treasury IOUs. Unless we change the law, Washington will continue to abuse Social Security until it goes broke.

I agree that reforming Social Security is one of few issues that are more important than the safety and health of our Nation's workers. In conclusion, Washington's tax and spending policies have systematically ignored our children's future and severely undermined the basic functions of the family. We must abandon those policies and help restore the family to an economic position capable of fulfilling its vital responsibilities.

It is their money. Let us give it back. Thank you very much, Mr. President. I yield the floor.

Mr. ENZI addressed the Chair.

ORDER FOR RECORD TO REMAIN OPEN FOR INTRODUCTION OF A BILL

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senators from Mexico, Mr. DOMENICIT and Mr. BINGHAM, have until 6 p.m. tonight to file legislation that amended the Occupational Safety and Health Act for purposes of introducing the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Hearing none, without objection, it is so ordered.

OSHA LEGISLATION DURING THE 105TH CONGRESS

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I can think of few issues that are more important to the average American than the safety and health of our Nation's workers. During the last 2 years, Congress stepped up to the plate and confronted this important issue head-on. The end result was three separate bills becoming law that amended the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. Until this year, in 28 years, the act was amended one time—in 1990—and that was to increase fines. The American workplace has changed quite a bit over the last three decades and I'm pleased that progress in now changing, too.

During the first session of the 105th Congress, I introduced a comprehensive piece of legislation with the support of further tax relief. Some States, such as Missouri and Florida, even have constitutional or statutory requirements to return to taxpayers any revenues that exceed income growth.

The States have proved that if government performs only legitimate and necessary functions without waste, it can leave much more money in the pockets of the people. And it is the people who can best spend their money, whether it is for their children's health care, saving for a college education, giving more to their church and charities, or just helping to set something aside for their retirement.

Now, Mr. President, back to the question of the budget surplus and who should spend this money—the Government or the workers who earned it?

In conclusion, Washington's tax and spending policies have systematically ignored our children's future and severely undermined the basic functions of the family. We must abandon those policies and help restore the family to an economic position capable of fulfilling its vital responsibilities.
Senator Gregg and Frist and 20 other Senate cosponsors, entitled the Safety Advancement for Employees Act or SAFE Act. At the same time, my good friend, Jim Talent, introduced similar legislation in the House which received strong, bipartisan support—a rarity for such a polarized issue.

It is important to understand that both the Senate and House versions did not attempt to reinvent OSHA's wheel, just change its treads. Treading water for 27 years, OSHA has never truly attempted to encourage employers and employees in their efforts to create safe and healthful workplaces. Instead, OSHA chose to operate according to a command and control mentality. This approach has lead to burdensome and often incomprehensible regulations which do not relate to worker safety and health and are, quite often, only sporadically enforced.

The AFL-CIO publically acknowledged that only 2.250 State and Federal inspectors regulating 6.2 million American worksites, an employer can expect to see an inspector once every 167 years. In addition to this enormous time lapse, the sheer diversity of safety and health concerns stems from restaurants to restaurants to homes across America prohibits an inspector from fully understanding each worker's needs and concerns.

OSHA seems more concerned about collecting fines in the single year than about improving worker safety. OSHA proposes over $140 million in fines to be paid by the regulated public each year—over $100 million of that total gets assessed. Even more troubling is that OSHA's existing voluntary and co-operative compliance programs impact a mere fraction of worksites and consume only a small share of the agency's annual budget. Despite OSHA's claim that it is "putting a lot of resources into compliance assistance and partnering," only 22 percent of OSHA's 1997 fiscal appropriation was spent on federal and state plan compliance assistance. It is difficult for anyone to say that current initiatives are having an impact on the number of workplace fatalities and injuries when OSHA spends so little of its annual funds on preventive measures.

It is important to point out that the SAFE Act would not have dismantled OSHA's enforcement capabilities. It was that with only 2.250 State and Federal inspection the average inspection rate is 0.0160 per company per year—far from over.

The SAFE Act would ensure that federal occupational safety and health standards are based on sound, scientific data that all vested parties can live with. By injecting independent scientific peer review into the rule-making process, future regulations would reflect greater clarity and simplicity—helping businesses to better understand what they are required to do. I also believe that scientific peer review will help speed up the rule-making process for OSHA's rules by eliminating conflicts of interest. Under the present system, draft rules can idle in the process for more than 15 years, because no one agrees on the rule's scientific validity. At the same time, annual funding continuing to be channeled toward research at the expense of the tax-payer. That must change.

Last October, we marked up the SAFE Act in the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources and favorably reported the bill out of committee. In the following months, I continued to work with Senators Kennedy, Dodd, Wellstone, and Reed—as well as with Assistant Secretary of Labor, Charles Jeffress, to find common ground that would result in a bill that would pass the House and Senate and be signed by the President into law. A number of good suggestions were made to improve the bill, but retaining its core principles and the lack of floor time quickly became an insurmountable obstacle.

I was pleased to have the opportunity to testify at a hearing chaired by Chairman Talent in the House Small Business Committee. As the House author of the SAFE Act, Representative Talent understood the importance of third party consultations. He invited specialists in occupational safety and health to share their candid opinions of the SAFE Act. Having heard the testimony firsthand, I was pleased that safety and health professionals—those who have the most education, training, and field experience in abating occupational hazards—embraced this bill so enthusiastically.

In both Chambers, the SAFE Act gained considerable momentum after its introduction. The bill stuck to a theme—advancing safety and health in the workplace. Maintaining this spirit of cooperation, it is my intention to move this good work into the 106th Congress. Until each of the SAFE Act's provisions become law, this debate is far from over.

Despite the Senate's inability to complete its consideration of the SAFE Act, legislative successes were still abundant. Last June, I was pleased to have had the opportunity to pass two bills in the Senate that were authored in the Legislative Branch of the Occupation Safety and Health Administration Compliance Assistance Authorization Act, and the other was H.R. 2877, which eliminated the imposition of quotas in the context of OSHA's enforcement activities. Both bills are now law and have already been implemented by OSHA.

Following the same lines as the SAFE Act, these two bills were written to increase the joint cooperation of employees, employers, and OSHA in the effort to ensure safe and healthful working conditions. It will never be productive to threaten employers with fines for non-compliance when millions of safety conscious employers don't know how they are supposed to comply. Rather than fine employers with more compliance materials than they can possibly digest or understand, many of which have no application to their business. To achieve a new, cooperative approach, the vast majority of employers concerned about worker safety and health must have compliance assistance programs made more accessible to them and more related to their actual operation. Passage of H.R. 2877 was a good, first step in providing employers just that.

H.R. 2877 eliminated enforcement quotas for OSHA compliance inspectors. This bill prohibits OSHA from establishing a specific number of citations issued, or the amount of penalties collected. I believe that inspectors must not face institutional pressure to issue citations or collect fines, but rather they should work to identify potential hazards and assist the employer in abating them. OSHA's success must depend upon whether the nation's workforce is safer and healthier, and not upon meeting or surpassing goals for inspections, citations, or penalties.

In July, both the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources and full Senate unanimously passed S. 2112, the Postal Employees Safety Enhancement Act. The bill was written to bring the Postal Service and its more than 800,000 employees under the full jurisdiction of OSHA. OSHA's success must now play by its own rules. Although all federal agencies must comply with the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health statute, they are not required to pay penalties issued to them by OSHA. The lack of any enforcement tool renders compliance requirements for the public sector ineffective at best.

My first look at this issue occurred when Yellowstone National Park was cited by OSHA last February for 600 violations—most of them serious. One of those serious violations was the park's failure to report an employee's death to OSHA. In fact, Yellowstone posted five employee deaths in the past three and one-half years. Although there are these and other serious problems noted in the park’s safety and health record, overall federal injury, illness, lost work-time, fatality and workers’ compensation rates show the United States Postal Service leading the pack in almost all categories.

Postal workers injuries and illnesses represent 42 percent of the government’s lost-time cases. From 1992 to 1997, the Postal Service paid an annual average of $1 billion in workers’ compensation costs and its annual contribution accounted for almost one-third of the federal program’s $1.8 billion price tag. These alarming statistics made my decision to slowly bring the federal government into compliance rather easy.

In 1982, the Postal Service became fiscally self-sufficient—depending entirely on market-driven revenues rather than taxpayer dollars. They should be congratulated for that. Today, the United Service, which has already over 43 percent of the world’s mail—delivering more mail in one week than Federal Express and the United Parcel Service combined deliver in an entire year. With annual profits that exceed $1.5 billion, Postal Service were a private company, it would be the 9th largest business in the United States and 29th in the entire world.

Realistically speaking, the Postal Service is hardly a federal agency. It’s better characterized as a self-sufficient, quasi-government entity. It is the only federal agency where its employees can collectively bargain under the 1935 National Labor Relations Act. It’s the only federal agency that posts the 1935 National Labor Relations Act. It’s the only federal agency that posts

The legislation we passed yesterday addresses that problem faced by owners and lessees by preserving the policy status quo for valid contracts in effect on or before the date of enactment. The legislation applies only to leases and contracts for “coalbed methane” production out of federally-owned coal. It does not apply to leases and contracts for gas production out of coal that has been conveyed, restored, or transferred to a third party, including to a federal or recognized Indian tribe.

It is important to note that many older leases and contracts for gas production on coal lands were negotiated prior to “coalbed methane” becoming a term. It was necessary to clarify that we do not mean to exclude those valid leases and contracts that convey rights to explore for, extract and sell “natural gas” from applicable lands simply because they do not include the term “coalbed methane.” That is a possible ambiguity that arose very late in the process, after the time we could have reasonably perfected the bill, but it is important to note because before this year, “coalbed methane” has been considered in the courts to be part of coal. We chose the term “coalbed methane” because using the term “natural gas from the coalbed,” left uncertainty about the gas rights in light of the 10th Circuit ruling. The Department of Interior suggested we use “coalbed methane” so as to be very clear regardless of whether the Courts rule “coalbed methane” to be part of the coal estate or part of the natural gas estate in the future.

While the bill has yet to be completed in the House, I want to thank my House colleague and friend JIM TALMADGE, and his Indian Affairs Committee staff, were very helpful on an issue of critical importance to my state.

Since the bill’s enactment, I learned that OSHA and the National Park Service, have entered into safety pact. I commend both agencies for this commitment to work site safety and health. It is my understanding that other federal agencies could do the same. The construction agency with OSHA represent a way to introduce third party consultations as a means of bringing a greater number of federal worksites into compliance.

The enactment of S. 2112 and the previous two bills marks the first significant step toward modernizing the nation’s 28 year-old occupational safety and health law. I believe that these incremental accomplishments were achieved because this Congress is committed to improving conditions for America’s workers. We have a long commitment to improving conditions for America’s workers. We have a long

PASSAGE OF COALBED M ETHANE LEGISLATION

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I want to take a minute before the Senate adjourns to thank a few Members who have been very helpful on an issue of critical importance to my state.

Yesterday evening, the Senate adopted an unanimous consent, S. 2500, a bill to preserve the sanctity of existing leases and contracts for production of methane gas from coal beds. An affirmative U.S. Government policy has been the legal basis for these contracts for nearly eighteen years and it was the intent of this bill to preserve the existing rights of all the parties in light of some legal uncertainties cast by a July 20, 1988, 10th Circuit Court of Appeals decision.

On September 18, I introduced the bill to protect these people, with my colleagues, Senator JEFF BINGAMAN of New Mexico and Senator CRAIG THOMAS of Wyoming. The affected people live all across America, but most of the actual lands are in the western states, primarily New Mexico, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana.

The circumstances faced by interest owners would be severe. Personal and corporate bankruptcies would have led to local bank involvements and the multiplying effect on unemployment and loss of confidence in western states would have been devastating. In this time when Congress is working to offer a $47 billion aid package to provide certainty for crop farmers, I am pleased that we have been able to reach agreement to provide certainty for people in the oil patch—and we did it without spending a single federal dime.

The 1998 Circuit Court decision has clouded all existing lease and royalty agreements for production of gas out of coal where the ownership of the oil and gas estate differs from ownership of the coal estate. This uncertainty jeopardizes the expected income of all royalty owners and the planned investment and development of all existing leases.

The legislation we passed yesterday addresses that problem faced by owners and lessees by preserving the policy status quo for valid contracts in effect on or before the date of enactment. The legislation applies only to leases and contracts for “coalbed methane” production out of federally-owned coal. It does not apply to leases and contracts for gas production out of coal that has been conveyed, restored, or transferred to a third party, including to a federal or recognized Indian tribe.

PASSAGE OF COALBED M ETHANE LEGISLATION

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I want to take a minute before the Senate adjourns to thank a few Members who have been very helpful on an issue of critical importance to my state.

Yesterday evening, the Senate adoptmittee staff, were very cooperative and provided many helpful suggestions.

The Department of Interior Solicitor’s office provided good counsel and worked with us through the process. And the people out in the field, the coal companies, who have valid concerns about their existing and future leases to main federal coal, were great to work with. Nothing in this bill should be construed to limit their ability to mine federal coal under valid leases, nor should anything be construed to expand their liabilities to coaled methane owners covered by the bill. The gas producers and land owners really came together and proposed reasonable solutions to solve the problems. Without their cooperative effort, this bill would not have happened.

So again, my appreciation goes out to all the people who helped us remove the possibility of devastating situation—extensive private property takings, retroactive liabilities, and mountains of combative litigation. On behalf of thousands of Wyomingites, thank you.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

ROLE OF THE SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE ON COMMUNICATIONS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I want to take this time to recognize the important role and work of the Senate’s Subcommittee on Communications, this Congress and emphasize the challenges that lie ahead.

The communications world encompasses so many areas that personally touch the lives of practically every person in America—from the telephone to the television to the computer. The ways we interact is a fitting reflection of the fast times in which we live and the constant evolution of technologies. Traditional systems are changing. Options are expanding. Companies continue to shift gears and take the necessary risks to bring fruition of the landmark 1996 Telecommunications Act to the marketplace and to consumers.

Enacting policies to encourage, and not hinder, such activity is Congress’ challenge. Mr. President, I believe the members of this subcommittee are ready and willing to embrace that challenge.

I want to express my sincere gratitude to my colleague and friend, Senator Conrad Burns of Montana, for his yeoman’s work as chairman of the subcommittee during the course of this Congress. His guidance has been instrumental in bringing focus to the many issues that merit attention. His inclusive and enthusiastic approach has engaged all who work with him, and I appreciate that.

Mr. President, many contentious policy issues were considered by the subcommittee during the 106th, and consensus proved elusive. I am confident, though, that the stage has been set for several productive debates in the first session of the 106th—from Federal Communications Commission reauthorization, to international satellite privatization, to transition to digital, to competition issues, to Internet privacy and content.

Speaking of the Internet, let me take this opportunity to mention my deep admiration for the contributions made by retiring Senator Dan Coats in this area. Although not a member of the Commerce Committee, he has tirelessly advocated against the Internet becoming a new kind of slum for our children, while responsibly taking into account first amendment concerns. I have the utmost respect for his efforts, and will truly miss his wisdom and his counsel.

Mr. President, I appreciate the contributions of each of my subcommittee colleagues this Congress, and look forward to working with them next year in tackling some tough issues and ushering in a truly new era of communications.

NATIONAL BIBLE WEEK

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, one of our country’s most important observances is National Bible Week sponsored by the National Bible Association. This year, as in the past, it will be observed by houses of worship and individuals of all faiths during the week in which Thanksgiving Day falls. That will be from Sunday, November 22 through Monday, November 29.

It is my great and underserved honor to be this year’s congressional co-chair of that observance. In that capacity, I would like to recommend to all my colleagues, and to the American people, that, in this season of strife and division we look to National Bible Week as an opportunity to join together in prayerful reflection.

The German poet Heinrich Heine called the Bible “that great medicine chest that cures the worst ills of mankind. And he observed how—during the great fire that destroyed the Second Temple of ancient Israel—the Jewish people rushed to save, not the gold and silver vessels of sacrifice, not the jeweled breastplate of the High Priest, but their Scriptures. For the Word of God was the greatest treasure they had.

It remains our greatest treasure today. The lessons it teaches, and the formula it commands, are the foundation on which a free people build self-government. In that sense, the Bible is the charter of our liberties. Daniel Webster put it this way: “If we abide by the principles taught by the Bible, our country will go on prospering.”

That has never been a partisan sentiment, and neither should it be so today. Two great political rivals of the early twentieth century, both of whom achieved the Presidency and attained world leadership, agreed on this one point.

Teddy Roosevelt said, “A thorough knowledge of the Bible is worth more than a college education.” And Woodrow Wilson, a university president at Princeton before reaching the White House, counseled, “When you have read the Bible, you will know it is the word of God, because you will have found in it the key to your own heart, your own happiness and your own duty.”

Here in the Senate, as in the House of Representatives, there are several small Bible study groups. Members of all faiths regularly come together, away from the public spotlight, to learn from one another and seek inspiration from sacred Scripture.

For my part, I find in those sessions both enlightenment and challenge. For any time we read the Bible with an open heart, we may find ourselves falling short, in some way, of the standard it sets for us and the promise it offers us.

In that way, reading the Bible can be like a spiritual work-out. And if, in the process, we feel the spiritual equivalency of a few sore muscles, we can remember the saying, “No pain, no gain.” And the gain that Scripture offers lasts a lifetime—and even longer.

For that reason, it is especially appropriate that Thanksgiving Day coincides during National Bible Week, for the Bible itself is something for which we should give thanks, on that day and every day.

TITLE BRANDING LEGISLATION

Mr. CAMPBELL. Today I express my appreciation to the majority leader, Senator Ford, Senator Gorton, and Senator McCain for their hard work and efforts on S. 852, the National Salvage Motor Vehicle Consumer Protection Act. I believe S. 852 will deter automobile theft and protect consumers by providing them with notice of severely damaged vehicles. I would like to emphasize one provision contained in the bill. It is my understanding that the process of reducing salvage and nonrepairable vehicles to parts cannot begin before receipt of a salvage title, nonrepairable vehicle certificate, or other appropriate ownership documentation under state law. If a vehicle could be dismantled prior to the receipt of the appropriate ownership documents, then the parts from a severely damaged vehicle could skirt the titling system which this bill has put in place to deter automobile theft.

Mr. LOTT. Yes, that is correct. A vehicle that would qualify as a nonrepairable or as salvage vehicle cannot be taken apart for its parts before appropriate ownership documentation has been received for that vehicle.

Mr. President, I appreciate that the Senator from Colorado has taken the time to address this important issue.

MEDICARE HOME HEALTH FAIR PAYMENT ACT OF 1998

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, as we begin to wrap-up the 105th Congress, there remains one essential item of business which I strongly believe warrants Senate action before we adjourn for the year.

Over the past year, numerous concerns have been raised by home health care agency officials and Medicare beneficiaries over the new Medicare payment system established in the Balanced Budget Act of 1997.

As a strong home health care advocate in the Senate for virtually my entire career, I am well aware of the importance home health care is for Medicare beneficiaries with acute needs such as recovering from joint replacements and chronic conditions such as heart failure.

Utahns have consistently told me they prefer to receive care in their homes rather than in institutional settings such as hospitals and nursing homes.

In fact, patients actually do better in their recovery while at home than in a nursing home or hospital. And, clearly, the costs associated with home care are far less than what is charged in an institutional setting.

As a member of the Finance Committee, which has jurisdiction over the Medicare program, I am also well aware of the impending financial crisis Medicare was facing last year. Home health care was the fastest growing component in Medicare.

Between 1989 and 1996, Medicare spending on home health services rose from $2.5 billion to $16.8 billion. Concurrently, according to the GAO, the number of home health agencies grew from 5,700 in 1989 to more than 10,000 in 1997.

Indeed, home health care spending threatened to consume more and more of the limited Medicare dollars.

Last year, Congress was faced with an extraordinary and daunting task—namely, the financial survival of the Medicare program.

No less than President Clinton's own advisors who serve as his appointed Trustees for the Medicare Trust Fund warned Congress that absent immediate action Medicare Part A would be insolvent by the year 2001.

Clearly something had to be done. The status quo was unacceptable.

To control the rapid cost growth in all components of Medicare, Congress passed the Balanced Budget Act of 1997, or the IPS, which required the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), the agency responsible for administering the Medicare program, to implement a Prospective Payment System (PPS) that sets fixed, predetermined payments for home health services.

Until that system could be developed and implemented, agencies would be paid through an Interim Payment System, or IPS, which imposes limits on agencies’ cost-based payments. These limits were designed to provide incentives of the number and mix of visits for each user.

Since the implementation of the IPS on October 1, 1997, numerous concerns have been raised about severe equity issues in the payment limit levels.

For instance, wide disparities exist in reimbursement levels ranging from $760 to $53,000 on average per beneficiary. The payment limits are further exacerbated by a major distinction in the payment rules between the so-called “new” agencies.

The impact of the IPS has caused comparable home health agencies providing comparable home health services to receive very different reimbursement payments. The payment limit issues are further exacerbated by the imposition of a 15% across the board cut in payment rates which is scheduled to take effect in October 1999.

According to a September 1998 report from the General Accounting Office, at least 12 home health agencies in my state of Utah have been forced to close their doors since the implementation of the IPS.

This leaves just 75 agencies to serve the entire estimated home health care population of 22,000 home health beneficiaries throughout my state.

And, I note for my colleagues who have not had the pleasure of visiting Utah, that our state has the magnificent mountains, essentially a rural state with population centers far apart.

So if you live in Panguitch or Vernal, and your home health agency closes its doors, any other service option available.

Home health care is particularly vital in improving efforts to deliver health care in rural areas where quality, long term care has been deficient for too long.

As my colleagues recall last year, there was no disagreement on the need to move to the PPS. The home health care industry was supportive of the new system—and remains supportive to this day.

The problem is with moving to the PPS from the current cost-based payment system. Data which was not available to accurately develop the PPS would be needed before such a system could be put into place.

Accordingly, the IPS was proposed as a mechanism to provide HCFA was the necessary baseline information to develop the PPS.

As we now know, the IPS has resulted in cost limits causing many home health agencies to close and resulted in beneficiaries, particularly those with high-cost needs, to have difficulty in obtaining care.

I am especially mindful of the situation in my state of Utah where many of my constituents have talked to me about the problem.

I have met with officials from Utah’s home health agencies from around the state as well as with beneficiaries who depend on the services performed by these agencies.

Moreover, the Senate Small Business Committee held a hearing on July 15, 1998 on the impact of the IPS on small home health businesses. One of my constituents, Mr. Marty Hoelscher, CEO of Superior Home Care in Salt Lake City testified at the hearing. He stated:

The IPS provides a flat payment to agencies for each patient, regardless of the type of care the patient may require. What happens to the really sick patients? What happens to the agencies who don’t turn their backs on them? In Utah, the patients of the 18 free standing agencies which have recently ceased operations are filling our emergency rooms, intensive care units, nursing homes. I have been working concertedly with my Senate colleagues to resolve these problems.

For example, in July, I joined with 20 of my colleagues in the Senate on July 16, 1998 to cosponsor S. 2323, the “Home Health Access Preservation Act of 1998.”

This legislation was designed to alleviate the problems created by the IPS, and specifically, to address the problems associated with the high costs of caring for the sickest patients and those who need care on a long term basis.

After Senator Grassley introduced S. 2323, it became evident that the budget neutrality provision—which was deleted that year—now new spending—was requiring us to reallocate resources in a way that disadvantaged some home health providers in order to assist others.

Many members expressed concerns that because of the problems inherent in such a reallocation, we should just repeal the IPS totally. I was extremely sympathetic to those concerns, but unfortunately, the Congressional Budget Office advised us that such a repeal was very costly; in fact, it was so costly that a total repeal was clearly out of question if we are to maintain the balanced budget which is so important to our country.

I am pleased that as a result of several months work by the Chairman and ranking minority member of the Finance Committee, Senator Roth and Senator Moynihan along with those of us on the committee have developed this bipartisan proposal which is supported by the home health industry.

The legislation we are introducing today, while not a perfect measure, is a responsible bill that will improve problems inherent in the current law and which will work to the benefit of thousands of Americans who rely on very valuable home health care services.

Under this legislation, several steps will be taken to improve the IPS.

First, the bill will reduce the extreme variations in payment limits applicable to old agencies within states and across state lines.

The bill also provides for a reduction in the payment level differences between “old” and “new” agencies. Such provider distinctions exist nowhere else in the Medicare system and contributed to the arbitrary nature of the payment system for health care services.

Moreover, the bill delays for one year the 15% across the board cut in payment limits for all agencies that was to take effect in October 1999. Home health agencies in my state tell me this is perhaps the most significant and important feature of the bill.

The bill further directs the Health Care Financing Administration to take all feasible steps necessary to minimize the delay in implementation of the PPS. Specifically, HCFA will be required to accelerate data collection efforts necessary to develop the case-mix system which is at the heart of the PPS model.

Mr. President, I am pleased to add my name as an original cosponsor to this vitally needed legislation.

As we are all too painfully aware, our budget rules require that any legislation such as this which proposes “new” Medicare spending be accompanied by a reduction in spending to offset the costs.

While I understand the need to maintain budget neutrality, I am concerned about the offsets in the Roth bill, but I am pleased Senator Roth has agreed to discuss other offsets in order to address my concerns. We cannot move forward without an offset since the Congressional Budget Office has scored the bill at a cost of $1 billion.

While I believe that I now have received from the Chairman of the Finance Committee, I am lending my support to this important bill.

Our overriding objective at this late time with only hours left in the 105th Congress is to get this bill passed by the Senate and into conference with the House.

I am pleased that the House approved its version of the legislation just moments ago, and while the House legislation is not the measure I would want, its passage does move us substantially closer toward enactment of a final bill prior to adjournment.

I can assure my constituents in Utah who depend on home health care services that I will continue to pursue legislative resolution of these financing issues to preserve the home health care benefit for all Medicare beneficiaries.

And finally, let me also assure the dedicated and hard working people of Utah who provide home health care services that I will continue to work with them to bring some logic to the new Medicare payment system.

I especially want to thank Marty Hoelscher, Steve Hansen, Grant Howarth, Vaughn McDonald, Dee Bangert, and the many others in Utah, especially the Utah Association of Home Health Agencies, for their counsel and leadership over the past year in working on this very complex issue.

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to proceed in morning business for such time as may consume.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

IRAQ

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, there are two subjects that I wish to bring to my colleagues’ attention this afternoon. First, I want to talk about an issue of enormous international consequence—the situation with respect to Iraq. For all of us, Saddam Hussein has been testing, yet again, the full measure of the international community’s resolve to force Iraq to eliminate its weapons of mass destruction. That has been the fundamental goal of our policy toward Iraq since the end of the gulf war and is reflected in the U.N. agreements reached in the aftermath of the war.

Two months ago, on August 5, Saddam Hussein, formally adopting a recommendation that had been made by the Iraqi parliament 2 days earlier, announced that Iraq would no longer permit U.N. weapons inspectors to conduct random searches in defiance of its obligations under the U.N. resolutions that were adopted at the end of the war, and also in violation, I might add, of its agreement last February with U.N. Secretary General Kofi Annan. The second UNSCOM team, accompanied by diplomatic overseers, unconditionally access to all sites where UNSCOM believed that Iraq may be stockpiling weapons or agents to make those weapons.

Let’s understand very clearly that ever since the end of the war, it has been the clear, declared, accepted, and implemented policy of the United States of America and its allies to prevent Saddam Hussein from building weapons of mass destruction. And as part of that agreed-upon policy, we were to be permitted unlimited, unfettered, unconditional access to the sites that we needed to inspect in order to be able to make that policy real.

Iraq’s defiance and the low-key—some would say weak—response of the United States and the United Nations to its actions was due in part because of other events, including the dual bombings of our embassies in Kenya and Tanzania, as well as the obvious fascination with domestic events that have dominated the headlines now for so many months. Those events, frankly, have continued to obscure the reality of what is happening in Iraq; and, accordingly, the reality of the potential threat to the region—a region where, obviously, the United States, America and its allies invested enormous amounts of our diplomatic and even our domestic energy.

Press reports of the administration’s efforts to intervene in, or at minimum, to influence UNSCOM’s inspection process and thus the resignation of American UNSCOM inspector, Scott Ritter, focused the spotlight briefly on our Iraqi policy and raised some serious and troubling questions about our efforts to eliminate Iraq’s weapons of mass destruction. The principal question raised was a very simple one: Are those efforts still intact, or has our policy changed?

Last month, press reports suggested that administration officials had secretly tried to quash aggressive U.N. inspections at various times over the last year, most recently in August, in order to avoid a confrontation with Iraq—this despite repeatedly demanding the unconditional, unfettered access that I referred to earlier for the inspection teams. Scott Ritter, the longest serving American inspector in UNSCOM, charged at the time that the administration had at least six or seven times since last November when Iraq tried to thwart UNSCOM’s work by refusing to allow Ritter and other Americans to participate on the teams, in an effort to delay or postpone or cancel certain UNSCOM operations out of fear of confrontation with Iraq.

Those were serious charges. We held an open hearing, a joint hearing between the Armed Services Committee and Foreign Relations Committee on these charges. There were some protestations to the contrary by the administration and a subsequent effort to ensure that the Security Council would maintain the sanctions against Iraq, but, frankly, nothing more.

In explaining his reasons for resigning, Scott Ritter stated that the policy shift in the Security Council supported “at least implicitly” by the United States away from an aggressive inspections policy is a surrender to Iraqi leadership that makes a “farce” of the commission’s efforts to prove that Iraq is still concealing its chemical, biological, and nuclear weapons programs. The administration administration categorically rejected the notion that U.S. policy has shifted, either in terms of our willingness to use force or support for UNSCOM. They have also disputed Ritter’s charges of repeated U.S. efforts to limit UNSCOM’s work. Writing in the New York Times on August 17, Secretary Albright stated that the administration has “ruled nothing out, including the use of force” in determining what to do next, and that supporting UNSCOM is “at the heart of U.S. efforts to prevent Saddam Hussein from threatening his neighborhood.” While acknowledging that she did consult with UNSCOM’s Chairman, Richard Butler, after Iraq suspended inspections last month, she argued that he “came to his own conclusion that it was wiser to keep the focus on Iraq’s open defiance of the Security Council.” Attempting to proceed with inspections, she said, would have “allowed some in the Security Council to muddy the waters by claiming again that UNSCOM had provoked Iraq,” whereas, not proceeding would give us a “free hand to use other methods, if Iraqi compliance did not cooperate” with the Security Council. At that time, she also stressed the importance of maintaining the comprehensive sanctions in place to deny Saddam Hussein the ability to rearm Iraq. It’s thus three years.

I appreciate the Secretary’s efforts to set the record straight. But, Mr. President, I have to say, in all candor, that I don’t think that her op-ed or subsequent statements by the administration have put to rest legitimate questions—legitimate questions or concerns about what our policy is and where it is headed—not just our policy alone, I might add, but the policy of the United Nations itself, and the policy of our allies in Europe.

The fact of the matter is, in my judgment, the U.S. response to the Security Council to Saddam Hussein’s latest provocations are different in tone and substance from responses to earlier Iraqi provocations.

Three times in the last 11 months Saddam has launched increasingly bolder challenges to UNSCOM’s authority and work. In November, he refused to allow American inspectors to participate on the teams. Although that crisis ultimately was resolved through Russian intervention, the United States and Britain were resolved to push the Security Council to respond strongly. In subsequent weeks, Saddam Hussein refused to grant UNSCOM access to Presidential palaces and other sensitive sites. In late December, he kicked out the team that was led by Scott Ritter, charging at the time that he was a CIA spy, and threatened to expel all inspectors unless sanctions were removed by mid-May.

By February, the United States had an armada of forces positioned in the gulf, and administration officials from our President on down had declared our intention to use military force if necessary to reduce Iraq’s capacity to manufacture, stockpile or reconstitute its weapons of mass destruction, or to threaten its neighbors.

Ultimately diplomacy succeeded again. In a sense, it succeeded again. It averted the immediate crisis. One can certainly raise serious questions about how effective it was with respect to the longer-term choices we face. But certainly, at least in the short term, Secretary General Kofi Annan successfully struck an agreement with Iraq to provide UNSCOM inspectors, accompanied by diplomatic representatives, full and unfettered access to all sites. There is little question that the agreement would not have been concluded successfully without the Security Council’s strong calls for Iraqi compliance combined with the specter of the potential use of American force.

Since the end of the gulf war, the international community has sought to isolate and weaken Iraq through a dual policy of sanctions and weapons inspections. Or, as one administration official said, to put him in a “box.” In order to get the sanctions relief, Iraq has to eliminate its weapons of mass destruction and submit to inspections. But it has become painfully apparent over the last 11 months that there is deep division among the Permanent 5 members over how to deal with Saddam Hussein’s aggressive efforts to break out of the box.

Russia, France, and China have consistently been more sympathetic to Iraq’s call for sanctions relief than the United States and Britain. We, on the other hand, have steadfastly insisted that sanctions remain in place until he complies. These differences over how to deal with Iraq reflect the fact that there is a superficial consensus, at best, among the Perm 5 on the degree to which Iraq poses a threat and the policy to be followed by the United States and Britain. For the United States and Britain, an Iraq equipped with nuclear, chemical or biological weapons under the leadership of Saddam Hussein is a threat that almost goes without description, although our current system to call into question whether or not one needs to be reminded of some of that description. Both of these countries have demonstrated a willingness to expend men, material and money to curb that threat.

France, on the other hand, has long been not economic and political relationships within the Arab world, and has had a different approach. Russia also has a working relationship with Iraq, and China, whose commitment to nuclear nonproliferation has been less than stellar, has a very different calculus that comes into play. It may be a threat and nonproliferation may be the obvious, most desirable goal, but whether any of these countries are legitimately prepared to sacrifice other interests to bring Iraq to heel remains questionable today, and is precisely part of the calculus that Saddam Hussein has used as he tweaks the Security Council and the international community simultaneously.

Given the difference of views within the Security Council, and no doubt the fears of our Arab allies, who are the potential targets of Iraqi aggression, it is really not surprising, or shouldn’t be, to any of us, that the administration has privately tried to influence the inspection process in a way that might avoid confrontation while other efforts were being made to forge a consensus. But we must have to make absolutely clear: That Iraq must provide the U.N. inspectors with unconditional and unfettered access to all sites.

Secretary Albright may well be correct in arguing that this course helps keep the focus on Iraq’s defiance. It may well do that. But it is also true that the U.N.-imposed limits on UNSCOM operations, especially if they are at the behest of the United States, work completely to Saddam Hussein’s advantage.

They raise questions of the most serious nature about the preparedness of the international community to keep its own commitment to force Iraq to destroy its weapons of mass destruction, and the much larger question of our overall proliferation commitment itself. They undermine the credibility of the United States and the United Nations’ long-term compliance with the Security Council’s demands to provide unconditional and unfettered access to those inspectors. And, obviously, every single one of our colleagues ought to be deeply concerned about the fact that by keeping the inspectors out of the very places that Saddam Hussein wants to prevent them from entering, they substantially weaken UNSCOM’s ability to make any accurate determination of Iraq’s nuclear, chemical or biological weapons inventory or capability. And in so doing, they open the door for Iraq’s allies on the Security Council to waffle on the question of sanctions.

I recognize that the Security Council recently voted to keep the sanctions in place and to suspend the sanctions review process. But, Mr. President, notwithstanding that, the less than maximum international concern and focus on the underlying fact that no inspections take place, the continuation of Iraq’s weapons of mass destruction program, and the fact that Saddam Hussein is in complete control of how much and what of the U.N.’s requirements—that continues to be the real crisis. And Saddam Hussein continues to refuse to comply.

Since the end of the gulf war, the international community has sought to isolate and weaken Iraq through a dual policy of sanctions and weapons inspections. Or, as one administration official said, to put him in a “box.” In order to get the sanctions relief, Iraq has to eliminate its weapons of mass destruction and submit to inspections. But it has become painfully apparent over the last 11 months that there is deep division among the Permanent 5 members over how to deal with Saddam Hussein’s aggressive efforts to break out of the box.

lead to a lifting of some if not all of the sanctions.

I think the question needs to be asked as to how long we can sustain our insistence on the maintenance of sanctions if support for sanctions continues to erode within the United Nations Security Council. If it is indeed true that support is eroding—and there are great indicators that, given the current lack of confrontation, it is true—then the question remains, How will our original policy be affected or in fact is our original policy in place?

In April, Secretary Albright stated that, “It took a threat of force to persuade Saddam Hussein to let the U.N. inspectors back in. We must maintain that threat if the inspectors are to do their jobs.”

That was the policy in April. Whether the administration is still prepared to use force to compel Iraqi compliance is now an enormous question. The Secretary says it is, but the recent revelations cast doubt on that.

In addition, it seems to me that there are clear questions about whether or not the international community at this point in time is as committed as it was previously to the question of keeping Iraq from developing that capacity to rob its neighbors of tranquility through its unilateral development of a secret weapon program.

In May, India and Pakistan, despite all of our exhaustive communication and clear statements, seem to have decided to proceed with their nuclear tests. In August, U.S. intelligence reports indicated that North Korea is building a secret underground nuclear facility, and last month North Korea tested a new 1,250-mile-range ballistic missile which landed in the Sea of Japan. Each and every one of these events raises the ante on international proliferation efforts and should cause the Senate and the Congress as a whole and the administration, in my judgment, to place far greater emphasis and energy that ought to be placed on this effort, to hold him in ways, Mr. President, that we will require our efforts with respect to other nonproliferation efforts including completion of our talks with Russia and the ultimate ratification of the START II treaty by the Duma.

In recent conversations that I had with Chairman Butler, he confirmed that Saddam Hussein has only this one goal—keeping his weapons of mass destruction capability—and he further stated with clarity that Iraq is well out of compliance with U.N. resolutions relating to those weapons and submit to inspections out of compliance with the agreement that he signed up to in February with Kofi Annan.

Mr. President, I believe there are a number of things we could do, a number of things both in covert as well as overt fashion. There is more policy energy that ought to be placed on this effort, and I believe that, as I have set forth in my comments, it is critical for us to engage in that effort, to hold him accountable.

In February, when we had an armada positioned in the gulf, President Clinton said that “one way or the other, we are determined to deny Iraq the capacity to develop weapons of mass destruction and the missiles to deliver them. That is our bottom line.”
starting salary and because too many kids come out of college today with loan payments due and with other opportunities that draw them away from the prospect of teaching.

We really do have a major set of choices about our public education system. There is a great struggle here in Washington. A lot of people argue the Federal Government has no role whatsoever, there is nothing the Federal Government can do with respect to all, only 7 percent of the budget comes from the Federal Government, and as we all know, it is a cherished notion in America that schools are run locally. And that is the way we want it. I agree with that. There is nothing in what I propose that would suggest the Federal Government ought to increase its relationship. In fact, it can decrease it. But we have to acknowledge the reality that there are too many places where the bureaucracy cannot do it on their own. There is a whole new set of relationships that need to be created in our education system between teachers and the principals, the school boards and the layers of bureaucracy that have been created for all of these years.

So I suggest we ought to undo the bureaucracy, think differently, think out of the box and not be locked into a tradition of debate between Democrats and Republicans, conservatives and liberals. We ought to look at a way that we can take the best practices, what works best in a parochial school, in a private school—or in a wonderful public school that I talked about earlier, there is one that has liberated themselves in too many of our schools. In essence, they have become a charter school within the public school system. We need to provide choice and competition within the public school system. We need accountability in those systems in ways that parents and citizens and the community as a whole will be more involved in the life and breadth of that school.

I am going to be introducing legislation that will allow us to establish a school reform effort. It does not make sense in this day and age to have principals who run schools and who have become a charter school within the public school system. Let's give every school the ability to implement comprehensive reforms so that all students reach the highest academic standards.

The best public school districts are simultaneously embracing a host of approaches to educate our children—high standards and accountability, sufficient resources, small class sizes, quality teachers, motivated students, effective principals, and engaged parents and community leaders. We must not be half-hearted in our efforts to make reform feasible for every school in this country. We cannot afford only one challenge in education and ignore the rest. We must make available the tools for real comprehensive reform so that every aspect of public education functions better and every element of our system is improved.

So let us now turn to a bold answer: Let's make every public school in this country essentially a charter school within the public school system. Let's give every school the chance to quickly and easily put in place the best of what works in any other school—private, parochial or public—with decentralized control, site-based management, parental engagement, and real accountability.

Several schools across the country have devised ways to accomplish this by raising standards and achievement, lowering class size, improving on-going education for teachers, and reducing unnecessary middle-level bureaucracy. Numerous high-performance schools have also been created such as the Modern Red Schoolhouse program, the Success for All program, and the New American Schools program. The results of some of these programs have shown that these designs are successful in raising student achievement. Studies show that these many of these successful programs cost less than the national or state average. To move towards this vision, the federal government would provide funds and states would match this money. States would provide 10 to 20 percent with poorer states providing a smaller match. This would have to provide a minimum spending effort based on state and local school spending relative to the state's per capita income. Funding would be $250 million in FY2000, $500 million in FY2001, $1 billion in FY2002, and $4 billion in FY2002.
Fully fund Title I so almost all school districts would receive some funds to implement comprehensive school reform (90 percent of all local school districts receive Title I funds). Funding would be $200 million in FY99, $400 million in FY2000, $600 million in FY2001, $1 billion in FY2002, and $4 billion in FY2002.

Two major programs would be exempt from the match.

- Grants to states to make grants to local school districts to assist them in recruiting good teachers. Helping poor school districts the ability to raise teachers' salaries is to provide loan forgiveness. In addition, scholarships ought to be available to those who teach in areas with teacher shortages.

- Grants, designed to encourage reform at the local level to improve failure rates. One of the uses of these funds would be for states to establish, expand, or improve alternative routes to state certification for highly qualified individuals from such as business executives and recent college graduates with records of academic distinction. Another use would be to mentor prospective teachers by veteran teachers. Provide $100 million per year for these new teachers training programs so that states can improve teacher quality, establish or expand alternative routes to state certification for new teachers, and mentor new teachers by veteran teachers.

TITLE VII—INVEST IN COMMUNITY-BASED SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITY SERVICE

As many as five million children attend school alone after school each week. Most juvenile involvement in crime—either committing crime or becoming victims themselves—occurs between 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Children who attend quality after-school programs, however, tend to do better in school, get along better with their peers, and are less likely to engage in delinquent behavior. A combination of both school-based and community-based after school programs will provide safe developmentally appropriate environments for children and help prevent the incidence of juvenile delinquency and crime. In addition, many states and localities such as Maryland and the Chicago public school system require high school students to perform community service to receive a high school diploma. The real world experience helps prepare students for work and instills a sense of civic duty.

Expand the 21st Century Learning Centers Act by providing $400 million each fiscal year to expand community school care. Grantees will be required to offer expanded learning opportunities for children and youth in the community. Funds could be used by school districts to provide: literacy programs; integrated education, health, social service, recreational or cultural programs; summer and weekend school programs; nutrition and health programs; expanded library services, telecommunications and technology education programs; and behavior management assistance for the students with discipline or drug, alcohol, and gang prevention activities.

Provide $10 million in grants to states that have developed successful programs to establish a state-wide or a district-wide program that requires high school students to perform community service to receive a high school diploma. States would determine what constitutes community service, the number of hours required, and whether to exempt some low-income students who hold full-time jobs while attending school full-time. The grants would be matched dollar for dollar with half of the match coming from the state and local education agencies and half coming from the private sector.

TITLE VIII—EXPAND THE NATIONAL BOARD CERTIFICATION PROGRAM FOR TEACHERS

The National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, which is headed by Joe Halch, established rigorous standards and assessments for certifying accomplished teaching. To pass the exam and be certified, teachers must demonstrate their knowledge and skills through a series of performance-based assessments which include teaching portfolios, student work samples, videotapes and rigorous analyses of their classroom teaching and student learning. Additionally, teachers must take written tests of their subject-matter knowledge and their understanding of how to teach at various grade levels in their own subject. The National Board certification is offered to teachers on a voluntary basis and complements but does not replace state certification. The Government Accountability Office (GAO) requested by Senator Moseley-Braun, the replacement. According to a comprehensive survey of states that choose to implement public school choice programs, up to 10 percent of the students assigned to schools in poor condition may enroll at any public school in the state. The survey found that students may enroll at public schools where they are more likely to have teaching and student learning. Additionally, students may enroll at private schools, public school choice programs. School districts that lose students due to the public school choice program.

SENATOR DALE BUMPERS

Mr. DOMENICI. First let me talk for a moment, since he is present on the floor, of Senator BUMPERS, the senior Senator from Arkansas. Let me use a couple of minutes of my time to say a few words about him before I proceed to talk about the budget and a few other matters.

First, I want to say to Senator BUMPERS, I don’t think he needs me to repeat again what I have said in committee. He is going to be missed. He has been a real credit to this place. He has held it in respect, and that makes it a better place when we do that.

But I also want to remind the Senate, since it has not been stated here on the floor as I know of, that in the energy and water appropriations bill it was my privilege, at the behest of some colleagues and others, to include a resolution honoring him for his diligent and hard work on behalf of the public domain in the United States—the forest lands, the wilderness, the parks. In that bill, the resolution asked him to be known for as long as there is an Arkansas. Thus, we took eight wilderness areas that are in his State that he had a lot to do with, and for name purposes we made all of them part of one wilderness called the Dale Bumpers Wilderness Area.

That is now 91,000 acres in total that will bear your name. I know many other things could have been done to indicate our esteem for you, but many of us thought that this might just be one that would strike you as quite appropriate. And we hope so. It is now the law of the land. The President signed it about 22 hours ago. Thus, I am here saying it in your presence. I thank you personally on behalf of our side of the aisle for everything you have done.

Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, if the Senator will yield just a moment for me to say, I want that to be my legacy. Senator, you have done anything that would please me more. I have had a few accolades in my 24 years in the Senate. I have had several things named after me. But I can tell you that what you did in that Energy and Water Committee gives me unbelievable satisfaction. The reason I sponsored that legislation and fought so hard for it several years ago is because I wanted my children and my grandchildren to know what my values were. I was trying to save something for them.

I thank you very much.

Mr. DOMENICI. Then, might I say to Senator BUMPERS, that aisle, from your podium on down here to the first step into the well, is going to get a deserved rest when you leave. That aisle and the carpet there is going to take a new breath and say there is nobody walking up and down on top of us, because Dale Bumpers is not walking, walking the floor there as he delivers his eloquent speeches on the Senate floor. I only say that by way of the great respect we have for the way you talk to us, and talk to the American people. I am very pleased that you used that little 30 feet of floor and hall and your place to talk. Mr. BUMPERS. Thank you, Senator.

ADDRESSING PRESIDENT CLINTON

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I want to talk about three or four things. I am going to try my very, very best to be factual. I am concerned that here, in these waning days, considering the situation that exists on Pennsylvania Avenue, that this might find himself in a very supercharged political environment. I don’t think I had to say that I think everybody knows that. But I want to suggest that yesterday afternoon, or whatever time of day it was that the President had a quickly called a press conference in the Congress of the United States and what we have and haven’t done, and particularly to say that we aren’t taking care of his education programs, and unless we do, he is going to keep on haranguing us.

Normally, when I say “Mr. President,” I am addressing the Chair, because that is what we are supposed to do. If we care to address anyone here, we do it through “Mr. President.” Permit me to address the Mr. President on Pennsylvania Avenue, President Bill Clinton.

President Clinton, you have been known to have a fantastic memory. As a matter of fact, I think you acknowledged that at one point recently. Although, as with many of us who grow older, you did indicate that with the passage of time and the pressure of many things to do, that great memory fails every now and then.

Now, Mr. President—Bill Clinton—I am suggesting that maybe your memory failed you when you gave that speech yesterday. So let me tell you what I remember about your education programs that you claim we have not funded.

I want everybody to know that on many things regarding budgets and programs, you can look to the budget that the President sends up here to see what it asks for and what we are giving him. This is the budget for the year we are now appropriating, which started technically on October 1. Here it is.

I had occasion, shortly after it was issued, to have the education parts of this reviewed. I remember coming to the floor of the U.S. Senate to say to the President, which OMB agreed to, “Mr. President, the official scorekeeper and official evaluator of budgets for the U.S. Congress says that... your request for money for two education programs—interest reduction so that schools can afford buildings they need and so-called 100,000 teachers so we can lower the classroom ratio—those two programs were found by the official budget analysts to not provide enough money to have adopted them. What they said is, they break the budget that you just signed, Mr. President.’’

Point No. 1.

Point No. 2: If they are so important—denying that the President feels they are—and may be many Senators feel they are—do you know what the President did in asking us to pay for them? He didn’t provide the money to pay for them. He did not. It is not in this budget. He said, “When you pass the cigarette tax, I would like you to use some of it for education.’’

Let me just say, that sort of says to me, “I couldn’t find room in the budget for these things that I am telling you are very important. So if we get a cigarette tax, we’ll pay for them.’’

Do you know what happened? After weeks of debate, we didn’t get a cigarette tax.

Mr. President, what I know is that the appropriators in the U.S. Senate put the bill that takes care of education—so there will be no misunderstanding, in this regular budget you asked for $31.4 billion for education. Look at the appropriations bill, Mr. President. Ask OMB, your official people who look at it. See how much the Senate gave you for education funding for the year you are complaining about. Interesting, $31.4 billion—exactly what you asked for. Now, Mr. President, you tell the American people you are going to keep us here until we do this, as if we are the ones to blame for it not being done—that is, those two programs.

I am living in a different world, or the President’s memory has failed him, because do you understand, I say to my fellow Senators that the President is asking for that money now for these two programs—and for many Senators it is doubtful whether that is the way to help education, but, nonetheless, let’s just follow it. He is now saying he is going to keep us here until we do it. But guess what, he knows, his helpers know, that he has to find programs within the Government to cut, which are called offsets, in order to pay for those two programs. He knows that, because how much the Senate gave you for education funding for the year you are complaining about. Interesting, $31.4 billion—exactly what you asked for. Now, Mr. President, you tell the American people you are going to keep us here until we do this, as if we are the ones to blame for it not being done—that is, those two programs.

As of right now, 2:25 p.m., I am not aware that the President has submitted a means to pay for those programs. I am not aware that the President has told us how to pay for them if we wanted to adopt them. All I am asking is that we depoliticize a few of these issues, or at least state the facts correctly. We do not deserve blame for not adopting programs, which are not paid for in this budget, when as of today, 11 days into the fiscal year, we don’t know how the President intends to pay for them. All right? That is the first point I would like to make today.

Second point: There has been a lot of discussion this morning on the floor of the Senate by some Senators about the Patients’ Bill of Rights. I think the country understands, but just so it won’t be left unaddressed here this morning, let me again refresh our collective memories. With everything that we took 3½ weeks to debate the Patients’ Bill of Rights on the floor of the Senate.

The minority can say we didn’t let it pass, but, Mr. President, the majority can say, they didn’t let it pass. They had a bill; we had a bill. We had more than 50 votes; they did not. They kept our bill from passing which had more than sufficient votes. So I ask, who is to blame for a bill not passing? Again, I want to be practical, I can’t say it is all, but certainly it is not the President’s fault.

What was the really big issue between the two parties? I want to go to the floor of the Senate. We, the American people want health care, but we had the votes to pass ours—why didn’t want in the bill? We didn’t want a new right to go to court to sue managed care entities, HMOs. We left the right to sue the doctors and the professionals, but we didn’t want to create a new right to sue the HMOs in courts of law for damages.

We, on this side, for the most part—not unambiguously, but for the most part—have adopted a sense about health care, and it says lawyers and lawsuits don’t deliver health care; lawsuits don’t cost more. We could not see why, if the minority and the President think it is such an enormous new status and set of rights that we should adopt—and we tend to agree—why would the minority think that didn’t want to pass this here but we had the votes to pass ours—why would they deny a bill’s passage based upon, they want lawyers back in the loop and we don’t want lawyers back in the loop? I leave it to those of us who are on the Record. See if I am correct that that was the biggest stumbling block, see whether the President and the minority caused the Patients’ Bill of Rights bill to fail or not.

Those are two points, and I want to make a third.

Mr. President, in the election past, two things worked for the President. He is probably the best public relations leader, Senator DASCHLE, introduced a communication from the President asking for $2.3 billion for Social Security card played. How? “No tax cuts out of the surplus because it jeopardizes Social Security.’’ That is the typical every 2-year issue. It is raised again.

Let me suggest to Mr. President, Bill Clinton’s plan was so in the President that we are about, in the next 72 hours, to pass a very big appropriations bill. Maybe Pennsylvania Avenue does not know this, but here is the best estimate I have. We are about to spend—spend; not tax, spend—$18 billion of the surplus that was supposed to have been saved for Social Security. Got it? The same pot that the President says, “Don’t touch it. It’s for Social Security,’’ we are about to spend $18 billion of it for so-called “emergencies.’’ And I will get to that in a moment.

Friends here in the Senate and those listening, you cannot have it both ways. You cannot say to Republicans, “You can’t use the surplus to give back to the American people in taxes, even if you don’t spend any amount of money for defense next year that you need, and there will probably be none left for tax cuts. That is what it looks like.

So I want to just talk about one of the emergencies.

I ask unanimous consent for 2 additional minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. One of the ‘emergencies’ is a real emergency. That is to help agriculture in the United States. But let me suggest, to help agriculture in the United States, we sent the President a bill. We had $4 billion in the emergency funding for the farmers of the United States.

When the President of the United States asked us for emergency money—which he knew people like Senator DOMENICI would start adding up to see how much more you are spending of the surplus than the Republicans planned to use in tax cuts—the President asked for $2.3 billion for agriculture. We gave him $4 billion.

But in the meantime, a distinguished Senator on the minority side, whom I have great respect for, the minority leader, Senator DASCHLE, introduced a bill saying, “We want $7.2 billion as an emergency for agriculture. And we want to wipe out the new law which is only 18 months old called Freedom to Farm because we currently have an emergency—a $7.2 billion emergency. The President asked for $2.3 billion. Now we get a communication from the President that says, ‘I asked you for $2.3 billion, but essentially I want Daschle’s bill, too.” Now, believe it or not, we sent him a bill with $4 billion. He vetoed it and said, “Now you’ve got to give me what Senator Daschle’s bill has.”

Mr. President, we have had the best people in this body working on agriculture who put this emergency package together. And believe me, the $4 billion package would make the American agriculture whole. There would be no net loss of income to the agriculture community. They know it. The experts know it. It is an election year, and because of the turmoil that exists that I have alluded to earlier in my conversation with the Senate here, the President now holds agriculture programs hostage. If we do not do it his way, we will close down the Department of Agriculture. Frankly, if we did, it would be the President—its would be on his shoulders, not ours. But you know, it will get worked out. I just thought everybody ought to know that things work out.

Now, should it matter? We have worked for 20 years to get a balanced budget and a balanced budget agreement. The result has been nothing but good news for America. Almost everybody that has touched the issue lays claim to having done it all, including the President who claims the entire economy is his. He can do that. That is fine.

The truth of the matter is, there are plenty—plenty—who deserve credit, including the Federal Reserve, including Republicans in the Senate, Democrats in the Senate, the same in the House. But it really started happening, in terms of restraining the budget, when both bodies became Republican. And we can go back and trace that. That is when we changed Medicaid to superheavy, politically charged environment. The result has been nothing but good news for America. So we were very poor. Most people do not remember. We did not drink water. We did not have running water. We did not have paved streets. We did not have much of anything. The people in our community died of typhoid fever. The children in our community died. The community died of the outcome was a result of drinking water. Then Franklin Roosevelt began to provide immunizations for children against smallpox and typhoid. It was free. We got those shots at school.

When I was 15 years old, I had a high school English and literature teacher named Miss Doll. Every member of the U.S. Senate has been influenced by a college professor or high school teacher, maybe a preacher or somebody else. She was my influence.

I remember my mother, who had a tendency—not to denigrate my mother—to not build our self-esteem. My father was working against that, trying to teach us self-esteem, not ego, but esteem.

We were reading Beowulf in English, a great piece of literature. We would read the passage and then try to explain it. Once it came my time to read. I started reading, and all of a sudden—I read about 2 pages and Miss Doll still hadn’t stopped me—I looked up and she was standing there. She looked at me and she looked at the class and she said, “Doesn’t he read beautifully?” “Doesn’t he have a nice voice?” And she said, “And wouldn’t it be tragic if he didn’t use that talent?” At first I thought she was making fun of me, but when I looked at Miss Doll, she did more for my self-esteem in 10 seconds than anybody, except my father, ever did. Some of my political detractors think she overdid it.

And then just out of high school, but only after 6 months at the University of Arkansas, I went into the Marine Corps. World War II was raging. It was a terrifying time. I fully expected to be killed in that war. The Marines were taking terrible casualties in the South Pacific. Happily, I survived that. The best part of it was when I got home there was a caring, generous, compassionate Federal Government, paying with the GI bill.

Then he told my brother and me that if Franklin Roosevelt could become President and couldn’t even walk, there was no reason why my brother and I, with strong minds and bodies, couldn’t become President, too. I never thought about that goal until many, many years later.

In the following year, my father was president of the Arkansas Retail Hardware Association. They gave our family the key to the Liberty Bell, for having the most sales in the national convention. I can remember the big party at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles in 1937. I had never stepped on a carpet before in my life, and the Biltmore was filled with thick carpet. We just loved it. We did not want to leave. We stayed at the Biltmore at the $2-a-night cabin.

But the night of the big party, everybody was in tuxedos and long dresses, except my parents. And all the children in the Senate were going to Los Angeles to the national convention. I can remember my brother and I had on long pants and white shirts, no tie, no coat. We were terribly embarrassed. My father sensed that, and so the next day he told us that we were embarrassed but he reminded us that the most important thing was that we were clean, our clothes were clean, our bodies were clean, and the kind of clothes you wore really were not at that important. He made it OK.

When I was 15 years old, I had a high school English and literature teacher named Miss Doll. Every member of the U.S. Senate has been influenced by a college professor or high school teacher, maybe a preacher or somebody else. She was my influence.

I remember my mother, who had a tendency—not to denigrate my mother—to not build our self-esteem. My father was working against that, trying to teach us self-esteem, not ego, but esteem.

The best part of it was when I got home there was a caring, generous, compassionate Federal Government, paying with the GI bill.
While my father would have stolen to make sure we had a good education, my brother went to Harvard Law School and I went to the University of Arkansas and later Northwestern University Law School—both expensive schools my father could never afford. I studied and worked. Then reason I did that is because my father wanted me to go into public service. He wanted me and my brother to be politicians. He may be the last man who ever lived who encouraged his sons to go into politics.

In my first year in law school, he and my mother were killed in a car wreck. They were tragically killed by a drunk driver. Neither of them had ever had a drink in their life. That is what made it so bizarre. The big disappointment of my life was that my father didn’t live to see me Governor or Senator.

The next defining moment of my life is when our children were born—first Brent, then Bill and then Brooke.

The next defining moment was when I was practicing law in a little town of 1,200 people and decided to run for Governor. The day I filed, a poll was taken statewide. It was the last day of the filing deadline. I found that of the eight Democratic candidates, I had 10 percent name recognition. It was probably the foulest thing I had ever done in my life. But I was trying to keep faith with my father, and I believe strongly in our country and I believe in the people of this country and I believe in a better world.

The next defining moment in my life was shortly after I was elected Governor I sent an invitation to go to Kansas City to speak at a Truman Day dinner. I told them I couldn’t go, the legislature was in session. I just assumed those legislators would screw the dome off the capital if I left town. They came back and said, “If you will agree to do this, we will let you spend an hour with President and Mrs. Truman,” and that was my way in.

So I chose not to run for President. By the time I felt that I was qualified to be President, I decided that it demanded a price that I was not willing to pay. Not to be purely apocalyptic about our future, because it is not. I believe in the United States, that the demands on our state are not the demands of our future; that the demands on our state are the demands of our past. It’s not that we are going to be a second-class country. It’s that we’re not going to be a first-class country.

I was telling him what a terrible job being Governor of Arkansas was, and it suddenly dawned on me that I was talking to a man who had to make the decision to drop the atomic bomb that ended World War II. And so I shut up. And then he drove, as I say, “Son, while you are looking at the ceiling every night in the Governor’s mansion, wondering what you are going to do, remember one thing: The people elected you to do what you think is right and that you do not expect out of you. They have busy lives. So, remember, always tell people the truth; they can handle it.”

That didn’t sound like very profound advice to me at the time. But indeed it was. I have thought about it every day of my life since then.

Secondly, he said, “When you are debating in your own mind the issues that you have to confront, you think about this: Get the best advice you can get on both sides of the issue, make up your mind which one is right, and then you do it. That is all the people of the State expect of you—to do what you think is right.”

So when I drove off the mansion grounds 4 years later, coming to the Senate, as I told my Democratic colleagues the other night, most of whom know this, I came here with the full intention of running. President Reagan had very successfully Curb 4 years as Governor. I thought the world was my oyster and I fully intended, as I say, to run. The reason I didn’t run is because after I had been here for a year, I realized that this whole apparatus was much more complex than I thought it was. I told my children, if I had three lives to live, at the end of the last one I would look back prior to 10 years at the end of it and realize how dumb I was. I was so smart when I graduated from high school, I was so dumb when I went out to work, I was so dumb when I got out of law school, the problem was compounded. When I drove off the mansion grounds, I was quite sure I was ready to be king of the world.

The other night I told Senator SARBANES I really regret that I have not been as effective a legislator as I should have been. He said, “Everybody feels that way.” What I was really saying, I suppose, is wish I had known then what I know now. In my dying breath I will look back and think about, really, how I was not as smart this Saturday afternoon as I thought I was. That is what a living, learning experience is.

By the time I felt that I was qualified to be President, I decided that it demanded a price that I was not willing to pay.

When I voted against Ronald Reagan’s prayer in school amendment—the only southern Senator to do so, my opponent tried to take advantage of it. But the American people and the people of my State—my State—have the right to their opinions. They are pontificating for hours trying to justify our positions. He announced he would not run again because, coming from the conservative State of Oklahoma, he knew he didn’t have a prayer of being reelected, so hot was that issue.

He announced he would not run again because, coming from the conservative State of Oklahoma, he knew he didn’t have a prayer of being reelected, so hot was that issue.

Mr. President, one of the greatest moments of my life was when I was Governor and a man came into my office wanting me to talk to the highway department about a late penalty they were going to assess him for being 60 days late in completing a highway job. To shorten the story, I said, “If I do this for you, how do I explain to the next guy who walks in the door why I can’t do it for him? I don’t want to start down that road.” After a long conversation, when he started to walk out of my office, I told him I would have if I were running. I think of the times when I would have had to worry about what kind of a 30-second spot that vote would generate.

I have cast my share of courageous votes since I have been here, as Harry Truman admonished me to do. I have always tried to use simple tests as to how I voted; How would my children and grandchildren judge me? Did it make me stronger or the Nation stronger? Did it do any irreversible damage? Is it fair to the less fortunate among us? Does it comport with the thrust of our Constitution, the greatest document ever conceived by the mind of man? Or does it simply make me stronger politically because it satisfies the political whims of the moment? Or does it simply keep the political money supply flowing?

Speaking of courageous votes, I voted for the Panama Canal Treaties in 1978 and, in all fairness, in 1980, had I a strong opponent, I would not be standing here right now. I lucked out. But I can tell you, people were absolutely livid about my vote on the Panama Canal Treaties—a fabricated political issue. I ask the American people and my colleagues, who today has been inconvenienced by the Panama Canal Treaties? Is this country any weaker? The truth is that it is stronger. Our relationship with Panama is much stronger. It was the Quemoy and Matsu issue of 1978.

Incidentally, Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma voted against the Panama Canal Treaties and made a minute-and-a-half speech in doing it, while the rest of us were pontificating for hours trying to justify our positions. He announced he would not run again because, coming from the conservative State of Oklahoma, he knew he didn’t have a prayer of being reelected, so hot was that issue.

and there are times when only if you fully air something do the Senate Members really come here well enough informed to vote on it.

We are still the oldest democracy on Earth. We are still living under the oldest Constitution of Earth, and without men and women of goodwill being willing to offer themselves for service, there is absolutely no assurance that that will always be. Thomas Jefferson said, “The price of liberty is eternal vigilance.” He was not just talking about literally the vigilance. We are still woefully inadequate in this country in the field of education. If I were the President of the United States and I were looking at a $70 billion surplus, I would make sure the first thing we did was to pass a bill that said no child in this Nation shall be deprived of a college education for lack of money. Look at all the statistics where we rank among the developed nations in education. And look at the state of health care. We are way below those who can afford it. And 45 million who have no health insurance and no health care do the best they can.

Mr. President, I have been richly blessed in my life, as I said, mostly by devotion and good Methodist Sunday school teaching. My mother wanted me to be a Methodist preacher and my father wanted me to be a politician. Think about growing up with that pressure. I am personally blessed with a great family. If I did not have the support of Arkansas, I would take note of it, and there would be headlines in all of the papers in the State. But if Betty died tomorrow the people of our State would grieve. She has founded two organizations.

When Ronald Reagan announced to this country that we might just fire one across the Soviet Union’s bow to get their attention, he terrified her. She and a group of congressional wives met around my kitchen table for about 6 months. Finally, I came home one night, and she said, “We are forming an organization. And we feel so strongly about it that we are going to put ‘peace’ in the name. We are going to call it Peace Links”. Ultimately, she had almost 250 congressional wives conscripted into that organization.

I told her “you are going to get your husband beat.” We are from a conservative State. People in Arkansas believe in a strong defense. People across this Nation believe in a strong defense. She said, “You men are going to get my children killed.”

She had already spent all of her public life, from the time I was Governor until this day trying to immunize all of the children in this country. And I am not going to go through all of the successes that she has had, which have been staggering.

The Western Hemisphere is free of polio. Africa will be free of polio by the year 2000. And measles is next. I tell you, she deserves a lot of credit for the virtual elimination of childhood diseases in this country.

She went to see President Carter when he first came to power. She said, “I tell you something you can do that will have a lasting effect on the health of this Nation, and it will help you a lot when you run again.” He put Joe Califano at Health, Education and Welfare and Rosalynn Carter have an organization called “Every Child By Two.” She is still going at it—peace and children.

I have three beautiful children, and six beautiful, healthy grandchildren. I have been blessed with all exceptional staff members, most of whom are more than staff members. They are very good friends. I have been blessed with the support of the people of my State in winning almost every election by 60 percent or more of the vote. I was much more liberal than my constituents. I like to believe that they respected me because they knew what I stood for is what I believed instead of what was politically expedient at any given time. That is why, given this reason, I will always be grateful to them.

Our State does not deserve to have been torn apart for the past 6 years. I know so many innocent people who have been destroyed, financially and mentally, by the system gone awry. You would have to go back to the Salem witchcraft trials to find anything comparable.

I do not, nor does any Senator, condone the President’s conduct. Call it what you will—unconscionable, indefensible, un-American. Call it anything you want. But most of us take pride in President Clinton’s Presidency. And the American people are still saying they like him. But completely aside from that, as I say, I weep sometimes for the unfair treatment to my State, and so many innocent people in it.

I have been blessed by unbelievable friendships of colleagues. Those friendships were not only the closest. It is most impossible to maintain a relationship with a colleague once you leave here. That is really tragic. But I am realistic. And I know that is what it will be. I know we will have a difficult time having the same kind of relationship, if any at all. But I want them to know that I value their friendship. I value my service with them. I have served with some truly great men and women. And, as Senator BYRD likes to say, only 1,943 men and women have ever been so privileged to serve in this body.

I am already nostalgic about this Chamber—24 years in this Chamber, the Cloakroom, the hearing rooms, the Capitol itself. For 24 years, the first 20 of which I went home almost every weekend and came back on Sunday night, I never failed, as we flew by the Washington Monument, to get goose bumps. And I hope I never do. So, colleagues, I thank you for being my friend. To the people of my State, I thank you for allowing me to serve here.

I want to teach, in order to teach children that politics is a noble profession. My father said it long before Bobby Kennedy did. It is a noble calling. And the minute it becomes what so many people think it is, who do you think suffers? All of us do. So I want to inspire this oncoming generation, as my father did me, to get involved in this noble public service. You have a duty and a responsibility.

So, to the U.S. Senate, to all of my colleagues, God bless and Godspeed. I yield the floor.

Mr. LAUTENBERG addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THOMAS). The Senator from New Jersey.

SENATOR DALE BUMPERS

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, this is one of those moments that one feels a bit overwhelmed—to follow DALE BUMPERS in a discourse that he gave here on the floor after DALE BUMPERS moved us with his oratory and described his feelings for this institution and our responsibility. But there is another reason that I am really feeling unready. I suspect that this place will be without DALE’s voice, without his wit, his humor, but more importantly, his commitment to the people of this country.

I want you to know, DALE, what a sorrow I make today that I had to stay here rather than go to a budget conference down the hall trying to wrestle with the issues of the day. So I sacrificed that time just so I could stand on this floor to hear your terminal speech. That is devotion and friendship, I assume.

I have to say that one could see the position that DALE has earned over the years, because people were as generous and as warm and as friendly from the other side of the aisle. That doesn’t mean that we always agree, and it doesn’t mean that we always share a similar direction for our country.

But DALE has succeeded in winning friends, in making sure that we never forgot about who it is we are here to serve. We could make lots of jokes, but one never wants to compete with DALE’s humor. I think about the only close match was with DALE BUMPERS and Alan Simpson. That was a good team. The jokes were always better when we were off the floor somehow. But beyond the wit, beyond the humor, beyond the jokes was always this incredible pursuit of what is right for our country and what is right for our people.

I have submitted a written statement without the kind of eloquence I wish I could have borrowed from DALE. He was right, he was accurate when he said his impression of his IQ was overblown. All of us agree with that.

We know DALE well. We love him. We look up to him. We look like him. There were very few times on this floor when DALE could not get attention from others, and it wasn’t just the volume; it was the substance of his mission that we all paid attention to. They kid him about stretching the cord that holds our microphones, but everybody was anxious to hear what DALE had to say or read what was in the RECORD.

So let me take this opportunity to say how pleased I am for the opportunity to be here at the last speech Senator DALE BUMPERS was going to make in this Chamber. It has been an honor to serve with DALE as well as to serve with people such as JOHN GLENN. JOHN GLENN is one of the finest people who, it is fair to say, has ever left this Earth. But we are going to see JOHN GLENN at the end of the month and witness his heroic and incredible mission into the sky.

JOHN GLENN was with me when I was sworn into the Senate. We happened to be in Colorado on a vacation just 16 years ago, and he stood while I found a magistrate to swear me in because there was an opportunity based on the resignation of the then-Senator.

At the same time we are saying goodbye to WENDELL FORD. WENDELL is someone who you could fight with, get your blood pressure up, more often than not you would lose the argument or read what was in the RECORD. We are, because too often the argument is never let an opportunity go without defending his people and the State of Kentucky. Although we disagreed on lots of occasions, I always walked away with a high degree of affection and respect for WENDELL FORD.

So when I listen to DALE BUMPERS summarize his life, I think about where we are, because too often the arguments here overtake the purpose of our functioning. But DALE BUMPERS, Senator BUMPERS, reminds us that the mission is almost a holy one and that we have to step back and take a deep breath and get down to the business of the American people.

I wish to thank the Democratic leader for giving me these few minutes. I also wanted to take an opportunity to say so long to Senator DAN COATS. DAN COATS was a formidable opponent for me when New Jersey persisted in sending its trash out to Indiana where it was then common at the time. It had the certified landfills and all that. But DAN COATS didn’t object when New Jersey sent its All-American football players to Notre Dame or to the University of Indiana. But serving with DAN also has been a privilege.

Mr. President, I wrap up just by saying that DALE BUMPERS, if you listened to his words, arrived here encouraged by a father who saw the value of Government service, and it is an interesting and touching explanation of what it is that provided his motivation. My father also motivated me to engage in whatever enterprise I could to serve the public. But he didn’t know it then. He worked. He tried to survive with his family during the lean and tough years, ashamed that he had to resort to a job with the WPA. I will never forget how discouraged he was when he came home, but, he said, he kept the job. The credit has to be mine. My father died at the age of 43, after a year of illness with cancer. I had already enlisted in the Army. He disintegrated in front of our eyes, leaving not only an empty house but an empty wallet. My mother had to work. I had to send my sister to a school that would help pay the bills that were accumulated during that period of time.

But we both got here because we were encouraged by things that occurred in our families, messages that were sent by our parents, mine perhaps less articulate than the one I heard DALE BUMPERS describe. But we are here because they were able to give us that opportunity and we are here because we want to serve, to do something meaningful, to make a difference as a result of having that opportunity.

To Senator DALE BUMPERS and the others, we say farewell. This place will be a lesser place without your presence, but because of your presence this place will be a stronger place and to do what we have to do for the future. Rest assured that America will be strong. It will be different forces and different faces, but the work will continue to be done here.

Mr. President, I wish to thank the Democratic leader for giving me these few minutes. I also wanted to take an opportunity to say so long to Senator DAN COATS. DAN COATS was a formidable opponent for me when New Jersey persisted in sending its trash out to Indiana where it was then common at the time. It had the certified landfills and all that. My father also motivated me to engage in whatever enterprise I could to serve the public. But he didn’t know during World War II. We heard from a person who grew up in a small town, Charleston, AR—I don’t have a clue where it is—where he worked as a small-town lawyer and taught Sunday school. He may not have been a Methodist preacher, but he was a Sunday school teacher and a volunteer in his community. He told us that as a young man, he was active in the Democratic Party, and he was one of the eight candidates vying for the nomination. He did indicate that polls taken at the start of the race gave him a 70% chance of winning. That is half of what it is right now. He sold a herd of Angus cattle for $95,000 to finance his TV ad campaign. You couldn’t get that much for Angus cattle today.

He finished the primary in second place, behind someone whose name we all know, Orville Faubus, whose race-baiting brand of politics still dominated much of Arkansas Democratic politics. He beat Orville Faubus in a runoff to beat the incumbent Republican, Governor Winthrop Rockefeller, in a general election by a margin of 2 to 1.

After being elected Governor, DALE BUMPERS was asked by Tom Wicker, then editor of the New York Times, to explain how a man would come from obscurity to beat two living legends. He answered simply, “I tried to appeal to the best in people in my campaign. And that is what he has done his entire public career; he has appealed to the best of people.

As Governor, he worked aggressively and successfully to modernize the State government. He put a tremendous emphasis on improving education and expanding health services. Then, in 1973, with 1 year remaining in his term, he made the decision to challenge another living legend, William J. Fulbright, for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. Senator Fulbright was, at that time, a 30-year incumbent Senator. It probably did not come as any surprise to people in Arkansas, but it must have to the Nation, because when all the votes were counted, DALE won that race too, 2 to 1.

In the Senate, there is not a colleague in this Chamber who has not been affected by his eloquence and his reasoning on everything from arms control to the environment. He has been a champion for rural America. He has been a strong advocate for fiscal discipline. In the 1980s he voted against the tax cuts, arguing that they would explode the Federal deficit. In the 1990s he took the tough votes needed to eliminate those deficits.

He has been a tireless defender of the U.S. Constitution and the separation of powers it guarantees. He did not mention this, but he should have. In 1982 he was the only Senator from the Deep South to vote against a proposal stripping the Federal courts of their right to overturn a State’s Senate.”

In 1987, he said, “I tried to appeal to the best in people in my campaign. And that is what he has done his entire public career; he has appealed to the best of people.

As Governor, he worked aggressively and successfully to modernize the State government. He put a tremendous emphasis on improving education and expanding health services. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Sen- from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I com- pliment my colleagues on their fine re- marks about our colleague, Senator BUMPERS. I already made a speech com- plimenting him for his service to the Senate. I noticed my speech had sev- eral things in common with the speech of Senator DASCHLE. I alluded to the fact of Senator BUMPERS’ sense of humor, which all of us have enjoyed, Democrats and Republicans, and I also referred to the fact that he had the longest microphone cord in the Senate. He has used it extensively, and we have all enjoyed that as well.

BUDGET NEGOTIATIONS

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I want to make several comments concerning some of the negotiations that are going forward. I remind my colleagues in the Congress that the Constitution gives the power of the purse, not the President, the authority and the responsibility to ap- propriate money, to pass bills. As a matter of fact, article I of the Con- stitution says:

All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States.

Not in the executive branch, in the Congress, in the people’s body.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I want to make several comments concerning some of the negotiations that are going forward. I remind my colleagues in the Congress that the Constitution gives the Congress, not the President, the authority and the responsibility to ap- propriate money, to pass bills. As a
We passed one for a week. We passed one for 3 days. We may have to pass another one. We may have to pass it for the balance of this year, maybe into next year, whatever is necessary. But I do not intend on being held hostage. The President said that I would, give me more time. I want to spend the surplus, whether it be for education, whether it be for Head Start.” He has a whole laundry list. He calls them investments, but, frankly, they are a lot of new social spending. I don’t have any desire to do new social spending. I am quite happy and willing to stay here all year, all year next year, if necessary, but I don’t want us to succumb to his demands. I have no intention of succumbing to his demands. I am, frankly, bothered by the fact that at this stage in time, the President is really ratcheting up the partisan rhetoric. Frankly, that is not the right thing to do if he wants to work together.

If it is interesting, the President made a very nice bipartisan speech saying, “Yes, I compliment the Congress, they worked together and we passed the International Religious Freedom Act.” I was involved with that. We worked with the President on Administration. We did do bipartisan work. It took bipartisan work. But you don’t get that kind of cooperation on the budget when you have the President making all kinds of partisan statements, I will give you an example. In his radio address given to the Nation today, the President said: “This week, unfortunately, we saw a bipartisan defeat progress, as 51 Republican Senators joined together to kill the HMO Patients’ Bill of Rights.”

One, I just disagree with that. The majority of Republican Senators—as a matter of fact, unanimous Republican Senators—said, “We are willing to pass a Patients’ Bill of Rights,” not defeat one. “We are willing to pass one.”

We turn to our colleagues on the Democratic side. We made it several times in June and several times in July. We said we were willing to pass this bill. As a matter of fact, we wanted to pass it before the August break. We made unanimous consent requests and said, “We will pass either your bill or our bill. You have the best bill that you can put together. You worked on yours for months; we worked on our bill for months. Let’s vote, let’s pass it, let’s go to conference with the House.”

But, no, the Democrats wouldn’t agree with it. The Democrats kept us from passing a Patients’ Bill of Rights. You don’t pass a bill this complicated the last day of the session. Senator Daschle offered some amendment and said, “Oh, let’s run this through.” That was nothing but for show.

Yet we even find an e-mail from the House Democrat events coordinator that said, “Hey, let’s put on a real show; let’s pass a Patients’ Bill of Rights; let’s have everybody get together; Senator Daschle can orchestrate this; we will have a bunch of colleagues.”

Sure enough, they had a bunch of colleagues go over in some show of support on the last day of the session. Bingo.

If they wanted to pass a Patients’ Bill of Rights, they should have said, “Yes, we did. See, look at the record.” This President didn’t. The President would never agree to a unanimous consent request to pass Patients’ Bill of Rights.

They are the ones who killed the bill. When the President said, “... let’s have the bipartisan defeat progress...” he forgot to say the Democrats wouldn’t agree to a process to pass the bill, which we offered in June and several times in July. He forgot to mention that. It kind of bothers me because, again, he says, “We want bipartisanship...” and he makes a partisan statement on a national radio address.

I have also heard the President state, “We can’t have a tax cut because we’re going to reserve every dime of the surplus to protect Social Security.” All the while—he knows it and we know it—he has his staff members running around the Congress saying, “We want more money and we want to declare everything an emergency so it won’t be part of the budget agreement” that he adopted and agreed to in 1997. “We want more money.”

The totals are right in the $18 billion, $20 billion-plus range. We want more money for a lot of things and, oh, yes, it is all off budget; it doesn’t count; it’s an emergency.” What a great game.

Again, I remind my colleagues that the Congress is responsible for passing appropriations bills, and we need to pass them. If he vetoes them, fine, he can shut down the Government. We can pass continuing resolutions, and we can do that as much as necessary. The President in his weekly radio address said:

“Our Nation needs 100,000 new, highly qualified teachers to reduce class size in early grades.

He said, “We need more teachers, more buildings.”

The President said: So again today. I call on Congress to help communities build or modernize 5,000 schools with targeted tax credits.

Mr. President, I want more money for education. I want a lot better education, but I really don’t want the President of the United States or some bureaucrat in the Department of Education deciding which school in Oklahoma gets a new teacher or which building in Oklahoma is going to be rebuilt or which classroom is going to be modernized or updated.

Why should we have that decision made in Washington, DC? Why should Federal bureaucrats be involved? Maybe our schools in Oklahoma need more teachers or maybe they need new buildings or maybe they need new computers. Why don’t we trust Oklahomans to make that decision? Why don’t we trust the parents and the teachers and the school boards? No, this administration does not trust local school boards, local teachers, parents, Governors to be making that decision.

He wants to mandate it from Washington, DC. This is a new demand. Guess what? We have had votes on this before. We held votes on the Presi- dent’s program. Did not win. We had two or three votes earlier this year. He did not win on the school building program; did not win on the 100,000 new teachers. But yet this is a new demand, that he is going to try to get it, he is going to sign the bill unless we fund it.

I am going to tell you right now, at least as far as this Senator is concerned—and maybe I do not control the conferences—but I do not have any intention to ever fund those programs. I think decisions on hiring teachers and building school buildings should be made in the local school districts, by the local school boards, by the parent/teacher associations, by the Governor by those of us in Congress or, frankly, by some bureaucrat in the Department of Education.

So maybe we will be here for a long time. Again, the President has the right to veto the bill. Fine. Let him do it. Maybe we will be operating on continuing resolutions for the rest of the year. If that is what happens, that is what happens. I will, again, repeat that we will pass enough continuing resolutions as necessary to keep Government operating.

Maybe we will have to pass one every day. Maybe we will have to pass one every week. Maybe we will have to pass one every month. But we are not going to shut Government down. We are not going to demand anything. We will pass the continuing resolutions to keep Government operating at fiscal year 1998 levels as long as necessary. We will stay here. We are happy to stay next week. We are happy to stay the following week. Maybe we will have to stay all year, if that is necessary. But I hope, and I believe, we are not going to succumb to this last-minute politicization of, “We want more money. Let’s spend the surplus.”

I have even heard, in the President’s radio or in his speech yesterday—“We’ve got the first balanced budget in 29 years. Our economy is prosperous. This budget is purely a simple test of whether or not, after 9 months of doing nothing, we’re going to do the right things about our children’s futures.”

“We want more money” is basically what he is saying. I also heard him say we should save the surplus for Social Security. Now he is talking about new investments. In his speech yesterday, he held we need new investments for everything I have mentioned, but he also runs through a whole list of other new spending, social spending, that he is trying to crowd through in the last minute.

I do not have any intentions of succumbing to these demands. I hope my colleagues will not. I just say this, with all respect, how the President... could demagog that we cannot have a tax cut because of the Social Security surplus and then in the next minute, propose to spend the so-called surplus on all these investments is beyond me. I just have no intention whatsoever of going along with that. I think we should abide by the budget. I do not think we should squander the surplus with new Federal spending. Some of us were interested in tax cuts because we knew that if we did not allow taxpayers to keep their money, that Congress and/or the administration would say, “Well, let’s have more spending.” There is a real propensity around the place to spend money. I just hope that our colleagues will resist that temptation. I hope that they will resist these new overtures by the administration that seems to think they should be an equal body with Congress in writing appropriations bills. I think we should have legitimate negotiations but, frankly, that does not make people equal partners.

We have equal branches of Government with divisions of powers. And, the Constitution says that Congress shall write the laws and Congress shall appropriate the money. We need to get on with our business and do that, send the appropriate bills to the President. If he vetoes them, fine, then let’s pass a continuing resolution to keep Government open.

TRIBUTE TO UNITED STATES SENATOR DALE BUMPERS

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, in the bustling commotion of the ending days of the 106th Congress, members are preoccupied with efforts to enact sought after objectives important to their constituents. Some are busily tying up loose ends, putting a final touch on projects, and looking forward to going home to our constituents and to a break in the hectic schedule of the United States Senate. Regrettably, as this tumultuous session comes to a close, we are also faced with the difficult task of saying goodbye to colleagues who have chosen to follow a new path in life. As I reflect on my years in Congress and on my association with its many members and their various personalities, their goals and, yes, sometimes, their eccentricities, I am reminded of some very important milestones in history made possible by these fine Americans. I am reminded of my good fortune to have been associated with men and women who have given a hand to the American people from all walks of life and from all corners of the United States.

In my reflections, I have thanked my Creator for allowing me to serve my country and my God, the women, and I am, indeed, sorrowful at the upcoming loss of some of the finest men I have ever known.

I pay tribute today to an exceptional United States Senator; a man whom I have served with for 18 years on the Energy Committee and with whom it has been my honor to serve with him. I compliment him and resolve. He has been called the last Southern liberal, and he is proud of it. He often quotes from “To Kill a Mocking Bird.” He is THE commanding foe and to have been associated with—a man of unusual conviction, passion, and resolve. He has been called the last Southern liberal, and he is proud of it. He often quotes from “To Kill a Mocking Bird.” He is THE commanding foe of red.” His first legislative victory and one for which I am told, he received devilish teasing from a colleague who warned that “many people might want to drive straight!” I will miss my friend, who is retiring following twenty-four years of service. He leaves a legacy that has made a difference, not only to the people of Arkansas, but to all Americans. His tireless efforts to end federal policies that he believes may be injurious to the farmer and rural families, known safeguards in protecting the health of millions of children. The Fiscal Year 1999 Agriculture Appropriations Bill, is formally paying tribute to his work by designating an Agricultural Research Service facility as the Dale Bumpers National Rice Research Center. This action follows the enactment of laws that he has also been an advocate of funding for programs to help rural families, including securing funding for basic infrastructure, such as water and sewer facilities to small towns throughout the nation. I personally wish to thank Senator BUMPERS for being a leading advocate for funding on these vital projects, and I share his concern for the millions of Americans who do not have access to a clean, ample supply of drinking water.

Senator BUMPERS has further made a significant mark on efforts to protect family farmers. In particular, we owe our gratitude to DALE for his efforts to initiate programs to help young Americans become this nation’s next generation of family farmers, a dwindling breed at risk of extinction. In honor of his service to rural America, I am proud that I am a member of the Senate Small Business Committee, and to have been associated with—the people of Arkansas in dedicating the Dale Bumpers College of Agricultural, Food, and Life Sciences at the University of Arkansas. Senator BUMPERS’ noteworthy record also extends to many other constituencies. Through his ranking membership on the Senate Small Business Committee, he has fought to help self-employed people obtain health care. He has also been an advocate of funding to expand hospital beds for the Women, Infants and Children feeding program. The list goes on and on.

DALE BUMPERS’ legislative skills and record are clear. He is a modern hero to the underdog. But there is yet another side of the Senator from Arkansas that deserves recognition—the DALE BUMPERS who is a husband, a father, and a grandfather. Married to Betty Lou Flanagan, Dale’s “Secretary of Peace,” for 49 years, he is devoted to her, and she to him. The Flanagans and Betty have three children and six grandchildren, and DALE often speaks affectionately of his family and of their influence on his consideration of legislative issues. Yes, Senator DALE BUMPERS of Arkansas has a personal record of which he can be proud.

It is with regret that I bid farewell to my friend and colleague, who is now departing the United States Senate. I believe that the Senate has deeply benefited from the wisdom of U.S. Senator DALE BUMPERS. As I say my farewell to DALE BUMPERS, I want him to know that when the 106th Congress convenes, I will remember his thoughtful recital. of the fictional Atticus Finch in "To Kill a Mockingbird," "For God's sake, do your duty."

TRIBUTE TO JOHN GLENN

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I rise today to bid farewell to an American hero, a great Senator and a wonderful friend—Senator JOHN GLENN. Senator GLENN is retiring after serving the people of Ohio for four terms.

But his service to our country did not begin in the Senate, nor will it end here. Senator GLENN served in the Marine Corps during World War II and fought in combat in the South Pacific. He also fought with valor in the Korean conflict and ended up flying 149 missions in both wars. He has received numerous honors including six Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with 18 clusters.

He became a test pilot and set a transcontinental speed record in 1957 for this first flight to average supersonic speed from Los Angeles to New York. In 1959, he was selected to be one of seven astronauts in the space program. Ten years later, he made history as the first American to orbit the earth, completing a 5 hour, three orbit flight.

His heroism inspired me and all of the American people. He received the Space Congressional Medal of Honor for his service.

After 23 years in military service, he retired in 1965 and went into the private sector. Despite his outstanding service to our country, it was not enough for JOHN GLENN. He ran for the Senate in 1974 and is now completing his 24th year.

Despite his fame, Senator GLENN was a workhorse, not a showhorse in the Senate. He became an expert on complicated issues like nuclear proliferation, troop readiness, government ethics, civil service reform and campaign finance reform. He did his work with great diligence and thoroughness, with his eye on accomplishing bipartisan objectives.

If you add his 23 years of military service to his 24 years of Service to the people of Ohio, that is 47 years of dedication to our nation.

But even this is not enough for JOHN GLENN. On October 29th of this year, he will return to space on a shuttle mission. He will be the oldest person ever to travel in space and even then his journey will not be over.

He will continue to represent the best of the American spirit and be an informal ambassador for scientific exploration.

I wish him, his wife Annie, his children and grandchildren the very best for the future.

RETIREMENT OF DALE BUMPERS

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to an extraordinary person, a respected and honorable man, a true friend, and one whom I am truly saddened to see leave the Senate—Senator DALE BUMPERS.

Mr. President, Senator BUMPERS is, more than most, a true advocate for the citizens of the United States. I know of no better person who embraces issues with the passion and intellect that he demonstrates. His oratory skills are not only rare but rarely matched. DALE is a true champion of the public's interests, and particularly when that clashes with special interests.

Throughout his decades of public service, as Governor of Arkansas and United States Senator, Senator BUMPERS has carried with him a strong, unyielding belief in a few basic ideas, ideas that have driven him in his tireless efforts to make our country—and the world—a better place.

Senator BUMPERS believes in ensuring equal opportunities for all, including the poor and indigent. He believes in providing high quality, comprehensive education and health care. He believes in the sanctity of our Constitution and the beauty of the arts and humanities in developing human creativity and a national culture. He believes in the importance of environmental conservation and preserving our natural resources. He believes in ending meaningless corporate subsidies and reducing wasteful defense spending. And he believes in the need to slow the growing gap between the rich and the poor.

Senator BUMPERS has never shied away from taking on the powerful special interests, year after year, even when he knows the odds are stacked against him and he is often disappointed with the results. But he has kept on trying.

We have all been witnesses to his eloquent and powerful discourses on a number of subjects. Every one of his presentations before us and before the country have been grounded in personal experience and intellectual strength. When Senator BUMPERS speaks, we know that he speaks from his heart.

Mr. President, in 1995, the Senate debated an amendment that would require zero tolerance for youth who had any amount of alcohol in their blood. Senator BUMPERS revealed his personal story about his parents and their friend who were killed by a drunk driver while returning from their small farm, just across the Arkansas River. Senator BUMPERS was in law school at the time, far away in Chicago. DALE, more than most, has the power to sway with his words. That amendment was swiftly adopted.

Mr. President, also three years ago, the Senate was considering an amendment to add funds to the National Endowment for the Humanities. Now, the NEH is a small agency that can, and does, often come under the budget knife as an insignificant agency. Not to Senator BUMPERS. Senator BUMPERS took to the Senate floor and told all of us about his high school English teacher, Miss Doll Means. He touched us with a personal story that was a turning point in his life. When he was a sophomore, Miss Doll Means told him, after he had read a page of "Beowulf" that he had a nice voice and he read beautifully. That one statement, from an English teacher in a town of 1,000 people, held more for his self-esteem than anybody, except, he said, his father. Not only does he indeed have a nice voice and he reads beautifully, he is among the best orators this Senate has ever seen.

Mr. President, earlier this year during the Appropriations Committee passed an amendment naming a vaccine center at NIH after DALE and Betty Bumpers. For almost 30 years, the two of them have worked tirelessly on a crusade to vaccinate all children—and because of their efforts and others, we have made great progress toward that goal.

Mr. President, when the Senior Senator from Arkansas leaves this body in a few weeks, there will be a noticeable void. We will lose a tireless champion for the underserved; a champion for the public's interest; a champion for responsible spending, not wasteful spending; and a champion for equal opportunity for our environment and for the arts and humanities. Senator BUMPERS has our respect, and he has the people's respect. We will miss him.

Mr. President, I wish my friend and his wife Betty, their children and grandchildren the very best for the future.

TRIBUTE TO WENDELL H. FORD

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President I rise today to pay tribute to our esteemed colleague from Kentucky, the Minority Whip, Senator WENDELL H. FORD. I wish him well. All of us know that we have not heard the last from this dedicated and effective public servant.

His retirement from the Senate will end a formal career of public service to the Commonwealth and the United States which has lasted over three decades. After first serving in the Kentucky Senate, he was elected Lieutenant Governor in 1967 and then Governor of Kentucky in 1971. In 1974, he was elected to serve in the United States Senate.

Mr. President, in the history of this body, few Senators have protected the interests of his or her state as doggedly as WENDELL FORD.

Whether the issue was aviation, tobacco, telecommunications or farm legislation, Senator FORD has always put the people of Kentucky first. And even though we have disagreed on a key issue or two, I know that he is guided by what he believes is best for the people of his state.

As the senior Senator from Kentucky put it himself: "If it ain't good for Kentucky, it ain't good for WENDELL FORD."

And the people of Kentucky have shown their deep appreciation to Senator FORD in return. In 1992, he received the largest number of votes ever.
Mr. President, believe it or not, even though I am a Democrat from the State of Indiana at odds with the State of New Jersey. We always had a vigorous debate when this issue came to the floor. Despite our differences, he showed me great respect and courtesy during these deliberations. I left these debates with a great respect for his energy and determination to help his state.

Mr. President, I wish Senator COATS, his wife Marcia, and their children and grandchildren the very best for the future.

I yield the floor.

A GOOD SENATOR DEPARTS

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, first appointed to the United States Senate in 1989 by Governor Robert Orr to succeed Vice President Dan Quayle, Senator COATS subsequently won reelection and has served this body during these past nine years with knowledge, skill, and a true dedication to his Senatorial duties. As he departs this great institution to pursue future endeavors, we bid him farewell and best wishes.

Prior to joining the United States Senate, Senator COATS made his mark in several arenas. In his early years, he served as a staff sergeant in the U.S. Army, experience he drew on as a member of the Armed Services Committee. With a passion for law and politics, he worked full-time as a legal intern while attending the Indiana University School of Law at night and serving as Associate Editor of the Law Review. Later, in an effort to gain business experience, he switched tunes from barista to become a vice president for an Indiana life insurance company, all before embarking on his legislative career in the House of Representatives, where he was elected in 1980 to represent Indiana's Fourth District.

During his tenure in the Senate, Senator COATS has served on three powerful and influential Senate Committees—Armed Services, Intelligence, and Labor and Human Resources, and has crafted sound education, health care, and national security policy for the nation. I have watched the progress of working with Senator COATS on the Armed Services Committee, where he has served on the Personnel, Readiness, and the Airland Forces Subcommittees. There have been a variety of national defense issues on which we have had to work together in the country, including Big Brothers and Big Sisters. We have fought together for funding and reauthorizing the program because we share the belief that all children can succeed if we lend a helping hand.

Senator COATS also became a leading expert in the Senate on military issues as a member of the Armed Services Committee. He also worked hard on education and poverty legislation as a member of Labor and Human Resources Committee.

Mr. President, during Senator COATS' tenure in the Senate, we did have disagreements over policy issues. One environmental issue highlighted the State of Indiana at odds with the State of New Jersey. We always had a vigorous debate when this issue came to the floor. Despite our differences, he showed me great respect and courtesy during these deliberations. I left these debates with a great respect for his energy and determination to help his state.

Mr. President, I wish Senator COATS, his wife Marcia, and their children and grandchildren the very best for the future.

I yield the floor.

TRIBUTE TO SENATOR DAN COATS

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to the distinguished Senator from Indiana, DAN COATS. While he has only been in the Senate ten years, he has made an important contribution. One example is the work he put into developing the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act Amendments of 1986, and many other landmark aviation and energy laws.

The Senior Senator from Kentucky will be greatly missed here in the United States Senate. We will miss his leadership, his experience and also his great wit. But our personal loss will be the Commonwealth of Kentucky's gain. I wish him, his wife Jean, their children and grandchildren Godspeed as he returns to Owensboro.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The ask for the consent of the Senate to discharge the motion to proceed to the consideration of the nominations before the Senate for a recess.

Mr. BURNS addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes. We were going to go into recess at 3 o'clock. However,
Mr. BURNS. I ask unanimous consent that I be able to make some remarks about our departing colleagues at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TRIBUTE TO FIVE SENATORS LEAVING THE SENATE. SENATORS BUMPERs, KEMPThorne, John Glenn, Dan Coats, Wendell Ford, and DAle Bumpers

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, five Senators will move on at the closing of this session of the 105th Congress. And they are Senators that have, with the exception of one, been here ever since I joined this body back in 1989.

Dirk KempThorne from Idaho was elected after I was. And now after one term he has elected to go back to his home State of Idaho.

It seems like becomes more and more difficult, as time goes by, to attract men and women to public service, and especially to public service when there are elections.

He brought a certain quality to the Senate. On all work of the Environment and Public Works Committee, he was sensitive to the environment and all the public infrastructure that we enjoy across this country. It just seemed to fit, because he had come here after leaving the mayor of Boise, ID. And his very first objective was to tackle this business of unfunded mandates. He took that issue on and provided the leadership, and finally we passed a law that unfunded mandates must be adhered to whenever we tell local government, State government, that it is going to take some of your money to comply with the laws as passed by the Federal Government.

He, like me, had come out of local government. He knew the stresses and the pains of city councilmen and mayors and county commissioners every time they struggle with their budget in order to provide the services for their people, when it comes to schools and roads and public safety—all the demands that we enjoy down to our neighborhoods.

We shall miss him in this body.

To my friend, JOHN GLENN of Ohio, we shall miss him in this body. He did not always mesh—and that’s true with Senator Ford. It was their wisdom and the way they dealt with their fellow Senators that we worked our way through difficult issues and hard times with a sense of humor.

Again, it was my good fortune to work with Senator Bumpers on two committees: The Small Business Committee and the Energy Committee. Those two committees play such a major role in the everyday workings of America.

Wendell Ford was one great champion and one of the true principals in formulating policies that we enjoy today. He played a major role in each and every one of them.

If you haven’t had a budget, it makes it difficult to set the levels for next year’s spending. We are already into the next fiscal year by 10 days and we only had one appropriations bill on the President’s desk.

The distinguished Senator from Montana for his kind remarks. I understand Montana and I can understand why you love it. I can understand why anything a Montana would make our State a little bit better.

I say to my friend from Montana, I thank him for his kind remarks. I thank him for his friendship. I thank him for his ability to sit down and talk things through where we might move forward and help the country and talk about those things we couldn’t agree upon at a later date. I thank him for his friendship.

SENATE BUSINESS

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, a few moments ago the distinguished Assistant Republican leader was on the floor chastising the President, chastising Democrats, chastising Republicans. I was trying to be helpful or influential, and I heard him say more than once, “Get on with our business.”

Mr. President, this is October 10th and the budget for next year should have been completed April 15 of this year. April, May, June, July, August, September, October—we still don’t have a budget. We are running on last year’s budget. Somehow or another, this train hasn’t been running as efficiently and as effectively as some think it should.

If you haven’t had a budget, it makes it difficult to set the levels for next year’s spending. We are already into the next fiscal year by 10 days and we only had one appropriations bill on the President’s desk.

The distinguished Senator from Oklahoma says let’s get on with our business; then he says that the President should not be involved in negotiations. Mr. President, I have been around here 24 years. I have never gone through any negotiations involved with the White House that they didn’t call me. I have gone to the White House to talk with President Reagan; I have gone to the White House to talk with President Bush in order to try to find a way to be helpful, and they were trying to find a way to persuade me to be helpful. I don’t see anything wrong with that. And I don’t believe the President wants to veto bills. That is one reason that everybody agreed to the group—if that is a good term, or the Members of the group—they might be able to work out bills that can be signed. I don’t see anything wrong with the administration playing a part in what they believe is the proper course.

We talk about a budget. Going back to 1999, there wasn’t a Republican that voted for President Clinton's budget at that time. I wonder how those now who are saying we have a great surplus can be breaking their arm patting themselves on the back for that great vote that they didn't cast in 1993.

The President has every right to be part of the negotiations. I wanted to say to my colleague who had to leave, what is wrong with wanting more for education? What is wrong with wanting to improve our school system? What is wrong with having smaller classes? What is wrong with having more teachers? I don't see anything wrong.

What is wrong with seeing that every child that leaves the third grade can read? What is wrong with that? The 21st century will be full of technology and we have to have educated children. So what is wrong with trying to improve education in this country? Public education teaches 90 percent of all of our children. It has to be the best educational system we can give them. We need to be able to improve education all across this country.

How in the world can the Senator from Oklahoma say that the Federal Government will appoint their teachers? We give money to the States. The States then do the selection. The States, then, set the criteria. The States then, have the vacancy. The States do that. I have never known a Federal Government to hire a teacher in my State. I have been Governor. I understand what it means to hire a teacher. I understand what we do. I still understand it. But I don't believe the Federal Education Department hires teachers in my State or any State. So we are not telling them who to hire and who not to hire.

That is just a straw man, or whatever, to try to say we don't want Big Brother involved. We sure want Big Brother's money, we sure want Big Brother to pay it, but we don't want them to be telling them who to hire.

So, when we come out on the floor and chastise the President and the administration for wanting to work out pieces of legislation, you talk to the farmers in the Midwest, talk to farmers in my State; they have had a tough several years. Sure, it may have been less a year ago than it is now and times have changed. We have had a bad summer. We have had real problems. So why are they complaining?

So, Mr. President, I suggest to those who want to come to the floor and have press conferences saying that the administration ought to stay out of our business and we will pass the legislation, well, where is it? Where is the legislation? What have we passed? The Patients' Bill of Rights? No; that was killed yesterday. Education? No. Where are the bills they were supposed to pass? "Let us get on with our business, the Senator from Oklahoma said. Well, let's get on with our business.

Here we are on Saturday, and we are lucky we are not in on Sunday after noon. We will be here Monday. That is a holiday. They set a sine die date of October 9, and we don't even have the appropriations bills done. So let's not be too harsh on the administration for wanting to try to get it done.

I regret I will not have the right to be part of the negotiations. I wanted to say to my colleague who had to leave, what is wrong with wanting more for education? What is wrong with wanting to improve our school system? What is wrong with having smaller classes? What is wrong with having more teachers? I don't see anything wrong.

What is wrong with seeing that every child that leaves the third grade can read? What is wrong with that? The 21st century will be full of technology and we have to have educated children. So what is wrong with trying to improve education in this country? Public education teaches 90 percent of all of our children. It has to be the best educational system we can give them. We need to be able to improve education all across this country.

Mr. President, over the next few days, as the Senate concludes its legislative business, one of the finest individuals it has been my privilege to know will bring to a close yet another chapter in what has been, by any measure, an extraordinary public service career. When that time comes—when the senior Senator from the Commonwealth of Kentucky walks out of this chamber for the last time as a United States Senator—this institution, and all who serve in it, will feel a great and lasting loss.

When WENDELL FORD came to this body on December 28, 1974, thus becoming the 1,685th individual to have served in the Senate, he did so not as a political neophyte but as an accomplished entrepreneur and a dedicated and seasoned public servant. Following service in World War II, our friend from Kentucky returned to his home state and launched a successful insurance business. But it was the call of public service, the chance to reach out and help all of his fellow Kentuckians, that meant the most to this young executive.

And, so, in 1964, WENDELL FORD began what was to become a successful political career by winning election to the Kentucky State Senate. Two years later, in 1966, he sought the position of Lieutenant Governor, and, in 1970, against all odds, he became Kentucky's Governor, a position from which he served with distinction as the chairman of the National Democratic Governors Association.

Mr. President, despite his selfless service within his state, it is, of course, the near quarter-century he has spent here in the United States Senate that has earned WENDELL FORD the admiration and respect of his colleagues. And, having been elected to four terms in the Senate, it is obvious that the good people of Kentucky also understand and appreciate the skill, the dedication, and the flawless integrity that WENDELL FORD brings to his work. He serves Kentucky and the Nation with a wit and candor that are as timely and as refreshing as a cool Kentucky breeze on a hot summer day.

In fact, in 1992, he began a string of historical achievements when he received the largest number of votes ever recorded by a candidate for elected office in the state of Kentucky. On November 4, 1996, WENDELL FORD broke Alben Barkley's record for the longest consecutive service in the United States Senate as a Senator from the Commonwealth, while becoming the overall longest serving Senator from Kentucky in March of this year.

Mr. President, such milestones are not just proud, personal moments, although they are that. Rather, they speak to the immense respect, and the tremendous trust that the citizens of Kentucky have for the far too young senior Senator. Of course, to those of us who know WENDELL FORD, such respect and trust are not unfounded.

As a Member of this body, Senator FORD has become a recognized leader in such diverse areas as aviation, federal campaign finance reform, and energy. He has, through dedication and hard work, shaped such important legislation as the National Voter Registration Act, the Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act of 1994, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the National Energy Security Act of 1992, and the Energy Security Act of 1977.

The commitment shown by our colleagues from Kentucky is emblematic of the devoted public servant that WENDELL FORD has shown himself to be. There will be few who will match the accomplishments of our friend; few who will bring to this body a deeper passion; and few who will legislate with greater skill.
Mr. President, as he prepares to leave the Senate, I offer my sincere gratitude to Senator WENDELL FORD for his professionalism, for his friendship, for his leadership, for his candor, and for his many years of dedicated service to our Nation. I would also like to express my admiration and deep appreciation of my wife, Erma, to WENDELL’s gracious and dedicated wife, Jean. Few know, of course, of the tremendous sacrifices made by our spouses. But those of us who serve in this body understand the price paid by these people, silent partners. None has done so with greater dignity, or with more grace, than has Jean Ford.

And, so, I say to my friend from the Commonwealth of Kentucky, I have treasured the time we have worked together, and I wish him good luck and God’s speed. He is coming home.

Weep no more, my lady. Oh! weep no more to-day! We will sing one song for the Old Kentucky Home far away. "My Old Kentucky Home,"’ Stephen Collins Foster, 1826–1864.

Mr. KEMPTHORNE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho.

TRIBUTE TO DEPARTING SENATORS AND SENATOR KEMPTHORNE’S STAFF

Mr. KEMPTHORNE. Mr. President, I appreciate you presiding as you do in such a class fashion. I would like to make a few comments here. I have been touched and impressed by the fact of colleagues coming to the floor and paying tribute to those Members who are departing. I have listened because, as one of those Members who are departing, I know personally how much it means to hear those kind comments that have been made.

Senator FORD, who just spoke, is leaving after a very illustrious career. I remember when the Republican Party took over the majority 4 years ago and I was new to the position of Presiding Officer, it was not unusual for WENDELL FORD, who knows many of the ropes around here, to come and pull me aside and give me a few of the tips of how I could be effective as a Presiding Officer. I think probably one of the highest tributes you can pay to an individual is the fact that you see their family and the success they have had. I remember when WENDELL FORD’s grandson, Clay, was a page here. I think Clay is probably one of the greatest tributes paid to a grandfather.

DALE BUMPERS, often mentioned here on the floor about his great sense of humor, is an outstanding gentlemen. He is someone whom I remember before I ever became involved in politics. I watched him as a Governor of Arkansas and thought, there is a man who has selfless qualities, someone you can look up to. And then to have the opportunity to serve with him has been a great honor.

JOHN GLENN. Whenever any of the astronauts—the original seven—would blast off into space, my mother would get all the boys up so we could watch them. I remember when JOHN GLENN blasted off into space. Again, the idea that somehow a kid would end up here, and then it was just—it is just something I never could dream of at the time. In fact, JOHN GLENN became a partner in our efforts to stop unfunded Federal mandates. You could not ask for a better partner.

I had the great joy of traveling with them approximately a year ago when we went to Asia. That is when you get to know these people as couples. I remember that we happened to be flying over an ocean when it was the Marine Corps’ birthday. On the airplane we had a cake and brought it out, to the surprise of JOHN GLENN. But you could see the emotion in his eyes. I know the President is a former U.S. Marine, so he knows what we are talking about.

DAN COATS. There is no more genuine a person than DAN—not only in the Senate but on the face of the Earth. He is a man of great sincerity, a man who can articulate his position so extremely well. He is a man who, when you look into his eyes, you know he is listening to you and he is going to do right by you and by the people of his State of Indiana, and he has done right by the people of the United States. He is a man who has the faith, a man to whom I think a number of us have looked for guidance.

When you look at the Senate through the eyes of a camera, you see just one dimension. But on the floor of the Senate we are just people. A lot of times we don’t get home to our wives and kids and sometimes to the ball games or back-to-school nights. There are times when some of the issues don’t go as we would like, and it gets tough. At these times there are people like DAN COATS to whom you can turn, who has said, “Buddy, I have been there and I am with you now.” So, again, he is an outstanding individual.

Also, Mr. President, I have been really fortunate with the quality of the staff I have had here in the U.S. Senate during the 6 years I have been here. As I have listened many times to the Senate clerk call the roll of those Senators, they have answered that roll. I would like to just acknowledge this roll of those staff members whom I have had. This has probably the first and only time their names will be called in this august Chamber:

Cindy Agidius, Maria Bain, Jeremy Chou, Camy Mills Cox, Laurette Davis, Michelle Dunn, Becky English, Gretchen Estess, Ryan Fitzgerald, Lance Glines.

That is a lot of staff. But over 6 years, some of those have come and gone.

I have also received valuable assistance from interns who have worked in my state and Washington offices. I ask unanimous consent that the following list of interns for the past six years be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the list was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

INTERNS

Tyler Prout, James Rolig, Dallas Scholes, Robin Staker, Meghan Sullivan, Omar Valverde, Francisco Whitlock, James Williams, Curt Wozniak, Tim Young.

Nichoie Reinke, Don Schanz, Nathan Sierrra, Jacob Steele, David Thomas, Curtis Wheeler, Brian Williams, Angie Willie, Darryl Wrights.

Mr. KEMPTHORNE. Mr. President, this will probably be the last time officially on this floor as a U.S. Senator that I look at the faces of these people that you and I have worked with—the colleagues and Parliamentarians, the staff. It is family. The young pages that we see here with that sparkle in their eye and the enthusiasm that they have for this process—it is fun to talk to you and to see your sense of enthusiasm for this. As I said, you are going to have a sense of the U.S. Senate like few citizens, because you have been here, you have experienced it, and you have been up close in person.

But to those of you that I see now as I look to the desk, those who have sat in these chambers, I wish you the best through these years, I thank you. America is well served by you, by your professionalism and your dedication.
So I thank you. I thank the Cloakroom again; all of the family; the staff, from the police officers and the waiters and waitresses, and the folks who make this place work; the Senate Chaplain; and, Mr. President, again I thank you for your courtesy, and I bid you farewell.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator. The people of Idaho and the people of the country are very proud of your service. We wish you well.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE

At 12:30 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Mr. Manzullo, one of its reading clerks, announced that pursuant to the provisions of section 703 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 903) as amended by section 103 of Public Law 102–296, the Speaker reappoints Ms. Jo Anne Barnhart of Virginia as a member from private life on the part of the House to the Social Security Advisory Board to fill the existing vacancy thereon.

The message also announced that the House has agreed to the following concurrent resolution, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate:

EXECUTIVE REPORT OF COMMITTEE

The following executive report of committee was submitted:

By Mr. CAMPBELL, from the Committee on Indian Affairs:

D. Bambi Kraus, of the District of Columbia, to be a Member of the Board of Trustees of the Institute of American Indian Arts Native Culture and Arts Development for a term expiring May 19, 2004.

TEXT OF THE COMMITTEE-RECOMMENDED RESOLUTION OF ADOPTION AND CONSENT

The Senate advises and consents to the ratification of the Amended Mines Protocol (as defined in section 5 of this resolution), subject to the reservations, understandings, and conditions in section 3, and the conditions in section 4.

SEC. 2. RESERVATION.

The Senate's advice and consent to the ratification of the Amended Mines Protocol is subject to the reservation, which shall be included in the United States instrument of ratification and shall be binding upon the President, that the United States reserves the right to use other devices (as defined in Article 2(5) of the Amended Mines Protocol)
S12308

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE
October 10, 1998

to destroy any stock of food or drink that is judged likely to be used by an enemy military force, if due precautions are taken for the safety of the civilian population.

SEC. 4. UNIFICATION.

(4) UNIFICATION.—The United States understands that nothing in the Amended Mines Protocol may be construed as restricting or affecting in any way non-lethal weapon technology that is designed to temporarily disable, stun, signal the presence of a person or other entity, in any other fashion, but not to cause permanent incapacity.

(5) INTERNATIONAL JURISDICATION.—The Senate understands that the provisions of Article 14 of the Amended Mines Protocol relating to penal sanctions refer to measures by the authorities of States Parties to the Amended Protocol and not to the trial of any person before an international criminal tribunal. The United States reserves the right to prosecute any person, individually or by any international tribunal to prosecute a United States citizen for a violation of the Protocol or the Convention on Conventional Weapons to which the United States is a party.

(6) TECHNICAL COOPERATION AND ASSISTANCE.—The United States understands that:

(A) no provision of the Protocol may be construed as affecting the discretion of the United States to refuse assistance or to restrict or deny permission for the export of equipment, material, or scientific or technological data to the extent that such permission is required;

(B) the Amended Mines Protocol may not be used as a pretext for the transfer of weapons technology or the provision of assistance to the military or for military counter-demining capabilities of a State Party to the Protocol.

SEC. 4. CONDITIONS.

The Senate’s advice and consent to the ratification of the Amended Mines Protocol is subject to the following conditions, which shall be binding upon the President:

(1) PURSUIT DETERRENT Munition.—(A) UNDERSTANDING.—The Senate understands that nothing in the Amended Mines Protocol shall be inconsistent with the Amendment of the Amended Mines Protocol to delete Article 13(3)(d) of the Amended Mines Protocol which is subject to the requirements of subparagraphs (A) and (B) of this paragraph.

(B) CERTIFICATION.—Prior to deposit of the United States instrument of ratification, the President shall certify to the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives that the Pursuit Deterrent Munition, which is in compliance with the provisions in the Technical Annex and which constitutes an essential military capability for the United States Armed Forces.

(2) EFFECTIVE ALTERNATIVE DEFINED.—For purposes of subparagraph (B), the term ‘effective alternative’ does not mean a tactic or operational concept in and of itself.

(3) Export Moratorium.—The Senate recognizes the expressed intention of the President to impose a moratorium on the export of anti-personnel mines; and

(4) UNITED STATES AUTHORITY FOR TECHNICAL COOPERATION AND ASSISTANCE.—Notwithstanding any provision of the Amended Mines Protocol, no funds may be drawn from the United States budget for the provision of technical and financial assistance to humanitarian demining programs, thereby making a concrete and effective contribution to the effort to end the grave problem posed by the indiscriminate use of non-self-destructing landmines.

(5) LIMITATION ON THE SCALE OF ASSESSMENT.—(A) LIMITATION ON ASSESSMENT FOR COST OF IMPLEMENTATION.—Notwithstanding any provision of the Amended Mines Protocol, and subject to the requirements of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of this paragraph, the portion of the United States annual assessed contribution for activities associated with any conference held pursuant to Article 13 of the Amended Mines Protocol may not exceed $1,000,000.

(B) RECALCULATION OF LIMITATION.—(1) IN GENERAL.—On January 1, 2000, and at 3-year intervals thereafter, the Administrator of General Services shall prescribe an amount that shall apply in lieu of the amount specified in subparagraph (A) and that shall be determined by adjusting the last amount applicable under that subparagraph to reflect the percentage increase by which the Consumer Price Index for the preceding calendar year exceeds the Consumer Price Index for the calendar year three years previously.

(C) ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS REQUIRING CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL.—(1) AUTHORITY.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (B), the President may furnish additional contributions for activities associated with any conference held pursuant to Article 13 of the Amended Mines Protocol which would otherwise be prohibited under subparagraph (A) if—

(I) the President determines and certifies in writing to the appropriate committees of Congress that the failure to make such contributions would seriously affect the national interest of the United States; and

(II) Congress enacts a joint resolution approving the certification of the President under subclause (I).

(2) STATEMENT OF REASONS.—Any certificate required under clause (1) shall be accompanied by a detailed statement setting forth the specific reasons therefor and the specific activities associated with any conference held pursuant to Article 13 of the Amended Mines Protocol to which the additional contributions would be applied.

(3) UNITED STATES AUTHORITY FOR TECHNICAL COOPERATION AND ASSISTANCE.—Notwithstanding any provision of the Amended Mines Protocol, no funds may be drawn from the Treasury of the United States for any assistance or support (including transfer of in-kind items) under Article 11 or Article 13(3)(d) of the Amended Mines Protocol without statutory authorization and approval by Congress.

(4) FUTURE NEGOTIATION OF WITHDRAWAL CLAUSE.—It is the sense of the Senate that, in negotiations on any treaty containing arms control provisions, United States negotiators should not agree to any provision that would have the effect of inhibiting the United States from exercising the arms control provisions of that treaty in a timely fashion in the event that the supreme national interests of the United States have been jeopardized.

(7) Prohibition on de facto implementation of the Ottawa Convention.—Prior to the deposit of the United States instrument of ratification, the President shall certify to Congress that—

(A) the President will not limit the consideration of the United States anti-personnel mines or mixed anti-tank systems solely to those that comply with the Ottawa Convention; and

(B) in pursuit of alternatives to United States anti-personnel mines, or mixed anti-tank systems, the United States shall seek to identify, adapt, modify, or otherwise develop only those technologies that—

(i) are intended to provide military effectiveness equivalent to that provided by the relevant anti-personnel mine, or mixed anti-tank system; and

(ii) would be affordable.

(8) Certification with regard to international tribunals.—Prior to the deposit of the United States instrument of ratification, the President shall certify to Congress that with respect to the Amended Mines Protocol, the Convention on Conventional Weapons, or any future protocol or amendment thereto, that the United States shall not recognize the jurisdiction of any international tribunal over the United States or any of its citizens.

(9) TACTICS AND OPERATIONAL CONCEPTS.—It is the sense of the Senate that development, adaptation, or modification of an existing or new tactical or operational concept, if not itself, is unlikely to constitute an acceptable alternative to anti-personnel mines or mixed anti-tank systems.

(10) Finding regarding the international humanitarian crisis.—The Senate finds that—

(A) the grave international humanitarian crisis associated with anti-personnel mines has been created by the indiscriminate use of mines that do not meet or exceed the specifications on detectability, self-destruction, and self-destruction in the Technical Annex to the Amended Mines Protocol; and

(B) United States mines that do meet such specifications have not contributed to this problem.

(11) Approval of modifications.—The Senate reaffirms the principle that any amendment or modification to the Amended Mines Protocol other than an amendment or modification solely of a minor technical or administrative nature shall enter into force with respect to the United States only pursuant to the treaty-making power of the President, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senators present, as set forth in Article II, section 2, clause 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

(12) Further arms reductions obligations.—The Senate declares its intention to consider for approval an international agreement that would obligate the United States to reduce or limit the Armed Forces or armaments of the United States in a militarily significant manner only pursuant to the treaty-making power of the President, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senators present.

(13) Treaty interpretation.—The Senate affirms the applicability to all treaties of the constitutionally-based principles of treaty interpretation set forth in the resolution of ratification of the INF Treaty, approved by the Senate on May 27, 1988, and condition (8) of the resolution of ratification of the CFE Frank Document, approved by the Senate on May 14, 1997.

(14) Primacy of the United States constitution on the Amended Mines Protocol.—If the Amended Mines Protocol requires or authorizes the enactment of legislation, or the taking of any other action, by the United States that is prohibited by the Constitution of the United States, as interpreted by the United States.

SEC. 5. Definitions. As used in this resolution:

(D) Ottawa Convention.—The term "Ottawa Convention" means the Convention on the Prohibition of, Production, Stockpiling, Transfer and Use of Anti-Personnel Mines and on Their Destructive Effects, done at Ottawa on May 3, 1996 (Treaty Document 105-1).

(E) United States instrument of ratification.—The term "United States instrument of ratification" means the instrument of ratification of the United States of the Ottawa Convention.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

The following bills and joint resolutions were introduced, read the first and second time by unanimous consent, and referred as indicated:

By Mr. CHAFFE (for himself, Mr. MACK, and Mr. LIEBERMAN):

S. 2617. A bill to amend the Clean Air Act to authorize the President to enter into agreements to provide regulatory credit for voluntary early action to mitigate greenhouse gas emissions; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

CREDIT FOR EARLY ACTION ACT OF 1998

Mr. CHAFFE, Mr. President. I am proud to join with Senators MACK and LIEBERMAN today to introduce the Credit for Early Action Act of 1998. This bipartisan legislation is designed to encourage voluntary, meaningful, and early efforts by industry to reduce their emissions of greenhouse gases. This is a bill to address the threat of global climate change.

Before I get into the details of this legislative proposal, let me spend a few moments discussing the science of climate change.

Human influence on the global climate in an extraordinarily complex matter that has undergone more than a century of research. Indeed, in an 1896 lecture delivered to the Stockholm Physics Society by the Nobel Prize-winning chemist, Svante Arrhenius, it was predicted that large increases in carbon dioxide (CO₂) would result in a corresponding warming of the globe.

For Senator Chaffee: the first to predict that large increases in CO₂ would result in a warming of the globe. What have the world's scientists told... us at different intervals over the last one hundred years, since Mr. Arrhenius identified the warming effects of CO₂.

In 1924, a U.S. physicist speculated that industrial activity would double atmospheric CO₂ in five hundred years, around 2100. Current projections, however, call for a doubling sometime before 2050—some four hundred years earlier than predicted just seventy years ago.

In 1967, scientists from the Scripps Institute of Oceanography reported for the first time that much of the CO₂ emitted into the atmosphere is not absorbed by the oceans as some had argued, leaving significant amounts in the atmosphere. They are said to have called carbon dioxide emissions “a large-scale geophysical experiment” with the Earth’s climate.

In 1967, the first reliable computer simulation calculated that global average increases by four more than four degrees Fahrenheit when atmospheric CO₂ levels are double that of preindustrial times. In 1985, a conference sponsored by the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP), the World Meteorological Organization (WMO), and the International Council of Scientific Unions forged a consensus of the international scientific community on the issue of climate change. The conference report warned that some future warming appears inevitable due to past emissions, regardless of future actions, and recommended consideration of a global treaty to address climate change.

In 1987, an ice core from Antarctica, analyzed by French and Russian scientists, revealed an extremely close correlation between CO₂ and temperature going back more than one hundred thousand years. In 1990, an appeal signed by forty-nine Nobel Prize laureates and seven hundred members of the National Academy of Science stated, “There is broad agreement within the scientific community that amplification of the Earth’s natural greenhouse effect by a buildup of various gases introduced by human activity has the potential to produce dramatic changes in climate ... only by taking action now can be ensured that future generations will not be at risk.”

Also in 1990, seven hundred and forty-seven participants from one hundred and sixteen countries took part in the Second World Climate Conference. The conference statement reported that, “...the increase of greenhouse gas concentrations is not limited, the predicted climate change would place stresses on natural and social systems unprecedented in the past ten thousand years.”

Finally, Mr. President, in 1995, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, representing the consensus of climate scientists worldwide, concluded that “...the balance of evidence suggests that there is a discernible human influence on global climate.”

This last development is significant, because the overwhelming majority of climate scientists concluded, for the first time, that man is influencing the global climate system. That conclusion, while controversial in some quarters, was endorsed unanimously by the governments of the ninety-six countries involved in the panel’s efforts.

Are these forecasts a certainty? They are not. The predictions of climate change are indeed based on numerous variables. Although scientists are improving the state of their knowledge at a rapid pace, we still have a lot to learn about the role of the sun, clouds and oceans, for example.

The question is, will we ever have absolute certainty? Will we ever be able to eliminate all of the variables? The overwhelming majority of independent, peer-reviewed scientific studies indicate that we do not have such a luxury. By the time we finally attain absolute certainty, it would likely take centuries to reverse atmospheric damage and oceanic warming.

Mr. President, I am not alone in this thinking. There are an increasing number of business leaders in our country who have arrived at the same conclusion that we need to act swiftly.

In a “dear colleague” letter sent out this week, Senator Lieberman and I repeated a remarkable statement issued by an impressive group of companies that have joined with the newly established Pew Center on Climate Change. American Electric Power, Boeing, BP, American Electric Power, Lockheed Martin, 3M, Sun, United Technologies, Toyota, Weyerhaeuser, and several others said that, “we accept the views of most scientists that enough is known about the science and environmental impacts of climate change for us to take actions to address its consequences.”

The legislation to be introduced today by Senator MACK, Senator LIEBERMAN and I proposes an exciting framework that would appropriately recognize the importance of voluntary efforts to combat climate change. While the climate debate will indeed continue over the next few years, we strongly believe that there is a voluntary, incentive-based approach which can be implemented now. Congressional approval of this approach, which the three of us and others will work for early next year, will provide the certainty necessary to encourage companies to move forward with practical, near-term emissions reductions.

Specifically, this legislation would provide a mechanism by which the President can enter into binding greenhouse gas reduction agreements with entities operating in the United States. Once executed, these agreements will provide credits for voluntary greenhouse gas reductions effected by those entities before 2008, or whenever we might have an imposition of any domestic or international emission reduction requirements.

An important element of this approach makes sense for a wide variety of reasons. Encouraging reductions can begin today to slow the rate of buildup of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere, helping to minimize the potential environmental risks of continued warming. Given the longevity of many climate gases, which continue to trap heat in the atmosphere for a century or more, it just makes sense to encourage practical actions now.

By guaranteeing companies credit for voluntary early reductions, the bill would allow companies to protect themselves against the financial risk of steep reduction requirements or excessive costs in the future. For companies that want to reduce their greenhouse gas emissions, providing credit for action now adds years to any potential compliance schedule, allowing companies to spread costs over broader time periods. A focus on early reductions can help stimulate the American search for strategies and technologies that are needed worldwide. Development of such technologies can improve American competitiveness in the $300 billion dollar global environmental marketplace.

This “credit” program may also make the greenhouse gas reductions achieved before regulations are in place financially valuable to the companies who make such reductions. Given the likely inclusion of market-based approaches to any eventual domestic regulatory requirements, similar to the successful acid rain program of the 1990 Clean Air Act, credit earned could be traded or sold to help other companies manage their own reduction efforts.

Under a “no credit” approach, the status quo, it is more likely that early reduction companies will be penalized if greenhouse gas reductions are ultimately required, because their competitors who wait to reduce will get credit for later reductions. Such a “no credit” approach will encourage companies to persist in incentives to delay investments until emissions reductions would be credited.

In anticipation of a potential global emissions market, decisions re being made now by entrepreneurial companies and countries. For example, Russia and Japan have already concluded a trade of greenhouse gas emission credits. Private companies such as Niagara-Mohawk and Canada-based Suncor are moving forward with cross-boundary trades. Aggressive companies, such as British Petroleum, AEP, and PacifiCorp are already implementing agreements in Central and South America—sequestering carbon and developing credits against emissions—by protecting rain forests.

Mr. President, America can and should reward companies that take such positive steps to position themselves, for the environmental and economic future.

On the international side, passage by the U.S. Congress of a program to help stimulate early action will be clear example of American leadership and response by companies, countries, and other nations, that the United States, with huge advantages in quality of life and dramatically higher per capita emissions of greenhouse gases, should take a leadership role in the reduction of greenhouse gas emissions. And they argue that developing countries should not be asked to take steps until the U.S. begins to move forward. This bill can work directly to change that situation, therefore removing a barrier to essential developing country progress.

There it is, Mr. President. We are here today because we believe that climate change presents a serious threat. We believe it makes sense to get started now. And, as many leading American companies today believe, there are sensible, fair and voluntary methods to get on the right track.

We encourage our colleagues to use the time between now and next January to review this legislation carefully. We are open to suggestions. Most importantly, we are looking for others to join us in this effort.

Ms. MACK. Mr. President, as an original cosponsor of the Credit for Early Action Act, I rise to congratulate Senator CHAFEE, the chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, and Senator MACK in introducing this legislation. It will provide encouragement under any future greenhouse gas reduction systems that may adopt, to companies who act now to reduce their emissions of greenhouse gases. This is a voluntary, market-based approach which is a win-win situation for both American business and the environment. Enactment of this legislation will provide the certainty necessary to encourage companies to move forward with emission reductions now. I’m particularly pleased that the legislation grows out of principles developed in a dialog between the Environmental Defense Fund and a number of major industries.

The point of this legislation is simple. Many companies want to move forward now to reduce their greenhouse gas emissions. They don’t want to wait until legislation requires them to make these reductions. For some companies reducing greenhouse gases makes good economic sense because adopting cost-effective solutions can actually save them money by improving the efficiency of their operations. Companies recognize if they reduce their greenhouse gas emissions now they will be able to add years to any potential compliance schedule, allowing them to spread their costs over broader time periods. Acting now can help U.S. companies protect themselves against the potential for significant reductions that may be required in the future. This bill ensures they will be credited in future reduction proposals for action now.

Early action by U.S. companies will also have an enormous benefit for the environment. Early reductions can begin to slow the rate of buildup of greenhouse gases that we are now adding to the atmosphere, helping to minimize the environmental risks of continued global warming.

Given this regulatory uncertainty, I think a compelling argument can be made to provide protection for companies who take action now. In addition, I think it makes good economic sense because early action by companies can help to minimize the environmental risks of continued global warming.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I am delighted to join today with my colleagues Senator CHAFEE, the chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, and Senator MACK in introducing this legislation. It will encourage American business and other countries to move forward with emission reductions now. This is a voluntary, market-based approach which is a win-win situation for both American business and the environment. Enactment of this legislation will provide the certainty necessary to encourage companies to move forward with emission reductions now. I’m particularly pleased that the legislation grows out of principles developed in a dialog between the Environmental Defense Fund and a number of major industries.

The point of this legislation is simple. Many companies want to move forward now to reduce their greenhouse gas emissions. They don’t want to wait until legislation requires them to make these reductions. For some companies reducing greenhouse gases makes good economic sense because adopting cost-effective solutions can actually save them money by improving the efficiency of their operations. Companies recognize if they reduce their greenhouse gas emissions now they will be able to add years to any potential compliance schedule, allowing them to spread their costs over broader time periods. Acting now can help U.S. companies protect themselves against the potential for significant reductions that may be required in the future. This bill ensures they will be credited in future reduction proposals for action now.

Climate change is neither an abstraction nor the object of a science fiction writer’s imagination. It is real and affects us all. More than 2,500 of the world’s top scientists and experts have linked the increase of greenhouse gases to at least some of the increase in sea level, temperature and rainfall experienced worldwide in this century. Last year was the warmest year on record, and 9 of the last 11 years were among the warmest ever recorded.

The point of this legislation is to provide an incentive for companies that want to make voluntary early reductions in emissions of greenhouse gases, by guaranteeing that those companies will receive credit, once binding requirements begin, for voluntary reductions they have made before 2008.
credits will enable US companies to add years to any potential compliance schedule for reductions, allowing them to spread costs over broader time periods. These credits may also be financially valuable to companies who make the reductions. Countries are more likely to be encouraged to help other companies manage their own reduction requirements. A focus on early reductions can also help stimulate the search for and use of new, innovative strategies and technologies that are needed to help companies both in this country and worldwide meet their reduction requirements in a cost-effective manner. Development of such strategies and technologies can improve American competitiveness in the more than $300 billion global environmental marketplace.

I'm pleased that this legislation builds on section 1605(b) of the Energy Policy Act which allowed companies to voluntarily record their emissions in greenhouse gas emissions, which I worked hard to include in the Energy Policy Act.

Mr. President, the debate about climate change is too often vested—and I believe wrongly so—in false choices between scientific findings, common sense, business investments and environmental awareness. The approach of this bill again demonstrates that these are not mutually exclusive choices, but highly compatible goals.

By Mr. Mccain.

S 2618. a bill to require certain multilateral development banks and other leading institutions to implement independent third party procurement monitoring, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

THE FAIR COMPETITION IN FOREIGN COMMERCE ACT OF 1998

Mr. Mccain. Mr. President, I am proud to introduce the Fair Competition in Foreign Commerce Act of 1998, to address the serious problem of waste, fraud and abuse, resulting from bribery and corruption in international development projects. This legislation will set conditions for U.S. funding through multilateral development banks. These conditions will require the country receiving aid to adopt substantive procurement reforms, and independent third-party procurement monitoring of their international development projects.

During the cold war, banks and governments often looked the other way as pro-western leaders in developing countries treated national treasuries as their personal treasure troves. Information technologies and the resulting global economy have transformed the world in which we live into a smaller and smaller community. For example, economic turmoil in Indonesia hits home on Wall Street. Allegations of misconduct in the White House negatively impact American companies, which causes capital flight to other nation's stock exchanges. In today's increasingly interdependent global economy, nations are ill-advised to ignore corruption and wrongdoing in neighboring countries.

The U.S. is a vital part of the global economy. We cannot afford to look the other way when we see bribery and corruption running rampant in nations which are not our own. Bribery and corruption abroad undermine the U.S. goals of promoting democracy and accountability, fostering economic development and trade liberalization, and achieving a level playing field throughout the world. Developing nations desperately need foreign economic assistance to break the devastating cycle of poverty and dependence.

The United States is increasingly called upon to lead multilateral assistance efforts through its participation in various lending institutions. However, it is critical that we take steps to ensure that the American taxpayer dollars are being used appropriately. The Fair Competition in Foreign Commerce Act of 1998 is designed to decrease the stifling effects of bribery and corruption in international development contracts. The Act will achieve this objective by mandating that multilateral lending institutions require that nations receiving U.S. economic assistance subject their international development projects to independent third-party procurement monitoring, and other substantive procurement reforms.

By decreasing bribery and corruption in international development procurements, this legislation will (1) enable U.S. businesses to become more competitive when bidding against foreign firms which secure government contracts through bribery and corruption; (2) encourage additional direct investment to developing nations, thus increasing their economic growth, and (3) increase opportunities for U.S. businesses to export to these nations as their economies expand and mature.

Multilateral lending efforts are only effective in spurring economic development if the funds are used to further the intended development projects. The American taxpayers make substantial contributions to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, the Inter-American Development Bank, the International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Investment Corporation, the North American Development Bank, and the African Development Fund. These contributions provide significant funding for major international development projects. Unfortunately, these international development projects are often plagued by fraud and corruption, waste and inefficiency, and other misuse of funds.

The inefficient use of valuable taxpayer dollars is bad for the U.S. and the nation receiving the economic assistance. When used for its intended purpose, foreign economic aid yields short and long term benefits to U.S. businesses. Direct foreign aid assists developing nations to develop their infrastructure. A developed infrastructure is vital to creating and sustaining a modern dynamic economy. Robust infrastructure networks for U.S. businesses to export their goods and services. Exports are key to the U.S. role in the constantly expanding and increasingly competitive global economy. Emerging economies of today become our trading partners of tomorrow. However, foreign economic assistance will only promote economic development if it is used for its intended purpose, and not to line the pockets of foreign bureaucrats and their well-connected political allies.

The current laws and procedures designed to detect and deter corruption after the fact are inadequate and meaningless. This bill seeks to ensure that U.S. taxpayers' hard-earned dollars contributed to international projects are being used appropriately and eliminating bribery and corruption before they can taint the integrity of these vital international projects. Past experience illustrates that it is ineffective to attempt to reverse waste, fraud, and abuse in large scale foreign infrastructure projects, once the abuse has already begun. Therefore, it is vital to detect the abuses before they occur.

The Fair Competition in Foreign Commerce Act of 1998 requires the United States Government, through its participation in the multilateral lending institutions and in its disbursement of non-humanitarian foreign assistance funds, to: (1) require the recipient international financial institution to adopt an anti-corruption plan that requires the aid recipient to use independent third-party procurement monitoring services, at each stage of the procurement process, to ensure openness and transparency in government procurements, and (2) to require the recipient nation to institute specific strategies for minimizing corruption and maximizing transparency in procurements at each stage of the procurement process.

If these criteria are not met, the legislation directs the Secretary of the Treasury to instruct the United States Executive Directors of the various international development banks to use the voice and vote of the United States to oppose the lending institution from providing the funds to the nations requesting economic aid which do not satisfy the procurement reforms criteria. This Act has two important exceptions. First, it does not apply to assistance to meet urgent humanitarian needs such as providing food, medicine, disaster, and refugee relief. Second, it also permits the President to waive the funding restrictions with respect to a particular country if making such funds available is important to the national security interest of the United States.
Independent third-party procurement monitoring is a system where an independent third-party conducts a program to eliminate bias, to promote transparency and open competition, and to minimize fraud and corruption, waste and inefficiency and other misuse of funds in international procurements. The system does this through an independent evaluation of the technical, financial, economic and legal aspects of each stage of a procurement, from development and issuance of technical specifications, bidding documents, evaluation reports and contract preparation, to the delivery of goods and services. This monitoring will take place throughout the entire term of the international development project.

Mr. President, this system has worked for other governments. Procurement reforms and third-party procurement monitoring resulted in the governments of Kenya, Uganda, Colombia, and Guatemala experiencing significant cost savings in recent procurements. For example, the Government of Guatemala experienced an overall saving of 40%. It adopted a third-party procurement monitoring system, and other procurement reform measures, in a recent procurement of pharmaceuticals.

Independent third-party procurement monitoring is effective because it monitors each stage of the procurement process during and prior to each stage’s completion, as opposed to following completion of a particular stage of the procurement process. Indeed, current third-party procurement monitoring also improves transparency and openness in the procurement process. Increased transparency helps to minimize fraud and corruption, waste and inefficiency, and other misuse of funding, and promotes competition, thereby strengthening international trade and foreign commerce.

Mr. President, bribery and corruption have become a serious problem. Both harm consumers, taxpayers, and honest traders who lose contracts, production, and profits because they refuse to offer bribes to secure foreign contracts. Bribery and corruption have become a serious problem. A World Bank survey of 3,600 firms in 69 countries showed 40% of businesses paying bribes. More startling is that Germany and other countries showed 40% of businesses paying bribes. However, we must do more. Our current efforts must expand. The FCPA prevents U.S. nationals and corporations from bribing foreign officials. It does nothing to prevent foreign nationals and corporations from bribing foreign officials to obtain foreign contracts. Valuable taxpayer resources are often diverted or squandered because of corrupt officials or the use of non-transparent specifications, contract requirements and the like in international procurements for goods and services. Such corrupt practices also minimize competition and prevent the U.S. from being able to get the full value of the goods and services for which it bargained. In addition, despite the importance of international markets to U.S. goods and services providers, many U.S. companies refuse to participate in international procurements that may be corrupt.

This legislation is designed to provide a mechanism to ensure, to the extent possible, the integrity of the U.S. contribution to the multilateral lending institutions and other humanitarian U.S. foreign aid. Corrupt international procurements, often funded by these multilateral banks, weaken democratic institutions and undermine the very opportunities that multilateral lending institutions were founded to promote. This bill will encourage and support the development of transparent government procurement capacity, which is vital for emerging democracies constructing a government procurement infrastructure that can sustain market economies in the developing world.

Mr. President, I am committed to combating the waste, fraud and abuse resulting from bribery and corruption in international development projects. Procurement reforms and independent procurement monitoring are key to policing complicated international procurements, which are often plagued by corruption, inefficiency and other non-transparent specifications, contract requirements and the like in international procurements that may be corrupt.

Despite the importance of international markets to U.S. goods and services providers, many U.S. companies refuse to participate in international procurements that may be corrupt.
and the efficient use of American economic assistance.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2618

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Fair Competition in Foreign Commerce Act”.

SECTION 2. FINDINGS AND STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) The United States makes substantial contributions and provides significant funding for major international development projects through the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, the Inter-American Development Bank, the International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Investment Corporation, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the African Development Bank, and the Inter-American Development Bank, the African Development Bank, and other multilateral lending institutions.

(2) These international development projects are often plagued with fraud, corruption, waste, inefficiency, and misuse of funding.

(3) Fraud, corruption, waste, inefficiency, misuse, and abuse are major impediments to competition in foreign commerce throughout the world.

(4) Identifying these impediments after they occur is inadequate and meaningless.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to—

(1) procurement practices are open, transparent, and free of corruption, fraud, inefficiency, and other misuse of funds.

(2) independent third-party procurement monitoring is an important tool for detecting and preventing such impediments.

(3) third-party procurement monitoring includes evaluations of each stage of the procurement process and assures the openness and transparency of the process.

(4) procurement transparency and openness in the procurement process helps to minimize fraud, corruption, waste, inefficiency, and other misuse of funding, and promotes competition, thereby strengthening international trade and foreign commerce.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to build on the excellent progress associated with the Organization on Economic Development and Cooperation Agreement on Bribery and Corruption, by requiring the use of independent third-party procurement monitoring as part of the United States participation in multilateral development banks and other lending institutions and in the disbursement of nonhumanitarian foreign assistance funds.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

(a) PROCUREMENT PRACTICES.—In this Act:

(Appropriate Committees).—The term “appropriate committees” means the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Technology of the Senate and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Technology of the House of Representatives.

(b) INDEPENDENT THIRD-PARTY PROCUREMENT MONITORING.—The term “independent third-party procurement monitoring” means a program to—

(1) promote transparency and open competition;

(2) minimize fraud, corruption, waste, inefficiency, and other misuse of funds.

in international procurement through independent evaluation of the technical, financial, economic, and legal aspects of the procurement process.

(3) Independent third-party procurement monitoring has been adopted and is being used by the recipient.

(4) PROCUREMENT REPORTS.—The term “procurement reports” means reports submitted by the independent third-party procurement monitoring to the recipient.

(5) MULTILATERAL DEVELOPMENT BANKS AND OTHER LENDING INSTITUTIONS.—The term “multilateral development banks and other lending institutions” means the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, the Inter-American Development Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Investment Corporation, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the African Development Bank, and the Inter-American Development Bank, the African Development Bank, and the Inter-American Development Bank.

(6) MULTILATERAL DEVELOPMENT BANKS AND OTHER LENDING INSTITUTIONS.—The term “multilateral development banks and other lending institutions” means the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, the Inter-American Development Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Investment Corporation, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the African Development Bank, and the Inter-American Development Bank.

(b) STRATEGIC PLAN.—The strategic plan shall include an instruction by the Secretary of Commerce of the United States, the Secretary of Transportation, the Comptroller General of the United States, or the Director of each multilateral development bank and lending institution to use the voice and vote of the United States to oppose the use of funds appropriated or made available for non-humanitarian assistance, until—

(1) a recipient international financial institution has adopted an anticorruption plan that requires the use of independent third-party procurement monitoring services and measures ensuring transparency in government procurement;

(2) the recipient country institutes specific strategies for minimizing corruption and maximizing transparency in each stage of the procurement process.

(c) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Not later than June 29th of each year, the Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress on the progress in implementing procurement reforms made by each multilateral development bank and lending institution and each country that received assistance from a multilateral development bank or lending institution during the preceding year.

(d) REQUIREMENT OF BENEFIT.—Withholding any other provision of law, no funds appropriated or made available for non-humanitarian foreign assistance programs, the activities of the Agency for International Development, may be expended for those programs unless the recipient country, multilateral development bank or lending institution has demonstrated that—

(1) procurement practices are open, transparent, and free of corruption, fraud, inefficiency, and other misuse of funds;

(2) independent third-party procurement monitoring has been adopted and is being used by the recipient.

SEC. 4. REQUIREMENTS FOR FAIR COMPETITION IN FOREIGN COMMERCE

(a) IN GENERAL.—Within 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall transmit to the President and to appropriate committees of Congress a strategic plan for requiring the use of independent third-party procurement monitoring and other international procurement reforms relating to the United States participation in multilateral development banks and other lending institutions.

(b) STRATEGIC PLAN.—The strategic plan shall include an instruction by the Secretary of the Treasury to the United States Executive Director of each multilateral development bank and lending institution to use the voice and vote of the United States to oppose the use of funds appropriated or made available by the United States for any non-humanitarian assistance, until—

(1) the recipient international financial institution has adopted a plan that requires the use of independent third-party procurement monitoring services and measures ensuring transparency in government procurement, and

(2) the recipient country institutes specific strategies for minimizing corruption and maximizing transparency in each stage of the procurement process.

(c) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Not later than June 29th of each year, the Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress on the progress in implementing procurement reforms made by each multilateral development bank and lending institution and each country that received assistance from a multilateral development bank or lending institution during the preceding year.

(d) REQUIREMENT OF BENEFIT.—Withholding any other provision of law, no funds appropriated or made available for non-humanitarian foreign assistance programs, the activities of the Agency for International Development, may be expended for those programs unless the recipient country, multilateral development bank or lending institution has demonstrated that—

(1) procurement practices are open, transparent, and free of corruption, fraud, inefficiency, and other misuse of funds;

(2) independent third-party procurement monitoring has been adopted and is being used by the recipient.

SEC. 5. EXCEPTIONS

(a) NATIONAL SECURITY INTEREST.—Section 4 shall not apply with respect to a country if the President determines with respect to such country that making funds available is important to the national security interest of the United States. Any such determination shall cease to be effective 6 months after being made unless the President determines that its continuation is important to the national security interest of the United States.

(b) OTHER EXCEPTIONS.—Section 4 shall not apply with respect to assistance to—

(1) meet urgent humanitarian needs (including providing food, medicine, disaster, and refugee relief);

(2) facilitate democratic political reform and rule of law activities;

(3) create private sector and nongovernmental organizations that are independent of government control; and

(4) facilitate development of a free market economic system.

S. 2619. A bill to amend title 38, United States Code, to improve access of veterans to emergency medical care in non-Department of Veterans Affairs medical facilities; to the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs.

THE VETERANS’ ACCESS TO EMERGENCY HEALTH CARE ACT OF 1998

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, as we near the end of the 105th Congress, I would again like to voice my frustration about the fact that the United States Senate failed to consider and pass important legislation this year that could have greatly benefited the American people. The highway leading to adjournment is littered with legislation that should have been considered, passed and enacted long ago, including efforts to prevent teen smoking, modernize our public schools, and increase the minimum wage.

I am particularly disappointed that my colleagues on the other side of the aisle prevented the United States Senate from considering managed care reformation. Yet when we convened yesterday, Senate Republicans even prevented us from proceeding to their own HMO reform bill.

Time and again, the American people have said they want a comprehensive, enforceable Patients’ Bill of Rights. Toward that goal, several of my Democratic colleagues and I introduced the Patients’ Bill of Rights Act of 1998. That legislation addressed a growing concern among the American people about the quality of care delivered by health maintenance organizations. Despite enormous public support for HMO reform, Democratic efforts to consider the Patients’ Bill of Rights were stymied at every turn.

For months, it has been my intention to offer an amendment to the HMO reform legislation regarding a serious deficiency in veterans’ access to emergency health care. I was prepared to do so yesterday. Since the Senate was again prevented from debating managed care reform, however, I would like to call attention to this matter before the 105th Congress adjourns by introducing the Veterans’ Access to Emergency Health Care Act of 1998 as a separate bill. I hope my colleagues will...

SEC. 2. DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS ENROLLMENT SYSTEM DECLARED TO BE A HEALTH CARE PLAN.

(a) CONTRACT CARE.—Section 1703(a)(3) of title 38, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

(1) The enrollment system under subsection (a) is a health care plan, and the veterans enrolled in that system are enrollees and participants in a health care plan.

(b) DEFINITION OF MEDICAL SERVICES.—Section 1703(b) of such title is amended—

(1) by striking out “and” at the end of subparagraph (A);
(2) by striking out the period at the end of subparagraph (B) and inserting in lieu thereof “and”; and
(3) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following new subparagraph:

(c) REIMBURSEMENT OF EXPENSES FOR EMERGENCY CARE.—Subsection 1728(a)(2) of such title is amended—

(1) by striking out “or” before “(D)”; and
(2) by inserting before the semicolon at the end of the following: “and”;

(d) PAYMENT PRIORITY.—Section 1705 of such title, as amended by section 2, is further amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply with respect to care or services provided on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

By Mr. ROBB. S. 2620. A bill to amend the Federal Water Pollution Control Act to establish a National Clean Water Trust Fund to authorize the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to use amounts in the Fund to carry out projects to promote the recovery of waters of the United States.
from damage resulting from violations of that act, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

NATIONAL CLEAN WATER TRUST FUND ACT OF 1998

Mr. ROBB. Mr. President, today I introduce a bill that will help clean up and restore our nation's waters. This bill, the National Clean Water Trust Fund Act of 1998, creates a trust fund from fines, penalties and other monies collected through enforcement of the Clean Water Act. The money deposited into the National Clean Water Trust Fund would be used to address the pollution problems that initiated those enforcement actions.

Last year, a highly publicized case in Virginia illustrated the need for this legislation. On August 8, 1997, U.S. District Court Judge Rebecca Smith issued a $12.6 million judgement, the largest fine ever levied for violations of the Clean Water Act, against Smithfield Foods, Isle of Wight County, Virginia, for polluting the James River. The Judge wrote in her opinion that the civil penalty imposed on Smithfield should be directed toward the restoration of the Pagan and James Rivers and the Chickahominy River in the Chesapeake Bay. Unfortunately, due to current federal budget laws, the court had no discretion over the damages, and the fine was deposited into the Treasury's general fund, defeating the very spirit of the Clean Water Act.

Today, there is no guarantee that fines or other money levied against parties who violate provisions in the Clean Water Act will be used to correct water problems. Instead, some, if not all, of the money is directed into the general fund of the U.S. Treasury with no provision that it be used to improve the quality of our water. While the Environmental Protection Agency's enforcement activities are extracting large sums of money from industry and others through enforcement of the Clean Water Act, we ignore the fundamental issue of how to pay for clean up and restoration of pollution problems for which the penalties were levied.

To ensure the successful implementation of the Clean Water Act, we should put these enforcement funds to work and actually clean up our nation's waters.

This legislation will establish a National Clean Water Trust Fund within the Treasury to earmark fines, penalties, and other funds, including consent decrees, obtained through enforcement of the Clean Water Act that would otherwise be placed into the Treasury's general fund. Within the provisions of the bill, the EPA Administrator would be authorized, with direct consultation from the states, to prioritize and carry out projects to restore and recover waters of the United States using the funds collected from violations of the Clean Water Act. This legislation would help avoid another predicament like the one faced in Virginia.

Mr. President, it only makes sense that fines occurring from violations of the Clean Water Act be used to clean up and restore our nation's waters. This bill provides a real opportunity to improve the quality of our nation's waters.

I recognize that no action can be taken on this legislation this session. I introduce it today in order to give my colleagues, the Administration and others an opportunity to examine the ideas contained in the legislation. I will introduce this legislation early in the next Congress and hope we can include it in the reauthorization of the Clean Water Act when it is taken up next year.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the full text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2630

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "National Clean Water Trust Fund Act of 1998.".

SEC. 2. NATIONAL CLEAN WATER TRUST FUND.

Section 309 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1319) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(h) NATIONAL CLEAN WATER TRUST FUND.—

"(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established in the Treasury a National Clean Water Trust Fund (referred to in this subsection as the 'Fund') consisting of amounts transferred to the Fund under paragraph (2) and amounts credited to the Fund under paragraph (3).

"(2) TRANSFER OF AMOUNTS.—For fiscal year 1998, and each fiscal year thereafter, the Secretary of the Treasury shall transfer to the Fund an amount determined by the Secretary to be equal to the total amount deposited in the general fund of the Treasury in the preceding fiscal year from fines, penalties, and other funds obtained through enforcement actions conducted pursuant to this section and section 505(a)(1), including any amounts obtained under consent decrees and excises, and excluding any amounts ordered to be used to carry out mitigation projects under this section or section 505(a)(4).

"(3) DUTIES OF SECRETARY.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall invest in interest-bearing obligations of the United States such portion of the Fund as is not, in the Secretary's judgment, required to meet current withdrawals.

"(B) ADMINISTRATION.—The obligations shall be invested and held in the name of the United States, and the proceeds from the sale or redemption of the obligations shall be credited to the Fund in accordance with section 9602 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

"(4) USE OF AMOUNTS FOR REMEDIAL PROJECTS.—Amounts in the Fund shall be available, as provided in appropriations Acts, to the Administrator to carry out projects to restore and recover waters of the United States from damage resulting from violations of this Act that are subject to enforcement actions under this section and similar damage resulting from the discharge of pollutants into the waters of the United States.

"(B) CONSIDERATION OF PROJECTS.—In selecting projects to carry out under this subsection, the Administrator shall give priority to a project to carry out the recovery and restoration of the United States from damage described in paragraph (4), if an enforcement action conducted pursuant to this section or section 505(a)(1) with respect to the violation for which this Act in the same administrative region of the Environmental Protection Agency as the violation, resulted in amounts being deposited in the general fund of the Treasury.

"(C) ALLOCATION OF AMOUNTS.—In determining an amount to allocate to carry out a project, the Administrator may consider the extent to which the United States from damage described in paragraph (4), the Administrator shall, in the case of a priority project described in paragraph (A), subtract the total amount deposited in the general fund of the Treasury as a result of enforcement actions conducted with respect to the violation pursuant to this section or section 505(a)(1).

"(D) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator may carry out a project under this subsection directly or by loan, or by entering into contracts with, another Federal agency, a State agency, a political subdivision of a State, or any other public or private entity.

"(E) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this subsection, and every 2 years thereafter, the Administrator shall submit to Congress a report on implementation of this subsection.

SEC. 3. USE OF CIVIL PENALTIES FOR MITIGATION PROJECTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 309(d) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1319(d)) is amended in the last sentence by inserting before the period at the end the following:

"and excluding any amounts ordered to be used to carry out mitigation, restoration, or other projects that are consistent with the purposes of this Act and that enhance public health or the environment.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 505(a) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1365(a)) is amended in the last sentence by inserting after the period at the end the following: " and excluding any amounts ordered to be used to carry out mitigation, restoration, or other projects in accordance with section 309(d)."

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself and Mr. BINGAMAN):

S. 2621. A bill to authorize the acquisition of the Valley Caldera, currently managed by the Baca Land and Cattle Company, to provide for an effective land and wildlife management program for this resource within the Department of Agriculture through the private sector, and for purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

THE VALLES CALDERA PRESERVATION ACT

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the Valles Caldera in Northern New Mexico is a place you visit for a day, and long to return to for a life time. It is nature at its most extraordinary—an almost perfectly round bowl formed by a collapsed volcano. It is a place with rolling meadows, crystal-clear streams, roaming elk, Ponderosa pines and quaking aspens, and Golden poplars. This legislation guarantees that this very special place will be there for future generations to visit and remember.

I am very proud to be introducing legislation that will authorize the Secretary of the Interior to acquire a truly unique 95,000 acre “working ranch” in New Mexico, known alternatively as the Baca Ranch, the Valle Grande, and the Valles Caldera. Independently, but as importantly, this legislation also addresses longstanding problems encountered by Federal land managers in disposing of surplus federal property and the acquisition of private inholdings within federal management areas.

The former provides a unique solution to the management of a unique property, while the latter builds on existing laws and provides resources dedicated to the consolidation of federal agency holdings.

In north-central New Mexico there is a truly unique working ranch on an historic Mexican land grant known as Baca Location No. 1. The Ranch is currently owned and managed by the Baca Land and Cattle Company, and it comprises most of a collapsed, extinct volcano known as the Valles Caldera. This ranch also contains innumerable significant cultural, historic, recreational, ecological, and productive resources.

The bill I introduce today is the result of months of negotiation with the Administration, Senator Bingaman, and Congressman Redmond. We have incorporated ideas from groups interested in the preservation of the ranch—unique Baca Ranch. Many Americans, especially New Mexicans have expressed a desire for the federal government to purchase the Ranch. After months of research and consideration, I met with President Clinton on Air Force One while we were both returning to Washington from New Mexico to discuss the possibility of this land acquisition. Because the nature of the property requires a unique operational model, I approached the Administration with an innovative trust structure for the management of the Baca Ranch. This trust would manage the ranch with appropriate public input and governmental oversight. I indicated that I was not interested in having the Ranch managed under current federal agency practices. The President expressed enthusiasm for making this concept a reality, and we agreed on a Statement of Principles to govern the acquisition of the Baca Ranch at the end of July.

This unique working ranch has been well maintained and preserved by the current owners. In fact, if ever there was an example of sterling stewardship of a piece of property, this is it.

The legislation introduced today certainly cannot pass this year: unfortunately, time has run out for the 106th Congress, but many concerns and ideas surrounding clearly defined property values will be discussed at hearings upon reintroduction in the 106th Congress. While there is consensus that this property should be acquired, we do not yet know the cost of the property. The Santa Clara Pueblo has estimated the property to be worth approximately $100 to $125 million, but the appraisal has not yet been given to the Forest Service or made public. Therefore, the exact cost of acquisition has yet to be determined.

This is the largest purchase of public land by the Forest Service in at least 25 years, therefore, it is imperative that careful consideration is given to not only the purchase, but to the management of the property as well. In past years management agencies have been criticized for their stewardship of public lands. I find it ironic that many of the groups who wish to bring this ranch into government ownership are the same groups who, in recent years, have initiated relentless litigation against the Forest Service and BLM alleging poor management of federal lands. However, diverse interests have come together to reach agreement on the trust management of the Ranch, and Congressman Redmond and I are determined to work in both Houses of Congress to obtain funding for purchase. Any funding at this point should be viewed as earnest money, and will be subject to this authorization and agreement on the fair market value for the property.

The parties have really worked hard in framing this legislation, and there are still a few issues we would like to work out. Not the least of which includes the interest expressed by the Santa Clara Pueblo to purchase land outside the Caldera, but contains the headwaters of the Santa Clara Creek. Negotiations between the Pueblo, the Administration, the current owners of the property, and the congressional delegation on how to resolve this issue was not completed prior to today’s introduction. However, all parties are interested in continuing discussion regarding a potential Santa Clara purchase of property adjacent to their reservation. Under the current state of affairs on our public lands, Forest Service and BLM management is constantly hounded by litigation initiated by some of the same groups that wish to bring this ranch into government ownership. I do not want to take this property, put it in that situation, and then claim we have done a great thing. This legislation represents an opportunity to experiment with a different kind of public land management scheme. Burdensome regulations, and litigation resulting therein have brought federal land management practices rapidly towards gridlock.

The careful husbandry of the Ranch by the Dunigan family, the current owners, including selective harvesting of timber, limited grazing and hunting, and the use of prescribed fire, have preserved a mix of healthy range and timber land with significant species diversity providing a model for sustainable land development and use. The Ranch’s natural beauty and abundant resources, and its proximity to large municipal populations could provide numerous recreational opportunities for hiking, fishing, camping, cross-country skiing, and hunting.

The Baca Location is a unique ranch property, put it in that situation, and then claim we have done a great thing. This legislation represents an opportunity to experiment with a different kind of public land management scheme. Burdensome regulations, and litigation resulting therein have brought federal land management practices rapidly towards gridlock. The Valles Caldera National Preserve will... serve as a model to explore alternative means of federal management and will provide the American people with opportunities to enjoy the Valles Caldera and its many resources for generations to come.

The Trust idea, based on similar legislation for federal management of the Presidio in San Francisco, sets in motion a truly unique management scheme befitting this truly unique place. I am willing to take a chance on an innovative approach because I believe that the current quagmire of federal land management simply does not do justice to this very special place. The unique nature of the Valles Caldera, and its resources, requires a unique management program, dedicated to appropriate development and preservation under the principle of the highest and best use of the ranch in the interest of the public.

Mr. President, title I of this legislation authorizes the framework necessary to fulfill that objective. It authorizes the acquisition of the Baca ranch by the appropriate Federal agency. At the same time, it establishes a government-owned corporation, called the Valles Caldera Trust, whose sole responsibility is to ensure that the ranch is managed in a manner that will preserve its current unique character, and provide numerous opportunities for the American people to enjoy its splendor. Most importantly to me, however, the legislation will allow, for the first time, the ranch’s continued operation as a working asset for the people of north-central New Mexico, without further drawing on the thinly-stretched resources of the Federal land management agencies.

I am looking forward to hearings on this legislation next year, and know that the legislative process shall enlighten us further as to the complex nature of the Ranch. I, personally, am greatly looking forward to seeing an value estimate of the land prior to authorization. While valued between $37 and $55 million in 1980, I have heard that the Baca ranch is currently estimated to be worth approximately $100 to $125 million. I do not know how such inflation will affect the likelihood of the location’s federal acquisition. I do know that we have waited patiently for many months for a promised appraisal from the current owners, but an appraisal does not provide the same comfort as having any other offers to purchase the land been made. Therefore, the exact cost of acquisition has yet to be determined. Before we commit large sums of federal taxpayer dollars to purchase new property, it seems prudent to provide a solution for the orderly disposal of surplus federal property and to meet our current obligations to those who hold lands within federal properties.

I would like to emphasize that while both portions of this bill are important to federal land management, both in New Mexico and nationwide, my intention is not to tie federal acquisition of surplus federal land. Instead, I feel this legislation independently addresses the acquisition of this unique property for public use and enjoyment, while solving current land management problems.

Currently, New Mexico has approximately 300,000 acres of federal land in public ownership or management. I agree that these public lands are an important natural resource that require our most thoughtful management.

In order to preserve our existing National treasures for future use and enjoyment, we must devise, with the concurrence of other members of Congress and the President, a definite plan and timetable to dispose of surplus land through sale or exchange into private ownership.

Title II of this legislation addresses the orderly disposition of surplus federal property on a state by state basis. It also addresses the problem of what is known as “inholdings” within federally managed areas. There are currently approximately 15 million acres of privately owned lands trapped within the boundaries of Federal land management units, including national parks, national forests, national monuments, national wildlife refuges, and wilderness areas. These inholdings, referred to as inholdings, makes the exercise of private property rights difficult for the land owner. In addition, management of the public lands is made more cumbersome for the federal land managers.

In many cases, inholders have been waiting generations for the federal government to set aside funding and prioritize the acquisition of their property. With rapidly growing public demand for the use of public lands, it is increasingly difficult for federal managers to address problems created by the existence of inholdings in many areas.

This legislation directs the Department of the Interior and the Department of Agriculture to survey inholdings existing within Federal land management units, and to establish a priority for their acquisition, on a willing seller basis, in the order of those which have existed as inholdings for the longest time to those most recently being incorporated into the Federal unit.

Closely related to the problem created by inholdings within Federal land management units is the problem of Federal land tracts, referred to as inholdings, made from the proceeds generated from the sale of these lands, all of which I have often referred to as “surplus,” would be beneficial to local communities and enhance the opportunity for BLM land managers, alike. First, it would allow for the reconfiguration of land ownership patterns to better facilitate resource management. Second, it would contribute to administrative efficiency within federal land management units, by allowing for better allocation of fiscal and human resources within the agency. Finally, in certain locations, the sale of public land which has been identified for disposal is the best way for the public to realize a fair value for this land.

The President, Mr. President, is that an orderly process for the efficient disposition of lands identified for disposal does not currently exist. This legislation addresses that problem by directing the BLM to fulfill the requirements for the transfer of these lands out of Federal ownership, and providing a dedicated source of funding generated from the sale of these lands to continue this process. Additionally, this legislation authorizes the use of the proceeds generated from these lands to purchase inholdings from willing sellers. This will enhance the ability of the Federal land management agencies to work cooperatively with private land owners, and with State and local governments, to consolidate the ownership of public and private land in a manner that would allow for better overall resource management.

Mr. President, I want to make it clear that this program will in no way detract from other programs with similar purposes. The bill clearly states that proceeds generated from the disposal of public land, and dedicated to the acquisition of inholdings, will supplement, and not replace, funds appropriated for that purpose through the Land and Water Conservation Fund. In addition, the bill states that the Bureau of Land Management should rely on reasonable federal entities to conduct appraisals and other research required for the sale or exchange of these lands, allowing for the least disruption of existing land and resource management programs.

Mr. President, this bill has been a long time in the making. For over a year, now, I have been working with and talking to knowledgeable people, both inside and outside of the current administration, to develop many of the ideas embodied in this bill. In recent months, my staff and I have worked closely with the administration on this legislation. I feel comfortable in stating that by working together, we have reached agreement in principle on the best way to proceed with these very important issues involving the management of public land resources, namely; the acquisition and unique management plan for the Baca Ranch in New Mexico, and just as importantly, the disparity that exists in the end, we in combination with a program to address problems associated with inholdings within our Federal land management units.

Mr. President, I have committed to the administration to continue to work with them on three or four areas of this bill, where concerns remain. I have full confidence, however, that we can address these issues through the legislative process in the next Congress. For example, the need for additional roads, parking, visitor facilities, and water and mineral rights are also important issues that must be resolved. However, we are very lucky to have the pleasure of a bipartisan, administration-approved legislative concept from which to work.

The Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee will schedule hearings to address the many issues regarding Federal purchase of the Baca Ranch early in the 106th Congress. Hopefully, by that time, an appraisal will be available for review. Congress has tried to resolve the difficult challenges in acquiring this property before, and failed; cooperation among the parties may bring success this time around.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill and Statement of Principles be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Valles Caldera Preservation Act”.

SEC. 102. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the Baca ranch, owned and managed by the Baca Land and Cattle Company, comprises most of the Valles Caldera in central New Mexico, and constitutes a unique land mass, with scientific, cultural, historic, recreational, ecological, wildlife, fisheries, and productive values;

(2) the Valles Caldera is a large resurgent lava dome with potential geothermal activity;

(3) the land comprising the Baca ranch was originally granted to the heirs of Don Luis Maria in 1860,

(4) historical evidence in the form of old logging camps, and other artifacts, and the history of territorial New Mexico indicate the importance of this land over many generations for domesticated livestock production and timber supply;

(5) the careful husbandry of the Baca ranch by the Dunigan family, the current owners, including selective timbering, limited grazing and hunting, and the use of prescribed fire that promote a healthy range and timberland with significant species diversity, thereby serving as a model for sustainable land development and use;

(6) the ranch is a repository of biodiversity and abundant resources, and its proximity to large municipal populations, could provide numerous recreational opportunities for hiking, fishing, camping, cross-country skiing, and hunting;

(7) the Forest Service documented the scenic and natural values of the Baca ranch in its 1993 report entitled “Review of the Study of the Baca Location No. 1, Santa Fe National Forest, New Mexico,” as directed by Public Law 102-183, (8) the Baca ranch can be protected for current and future generations by continued operation as a working ranch under a unique management regime which would protect the land and resource values of the property and surrounding ecosystem while allowing and providing for the ranch to eventually become financially self-sustaining;

(9) the current owners have indicated that they wish to sell the Baca ranch, creating an opportunity for federal acquisition and public access and use on the land;

(10) certain features on the Baca ranch have historical and religious significance to Native Americans which can be preserved and protected through federal acquisition of the property;

(11) the unique nature of the Valles Caldera and the potential uses of its resources with different resulting impacts warrants a management regime uniquely capable of developing an operational program for appropriate preservation and development of the land and resources of the Baca ranch in the interest of the public;

(12) an experimental management regime should be provided by the establishment of a Trust Capable of using new methods of public land management that may prove to be cost-effective and environmentally sensitive; and

(13) the Secretary may promote more efficient management of the Valles Caldera and the watershed of the Santa Clara Creek through the assignment of purchase rights of such water to the Public Water Supply District.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this title are—

(1) to authorize Federal acquisition of the Baca ranch;

(2) to protect and preserve for future generations the scenic and natural values of the Baca ranch, associated rivers and ecosystems, and archaeological and cultural resources;

(3) to provide opportunities for public recreation;

(4) to establish a demonstration area for an experimental management regime adapted to this unique property which incorporates many of the recommendations of the assessment and report in conformance in order to promote long term financial sustainability consistent with the other purposes enumerated in this subsection; and

(5) to provide for sustained yield management of Baca ranch for timber production and domesticated livestock grazing insofar as is consistent with the other purposes stated herein.

SEC. 103. DEFINITIONS.

In this title:

(1) BACA RANCH.—The term “Baca ranch” means the lands and facilities described in section 104(a).

(2) BOARD OF TRUSTEES.—The terms “Board of Trustees” and “Board” mean the Board of Trustees as described in section 107.

(3) COMMITTEES OF CONGRESS.—The term “Committees of Congress” means the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the United States Senate and the Committee on Resources of the House of Representatives.

FINANCIALLY SELF-SUSTAINING.—The term “financially self-sustaining” means management and operating expenditures equal to or less than proceeds derived from the property. Neither the receipt of revenues and development and interest on invested funds. Management and operating expenditures shall include Trustee salaries, expenses and benefits of staff, administrative and operating expenses, improvements to and maintenance of lands and facilities of the Preserve, and other similar expenses. Funds appropriated to the Preserve shall be available for this purpose. Funds appropriated to the Preserve shall be available for this purpose.

SEC. 104. ACQUISITION OF LANDS.

(a) ACQUISITION OF BACA RANCH.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In accordance with the Act of June 15, 1926 (16 U.S.C. 471a), the Secretary is authorized to acquire all or part of the Baca ranch and the lands adjacent to it approximately 94,812 acres of the Baca ranch, comprising the lands, facilities, and structures referred to as the Baca Location No. 1, and generally depicted on a plat entitled “Reserva del Rey” dated February 12, 1926, in New Mexico.

(b) SOURCE OF FUNDS.—The acquisition pursuant to paragraph (1) may be made by purchase through appropriated or donated funds, by exchange, by contribution, or by donation of land. Funds appropriated to the Secretary and the Secretary of the Interior from the Land and Water Conservation Fund shall be available for this purpose.

(c) BASIS OF SALE.—The acquisition pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be based on appraisal done in conformity with the Uniform Appraisal Standards for Federal Land Acquisitions and is consistent with applicable title standards of the Attorney General.

(d) ADDITION OF LAND TO BANDELIER NATIONAL MONUMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Upon acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to subsection (a), the Secretary of the Interior shall assume administrative jurisdiction over the approximately 84 acres of the land acquired within the Upper Alamo watershed as depicted on the Forest Service map entitled “Proposed Bandelier National Monument Expansion Map” dated October 1998.

(2) MANAGEMENT.—Upon assumption of administrative jurisdiction pursuant to paragraph (1), the See State Land Board shall manage the added land as a part of Bandelier National Monument, the boundaries of which are hereby adjusted to encompass such addition. The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to utilize funds appropriated for the National Park Service to acquire on a willing seller basis any such land to make a complete redivision within such boundary adjustment.

(c) PLAT AND MAPS.—

(1) PLAT AND MAP PREVAILS.—In case of any conflict between the plat referred to in subsection (a)(1) and the acreages provided in such subsections, the plat or map shall prevail.

(2) MINOR CORRECTIONS.—The Secretary and the Secretary of the Interior may make minor corrections in the boundaries of the Upper Alamo National Wildlife Refuge without regard to the provisions of section 103(b) and subchapter III of chapter 53, title 5, United States Code, relating to classification and General warrants. No employee of the Trust shall be paid at a rate in excess of that paid the Supervisor of the Santa Fe National Forest or the Superintendent of the Bandelier National Monument, whichever is greater.

(2) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in this title, employees of the Trust shall be Federal employees as defined by title 5, United States Code, and shall be subject to all rights and obligations applicable thereto.

(B) USES.—FOREST SERVICE EMPLOYEES UPON ESTABLISHMENT OF THE TRUST.—For the two year period from the date of the establishment of the Trust, and upon the request of the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary may provide, on a reimbursable basis, Forest Service personnel and technical expertise as necessary on a fee basis to assist in the establishment of this title. Thereafter, Forest Service employees may be provided to the Trust as provided in paragraph (C).

(C) OTHER FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.—At the request of the Trust, the employees of any Federal agency may be provided for implementation of this title. Such employees shall be paid at rates not to exceed the rates in effect in the Federal Government.

(e) GOVERNMENT CORPORATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Trust shall be a Government Corporation as subject to chapter 91 of title 31, United States Code (commonly referred to as the Government Corporation Control Act). Financial statements of the Trust shall be audited in accordance with section 9105 of title 31 of the United States Code.

(f) TAXES.—The Trust and all properties acquired pursuant to section 104(a) shall be exempt from all Federal, State, and local taxes other than those levied and imposed on personal or real property. No other property may be acquired pursuant to this title that is subject to any Federal, State, or local tax.

(g) DONATIONS.—(1) The Trust may solicit and accept donations of funds, property, supplies, or services from individuals, foundations, corporations and other private or public entities for the purposes of carrying out its duties. The Secretary, prior to assumption of management authority by the Trust, and the Trust thereafter, may accept donations from such entities notwithstanding that such donors may conduct business with the Department of Agriculture or any other Department or agency of the United States.

(h) PROCEDURES.—Notwithstanding section 1341 of title 31 of the United States Code, all monies received by the Trust shall be retained by the Trust, and such monies shall be available to the Trust for the administration, preservation, restoration, operation and maintenance, improvement, repair and related expenses in connection with such properties under its management jurisdiction.

(2) FUND.—There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a special fund bearing the name "Valles Caldera Fund" which shall be available, without further appropriation, to the Trust

SEC. 104. THE VALLES CALDERA NATIONAL PRESERVE.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—Upon the date of acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a), there is hereby established the Valles Caldera National Preserve as a unit of the National Forest System which shall include all Federal lands and interest in land acquired pursuant to subsection 104(a), except that the Secretary is authorized to administer the preserve pursuant to section 104(b)(1), and shall be managed in accordance with the purposes and requirements of this title.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes for which the preserve is established are to protect and preserve the scenic, geologic, watershed, fish, wildlife, cultural, historic, and recreational values of the Preserve, and to provide for multiple use and sustained yield of renewable resources within the Preserve, consistent with this title.

(c) MANAGEMENT AUTHORITY.—Except for the purposes of the Secretary enumerated in this title, the Preserve shall be managed by the Valles Caldera Trust established by section 106.

(d) ELIGIBILITY FOR PAYMENT IN LIEU OF TAXES.—Lands acquired by the United States pursuant to section 104(a) shall constitute entitlement lands for purposes of the Payment in Lieu of Taxes Act (31 U.S.C. 6901–6904).

(e) WITHDRAWALS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Upon acquisition of all interests in minerals within the boundaries of section 104(a), subject to valid existing rights, the lands comprising the Preserve shall be withdrawn from disposition under all laws pertaining to mineral leasing, including geothermal leasing.

(2) MATERIALS FOR ROADS AND FACILITIES.—Nothing in this title shall preclude the Secretary, acting through the Forest Service or the National Park Service, from taking action necessary for construction and maintenance of roads and facilities within the Preserve.

(3) FRANCHISE AND GAME.—Nothing in this title shall be construed as affecting the responsibilities of the State of New Mexico with respect to fish and wildlife, including the regulation of hunting, fishing and trapping within the Preserve, except that the Trust, in consultation with the Secretary and the State of New Mexico, may designate zones where hunting, fishing, or trapping shall be permitted for reasons of public safety, administration, the protection of nongame species and their habitats, or other legitimate public purposes.

(f) FISH AND GAME.—Nothing in this title shall be construed as affecting the responsibilities of the State of New Mexico with respect to fish and wildlife, including the regulation of hunting, fishing and trapping within the Preserve, except that the Trust, in consultation with the Secretary and the State of New Mexico, may designate zones where hunting, fishing or trapping shall be permitted for reasons of public safety, administration, the protection of nongame species and their habitats, or other legitimate public purposes.

(g) NEEDED POWERS.—The Trust shall be provided with such powers as are necessary to carry out its responsibilities, including the power to impose and collect fees and surcharges, to levy and collect taxes, and to borrow funds. The Trust shall be authorized to accept funds, grants, and donations, and to accept gifts in kind.

(h) REPORTS.—The Trust shall submit, but not later than January 15 of each year, to the Secretary and the Committees of Congress a comprehensive and detailed report of its operations, activities, and accomplishments for the prior year. The report shall include a section that describes the Trust’s goals for the current year.

(i) FINANCES.—The Trust’s goals for the current year shall be provided on a reimbursable basis.

(j) USES.—FOREST SERVICE EMPLOYEES UPON ESTABLISHMENT OF THE TRUST.—For the two year period from the date of the establishment of the Trust, and upon the request of the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary may provide, on a reimbursable basis, Forest Service personnel and technical expertise as necessary on a fee basis to assist in the establishment of this title. Thereafter, Forest Service employees may be provided to the Trust as provided in paragraph (C).

(k) OTHER FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.—At the request of the Trust, the employees of any Federal agency may be provided for implementation of this title. Such employees shall be paid at rates not to exceed the rates in effect in the Federal Government.

(l) COMMISSION.—The Trust shall be exempt from all Federal, State, and local taxes other than those levied and imposed on personal or real property. No other property may be acquired pursuant to this title that is subject to any Federal, State, or local tax.

(m) DONATIONS.—(1) The Trust may solicit and accept donations of funds, property, supplies, or services from individuals, foundations, corporations and other private or public entities for the purposes of carrying out its duties. The Secretary, prior to assumption of management authority by the Trust, and the Trust thereafter, may accept donations from such entities notwithstanding that such donors may conduct business with the Department of Agriculture or any other Department or agency of the United States.

(n) PROCEDURES.—Notwithstanding section 1341 of title 31 of the United States Code, all monies received by the Trust shall be retained by the Trust, and such monies shall be available to the Trust for the administration, preservation, restoration, operation and maintenance, improvement, repair and related expenses in connection with such properties under its management jurisdiction.

(2) FUND.—There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a special fund bearing the name "Valles Caldera Fund" which shall be available, without further appropriation, to the Trust... for any purpose consistent with the purposes of this title. At the option of the Trust, the Secretary of the Treasury shall invest excess monies of the Trust in such account, which shall be at rates determined by the Secretary of the Treasury taking into consideration the current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States of comparable maturity.

(i) SUITS.—The Trust may sue and be sued in its own name to the same extent as the Federal Government. For purposes of such suits, the President shall be the State of New Mexico. The Trust shall be represented by the Attorney General in any litigation arising out of the activities of the Trust. The Trust may employ private attorneys to provide advice and counsel.

(ii) BYLAWS.—The Trust shall adopt necessary bylaws to govern its activities.

(k) INSURANCE AND BOND.—The Trust shall require that all holders of leases from, or parties in contract with, the Trust that are authorized to occupy, use, or develop properties under the management jurisdiction of the Trust procure proper insurance against any loss in connection with such properties, or activities authorized in such lease or contract, as the Board determines to be customary.

SEC. 107. BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Trust shall be governed by a 7 member Board of Trustees consisting of the following:

(1) VOTING TRUSTEES.—The voting Trustees shall be—

(A) the Supervisor of the Santa Fe National Forest, United States Forest Service; and

(B) the Superintendent of the Bandelier National Monument, National Park Service.

(2) NON-VOTING TRUSTEES.—The Board shall be composed of:

(a) 4 non-voting Trustees described in subsection (a)(1); and

(b) 3 individuals, appointed by the President, in consultation with the Congressional delegation from the State of New Mexico. The 7 individuals shall have specific expertise or experience in the management or conservation or government entities as follows—

(i) one trustee shall have expertise in all aspects of domesticated livestock management, production and marketing, including range management and livestock business management;

(ii) one trustee shall have expertise in the management and non-game wildlife and fish populations, including hunting, fishing and other recreational activities;

(iii) one trustee shall have expertise in the sustainment of forests, including plant life, for commodity and non-commodity purposes;

(iv) one trustee shall be active in a non-profit conservation organization concerned with the Pecos River basin;

(v) one trustee shall have expertise in financial management, budgeting and programming;

(vi) one trustee shall have expertise in the cultural and natural history of the region; and

(vii) one trustee shall be active in State or local government in New Mexico, with expertise in the customs of the local area.

(3) LIMITATIONS.—No appointed trustee shall serve for any purpose consistent with the purposes of this title. At the option of the Trust, the Trust may serve more than 8 years in consecutive terms.

(4) VACANCIES.—Any vacancy among the appointed trustees shall be filled in the same manner in which the original appointment was made, and any trustee appointed to fill such vacancy shall serve for the remainder of that term for which his or her predecessor was appointed.

(5) LIMITATIONS.—No appointed trustee shall serve for more than 8 years in consecutive terms.

(d) QUORUM.—A majority of trustees shall constitute a quorum of the Board for the conduct of official business.

(e) ORGANIZATION AND COMPENSATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Board shall organize itself in such a manner as it deems most appropriate to effectively carry out the activities of the Trust.

(2) COMPENSATION OF TRUSTEES.—Trustees shall serve without pay, but may be reimbursed from the funds of the Trust for the actual and necessary travel and subsistence expenses incurred by them in the performance of their duties.

(3) CHAIR.—Trustees shall select a chair from the membership of the Board.

(f) LIABILITY OF TRUSTEES.—Appointed trustees shall not be considered Federal employees by virtue of their membership on the Board, except for purposes of the Federal Tort Claims Act, the Ethics in Government Act, and the provisions of Chapter 11 of title 18, United States Code.

(g) MEETINGS.—

(1) LOCATION AND TIMING OF MEETINGS.—The Board shall meet in sessions open to the public at least three times per year in New Mexico. Upon a majority vote made in open session, and a public statement of the reasons therefore, the Board may close any other meeting to the public: Provided, That any final decision of the Board to adopt or amend the comprehensive management program pursuant to section 108(d) or to approve any contract or other arrangements for the lease of land or resources of the Preserve shall be made in open public session.

(2) PUBLIC INFORMATION.—In addition to other requirements of applicable law, the Board shall establish procedures for providing appropriate public information and opportunities for public comment regarding the management of the Preserve.

SEC. 108. RESOURCE MANAGEMENT.

(a) ASSUMPTION OF MANAGEMENT.—The Trust shall assume all authority provided by this Act to manage the Preserve upon a determination by the Secretary, which to the maximum extent practicable shall be made within 60 days after the appointment of the Board, that—

(1) the Board is duly appointed, and able to conduct business; and

(2) provision has been made for essential management services.

(b) MANAGEMENT RESPONSIBILITIES.—Upon assumption of management of the Preserve pursuant to subsection (a), the Trust shall—

(1) manage the Preserve, its lands and resources, and the use thereof, including, but not limited to such activities as—

(A) administration of the operations of the Preserve;

(B) preservation and development of the land and resources of the Preserve;

(C) interpretation of the Preserve and its history and its historic, cultural and recreational values of the Preserve;

(D) management of public use and occupancy of the Preserve; and

(E) maintenance, rehabilitation, repair and improvement of property within the Preserve.

(c) AUTHORIZATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Trust shall develop a comprehensive program for the management of lands, resources, and facilities within the Preserve. Such program shall provide for—

(A) the operation of the Preserve as a working ranch, consistent with paragraphs (2) through (4);

(B) the protection and preservation of the scenic, geologic, watershed, fish, wildlife, historic, cultural and recreational values of the Preserve;

(C) multiple use and sustained yield, as defined under the Multiple-Use Sustained Yield Act of 1960 (16 U.S.C. 531), of renewable resources within the Preserve;

(D) public use of and access to the Preserve for recreation;

(E) public use and access to the Preserve for recreation;

(F) the protection and preservation of the scenic, geologic, watershed, fish, wildlife, historic, cultural and recreational values of the Preserve;

(G) multiple use and sustained yield, as defined under the Multiple-Use Sustained Yield Act of 1960 (16 U.S.C. 531), of renewable resources within the Preserve;

(H) public use of and access to the Preserve for recreation;

(I) preparation of an annual budget with the goal of achieving a financially self-sustaining operation within 15 full fiscal years after the date of assumption by the Baca ranch pursuant to section 105(a); and

(J) optimizing the generation of income based on existing market conditions, but without unnecessarily diminishing the long-term scenic and natural values of the area, or diminishing the multiple use, sustained yield capacity.

(e) PUBLIC USE AND RECREATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Trust shall give thorough consideration to the provision of opportunities for public use and recreation that are consistent with the other purposes under section 105(b). The Trust is expressly authorized to construct and upgrade roads and bridges, and provide other facilities for activities including, but not limited to camping and picnicking, hiking, camping, and snowmobile roads, trails, bridges, and recreational facilities constructed within the Preserve shall meet public safety standards applicable to units of the National Forest System and the State of New Mexico.

(2) Fees.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Trust is authorized to assess recreational admissions to the Preserve, or any part thereof, based on the capability of the land, resources, and facilities. The use of reservation or lottery systems is expressly authorized in other units of the National Forest System.

(3) Public Access.—Upon the acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a), and after an interim planning period of no more than two years, the public shall have reasonable access to the Preserve for recreation purposes. The Secretary, prior to assumption of management of the Preserve by the Trust, and the Trust thereafter, may reasonably limit the number and types of recreational admissions to the Preserve, or any part thereof, based on the capability of the land, resources, and facilities. The use of reservation or lottery systems is expressly authorized in other units of the National Forest System.

(4) Reports on Applicable Rules and Regulations.—The Trust may submit to the Secretary and the Committees of Congress a compilation of applicable rules and regulations which in the view of the Trust are inappropriate, inconsistent with this title, or unduly burdensome.

(5) Consultation with Tribes and Pueblos.—The Trust shall cooperate and consult with Indian tribes and pueblos on management policies and practices for the Preserve which may affect them. The Trust is authorized to make lands available for the Preserve for religious and cultural uses by Native Americans and, in so doing, may set aside parcels and times of exclusive use consistent with the American Indian Religious Freedom Act (42 U.S.C. 1800 et seq.).

(6) No Administrative Appeal.—The administrative appeals regulations of the Secretary shall not apply to activities of the Trust and decisions of the Board.

(7) Law Enforcement and Fire Suppression Services.—The Trust shall provide law enforcement services under a cooperative agreement with the Trust to the extent generally authorized in other units of the National Forest System. At the request of the Trust, the Secretary may provide fire suppression services: Provided, That the Trust shall reimburse the Secretary for salaries and expenses of fire suppression personnel, commensurate with services provided.

SEC. 109. AUTHORITIES OF THE SECRETARY.

(a) In General.—Notwithstanding the assumption by the Trust of management authority, the Secretary is authorized to:

(i) issue any rights-of-way, as defined in the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, of over 5-10 years duration, in cooperation with the Trust, including, but not limited to, road and utility rights-of-way, and communication sites; (ii) issue any rights-of-way pursuant to and enforce prohibitions generally applicable on other units of the National Forest System, in cooperation with the Trust; (iii) exercise the powers of the Secretary under the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (16 U.S.C. 1278, et seq.) and the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 797, et seq.), in cooperation with the Trust; (iv) acquire the mineral rights referred to in section 104(e); (v) provide law enforcement and fire suppression services pursuant to section 108(b); (vi) at the request of the Trust, exchange or otherwise dispose of land or lands in land within the Preserve; (vii) in consultation with the Trust, refer civil and criminal cases pertaining to the Preserve to the Department of Justice for prosecution;

(b) Secretary.—The Secretary shall provide necessary assistance, including detailees as necessary, to the Trust in the formulation and submission of the annual budget request for the administration, operation, and maintenance of the Preserve.

(b) In General.—The Secretary returns the authority to suspend any decision of the Board with respect to the management of the Preserve if he finds that the decision is clearly inconsistent with this title. Such authority may only be exercised personally by the Secretary, and may not be delegated. Any exercise of this authority shall be in writing to the Board, and notification of the decision shall be given to the Committees of Congress. Any suspended decision shall be referred back to the Board for reconsideration.

(c) Annual Budget Request.—The Secretary shall at all times have access to the Preserve for administrative purposes.

SEC. 110. TERMINATION OF THE TRUST.

(a) In General.—The Valles Caldera Trust shall terminate at the end of the twentieth full fiscal year following acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a).

(b) Recommendations:

(1) Board.—

(A) If after the fourteenth full fiscal years from the date of acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a), the Board believes the Trust has met the goals and objectives of the comprehensive management program under section 108(d), but has not achieved financial self-sufficiency, the Board may submit to the Committees of Congress, a recommendation for authorization of appropriations beyond that provided under this title.

(B) During the eighteenth full fiscal year from the date of acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a), the Board shall submit to the Committees of Congress a recommendation for the termination of the Trust. Such recommendation shall be referred to the Committees of Congress. Any suspended decision shall be referred back to the Board for reconsideration.

(c) Effect of Termination.—In the event of termination of the Trust, the Secretary shall assume all management and administrative functions over the Preserve, and it shall thereafter be managed as a part of the Santa Fe National Forest, subject to all laws applicable to the National Forest System.

(d) Assets.—In the event of termination of the Trust, all assets of the Trust shall be used to satisfy any outstanding liabilities, and any funds remaining shall be transferred to the Secretary for use, without further appropriation, for the management of the Preserve.

(e) Valles Caldera Fund.—In the event of termination, the Secretary shall assume the powers of the Trust over funds pursuant to section 104(a), and the Valles Caldera Fund shall not terminate. Any balances remaining in the fund shall be available to the Secretary, without further appropriation, for any purpose consistent with the purposes of this title.

SEC. 111. LIMITATIONS ON FUNDING.

(a) Authorization of Appropriations.—There is hereby authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary and the Trust such funds as are necessary for them to carry out the purposes of this title for each of the fiscal years beginning after the date of acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a).

(b) Schedule of Appropriations.—Within two years after the first meeting of the Board, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a plan which includes a schedule of annual decreasing federally appropriated funds that will achieve, at a minimum, the financially self-sustained operation of the Trust within 15 fiscal years after the date of acquisition of the Baca ranch pursuant to section 104(a).

(c) Annual Budget Request.—The Secretary shall provide necessary assistance, including detailees as necessary, to the Trust in the formulation and submission of the annual budget request for the administration, operation, and maintenance of the Preserve.

SEC. 112. GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE STUDY.

(a) Initial Study.—Three years after the assumption of management by the Trust, the General Accounting Office shall conduct an interim study of the activities of the Trust and shall report the results of the study to the Committees of Congress. The study shall include, but shall not be limited to, details of programs and activities operated by the Trust and whether it met its obligations under this title.

(b) Second Study.—Seven years after the assumption of management by the Trust, the General Accounting Office shall conduct a study of the activities of the Trust and shall report the results of the study to the Committees of Congress. The study shall provide an assessment of any failure to meet obligations that may be identified under subsection (a), and further evaluation on the ability of the Trust to meet its obligations under this title.

TITLE 108—ACQUISITION OF INHOLDINGS AND DISPOSAL OF SURPLUS LAND

SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Acquisition of Inholdings and Disposal of Surplus Lands Act.”

SEC. 202. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) many private individuals own land with boundaries that cross Federal land management units and wish to sell this land to the Federal government;

(2) these lands lie within national parks, national forests, national monuments, Bureau of Land Management special areas, and national wildlife refuges;

(d) Rights or Benefits. Nothing in this title shall be construed as precluding, pre-empting, or limiting the authority to exchange lands under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965 (33 U.S.C. 922).

(e) RIGHT OR BENEFIT. This title is intended as a program regarding Federal land management. Nothing herein is intended to, or shall create a right or benefit, substantive or procedural, enforceable at law or in equity by a party against the United States, its agencies, its officers, or any other person.

STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES

I. BACA RANCH

The Baca ranch in New Mexico is a unique land area, with significant scientific, cultural, historic, recreational, ecological, and production values. Management of this working ranch by the current owners has included limited grazing, hunting, and timber harvesting, and it depicts a model for sustainable development and use. It is our intention to continue to follow this model. The unique nature of the Baca ranch requires a unique program for appropriate present use and future maintenance of the ranch.

Legislation to authorize the Federal acquisition and establish a unique management framework will:

(1) Provide for federal acquisition of the Baca Ranch property by the U.S. Forest Service and management with current owners on a fair price based on an objective appraisal;

(2) Provide for innovative management by a Trust, being a wholly owned government corporation comprised of individuals, (appointed by the President with New Mexican input), with appropriate expertise relevant to the unique management issues. These individuals will administer the operation, maintenance, management, and use of the ranch, based on public input and with governmental oversight;

(3) Provide management principles including protection of the unique values of the property and all of the area following the demonstration of sustainable land use including recreational opportunities, selective timbering, limited grazing and hunting, and the use and protection of agricultural management with significant species diversity. Management shall be in furtherance of these goals and provide for the eventual financial self-sufficiency of the operation without violating other management goals;

(4) Provide an opportunity for the Trust, should it not achieve financial self-sufficiency by its ninth year of operation, to continue operating upon agreement between Congress and the parties following an acceptable and reasonable appraisal and agreement on price between buyer and seller.

II. INHOLDER RELIEF AND SURPLUSES LAND CONSERVATION

Millions of acres of private land lie within the boundaries of Federal land management units. BLM currently has authority to exchange or sell lands identified for disposal in its planning process. Proceeds generated from the disposal of these public lands to purchase inholdings in federally designated areas from willing sellers would supplement funds generated from the disposal of these public lands to purchase inholdings in federal lands designated areas from willing sellers would supplement funds generated from the disposal of these public lands to purchase inholdings in federal lands.

An appropriate amount of the proceeds will be used to address disposal of these lands, available to the Secretary to acquire inholdings without further appropriation, provided—

The acquisition will be from willing sellers, with priority given to lands existing as inholdings for the longest time. Proceeds from the sale of surplus lands must be spent within the state in which they were generated until all available inholdings are purchased.

The proceeds in the special account are to supplement, not supplant, appropriations to the Land and Water Conservation Fund; and

An appropriate amount of the proceeds will be used to conduct appraisal and other administrative steps necessary to complete the sale of surplus land.

(3) Terminates the land disposal program and account after ten years.

S. 2622. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend certain expiring provisions, and for other purposes; to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; and for other purposes. THE TAX RELIEF EXTENSION ACT OF 1998

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the ‘‘Tax Relief Extension Act of 1998.” I am pleased to have as my principal cosponsor my distinguished friend from the State of Arizona, Mr. ARCHer.

The Finance Committee, DANIEL PATRICK MOYNIHAN. Fifteen Finance Committee Members have joined Senator MOYNIHAN and myself on this bill.

Before I discuss the Finance Committee bill, I’d like to comment on the House bill.

Chairman ARCHer and I attempted to negotiate a bill that would address expiring tax and trade provisions.

Chairman ARCHer and I had many discussions and meetings about progress in trying to resolve differences on extenders, but we were unable to reach agreement. Let me say the House bill has many worthwhile proposals that we in the Senate should support.

Mr. President, we find ourselves in a difficult situation. Although the House bill has many good proposals, it is unlikely the House bill will move by unanimous consent in the Senate in its present form. We will not be able to obtain unanimous consent because the House resisted negotiations on expiring provisions important to Members of the Senate.

I remain hopeful that the House and Senate can reach agreement on an extenders bill. I believe the Finance Committee is taking a step today that can lead us to that agreement.

Mr. President, this bill is the product of a Finance Committee meeting yesterday. As I said at that meeting, a bi-partisan majority of the committee agreed on a package to address expiring tax and trade provisions—the so-called extenders. This bill is meant to be offered as a substitute to H.R. 4738, the House extenders bill.

We expect to consider the House bill together with the Finance Committee bill shortly.

This Finance Committee bill follows these principles:

All non-controversial expiring provisions are covered;

No policy changes are made to the extenders; only date changes; and

The package is fully offset.

The purpose of this bill is to leave tax policy on the expiring provisions settled until the next Congress. At that time, hopefully, we will be considering a major tax cut bill. When we are considering that tax cut bill this year, we will be able to address the policy and long-term period of the various provisions.

This bill is necessarily narrow. There are no Member issues in this bill, including some I am interested in. In order to expedite this bill, the Finance Committee Members on this bill agreed to forego Member issues.
This bill extends several important provisions in the tax and trade areas, including:

- The research and development tax credit;
- The work opportunity tax credit;
- The welfare to work tax credit;
- The full deductibility of contributions of appreciated stock to private foundations;
- The active financing exception to Subpart F for financial services operations overseas;
- The tax information reporting access for the Department of Education for the Federal student aid programs;
- The Generalized System of Preferences (‘‘GSP’’); and
- The trade adjustment assistance (‘‘TAA’’) program.

In addition to extenders, the Finance Committee bill speeds up the full deductibility of health insurance deduction for self-employed persons. This bill also addresses time sensitive family-related issues.

The final provision in this bill would correct an upcoming problem for millions of middle income taxpayers. The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 included tax relief for America’s working families in the form of the $500 per child tax credit and the Hope Scholarship tax credit, and other benefits. Taxpayers will expect to see these benefits when they file their returns on April 15th.

What some of these families will find is that the tax relief they expected will not materialize because of the alternative minimum tax (‘‘AMT’’). That is, these families may not count against the alternative minimum tax. The final provision in the Finance Committee bill would provide that benefits such as the $500 per child tax credit would count against the alternative minimum tax.

This point deserves emphasis. We can correct this problem for millions of taxpayers in this bill. As Chairman of the Finance Committee, I consider it my responsibility to simplify the tax code whenever possible. This last provision provides us with that opportunity. I am pleased the Members of the Finance Committee back me in this effort.

Finally, I’d like return to the Senate’s procedures, schedule, and the prospects for extender legislation.

It is important to recognize that the House and Senate are very different bodies governed by starkly different rules and traditions. Unlike the House, the Senate Rules and schedule do not allow us to move this bill at this point in any other way than by unanimous consent. If we are to address these tax and trade provisions, we will need the cooperation of every Senator.

If we can get every Senator’s cooperation and resolve our differences with the House, I believe we can deliver an extenders bill the President will sign.

I urge my colleagues to support this Finance Committee bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill, a section-by-section analysis, and revenue table of the legislation, be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 2622

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

(1) Subparagraph (B) of section 1(h)(13) of the 1998 Code is amended by striking "paragraph (7)(A)'" and inserting "paragraph (7)(A)(i)."

(2) Subparagraphs (A)(ii)(I), (A)(ii)(II), and (B)(ii) of section 1(h)(13) of the 1998 Code shall not apply to any distribution after December 31, 1997, by a regulated investment company or a real estate investment trust with respect to—

(i) gains and losses recognized directly by such company or trust, and

(ii) amounts properly taken into account by such company or trust in holding (directly or indirectly) an interest in another such company or trust to the extent that such subparagraphs did not apply to such other company or trust with respect to such amounts.

(B) Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to any distribution which is treated under section 852(b)(7) or 857(b)(8) of the 1986 Code as received on December 31, 1997.

(C) For purposes of subparagraph (A), any amount which is includible in gross income of shareholders under section 852(b)(3)(D) or 857(b)(3)(D) of the 1986 Code after December 31, 1997, shall be treated as distributed after such date.

(D) For purposes of subparagraph (A), in the case of a qualified partnership with respect to which a regulated investment company meets the holding requirement of clause (i)—

(I) the subparagraphs referred to in subparagraph (A) shall not apply to gains and losses recognized directly by such partner, and

(II) for purposes of determining such company's distributive share of such gains and losses, and

(III) such company's distributive share of such gains and losses (as so determined) shall be treated as recognized directly by such company.
The preceding sentence shall apply only if the qualified partnership provides the company with written documentation of such distributive share as so determined.

(ii) the term "qualified partnership" means, with respect to a regulated investment company, any partnership if—

(I) the partnership is an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

(II) the regulated investment company is permitted to invest in such partnership by reason of section 12(d)(1)(E) of such Act or an exemptive order of the Securities and Exchange Commission under such section, and

(III) the regulated investment company and the partnership have the same taxable year.

(iii) A regulated investment company meets the holding requirement of this clause with respect to a qualified partnership if (as of January 1, 1998)—

(I) the value of the interests of the regulated investment company in such partnership is 35 percent or more of the value of such company's total assets, or

(II) the value of the interests of the regulated investment company and all other qualified partnerships is 90 percent or more of the value of such company's total assets.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (b) shall apply to requests made on or after the first day of the second month beginning after the month in which this Act is enacted.

DESCRIPTION OF PROVISIONS IN S. 2622,
THE TAX RELIEF EXTENSION ACT OF 1998
(Prepared by the Staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation)

INTRODUCTION
S. 2622, the Tax (Relief) Extension Act of 1998 ("the Tax Extension Act," was introduced by Senator William V. Roth, Jr., Senator for Delaware, and introduced by Senator Mark L. Hatfield, and others on October 10, 1998.

This document, prepared by the staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation, describes the proposals in the Tax Extension Act. Part I of this document contains the expired provisions. Part II contains other proposals. Part III contains a revenue offset proposal. Part IV contains tax technical corrections.

TITLE I. EXTENSION OF EXPIRING PROVISIONS
A. EXTENSION OF RESEARCH TAX CREDIT (SEC. 16 Of THE BILL AND SEC. 41 Of THE CODE)

General rule
Section 41 provides for a research tax credit equal to 20 percent of the amount by which a taxpayer's qualified research expenditures for a taxable year exceeded its base amount for that year. The research tax credit expired and generally does not apply to amounts paid or incurred after June 30, 1998.

A 20-percent research tax credit also applies to the excess of corporate cash expenditures (including grants or contributions) paid for basic research conducted by universities (and certain nonprofit scientific research organizations) over the sum of (a) the greater of two minimum basic research floors plus (b) an amount reflecting any decrease in nonresearch giving to universities by the corporate to such giving during a fixed-base period, adjusted for inflation. This separate credit computations is commonly referred to as the "university basic research credit" (see sec. 41(e)).

Computation of allowable credit

Except for certain university basic research payments made by corporations, the research tax credit applies only to the extent that the taxpayer's qualified research expenditures for current taxable year exceed its base amount. The base amount for the current taxable year is computed by multiplying the taxpayer's "fixed-base percentage" by the average amount of the taxpayer's nonresearch cash receipts for the preceding years. If a taxpayer both incurred qualified research expenditures and had gross receipts during each of at least three years from 1984 through 1988, then its "fixed-base percentage" is the ratio that its total qualified research expenditures for the 1984–1988 period bears to its total gross receipts for that period (subject to a maximum ratio of .16). All other taxpayers (so-called "start-up firms") are assigned a fixed-base percentage of 3 percent.

In computing the credit, a taxpayer's base amount may not be less than 50 percent of its current-year qualified research expenditures.

Alternative incremental research credit regime

Taxpayers are allowed to elect an alternative incremental research credit regime. If a taxpayer elects to be subject to this alternative regime, the taxpayer is assigned a three-tiered fixed-base percentage (that is lower than the fixed-base percentage otherwise applicable under present law) and the credit rate is likewise reduced. Under the alternative credit regime, a credit rate of 1.65 percent applies to the extent that a taxpayer's current-year research expenses exceed a base amount, defined as a fixed-base percentage of 1 percent (i.e., the base amount equals 1 percent of the taxpayer's average gross receipts for the four preceding years) but do not exceed a second base amount computed by using a fixed-base percentage of 1.5 percent. A credit rate of 2.2 percent applies to the extent that a taxpayer's current-year research expenses exceed a second base amount computed by using a fixed-base percentage of 1.5 percent but do not exceed a third base amount computed by using a fixed-base percentage of 2 percent. A credit rate of 2.75 percent applies to the extent that a taxpayer's current-year research expenses exceed a third base amount computed by using a fixed-base percentage of 2 percent. A credit rate of 2 percent applies to the extent that a taxpayer's current-year research expenses exceed a fourth base amount computed by using a fixed-base percentage of 2 percent.

E. EXCEPTIONS UNDER SUBPART F FOR CERTAIN ACTIVE FINANCING INCOME (SEC. 166 OF THE BILL AND SECS. 832 AND 954 OF THE CODE)

In general

Under the subpart F rules, certain U.S. shareholders of a controlled foreign corporation ("CFC") are subject to U.S. tax currently on certain income earned by the CFC, whether or not such income is distributed to the shareholders. The income subject to current inclusion under the subpart F rules includes, among other things, "foreign personal holding company income," "personal holding company income," "unrelated business taxable income," and income from certain passive activities.

For purposes of the temporary exception, a corporation is considered to be primarily engaged in the active conduct of an insurance, annuity or any other type of business (e.g., 80 percent) of the business of the ceding company uses such a preliminary term method for determining reserves for the contract, the mid-term AFR is used for determining reserves for the contract.

For this purpose, income derived by a qualified business unit ("QBU") of a corporation from transactions with unrelated persons located in the country in which such person is physically located when such person enters into the transaction.

Income from the active conduct of an insurance business

A temporary exception from foreign personal holding company income applies for certain investment income of a qualifying insurance company with respect to risks located outside the country in which the insurer is created or organized. For this purpose, the mid-term AFR is used for determining reserves for the contract.

In the event of the acquisition of a book of business from another company through an assumption or indemnity reinsurance transaction, the 5-year period commences when the foreign company first is engaged in the active conduct of an insurance business. In the event of the acquisition of a book of business from another company through an assumption or indemnity reinsurance transaction, the 5-year period commences when the foreign company first is engaged in the active conduct of an insurance business. If the foreign company was formed before being acquired by the U.S. shareholder, the 5-year period commences when the foreign company is engaged in the active conduct of an insurance business.

Under rules prescribed by the Secretary, income is allocated to contracts as follows.
In the case of contracts that are separate account-type contracts (including variable contracts not meeting the requirements of sec. 817), only the income specifically allocable to each contract is taken into account. In the case of other contracts, income not specifically allocable is allocated ratably among such contracts.

A qualifying insurance company is defined as any entity which: (1) is regulated as an insurance company under the laws of the country in which it is incorporated; (2) derives in whole or in part income that is derived in the active conduct of a banking, financing, insurance or similar business; (3) is engaged in the active conduct of an insurance business and would be subject to tax under subchapter L if it were a domestic corporation.

The temporary exceptions do not apply to investment income ( includable in the income of a U.S. shareholder of a CFC pursuant to sec. 953) allocable to contracts that insure related party risks or risks located in a country other than the country in which the qualifying insurance company is created or organized.

Anti-abuse rule

An anti-abuse rule applies for purposes of these temporary exceptions. For purposes of applying these exceptions, items with respect to a transaction or series of transactions are disregarded if one of the principal purposes of the transactions is to qualify income or gain for these exceptions, including any change in the method of computing reserves or any other transaction or transactions one of the principal purposes of which is the acceleration or deferral of any item in order to claim the benefits of these exceptions.

Foreign base company services income

A temporary exception from foreign base company services income applies for income derived from services performed in connection with the active conduct of a banking, financing, insurance or similar business by a CFC that is predominantly engaged in the active conduct of such business or is a qualifying insurance company.

Description of Proposal

The proposal extends for one year the present-law temporary exceptions from foreign personal holding company income and foreign base company services income for income derived from services performed in connection with the active conduct of a banking, financing, insurance or similar business.

Effective Date

The proposal applies only to the first full taxable year of a foreign corporation beginning in 1998 and to the taxable year of such corporation immediately following such first full taxable year, and to taxable years of U.S. shareholders with or within which such taxable years of such foreign corporation end. If a foreign corporation does not have such a first full taxable year beginning in 1998, the proposal applies only to the first taxable year of the foreign corporation beginning in 1999, and to taxable years of U.S. shareholders with or within which such taxable years of such foreign corporation end.

Present Law

Under present law, federal fuels produced from "nonconventional sources" and sold to "nonconventional" uses are exempt from income 100 percent of employer-provided health insurance of self-employed individuals that is deductible for income tax purposes. The self-insured plan must in the case of self insurance as well as commercial insurance. The self-insured plan must in fact be insurance (e.g., there must be appropriate risk shifting) and not merely a reimbursement arrangement.

The portion of health insurance expenses of self-employed individuals that is deductible is 45 percent for taxable years beginning in 1998 and 1999, 50 percent for taxable years beginning in 2000 and 2001, 60 percent for taxable years beginning in 2002, 80 percent for taxable years beginning in 2003 through 2005, 90 percent for taxable years beginning in 2006, and 100 percent for taxable years beginning in 2007 and thereafter.

Under present law, employers can exclude from income 50 percent of employer-provided health insurance.

Description of Proposal

The proposal increases the deduction for health insurance of self-employed individuals that is deductible to 70 percent for taxable years beginning in 2002 and thereafter.

Present Law

A taxpayer generally is required to include an item in income no later than the time of its actual or constructive receipt, unless such amount properly is accounted for in a different period under the taxpayer's method of accounting. If a taxpayer has an unrestricted right to demand the payment of an amount, the taxpayer is in constructive receipt of such amount, and the tax law does not so provide, the amount is includible in income when the demand was made and the payment was received.
The Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996 (the “FAIR Act”) provides for production flexibility contracts between certain eligible owners and producers and the federal government. These contracts generally cover crop years from 1996 through 2002. Annual payments are made under such contracts at specific times during the Federal government’s fiscal year. Section 112(d)(2) of the FAIR Act provides that one-half of each annual payment is to be made on either December 15 or January 15 of the fiscal year, at the option of the recipient. This option to receive the payment on December 15 potentially results in the constructive receipt (and thus potential inclusion in income) of one-half of the payment at that time, even if the option to receive the amount on January 15 is elected.

The remaining one-half of the annual payment must be made no later than September 30 of the fiscal year. The Emergency Farm Financial Relief Act of 1998 added section 112(d)(3) to the FAIR Act which provides that all payments for fiscal year 1999 are to be paid at such time or times during fiscal year 1999 as the recipient may specify. Thus, the one-half of the annual amount that would otherwise be required to be paid before September 30, 1999 can be specified for payment in calendar year 1998. This potentially results in the constructive receipt (and thus potential inclusion in taxable income) of such amounts in calendar year 1998, whether or not the amounts actually are received or the right to their receipt is fixed.

The time a production flexibility contract payment under the FAIR Act properly is includable in income is determined without regard to the options granted by section 112(d)(3) (allowing the acceleration of all payments for fiscal year 1999). Present Law

Effective Date

The proposal is effective for production flexibility contract payments made under the FAIR Act in taxable years ending after December 31, 1995.

C. PERMANENT EXTENSION OF INCOME AVERAGING FOR FARMERS (SEC. 201 OF THE BILL AND SEC. 1361 OF THE CODE)

Present Law

An individual engaged in a farming business may elect to compute his or her current taxable income by averaging it over the prior three-year period, all or a portion of which is attributable to the farming business.

In general, an individual who makes the election (1) designates all or a portion of his or her taxable income attributable to any farming business from the current year as “elected farm income;” (2) allocates one-third of the elected farm income to each of the three tax years; and (3) determines the current year section 1 tax liability by combining (a) his or her current year section 1 tax liability excluding the elected farm income allocated to the three prior taxable years, plus (b) the increases in the section 1 tax liability for each of the three prior taxable years caused by including one-third of the elected farm income in each of those years.

Any allocation of elected farm income pursuant to the election applies for purposes of any election in a subsequent taxable year.

The proposal permanently extends the income averaging provision for farmers.

Effective Date

The proposal is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2000.

D. PERSONAL CREDITS FULLY ALLOWED AGAINST REGULAR TAX LIABILITY DURING 1998 (SEC. 284 OF THE BILL AND SEC. 26 OF THE CODE)

Present law provides for certain nonrefundable personal tax credits (i.e., the dependent care credit, the credit for the elderly, the adoption credit, the child tax credit, the credit for interest on certain home mortgages, the HOPE Scholarship and Lifetime Learning credits, etc). However, these credits are allowed only to the extent that the individual’s regular income tax liability exceeds the individual’s tentative minimum tax (determined without regard to the AMT foreign tax credit).

The tentative minimum tax is an amount equal to (1) 26 percent of the first $157,000 ($175,500 in the case of a married individual filing a separate return) of alternative minimum taxable income (AMTI) in excess of a phased-out exemption amount, and (2) 28 percent of the excess of the AMTI over the exemption amount. AMTI is the individual’s taxable income adjusted to take account of specified preferences and adjustments. The exemption amounts are: (1) $45,000 in the case of married individuals filing a joint return and surviving spouses; (2) $33,750 in the case of other unmarried individuals; and (3) $22,500 in the case of married individuals filing a separate return, estates, and trusts.

The proposal permanently extends the income averaging provision for farmers.
The Treasury Secretary has the burden of proof in any case involving a factual issue if the taxpayer introduces credible evidence with respect to any factual issue relevant to ascertaining the taxpayer’s liability. Thus, if the taxpayer specifies items that are attributable to joint Federal income tax return may elect to limit his or her liability for a deficiency, a taxpayer may be liable. Thus, the election cannot be used to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to generate a refund, to direct a refund to one spouse or the other, or to allocate responsibility to. A proposal restores language originally included in the Senate amendment that clarifies that the applicability of the zero net interest rate for periods on or before July 22, 1998, is subject to any applicable statute of limitations not having expired with regard to either a tax underpayment or overpayment. The proposal also corrects a cross reference.
properly taken into account by the trust during 1997, amounts will not be included in the 28-percent rate gain category solely by reason of being properly taken into account by the trust on or before May 7, 1997, on the basis of the period of the property being held not more than 18 months. Thus, for example, gain on the sale of stock by a CRT on February 1, 1997, will not be included in determining the 28-percent rate gain where the gain is distributed after 1997.8

Effective Date

The proposal applies to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1997.

Section 4. Coordinate Vaccine Injury Compensation Trust Fund expenditure purposes with law.

Description of Proposal

The bill specifies the rules relating to revaluations of prior transfers for computation of the estate or gift tax to provide that the value of a prior transfer cannot be revalued if the transfer was disclosed in a statement attached to the gift tax return, as well as on a gift tax return, in a manner to adequately inform the IRS of the transfer, even if there was no gift tax imposed on that transfer.

5. Abatement of interest by reason of Presidential declared disaster (sec. 6223(e) of the bill, sec. 915 of the 1997 Act, and sec. 6840(h) of the Code)

Description of Proposal

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 ("1997 Act") provided that, if the Secretary of the Treasury extends the filing date of an individual tax return for 1997 for individuals living in an area that has been declared a disaster area by the President during 1997, no interest will be charged on such failure of an individual taxpayer to file an individual tax return, or pay the taxes shown on such return, during the extension.
divisive transactions in which a corporation contributes assets to a controlled corporation and then distributes the stock of the controlled corporation in a transaction that meets the criteria of section 355 (or so much of section 356 as related to section 355). In such cases, not only the fact that the shareholders of the distributing corporation disposed of all of the contributed stock, but also the fact that the corporation whose stock was distributed issues additional stock, shall not be taken into account.

7. Treatment of affiliated group including formerly tax-exempt organization (sec. 403(g) of the bill and sec. 1942 of the 1997 Act)

Present Law

Present law provides that an organization described in sections 501(c)(3) or (4) of the Code is exempt from tax only if no substantial part of its activities consists of providing commercial-type insurance. When this rule was enacted in 1986, certain treatment applied to Blue Cross and Blue Shield organizations providing health insurance that were submitted to this rule and that met certain requirements. Treasury regulations were promulgated providing rules for filing consolidated returns for affiliated groups including such organizations.

Proposal

The proposal provides for filing consolidated returns for affiliated groups including such organizations.

8. Treatment of net operating losses arising from certain eligible losses (sec. 403(h) of the bill, sec. 1692 of the 1997 Act, and sec. 170(z)(1)(F) of the Code)

Present Law

The 1997 Act changed the general net operating loss (“NOL”) carryback period of a taxpayer from three years to two years. The three-year carryback period was retained in the case of an NOL attributable to a casualty or theft loss for property connected with a nonbusiness transaction entered into for profit from the list of losses set forth in section 169(c)(3). This amendment was made in order to provide that these losses were deductible in full and not subject to the $100 per casualty limitation of the 10-percent adjusted gross income floor applicable to personal casualty losses. However, the amendment inadvertently eliminated the deduction for these losses from the computation of net operating loss. Also, the Tax Reform Act of 1986 provided that casualty losses described in section 169(c)(3) are not miscellaneous itemized deductions subject to the 2-percent adjusted gross income floor, and the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1990 provided that these losses are not treated as itemized deductions in computing the overall limitation on itemized deductions. The losses of nonresident aliens are limited to deductions described in section 165(h) in the case of other assets the average adjusted bases for all such other assets of the taxpayer. The proposal clarifies the meaning of “unborrowed policy cash value” under section 264A(f)(3), with respect to any life insurance policy or annuity contract. The proposal clarifies the meaning of “unborrowed policy cash value” under section 264A(f)(3), with respect to any life insurance policy or annuity contract. The proposal clarifies the meaning of “unborrowed policy cash value” under section 264A(f)(3), with respect to any life insurance policy or annuity contract. The proposal clarifies the meaning of "unborrowed policy cash value" under section 264A(f)(3), with respect to any life insurance policy or annuity contract.

Effective Dates

The proposal relating to the net operating loss and the deduction for nonresident aliens applies to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1996. The proposal relating to miscellaneous itemized deductions applies taxable years beginning after December 31, 1996. The proposal relating to the overall limitation on itemized deductions applies to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1999.
The proposal clarifies that the Secretary of the Treasury is not required to invest Highway Trust Fund balances in interest-bearing obligations (because any interest paid to the Trust Fund by the General Fund would be immediately returned to the General Fund).

E. REPEAL OF PROVISIONS RELATING TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA JUDICIAL RETIREMENT PROGRAM (SEC. 405C OF THE BILL)

Section 804 of the Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act, 1999, makes certain technical and clarifying amendments to the Judicial Retirement Program of the District of Columbia. Included in these amendments were certain amendments that applied for purposes of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

Spent Funds

Description of Proposal

The proposal clarifies that the Secretary of the Treasury is not required to invest Highway Trust Fund balances in interest-bearing obligations (because any interest paid to the Trust Fund by the General Fund would be immediately returned to the General Fund).

Effective Date

The proposal clarification is effective on the date of enactment of this technical correction.

---

Other Tax Provisions

Description of Proposal

Due to a drafting oversight, the Uruguay Round Agreements Act included only the necessary changes to the Internal Revenue Code ("Code") and failed to make certain other changes to the Social Security Act (specifically a section that prohibits assignments of benefits). The proposal amends the Social Security Act anti-assignment section to allow the Code provisions to be implemented. The proposal also allocates funding for the Social Security Administration to administer the tax-withholding provisions.

Effective Date

The proposal applies to benefits paid on or after the first day of the second month beginning after the month of enactment.

2. A special rule is designed to gradually recompute a start-up firm's fixed-base percentage based on its actual research experience. Under this special rule, each subsequent year would assign the start-up firm a fixed-base percentage of 3% for each of its first five taxable years after 1996, in which it incurred qualified research expenditures. The benefit of a 5% McGinnis credit extension beyond the scheduled expiration date, a start-up firm's base percentage for its sixth year is increased to 6%. Under this special rule, the McGinnis credit will be extended beyond the scheduled expiration date, and the start-up firm's base percentage for its sixth year is increased to 5%.

FOOTNOTES

1. This rule applies to fiscal years after 1996. For fiscal years 1997 and 1998, this payment was to be made not later than 30 days after the production flexibility contract was entered into.

2. The amount of elected farm income of a taxpayer for a taxable year may not exceed the taxable income attributable to any farming business for the year.

3. The bill contains a similar amendment to section 1(b)(23), as amended by section 5001 of the 1998 Act, to provide that, for purposes of taxing the recipient of a distribution made after 1997 by a CBT, amounts will not be taken into account in computing the 26-per-cent rate gain by reason of being properly taken into account before May 7, 1997, or by reason of the property being held for not more than 18 months. Thus, no amount distributed by a CBT after 1997 will be treated as in the 28-per-cent category (other than by reason of the disposition of collectibles or small business stock).

4. This exception (as certain other exceptions) does not apply if the stock held before the acquisition was acquired pursuant to a plan (or series of related transactions) to acquire a 50-per cent or greater interest in the distributing or a controlled corporation.

5. The 1997 Act does not limit the otherwise applicable exclusion for Treasury regularity authority under section 336(e) of the Code. Nor does it limit the otherwise applicable provisions of section 1367 with respect to contributions to a research and experimental consortium (the McGinnis credit) for qualified research expenditures eligible for purposes of the Internal Revenue Code.
Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to cosponsor, along with our esteemed Chairman, Senator ROTTI, a Senate Finance Committee bill to extend a package of expired tax provisions. Unfortunately, dealing with this group of expired tax items has become a routine annual event for the Committee and for the Congress. This bill extends universally popular items such as the credit for increasing research activities, the Work Opportunity Credit, and the deduction for gifts of appreciated stock to private foundations through June of next year. It is my hope the 1998 bill will be the year that the entire group of "extenders" are finally made permanent.

We thank Senator ROTTI for ensuring that the Finance Committee is heard on this matter. Our action is a reminder that the United States Congress does not act, on tax bills or any other measures, as a unicameral legislature. Indeed, this Finance committee measure improves in several ways on the bill passed by the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday:

First, we extend the Trade Assistance Program from October 1, 1998 through June 30, 1999. This is an important program established in the Trade Expansion Act of 1992 that provides training and income support for workers adversely affected by import competition. It is a commitment we have made to workers, and it ought to be kept.

Second, the bill includes a provision that prevents the tax benefit of non-refundable personal credits such as the $500 per child credit and the adoption credit from being eroded by the Alternative Minimum Tax. This was to have been included as part of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997, but was dropped for some unknown reason as part of the final compromise. Without the "fix" included in this bill, we will trap unsuspecting taxpayers who sit down to prepare their 1998 Federal income tax returns next spring.

I applaud the work of the chairman and the committee in moving quickly to agree on this bill and, for the greater good, deferring action on a number of very important narrower items until next year.

By Mr. THOMPSON (for himself, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. ROTH, and Mr. STEVENS). S. 2623, to extend the increase in the efficiency and effectiveness of the Federal Government, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, today I am pleased to introduce the Government for the 21st Century Act of 1998, a bill to establish a commission to bring the structure of our government in line with the needs of our Nation in the next century. This bipartisan legislation is the result of work over several months between myself and Senators GLENN, BROWNBACK, LIEBERMAN, ROTH, and STEVENS. It has been carefully crafted to address not just what our government should look like, but the more fundamental question of what it should do.

We all know the old adage, "form follows function"—but in the case of our government, form too often impedes function. The federal infrastructure should enable it to respond to national needs and the needs of individual citizens quickly, efficiently, and successfully—but years of madcap bureaucracies, procedures and red tape have impeded the kind of responsible service our citizens deserve and expect. The government we have today was designed for a world which has long since passed into history, a world in which personal computers did not exist, two-income families were the exception and no one had ever heard of a "sports utility vehicle". In short, it is time to modernize the federal government, and there is no more appropriate time to do it than on the eve of the next century.

It seems to me that the federal government is doing too many things to do them all well. I believe we must reevaluate the functions of government to improve government service where it is needed, redirect resources where it is necessary, and get the federal government out of activities in which it does not belong. Our Founding Fathers envisioned a government of defined and limited powers. I can imagine their dismay if they knew the size and scope of the federal government today. We need to return to the limited government that the Founders intended, and the Commission established in the legislation we are introducing today is a major step in that direction.

The Government Restructuring and Reform Commission established by this legislation would take a hard look at Federal departments, agencies and programs and ask—

Can and should we consolidate these agencies and programs to improve the implementation of their statutory missions, elimintate unnecessary activities, and reduce duplication of activities while increasing accountability for performance?

How can we improve management to maximize productivity, effectiveness and accountability?

What criteria should we use in determining whether a federal activity should be privatized?

Which departments or agencies should be eliminated because their functions are obsolete, redundant, or better performed by state and local governments or the private sector?

We all want a federal government that is as innovative and responsive as the government we envision. Our challenge is to determine how to get there. We must start by asking ourselves whether a federal government will be in the next century, so we may tailor the scope and structure of the executive branch accordingly. Some activities now performed by the federal government may require more resources; others will surely require less. The Commission on Government Restructuring and Reform will give us a blueprint for designing a federal government to meet our Nation's needs now and in the future.

I am pleased that Senators LIEBERMAN, BROWNBACK, ROTH, and STEVENS are joining me in introducing this bill today, and I thank them for the time and staff they have devoted to the effort. I look forward to working with them on this important legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the Government for the 21st Century Act, along with the brief summary and section-by-section analysis, be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2623

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE AND PURPOSE.

(a) Short Title.—This Act may be cited as the "Government for the 21st Century Act of 1998".

(b) Purpose.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The purpose of this Act is to reduce the cost and increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the Federal Government by reorganizing departments and agencies, consolidating redundant activities, streamlining operations, and decentralizing service delivery in a manner that promotes economy, efficiency, and accountability in Government programs. This Act is intended to result in a Federal Government that—

(A) utilizes a smaller and more effective workforce;

(B) motivates its workforce by providing a better organizational environment; and

(C) increases government efficiency, effectiveness, and accountability to the public in policy formulation and service delivery.
AUTHORITY.—This Act is intended to achieve the following goals for improvements in the performance of the Federal Government by October 1, 2002: (A) an agency of the cabinet and sub-cabinet level agencies.

A substantial reduction in the costs of administering Government programs.

(2) RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Commission shall be responsible for the performance of—

(A) functions that are essential to the effective implementation of statutory missions and increase accountability for performance.

(B) improve and strengthen management capacity within departments and agencies (including central management agencies) to maximize productivity, effectiveness, and accountability in Government programs and services, and shall include and be limited to the following recommendations:

(D) substantially increase the effective implementation of statutory missions and increase accountability for performance.

EFFECTIVE IMPLEMENTATION OF STATUTORY MISSIONS AND INCREASE ACCOUNTABILITY FOR PERFORMANCE.—The Commission's recommendations or proposals under this Act may not provide for or have the effect of—

(1) consolidating organizational hiearchy and personnel where appropriate to improve the effective implementation of statutory missions and increase accountability for performance.

(2) improve and strengthen management capacity within departments and agencies (including central management agencies) to maximize productivity, effectiveness, and accountability; and

(3) reduce the duplication of activities among agencies; or

(4) reduce layers of organizational hierarchy and personnel where appropriate to improve the effective implementation of statutory missions.

ACCOUNTABILITY.—The Commission's recommendations or proposals under this Act may not provide for or have the effect of—

(1) continuing a function beyond the period authorized by law for its existence;

(2) authorizing an agency to exercise a function which is not already being performed by such agency;

(3) eliminate the enforcement functions of an agency, except such functions may be transferred to another executive department or independent establishment; or

(4) adding, deleting, or changing any rule of either House of Congress.

MEMBERS.—The Commissioners shall be appointed for the life of the Commission and shall be comprised of nine members of whom—

(A) three shall be appointed by the President of the United States;

(B) two shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives;

(C) one shall be appointed by the minority Leader of the House of Representatives; and

(D) two shall be appointed by the majority Leader of the Senate; and

(E) one shall be appointed by the minority Leader of the Senate.

CONSULTATION REQUIRED.—The President shall consult with the majority and minority leaders of the House of Representatives, the majority and minority leaders of the Senate, and the Chairmen and Ranking Minority Members of the Appropriations Committees of both Houses with regard to the provisions of title 5, United States Code, for each day (including traveltime) during which the chairman is engaged in the performance of duties vested in the Commission.

PAY AND TRAVEL EXPENSES.—(A) CHAIRMAN.—Except for an individual who is chairman of the Commission and is otherwise a Federal officer or employee, the chairman shall be paid at a rate equal to the daily equivalent of the minimum annual rate of basic pay payable for level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, for each day (including traveltime) during which the chairman is engaged in the performance of duties vested in the Commission.

(B) MEMBERS.—Except for the chairman who shall be paid as provided under subparagraph (A), each member of the Commission who is not otherwise a Federal officer or employee shall be paid at a rate equal to the daily equivalent of the minimum annual rate of basic pay payable for level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, for each day (including traveltime) during which the member is engaged in the performance of duties vested in the Commission.

TRAVEL.—Members of the Commission shall receive travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, in accordance with sections 5702 and 5703 of title 5, United States Code.

AFFIRMATION OF FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE AUTHORITY.—The Commission shall be subject to the provisions of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.).

FUNDING.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Commission $30,000,000 for fiscal year 1999, and $5,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2000 and 2001 to enable the Commission to carry out its duties under this Act.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE October 10, 1998
submit to the Commission a report making recommendations consistent with the criteria under section 3 (b) and (c). Such a report shall contain a single legislative proposal (including legislation proposed to be enacted) to implement those recommendations for which legislation is necessary or appropriate.

(b) In General.—No later than December 1, 2000, the Commission shall prepare and submit a single preliminary report to the President and Congress, which shall include—

(1) a description of the Commission's findings and recommendations, taking into account any legislation submitted to the President by the Commission under subsection (a); and
(2) reasons for such recommendations.

c) Provision Vote.—No legislative proposal or preliminary or final report (including a final report after disapproval) may be submitted by the Commission to the President and Congress without the affirmative vote of at least 6 members.

d) Department and Agency Cooperation.—All Federal departments, agencies, and divisions and employees of all departments, agencies, and divisions shall cooperate for the purpose of providing information to the Commission and shall respond to any such requests for information expeditiously, or no later than 15 calendar days or such other date established by the request- ing and requested parties.

e) SEC. 5. PROCEDURE FOR IMPLEMENTATION OF REPORTS.

(a) Preliminary Report and Review Procedure.—Any preliminary report submitted to the President and Congress under section 4(b) shall be immediately available to the public. During the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the preliminary report is submitted, the Commission shall announce public hearings for the purpose of receiving comments on the report.

(b) Final Report.—No later than 6 months after the conclusion of the period for public hearing under subsection (a), the Commission shall prepare and submit a final report to the President. Such report shall be made available to the public on the date of submission to the President. Such report shall include—

(1) a description of the Commission's findings and recommendations, including a description of changes made to the report as a result of public comment on the preliminary report;
(2) reasons for such recommendations; and
(3) a single legislative proposal (including legislation proposed to be enacted) to implement those recommendations for which legislation is necessary or appropriate.

c) Extension of Final Report.—By affirmative vote of the President, the Commission may extend the deadline under subsection (b) by a period not to exceed 90 days.

d) Review by the President.—

(1) In General.—

(A) Presidential Action.—No later than 30 calendar days after receipt of a final report under subsection (c), the President shall approve or disapprove the report.

(B) Presidential Inaction.—In General.—If the President does not approve the final report within 30 calendar days in accordance with subparagraph (A), Congress shall consider the report in accordance with clause (ii).

(ii) Consideration of the Report.—If the President, or if the President has not taken action with respect to the report under clause (i), the Commission shall submit the final report, without further modification, to Congress on the date occurring 31 calendar days after the date of the submission of the preliminary report to the President under subsection (b),

(2) Approval.—If the report is approved, the President shall submit the report to Congress for legislative action under section 6.

(3) Disapproval.—If the President disapproves the report, the President shall submit to Congress a report specific issues and objections, including the reasons for any changes recommended in the report, to the Commission and Congress.

(f) Final Report After Disapproval.—The Commission shall consider any issues or objections raised by the President and may modify the report to address such issues and objections. No later than 30 calendar days after receipt of the President’s disapproval under paragraph (2), the Commission shall submit the final report (as modified if modified) to the President and to Congress.

SEC. 6. CONGRESSIONAL CONSIDERATION OF REPORT.

(a) Definitions.—For purposes of this section—

(1) the term ‘‘implementation bill’’ means a bill which is introduced as provided under subsection (b), and contains the proposed legislation included in the final report submitted to the Congress under section 5(d) (1)(B), (2), or (4), a single implementation bill shall be introduced (by request) in the Senate by the Majority Leader of the Senate, for himself and the Minority Leader of the Senate, or by Members of the Senate designated by the Majority Leader and Minority Leader of the Senate; and

(B) in the House of Representatives by the Majority Leader of the House of Representatives, for himself and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives, or by Members of the House of Representatives designated by the Majority Leader and Minority Leader of the House of Representatives.

(b) Consideration in the House of Representatives.—

(1) Introduction.—On the first calendar day on which both Houses are in session, on or immediately following the date on which a final report is submitted to the Congress under section 5(d) (1)(B), (2), or (4), a single implementation bill shall be introduced (by request) in the House of Representatives.

(A) in the Senate by the Majority Leader of the Senate, for himself and the Minority Leader of the Senate, or by Members of the Senate designated by the Majority Leader and Minority Leader of the Senate; and

(B) in the House of Representatives by the Majority Leader of the House of Representatives, for himself and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives, or by Members of the House of Representatives designated by the Majority Leader and Minority Leader of the House of Representatives.

(2) Referral.—The implementation bills introduced under paragraph (1) shall be referred to the appropriate committee of jurisdiction in the Senate and the appropriate committee of jurisdiction in the House of Representatives. A committee to which an implementation bill is referred under this paragraph may report such bill to the respective House with amendments proposed to be adopted. No such amendment may be proposed unless such proposed amendment is relevant to the bill.

(c) Report or Discharge.—If a committee to which an implementation bill is referred has not reported such bill by the end of the 30th calendar day after the introduction of such bill, such committee shall be immediately discharged from further consideration of such bill, and upon being reported or discharged from the committee, such bill shall be placed on the appropriate calendar.

(d) Consideration in the Senate.—

(1) In General.—On or after the fifth calendar day after the date on which an implementation bill is placed on the Senate calendar under subsection (b)(3), it is in order (even if a previous motion to the same effect has been made) for any Senator to make a motion to proceed to the consideration of the implementation bill. The motion is not debatable. All points of order against the motion are disposed of at the discretion of the Senate. After the Senate has agreed to the motion, the Senate shall proceed to consider the implementation bill described in subsection (b), other than points of order under Senate Rule 15, 16, or for failure to comply with requirements of this section are waived. The motion is not subject to a motion to postpone. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the motion to proceed is agreed to or disagreed to shall not be in order. If a motion to proceed to the consideration of the implementation bill is agreed to, the Senate shall immediately proceed to consideration of the implementation bill.

(2) Debate.—In the Senate, no amendment which is not relevant to the bill shall be in order. A motion to postpone is not in order. A motion to recommence the implementation bill is not in order. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the implementation bill is agreed to or disagreed to shall not be in order.

(f) Appeals from Chair.—Appeals from the decisions of the Chair relating to the application of the rules of the Senate to the procedure relating to an implementation bill shall be decided without debate.

(g) Consideration in the House of Representatives.—

(1) In General.—At any time on or after the fifth calendar day after the date on which each committee of the House of Representatives to which an implementation bill is referred has reported such bill, or has been discharged under subsection (b)(3) from further consideration of that bill, the Speaker may, pursuant to clause 1(b) of rule XXIII, resolve the House into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of that bill. All points of order against the bill, the consideration of the bill, and provisions of the bill shall be waived, and the first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. After general debate, which shall be confined to the bill, the Speaker shall be equally divided and controlled by the Majority Leader and the Minority Leader, the bill shall be considered for amendment by the House after the five-minute rule and each title shall be considered as having been read.

(2) Amendments.—Each amendment shall be considered as having been read, shall not be subject to a demand for a division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole, and shall be debatable for not exceeding 30 minutes, equally divided and controlled by the Majority Leader and the Minority Leader, the Speaker may, pursuant to clause 1(b) of rule XXIII, resolve the House into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of that bill. All points of order against the bill, the consideration of the bill, and provisions of the bill shall be waived, and the first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. After general debate, which shall be confined to the bill, the Speaker shall be equally divided and controlled by the Majority Leader and the Minority Leader, the bill shall be considered for amendment by the House after the five-minute rule and each title shall be considered as having been read.

(h) Final Passage.—At the conclusion of the consideration of the bill, the Committee of the Whole shall proceed to report the bill to the House without amendment, if such amendment has been agreed to, and the previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit.

(i) Conference.—

(1) Appointment of Conference.—In the Senate, a motion to elect or authorize the appointment of conference committee shall be in order. A motion to postpone is not in order.

(2) Conference Report.—No later than 20 calendar days after the appointment of conference committee, the conference committee shall report to their respective Houses.

(j) Rules of the Senate and House.—This section is enacted by Congress—

(1) as an exercise of the rulemaking power of the Senate and House of Representatives, respectively, and as such it is deemed a part of Senate or House rules; and

(2) applicable only with respect to the procedure to be followed in that House in the case of an implementation bill described in subsection (b), other than to the extent that it is inconsistent with such rules; and
(2) with full recognition of the constitutional right of either House to change the rules (so far as relating to the procedure of that House) at any time, in the same manner, and to the same extent as in the case of any other rule of that House.

SEC. 7. IMPLEMENTATION.

(a) Responsibility for Implementation.—The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall have primary responsibility for implementation of the Commission's report and shall provide direction to heads of affected departments or agencies. The Director must consult with other departments or agencies resulting from the implementation of the Commission's report. The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall notify and provide direction to heads of affected departments or agencies, or program. After 30 days, the bills may be considered by the Senate and, and are subject to amendment. Implementation: Once legislation effecting the Commission's recommendations is enacted, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall be responsible for implementing it, and the General Accounting Office shall report to Congress on the progress of implementation.

b) Department and Agencies.—After the enactment of an Act under section 6, each affected Federal department and agency as a part of its annual budget request shall transmit to the appropriate committees of Congress its schedule for implementation of the provisions of the Act for each fiscal year. In addition, the report shall contain an estimate of the total expenditures required and the costs, the time table, and the effectiveness of the implementation of any Act enacted under section 6.

SEC. 8. DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS.

Any proceeds from the sale of assets of any department, agency, or program shall be deposited as provided under section 5 (unless such Act provides otherwise). The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall notify and provide direction to heads of affected departments or agencies, or program. The head of an affected department, agency, or program shall be responsible for implementation and shall proceed with the recommendation contained in the report as provided under subsection (b).

(b) DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES.—After the enactment of an Act under section 6, each affected Federal department and agency as a part of its annual budget request shall transmit to the appropriate committees of Congress its schedule for implementation of the provisions of the Act for each fiscal year. In addition, the report shall contain an estimate of the total expenditures required and the costs, the time table, and the effectiveness of the implementation of any Act enacted under section 6.

SEC. 9. REPORT TO CONGRESS.

(a) Responsibility for Implementation.—The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall have primary responsibility for implementation of the Commission's report and shall provide direction to heads of affected departments or agencies, or program. The Director must consult with other departments or agencies resulting from the implementation of the Commission's report. The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall notify and provide direction to heads of affected departments or agencies, or program. After 30 days, the bills may be considered by the Senate and, and are subject to amendment. Implementation: Once legislation effecting the Commission's recommendations is enacted, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall be responsible for implementing it, and the General Accounting Office shall report to Congress on the progress of implementation.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE AND PURPOSE

This act may be known as the "Government of the 21st Century Act of 1998." Its purpose is to reduce the cost and increase the effectiveness of the Federal government by establishing a commission to propose to Congress and the President a plan to bring the structure and operations of the Federal government in line with the needs of Americans in the next century.

Duties of the Commission: The Commission is authorized under this legislation to: Reorganize Federal departments and agencies, eliminate activities not essential to fulfilling agency missions, streamline government operations, and consolidate redundant activities. The Commission would be authorized to: Continue any agency or function beyond its current authorization, authorize functions not performed already by the Federal government, eliminate enforcement functions of any agencies or change the rules of either House of Congress. The Commission shall be composed of 9 members appointed by the President, the Majority and Minority Leaders of the Senate, and the Speaker and Minority Leader of the House of Representatives.

The Commission shall be managed by a Director and shall have a staff, which may include dependent government agencies. The Commission and Budget shall provide support services and the Comptroller General may provide assistance to the Commission.

This section establishes a commission, known as the Commission on Government Restructuring and Reform, to make recommendations to reform and restructure the executive branch. The Commission shall make proposals to consolidate, reorganize or eliminate executive branch agencies and programs in order to improve efficiency, consistency and accountability in government. The Commission shall also recommend criteria by which to determine which functions should be privatized. The Commission may not continue agencies or functions beyond their current legal authorization, nor may the Commission recommend to terminate enforcement functions of any agencies or change the rules of either House of Congress. The Commission shall be composed of 9 members appointed by the President, the Majority and Minority Leaders of the Senate, and the Speaker and Minority Leader of the House of Representatives.

The Commission shall be managed by a Director and shall have a staff, which may include dependent government agencies. The Commission and Budget shall provide support services and the Comptroller General may provide assistance to the Commission.

This section authorizes $2.5 million to be appropriated in fiscal years 1999 and $5 million to be appropriated in fiscal years 2000 and 2001 for the Commission to carry out its duties.

SECTION 2. DEFINITIONS

This section defines "agency" as all Federal departments, independent agencies, government-sponsored enterprises and government-financed "private sector" as any business, partnership, association, corporation, educational institution, nonprofit or individual.

b) Commission.

This section establishes a commission, known as the Commission on Government Restructuring and Reform, to make recommendations to reform and restructure the executive branch. The Commission shall make proposals to consolidate, reorganize or eliminate executive branch agencies and programs in order to improve efficiency, consistency and accountability in government. The Commission shall also recommend criteria by which to determine which functions should be privatized. The Commission may not continue agencies or functions beyond their current legal authorization, nor may the Commission recommend to terminate enforcement functions of any agencies or change the rules of either House of Congress. The Commission shall be composed of 9 members appointed by the President, the Majority and Minority Leaders of the Senate, and the Speaker and Minority Leader of the House of Representatives.

The Commission shall be managed by a Director and shall have a staff, which may include dependent government agencies. The Commission and Budget shall provide support services and the Comptroller General may provide assistance to the Commission.

This section authorizes $2.5 million to be appropriated in fiscal years 1999 and $5 million to be appropriated in fiscal years 2000 and 2001 for the Commission to carry out its duties.

By July 1, 1999, the President may submit his recommendations to Congress. By December 1, 1999, the Commission shall submit to the President a preliminary report with the duties and limitations given to the Commission in formulating its recommendations by this act and must be transmitted to the Commission as a single legislative proposal. By December 1, 1999, the Commission shall prepare and submit a single preliminary report to the President. The report must include a description of the Commission's findings and recommendations and the reasons for such recommendations. This section also provides that all Federal departments and agencies must cooperate fully with all requests for information from the Commission.

b) Procedures for Implementation of Reports

This section provides that any preliminary report submitted to the President and the Congress under Section 4 be made available immediately to the public. During the 60-day period after the submission of the preliminary report, the Commission shall hold public hearings to receive comments on the report.

Six months after the conclusion of the period for public comments, the Commission shall submit a final report to the President. This report shall be made available to the public, and shall include a description of the Commission's findings and recommendations, the reasons for such recommendations, and a single legislative proposal to implement the recommendations.

The President shall then approve or disapprove the report within 30 days. If he fails to act, after 30 days the report is immediately submitted to Congress. If the President approves the report, he shall submit the report to Congress for legislative action under Section 6.

If he disapproves the final report, the President shall report specific issues and objections, including the reasons for any changes recommended in the report, to the President and Secretary of the Treasury. If the President disapproves a report, the Commission may consider any issues and objections raised by the President and may modify the report on these issues and objections. After 30 days, the Commission must submit its final report (as modified if modified) to the President and Congress.

b) Congressional Consideration of Legislative Bills

After a final report is submitted to the Congress, the single implementation bill shall be introduced by request in the House and Senate by the Majority and Minority Leaders of each chamber.

This section stipulates that the implementation bill be referred to the appropriate committees of jurisdiction in the Senate and the appropriate committee of jurisdiction in the House of Representatives. Each committee must report the bill to its respective House chamber within 30 days with relevant amendments proposed to be adopted. If a committee fails to report such bill within 30 days, that committee is immediately discharged and the bill is placed on the appropriate calendar.

Section 6(c) outlines procedures for Senate floor consideration of legislation implementing the Commission's recommendations. On or after the fifth calendar day after the date on which the implementation bill is placed on the Senate calendar, any Senator may introduce a privileged motion to reconsider the implementation bill. Only relevant amendments shall be in order, and motions to postpone, recommit, or reconsider the vote by which the bill is agreed to are not in order.

Section 6(d) outlines procedures for House floor consideration of legislation implementing the Commission's recommendations.
October 10, 1998

Congressional Record — Senate

S12341

General debate on the implementation bill is limited to 10 hours equally divided in the House, and controlled by the Majority and Minority Leaders. Amendments shall be considered by the five minute rule, and shall be debatable for 30 minutes equally divided. Debate on all amendments shall not exceed 20 hours.

This section further states that within 20 calendar days, conferees shall report to their respective House.

Section 7. Implementation

The Office of Management and Budget shall have primary responsibility for implementing the Commission’s report and any implementation legislation that is enacted, unless otherwise specified in the implementation bill.

Federal departments and agencies are required to include a schedule for implementation of the provisions of the implementation bill as a part of their annual budget request.

GAO is given oversight responsibility and is required to report to the Congress and the President regarding the accomplishment, the costs, the timetable, and the effectiveness of the implementation process.

Section 8. Distribution of Assets

Any proceeds from the sale of assets of any department or agency resulting from the implementation legislation shall be applied to the Federal deficit and deposited in the Treasury and treated as general receipts.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I am pleased to join Senator THOMPSON in introducing the Government for the 21st Century Act of 1998. Both majority and minority members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee have been working on this legislation through the Congress and have come to agreement to introduce this important bill.

The Government for the 21st Century Act would establish a commission to propose to Congress and the President a plan to reduce the cost and increase the effectiveness of the Federal government by bringing its structure and operations in line with the needs of America in the next century. The commission would consist of nine members appointed by the President and the congressional leadership of both parties.

The President may submit his recommendations to the Commission by July 1, 1999. By December 1, 1999, the Commission shall submit to the President and Congress preliminary recommendations on restructuring the Federal government. After a public comment period, the Commission will prepare a final report to the President. Legislation based on the final report would be introduced in both Houses and referred to the appropriate committee of jurisdiction. The bill would be considered by both Houses after 20 days. Once the legislation is signed into law, the Office of Management and Budget would be responsible for implementation.

The Commission would reinforce our work to maintain a balanced budget. Good government must have agencies that operate efficiently and effectively within the constraints and within their budget. We have achieved one goal of operating within a balanced budget but we must continue to work towards the other. Even under a balanced budget and a budget surplus, inefficiencies and rising costs remain in the Federal government. A balanced budget and a budget surplus does not preclude the Federal government from being devasted by one American. The Government for the 21st Century Act would see to it that the Federal government will continue to be accountable.

By Mr. DOMENICI:

S. 2624. A bill to establish a program for training residents of low-income rural areas for, and employing the residents in, new telecommunications industry jobs located in the rural areas, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, today, with great pleasure, I introduce "The Rural Employment in Telecommunications Industry Act of 1998."

The introduction of this Bill marks a historic opportunity for rural communities to create jobs within the telecommunications industry. The Bill establishes a program to train residents of low income rural areas for employment in telecommunications industry jobs located in those rural areas.

As many of my colleagues know, I have an initiative called "rural payday" and I believe this Bill is yet another step in creating jobs in our rural areas. All too often a rural area is characterized by a high number of low income residents and a high unemployment rate.

Moreover, our rural areas are often dependent upon a small number of employers or a single industry for employment opportunities. Consequently, when there is a plant closing or a downturn in the economy or a slowdown in the area’s industry the already precarious situation is compounded.

Mr. President, I would like to take a moment and talk about New Mexico.

While New Mexico may be the 5th largest state by size with its beautiful mountains, desert, and Great Plains and vibrant cities such as Albuquerque, Santa Fe, and Las Cruces it is also a very rural state. The Northwest and Southeast portions of the state are currently experiencing difficulties as a result of the downturn in the oil and gas industry. In a community such as Roswell has been dealt a blow with the closing of the Levi Strauss manufacturing plant.

As I stated before, rural areas that simply do not have the resources of more metropolitan areas can be simply devastated by a single event or downturn in the economy. And that Mr. President is why I am introducing "The Rural Employment in Telecommunications Industry Act of 1998."

The Bill will allow the Secretary of Labor to establish a program to promote rural employment in the telecommunications industry by providing grants to states with low income rural areas. The program will be a win win proposition for all involved because employers choosing to participate in the project by bringing jobs to the rural area will be assured of a highly skilled workforce.

This program will provide residents with intensive services to train them for the new jobs in the telecommunications industry. The intensive services will include customized training and appropriate remedial training, support services and placement of the individual in one of the new jobs created by the program.

And that is what this bill is about, providing people with the tools needed to succeed. With these steps we are embarking on the road of providing our rural areas throughout our nation with a vehicle to create jobs. We are creating opportunities and an environment where our citizens can succeed and our communities can be vibrant.

I ask unanimous consent that the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 2684

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, Title 1. Short Title.

This Act may be cited as the "Rural Employment in Telecommunications Industry Act of 1998."

Definitions

In this Act:

(A) a 1996 population of not less than 60,000 and not more than 105,000 persons;

(B) contains a municipality with a 1996 population of not less than 35,000 and not more than 50,000 persons;

(C) has a land area of not less than 20 and not more than 50 square miles;

(D) has a 1996 per capita income that is—

(i) not less than $16,500 and not more than $16,500; and

(ii) not less than 86 and not more than 86 percent of the statewide per capita income for the State in which the county is located;

(E) has a 1996 population density of not less than 10 and not more than 10 persons per square mile;

(F) is a county no part of which is—

(i) within a standard metropolitan statistical area by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget;

(ii) not in close proximity to an Indian reservation, as determined by the Bureau of Indian Affairs;

(G) has experienced a significant contraction in the oil and natural gas exploration and development industry; or

(H) is in close proximity to a nonproducing oil and natural gas field; or

(I) contains a community designated as a part of the Rural Employment in Telecommunications Industry Act of 1998.
(4) Secretary. — The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Labor.

(5) State. — The term “State” means 1 of the several States.

SEC. 3. REAUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) In General. — The Secretary shall establish a program to promote rural employment in the telecommunications industry. In carrying out the program, the Secretary shall make grants to States for projects described in subsection (b).

(b) Use of Funds. — A State that receives a grant under subsection (a) shall use the funds made available through the grant to carry out a State telecommunications employment and training project. In carrying out such a project (1) a State shall make available to the entity carrying out the project the funds made available through the grant to such State; (2) an individual eligible to receive a grant under this Act, a State shall submit an application to the Secretary; and (3) such an application must include a State plan for the project described in paragraph (2).

(c) Eligible Entities. — To be eligible to receive a grant under this Act, a State shall submit an application to the Secretary that includes (1) a description of how the State will use the funds made available through the grant to carry out a State telecommunications employment and training project in the telecommunications industry; (2) the wages of the participants at places of employment; (3) the percentage of the participants who obtain unsubsidized employment; (4) the percentage of the participants who successfully complete the training; (5) the percentage of the participants who obtain unsubsidized employment; and (6) the percentage of the participants who successfully complete the training.

(d) Limitation. — The Secretary shall make the grants to not more than 3 States.

SEC. 4. APPLICATION AND STATE PLAN.

(a) Application. — A State that is eligible to receive a grant under this Act, a State shall submit an application to the Secretary that includes (1) a description of how the State will use the funds made available through the grant to carry out a State telecommunications employment and training project in the telecommunications industry; (2) the wages of the participants at places of employment; (3) the percentage of the participants who obtain unsubsidized employment; and (4) the percentage of the participants who successfully complete the training.

(b) Acceptance of Applications. — The Secretary shall accept applications submitted by a State that includes (1) a description of how the State will use the funds made available through the grant to carry out a State telecommunications employment and training project in the telecommunications industry; (2) the wages of the participants at places of employment; (3) the percentage of the participants who obtain unsubsidized employment; and (4) the percentage of the participants who successfully complete the training.

(c) Limitation. — The Secretary shall make the grants to not more than 3 States.

SEC. 5. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

The Secretary shall make the grants to not more than 3 States. There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years 1999 through 2003 $600,000,000 for each of such fiscal years. There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years 1999 through 2003 $600,000,000 for each of such fiscal years.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I have a very simple piece of legislation to accomplish that purpose.

SEC. 6. REPORT.

The Secretary shall make a report to the President and to the Congress not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act.
health insurance. Today they can deduct 40 percent of the cost of their insurance. Under current law, they cannot fully deduct that cost until 2007.

So, my proposal is simple. Let’s close the loophole that everyone admits was an accident, and use that money to accelerate the full deductibility of health insurance for the self-employed. It’s a clear choice between a loophole that nobody wanted to exist and entrepreneurs who—especially those on our farms and ranches—may not exist much longer if we don’t get them some help.

While I recognize time is short for passing this bill this year, I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this legislation and in pursuing this goal next year.

MEDICARE HOME HEALTH FAIR PAYMENT ACT OF 1998—S. 2616

Statements on the bill, S. 2616, introduced on October 9, 1998, did not appear in the RECORD. The material follows:

By Mr. ROTH (for himself, Mr. MOYNIHAN, Mr. CHAFEE, Mr. BREAUX, Mr. JEFFORDS, Mr. DODENICHI, Ms. ISELINNIS, Mr. BAXTER, Mr. D’AMICO, Mr. BYRAN, Mr. HATCH, Mr. KERREY, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Mr. NICKLES, Mr. GRASSLEY, Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN, and Mr. MURkowski):

S. 2616. A bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to make revisions in the per beneficiary and per visit payment limits on payment for health services under the medicare program; to the Committee on Finance.

MEDICARE HOME HEALTH FAIR PAYMENT ACT OF 1998

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act of 1998.

This legislation is the product of a great deal of hard work and analysis. It has bipartisan, bicameral, support. Currently, the bill has 15 cosponsors, and similar legislation was introduced in the House of Representatives.

Staff worked to make sure that the technical aspects of this bill could be implemented. After technical review from the Health Care Financing Administration, it is our understanding that the changes in home health payments could be implemented as intended.

I would like to thank the many Senators who were very helpful and contributed to the debate of addressing the home health payment system. In particular, I commend Senator COLLINS, Senator GRASSLEY, Senator BREAUX, Senator COCHRAN, and Senator BOND. All put forward legislative proposals which we examined closely, and which helped us in our development of the legislation now before us.

With this budget neutral proposal, about 82 percent of all home health agencies in the benefit from improved Medicare payments. Although I have heard concerns that we do not go far enough to help some of the lowest cost agencies, it is an important step in the right direction. In fact, we have received letters of support from the Visiting Nurse Associations of America and the National Association for Homecare.

Let’s remember where we were before the Balanced Budget Act of 1997. Home health spending was growing by leaps and bounds, cases of fraud and abuse were common, and the Medicare program was headed towards bankruptcy in 2003.

Last year, Medicare spent $17 billion for 270 million home health care visits so that one out of every ten beneficiaries received care at home from a nurse, a physical or occupational therapist, and/or a nurse aide.

Unlike any other Medicare benefit, the home health benefit has no limits on the number of visits or days of care a beneficiary can receive, beneficiaries pay no deductible, nor do they pay any co-payments.

Prior to BBA, home health agencies were reimbursed on a cost basis for all their costs, as long as they maintained average costs below certain limits. This payment system gave immense incentives for home health agencies to increase the volume of services delivered to patients, and it attracted many new agencies to the program.

From 1989 to 1996, Medicare home health payments grew with an average annual increase of 33 percent, while the number of home health agencies swelled from about 5,700 in 1989 to more than 10,000 in 1997.

In response to this rapid cost growth and concerns about program abuses, the BBA included a number of changes to the home health payment system to improve the Medicare home health payment system. The following is a summary of the Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act of 1998:

PER BENEFICIARY LIMITS

1. “Old” agency: payment is a blended formula equal to 50 percent BBA policy plus 50 percent (national median minus 50 percent national mean); and
2. “New” agency: payment is increased by 1.2 percent to equal 100 percent of the national median, (which continues to be regionally adjusted for wages).

PER VISIT LIMITS

3. Increase the per visit limits from 105 percent to 110 percent of the median.

DECREASE IN THE PPS CUTOFF VALUE

4. Delay of the 15 percent across-the-board cuts and the implementation of the prospective payment system (PPS) by delaying the scheduled 15 percent cut and the PPS for one year.

The following is a summary of the Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act of 1998:

DESCRIPTION OF OFFSET POLICIES

1. Reduce the home health care annual market basket (MB) in the following manner for fiscal years 2000 and 2001:
   a. Reduce the MB by 0.5 percentage point; for FY 2000 it is MB minus 0.5 percentage point; for FY 2001 it is MB minus 0.5 percentage point; for FY 2002 and FY 2003 it is full MB; and in FY 2004 it is MB plus 1.0 percentage point.
   b. Savings of $300 million over 5 years.

The provision would clarify the math error procedures that the IRS uses.
b. Rotavirus Vaccine—This provision will add an excise tax of 75 cents on a vaccine against rotavirus gastroenteritis, a highly contagious disease among young children.

c. Statutory Limits—Cost Regress—Certain liability losses can be carried back over ten years. This provision would clarify the dates that qualify for the 10-year carryback.

d. Non-Accrual Based Method—This provision would limit the use of the non-accrual method of accounting to amounts received for the performance of certain professional services.

e. Information Reporting—This provision requires reporting on the cancellation of indebtedness by non-bank institutions.

3. Budget Pay-Go surplus for remaining offsets.

At the beginning of my statement, I recognized my colleagues for their leadership on this issue. Now, I would like to especially thank the staff involved for their hard work and dedication to the completion of this bill. This represented a Herculean task on their behalf. In particular, I would like to recognize the principal staff involved who spent many long hours putting the details of this package together, they are Gloia Brophy and Kathy Means of my staff and David Podoff from Finance Minority staff; Louisa Buatti and Scott Harrison of the Medicare Payment Advisory Commission; Tom Bradley and Cyndi Dudzinski of the Congressional Budget Office; Jennifer Moulting and Ira Benne of the Health Care Financing Administration; John Goetchus of Senate Legislative Counsel; and Richard Price of the Congressional Research Service.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that letters of support from the following Members of the Senate Finance Committee have been received on our behalf. In particular, I would like to recognize the efforts to craft a solution to the problems caused by the Medicare home health interim payment system for our members and other cost effective home health agencies. Urgent action is needed before Congress adjourns to provide relief to these agencies to assure that they can continue to provide Medicare patients with quality health care.

We understand that one barrier to action has been the difficulty in finding acceptable funding offsets to the modest Medicare spending required to achieve a workable package. We have been advised that the Finance Committee is currently considering an adjustment to future home health market baskets. Home health agencies anticipate to receive about $300 million in new Medicare savings to offset in part the cost of the one year delay in the automatic 15% reduction in home health payments. For the most pressing problems of the new payment system. We are particularly grateful for your inclusion of a one-year delay of the 15 percent reduction that is currently scheduled to take effect next year. We are pleased that you and other members of the Finance Committee have shown the leadership to develop a package of IPS refinements that will help to ease some of the most pressing problems of the new payment system. We are also grateful for your effort to ensure that the IPS that we believe must be addressed in the 106th Congress, your proposal will make a meaningful difference in helping agencies to remain open and to serve Medicare beneficiaries throughout the nation.

Many thanks for all of your efforts. We look forward to working with you, members of the House of Representatives, and others in developing additional relief legislation early next year.

Sincerely,

CAROLYN MARKY, President and CEO,
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATIONS, OF AMERICA,

Hon. William V. Roth, Jr., Chair, Committee on Finance,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to join my distinguished Chairman, Senator Roth, and other colleagues in introducing a bill to improve the home health interim payment system.

Prior to the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 (BBA), home health agencies were reimbursed on a cost basis for all their costs, as long as they maintained average cost limits. That payment system provided incentives for home health agencies to increase the volume of services delivered to patients, and it attracted many new Medicare beneficiaries. The IPS mechanism for home health care is sufficiently established while the Health Care Financing Administration works to develop the PPS for home health care agencies.

The home health care industry is dissatisfied with the IPS. The resulting concern expressed by many Members of Congress prompted us to ask the General Accounting Office (GAO) to examine the question of access to home care. While the GAO found that neither agency closures nor the interim payment system significantly affected beneficiary access to care, I remain concerned that the potential closure of many more home health agencies might ultimately affect the care that beneficiaries receive, particularly beneficiaries with chronic illness.

The bill we are introducing today adjusts the interim payment system to give many Medicare beneficiaries the ability to stay home while receiving medical care. An adjustment to the interim payment system and delay in further payment reductions will enable home health agencies to survive the transition into the prospective payment system while continuing to provide essential care for beneficiaries.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I am pleased to cosponsor the Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act of 1998, which is a first step toward addressing the crisis in Medicare home health care. This is not a perfect bill, but it’s a good bill, and it is the best we can do at this moment in time. And it’s a good example of the Senate listening to the American people. Let’s pass it right now.

The Senate Special Committee on Aging, which I chair, highlighted the problems with the home health interim payment system in August, noting that Medicare home health agencies were reimbursed on average at 33 percent of average costs in 1998, while the number of home health agencies increased from about 5,700 in 1989 to more than 10,000 in 1997.

In order to constrain the growth in costs and usage of home care, the broad policy goals of the bill included a Prospective Payment System (PPS) for home health care, a method of paying health care providers where-by rates are established in advance. An interim payment system (IPS) was also established while the Health Care Financing Administration works to develop the PPS for home health care agencies.

The home health care industry is dissatisfied with the IPS. The resulting concern expressed by many Members of Congress prompted us to ask the General Accounting Office (GAO) to examine the question of access to home care. While the GAO found that neither agency closures nor the interim payment system significantly affected beneficiary access to care, I remain concerned that the potential closure of many more home health agencies might ultimately affect the care that beneficiaries receive, particularly beneficiaries with chronic illness.
HCFA proposed it, there’s no denying that Congress passed the IPS. So I have argued all year that it is incumbent on Congress to fix what’s wrong with it, this year.

What’s wrong with the IPS? In short, it has been an disaster for the Medicare home health agency’s historical costs from Fiscal Year 1994. That means that if the agency had high costs per patient in that year, it can receive relatively high payment this year. That would be fine if HCFA knew that the agency had sicked patients, but the truth is that HCFA has no idea. So IPS has been a windfall for some agencies, but crushing for agencies with low historical costs. We have a lot of those in Iowa, where we still know the value of a dollar. Many of those hit hardest are the “little guys,” the small businesses that are the lifeblood of the program in rural areas.

For months, I have worked with a bipartisan group of Finance committee members, especially Senators ROTH and MOYNIHAN, on fixing IPS. In July we introduced the product of those efforts, the Home Health Access Preservation Act, and that bill clearly influenced the new Finance bill. I introduced the product of those efforts, the Home Health Access Preservation Act, and that bill clearly influenced the new Finance bill. I thank Chairman Grassley and his fine staff for their willingness to work with us to find a viable approach. In the final months of this session, they have really gone the extra mile.

Now this bill doesn’t give anyone everything that they want. Senators ROTH and MOYNIHAN rightly focused on creating something that could actually pass this year, and so the bill is a product of compromise. One of the key features is that the bill is paid for, so that it will not add another burden onto the already-burdened Medicare Part A trust fund. The offsets used are fair ones, and should not be controversial.

I am familiar with the bill the House is voting on today. Should both bills be passed, with all due respect to my House colleagues, I urge them to recede to the Senate bill in conference. I have worked on this issue a long time, and I don’t believe this bill can be improved upon.

Mr. President, this bill will not satisfy everyone. It’s a compromise, and in fact, it likely will not fully satisfy anyone. But it’s the right thing to do, because it will help to keep some of our good home health providers around for another year, so they can take care of our seniors who need home health.

Mr. BREAUX. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act of 1998. This is an issue that I have worked on for several months with Senator GRASSLEY and other Members of the Senate and I am pleased that the Senate has addressed this issue before adjourning.

I am the first to admit that there is too much fraud, waste, and abuse in Medicare’s home health benefit and there is probably no other state where the problem is more pronounced than Louisiana. Every graph I see on home health shows Louisiana off the charts—Louisiana has the highest per beneficiary spending in the country; we have more visits per patient than any other state in the country; Louisiana represents one-third of all Medicare home health visits even though only 2.3% of Medicare beneficiaries live in the state. There are 466 home health agencies in Louisiana—we have more home health agencies than McDonalds in the state.

So I know firsthand that there are problems with home health and that states like Louisiana could afford a reduction in the number of agencies. The problem is that the interim payment system crafted by Congress and the Administration last year is causing the wrong agencies to go out of business.

It is clear that the IPS has had serious unintended consequences. In Louisiana and other states, the interim payment system has for the most part rewarded inefficient providers and forced many low-cost, efficient agencies out of the program. For example, you could have one agency with a per beneficiary limit of $12,000 competing with another agency down the street with a per beneficiary limit of $4,000. That was the scenario that led HCFA to put forward the proposal that $4,000 agency at such a competitive disadvantage that there is no way it can stay in business.

When we finally move home health to prospective payment, one thing that some low-cost providers be in business to treat patients who need home care. The Grassley-Breaux bill that we introduced several months ago tried to level the playing field by bringing the very high cost providers down while raising the reimbursement for low cost providers. This reflects what will happen under prospective payment when all providers will essentially be paid the same amount for treating the same kind of patient. We also eliminated the automatic 15% reduction in payments for new agencies in an attempt to further level the playing field. To ensure that high cost patients would still have access to home health, the Grassley-Breaux bill included an outlier policy so that home health agencies would not turn high cost patients away.

The interim payment reform proposal put forward by Senators ROTH and MOYNIHAN is an important first step towards fixing IPS and I applaud them and the Senate Finance Committee to revisit this issue next year and take a much more comprehensive look at the home health benefit. It is imperative that the Congress address this issue again next year since this proposal represents only a temporary fix. But it is an important one. The Senate bill:

(1) Lowers the per visit cost limits from 105% of the national median to 110% of the national median.

(2) Slightly increases payments to so-called “new” agencies, those in business since 1994. While in Louisiana this will only mean about an extra $52 per patient per year, it is important to recognize that new agencies need some relief.

(3) Increases the per visit cost limits from 105% of the national median to 110% of the national median.

(4) Most importantly, the Senate proposal delays the across-the-board 15% reduction that is currently scheduled for October 1, 1999. HCFA was originally required to institute a prospective payment system for home health agencies by October 1 of next year. Because of the Y2K problem, HCFA is now anticipating that it will not have PPS in place until April 1, 2000. Delaying the automatic 15% reduction in payments to home health agencies will ensure that the agencies aren’t punished for HCFA’s inability to implement PPS in a timely manner.

The goal of this bill is to fix some of the problems created in the BBA. Again, it is certainly only a first step—there is still much more that needs to be done and I am hopeful that the 106th Congress will revisit this issue to ensure that Medicare beneficiaries continue to have access to this very important benefit.

I urge my colleagues to support this bipartisan measure. It may not be everything everyone wants, but it certainly is better than doing nothing this year and it provides much-needed temporary relief to home health agencies across the country.

Mr. JEFFORD. Mr. President, today, I am very pleased to join in introducing the Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act. Legislation that significantly improves the interim payment system to home health agencies established under the Balanced Budget Act of 1997. Over the past eight months, I have been working as hard as I know how to find a solution for the crisis faced by our home health care agencies in Vermont. Our 13 home health agencies are model agencies that provide high-quality, comprehensive home health care with a low price tag. However, under Medicare’s new interim payment system, payments to these agencies are so low that Vermont’s seniors may be denied access to needed home health services.
Under the legislation, the reimbursement from Medicare to home health agencies will be increased, and the 15% across-the-board cut scheduled for next year will be delayed by one year. Adoption of this bill will give the Vermont home health agencies needed financial relief. Until a prospective payment system is in place.

For the past seven years, the average Medicare expenditure for home health care in Vermont has been the lowest in the nation. However, rather than being rewarded for this cost-effective program, Vermont has been penalized by the implementation of the current interim payment system. In June, 1998, Vermont’s home health agencies projected that the statewide impact of the current interim payment system was a loss of over $1.5 million in Medicare revenues for the first year. This represents a loss of over 11% on an annual base of $40 million statewide.

Vermont is a good example of how the health care system can work to provide for high-quality care for Medicare beneficiaries. Home health agencies are a critical link in the kind of health system that extends care over a continuum of options and settings. New technology and advances in medical practice hospitals to discharge patients earlier. They give persons suffering with acute or chronic illness the opportunity to receive care and live their lives in familiar surroundings. Time and again, federal policy seems to ensure that their good deeds should go unpunished.

The Medicare Home Health Fair Payment Act is the product of a great deal of hard work by the Finance Committee and is carefully designed to ease the burden of home health care agencies across the nation. As you know, the introduction of a new prospective payment system in 2000. The bill includes several strong policy components, which promote equity and fairness among the agencies nationwide. Under the new prospective payment system, Vermont and other cost-effective agencies can look forward to being rewarded rather than penalized for their high-quality, low-cost comprehensive medical care to beneficiaries.

It is my strong hope, that this bill will be adopted by the Senate, supported by the House, and signed into law. I have worked closely with Vermont’s 13 home health agencies, Senator LEAHY and the Governor’s Office in developing a solution to the payment crisis. The signing of this bill will mark a victory for our State, and it will also reflect a strong nationwide commitment to high-quality, cost-effective home health agencies such as those in Vermont.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise in support of the legislation introduced by the distinguished chairman of the Finance Committee, I would have preferred the approach taken in my own home health bill, which I introduced last April and which has 29 Senate cosponsors, because it would have done more to level the playing field and provide more relief to historically cost-effective agencies. I understand that the chairman faced a difficult task of balancing a number of competing issues, and the bill we are considering today is an important first step that will move the process forward towards addressing the problems with the current interim payment system (IPS). I fully support delaying the automatic 15 percent reduction for one year, raising the cost limits to 110 percent of the median, and raising payments for new agencies. However, I still have serious reservations about a blend approach which reshuffles the deck chairs on the Titanic. It is imperative that we restore access to home health care for medically complex patients, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to address this issue in the next Congress.

Mr. President, I realize that we cannot address every home health issue that has been raised this year. Some matters will have to carry over to the next Congress, and I fully intend to work with my colleagues next year on these items. Nonetheless, there are things we can do this year, and I believe that it is imperative that Congress act now to begin to address these problems. At least one agency in Maine has reported that payment levels under this system fell so short of its actual operating costs. Other cost-efficient agencies in my State are laying off staff or declining to accept new patients with more serious health conditions.

Which brings us back to the central and most critical issue—the real losers in this situation are our seniors, since cuts of this magnitude simply cannot be sustained without ultimately affecting home health care.

Mr. President, once again, I commend the chairman of the Finance Committee for his efforts on this difficult issue and urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this legislation.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Delaware, Mr. ROTH, for attempting to bring some resolution to the home health crisis before the end of this session and making much needed revisions to the Medicare home health payment system. Fully supporting the Senate’s action, I urge the House to join us in supporting delaying the automatic 15 percent reduction for one year, raising the cost limits to 110 percent of the median, and raising payments for new agencies. However, I still have serious reservations about a blend approach which reshuffles the deck chairs on the Titanic. It is imperative that we restore access to home health care for medically complex patients, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to address this issue in the next Congress.

At this time, I would like to recognize my distinguished colleague from Mississippi, Mr. COCHRAN, and I would like to engage the able Chair of the Senate Finance Committee, Mr. ROTH, in a discussion about this issue in conference. At this time, I would like to recognize my distinguished colleague from Mississippi, Mr. COCHRAN, and I would like to engage the able Chair of the Senate Finance Committee, Mr. ROTH, in a discussion about this issue in conference. Mr. President, there is not a single Member of the Senate or House of Representatives who has not become painfully aware of the serious problems that have arisen within the home health program over the last year. These problems stem from enactment...
Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I am afraid it gets worse. As Congress weighs the options available to finance the home health system, it is important to understand the actual crisis that is occurring in our home health care delivery system.

The crisis deepened in August when Ms. Gail Wilensky, former head of HCFA, added at this time that despite the fact that HCFA has only offered limited information about the crisis in home health care, the implications of these actions are significant.

The crisis is not limited to the home health sector. As Congress weighs the options available to finance the home health system, it is important to understand the actual crisis that is occurring in our home health care delivery system.

The crisis deepened in August when Ms. Gail Wilensky, former head of HCFA, added at this time that despite the fact that HCFA has only offered limited information about the crisis in home health care, the implications of these actions are significant.

Clearly, the program cannot continue under this scenario and continue to provide quality services to eligible individuals. Some of my colleagues may wonder whether this all came about. Perhaps the Senator from Missouri can provide some insight into this.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I thank my colleague. In addition to HCFA imposing an untested payment system with the home health IPS, the scoring mechanism used by CBO to estimate savings resulting from the IPS included a ½ behavioral offset. What this means is that CBO presumed that for every $3 saved under IPS, agencies would find some way, through expanding the number of beneficiaries they serve, to make up $2 of every $3 lost under IPS. What has become clear, as was indicated by the Senator from Missouri, CBO’s behavioral assumptions about agencies increasing the number of beneficiaries served have not come to pass. Instead, we are seeing a near dismantling of the home health care program as the result of IPS.

We have already seen the devastating effects of the interim payment system in my state of Mississippi. While I applaud the Senate for its efforts to replace the interim payment system, we must commit ourselves to continuing this work as soon as the Senate reconvenes. I am particularly concerned that we must address the problems that will be caused by the 15% reduction in payment limits which we have agreed to delay one year. It took this distinguished body that long to reach the temporary solutions which we have before us today and we cannot put off deliberations on this additional cut until the last moment. Prudence dictates that we find ways to insure that any additional cuts in reimbursement do not adversely affect efficient providers or burden patients in their access to necessary home care services.

Mr. BOND. Thank you for those insights Senator COCHRAN. I fully agree that this must be a priority of the Senate to address as soon as possible. There are additional issues which also need to be addressed at that time, particularly how to reimburse those agencies which serve our nation’s most medically complex patients. We have a moral obligation to ensure that our nation’s seniors and disabled are provided the quality and comfortable care they deserve. In addition, we must look at provisions which require that the payment limits are prorated where patients served are by more than one agency. It is my understanding that the Health Care Financing Administration is not capable of administering this provision, yet it is having impact on patient’s access to care. The problem centers around the inability of a home health agency to properly manage its spending within the limits imposed by HCFA.

Agency closing is resulting in significant beneficiary care access problems. In fact, a recent GAO study found that two-thirds of discharge planners and more than a third of the agencies surveyed reported having had difficulty in providing home health care for Medicare patients in the last year, especially those who need multiple weekly visits over an extended period of time. Matters will only get worse as agencies become more and more limited in their ability to provide needed services. In fact, in testimony before the Ways and Means Committee in August, Ms. Gail Wilensky, former head of the Health Care Financing Administration, warned that if the Congress waits for a problem to be clear, it will be too late. She also indicated that more money was taken out of home care than the Congress had expected when IPS was designed and then implemented by HCFA.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I might add at this time that despite the fact that HCFA is responsible for this draconian system, HCFA has only offered technical assistance to address this crisis. HCFA must be held accountable for this situation. It must face up to the fact that its system is wreaking havoc throughout our country.
Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I want to comment on the home health proposal that is before us and ask the Chairman of the Finance Committee to clarify his intentions with regard to addressing this issue in the next Congress.

The current home health interim payment system isn’t working. Under the current system, those agencies that abused the system and milked Medicare for every possible reimbursement were rewarded with generous cost limits. However, North Dakota agencies that did not abuse the system, that worked hard to keep their costs down, are penalized with unrealistically low limits. Not only is this terribly unfair, it creates a terrible incentive for efficient, low-cost agencies to go out of business and transfer their employees and their customers to agencies that have ripped off the system.

This system clearly penalizes North Dakota home health agencies and the beneficiaries who rely on their services. The median per beneficiary cost limit for North Dakota home health agencies is the second lowest in the country—a mere $2150 per year. In fact, the agency in North Dakota with the highest limit has a cap that is below the lowest limit in the state of Mississippi. There is no rational basis for this sort of inequity.

Unfortunately, the proposal before us today takes only the smallest of steps toward correcting this inequity and leaves in place too many of the current incentives that favor high cost, wasteful home health agencies. I do not see how I can, in good conscience, go back to North Dakota home health agencies and tell them that we can only lift their payments rates 2 or 3 percent when agencies in other parts of the country will continue to have payment limits 3 and 4 times as high as theirs. It is unfair. It is not good policy. It is not good enough. For that reason, I will feel constrained to object to this legislation unless I can be assured by the Chairman of the Finance Committee that there will be an opportunity to do better next year.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman from North Dakota for his comments. He is right; this change is only a small step. It does not “fix” the interim payment system. However, in the time remaining this year, it is the best we can do. It takes an important step toward making the system more fair, and it reduces the perverse incentives in the current system. In addition, it recognizes that the Prospective Payment System for home health will be delayed, so it delays, for one year the 15% cut in payments that is currently scheduled to go into effect on October 1, 1999.

I want to assure my colleague from North Dakota, and I think that I fully intend to revisit the home health issue next year. At that time, I pledge to work with him and other members of the Finance Committee to see if we can come up with a system that better addresses the needs of North Dakota home health agencies.

Mr. CONRAD. I thank the Chairman. With that assurance, I will drop my objection and let this legislation move forward.

ADDITIONAL COSPONSORS

At the request of Mr. Grams, the name of the Senator from Montana (Mr. Burns) was added as a cosponsor of Senate Concurrent Resolution 108, a concurrent resolution recognizing the 50th anniversary of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, and for other purposes.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 108

At the request of Mr. Doegan, the name of the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. Wellstone) was added as a cosponsor of Senate Concurrent Resolution 56, a joint resolution expressing the sense of Congress in support of the existing Federal legal process for determining the safety and efficacy of drugs, including marijuana and other Schedule I drugs, for medicinal use.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 56

At the request of Mr. Grassley, the name of the Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. Nickles) and the Senator from Alabama (Mr. Sessions) were added as cosponsors of Senate Joint Resolution 56, a joint resolution expressing the sense of Congress in support of the existing Federal legal process for determining the safety and efficacy of drugs, including marijuana and other Schedule I drugs, for medicinal use.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

TRIBUTE TO INDIANA STAFF

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to an outstanding Nevada Senator and former colleague, Judge Jan Smith. At the age of seventy-one, after years of service as Justice of the Peace for the Jean-Good Springs community, Judge Smith will retire from the bench next year. I want to take this opportunity to pay tribute to Judge Jan for her efforts to improve the lives of so many Americans, because her accomplishments have helped us all. I have been fortunate enough to be a first hand witness to some of Jan’s incredible achievements. I have watched her rise from legal aide and working mother in the early nineteen sixties to become one of Nevada’s most influential judicial officers.

After tolling away as a legal secretary for a District Attorney and a county judge, Jan became deeply involved with a variety of grass roots causes. She was one of the first women in the state to be an advocate on behalf of the environment. In the city of Henderson, she canvassed neighborhoods and city hall to prevent industry from inflicting permanent damage to the environment. As a mother of six, she was insightful enough to take action so that her children could grow up with an ample supply of clean air and water.

Judge Smith was also a champion for the poor and disadvantaged. She worked tirelessly to create opportunities for the poor and disadvantage in Nevada. Like many of her contemporaries, she marched on behalf of women and children who needed a “hand-up”, rather than a donation or handout.

When I served as Nevada’s Lt. Governor, I began working closely with Jan when she was chosen to run the Southern Nevada office of the Governor Mike O’Callahan. Savvy and determined, she made an impression on everyone she worked with throughout those six years. Much of her success on the job came from her staunch work ethic and strong ties to both her family and the community.

The people of Nevada were truly fortunate to have Judge Smith come out of semi retirement to accept an appointment as a Justice of the Peace for the Jean-Good Springs district. She single-handedly reorganized the court so that it eventually became a model of fairness and efficiency. She has subsequently been reelected with overwhelming community support.

Judge Smith is one of the unsung heroes of the American justice system. Like many of our nation’s Justice of the Peace Officers, she does not typically preside over big dollar, high drama cases. However, those like Judge Smith are the representatives of our legal system, likely to come in contact with everyday Americans. Professionals like Jan do more to preside over basic public safety issues because they handle the difficult events that are all too common in communities across the country—drunk driving and domestic violence. Essentially, Jan’s career has required her or exercise judgement and make tough decisions that have lasting impact.

Judge Jan Smith truly believes in the law, as a fellow officer of the court and United States Senator, I have relied upon on Judge Smith’s trademark intelligence and honesty, as well as her ability to astutely assess the character and behavior of the many Nevadans who visit her office.

Much of my admiration for Judge Smith stems from her enduring commitment to people of the Silver State. Her values are reflected not only in the way she lives her life, but in the many organizations she has served over the past thirty years. Judge Smith’s lifetime of achievement is truly an inspiration, and she serves as an incredible role model for judicial prudence, legal acumen, and personal integrity.

REAUTHORIZATION OF THE OLDER AMERICANS ACT

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. President, on Friday, October 10th, I became a co-sponsor of legislation introduced by Senator McCain that would reauthorize the Older Americans Act. This Act, established in 1965, established a series of programs to benefit older Americans. Services provided include nutrition, transportation, nursing home ombudsman, and other such needed rights programs. Needless to say, Arkansas, which has over 200,000 senior citizens, has benefitted greatly from the services provided through the Older Americans Act. In addition, the organizations in Arkansas that have received funding through the Act have done an incredible job in reaching out to our seniors.

While the Older Americans Act expired in 1995, its programs have widespread support, which has resulted in continued funding. Nonetheless, authorization is critical for the long-term stability of these programs and for the peace of mind of senior citizens, the elderly, and those they care for.

Mr. President, I am cosponsoring the McCain bill. I believe the Senate will renew the act, without any changes, for a period of 3 years. Let me say that, as with any reauthorization, I strongly believe in the need for congressional hearings to examine the programs contained within the act to ensure that they are working well, efficiently serving the needs of seniors, and that any appropriate adjustments in funding are made. Regrettably, the Senate Labor and Human Resource Committee, on which I serve, has not yet held the necessary reauthorization legislation this year. Until the committee does so, and as an indication of my very strong support for the programs contained in the Older American Act, I am cosponsoring the McCain bill.

The Older Americans Act has improved the quality of life for so many of our Nation’s elderly, and it will continue to provide vital services as the aging population grows. I sincerely hope that the Senate will act on legislation to reauthorize this important act soon.

(At the request of Mr. Daschle, the following statement was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.)

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION NOMINATIONS

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to congratulate two nominees, Mr. Hal Creel and Mr. John Moran, upon their confirmation to be Federal Maritime Commissioners.

Hal Creel, a native of South Carolina and my former Senior Counsel on the Maritime Subcommittee, has been a Federal Maritime Commissioner for four years. He has served the last two and a half years as the agency’s Chairman. As Chairman, he has demonstrated a wide-ranging knowledge of the maritime industry and an outstanding ability to oversee agency activities. Our Nation is extremely fortunate to have such a dedicated individual at the helm of this important government body.

Mr. Creel and the Federal Maritime Commission administered the Federal Maritime Commission Act, which governs all international liner shipping in the United States—over $500 billion in trade. His efforts in the controversy surrounding Japan’s restrictive port practices come immediately to mind.

The Government of Japan for many years has orchestrated a system that impedes open trade, unjustly favors Japanese companies, and results in tremendous inefficiencies for anyone serving Japan’s ports. The FMC, under Mr. Creel’s guidance, met these problems head-on and he was instrumental in bringing the two governments to the bargaining table. The bilateral agreement that resulted paves the way for far-reaching changes that can remove these unfair barriers to trade. The progress made to date has occurred in large measure due to the Commission’s firm, results-oriented approach. I urge him to continue to keep the Japanese honest, and to perform their agreed upon obligations.

Hal Creel also has led the Commission in its efforts to resolve unfavorable trading conditions with the People’s Republic of China and Brazil. These trades pose differing problems, but circumstances that nonetheless restrict U.S. companies or render their business dealings unnecessarily difficult or simply inefficient.

Hal Creel is widely respected by all sectors of the industry as an involved, knowledgeable Chairman who can be trusted to make impartial decisions based on all relevant factors.

These are turbulent times in the liner shipping industry, times that call for effective and respected leadership. Mr. Creel provides that leadership now, and I am certain will continue to do so as the industry enters the new environment that will result from the Ocean Shipping Reform Act of 1998 passed by this body last week.

I am proud of the accomplishments and fine work Hal has done at the FMC. I am also proud that he is a native South Carolinian. He certainly has continued the fine tradition and excellence he has established as a staffer and senior counsel to Chairman and Speaker G.V. (Sonny) Williams, Chairman of the Maritime Subcommittee. His reappearance is well deserved.

I also wish to convey my support for John Moran to become a Commissioner at the FMC. John also is a former Commercial Committee counsel who served all members of that Committee with distinction. John and Hal worked together at the Committee on a bipartisan basis, slugger through tough issues and serving all of the Members well.

For my Senate colleagues who do not know Mr. Moran, his only fault is that he is not from South Carolina. He has demonstrated his abilities and intellect time and time again. He is well suited to be a Federal Maritime Commissioner. Currently, John works representing the American Waterways Operators, as their Vice President for legislative affairs. John also has an outstanding reputation within the maritime and transportation industry sectors.

I congratulate these two deserving individuals, who have been appointed to the agency which plays such a critical role in international trade.

THE REPUBLICAN PATIENTS’ BILL OF RIGHTS ACT

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I rise to speak in strong support of S. 2330, the Patients’ Bill of Rights Act. As an original cosponsor, I’m confident that this legislation is the logical step to ensure Americans accessible and affordable healthcare.

On January 13, 1998, the Majority Leader created the Republican Health Care Task Force to begin pouring the foundation for a comprehensive piece of legislation that would enhance the quality of healthcare without dismantling success and affordability. For the last seven months, the task force met every Thursday—and other times as needed—with scores of stakeholders prior to writing this bill. Such thorough steps in writing a bill have clearly paid off. In 1993, President and Mrs. Clinton launched an aggressive campaign to nationalize the delivery of healthcare under the guise of modest reform. The sales pitch was backed with scores of anecdotes illustrated from Presidential podiums across the country. The stories were filled on the heartstrings of all Americans and were intentionally aimed at injecting fear and paranoia into all persons covered or not covered by private health insurance.

I am quick to ask my constituents interested in the President’s bill to carefully examine the fine print. It’s no surprise to me that most of them already have. The American people haven’t forgotten the last time this Administration tried to slip nationalized healthcare past their noses. Folks in this town may be surprised to learn that the American people aren’t a monolithic group. Some of us are actually concerned about providing patients’ rights and quality healthcare without nationalized, bureaucratized, budget-busting, one-size-fits-all mandates.

Congress has an obligation to ensure such quality services to the 124 million ERISA enrollees whose plans are currently absent these protections. In doing so, however, the Republican bill stays within its jurisdictional boundaries and doesn’t trample over states’ rights. As a result, Americans can gain protections whether they are insured under ERISA, or Medicare-regulated plan. I believe that this approach is rational and fair.

The Republican Patients’ Bill of Rights would provide individual rights with respect to a person’s own, personal health information. Access to personal medical records is a delicate matter. Provisions, however, are included to address inspection and copying of a person’s medical information. Safeguards and enforcement language have also been added to maintain confidentiality. In relation to this language, group health plans and health insurance issuers in both the group and individual market would be prohibited from selling or otherwise disclosing genetic information about a patient with the intention of denying health insurance coverage or setting premium rates.

The Republican plan would establish the Agency for Healthcare Research. This is not a new federal agency, but rather a new name for the current Agency for Healthcare Policy and Research within the Department of Health and Human Services. This agency would be focused on improving healthcare quality throughout America. The agency would not mandate a national definition of quality, but it would provide information to patients regarding the quality of care people receive, as well as enable employers and individuals to make prudent purchases based on quality.

The Senate Labor Committee held a number of hearings in relation to women’s health research and prevention. As a result, the Republican Patients’ Bill of Rights includes a number of important provisions that represent women’s health. These provisions will clearly benefit the promotion of basic and clinical research for osteoporosis, breast and ovarian cancer, the effects of aging on individuals, and other women’s health issues.

Finally, the Republican Patients’ Bill of Rights would broaden access to coverage by removing the 750,000 cap on medical savings accounts (MSA’s). MSA’s are a success and should be made available to anyone who wishes to control their own healthcare costs. Moreover, those who pay for their own health insurance could deduct 100 percent of the costs if the Republican plan is enacted. This would have a dramatic impact on folks from Wyoming. These provisions would, without a doubt, create a pathway for quality healthcare to millions of Americans without dismantling access and affordability.

While the President’s bill has been pitched as being essential to enhancing the quality of care Americans receive, I hope that my colleagues will carefully evaluate the impact that any nationalized, bureaucratized, budget-busting, one-size-fits-all bill would have on our healthcare system. As I have encouraged my constituents to read the fine print, I ask my colleagues to consider how the President’s legislation impacts you and your home state. Rural states deserve the voice of the Republican Patients’ Bill of Rights Act would give them that voice.

HURRICANE GEORGES AND THE DISASTER MITIGATION ACT OF 1998

• GRAHAM, Mr. President, on September 30th, with my colleagues Senator MACK and Florida Governor Lawton Chiles, I participated in a helicopter tour of Florida’s Panhandle, where once again, Mother Nature has subjected Florida’s citizens to her wrath. After first devastating the Florida Keys, Hurricane Georges moved northward and severely impacted the Panhandle, where my rainfall in excess of 2 feet in some areas. In the Florida Keys, Georges damaged over 1,500 homes destroying or causing major damage to approximately 600 residences. Initial estimates indicate that Georges caused over $250 million in insured damage in the Keys, and there are millions more in uninsured damages. Many residents in the lower Keys have only recently had their power restored, and federal, state, local, and voluntary agencies provided food, water, and ice for more than a week as the Keys finally emerged from this emergency situation.

Unfortunately—as I was able to view firsthand—Georges path of destruction did not end in the Keys. Even in its weakened state, Georges caused extensive flooding and isolated tornadoes throughout the Panhandle. At least 20 major roads were closed or partially closed, and evacuations continued for days in many low-lying areas. During my visit to the area, 14 shelters remained open, providing safe harbor for at least 400 Floridians who had been forced from their homes.

As a result of this hurricane, the President issued an emergency declaration for 33 Florida counties, in order to provide immediate Federal assistance to protect the lives and property of affected residents. On September 30th, the President issued a major disaster declaration for Monroe County, which authorizes Federal disaster recovery assistance for local governments and citizens in the Florida Keys. As of today, 16 counties in and around the Panhandle have been added to this declaration. I want to acknowledge the outstanding efforts of both the President and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in diting Federal assistance to the State of Florida.

Mr. President, throughout 1998, I have come to the Senate floor to describe the destruction and misery that Florida has experienced as a direct result of natural disasters. This year, Florida has been subjected to a series of unprecedented natural disasters. Even for a state that is experienced in dealing with such disasters, Floridians have been tested and again by what many believe to be the worst years in Florida meteorological history. In late January and early February—in the midst of our State’s dry season—several Northern Florida counties were deluged by massive floods. Not long after, parts of Central Florida were devastated by thunderstorms and tornadoes that are more typical in the summer months. Beginning in May and ending in late July, a deadly combination of intense heat and prolonged drought sparked more than 2,000 forest fires in Florida’s Panhandle. Finally, over the next several weeks, Florida will begin the long and painful process of recovery from the widespread damage that has been caused by Hurricane Georges.

I asked that this September 30th article from the Miami Herald—which summarizes Florida’s 6 Presidential disaster declarations in more detail—be printed in the Record.

The article follows:

FLORIDA GET FEDERAL AID A RECORD SIX TIMES

(By Tom Fiedler)

For Floridians, this has been a banner year of hell and high water. President Clinton said so.

Even before Hurricane Georges slapped the Keys unselfishly, then dumped tons of fresh rain on an already sodden Panhandle, Florida had established in 1998 a new—although dubious—record: recipient of the most presidential disaster declarations in a single year.

"It’s been a very hard year," said Joseph Morello, state director of emergency manage ment, who on Tuesday was into his seventh straight day of working around the clock monitoring the latest disaster. "But that’s why we get paid to do this.

He would be entitled to wonder if that could possibly pay enough, at least this year.

Like home-run sluggers Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa, Florida established its new record with style, shattering the previous marks by more than a couple.

Since New Year’s Day, which Myers spent monitoring a chain of tornados ripping their way across the central peninsula, causing at least $24 million in damage to crops and homes. President Clinton has declared at least parts of Florida to be federal disaster areas six times.

That topped the previous records of three in 1992—the year that included the mother of all disaster declarations. Hurricane Andrew that year caused $24 billion in damage.

To qualify for a presidential disaster declaration, the amount of money involved has to be beyond the ability of state and local government to assist, either because of the amounts of money involved or the types of assistance needed.

When the president issues a declaration, it makes available federal money to reimburse the state, and local governments for the immediate costs of meeting the emergency—such as in providing police and fire services, maintaining shelters or in restoring vital services.

It also activates several federal programs to aid in a community’s long-term recovery.
That array includes unemployment assistance for workers who may have lost their jobs or interrupted because of the disaster; mortgage assistance; low-interest loans to help businesses and farmers get back on their feet; money to rebuild highways or restore other services—including replacing lost tax revenues from damaged businesses; and money that can be used to avert future disasters, such as constructing dikes against floods or beach dunes against hurricanes.

VARIETY OF DISASTERS

What distinguishes 1998 from previous disasters is the variety of disasters that has befallen the state. Besides hurricanes, which can destroy property and people through high water and wind, this year’s declarations have included several for killer tornadoes, one for massive flooding—and most dramatic of all—one for infernal fires that raged for nearly two months over an area that at one point stretched nearly from Tallahassee to Miami.

Missing only were the biblical swarms of docile locusts and bubonic plague.

Myers said his personal calendar began in mid-December, when he was summomed to the state’s emergency-management headquarters to monitor a winter storm exploding out of the Gulf and hammering counties in Central Florida. The storm—considered the shock troops of El Niño—spat off dozens of tornadoes, washed out hundreds of homes and virtually ruined sawgrass and tomato and strawberry crops that were ripening. Its cost: about $24 million to tax-payer’s wallets, such as what insurance companies paid to individuals.

TORNADOES IN MIAMI

Holidays seemed as magnets to these storms. On Groundhog Day, another winter storm rumbled out of the Gulf to cut across the lower peninsula. This one triggered tornadoes in the heart of Miami.

The most destructive Groundhog Day storm savaged 600 homes in Dade, Broward and Monroe counties. It left two tugboats parked on Sunny Isles Beach and caused $2 million in damage, including $300,000 in disturbance indemnities.

Barely three weeks later, another storm hammered the central part of the state, coming ashore in the Tampa Bay area but spreading the peninsula. Myers said the president was still in the process of issuing the disaster declaration for the Groundhog Day storm when the bad weather hit.

“So they just added this onto the one they were already working with,” he said. “The storm kept on coming, and they kept on adding.”

The most dramatic were bands of swarming tornadoes that bracketed Orlando in March and flattened communities near Kiss-imme and those east of Sanford. All told, nearly two dozens Floridians were killed in those weather disasters.

MOST OF THE STATE

“Eventually every 1 of Florida’s 67 counties,” only 11 short of Florida’s 67 counties, Myers said.
“They finally stopped adding them on April 21.

The lull in El Niño’s wind and rain proved anything but benign, however. With such a wet spring, the underbrush in the state’s for-estres grew at an incredible pace, becoming lush and thick.

“That just dried up. It didn’t rain,” Myers said. “We knew that El Niño would produce fires, but we thought they would come later.”

June was the driest month in Florida’s history. The underbrush became tinder.

On June 8, the anniversary of D-Day, a major fire flared in Flagler County between Daytona Beach and St. Augustine. It raged for 48 days. President Clinton and Vice President Gore came to tour the region and inspect the disaster. Fire crews from around the nation came to fight it.

“We ended up getting a major disaster declaration and 15 fire suppression grants to pay for the firefighting,” the first time Florida had ever received such compensation, Myers said.

Florida’s cost of fighting the fires alone hit $156 million.

• Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, my experiences with disasters this year—in addition to the unforgettable destruction of Hurricane Andrew in 1992—have motivated me to re-evaluate the policies and programs that are implemented to ease the pain and economic loss caused by disasters. First, we must recognize the true extent of severe weather events. In fact, it seems that as we approach the millennium, the Nation is experiencing severe weather more frequently—and more inten-so—than ever before. Second, as our population grows, our coastal and riverfront communities have greatly expanded, placing an even higher number of citizens at risk from floods and hurricanes. Finally, expanded requirements for housing and residential structures have increased both the number and value of property developments in high-risk areas.

Taken together, these facts clearly prove that we will continue to experience losses from natural disaster.
Therefore, we must act now to prevent these inevitable losses through a proactive, nationwide loss prevention and mitigation initiative. We cannot continue to respond to repeat disasters in the same locations in an endless cycle of damage-repair-damage-repair.

It is for these reasons, Mr. President, that Senator INHOFE and myself introduced the Disaster Mitigation Act of 1998.
Our legislation focuses the energies of Federal, State, and local governments on disaster mitigation, shifting the Nation’s efforts toward preventative—rather than responsive—actions in order to prepare our citizens from disasters in the future.

We must act now to limit the impact of disasters by authorizing a “pre-disaster mitigation” program. Title II seeks to streamline the current disaster assistance programs to save administrative costs, and to simplify these programs for the benefit of states, local communities, and individual disaster victims.

To address the problems associated with the damage-repair-damage-repair cycle, the legislation places its primary emphasis on comprehensive pre-disaster mitigation. This bill will authorize a five-year pre-disaster mitigation program, funded at $35 million per year, to be administered by Federal Emergency Management Agency, or FEMA. The pre-disaster act authorizes six states and the District of Columbia to be identified by FEMA as receiving funding under this program. It will be important to bring these programs to city limits, and to consider the importance of all disas-asters, not just hurricanes.

Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to support Senator Inhofe and myself by joining with us in our efforts to project our citizens from disaster now and in the future. I ask the Senators who have most recently been affected by Hurricane Georges, as well as the many Senators whose constituents have been impacted by catastrophic disasters over the past several years, to support this legislation and ensure its passage before the end of this session.

NATIONAL OPTICIANS MONTH

Mr. GRAMS. Mr. President, January 1999 will be celebrated throughout the United States as National Opticians Month. I am pleased to inform my colleagues that one of my constituents, Gary R. Aiken of Minnetonka, Minnesota, is president of the Opticians Association of America, which is sponsoring the observance.

Nearly all Americans aged 65 or older require some help to see their best and sixty percent of Americans wear eyeglasses or contact lenses. Opticians, skilled in fitting and dispensing eyeglasses and contact lenses, provide the expert assistance we need to make the most of our vision. Technology has brought us literally thousands of possible combinations of eyeglass frames and lenses and an array of contact lenses. Dispensing opticians play a pivotal role in guiding eyewear customers to the combination which exactly fits their need.

Through formal education programs, voluntary national certification and mandatory licensing in many states, and programs of continuing education, dispensing opticians acquire the skills and competence to correctly, efficiently and effectively fill eyewear prescriptions. At the same time, retail opticians are an important part of our nation’s small business community and provide the competitive balance which keeps eyewear affordable for all Americans.

It is a pleasure to acknowledge the important role of dispensing opticians as they assist us all in making the most of our eyesight, I commend them for their efforts and congratulate Gary Aiken and the members of the Opticians Association of America for their accomplishments.

MICHAEL K. SIMPSON

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I rise to pay tribute to New York’s Dr. Michael K. Simpson who last year completed ten years of service as President of Utica’s Syracuse University and is now President of the American University in Paris.

While at Utica, Dr. Simpson taught international relations, contemporary French politics, international law, the political economics of multinational corporations, macro- and micro-economics, and American foreign policy. He has also been a visiting professor at the Maxwell School of Citizenship at Syracuse University and director of Syracuse’s study center in Strasbourg, France.

In addition to his broad academic experience, Dr. Simpson has dedicated himself to the people of Oneida County, New York. As the community representative and chairperson of the Health and Hospital Council of the Mohawk Valley from 1987-1992, he lead that Council toward developing a hospital consolidation plan for four area hospitals. His success in making quality health-care more accessible and affordable to local residents. Since 1988 he has been a trustee of The Savings Bank of Utica.

I have had the privilege to speak at three commencements in which Michael has participated at his graduation from Fordham College in 1970 when he earned his bachelor’s degree, at Syracuse University in 1983 upon receipt of his M.B.A., and during his tenure as Utica College President.

With great admiration and gratitude I commend Dr. Simpson for his commitment to excellence in education and his service to his fellow citizens of New York. I wish him all the best on his sojourn in Paris.

TAIWAN’S NATIONAL DAY

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to President Lee Teng-hui, Vice President Lien Chan and the people of the Republic of China today, on their National Day.

Taiwan has continued to prosper economically even in the face of the Asian financial crisis. As the world’s fourteenth largest economic entity, Taiwan plays a significant role in global trade and Asian economies. With its per capita income of $13,000 US dollars, Taiwan provides an important market for American consumer goods.

In addition to its economic successes, Taiwan has embarked upon a democratic course resulting in a pluralistic society which enjoys basic democratic rights and freedoms including freedom of the press and direct elections for the president and other officials. The people and its leadership should be very proud of the successes that they have achieved. I congratulate them on this special day.

PRIVATE RELIEF BILLS

Mr. LUTENBERG. Mr. President, I am pleased that key members of the Senate have agreed to pass all the pending private relief bills in one package and send it over to the House.

I would like to thank the principals who have been involved in this effort, Senators HATCH, ABRAHAM, LEAHY and KENNEDY. This package will include my bill to help Vova Malofienko.

Let me tell you a little about Vova Malofienko and his family. Vova was born in Chernigov, Ukraine, just 30 miles from the Chornobyl nuclear reactor.

In 1986, when he was just two, the reactor exploded and he was exposed to high levels of radiation. He was diagnosed with acute leukemia, 1990, shortly before his sixth birthday.

Through the efforts of the Children of Chornobyl Relief Fund, Vova and his mother came to the United States with seven other children to attend Paul Newman’s “Hole in the Wall” camp in Connecticut.

While in this country, Vova was able to receive extensive cancer treatment and chemotherapy. In November of 1992, his cancer went into remission.

Regrettably, the other children from Chornobyl were not as fortunate. They returned to the Ukraine and they died by one because of inadequate cancer treatment. Not a child survived.

The air, food, and water in the Ukraine are still contaminated with radiation and are perilous to those like Vova who have a weakened immune system.

Additionally, cancer treatment available in the Ukraine is not as sophisticated as treatment available in the United States.

Although Vova completed his chemotherapy in 1992, he continues to need medical follow-up on a consistent basis, including physical examinations, lab work and radiological examinations to assure early detection and prompt and appropriate therapy in the unfortunate event the leukemia recurs.

Because of his perilous medical condition, Vova and his family have done everything possible to remain in the United States. Since 1992, they have obtained a number of visa extensions, and I have helped them with their efforts.

In March of 1997, the last time the Malofienkos visas were expiring, I appealed to the INS and the family was given what I was told would be final one-year extension.

So we have a family battling for over six years now, to stay in this country. And why? So that they can save the life of their child, Vova.

Because of the compelling circumstances of their case, I introduced S.1489, which was adopted unanimously by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

After I introduced that bill, Senator ABRAHAM, in his capacity as Chairman of the Immigration Subcommittee, requested a report from the INS and that stayed any further INS proceedings.

But at the end of this Congress they would be subject to deportation. That is why I have worked so hard to get this bill passed this session of Congress.

This family has endured enough. They cannot have the threat of deportation hanging over their heads. They are dealing with enough trauma from Vova’s cancer.

I wish my colleagues could meet Vova—then they would understand why I feel so strongly about this case. He is truly a remarkable young man.

Throughout his battle against cancer, he has been an inspiration. He has been an honors student at Millburn Middle School, and he is an eloquent spokesperson for children with cancer. He has rallied the community and helped bring out the best in everyone.

His dedication, grace, and dignity provide an outstanding example, not just to young people, but to all Americans.
Again, I want to thank Senators Hatch, Abraham, Leahy and Kennedy for their diligence. I hope that we will pass this package on Monday and send it to the House and then the President. Then, Vova can continue his fight in the safety of United States.

RECESS UNTIL 2 P.M., MONDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1998

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess until Monday, at 2 p.m. Thereupon, at 4:10 p.m., the Senate recessed until Monday, October 12, 1998, at 2 p.m.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

THE DANTE B. FASCELL NORTH-SOUTH CENTER

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, today Representative LEE HAMILTON and I are introducing H.R. 4757, to honor our esteemed former colleague, the former Chairman of the International Relations Committee Dante Fascell.

This bill will rename the educational institution known as the North/South Center, as the Dante B. Fascell North-South Center.

Chairman Dante Fascell was responsible for establishing this Center in 1991 to promote better relations between the United States and the nations of Latin America and the Caribbean and Canada through cooperative study training and research. Today, we recognize the significant contribution Dante Fascell has made to U.S.—Latin American relations and indeed to so many other aspects of our foreign policy. He was dedicated legislator and statesman. It is a privilege to sponsor this measure to provide a modest means of recognizing a truly great American.

Accordingly, I urge my colleagues to fully support this measure.

H.R. 4757

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. DESIGNATION OF NORTH/SOUTH CENTER AS THE DANTE B. FASCELL NORTH-SOUTH CENTER.

Section 208 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1992 and 1993 (22 U.S.C. 2075) is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

"(a) Short Title.—This section may be cited as the "Dante B. Fascell North-South Center Act of 1991";

(2) in subsection (c)—

(A) by amending the section heading to read as follows: "Dante B. Fascell North-South Center.—"; and

(B) by striking "known as the North/South Center," and inserting which shall be known and designated as the Dante B. Fascell North-South Center;"; and

(3) in subsection (d) by striking "North/South Center" and inserting Dante B. Fascell North-South Center;"

SEC. 2. REFERENCES.

(a) Center.—Any reference in any other provision of law to the educational institution in Florida known as the North/South Center shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Dante B. Fascell North-South Center".

(b) Short Title.—Any reference in any other provision of law to the North/South Center Act of 1991 shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Dante B. Fascell North/South Center Act of 1991".

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF
HON. LOIS CAPP
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of beginning a fair and focused impeachment inquiry. I will—as every member of the House should—cast a vote of conscience on this grave Constitutional matter.

Let me be clear. I have been appalled by the President's behavior in this matter. His affairs with Monica Lewinsky was reckless and reprehensible. Lying to his family and the American people about it was outrageous. He has tarnished the office of the Presidency and his own positive record of accomplishment. President Clinton must be held accountable.

The question before us today is not whether or nor there will be an inquiry. The question before us is what kind of inquiry will there be. I support what the American people are calling for—an expeditious impeachment inquiry that will allow our country to being this issue to a close and to move on. I cannot in good conscience support an endless series of unfocused hearings that may distract Congress from dealing with the important issues facing the nation.

Of course, if the House is presented with further allegations from the Independent Counsel, the Judiciary Committee can examine them as well.

But today the House should take a step toward completing this inquiry—fairly, thoroughly and quickly. There is no reason we cannot finish this by the end of the year.

Mr. Speaker, I have heard from thousands of my constituents on this issue. Their comments and advice range from calling for the President's resignation or impeachment to insisting that the House drop the entire matter. While they may differ in their beliefs and positions, in the end their most common theme is that they want to see this matter come to an expeditious resolution.

We should follow their advice.

TRIBUTE TO GEORGE WIMBERLY

HON. MARION BERRY
OF ARKANSAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a great friend, great Arkansan, and great American. I speak of Mr. George Wimberly, who has served his community as a member of the City Manager Board for the City of Little Rock; Mayor of the City of Little Rock, Arkansas; and as a member of the Arkansas General Assembly. All of these positions are significant, but they are completely overshadowed by his accomplishments as a friend and servant to his fellow man.

George has owned and operated a neighborhood pharmacy, Buice Drug Store, in the Stiff Station area of Little Rock for over forty years. He is personally involved in the day to day care of each and every one of his customers. George provides not only medicine, advice and counsel, love, attention and service, but he also has a genuine concern for the well being of everyone he knows. Every person that comes in contact with George gets the same consideration.

When George Wimberly is your friend you know that there is one person in the world that you can count on. He has been my dear friend since childhood and has befriended generations of my family members. He is a wealth of knowledge about our heritage and when he reads this he will say, "What would Wimpy say about this?"

He has provided free medical advice, service, and products for anyone in need. He continues to check on shut-ins and the disabled in the community and is the only link to the outside world for many of them. He is from the school that thinks character and honesty are premier qualities and practices these beliefs.

Because he has lived and served among us for 78 years we are better for it and the world is a better place to live. As they say in the place I come from, the One Horse Store, he is a "good man" and I am proud to call him my friend.

A YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENTS

HON. JAMES A. BARTCA
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Speaker, efforts to promote equality, success, and opportunity are appreciated by all Americans. An organization, in my district, is truly dedicated to helping African-Americans succeed in the business community and sets a powerful example. It was formed to overcome hardships, and to support each other in furthering their success. This month the Saginaw African-American Minority Business Association (S.A.A.M.B.A) is celebrating a year of outstanding achievements by Designating October as National Minority Business Month.

The weekend of October 23rd, S.A.A.M.B.A. will be hosting a Minority Business Conference. This conference will bring together Saginaw area minority business owners. The conference will offer the members of S.A.A.M.B.A. many different helpful workshops and motivational keynote speakers, in hopes of providing a solid foundation for the advancement of African-Americans in business.

S.A.A.M.B.A. advances the development of area African-American minority businesses to succeed in the community. This organization builds relationships with financial institutions in the area. S.A.A.M.B.A. also sponsors training workshops, seminars or conferences like this one, educates and answers questions of African-American business owners and other people with similar interests. This organization’s efforts to increase membership each year have been successful and its members look forward to many more years of building relationships and promoting business opportunities.

The first Civil Rights legislation was enacted in 1964, and the fight for equal treatment under the law continues today. Dr. Martin Luther King dreamed of a color-blind world, and organizations like S.A.A.M.B.A. are committed to supporting his ideal by helping African-Americans in business. They work to achieve equality for African-Americans, and are constantly changing attitudes in the business community. Our country has come a long way, but we have much work to do, and organizations like S.A.A.M.B.A. are paving the way for minorities in the business world.

Mr. Speaker, the Saginaw African-American Minority Business Association is a strong foundation for African-American adults, youth and the community. I urge you and our colleagues to join me in recognizing the outstanding contributions to the community and congratulating the President, Corrine S. Williams and the dedicated staff of S.A.A.M.B.A. on their accomplishments this year.

IN HONOR OF CAPTAIN JAMES SPRAYBERRY, WINNER OF THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR

HON. BOB BARR
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, today I honor a great American hero: Captain James Sprayberry, born in LaGrange, Georgia. As a soldier in Vietnam, Captain James Sprayberry selflessly risked his own life to repeatedly charge enemy machine gun nests to rescue pinned-down American soldiers. In the process, he personally saved many of their lives, while killing twelve enemy soldiers, destroying two machine-guns, and eliminating numerous enemy bunkers. For this extraordinary bravery, Captain Sprayberry was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, our nation’s highest military decoration. On October 26, 1998, a road in my district will officially be named after him.

In times of peace, it is far too easy to forget that freedom carries a high price. Captain Sprayberry was willing to pay that price. He deserves the undying gratitude of a grateful nation that enjoys peace today thanks to the sacrifices he and all of our other veterans have made over the years.

AGAINST HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 254

HON. DANNY K. DAVIS
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I take this opportunity to comment on House Concurrent Resolution 254 which passed the House on September 14, 1998. I inaccurately voted in favor of this bill when I should have voted "no."

The bill calls upon the Government of Cuba to expatriate to the United States Ms. Joanne Chesimard as well as all other individuals who have fled the U.S. from political persecution and received political asylum in Cuba.

I wish to officially go on record as opposed to this measure. Unfortunately, the bill was placed on the suspension calendar, which is usually reserved for non-controversial measures. Furthermore, none of the many advocacy groups that monitor this vote informed my office of their concern.

I oppose H. Con. Res. 254 because I support the right of all nations to grant political asylum to individuals fleeing political persecution. The United States grants political asylum to individuals from all over the world. Other independent nations have the same right, including Cuba.

I strongly believe that the right for various governments to grant political asylum should not be disturbed. I am aware of the fact that this body often does not agree with the particular decisions made by other independent governments regarding political asylum. However, I have stood before this house many times defending and advocating for the rights of immigrants and refugees in the United States. Just as we maintain our right as a nation to welcome those from other shores, whether immigrant or refugee—we must respect the Cuban Government’s right to grant political asylum for individuals from the U.S. fleeing political persecution.

TRIBUTE TO MEREDITH BIXBY

HON. NICK SMITH
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. SMITH of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Meredith Bixby from Saline, Michigan.

On October 18, 1998, the Saline Culture and Commerce Center will open the Bixby Marionette Exhibit. This exhibit includes over 100 of Meredith Bixby’s hand-crafted marionettes which he gave to the City of Saline.

Meredith Bixby is affectionately known as the “Master of Marionettes.” His company “Meredith Marionettes Touring Company” toured the Midwest and South for more than 40 years, performing in schools, theaters and community centers.

I personally admire Meredith Bixby because his stated goal was, “to present programs that we [that is Meredith and his wife Thyra] thought were in good taste.” This is an element so often missing in theater productions of today.

I want to commend Meredith Bixby for his hard work and dedication. It is estimated that in 88 years, he has performed more than 20,000 marionette plays.

A TRIBUTE TO RICHARD CHERRY

HON. MARCY KAPTUR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay special tribute to Richard Cherry, a member of the American Legion in my district. Dick is being feted by his comrades and friends at a special Appreciation Dinner to be held on November 14, 1998 at the Adams Township Post No 553 of the American Legion. I will be proud and humbled to participate in this well-deserved recognition.

Dick Cherry currently serves as National Committeeman for the more than 164,000 members of the Ohio American Legion. In his 29 years with the Legion, he has also served as Commander of the Department of Ohio, First Vice and Second Vice Commander of the Department of Ohio, Commander of the Great First District of Ohio, Commander of Lucas County, Commander of the Adams Township Post, and Delegate to Lucas County, the First District, Department of Ohio, and National Organization. He also diligently labors on countless committees on the County, District, Department of Ohio, and National levels.

A member of the United States Army, Dick is a veteran of the Korean War who served with the Second Division, 23 Infantry Battalion. With the deepest of understanding of the importance of remembering our nation’s veterans, he is an active member of the Toledo Soldiers Memorial Association, and the Lucas County Veterans Service Commission, and the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Association.

Listing his involvement in civic and veteran organizations only gives one a glimpse of the man. Dick Cherry is a man of the greatest compassion and empathy, with a sharp mind and a deep soul. He has been a trusted advisor to me on veterans issues, offering wise counsel regarding healthcare in our nation’s VA medical centers, compensation and pension benefits for veterans and their families, and the “veterans position” on national issues. In any forum, he conducts himself with dignity and grace, quietly but effectively conveying the message that we must never forget our veterans, their courage, or the sacrifices they made to bring us the freedom we know today.

If a measure of a man is the esteem in which others hold him, then Dick Cherry is a man beyond measure. I join his wife Carol, his family, friends, and colleagues in paying homage to a most down-to-earth yet most remarkable man.

IN HONOR OF THE SESQUICENTENNIAL OF FLOYD SPRINGS UNITED METHODIST CHURCH LOCATED IN FLOYD COUNTY, GEORGIA

HON. BOB BARR
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Floyd Springs United Methodist Church of Floyd County, Georgia which is celebrating its Sesquicentennial anniversary this fall. For 150 years, since its founding in 1848, the church has been a focal point for the worship of God, religious education, and community service to the Floyd Springs area and beyond. The church is a part of the Rome-Carrollton, North Georgia conference of the United Methodist Church, and is located at 1954 Floyd Springs Road, Armuchee, Georgia.

Institutions of faith have always provided a vital service to America; by encouraging moral behavior, assisting citizens in need, and guiding the spiritual development of millions. For 150 years, Floyd Springs United Methodist Church has been in the forefront of that cause. Now, in 1998, we need the spiritual Christian leadership and service this great church offers.

The congregation has planned special activities during October to commemorate this historic event, and I am proud to lend my voice to this effort.

IN HONOR OF ERIC DELUCIEN AND NEW DIRECTIONS, INC.

HON. LOIS CAPPS OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to bring to the attention of my colleagues a courageous 5-day journey passing through my district on the Central Coast today.

Eric DeLucien, an Americorps volunteer, is undertaking a 500 mile fundraising bike ride from San Francisco to Los Angeles, California, which will benefit New Directions, Inc.’s education fund. New Directions Inc., a nonprofit self-help program, provides free comprehensive rehabilitative services to homeless veterans with histories of chronic substance abuse and other disorders like Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. Through this program, veterans receive the encouragement and job training they need to compete in today’s job market.

My late husband, Walter Capps, was empathetic to the plight of all veterans; I share his concern and commitment to this community. I hope that this bicycle fundraiser will increase public awareness to the problems facing many of our veterans today, and I would like to thank New Directions, Inc. for providing the opportunities and tools they need to succeed.

Mr. Speaker, I conclude that the On the Road for Homeless Vets bike ride is a noble cause, and commend Eric DeLucien and New Directions, Inc. for their dedication to improving the lives of veterans in our country.

TRIBUTE TO LOUIS STOKES

HON. MAJOR R. OWENS OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. OWENS. Mr. Speaker, over the past few months there have been many tributes to our departing colleague, Congressman LOUIS STOKES. The accolades have been lengthy because there is a great deal to be said about the thirty year record of Congressman STOKES. Unfortunately, the most senior Members have been accorded the privilege of speaking first, and thus, I have been deprived of my opportunity to also praise LOUIS STOKES. As a Member who has worked with LOUIS STOKES for sixteen of his thirty years, I feel I have known him long enough to speak with authority. He is not so long and so close that I have lost my capacity for some objectivity. We are all familiar with the concept of the “Renaissance Man” with a broad array of talents. In the power arena LOUIS STOKES is a “Renaissance Political Man.” He possesses the ability, the capacity to perform as a deal maker; as a champion for issues; as program innovator; as a team player and institution builder.

Watching LOUIS STOKES perform over the years has been an inspiring learning experience. As a key member of the Appropriations Committee he has repeatedly made the right deals for worthwhile programs. When the authorizing committee, ten years ago, established Title III-B for the direct funding of Historically Black Colleges and Universities, STOKES did the necessary homework to obtain immediate funding for this program which has now provided more than one billion dollars for higher education. Beyond serving as a conduit or vehicle for the obtaining of dollars, LOUIS STOKES has served as an advocate and champion for the neglected African American colleges.

We have watched and greatly appreciated LOUIS STOKES’ use of power to address complex and difficult problems. His service on the Ethics Committee, the Intelligence Committee and numerous groups that took him beyond the call of duty, has led to the acquisition of enormous reserves of respect and influence. He has repeatedly used this influence to introduce constructive innovations without lengthy legislation. Hundreds of minority youth have benefitted from programs for interns and fellows originated by LOUIS STOKES in the various agencies of government.

Despite the enormous responsibilities which have come with his accrued powers, LOUIS STOKES has remained a consummate team player and institution builder. The personality cult has never claimed STOKES. He has worked tirelessly to build the Congressional Black Caucus. The CBC Health Braintrust is the model for all current and future meaningful Braintrust operations. Certainly the inspiration for a strong CBC Education Braintrust has come via the observance of the Health Braintrust. More people are engaged year round in the Health Braintrust than in any other CBC activity. This organization is the primary beneficiary of STOKES’ habit of doing careful homework. Without a doubt the Health Braintrust is an institution that LOUIS STOKES has made strong enough to endure long after his resignation.

LOUIS STOKES, the “Renaissance Political Man” has not only performed magnificently in Washington, but also back home. His imprint is deeply embedded in the governance of his City of Cleveland, Ohio. Despite the fact that he still has many years left to enjoy his retirement, LOUIS STOKES has already been enshrined as a hero of his city. The new state-of-the-art Cleveland Public Library building bears the name of Congressman LOUIS STOKES. Needless to say, as the only Librarian ever elected to Congress, I find this achievement profoundly inspiring.

His comprehensive, across the board performance LOUIS STOKES stands high above his peers. When you consider the attributes and character traits necessary for productivity and success in the political arena, most Members of Congress can claim certain areas of strength while admitting to other areas of weakness. But only LOUIS STOKES can lay claim to titles all across the spectrum. He is a great deal maker, a champion advocate for issues; a program innovator, a team player; and an institution builder.

LOUIS STOKES, the “Renaissance Political Man” leaves very high standards for all future Members of Congress to utilize to measure their performance and their productivity.

CONGRESS SHOULD TAKE ACTION TO PRESERVE MEDICARE’S HOME HEALTH BENEFITS BEFORE ADJOURNMENT

HON. WILLIAM J. COYNE OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. COYNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of efforts to reform Medicare’s home health payment system now, before unreasonably low payment caps negatively impact quality and access to care. While they are not as comprehensive as the changes that I and many other members sought, the changes H.R. 4567 makes to the interim payment system (IPS) will give much-needed relief to home care agencies in my Congressional district and many others.

I am very concerned that we are considering paying for this change by expanding Roth IRAs. This expansion would raise the $2.4 billion we need in the first 5 years, but it will cost us $10.7 billion in the years after that. Financing this much-needed change in this way is a little like borrowing from a loan shark. We get a little bit of money now, but we’ll have an even bigger bill to pay later.

The Senate is working on a version of this bill which would give even more relief to efficient agencies and would block the 15% across the board cut scheduled for next year. Home health agencies in my district have told me the impending 15% cut will have a destructive effect on their ability to provide services, and I would prefer not to wait until next year to address their concerns. The Senate bill is not paid for by using the Roth IRA method, which I believe is better policy. Wednesday night I joined several of my colleagues in introducing a House bill which is nearly identical to the bipartisan Senate bill.

I will support H.R. 4567 in an attempt to move the process forward and craft a home health care solution in this Congress. However, I hope the House will move toward the Senate position in the conference. I believe doing so will give us a better bill, one which provides more relief for efficient agencies and frees all agencies from the specter of the 15% cut.

CONGRATULATIONS, SAGINAW

HON. JAMES A. BARCIA OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to applaud the good work of the City of Saginaw, in my 5th District of Michigan, and particularly the leadership of the Saginaw City Council and City Manager Reed Phillips. In October 1998, at the 71st annual Water Environment Federation Conference in Orlando, the City of Saginaw was presented with the Environmental Protection Agency’s 1998 National Sewer Overflow Control Program Excellence Award. The award is presented for innovation and quality for their combined sewer overflow control measures.

As we in the 5th District well know, the Saginaw River is a major contributor to the health or problems in the Saginaw Bay and Lake Huron. During our communities’ long history in the region, we have struggled to reverse the degradation of the river and the lake from our cities and industry. A major role in that effort lies with city officials in our area. The Saginaw City Council and Mr. Phillips have provided a cutting edge example of how we can return our environment to the safe, healthy and productive resource whose beauty has made our region one of the largest tourist attractions in the Midwest.

Combined sewer overflows are a critically important problem in our country, particularly in the Northeastern, Midwestern and Northwestern United States. This 19th century engineering breakthrough represents an environmental nightmare for our cities of today. Periodic heavy rainfall can lead to releases which compromise our rivers, streams, lakes and oceans.

The efforts of Mr. Phillips to make me aware of this crisis in Saginaw, Bay City and other towns in our State led me to introduce H.R. 4242, the Combined Sewer Overflow Control and Partnership Act of 1998. Only massive expenditures of limited municipal resources can solve this problem today. With Reed’s help, I learned that a national grant program is essential to long term solutions to this problem.

This is why, Mr. Speaker, that the creativity and innovation of the City of Saginaw is so impressive. To gain national recognition for success in attacking a problem which seems to have no solution is truly a victory for our citizens and our environment. Instead of giving up in the face of nearly insurmountable odds, the City of Saginaw has dedicated itself to making progress, and has proven that dedication and effort can change the course of rivers.

Mr. Speaker, I ask you and our colleagues to join me today in applauding the City of Saginaw and City Manager Reed Phillips, and cherishing the environment which they so dutifully protect.

THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH TO CELEBRATE ITS 130TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. MARCY KAPTUR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to give special recognition to the Third Baptist Church in Toledo, Ohio. Beginning November 11, 1998 and concluding November 15, 1998, the church will celebrate its 130th anniversary with a host of celebration activities.

I am pleased to commemorate this anniversary. This milestone is a testament to faith, to the strength of community, and to the values of family and tradition. The 130 year long journey of Third Baptist Church has only come about through the faith and perseverance of its congregants. As their lives have been made richer by their faith, so, too, has our community been made richer by the church’s presence. This church in the heart of one of Toledo’s oldest neighborhoods has housed generations of souls uplifted by the strength of prayer and each other as God’s Word was celebrated each Sunday for 130 years.

Third Baptist Church has been a cornerstone of the community, and is strongly supported by its members. Generations worship together, in the truest sense of church and community. Third Baptist’s motto is “Celebrating Our Godly Heritage Through Worship and Praise.” Its members live this testament, coming together to offer joyful songs, inspirational prayers, and deep, personal worship.

As 130 years are celebrated through several days, I know that the spirit of the church’s ancestors will be felt, and they will join today’s membership in the commemoration. As we look back on the past, may we also direct our vision toward the future.

TRIBUTE TO THE FARMERS’ ADVANCE

HON. NICK SMITH
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. SMITH of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Farmers’ Advance published in Camden, Michigan.

On October 13, 1998, the Farmers’ Advance and its precursor, The Camden Advance, will have served rural readers and advertisers for 100 years.

As a farmer, I rely on the Farmers’ Advance to keep me abreast of the weekly sales and prices of farm commodities, livestock and equipment. I also appreciate the excellent coverage of youth activities in 4-H and FFA shows and sales. In this rapidly changing time, the Farmers’ Advance continues to chronicle and celebrate traditional farm family values through its stories and photographs.

The Camden Advance was first published in 1898. Lee Graham, publisher and editor, set the type under lamplight and printed the paper on a hand press.

In 1953, its name was changed to the Farmers’ Advance. Today, the Farmers’ Advance reaches readers in every county in Michigan, northern Indiana, northern Ohio, and Ontario, Canada.

I want to commend this wonderful publication for its dedication to serving farms and rural areas and promoting farm family values for 100 years.

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF
HON. DANNY K. DAVIS
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to the resolution presented by my colleague from Illinois, Mr. HYDE, to initiate an open ended, unlimited impeachment inquiry of the President of the United States of America.

This resolution is an attempt to do through parliamentary means what could not be done in the last two elections: unseat the President of the United States of America.

Let me state here on the floor of the House what most Americans already know.

This inquiry is not about sexual indiscretion. We have allegations of Presidential sexual indiscretions, some going back 200 years and involving slave women who certainly had no defense against predatory relationships. But no such impeachment inquiry has been initiated before.

This is not about lying. We have had allegations of Presidential lying about the trading of munitions for covert foreign aid and Presidential lying about personal federal income taxes. But no such impeachment inquiries were initiated in response.

Mr. Speaker, there is some in this House who have campaigned for the impeachment of this President for more than six years. Their campaign, fueled by $40 million spent by the Office of Special Council, tens of millions spent by private sources, and millions more spent by assorted Congressional Committees, and the inevitable accompanying leaks have yielded us only a sad, sordid marital infidelity and an endless supply of headlines.

These relentless campaigns to impeach the President now hold their sponsors hostage to their own rhetoric. Having failed to find an impeachable offense, there is now relentless pressure to make do with the $60 million scandal—to make the scandal fit the bill.

Mr. Speaker, our Constitution contains a number of examples of purposely ambiguous language in addition to the phrase “high Crimes and Misdemeanors.” Consider such language as “due process.”

It is precisely such elegant and flexible language which has enabled our democracy to develop, to encompass ever broader sectors of Americans, in ever deeper and more empowering ways.

It is reasonable to expect that as the process of electing our chief executive has become more and more democratic, enfranchising more Americans, more and more directly, that the process for removing that chief executive, of undoing the will of the people, would demand higher and higher standards. It is reasonable to expect that the Congress should not take into itself the power to limit a President, in James Madison’s words “...to life tenure during the pleasure of the Senate.”

When we “dumb down” the Constitution to meet the needs of partisan politics we inflict deep and lasting harm on our political and Constitutional system. This is the real Constitutional crisis. I do not believe it is accidental that all of our nation's encounters with Presidential impeachment come following periods of great national turmoil—either the executive or legislative branch attempting to use extra-constitutional means of impeachment based on the policy of the nation. Like the attempt to impeach President Johnson in the wake of the Civil War and the debate over how to incorporate African Americans into the body politic or the attempt of President Nixon to undermine his political opponents in the closing days of the War in Vietnam; current attempts to undo the results of two Presidential elections will leave deep, lingering wounds on our nation, but, in the long run, will fail in their attempt to make an end run around the will of the people.

Undoing our Constitution will not advance the search for solutions to the great national and international problems facing America: global economic crisis and growing economic inequality, the undoing of decades of struggle for racial equality in America; the resurgence of national strife around the world, the need to address fundamental problems in health care, education, environment and housing, preserving social security and a host of other critical issues.

I urge my colleagues to oppose this insidious attempt to use, or rather misuse, the power of impeachment.

RETIREMENT OF ARKANSAS STATE REPRESENTATIVE JOHN MILLER

HON. MARION BERRY
OF ARKANSAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize one of Arkansas' dedicated citizens, on the event of his retirement. It is my privilege to recognize the accomplishments and achievements of Representative John Miller, as he is retiring from the Arkansas State House of Representatives.

State Representative John Miller has served the people of Izard County and portions of Independence and Sharp Counties in the Arkansas General Assembly for 36 years and is retiring this year. As former speaker of the House, John ranks third in seniority in the 100-member House of Representatives.

Before becoming a member of the Legislature, John served as county and circuit clerk in Izard County, chairman of the state Developmental Disabilities Planning Council, as a member of the Melbourne Lions Club and of the chambers of commerce in Melbourne, Batesville, Calico Rock and Horseshoe Bend. He also served on the boards of directors for the Calico Rock Medical Center, the Arkansas Easter Seals Society, North Arkansas Human Services Systems, Inc., Lions World Services for the Blind, the White River Planning and Development District, and Advocacy Services, Inc.

In the 1st District of Arkansas, we say "he is a good man." When you get to Izard County, the roads get wider, the people are happier, life is better and the future is brighter because of John Miller. He is a credit to public service and humanity and the world is better because he is here. I am proud to call him my friend.

CARLOW COLLEGE'S CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS

HON. WILLIAM J. COYNE
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. COYNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Carlow College for its efforts in making education available to more working adults.

Carlow College, located in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, was founded in September 1929, as a Catholic institution primarily for women. Education is very important in today's rapidly changing society. For the past twenty years, Carlow College has continued to make education accessible throughout the Pittsburgh region with the Carlow Weekend Program, started in 1978, and the Carlow Accelerated Program, which began in 1988. These programs give students the choice of either evening courses in the Accelerated Program or weekend classes in the Weekend Program. Classes are offered during times that are convenient for most working adults, so that they may continue their education without quitting their regular jobs. This enables many working adults to complete a bachelor's degree. Students may also attend courses designed to upgrade their technical and management skills.

These programs today have 1,100 students and 12 majors. Classes are now offered at nine locations, and the College is currently working to take advantage of the Internet by offering courses online.

I want to call national attention to these innovative programs at Carlow College. As Congress works to expand the knowledge and skills of the American work force, it should look at some of the ground-breaking programs that are already underway at institutions like Carlow. Thank you.

TRIBUTE TO VIRGINIA HAYES

HON. LOIS CAPPS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the memory of Virginia Hayes of Oceano, California. Stricken with Parkinson's disease, Virginia never denied the reality of her diagnosis, living her life with courage and facing her death with dignity; and in so doing truly symbolized the silent struggle of every person afflicted with Parkinson's.

There are at least one million Americans living with Parkinson's, a chronic neurological disorder affecting muscle movement. Its relentless progression systematically robs its victims of every aspect of their lives—a process that dramatically impacts the lives of spouses, families and other loved ones.

While it's commonly accepted that Parkinson's disease is not fatal, no one can tell that to the Hayes family. To the end, Virginia's spirit was strong and brave, but after 23 years of fighting, her otherwise healthy body was exhausted and eventually overcome, her struggle to live defeated by the ravages of Parkinson's.

Just a few months before her death, Virginia took part in the production of an advocacy video designed to educate about Parkinson's disease and promote increased research funding. Titled "The Faces of Parkinson's," the video is a dramatic presentation of Parkinson's effect on individuals and their families. With husband Paul at her side, Virginia allowed us an unflinching look at how Parkinson's devours her independence and her life. Through her courage, she has left a legacy which serves to inform and inspire us all, and hopefully will in some way lessen the burden on those who share her struggle.

Undoubtedly, this public contribution is but one small piece of the legacy Virginia has left her family and friends—those who stood by her throughout her battle with Parkinson's, as well as other circumstances of life that challenge and reward us all. While Parkinson's disease took her life, it clearly did not define it. It strengthened it, and in the resolve and wit is found deep inside. Virginia found and nurtured that place inside herself and understood that love is stronger than death.

I am honored to pay tribute to Virginia Hayes, and to offer our sincerest condolences and best wishes to her husband and her entire family.

CLAY HIGH SCHOOL IN OREGON, OHIO TO REDEDICATE THE CLAY MEMORIAL STADIUM

HON. MARCY KAPTUR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to recognize the administration, faculty, staff, students and families of Clay High School in Oregon, Ohio. On October 9, 1998, the Clay High School community will re dedicate the Clay Memorial Stadium.

In December, 1941, the United States entered the greatest conflict in human history. Young people from all walks of life served in our armed forces. Many soldier, sailors, airmen and marines came from the Oregon, Ohio, area and served with honor and distinction as we freed the world of Axis terror and fascism. Some of these young people never returned. They gave their lives for freedom with the hope that our nation and their community would always cherish the gifts that America offers.

It was in this spirit that the Oregon, Ohio, community dedicated the Clay Memorial Stadium, in 1948, to the young men and women who gave their lives in defense of liberty. This year marks the 50th Anniversary of the stadium. The Clay High School family and the Oregon community at large are now embarking on a renovation project to make the stadium the Clay's World War II memorial the focus of the facility. The community also plans to add memorials to those who served in Korea, Vietnam and the Gulf War. The renovated stadium promises to be a renewed memorial to those who have made the supreme sacrifice and a symbol of youth and hope as we enter the 21st Century.

Mr. Speaker, as the Congressional author of legislation to create a national World War II
Memorial it gives me much pride to represent the citizens of Oregon, Ohio in this great House. They and the nation will never forget the sacrifice of the millions of men and women who gave their lives to freedom in the victory over tyranny that defined world history for the 20th century.

Our community extends warm appreciation to the citizens of Oregon, Ohio as they re dedicate the Clay Memorial Stadium.

In Honor of Pat Peacock
Hon. Marion Berry
Of Arkansas
In the House of Representatives
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Pat Peacock, a lady who means a lot to my family and the community she lives in. Ms. Peacock is from Stuttgart, AR, the “Duck and Rice Capital of the World.” It is partly because of Ms. Peacock and her ambassadorial role that Stuttgart and the Grand Prairie are known far and wide as the only place to be, for at least a few days, during duck hunting season. She has worked tirelessly to promote her community and Stuttgart has reaped the rewards of all her hard work.

Ms. Peacock was instilled with a sense of service to others. Her love of the outdoors and appreciation for the need to preserve the precious heritage where she grew up, has defined her lifetime involvement to conservation and wildlife organizations. She has given countless hours to ensure that our children will inherit and appreciate what our generation has sacrificed for others and in the process learned valuable lessons about hard work and dedication to their community.

Pat Peacock for many years owned and operated a small business in Stuttgart called Majestic Inc. She began as a salesperson while in high school. From that time, Ms. Peacock helped build the business into one with a fine reputation throughout the state. The competition from chain department stores in nearby cities and discount stores that hurt Main Street was tough on her small business but Pat worked hard and fine tuned her business successfully.

Pat has turned another page now. She has moved on to new challenges and opportunities. I wish her well and want to express my thanks for what she has done for the community of Stuttgart, Arkansas and Arkansas County.

Recognizing the Work of the Air, Land and Emergency Resource Team
Hon. Sam Johnson
Of Texas
In the House of Representatives
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. SAM JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to the Congress’ attention the work of 17 young men who served the people of Russia from March 3–April 14, 1998, by remodeling an orphanage in Moscow to improve the living conditions. These young men paid their own way and learned the lessons of sacrifice, hard work and commitment to their fellow man. You know the Bible says, “Whatever you did for one of the least of these, you did for me.” These young men should be commended for their willingness to serve others: Daniel Falkenstine, Texas; David Franzen, Wisconsin; Peter Franzen, Wisconsin; Rob Gray, Indiana; Nathan Hoggatt Texas; David Kress, Alabama; John Munse, Ohio; Benjamin Mills, Ohio; John Nix, Michigan; Steve Nix, Michigan; Timothy Petersen, Georgia; Todd Toppell, Louisiana; Joshua Thomas, Oregon; Neil Waters, Texas; Jared Wickam, Illinois; and Amadi Williams, California.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to the attention of this Congress, 56 men who gave of themselves to help the people of Omaha, Nebraska in the wake of the snow disaster which hit this city in the late fall of 1997. These men traveled many miles at their own expense to assist the citizens in removing debris and fallen trees. These men are to be commended for their sacrifice, dedication and commitment to those in need: Jonathan Bendickson, British Columbia; Brian Biddle, Ohio; William Bradford, Arizona; Jacory Brady, Colorado; Jesse Brown, Venezuela; Trevor Cangelosi, Los Angeles; Caleb Casper, Illinois; Daniel Chapman, Michigan; Thomas Chapman, Michigan; James Connelly, California; Stephen Copu, Illinois; Jason Dandurand, Washington; Steve Dankers, Wisconsin; Brent Dehnn, Missouri; Richard Daniel, Texas; Joshua Falkenstein, Texas; Stever Farrand, Colorado; Bret Fogel, Ohio; Ronald Fuhrman, Michigan; Robert Gray, Indiana; David Hansen, Oregon; Ben Hardbuck, Texas; David Hens, Nebraska; Daniel Hiss, Nebraska; Nathan Hoggatt, Texas; Joshua Horvat, Texas; and Garry Howell, Mississippi.

Joshua Irving, Texas; Aaron Jongsma, Ontario; Nathan Jongsma, Ontario; Caleb Kaspar, Oregon; Justin King, Michigan; Jason Kingston, Texas; Robert Matlock III, Mississippi; Caleb Miller, Nebraska; Bill Moore, Texas; Benjamin Moore, Iowa; Marc Moore, Iowa; Nathanael Nazario, Puerto Rico; Robert Nicotaro, Ohio; Aaron Pennington, Nebraska; Nathan Pennington, Nebraska; Jason Raymond, Mississippi; Vladimir Robles, Dominican Republic; Eric Roeseboom, Michigan; Jason Ruggles, Michigan; Jeremy Savage, Washington; Jonathan Schultz, Mississippi; Chad Sikora, Michigan; Daniel Storm, Nebraska; John Tanner, Michigan; Todd Toppell, Louisiana; Neil Waters, Texas; and Steve Wessel, Illinois.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to recognize 15 men who gave their time and talent from January 14–March 7, 1998, to assist the citizens of La Luz, Oaxaca in cleaning up debris and repairing roads washed out in the wake of a hurricane that thrashed this city in the early months of 1998. The Mayor of San Pedro Tututepec, Oaxaca invited these men to assist the citizens in removing debris and fall en trees. These are to be commended for their sacrifice, dedication and commitment to those in need: Jonathan Bendickson, British Columbia; Brian Biddle, Ohio; William Bradford, Arizona; Jacory Brady, Colorado; Jesse Brown, Venezuela; Trevor Cangelosi, Los Angeles; Caleb Casper, Illinois; Daniel Chapman, Michigan; Thomas Chapman, Michigan; James Connelly, California; Stephen Copu, Illinois; Jason Dandurand, Washington; Steve Dankers, Wisconsin; Brent Dehnn, Missouri; Richard Daniel, Texas; Joshua Falkenstein, Texas; Stever Farrand, Colorado; Bret Fogel, Ohio; Ronald Fuhrman, Michigan; Robert Gray, Indiana; David Hansen, Oregon; Ben Hardbuck, Texas; David Hens, Nebraska; Daniel Hiss, Nebraska; Nathan Hoggatt, Texas; Joshua Horvat, Texas; and Garry Howell, Mississippi.

The “Year 2000 Information and Readiness Disclosure Act”

Hon. Henry J. Hyde of Illinois

In the House of Representatives

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. HYDE. Mr. Speaker, the Year 2000 Information and Readiness Disclosure Act (S. 2392) is intended to promote the voluntary sharing of information needed to discover, avoid, or fix problems with year 2000 calculations in our nation’s software, computers, and technology products. In all civil litigation including certain antitrust actions, the Act limits the extent to which year 2000 statements can be the basis for liability and it prevents certain evidentiary uses against the maker. A judge can limit (but not totally abrogate) this protection in order to prevent an abusive or bad-faith use of the disclosure contrary to the purposes of the Act.

Year 2000 statements other than year 2000 readiness disclosures can be brought into evidence to prove the truth of the disclosure and exchange of information about year 2000 statements and readiness disclosures protect all persons who help in any way to make a year 2000 statement or readiness disclosure, so a broad group of individuals and entities are protected.

The Act encourages the use of the Internet to provide notice of all matters relating to year 2000 processing. In addition, the Act protects against disclosure and use in civil actions year 2000 information voluntarily provided to the government under a “special data gathering program” or “year 2000 program,” as the case may be, and a narrower subcategory called “year 2000 readiness disclosures.” Year 2000 statements and readiness disclosures can include any year 2000 related subject matter, but year 2000 readiness disclosures must be in writing, be clearly labeled, and concern one’s own products or services. Certain already-existing year 2000 statements may be designated as year 2000 readiness disclosures and receive the protections applicable to year 2000 readiness disclosures under the Act. The protections given to year 2000 statements and readiness disclosures protect all those who help in any way to make a year 2000 statement or readiness disclosure, so a broad group of individuals and entities are protected.

The Act does not create any duty to provide year 2000 information, unless it results in an actual agreement to boycott, allocate markets, or fix prices. The Act also does not affect existing contracts, tariffs, intellectual property rights or consumer protections applicable to solicitations or offers to sell consumer products.

The Act’s protections are limited. The Act does not change or add any existing causes of action, nor does it create new obligations or duties. The Act does not create any duty to provide notice about a year 2000 processing problem. The intent of this legislation is to promote sharing of year 2000 information. This would frustrate the very purpose of the Act. The Act does not apply to certain consumer transactions; it does not prevent any underlying facts regarding the Act. The Act does not change or expand any existing causes of action, nor does it create new obligations or duties. The Act does not create any duty to provide some notice about a year 2000 processing problem. The intent of this legislation is to promote sharing of year 2000 information. This would frustrate the very purpose of the Act.

The Act does not change or add any existing causes of action, nor does it create new obligations or duties. The Act does not create any duty to provide notice about a year 2000 processing problem. The intent of this legislation is to promote sharing of year 2000 information. This would frustrate the very purpose of the Act. The Act does not apply to certain consumer transactions; it does not prevent any underlying facts regarding the Act. The Act does not change or expand any existing causes of action, nor does it create new obligations or duties. The Act does not create any duty to provide notice about a year 2000 processing problem. The intent of this legislation is to promote sharing of year 2000 information. This would frustrate the very purpose of the Act.
The term "consumer product" means any personal property or service that is normally used for personal, family, or household purposes.

The term "covered action"—used to define the types of litigation subject to the Act—is intentionally broad. It means a civil action of any kind arising under Federal or State law, or proceeding before a Federal or other government entity, agency, or authority acting in its regulatory, supervisory, or enforcement capacity. In other words, "covered action" means any proceeding or enforcement action, including civil actions seeking damages, injunctive relief, or other relief, against any person or entity, or of products or services within the meaning of this definition.

The term "year 2000 statement" means any written statement that the maker has made or caused to be published or disseminated with intent to induce a person or entity to act on the statement's contents concerning the nature and scope of year 2000 processing problems. The term includes any oral or written representation by a person or entity that the products or services contain or will contain year 2000 processing capabilities, concerning plans to verify year 2000 processing capabilities, concerning testing of year 2000 processing by products, or services utilizing products, or relating to year 2000 processing. A year 2000 statement may contain a very broad array of information potentially useful to anyone seeking to detect, correct, or deal with year 2000 processing problems. Year 2000 statements may be in any format, oral or written, and address year 2000 processing or readiness in any way.

The term "maker" means each person or entity with respect to year 2000 processing problems by sharing and widely disseminating year 2000 information in as timely and cost-effective manner as possible. The term "year 2000 processing" means processing, transmitting, or receiving of data from, into, and between the 20th and 21st centuries, and leap year calculations. The "year 2000 problem" or "millennium bug" refers to a defect, error, or other problem in the formulation of the year 2000 statement should receive the same protection given to the entity that actually issues or publishes the statement.

The term "Internet website" means an Internet website or other similar electronically accessible service, clearly designated as an area where year 2000 statements are posted or otherwise made accessible to the public. Elsewhere, the Act specifically recognizes use of the Internet and similar means of communication for purposes of this Act. This is intended to encourage companies, government, and the public to use all current technologies such as the Internet to address year 2000 processing problems by sharing and widely disseminating year 2000 information in as timely and cost-effective manner as possible.

The term "year 2000 readiness" means any written year 2000 statement (a term defined elsewhere) clearly identified on its face as a year 2000 readiness disclosure, inscribed in a tangible medium or stored and retrievable in perceivable form, and published or with the approval of a person or entity with respect to year 2000 processing of that person or entity or of products or services within the meaning of this definition. A year 2000 readiness disclosure is a narrower, more highly protected subset of year 2000 statements. Year 2000 readiness disclosures can include the same year 2000-related subject matter as year 2000 statements. The difference is that year 2000 readiness disclosures must be (a) clearly identified as such, (b) in writing, and (c) about the maker’s own products or services.

The term "year 2000 remediation product or service" means a program or service designed or used to correct year 2000 processing problems in the product or service of a different person or entity. A year 2000 remediation product or service is designed or used to detect or correct year 2000 processing problems in its provider’s own products or services. Under this definition, the producer of a software program does not provide a year 2000 remediation product or service if it attempts to fix the product or service it produced in court. If it sells a product that essentially replaces an existing product or service (regardless of who made it), it is assumed to be providing a year 2000 service. In contrast, a person or entity that sells products or services for the purpose of detecting or correcting year 2000 processing problems in other products (including programming in microchips, software, and "firmware"), does offer year 2000 remediation products or services within the meaning of this definition.

The term "year 2000 statement" means any communication or other conveyance of information, representing capabili-Subsections 4c and 4d address the treatment of year 2000 statements alleged to be untrue in litigation. A statement is not deemed adequate if made on an Internet website, notice provided on that website can be demonstrated to be of no use for this purpose where the website contains clearly identified links to websites maintained by the original source. Subsection 4e addresses liability for defamation or similar claims. In a defamation, trade disparagement, or similar action based on an allegedly false, inaccurate, or misleading year 2000 statement, the defendant shall not be liable unless and until clear and convincing evidence shows that the maker of the year 2000 statement knew it was false or was reckless as to whether it was true or false.

In cases under subsection 4f, the use of the Internet to provide notice shall be deemed adequate notice in any litigation in which the year 2000 statement is at issue. This subsection does not affect other law, require notice regarding year 2000 processing, preclude or suggest types of notice, or mandate the content or timing of such notice.

The exceptions specified in this subsection include: (a) cases where use of website notice would be contrary to express prior representations regarding the mechanism of notice that were made by the party giving notice; (b) cases where reliance on website notice is not commercially reasonable or the source of the notice is unclear; (c) cases where reliance on website notice is contrary to prior representations regarding notice or a regular course of dealings between the parties, where actual notice is clearly not the most commercially reasonable means of providing notice.

This subsection exceptions circumstances where the cost of providing actual notice is not outweighed by the potential benefit of the notice. The standard here is modeled on the public figure defamation standard established by the Supreme Court in Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 (1964).

Subsection 4f is premised on existing government power to request voluntary submission of detailed company-specific information in order to ascertain the year 2000 readiness of an industry or economic sector. The government may request that the information be submitted to a non-governmental entity that agrees to coordinate such data gathering, including providing analyses of that data. The subsection protects any and all information provided to the government or such third party voluntarily acting at the government’s request from use by any entity or individual without the consent of the provider.

The immunity is accomplished in three ways: (a) All information provided pursuant to this process is deemed exempt from disclosure under FOIA. (b) Neither the government nor any third party may disclose such data without the permission of the providing party. (c) Neither the government nor any third party may use the information without the consent of the provider, either directly or indirectly, in any civil litigation.

However, to ensure that this protection is not misused, the subsection provides that information can be used by anyone for any purpose if it has been voluntarily made public or if it is obtained by independent legal means. The subsection also clarifies that the intent of Congress is not to limit the ability of a Federal or State entity, or any other party, to use such data as evidence in any legal proceeding.
agency, or authority to act in an enforcement capacity with respect to any Federal or State statute or regulation governing the disclosure or non-disclosure of information.

Subsection 6(c). Duty or Standard of Care.
The Act does not impose any more stringent standard of care on the maker of a year 2000 statement. The Act does not preclude any disclosure or nondisclosure of a year 2000 statement or disclosure. The Act does not alter the standard or duty of care owed by a fiduciary.

An essential purpose of the Act is to reduce liability concerns about release of year 2000 processing information. Consistent with that purpose, Subsection 6(c)(1) provides that the Act is intended to require that the maker provides notice to the prospective buyer's ability to use the remediators' statements in court. This provision does not relieve the designer or manufacturer of any existing liability or duty with respect to the states. The Act does not relieve the designer or manufacturer of any existing liability or duty with respect to the states. The Act does not relexhibit the provisions of this Act, the contract or agreement will control. Conversely, nothing in the Act affects the enforceability of provisions which the limit the liability of contracting parties. Moreover, Congress does not intend that paragraphs 6(b)(1), (2), and (3) provide for the protection against the liability of parties who are contractually sound in tort.

One example of the use of this provision where a contract provided a one party with the explicit contractual right to recover party an accurate year 2000 statement or a year 2000 statement which is the product of the exercise of "reasonable efforts" by the other party. In that situation, subsection 4(b)—which provides for a different standard of performance—would not apply. Similarly, where a contract provides for delivery of notice by means other than mail, this Act would not apply notice delivered via an Internet website as adequate. In addition, the eviden-torial exclusion of subsection 4(a) would not apply in a situation where a party who promises a year 2000 readiness disclosure pursuant to a contractual obligation to provide year 2000 readiness information.

Subsection 6(b)(1) reiterates that a basic premise of this Act is to leave any contractual relationships (public or private), and any rights under those relationships, unaffected. Where the terms or effect of a contract are in conflict with the provisions of this Act, the contract or agreement will control. Conversely, nothing in the Act affects the enforceability of provisions which the limit the liability of contracting parties. Moreover, Congress does not intend that paragraphs 6(b)(1), (2), and (3) provide for the protection against the liability of parties who are contractually sound in tort.

One example of the use of this provision where a contract provided a one party with the explicit contractual right to recover party an accurate year 2000 statement or a year 2000 statement which is the product of the exercise of "reasonable efforts" by the other party. In that situation, subsection 4(b)—which provides for a different standard of performance—would not apply. Similarly, where a contract provides for delivery of notice by means other than mail, this Act would not apply notice delivered via an Internet website as adequate. In addition, the eviden-torial exclusion of subsection 4(a) would not apply in a situation where a party who promises a year 2000 readiness disclosure pursuant to a contractual obligation to provide year 2000 readiness information.

Subsection 6(b)(2)(A) provide that the Act
do not apply in actions by consumers
agains persons or entities that make year
2000 statements directly to them in solicitations or advertisements (including in print, radio, television, or by digital computer), or sell consumer products—in other words, activities that are entirely ancillary to resquests for purchases.

Subsection 6(b)(2)(B) provides that sellers, manufacturers, or providers of year 2000 re-medication products or services, in soliciting remediation business or offering to furnish their remediation product or service, must provide additional notice to obtain the benefits of the Act. Notice is specified in the Act and is intended primarily to be directed to sophisticated clients of such remediators that,
in any litigation, this Act may affect the process or ability to use the remediators' statements. The Act does not require or imply that every written or oral statement be accompanied by the specified notice. Rather, it is intended to require that once, during the solicitation or offering of service, the remediation provider must provide the specified notice to the prospective purchaser or client, consistent with the procedures set out in Subsection 4(d).

Subsection 6(b)(3) provides that the Act do not preclude a claim to the extent it is not based on a year 2000 statement. For example, the Act does not preclude claims both for negligent misrepresentation based on the alleged inaccuracy of a year 2000 statement and for product defect (based on a year 2000 statement or disclosure). The cause of action would likely be precluded by the Act, but the second would not.

Subsection 6(c). Duty or Standard of Care.
The Act does not impose any more stringent standard of care on the maker of a year 2000 statement. The Act does not preclude any disclosure or nondisclosure of a year 2000 statement or disclosure. The Act does not alter the standard or duty of care owed by a fiduciary.

An essential purpose of the Act is to reduce liability concerns about release of year 2000 processing information. Consistent with that purpose, Subsection 6(c)(1) provides that the Act is intended to require that the maker provides notice to the prospective buyer's ability to use the remediators' statements in court. This provision does not relieve the designer or manufacturer of any existing liability or duty with respect to the states. The Act does not relieve the designer or manufacturer of any existing liability or duty with respect to the states. The Act does not relexhibit the provisions of this Act, the contract or agreement will control. Conversely, nothing in the Act affects the enforceability of provisions which the limit the liability of contracting parties. Moreover, Congress does not intend that against the liability of parties who are contractually sound in tort.

torial exclusion of subsection 4(a) would not apply in a situation where a party who promises a year 2000 readiness disclosure pursuant to a contractual obligation to provide year 2000 readiness information.

Subsection 6(b)(2)(A) provide that the Act
do not apply in actions by consumers
agains persons or entities that make year
2000 statements directly to them in solicitations or advertisements (including in print, radio, television, or by digital computer), or sell consumer products—in other words, activities that are entirely ancillary to resquests for purchases.

Subsection 6(b)(2)(B) provides that sellers,
manufacturers, or providers of year 2000 re-medication products or services, in soliciting remediation business or offering to furnish their remediation product or service, must provide additional notice to obtain the benefits of the Act. Notice is specified in the Act and is intended primarily to be directed to sophisticated clients of such remediators that,
in any litigation, this Act may affect the cedures set out in Subsection 4(d).

Subsection 6(b)(3) provides that the Act do not preclude a claim to the extent it is not based on a year 2000 statement. For example, the Act does not preclude claims both for negligent misrepresentation
based on the alleged inaccuracy of a year 2000
statement and for product defect (based on a year 2000 statement or disclosure). The cause of action would likely be precluded by
the Act, but the second would not.
In simple fairness to the taxpayers of the nation as a whole, continued subsidization of the current commonwealth relationship will require Congress to consider issues of fiscal equity and responsibility for Puerto Rico. Ultimately, subsidization must end one way or the other, and phasing in Federal taxes should lead to a tax rate that fairly delivers the interests of Puerto Rico as full integration into the national economic and fiscal system are achieved and currently very high local taxes are reduced.

For now, the purpose of this measure is simply to ensure that Congress will be prepared to address these issues in an informed manner. We need to begin planning now rather than waiting until the urgent need for a plan arises. This provision will require the Secretary of Treasury to provide Congress with a recommended course of action in the event that introduction of Federal taxes not currently collected by the IRS is determined by Congress to be in the best interests of Puerto Rico and the nation as a whole.

HONORING THE DISTINGUISHED CAREER OF JAMES “BOOTS” DONELLY

HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to offer congratulations to several fine young men and women from my district who have distinguished themselves in the Fayette County 4-H. As my colleagues know, 4-H is one of the finest youth-oriented organizations in our nation, developing character in our future leaders.

Fayette County 4-H will be recognizing with special awards the following young people on Saturday night, October 9, and I know my colleagues join me in congratulating them and wishing them the best for the future.

Receiving the Silver Star award are Bradley Kiesiel and Billie Jo Murphy.

Receiving the “I Dare You” award are Heath Woelfel and Shayne Markwardt.

Receiving the “Outstanding Jr.” award are Jennifer Kiesiel, Melanie Cernoch and Kelly Orskal.

And receiving the “Outstanding Sub Jr.” award are Adam Mayer, Jordie Kristynick, and Brandon Otto.

A TRIBUTE TO LUCAS COUNTY MENTAL HEALTH BOARD

HON. MARCY KAPTUR
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Lucas County Mental Health Board in Northwest Ohio. The year 1998 marks the 30th anniversary of the Lucas County Mental Health Board, and the agency is celebrating a commemorative event on September 9, 1998 to recognize the achievement.

The Lucas County Mental Health Board ably and effectively has served thousands of our most vulnerable citizens through three decades which have seen monumental change and a complete overhaul in the treatment of mental basis. Through it all, the Lucas County Mental Health Board has adapted, growing to meet the changing needs of its clients and their families. The agency administers sites throughout the county which handle the unique needs of children with mental illness, people with milder forms of illness, those who are most severely disabled, families, and people needing short term help to get them through the rough spots of their lives. Always, the people of the Lucas County Mental Health Board strive to provide these services remembering the dignity of those they counsel, providing both caring treatment and advocacy.

I am pleased to take this opportunity to salute the men and women, past and present, of the Lucas County Mental Health Board whose careers have been dedicated to lifting the stigma and the suffering of mental illness from so many. Their efforts and their victories large and small are commendable, and are truly making our community a better place for the men and women, past and present, of the Lucas County Mental Health Board.

Thank you for the contributions you have made to your players, fans and the MTSU community.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. GORDON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate James “Boots” Donnelly on a successful career as head coach of the Middle Tennessee State University football team.

Boots’ 22-year career record as a collegiate head coach stands at 151–92–1. He recently announced he will be stepping down at the end of the 1998 season, after a 20 year career as head football coach at MTSU, his alma mater.

Boots’ record and awards are impressive: the eighth winningest coach in Division I-AA history, 1997 Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame inductee, recorded 12 straight winning seasons between 1981 and 1992, four Ohio Valley Conference championships, 10 national top 25 finishes and five Coach of the Year awards. Fourteen of Boots’ players have gone on to play in the National Football League.

MTSU has Boots to thank for the opportunity to begin Division I-AA play in 1999.

The hallmark of Boots’ success has been his interaction with his players. When recruiting players, he not only assessed their athletic ability, but also their character, integrity and intelligence. Once a recruit joined the Blue Raiders, Boots taught him the importance of team spirit and discipline, traits that would remain with the player throughout his life. He has always had the respect and admiration of his players and assistant coaches.

Boots is a keen judge of character. He knows to stay away from people with “big hats and no cattle” and those who can “find a bone in ice cream.”

His teams were always well-prepared and disciplined. When game time came, they “stepped up to the licking block, stayed in the buggy when the horse rared up and never spit on the bit.”

Although Boots always desired to win, and usually did, he took loses with his usual good humor. He understood that “sometimes you get the chicken, and sometimes you get the feathers.”

Again, Boots, congratulations on 22 years as a winning collegiate head football coach. Thank you for the contributions you have made to your players, fans and the MTSU community.

REMEMBERING THE DISTINGUISHED CAREER OF GREGORY A. STRATTON

HON. ELTON GALLEGY
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. GALLEGY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to Greg Stratton, the man who was elected to the Simi Valley City Council in the same election as I, and who succeeded me as Mayor of the city in 1990.

Greg was vital in preserving the community’s hillsides and controlling residential development through the City’s Hillside Performance Standards and City Council-initiated Growth Control Ordinance. Those balanced measures still allowed for residential and business growth in an orderly fashion.

Greg also deserves credit for the construction of several new city facilities, including the City Hall in 1984, the Senior Citizens Center at about the same time, and a Transit Maintenance Facility for the city’s bus fleet in 1988/90. A new, 53,000-square-foot police facility opened adjacent to City Hall this month.

Greg was also instrumental in bringing other government services to Simi Valley and centrally locating them at the Civic Center. Among them are construction of a state Department of Motor Vehicles office in 1989 and construction of a County courthouse in 1990.

Also under his direction, the City’s Sanitation Treatment Plant was expanded and was recognized by the State of California as “Plant of the Year.”

Being Mayor, however, does not mean just providing government facilities. A brand new facility for the Boys & Girls Club opened in 1996 under his guidance. The Community Board strive to provide these services remembering the dignity of those they counsel, providing both caring treatment and advocacy.
Methodist Church was restored and transformed in a 300-seat Cultural Arts Center in 1985. Amtrak passenger rail and Metrolink commuter services came to Simi Valley under his reign.

New businesses have come in, providing a needed equilibrium in the community. Potholes have seen a huge closing. Gang activity has decreased. Greg exhibited true leadership when a trial was thrust upon the community that threatened to unfairly soil its name and again when the Northridge earthquake devastated much of the city. It is a leadership that will be sorely missed.

However, Greg's legacy will live on. In 1995, he launched the Vision 2020 Project, a strategic planning process designed to lead the city's evolution well into the next millennium. It was launched as a community project, ensuring its endurance even as Greg moves on.

Mr. Speaker, Greg is retiring from public office, but I have no doubt he and his lovely wife, Ede, will continue to make their presence known in all aspects of the Simi Valley community. I know my colleagues will join me in wishing him godspeed in any endeavors he wishes to tackle.

SANTA BARBARA COMES TO WASHINGTON: THE CAPITAL CONFERENCE

HON. LOIS CAPPS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, on September 16, I was proud to welcome 35 community leaders from my home town of Santa Barbara, California to Washington for a Capital Conference. It was an honor to host a distinguished group of educators, business leaders, community activists, and elected officials for a series of discussions with leading Federal policy makers.

The Capital Conference focused on some of the most important issues facing Santa Barbara and our nation, including technology, education, business, and the media. We talked with William Kennard, the Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission about the e-rate, cable rates, and telecommunications issues. We had very fruitful dialogues with Minority Leader RICHARD GEPHARDT and Secretary Richard Riley about education. Monterey Congressman SAM FARR and noted political commentator Eleanor Clift spoke at lunch. At the White House, we discussed a range of issues with several senior aides, including Press Secretary Mike McCurry.

Throughout the day, my neighbors from Santa Barbara had the opportunity to learn first-hand about efforts underway in Washington to deal with critical policy issues. But even more important was the chance for my colleagues in government to hear directly from the grassroots about how Federal initiatives are working or not working.

The day concluded with a reception at the Library of Congress and a lecture by Santa Barbara's own noted poet and philosopher Noah benShea. I was pleased to co-host the evening's events with the Santa Barbara News-Press, the Santa Barbara County Board of Education, and the McCune Foundation. Noah's talk, entitled "Creating a Caring Society," was enlightening and enjoyable, and I would like to commend some selected passages to my colleagues.

EXCERPTS FROM "CREATING A CARING SOCIETY"
(By Noah benShea)

I am generally of the opinion that most of us don't lack for insight but the character to act on what we know. Character is insight's chariot.

Greatness is not always what you reach but what you reach for. In the Bible it is written that "justice, justice, shall you pursue." It is the pursuit of justice that is noble. It is the pursuit of the other traits that are caring . . . justice and caring are targets that we are no less for not reaching but much less for not chasing.

To be indifferent to the fate of others is to live outside the passions of love and hate. A society that is indifferent is uncaring. A society that is indifferent is, by definition, neither passionate nor compassionate.

Now is a time for forward looking people to stop and look backward. Look at those who look beyond themselves. Listen to those who hear higher voices . . . People with power are required to care about those without power. And how people with power treat those without power is the defining profile of a society.

Caring is not a political issue except as our politics fails to make caring an issue. Caring is not a matter of left and right but looking out for those who are on both our left and right. Caring is not a matter of left and right but who is left out and who is right.

BUD MANSFIELD TESTIMONIAL

HON. BART STUPAK
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, it is often clear in retrospect that an individual's lifetime of varied jobs and experiences were but preparation for a task that would allow him utilize all the skills and wisdom he had accumulated. There is such a man in my Congressional District, and as Bud Mansfield retires from his post as Executive Director of the Sault Area Chamber of Commerce, I'd like to take this opportunity to reflect on his fine career.

What qualities might we seek in a chamber director? We would look for someone with genuine business experience, someone who has deep roots in the area and involvement in the community, and someone who knows both the upside and downside of business ventures. We would look for someone with the salesperson's skills to sell the community to a developer and sell a developer to the community, and someone with such a work ethic that, as his last day of employment approaches, says that he doesn't plan to really retire, ever.

It's quite clear, Mr. Speaker, that I have been describing Francis "Bud" Mansfield, who has devoted his life to work and to volunteer efforts in the Sault Ste. Marie area on the eastern end of Michigan's Upper peninsula.

Bud earned his stripes in the world of business early, delivering messages for Western Union on his bicycle at the age of 12, as area residents were reminded in a recent article in the Sault Evening News. He earned his stripes, literally, in the Michigan National Guard. He worked in the men's department of a local department store, started his own cleaning business, joined the sales force of a local General Motors vehicle dealership, and eventually acquired that dealership. Bud, however, soon became one of the economic victims of the closing of Kincheloe Air Force, one of the base closings that has affected my district and an event that later presented Bud Mansfield, the chamber director, with special challenges.

Let me take a moment to state, for the record, several of almost 50 organizations which Bud Mansfield has helped shape, guide or support in his role as chamber director. A program like Habitat for Humanity would be familiar to you, Mr. Speaker, but there are other programs, such as Arttrain and Rails to Trails, that are special Michigan success stories.

Sault St. Marie has a unique location. It is an important border crossing into Canada and it is the site of the Soo Locks, which link Lake Superior with Lake Huron. These geographical features ensured that Bud would have a role to play with the Joint International Committee, the Joint International Coordinating Committee for Joint Relations, and with a Soo Locks operations committee.

Bud also served on the board of local Catholic schools, and as he said in his recent Evening News interview, he weathered the closing of that school system in the late 1970s with great sorrow. He later served on the board of the Sault Area Public Schools.

It's clear that Bud won't stop moving, working and traveling after he leaves the chamber. He and his wife Mary have eight children, all of whom, according to Evening News, have moved back to Michigan. In the interview with Bud, he also stated he has considered doing some writing.

So maybe, Mr. Speaker, a life of varied jobs wasn't just shaping Bud for his chamber work. Maybe the real adventure for this 71-year-old lies just around the corner. I ask my colleagues to join me in wishing the best for Bud Mansfield, a dedicated community servant.

HONORING MONROE TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL

HON. MICHAEL PAPPAS OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. PAPPAS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Monroe Township High School, who will host the Twelfth Congressional District's "hi-tech" fair on October 19, 1998. More than 20 companies, agencies and universities will exhibit their latest technology to high school students from across the district. Among those attending is Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory, who will demonstrate their medical "arm wrestling" machine; the FBI, who will demonstrate a new DNA profiling program; and Rutgers University, who will display their computer-based visualization of feed digestion called the "electric cow." Other attendees include U.S. Army CECOM, the Samoff Corporation, NASA, the University of Medicine and Dentistry, Lucent Technologies, Lockheed Martin and MIT.

In the last decade, New Jersey has become home to many technological companies. With the increase in computer usage, our children have become more technologically advanced than their parents and many other adults. The “hi-technology” fair is a unique opportunity which will greatly benefit not only the students who attend it, but the companies and universities that participate. By creating an early interest in technology, we can encourage our young people toward scientific and technological fields for future careers and ensure that our state remains a leader in these areas.

I salute Monroe Township High School for hosting this event and for recognizing the importance of a strong technology curriculum. It is my honor to have this great high school within the borders of the twelfth congressional district.

GLOBAL WARMING TREATY

HON. KEN CALVERT
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, yesterday I submitted a portion of a study performed by the Business Roundtable which details the devastating effects and consequences that could occur if the United States ratified the global warming treaty negotiated in Kyoto last December. Today I am submitting the introduction of a similar study performed by the CONSAD Research Corporation, one of the foremost economic research organizations. I would urge all my colleagues to consider this analysis as the debate surrounding the Protocol continues.

Finally, I would encourage all Members to review a report the Department of Energy’s own Energy Information Administration released today. The report is just one more warning of the possible disastrous consequences of ratifying the Protocol. The report can be found on the Internet at www.eia.gov.

THE KYOTO PROTOCOL: A FLAWED TREATY

INTRODUCTION

CONSAD Research Corporation, one of the Nation’s leading economic forecasting firms, conducted a May 1997 economic analysis of the proposed Kyoto Protocol. Their analysis parallels findings by other leading economic organizations which detail the negative impact this treaty will have on employment, economic output, and standard of living for working families, senior citizens, and those who live on fixed or low-incomes. The study provides a 50 state breakdown of job losses and economic dislocation due to policies enacted to implement the Kyoto Protocol.

CONSAD Research’s key findings are that, implementation of the Kyoto Protocol will mean:

- Consumers and businesses will be forced to pay higher energy costs, the resulting increase in energy costs will also drive up prices on all consumer goods;
- Approximately 31 million fewer American workers will be working in the year 2020 as a direct result of this treaty (assuming high permit fee range); U.S. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) in the year 2020 will decline by the least $72 billion and perhaps by as much as $338 billion;
- Key strategic industries (aluminum, pulp and paper, chemical, and others) will experience persistent employment losses as well as losing market share for these products in international markets;

Every region of the U.S. will experience increased unemployment due to the treaty, with the greatest losses occurring in California, Arizona, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas;

The highest job losses will be in high-skilled, high-wage employment sectors, with many U.S. workers being forced to take employment in lower-paying jobs in service-related industries rather than facing prolonged periods of unemployment; and

The U.S. standard of living will decrease as working families are forced to reduce consumption of goods and services in every major category—including food, energy, and health care.

POW/MIA RECOGNITION DAY IN LOUISIANA

HON. JOHN COOKSEY OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. COOKSEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the proclamation of Governor Mike Foster declaring September 18 as “POW/MIA Recognition Day” in Louisiana.

I served in the Air Force during the Vietnam War and I know very well that far too many of our brave soldiers did not return from this war. We owe those who have served and those who gave the ultimate sacrifice an unyielding debt. While this debt is impossible to repay, we can begin by giving all the families the peace of mind that has been missing along with their loved ones and provide them the fullest possible accounting for those still missing.

Mr. Speaker, I submit the text of the proclamation for printing in the RECORD.

STATE OF LOUISIANA PROCLAMATION

Whereas, 2,066 Americans are still missing and unaccounted for from the Vietnam War, including 26 from the state of Louisiana, and their families, friends and fellow veterans still endure uncertainty concerning their fate; and

Whereas, U.S. Government intelligence and other evidence confirm that Vietnam could still account for hundreds of missing Americans, including many of the 446 still missing in Laos and the 75 still unaccounted for in Cambodia, by locating and returning identifiable remains and providing archival records to answer other discrepancies; and

Whereas, the President has normalized relations with Vietnam, believing such action would generate increased unilateral accounting for Americans still missing from the Vietnam War, and such increased results have yet been provided by the government of Vietnam; and

Whereas, the state of Louisiana calls on the President to reinvigorate U.S. efforts to press Vietnam for unilateral actions to locate and return to our nation remains that would account for hundreds of America’s POW/MIA’s and records to help obtain answers on many more.

Now, therefore, I, M.J. “Mike” Foster, J.R., Governor of the state of Louisiana, do hereby, by proclamation September 18, 1998, as “POW/MIA Recognition Day” in the state of Louisiana, in honor of all American POW/MIA’s, in particular the 26 from Louisiana, and encourage all citizens to observe this day with appropriate ceremonies.
Chief Administrator of Alma High School, in Alma, Michigan, Richard has promoted and maintained a solid system of education for eight-hundred students and eighty faculty over the past six years. Prior to his position at Alma High School, Mr. Chambers fulfilled several roles as principal, and business associate for many great institutions throughout Michigan. Certainly, his participation with groups such as the local rotary club, the Michigan Department of Education Review Committee, the North Central Association evaluation team, and the National Association of Secondary School Principals, demonstrate the strong and influential leader Mr. Chambers is within his community. With a successful career beginning in 1964—when he started as a high school teacher and interim principal—Richard has enriched the lives of thousands of students.

Based in a small town of roughly ten-thousand citizens, Alma High School has been selected a Class B, Michigan Exemplary School. Of the eight-hundred students who attend classes at Alma High School, 75 percent are expected to continue their education at some level of a post-secondary institution. This multitude of success is a direct result of Dick's interaction with his students and faculty. Today's society invests incredible merit in school to work and the broad curriculum offered at Alma High produces great incentive for post-secondary education.

Much of the success of today's public school system depends on strong leadership from both teachers and the administration. The honor of “Principal of the Year” establishes a sense of security for the community to know such a special person is leading their school. This is the type of leader every school district needs. Alma High School is blessed to have the strength of Richard Chambers as their Principal. I know the parents, students and faculty associated with Alma High School, join me in recognizing Mr. Richard Chambers for his outstanding accomplishment.

THE BAHÁ’ÍS IN IRAN

HON. JOSEPH R. PITTS
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, I am deeply concerned about recent reports that the government of Iran has executed a member of the Bahá’í faith, and imprisoned and condemned others to death solely because of their religious beliefs. In addition, reports suggest that Iranian officials arrested 32 Bahá’í teachers in a crackdown against those who refuse the Bahá’ís’ beliefs.

The recent execution of Mr. Ruhollah Rowhani for proselytism is the first execution of a Bahá’í in six years and, unfortunately, it was accompanied by the death sentence of other Bahá’ís. Just last week, two of these sentences had their death sentence confirmed. Mr. Sina Zabihi-Mohagham and Mr. Hedayat Kashifi Najafabadi were arrested in the fall of 1997 for holding meetings for religious “family life.” Reports reveal that after no legal representation at secret trials at the beginning of 1998, the two men were sentenced to death. Unfortunately, there are other Bahá’ís in similar situations.

Mr. Speaker, the government of Iran must be held accountable for violating the fundamental human right of religious liberty for the Bahá’ís and other religious minority believers in Iran. If the leadership of Iran desires to play a role in the international community, they must uphold religious liberty and all fundamental human rights for all people.

I, along with other Members of Congress, Senators and the American people will be watching closely to see whether or not the Iranian government protects the rights of its people, or continues to blatantly violate international human rights norms.

IN MEMORY OF THE HONORABLE FRANK PIOMBO

HON. ANNA G. ESHOO
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today before the House to celebrate the life of a most distinguished citizen and incomparable friend. Frank Piombo, a retired Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo, who passed away peacefully at his home in Redwood City, California, on September 21, 1998. A Memorial Mass was held at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church in Judge Piombo’s parish on September 25th.

Born and reared in San Francisco, Frank Piombo was a resident of Redwood City for 51 years, making the Bay Area his lifelong home. For this decision we, the residents of San Mateo County, are very grateful because we greatly admire the contributions he made both to our community and our country.

To his country, Frank gave years of dedicated and courageous service. During World War II, he served in the 100th U.S. Infantry, earning a Bronze Star and a Purple Heart. After the War, he continued to serve in the Army Reserves, achieving the rank of Colonel.

A distinguished graduate of the California educational system, Judge Piombo did undergraduate work at Stanford and the University of California at Berkeley, graduating from U.C.'s Hastings College of the Law in 1949. For graduate work at Stanford and the University of California at Berkeley, graduating from U.C.'s Hastings College of the Law in 1949.

To his community, Frank devoted himself to a career in public service. He was a Deputy District Attorney for San Mateo County, as well as City Attorney for the City of Millbrae. In 1971, he was appointed a Municipal Court Judge, and later that year Governor Ronald Reagan elevated Frank Piombo to the Superior Court.

His devotion to the community extended beyond his judicial duties. He was active in the Elks, the Eagles, and the Sons of Italy. He was known for contriving some of the best practical jokes of the area, and these stories are now legendary. His love of card games was a well-established fact, and he was known to show up at a moment's notice for a game.

Nothing in the world meant more to Frank Piombo than his family. He was married for 47 years to the love of his life, Lydia, and they were blessed with five children: Lee, Robert, Nancy, Susan and Jan, as well as ten magnificently dedicated grandchild.

Mr. Speaker, Frank Piombo's life was a beautiful combination of deep pride in his Italian-American heritage, a patriotism rooted in the Constitution and the law, his great faith which gave him guidance and unswerving belief in the beatitudes, and love of the family which was unparalleled. His gift to me was our friendship and I shall treasure this all my life. I ask that the entire House honor this good and faithful citizen because of how he lived and who he was. Frank Piombo was the best of America.

A 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY TRIBUTE TO IRENE AND AL DALPIAZ

HON. JERRY LEWIS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, my colleague Mr. NEY and I would like to bring to your attention today the 50th wedding anniversary of our dear friends, Irene and Al Dalpiaz of Dover, Ohio. Al and Irene will mark the occasion during a special celebration with their children and grand-children next weekend in Medeira Beach, Florida.

Irene Sikora and Albert Dalpiaz were married on February 12, 1948 at St. Mary's Church in Youngstown, Ohio. At their wedding, they were introduced to dance. Unfortunately, the wedding photographer forgot about their wedding and only showed up at the end of their ceremony. Ironically, Al and Irene knew they shared a special bond. Irene was one of eight daughters and, in the early days of their courtship, usually had a difficult time getting rid of her sisters when Al would come calling. From the beginning, they were a devoted couple. Unfortunately, the wedding photographer forgot about their wedding and only showed up at the end of their ceremony. Ironically, Al and Irene spent their honeymoon in Washington D.C.

Al and Irene's first son, Larry, was born in 1954. Seven years later, the family moved to Dover, Ohio and their favorite (and only) daughter, Elaine, was born. Kevin was born four years later. Al was the co-owner of Tusco Service where he was a genius installing and repairing air conditioning and refrigeration units. In those days, especially, that was a bonus; their home was the first on the street to have central air conditioning. Al left Tusco in the 1970's and worked at Cummins Diesel until his retirement in the late 1980's. After a stint of being a full-time mom, Irene returned to work as a secretary at Dover Public Schools in the late 1970's.

The Dalpiaz family was, and remains, a very tight-knit family. Family summer vacations to the Smokey Mountains, Daytona Beach and Myrtle Beach were very common. Like most Italian families, “la familia Dalpiaz” was tremendously dedicated to those things in their life that meant the most to them—spending time with grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins as well as their commitment to work, school, the needy, and the Catholic Church.

That commitment is extraordinary and today as it relates to their grandchildren, Anthony and Gabriel. For many years, Al and Irene have also looked out for those less fortunate and to this day provide the most needy in Tuscarawas County with food and clothing. In short, they have made a special commitment to showing their family and those around them with love.

While Al and Irene are officially retired, one would not know it from watching them. Like many people half their age, these two are always on the go. In recent years, they have traveled to Hawaii, England, Scotland, Florida, and their favorite destination, Las Vegas. In all of our days, we have rarely seen a Catholic woman like Irene with such a serious affliction for gambling on the nickel slot machines! Al tells me the reason he and Irene enjoy their travel so much is because they are casually spending their kids' inheritance. Al, himself, has a tremendous reputation and has made local headlines for his marvelous garden where he produces garlic, parsley, lettuce, beans, and enough tomatoes to feed the entire state. In fact, Al has shared seeds with us both and his reputation continues to grow. He also enjoys spending time at the local Elks Lodge and VFW Hall in Dover.

Mr. Speaker, we ask that you join us and our colleagues in recognizing the 50th anniversary of these two very special people. Al and Irene Dalpiaz are among the kindest people we know and it is only fitting that the House of Representatives pay tribute to them today.

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST TO IMPEACH WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF HON. MAJOR R. OWENS OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mr. OWENS. Mr. Speaker, on the occasion of the historic vote to launch an impeachment inquiry I have joined with the overwhelming majority of Democrats to vote for an alternative compromise. This action has allowed us to avoid destructive fragmentation and continue our united leadership of the majority of Americans. At the end of this statement I will attach my original position on this matter which remains as my present position. We are dealing with sins, not high crimes and misdemeanors. Government should not invade the jurisdiction of religion and the clergy.

Leadership for a difficult and thorny national situation is the challenge faced by minority Democrats who can do nothing to completely halt the abuses of the Republican majority. Despite the Democratic alternative, an impeachment process that is highly partisan and vicious will go forward. But now the Republicans can never say that they have bipartisan support. Joining with fellow Democrats I voted for an alternative compromise in order to continue the process of cementing our position with that of the majority of Americans. I wanted to personally just say no: to drop the impeachment inquiry. Reluctantly I left the high-est ground; however, the Democratic compromise call for time limits and scope limits on the Judiciary Committee process still represents high ground. On October 8th the record will show that Democrats sacrificed some credibility in order to contribute to a resolution and enough tomatoes to feed the entire state.

guidance message was: "limit the scope and limit the time." The vital business of the country is waiting.

PREVIOUS STATEMENT RELEASED ON SEPTEMBER 8, 1998

As a member of Congress I am sorry that there is an escalating hysteria that may lead to the religious lynching of a great president. President Clinton has gone further than he should have been asked to go in offering a public statement about his intimate personal life. In view of the fact that absolutely on one has charged that a national security issue is involved in this matter, all further government inquiries should be dropped. The nation has in no way been placed at risk. Certainly nothing took place which touched on bribery, treason, or high crimes and misdemeanors. For those who continue to expand their detailed probe and to pass judgment through the prism of their hypocritical Victorian values, we concede their right to wallow in their "Peyton Place" preoccupations. There is, however, a profound difference between crimes and sins. It is of utmost importance that we acknowledge and support the spirit of our Constitution which discourages the state from investigating private morality and affirms the protection of individual rights.

On October 5, 1998 and Tuesday, October 6, 1998 and consequently missed several votes. Had I been present, the following is how I would have voted:

Rollcall No. 480: Yea.
Rollcall No. 481: Nay.
Rollcall No. 482: Yea.
Rollcall No. 483: Yea.
Rollcall No. 484: Yea.

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION FOR THE PITTSFORD VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT IN PITTSFORD, NY

HON. LOUISE McINTOSH SLAUGHTER OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to pay special tribute to the legacy of the Pittsford Volunteer Fire Department in Pittsford, NY. The fire department was chartered in 1887, after a series of tragic fires. The Village responded by installing a water works and passing a resolution authorizing the formation of a volunteer fire brigade to respond to fires and other emergencies. The fire department, which was established with approximately 50 men, started as two independent hose companies, known as the "Pittsford Village Active Hose Co. No. 1" and "Iniquiois Hose Co. No. 2."

Until the first fire hall was built in 1907 on a lot purchased by the Village, the volunteers stored their equipment in a number of village locations including the Methodist Church. Prior to the fire hall, all Department business was conducted in the Cole Building, on the southwest corner of Main Street and Monroe Avenue at the four corners in the Village.

With a proud tradition of voluntarism, the Fire Department has thrived and grown over the years. Using donations and moneys received from the Village, the Fire Department has been able to update its equipment, utilize new methods in fire prevention and control, and most recently establish a new fire hall in 1987. However, the cornerstone of the Department's success has been the dependability and generosity of its volunteers.

I take great pride in knowing that a volunteer fire department of Pittsford's high caliber protects families and businesses in my home district. I send my sincere and heartfelt thanks to the Pittsford Volunteer Fire Department for all its contributions throughout the past century.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues pause to join me and many others in congratulating the Pittsford Volunteer Fire Department for 100 years of service to humanity.

CELEBRATING THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA'S NATIONAL DAY

HON. MAURICE D. HINCHEY OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. HINCHEY. Mr. Speaker, on the occasion of the Republic of China's National Day,
I wish to offer my congratulations to her people and her leaders. Taiwan has had a remarkable record of accomplishment in recent years, and deserves recognition as a model for other nations and our thanks for its constructive partnership with our nation.

Taiwan is a model for other nations in two ways especially, and working with him appreciate his service in seeing him again.

University in my district in Ithaca, New York. I know, President Lee is an alumnus of Cornell University and its assistance could be most beneficial to the world community, it continues to be isolated from that community. Restoration of its membership in the United Nations would end that isolation. It would make sense to invite Taiwan to be a full and willing partner in international activities. Now more than ever we especially need its economic resources and expertise in dealing with today’s crises, and I am convinced that its Asian neighbors and other developing nations could benefit greatly from its counsel.

I also hope that the leaders of mainland China will have the wisdom to learn from Taiwan’s example, and to see that democracy works. We must also let them know that aggression and coercion, whether implicit or explicit, do not work.

I wish also to take this occasion to congratulate President Lee Teng-hui on his accomplishments as the Republic’s leader, and his success in steering his country through difficult economic and political waters. As we all know, President Lee is an alumnus of Cornell University in my district in Ithaca, New York. The people of Ithaca were delighted to have him as a guest, and would all be delighted to see him again.

Finally, I would like to thank Stephen Chen for his service as Taiwan’s chief representative in Washington. Those of us who have had the honor and pleasure of meeting Mr. Chen and working with him appreciate his service in maintaining and improving the bridge between us and his country.

IN RECOGNITION OF JOHN DORIN, MAYOR OF THE YEAR

HON. JOSEPH M. MCADEDE

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. MCADEDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a public servant whose devotion to his community is renowned, Mayor John Dorin of Montoursville, Pennsylvania. Mayor Dorin was unanimously named by the Association of Mayors of the Boroughs of Pennsylvania as the tenth recipient of the Outstanding Mayor Award.

John Dorin has accomplished much in the 16 years he has served as mayor of Montoursville Borough. A leader in the true sense of the word, Mayor Dorin has been able to bring together service organizations, business people and citizens to undertake and complete necessary community projects. He wasinstrumental in organizing the Montoursville Chamber of Commerce, Montoursville Crime Watch, the DARE program, and Montoursville Senior Citizens Organization.

In 1996, Montoursville suffered through a tragic loss of family, friends and young people in the crash of TWA Flight 800, which carried members of the Montoursville High School French Club and their chaperones on an educational trip to France. As news of the crash reached Montoursville, Mayor Dorin quickly came forward to help the families of the victims. He tirelessly advocated on behalf of the families to get information and services, and helped coordinate the efforts of the community and the school district as Montoursville mourned and coped with the tragedy.

John Dorin has always been ready and willing to help his neighbors, and his long and successful tenure as mayor has been marked by compassion, leadership and efficiency. His selection as Pennsylvania Outstanding Mayor is well-deserved, and is endorsed by the Montoursville Borough Council and the Borough’s police chief, school superintendent, and borough secretary.

Mr. Speaker, Mayor John Dorin has touched the lives of many people in Montoursville and in Pennsylvania’s 10th Congressional District. I ask that you and your colleagues join me in congratulating John Dorin on being selected as Pennsylvania Outstanding Mayor, and in commending him for his shining example of citizenship and public service.

IN HONOR OF LOUIS ANTHONY TRANGHESE

HON. RICHARD E. NEAL

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to invite my colleagues to join me in recognizing my friend, Louis Anthony Tranghese, who is retiring after 49 years with the Construction and General Laborers’ Local Union No. 999 in Springfield, Massachusetts. A leader in his profession, a devoted family man, a friend to many Louis has served his community with pride and distinction. On Friday, October 16, 1998, a testimonial dinner will be held in his honor, “is a tribute long overdue.”

Born and raised in the historic South End of Springfield, Louis Tranghese learned at an early age the importance of organized labor in our society. At age 14, he watched as his father Carlo, Arthur Coia and James Merloni played active roles in a newspaper strike. It was a defining moment, and from that point Louis knew that he wanted to dedicate his life to the concerns of working men and women.

In 1948, the graduated from Technical High School and soon joined Local Union No. 999. It was the beginning of a remarkable career that would last a half-century. From his humble start as a waterboy to Business Manager, a position which he held for over twenty years, Louis Tranghese became a leader in an organization he cared deeply about. He was always proud to call himself a laborer.

While Louis was busy with his professional career, he also found time to start a family. In 1956, he married the former Judie Monette, his wife and partner of nearly 40 years. The couple had four daughters: Carla, Gina, Lisa and Trisha who today own and operate the Dance Connection in East Longmeadow, Massachusetts. The Tranghese’s are equally proud of their six grandchildren and three granddaughters.

Mr. Speaker, I ask all the Members of the United States House of Representatives to join me in offering our sincere gratitude to Louis Tranghese. His service, dedication and commitment to the Local Union No. 999 has been extraordinary. He has been a reflection of what is best about America. As he prepares to retire, let us wish him health, happiness and nothing but the best in the years ahead.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE GERALD SOLomon

SPEECH OF

HON. NORMAN SISISKY

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 1998

Mr. SISISKY. Mr. Speaker, JERRY SOLOMON has been a friend of mine for a long time. We are not friends because we always agree with each other. We don’t. Where we do agree is that JERRY SOLOMON has a rock solid commitment to national security.

There have been many times over the last few years when I have gone to him, as the Rules Committee chair, on critical national security issues.

He has stood up for our young men and women in uniform every single time. And I have also had a chance to travel with him overseas.

We have both played a part in the North Atlantic Assembly, the parliamentary arm of NATO.

I have attended North Atlantic assembly meetings for 15 years, and I can assure you JERRY SOLOMON is one of the most highly respected American participants.

And this is coming from members of parliament throughout Europe. Believe me, one thing I’ve learned over the years is: our counterparts in Europe have high standards and long memories.

Their respect for JERRY SOLOMON is built on many years of experience in government and diplomacy.

In a world where the most valuable common currency is one’s word, one’s integrity, and one’s honor, JERRY SOLOMON is a very wealthy man.

He has been a pillar of fairness. He has been a staunch advocate of national security. And he will be hard to replace.

My wife and I wish JERRY and his wife the very best as they begin the next stage of their life together.

I am honored to have served with you, and even more honored to have you as a friend.
THE 10TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BLACK HEALTH COALITION OF WISCONSIN

HON. THOMAS M. BARRETT OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. BARRETT of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, The Black Health Coalition of Wisconsin will celebrate tonight its 10th anniversary and its commitment to improving the health status of African-Americans in the state of Wisconsin.

Since 1988, The Black Health Coalition has dedicated itself to insuring that all people in Wisconsin enjoy equitable and comprehensive health. At its inception, twelve organizations that shared a common commitment bonded together to forge a partnership in health. Their efforts have translated into today's Black Health Coalition which reaches the lives of thousands of people in Wisconsin.

Today's celebration has an appropriate theme: "And Still We Rise." It is appropriate because it speaks to the commitment of the Black Health Coalition of Wisconsin to continue its important work. It is appropriate because it indicates the Black Health Coalition's pride in its work. And it is appropriate because it conveys the message that the Black Health Coalition works on behalf of everyone and excluded no one.

I congratulate the Black Health Coalition on its ten years of remarkable achievements and fantastic efforts on behalf of the people of Wisconsin, and especially the people of my home city of Milwaukee.

DEICE HONORED

HON. PAUL E. KANJORSKI
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to James J. Deice, the 1998 Person of the Year of the Italian-American Association of Luzerne County. I am proud to have been asked to participate in the Association's annual Columbus Day Dinner on October 11.

Jim played both football and track as a student at West Pittston High School. He majored in English at the University of Scranton and graduated with a B.A. in Education in 1969. He later obtained his Master's degree from West Chester University, Penn State University and Scranton University.

After graduating from college, Jim took a teaching job in Royersford, Pennsylvania but in 1972, he returned to Northeastern Pennsylvania to teach English at Pittston Area Senior High School. Jim also coached Pittston Area's track, football and wrestling teams. He coached the wrestling team to its first-ever District Title in 1996–97. For this achievement, he was honored by his fellow coaches as Coach of the Year. He retired from coaching in 1997. That same year, Jim received the Gerard M. Musto Teacher of the Year Award from the National Honor Society at Pittston Area.

In addition to teaching and coaching, Jim has made his commitment to our community clear by his involvement in numerous activities outside of school. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, UNICO, and the Serradifalco Society. He is Chairman of the Pittston City Parking Authority and is active with the Pittston Tomato Festival Committee, co-chairing the parade for that yearly event. For five years, Jim chaired the track-and-field events for the Special Olympics of Luzerne County. During the 10 years Jim has been a member of the Italian-American Association, he has served as President and chaired several communities. He is currently the Chairman of the Association's Board of Director.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to bring the many accomplishments of Jim Deice to the attention of my colleagues. Jim is a community leader and outstanding role model for the youths he helps to shape each day. I applaud the Italian-American Association for their choice of honoree this year and send my best wishes to Jim and his family as he accepts this prestigious honor.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE GERALD SOLOMON

SPEECH OF

HON. JOHN D. DINGELL
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 6, 1998

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize my good friend and colleague who has served his constituents and the United States well during his tenure in Congress. He has served this great institution for the last 20 years as a Member of the United States House of Representatives, and a total of 31 years as a public servant.

Congressman Solomon and I have worked together on many issues sometimes on opposite sides, but we have remained friends and always strived for bi-partisanship on issues of importance to our constituents and to the people of the United States.

My friend, "Closed-rule" Solomon's service on the Rules Committee is exemplary and he will be missed.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring an extraordinary man who has spent his career as a public servant helping others. I will miss his wisdom, but I know that he will not be far away. I salute him and his accomplishments. I have enjoyed working with him in the House of Representatives.

A TRIBUTE TO DR. MICHAELodosik of John T. Mather Hospital

HON. MICHAEL P. FORBES
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in the U.S. House of Representatives to join my voice with the John T. Mather Hospital community as we honor Dr. Michael Dosik for his many years of outstanding service and leadership, including his tenure as the chief of Mather Hospital's Division of Hematology/Oncology since 1981.

On Friday evening, October 23, hundreds of friends, volunteers and staff will gather for Mather Hospital's 33rd annual “One Enchanted Evening” fundraising dinner. At this year’s gala, Dr. Dosik will be honored with the “Theodore Roosevelt Award” for his dedicated volunteer service to Mather Hospital and the community it serves. This year, in recognition of October as National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the proceeds from Mather Hospital's annual benefit will go to the Fortunato Breast Health Center and Breast Cancer Treatment.

It is fitting that Dr. Dosik should be honored on the same evening that Mather Hospital will raise money for breast cancer treatment. Since receiving his medical degree from Cornell University in 1966, Dr. Dosik has dedicated his professional career to the treatment of malignant diseases. As an oncology-geriatrician, Dr. Dosik is recognized for his continuing efforts to introduce innovative therapeutic interventions to his patients. He is greatly respected by peers and patients alike for his medical insight and compassionate, humane approach to treating the person, as well as the disease.

That Mather Hospital's October 23, benefit for the Fortunato Breast Health Center and Breast Cancer Treatment is of particular importance to Dr. Dosik, for he serves as the Center's Co-Medical Director and chairs the weekly breast cancer conference. He has also made significant contributions as an active member of the American Cancer Society and Long Island Cancer Council. He resides in Setauket, Long Island with his wife Lyn and their Daughter Diana. He and Lyn also have a 23-year-old daughter, Lia.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join the entire John T. Mather Hospital community as we honor Dr. Michael Dosik, a very deserving recipient of the "Theodore Roosevelt Award" for his dedicated service to the hospital and our entire Long Island community.

THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA'S NATIONAL DAY

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my congratulations to the Republic of China, Thursday, October 10, 1998, is Taiwan's National Day.

Taiwan is a country fondly known as the "Little Tiger." Rightfully so, Taiwan has a strong economy and is an excellent trading partner for countries like the United States. In fact, Taiwan is our sixth largest trading partner.

In the last few years, Taiwan's economy has grown at a spectacular rate and has become one of the wealthiest nations in the world. Taiwan's wealth can be seen in their strong manufacturing industry and in their citizens' commitment to make Taiwan an effective trading partner. Taiwan has done remarkably well during the Asian financial crisis, and I hope that Taiwan will continue to prosper.

I wish President Lee Teng-hui, Vice President Liow Chin-fang, and Minister Jason Hu and Ambassador Stephen Chen of the Republic of China continued success in leading Taiwan and their citizens.
Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Dr. Tom Giugni, who is retiring as President and CEO of the Flushing Savings Bank.

Dr. Giugni's distinguished career began as a Gold Medal doctor at the University of the Pacific in 1956. As a substitute teacher in St. Helena, California, he worked his way up to the level of principal in the St. Helena Unified School District, and he has never looked back. He has served six different California school districts, including four as Superintendent. I had the pleasure of working with Dr. Giugni when, during his tenure as Superintendent of the Long Beach Unified School District, he served on the Education Advisory Council of the University of California, Long Beach, where I was president.

He was a dynamic Superintendent. Under his leadership, the Long Beach district became one of the most decentralized in the United States. The bureaucracy was cut back. Creativity and innovation became the watchwords in the schools. Parent councils were created. Parents played an increasing role. Principals worked to encourage the best ideas and performance from their faculty.

For the first time in California the elementary and secondary schools were closely linked with a major university, California State University, Long Beach. Many post-secondary institutions have their education majors intern in the schools. But the CSLUB Long Beach Unified School District was a true partnership in which university students and faculty members as well as student organizations across the university involved themselves with the schools and their students.

Dr. Giugni has further served California through active participation in numerous civic and professional organizations, including as a member of area Chambers of Commerce and Industry Education Councils, an advisor to California colleges and universities, and an advocate of events to fight cancer and drug abuse. His knowledge and expertise have been recognized by several respected educational journals who have published his articles, and he has received countless awards honoring his leadership.

Dr. Giugni committed his career to improving education. His genuine concern for students, his vision, and his ability to rally support for public schools will be greatly missed. All of us who know him wish him well and doubt that he will be inactive in retirement.

A TRIBUTE TO DR. HARISH MALHOTRA OF JOHN T. MATHER HOSPITAL

HON. STEPHEN HORN
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Dr. Harish Malhotra of Shoreham, Long Island, with the Theodore Roosevelt Award for his dedicated service to the hospital and our entire Long Island community.

A native of India, where he earned distinctions of New Delhi for his work in surgery, Dr. Malhotra has achieved great success as a surgeon because he remains an avid student of his craft. A voracious reader, Dr. Malhotra is dedicated to the continual development of his talent for healing the sick and injured. "If you don't read a lot and keep constant," Dr. Malhotra said, "you don't care of your patients." Because of his lifelong pursuit of knowledge and inner desire to make the absolute most of his skills, Dr. Malhotra is able to take very good care of his patients.

It was while researching innovative surgical technologies that Dr. Malhotra learned of the donor bone marrow and bone marrow transplants. Moved by the positive results of these surgical techniques, Dr. Malhotra founded the first Bone Marrow and Peripheral Blood Stem Cell Transplantation Program in Suffolk County, one of the most successful programs of its kind in the United States.

When he is not working with his patients or reading up on the latest surgical techniques, Dr. Malhotra is usually found on the golf course, or spending time with his wife Maureen and six-year-old son Kiran.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join the entire John T. Mather Hospital community as we honor Dr. Harish Malhotra, a very deserving recipient of the Theodore Roosevelt Award for his dedicated service to the hospital and our entire Long Island community.

CITIZENS' VOICE CELEBRATES 20TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. PAUL E. KANJORSKI
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the Citizens' Voice newspaper of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, which is celebrating its twentieth anniversary on October 9, 1998. Despite tremendous obstacles, the Citizens' Voice has survived and thrived as a daily newspaper in a competitive market.

In the fall of 1978, 205 employees of the Wilkes-Barre Publishing Company who were on strike decided to create their own paper. That decision led to the publishing of the first edition of the Citizens' Voice. Since then, the paper has grown to a circulation of approximately 38,000. During that time, the Voice has received numerous awards from local and state professional organizations.

The Voice's first “home” was a building scheduled for demolition by the Redevelopment Authority on North Main Street in Wilkes-Barre. In early 1979, the Voice moved to the mezzanine of the Hotel Sterling in the heart of downtown Wilkes-Barre. In June of 1984, the Voice moved to its present headquarters on North Washington Street in Wilkes-Barre.

Mr. Speaker, not too many cities the size of Wilkes-Barre have two daily newspapers anymore, but I think the presence of both papers has given residents an improved level of coverage provided to area residents. I applaud the Citizens' Voice for its twenty years of excellence and wish the paper future success.
CONGRATULATIONS TO POLISH AMERICAN VETERANS’ CLUB OF WILBRAHAM, MA ON ITS 50TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. RICHARD E. NEAL
OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate the Polish American Veterans’ Club of Wilbraham, Massachusetts on its 50th anniversary.

The PAV in Wilbraham has for half a century played a vital role in its community. In celebration of this noteworthy occasion, I take this opportunity to express my personal congratulations to each and every member of the Club, and to enter the complete history of the Polish American Veterans’ Club of Wilbraham, Massachusetts into today’s CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

The History

The hostilities of World War II had come to a close and the veterans were returning to their homes where their families were anxiously waiting for their return from war. In the local Organizations and merchants also combined their efforts to extend their greetings through “Home Day.” The Americanism assignment from men held in the months following their return coupled with their similarity of interests, ambitions and background inspired the idea for the formation of an organizational local Veterans.

Uniting any group into a functioning organization required the leadership of a person who is familiar with the aspirations and problems of the group, along with a deep interest in their progress. The Veterans of the Tri-Town area were fortunate in having a man who qualified in every respect as an organizer. His interest in the welfare of this body must have had a great influence on leading them into organization. The man, Father John J. Kiebana, a curate of the Immaculate Conception Parish. His unifying efforts during these important organizational meetings resulted in the formation of a strong “Polish American Veterans Club.”

Father called the first meeting on February 23, 1947, where various types of Veterans groups were discussed. A committee, headed by Edward Hulick, was formed to do research into an organization that would function best in this area. The new club was to be founded by the Veterans of Polish extraction from the Indian Orchard, Ludlow and Wilbraham area to encourage social acquaintances among members for the advancement of educational activities and to improve the social and economic welfare of its members. With these ideals in mind, a committee was delegated the task of drawing By-Laws. Thus, the first meeting, held on June 10, was the influential meeting in motion. During subsequent meetings officers were elected and committees for an efficiently functioning organization were appointed. The first few officers were: President, John J. Kiebana; First Vice President, Al Sambor; Second Vice President, Mitchell Kowalski; Clerk, Emil Wyski, Financial Secretary, Frederick Smola; Treasurer, George Smola; Service Officer, Dr. Francis Bacewicz; and Sergeant at Arms, Louis Grondalski.

The charter of the club was to be “The Polish American Veterans of Indian Orchard, Ludlow and Wilbraham.”

Founded on the principle of social unity and community service, the club prospered in the ensuing years. From its inception, a vigorous athletic program was sponsored, the most successful of all being the baseball team which drew an enthusiastic following. They identified the organization throughout the Western Massachusetts area when they captured the Knights of Columbus Tournament in 1949 and were runner-up for the Western Massachusetts Amateur Baseball Championship in 1950. The basketball team also was able to share in the limelight in completing the season as Western Massachusetts Champions in 1952.

During subsequent meetings officers were elected and committees for an efficient functioning organization were appointed. The bowling team kept the members active in the winter months. In addition to the organized league activities an intramural basketball program was initiated for all members. Games or golf matches filled what spaces remained in the sports calendar. Trophies representing championships in every major sport are held by the club.

In 1949, the Club Members remodel the old dairy building on 4½ Avenue Street as their temporary home and for ten years it served as an informal meeting place for members. The good management of the small clubhouse plus the aid of the members had placed the organization in a financial position in which this club was able to purchase a new building in 1959.

The PAV’s baseball program to include the youth in the area by sponsoring baseball, girls’ softball, hockey, soccer and basketball. We also sponsored a visit of the West Point Glee Club for a performance at the Springfield Auditorium. Many Club Members and their families had the pleasure of meeting the cadets personally by sharing their homes for an evening stay.

The Polish American Veterans were instrumental in the renovation of the Kosciszkz Park, Garden at West Point Military Academy. The Sunshine Village and many charitable organizations receive annual donations. The Ludlow Hospital received sizable donations for their fund drive. The cost of a classroom was given to Christ the King Social Center. A new Church Altar was presented to the Immaculate Conception Church. The Fire and Police Departments in the Tri-Town area received life-saving and communication equipment. The area Libraries are given hard cover books periodically. The annual United Polish Clubs Scholarship Dinner-Dance is held in the Veterans Ballroom. Biannual bus trips to the Holyoke Soldiers Home for Members, Auxiliary, Polish pierogies, rye bread, horseradish, kielbasa and home baked pastries plus prize winning money for Bingo Games which is shared with the resident patient veterans. The Post also adopted a wing at the Holyoke Soldiers Home for which we funded interior decorations and supplies. The greatest highlight in the history of the Club was the founding of the “Polish American Auxiliary.” The women organized in 1952 under the same policy and the same aims as the Veterans Club. The Auxiliary has been indispensable in providing assistance to the Club. They have been a mainstay in devising fund raising methods. Our major fund raiser is the “Wisconsin Day” for the Veterans and Auxiliary.

The Labor Day Weekend Picnic and the Annual Breakfast-Church held to honor the 100th Anniversary of the Butts County Courthouse in Jackson, Georgia.

CELEBRATION OF THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BUTTS COUNTY COURTHOUSE IN JACKSON, GEORGIA

HON. MAC COLLINS
OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. COLLINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the 100th Anniversary of the Butts County Courthouse in Jackson, Georgia. The anniversary celebration is being held tomorrow, and I wish to submit the remarks I prepared for the occasion for the Congressional Record.

I want to express my deep appreciation to the citizens of Butts County for inviting me to be a part of the 100th Anniversary celebration for our county courthouse. During the long and rich history of our county, this beautiful building has endured the test of time. It has long out-lived its predecessors which were all destroyed by fire.

And over the past century, it has seen many fine men and women elected by their fellow citizens to honorably serve Butts County. It is good to see so many of those who have served here today for this celebration. I myself had the honor and privilege to have served as Chairman of the County Commission.

It was 22 years ago Julie, my family and I began our public service. But I had public service running through my veins long before I ran for office. As most of you know, I was born here in Jackson at the O.B. Howell Clinic. In fact, I was spanked to life by three-term Commission Chairman O.B. Howell himself. I was raised by a mother who was a Flovilla City Councilwoman and a father who always said he wanted to serve on the County Commission. I was destined to be in politics.

But my career in public service would never have occurred without the support, hard work and endurance of my wife, Julie, and my children. I began that career right here at home as Chairman of the Butts County Commission. I then served in the Georgia State Senate where I served two terms.

Today, I have the honor of serving as a United States Representative in the peoples’ house in our nation’s capitol. I would not have been able to persevere unless my family had been at my side through all of those years and all those campaigns. I also owe the people of Butts County a debt of gratitude for the support you have given me. I regret that state politics prevented me from representing you in the United States Congress.

I have always been asked, “Was it worth the time, the effort and the money?” My answer is always, “Yes.”

I have always had a strong desire to give something back to the community, the state and the country that have been so good to me. And, at each step of the way, I have grown a little more.

In many respects, the most challenging and rewarding office I have held is County Commissioner. I was young, energetic and a know-it-all. Serving as a Commissioner taught me the responsibility of public service, and it taught me humility. During my first month in office, January of 1977, a winter storm with freezing rain brought the rural roads of our county to a standstill. Many fine citizens volunteered to help the county meet the challenge of getting our roads open and people moving again.

I have laughed and joked that we broke up DUIs in Butts County by bargaining with Probate Judge Gene Blue to sentence all of those convicted of DUI to 30 days on the County Commission. DUI arrests declined dramatically.

The accomplishment for which I am most proud was negotiating the contract to install water lines connecting Jackson with Flovilla and Jenkinsburg.

The saddest experience I had as Commissioner was my defeat for reelection in 1980. I had many goals I still wanted to accomplish for the people of Butts County. My good friend and fellow Commissioner, Mr. Everett Brisco, and I knew we would be defeated. I told him during one of our many rides around the County that “a loss in this election may lead to a major victory in the future.”

And the people of Butts County were good to me. You elected me to represent you in the Georgia State Senate.

During my four years there, I had the opportunity to participate in shaping the laws on issues of great importance to us all—education, taxes, crime, the economy and many others.

In 1983, I took on a new challenge—United States Representative for Third Congressional District of Georgia. I have found that many of the issues and concerns in which I was involved as a Butts County Commissioner and as a Georgia State Senator are also issues that concern the Congress—only on a national scale. But while we in Congress engage in great debates over our national defense, the direction of our government, the fate of the President and the future of our children, I am always reminded from where I come.

Shortly after my election to Congress in 1982, I received a letter from my childhood friend, Frank Duke. In that letter Frank wrote, “It is a long way from Flovilla, Georgia to Washington, D.C.” He also enclosed a photograph of the town of Flovilla. We are now grown and gone our separate ways. But Frank’s letter and photograph remind me of the hopes and ambitions we had.

And it reminds me of the values and principles we were taught by our parents, our teachers, and the wonderful people of a small town. I have kept that letter and photograph to remind me of the lessons learned with Frank and the others so many years ago.

As I conclude, I would like to read to you the quote by the great poet Longfellow which is printed in the dedication of the History of Butts County Georgia. It is worthy of reflection by all those who are elected to serve. It reads:

Each one performs his work and then leaves it.

Those that come after him estimate His influence over which he lives.

Thank you and God Bless You.

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF HON. JERRY LEWIS OF CALIFORNIA IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, the House of Representatives will today make one of the most solemn decisions it can make next to a declaration of war—whether to proceed with a full and fair inquiry into allegations that the President’s actions warrant his removal from office. A bipartisan majority of the House, including members of the President’s own political party, will support the resolution to hold hearings and further investigate the President’s conduct.

The historical significance of today’s action does not escape me. This is only the third time in our nation’s history that Congress has voted to proceed with an impeachment inquiry. Today, particularly, I feel a burden of responsibility as never before during my years of public service.

Like most Americans, I have weighed very carefully the evidence presented thus far by the Independent Counsel. From the very beginning, I have wanted to give the President every benefit of the doubt. I have wanted to believe that he was telling the truth. But it is now clear that he has not been truthful with the American people, with the Congress, with his staff, and with his own wife and family.

No man, not even the President, is above the truth or above the law. Each man and woman must be held accountable to the duly established laws of the United States. In this matter before us, it is very important that the legal process, as outlined in our U.S. Constitution, continue to its conclusion. It means that the Congress, and more specifically, the House Judiciary Committee, will now hold hearings to determine if the President’s actions warrant his impeachment.

The time this investigation has taken, and the toll it has taken on our country, is a direct result of the President’s efforts to deny the truth and delay the process. He could have—and should have—told the truth from the very beginning but instead he chose repeatedly to lie. Anyone who has served in a court proceedings knows the significance of taking an oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. A violation of that oath is perjury. It is now evident that the President has lied under oath. To maintain the fundamental integrity of our system of government, he must be held accountable for his actions.

These actions have not taken place in a vacuum. From the Oval Office to the President’s Cabinet, the President has had a dramatic effect upon our responsibilities at home and abroad. While it is still too early to predict the outcome of this crisis, one thing has become increasingly clear: his own evasion of the truth, the President’s effectiveness and the standing of the United States throughout the world has been severely diminished.

Meanwhile, the work of this Congress is continuing. While the media is focused primarily on the Judiciary Committee’s work, Congress continues to address the enormous challenges facing our country and the world. The United States now faces enormous tests on both the domestic and world stage—terrorist bombings, of our embassies, Saddam Hussein’s invasion of Kuwait, the North Korea’s development of nuclear weapons, and an increasingly fragile peace in Northern Ireland. Closer to home, we are addressing real challenges before us—the future of Social Security, improving education, reducing the taxes on American families, and averting a government shutdown.

In closing, President Clinton’s careful and calculated legal response has not served him or our country well. This is a sad day in our nation’s history. The President and the President’s counsel have both calculated legal response has not served him well. This is a sad day in our nation’s history. The President and the President’s counsel have both

TRIBUTE TO HENRY A. SCHMITT

HON. ANNA G. ESHOO OF CALIFORNIA IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. ESHOO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Henry A. Schmitt, a widely-known and... respected leader of the transportation industry for over 35 years, on the occasion of his retirement from CNF Transportation Inc. at the end of this year. He began his CNF career with a background as a trucking security analyst, working for several Wall Street financial firms in New York City for more than 15 years.

As Vice President of Corporate Relations, Mr. Schmitt manages CNF’s communications with the Wall Street financial investment community. His other responsibilities include CNF’s government and corporate relations, including oversight of the company’s extensive scholarship and charitable contributions activities.

Mr. Schmitt joined CNF from Wall Street in 1978 as Assistant Vice President of Investor Relations. He later became Assistant Vice President and Director of Corporate Relations, and was subsequently named Assistant Vice President and Director of Corporate and Financial Relations. Mr. Schmitt was elected a Vice President in 1988. He is a member of the company’s Executive Administrative Committee and Chairman of the CNF Transportation Inc. Political Action Committee.

Throughout his career, Mr. Schmitt has been active in a number of industry and professional associations. In addition to participating on many special industry task forces and committees, he served on the Executive Committee and was a member of the Policy and Finance Committee of the American Trucking Associations. The Western Highway Institute elected him as President in 1994 and Chairman in 1995. He also served as both President and Chairman of the Cargo Airline Association (when it was the Air Freight Association).

Mr. Schmitt has long been an active member and rose to become chairman of the Public Affairs Council of the Conference Board. He is a past director of the U.S. National Investor Relations Institute, and the founder/chairman of the NIRA’s Silicon Valley Chapter as well as an active member of both the New York and San Francisco Securities Analyst Societies, affiliates of the Financial Analysts Federation.

A past member of the Advisory Board of the California Institute, he also served as CNF’s deputy to both the California Business Roundtable and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce from 1985–1996, and was a member of the California Chamber of Commerce Public Affairs Council. When on Wall Street, he served as chairman of the Motor Carrier Analysts Group, the association of senior security analysts with responsibility for trucking industry securities.

The Citizens Scholarship Foundation of America elected him to serve on its National Advisory Board of Trustees for the period 1995–2001. In 1996, he was appointed a trustee of the Charles Armstrong School, an elementary school in Belmont, California that educates children with problems of dyslexia. He assumed the additional post of school treasurer in 1998. A native of Rochester, New York, Mr. Schmitt attended Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, earning a bachelor’s degree in finance in 1963.

I’m very proud to have the Schmitt family as constituents. I’m grateful for the countless contributions Mr. Schmitt has made throughout his career. Few have contributed as much to their industry and by doing so California’s 14th Congressional District has been enhanced as well.

I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring this exceptional individual who has given so much to his industry, his community, and his country. We wish Henry Schmitt and his wife a happy, healthy and rewarding retirement.

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in the House of Representatives to join with the John T. Mather Hospital community as they pay special honor to Vincent Bove of Belle Terre, Long Island, for his 25 years of outstanding leadership in the Hospital’s Board of Directors.

On Friday evening, October 23, hundreds of friends, volunteers and staff will gather for the hospital’s 33rd annual “One Enchanted Evening” fundraising gala. This year, in recognition of October as National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the proceeds from the annual benefit will go to the Fortunato Breast Health Center and Breast Cancer Treatment. At the gala, Vinny Bove will receive the inaugural “Mather Special Recognition Award” for his tireless efforts to create the hospital’s Ambulatory & Inpatient Surgical Pavilion.

As the owner of Laurel Hill Nurseries, Vinny Bove brought an entrepreneurial spirit and energy to Mather Hospital 25 years ago when he joined the Board of Directors. He has focused that energy on expanding Mather’s medical services while nurturing its financial health. As the Chairman of the Hospital’s Board of Directors, Vinny Bove was instrumental in the successful campaign to raise funds for hospital expansions in 1973 and 1983, as well as separate efforts to finance a new Emergency Room and the Ambulatory & Inpatient Surgical Pavilion.

His efforts to make Mather Hospital the best it can be would make its namesake proud. As Vincent Bove has said, if John T. Mather were to visit his hospital today, “we could show how we’ve cared for this hospital, and how it’s grown over the years. We’ve really done it right.”

Vincent Bove’s efforts to grow John T. Mather Hospital into one of Long Island’s leading health care providers seem almost Herculean to his friends and admirers. But for him, it was truly a labor of love. Mather grew on me, he says, “It plays a very important part of my life because it’s so important to the community, and I’m a very community-minded person.” Vincent Bove’s love and selfless dedication to the community is also evident in this public service as the Mayor of the Village of Belle Terre.

So, Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join the entire John T. Mather Hospital community in honoring Vincent Bove, a very deserving recipient of the inaugural “Mather Special Recognition Award” for his 25 years of service to the hospital.

Mr. McNULTY. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague from Massachusetts for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, when I get up in the morning, the first two things I do are to thank God for my life and thank veterans for my way of life. Because if it had not been for the sacrifices of the men and women who wore the uniform of the United States military through the years, I would not have the privilege—as a citizen of the United States—of going around bragging about how we live in the freest and most open democracy on the face of the earth. Freedom is not free. We have paid a tremendous price for it.

I shall always be grateful to those who, like my brother Bill, made the supreme sacrifice. And to people like that man right there, JERRY SOLOMON, who served with distinction in the United States military and then came back to our home region in upstate New York, because a successful businessman, and—more importantly in my eyes—entered a career in public service. From his local government roles to his national leadership role today, he has rendered such outstanding service to us all.

I have been in the United States Congress for half of JERRY SOLOMON’s tenure. And what a privilege it has been, JERRY, over these past 10 years, to serve with you, as a team. Together we have accomplished a great deal for the Capital Region of the State of New York, but I will not go into those items right now.

One day on the House steps, I think I was in my first or second term, we were having pictures taken with our respective constituents. JERRY grabbed me and asked the photographer to take a picture of the two of us. He later inscribed that photo and sent it over to my office and it is on my office wall today—and it will stay there. It says, “Mike—thanks for being part of the one-two-punch for the Capital District.” Let me acknowledge, there was never any doubt about who was number 1 and who was number 2.

But I want to say to my friend, JERRY, what a great honor it has been to be number 2 on that team with you. And today I want to look you in the eye and say thank you for your service to our country, for the tremendous service you gave to your constituents throughout your long and distinguished career, and most importantly, to thank you for what you gave to me. You have been a true and loyal friend. And while you are leaving here—and I regret that deeply—the one thing I take comfort in knowing is that our wonderful friendship will continue.
TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE GERALD SOLOMON

SPEECH OF
HON. F. JAMES SENSENBRENNER, JR. of Wisconsin
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 6, 1998

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to GERALD SOLOMON, the distinguished gentleman from New York, as he prepares to retire after 20 years of service to the country and his constituents, the last four years as Chairman of the House Rules Committee.

Jerry Solomon and I came to Congress together in 1978. In his ten terms and all those representing New York's 22nd District in the House, his colleagues and his constituents have come to know him as a positive force for common sense legislation. Jerry's legacy is one of military preparedness, fiscal responsibility, strong foreign policy and government accountability.

As a former United States Marine, Jerry brought a unique knowledge of the necessities of military readiness to his legislative agenda. In the 1980's, he worked to strengthen our armed services, joining other exemplary leaders such as Ronald Reagan in helping to ensure a peaceful end to the Cold War and the United States' position of strength in the post-Cold War world. His work with the North Atlantic Assembly and his mastery of NATO issues proved an invaluable asset to the House as we considered foreign affairs and national security issues.

But Jerry Solomon's importance to the House does not stop there. His colleagues know him as a Member who recognized the patriotism and dignity of this country's veterans and fought tirelessly to see that the government provided them the rights and benefits they so richly deserve.

Jerry Solomon also devoted significant energy to securing accountability in our government, taking a principal role in creating the line item veto legislation passed by Congress in 1996. And it is important legislation like this that passes through Jerry's hands each day. As Chairman of the Rules Committee, he continues to dedicate himself to providing for the smooth movement of the many and varied pieces of legislation that come before the House in each session.

His shoes will undoubtedly be hard to fill. I join my colleagues in wishing a fond farewell and a successful retirement. We aspire to continue his level of leadership and commitment.

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF
HON. BRIAN P. BLIBRAY
of California
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 7, 1998

Mr. BLIBRAY. Mr. Speaker, this is a highly emotional and complex matter. In the bright light of historical significance, we must remember that this solemn result will become the standard applied to future presidents, Democrat or Republican. The issue is larger than William Jefferson Clinton.

I want to emphasize that contrary to what the media continues to assume, Congress is not obsessed with this matter. The full House has spent a total of only 4 hours debating this issue. During the same week in which this vote was taken, the House and Senate approved House bill 8, my bill to crackdown on commuter vehicles which do not meet California vehicle emission standards. The President is expected to sign the bill into law. The House is also considering my legislation to hold Mexico accountable on its agreement to fix sewage infrastructure in Tijuana. Only Judiciary Committee members are concentrating on the impeachment inquiry. The rest of us are working on important budgetary, education, health care, environmental and Social Security issues.

As you may know, I have always avoided unnecessary partisanship, and have refrained from criticizing the President every move during his tenure. He is our elected President and I am obligated by the Constitution to work with him on behalf of my district. It is in the best interest of our nation for Congress to remain focused on the important matter of governing the nation and ensuring the members of the House Judiciary Committee the opportunity to perform their duty of reviewing the high volume of documents provided by the Independent Counsel. As I said, Congress has been working effectively on a host of other issues.

However, today the full House of Representatives was required to devote its time to considering the resolution from the Judiciary Committee requesting authority to proceed with an impeachment inquiry. This was not a vote to impeach President Clinton. Even a majority of the Democrats on the Judiciary Committee the opportunity to perform their duty of reviewing the high volume of documents provided by the Independent Counsel. As I said, Congress has been working effectively on a host of other issues.

However, today the full House of Representatives was required to devote its time to considering the resolution from the Judiciary Committee requesting authority to proceed with an impeachment inquiry. This was not a vote to impeach President Clinton. Even a majority of the Democrats on the Judiciary Committee wanted to proceed with an impeachment inquiry. The difference between the Republican and Democrat inquiry proposals was in its length and scope. It is interesting to note that even "The Washington Post" and "The New York Times," two newspapers whose editorial positions are historically left of center, supported the Republican position on the length and scope of the inquiry.

By a vote of 258 to 176 the House decided to proceed with an inquiry. I voted with the majority. Again, most of the Democrats voting against the resolution were not opposed to proceeding with an impeachment inquiry. They simply had legitimate concerns on its length and scope. They were requesting that the inquiry be finished by Thanksgiving of this year. Under the resolution as approved (House Resolution 581) the inquiry will terminate at the end of this year.

Though the President and others in public life deserve some semblance of privacy, like most Americans I am very disappointed in the President's decision to have a relationship with a subordinate employee in the White House. This type of behavior is unacceptable in any workplace including in a hallway near the Oval Office. His lack of judgment was appalling for a man of his age and position.

However, the ultimate question before us is not one of sexual conduct. It is whether perjury and obstruction of justice were committed in the magnitude to require impeachment. I am still reviewing the alleged impeachable offenses outlined in the report and by the Judiciary Committee counsel. I am determined to sort out the facts. This is why I supported the resolution to proceed with an inquiry. Second only to a declaration of war, voting on bills of impeachment is Congress' most serious duty. Without a process to determine the facts there would be no reasonable way to reach a decision on such a vote.

I, personally, hope that the evidence is not substantial enough to require a constitutionally mandated vote on impeachment. But it would be irresponsible of me to develop a final position on impeachment until after the Judiciary Committee has completed the impeachment inquiry and all the evidentiary matters are on the table. The Independent Counsel has only submitted a preliminary report to Congress because he believes that there was enough evidence in the Lewinsky matter to demonstrate perjury, witness tampering, and obstruction of justice as grounds for impeachment. Congress expects a full report on all of the other allegations, including Whitewater, Filegate, Travelgate, to be submitted by the Independent Counsel in the coming months.

Despite unfortunate initial "jockeying" by both sides, I have faith and confidence in my House colleagues, both Republican and Democrat, to ultimately perform this constitutional duty in a fair and bipartisan manner. An issue as grave as possible impeachment of the President must not—in appearance or fact—be driven by partisan considerations. We have embarked on a very solemn process and it is necessary for the House to remain dignified by not allowing these proceedings to be taken in a personal or political manner. The President could have spared the country, his family and himself much pain had he told the complete truth. Lying about an affair should be a private matter between a husband and wife. Unfortunately, the President was under oath in a judicial process. Now the Congress and country is forced to proceed under a constitutional mandate. Congress must remain cognizant of the fact that the result will be a standard to which Presidents from now on will be held.

Many letters and e-mails to my office have reflected a lack of understanding of the process. I would like to reiterate that IF, AFTER completion of the impeachment inquiry, the House votes in favor of impeachment, it does not mean the President is automatically removed from office. The process would then move to the Senate where he would be tried, with the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court presiding over the proceedings. It would take a conviction supported by two-thirds (66 out of 100) of the Senate to remove the President from office. Under the Constitution, there is no authority given for the House and Senate to "censure" the President.

I will do everything in my power to ensure that this matter does not overwhelm the important legislative issues before Congress.
TRIBUTE TO JOHN D’AMELIO

HON. RANDY “DUKE” CUNNINGHAM
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak in honor of John D’Amelio, the president of the California School Boards Association of 1998 of his continuous efforts on behalf of children and education throughout his community and throughout the state of California.

John D’Amelio, a retired teacher, has been a board member of the Escondido Union High School District in San Diego County for eight years. In 1996 he was appointed by Governor Pete Wilson to serve on the Commission for the Establishment of Academic Content and Performance Standards. D’Amelio has been an active contributor to CSBA, and has served as a member of the association’s Delegate Assembly since 1990 and as a regional director since 1992. In addition he has served on a number of CSBA committees, including the Legislative Network, Education Legal Alliance Committee, Nominating Committee, Annual Conference Committee and Assessment Task Force.

Throughout his many years of serving the community as a teacher and board member, D’Amelio also found time to volunteer outside of these roles. He founded a community organization for at-risk minorities, served as a director on a preschool board, and became a classroom “grandpa.”

Mr. Speaker, I wish to publicly thank John D’Amelio for his dedication to the youth of California. He is one who understands the value of education and has had the generosity to sacrifice much of his life to such a noble cause.

A TRIBUTE TO DR. CHRISTOPHER BEATTY OF JOHN T. MATHER HOSPITAL

HON. MICHAEL P. FORBES
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in the House of Representatives to join my voice with the John T. Mather Hospital community as they honor Dr. Christopher Beatty of East Setauket, Long Island, for his many years of outstanding service and leadership, including his tenure as the chief of General Surgery at Mather Hospital.

On Friday evening, October 23, hundreds of friends, volunteers and staff will gather for Mather Hospital’s 33rd annual “One Enchanted Evening” fundraising dinner. At this year’s gala, Dr. Beatty will be honored with the “Theodore Roosevelt Award” for his dedicated volunteer service to Mather Hospital and the community it serves. This year, in recognition of October as National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the proceeds from Mather Hospital’s annual benefit will go to the Fortunato Breast Health Center and Breast Cancer Treatment.

For Dr. Beatty, winning Mather Hospital’s “Theodore Roosevelt Award” has become somewhat of a family affair. His father also won the award in 1965 for his own many years of service as a member of the Hospital’s Board of Trustees. Dr. Beatty received his medical degree from Georgetown University and completed his internship at Roosevelt Hospital in New York. Following a five-year surgical residency, Dr. Beatty served his country as a Major in the U.S. Army Medical Corps for two years in Stuttgart, West Germany.

A truly gifted surgeon, Dr. Beatty relishes his chosen field because of the genuine satisfaction he derives from being able to use his talents to cure a sick patient. “Surgery is the only branch of medicine where you can actually put your hands on the disease, take it out and see the good results in a relatively short period of time,” Dr. Beatty has said.

The only thing more important than surgery in Dr. Beatty’s life is his family, his wife, Lindsay, and their daughters Shannon, Allison and Devon. When not in surgery or spending time with his family, Dr. Beatty tends to his many rose bushes and is an avid tennis player and runner.

So, Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join the entire John T. Mather Hospital community in honoring Dr. Christopher Beatty, a very deserving recipient of the “Theodore Roosevelt Award” for his dedicated service to the hospital and our entire Long Island community.

MARY McAFFEE WINS MILKEN AWARD

HON. HEATHER WILSON OF NEW MEXICO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mrs. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, during a time when the kids of this nation search for role models, Mary McAfee has become one to her students. Zuni Elementary School principal Mary McAfee was recently awarded $25,000 from the Milken Family Foundation. The Milken award is given to only 160 educators nationwide who display excellence in education.

During her six years as Zuni Elementary’s principal, Mary has improved curriculum, focusing on the enhancement of her school’s technology, and for adapted learning to “real world” situations. Teachers at Zuni think she is an exceptional and caring principal, and one of New Mexico’s best.

Mary McAfee is a role model for us all. She has put in countless hours and effort to improve our future by improving the schools our children attend. Mary was nominated by her co-workers to recognize the hard work she has done to improve our children’s education. And, she is just one of the great educators in New Mexico.

Thanks to the Milken Foundation for recognizing one of New Mexico’s best, and thanks to Ms. McAfee for her dedication to her students and teachers.

TRIBUTE TO FRANK ‘HYLO’ BROWN

HON. HAROLD ROGERS OF KENTUCKY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. ROGERS. Mr. Speaker, on the evening of Tuesday, October 13, the people of Johnson County, Kentucky, are coming together to pay tribute to Frank “Hylo” Brown, an old-time bluegrass singer and songwriter from River, Kentucky, in Johnson County, who has inspired bluegrass and country music lovers for decades.

A talented inspiring musician, young Frank Brown was born in River in 1922. He earned the nickname of “Hylo” because of his incredible vocal range, but it was his compassion and insight as a human being and a musician that have earned him the respect and admiration of those who know him and his music.

Despite being a success on the bluegrass music circuit, he has always remembered where he came from. He was born called River, a one-room school house, and a coal miner’s heritage. Even today, fans still come by the old home place where Hylo currently lives to see his collection of memorabilia from over 50 years of writing and performing.

Hylo once said, “I never set the world on fire, but I made a living.” To the people who know him, he did a lot more than that. That is why the people of Paintsville and Johnson County are paying tribute to Hylo, commending him for over 50 years of bringing music into our homes and into our hearts, being a Legendary Bluegrass Balladeer; the loyalty he has shown to Johnson County and the people of eastern Kentucky; and the kindness and consideration he has shown his fellow performers.

Hylo Brown has not only earned the right to have his name forever placed alongside the U.S. 23 Country Music Highway, in eastern Kentucky, but he has earned our respect and admiration—not just because of the joy of his music has brought us over the years, but because of the good, decent man he has been to all those he has known throughout his life. I commend Hylo Brown, and I commend the people of Paintsville and Johnson County for recognizing his accomplishments.

HONORING PARAMOUNT UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT FOR THEIR PEACEBUILDERS PROGRAM

HON. STEPHEN HORN
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call attention to an excellent program at work among students in the Paramount Unified School District in my district. It is called PeaceBuilders, and its mission is simple: to focus on the positive. It has been proven, both through academic studies and through the individual experiences of PeaceBuilders’ participants, that a focus on positive social relations rather than negative, destructive, or risky behaviors results in increased school attendance, improved academic performance, and decreased violent acts.
The program centers on four basic principles: praise people; give up put-downs; notice hurts and right wrongs; and, seek wise people. When PeaceBuilders praise people, they notice and express sincere appreciation when someone demonstrates acts of kindness or caring, giving attention to positive rather than negative actions. By giving up put-downs, program participants recognize and avoid what has become a mainstay of negative interaction in our culture. They also learn non-violent ways to respond when they are put-down. PeaceBuilders who notice hurts and right wrongs learn ways to make amends when they have caused another person pain, or merely to help another person in need. Finally, when they seek wise people as friends, mentors, and role models, PeaceBuilders surround themselves with the tools they need for continued success and an even brighter and more positive future.

Mr. Speaker, with so much attention today given to the negative, I want to shine the spotlight on the positive. I applaud the Paramount Unified School District not only for adopting this program but for fully embracing it. Paramount was declared the “Outstanding PeaceBuilders District of the World for 1997-1998” by Heartsprings, Inc., the home of PeaceBuilders. The proclamation states that they “have been instrumental in the design of a K through 8 model which will henceforth be known as the ‘Paramount Model.’ May you continue to be a Model for the World to follow.” Congratulations to Paramount on this great accomplishment, and may you spread your positive message to all of our nation’s schools.

AUTHORIZING THE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

SPEECH OF
HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 8, 1998

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition of the Republican impeachment inquiry. The way the House proceeds on an impeachment inquiry is very serious and must be considered in a deliberative manner. Unfortunately, the proposal before us does not create a focused inquiry with realistic time limits on the length and scope. Instead of offering a proposal that is sound and has reasonable standards on what impeachable offenses are, the Republican leadership is rejecting a focused inquiry and is forcing us to vote on a proposal that is endless and causes damage to a fair and just process.

Mr. Speaker, the question at hand is not whether or not to proceed with a formal impeachment inquiry. The question is how do we proceed? We considering such an important matter, will we place such a vote in the hands of election year politics or do we place this vote and process in the hands of fairness, the tenets of our Constitution and good judgment?

Mr. Speaker, it is my hope that my colleagues base their vote on the latter. We have a chance to send this proposal back to the judiciary committee and instruct them to develop a plan that is focused and fair.

However, the lines seem to be drawn and the Republican leadership has convinced their members to vote along party lines. The last chance for a pragmatic approach is lost.

Therefore, I encourage my colleagues of both parties to join together and defeat the Republican proposal. For the sake of fairness, the Republican majority’s effort will move forward with an open-ended process designed not to follow the path of truth, but to simply embarrass the President one month before the congressional elections.

All of us in Congress should be committed to searching for the truth, not political points. But if we choose to forego the search for truth, we do so with a blatant disregard for principles of fairness and justice.

Mr. Speaker, if we move with a process based on those ideas, then as a lawmaking body, we can get back to the important issues that have evaded us this session. In the waning days of the legislative session, we still have a chance to save Social Security, pass a real patient’s bill of rights, improve the quality of education and protect our environment.

I plan to fight and oppose this arbitrary measure, and suggest that process will put an end to this investigation in a timely fashion and gets the House of Representatives back on track to work on the issues that truly matter to this great nation.

TRIBUTE TO MR. ALAN BECK OF JOHN T. MATHER HOSPITAL

HON. MICHAEL P. FORBES
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in the House of Representatives to join with the John T. Mather Hospital community as they honor Alan Beck of Port Jefferson, Long Island, for his many years of outstanding service and leadership to the hospital, including his efforts to date the Mather Leadership Council.

On Friday evening, October 23, hundreds of friends, volunteers and staff will gather for Mather Hospital’s 33rd annual “One Enchanted Evening” fundraising dinner. At this year’s gala, Alan Beck will be honored with the “Theodore Roosevelt Award” for his dedicated volunteer service to Mather Hospital and the community. In recognition of October as National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, proceeds from Mather’s annual benefit will go to the Fortunato Breast Health Center and Breast Cancer Support.

A successful media entrepreneur, Alan Beck has owned radio stations in Baltimore, Minneapolis, Cincinnati and on Long Island. A graduate of the University of Maryland, Alan worked in radio in Baltimore and New York through 1976. It was during that year when he founded American Media, Inc. and bought Long Island radio station WALK, which he soon turned into the country’s most successful suburban radio station. Alan worked to grow his company, adding radio stations in markets nationwide and selling the business to Chancellor Broadcasting.

Though Alan has sold his radio operations, he still manages American Media, a media consulting firm. As the chairman of the Mather Leadership Council since 1977, the year he created the body, Alan has worked tirelessly to support the mission of Mather Hospital.

Drawing upon his skills and talents as a successful businessman, Alan has led fundraising for the Adolescent Psychiatric Recreation Area Project, the Adolescent Psychiatric program and the Hospital’s Capital campaign. Under his command, the Mather Leadership Council has grown to 70 members, each dedicated to making Mather Hospital the best it can be.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives to join the entire John T. Mather Hospital community as we honor Alan Beck, a very deserving recipient of the “Theodore Roosevelt Award” for his dedicated service to the hospital and our entire Long Island community.

TRIBUTE TO REID CHAPEL AME CHURCH OF SUMTER, SOUTH CAROLINA

HON. JAMES E. CLYBURN OF SOUTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. CLYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the Reid Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church of Sumter, South Carolina. The Reid Chapel A.M.E. Church was organized as a Mission in the spring of 1952. The original founders were: Rosa Bell Guess, Carlos Guess, Julia Banding, Evons Banding, Hester Jenkins, David Jenkins, Robin Cabbagestalk, Herbert Isaac Sr., Alice Gaines and Willie Gaines.

After meeting every Sunday for approximately two years, Mr. and Mrs. Guess approached the Presiding Elder of the Sumter District, the late Rev. Marcellus F. Robinson and then pastor of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church in Sumter, former Bishop of the Seventh Episcopal District the Rt. Rev. Frederick Calhoun James, who took their wishes to purchase property for a church to Bishop Frank Madison Reid, Sr. Bishop Reid agreed and shortly thereafter purchased the land and had a ground breaking ceremony. Within a year, the church was built and the dedicatory service was held in October 1955.

The first stewards were Rosa Guess, Julia Banding and Robina Cabbagestalk and Hester Jenkins. The first trustees were Carlos Guess, Evons Banding, David Jenkins and Gus Allen. The first superintendent of the Sunday School was Gus Allen. The first church sextons were Carlos Guess and Blanding children. Rosa Guess served as the church secretary. Thelma Guess and James Linton were the musicians and Choir directors. The first Sunday School teachers were Margarette Guess, LeAnn Jenkins, and Anne Lee Green. The first pastor to be assigned to the church was the late Rev. Ben L. Burroughs of Kingstree, S.C.

During the first revival services held at the church, nineteen youths came to Christ. Vaca-
All Sunday School books and the other materials were donated by Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church. The piano, which is still being used, was given to the church by the late Elder Robinson. Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church family under the leadership of Rev. F.C. James donated the first set of pews and hymnals. During the 1970s, the church’s attendance declined to less than five, and it became impossible to maintain a full time pastor. The church doors were closed. In the 1980s, Reid Chapel’s doors were reopened. And in 1987, the Annual Conference appointed Rev. Eliza E. Black to pastor the closed mission. This new “Venture of Faith” began on September 19, 1991. The doors of Reid Chapel opened at 8:30 AM. Arriving with the new pastor was her faithful and supporting spouse Theodore, her youngest daughter Thea, and her grand daughter Michael and Renard Black, and a niece Amandad Johnson. By ten o’clock, twenty odd adults and children had come to welcome the new pastor and to share the first morning service ever in the 39 year old history of the mission. When membership to membership was extended, Reid Chapel received its first member, Willie M. Martin.

In the Spring of 1994, Reid Chapel purchased a house adjacent to the church’s propert. Isaac Wims, a member of the community and supporter of Reid Chapel, completely renovated the two bedroom home as a special gift to the church. This property became Reid Chapel’s Resource Center. Ground was broken for the Educational Building. It took the congregation only two years to complete the 2560 square foot edifice.

The worship service was moved from the small original block sanctuary to the multipurpose room to the new Educational Building in November, 1995. Church records reveal that there were times that more than 100 worshippers packed into the pews of that little chapel. Many conversions, baptisms, weddings and funerals are logged in the church files. It took less than one conference year to complete the work on the sanctuary.

Officially, Pat Black was the contractor on record and provided the administrative functions. Her son Randolph Black, a Trustee of the church, a highly skilled brick mason and contractor, directed the work. He also laid many of the blocks himself. The building committee consisted of the faithful Stewards (Henry Murray, Rebecca Hall, Kenneth Black, Rosa Guess, and Marguerite Jones) and Trustees (Randolph Black, Debra Bradley, Alma Murray, Margie Bradley, Christopher Hall, John ODenson, Elizabeth Mox, Besena Bradley and Collette Bradley). It was Randolph Black who received the vision and the plan to build the sanctuary furniture. Matthew Jones and Billy Olden assisted in executing the vision. These men literally built the chairs, the companion table, offering table and the flower stands. Margie Bradley assisted Billy Olden in finishing the furniture. Most of the wood was donated by Debra Bradley. The decorative work was donated by Williams Furniture Company, Inc. Henry Murray continued to be the dutiful steward and helper.

While the community has called this church Reid Chapel, the founding fathers legally identified the church as “The Walnut Hill Community AME Church” which remained the official name of the church until December 1997. At that time, proper documents were drawn up and presented to the Rev. Robert L. McQuant, Presiding Elder of the Sumter District and the Rt. Rev. John Hurst Adams, the Presiding Bishop of the African AME Church to legally claim the known name, and the “legal” name Walnut Hill Community AME Church was officially removed from all documents.

Today the Reid Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church stands ready to serve all of the citizens of the Walnut Hill Community, and the City and County of Sumter. I appreciate my colleagues joining me in honoring this great church and its outstanding leaders.

REGARDING: REPUBLIC OF CHINA’S NATIONAL DAY

HON. SOLOMON P. ORTIZ
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, in recent years, the Republic of China on Taiwan has emerged as a major economic power in the world. Recent world economic events offer a special lesson in the power of democracies in global economic affairs.

Their economic success is directly attributable to freely elected democratic leadership. These leaders understand that a strong economy is necessary for political reform. The fact that Taiwan has survived the latest Asian financial crisis relatively unscathed is the lesson in the power of democracy.

From its one-party past, the Republic of China has grown into a more sophisticated democracy with a number of political parties. The Republic of China strongly supports individual freedom, human rights, and a dialogue with any other country in the world.

Mr. Speaker, let us show our admiration of our friends in the Republic of China by congratulating them on their 87th National Day, October 10, 1998.

At a time when it is even more apparent that the world’s economies are interconnected, the United States can find an oasis of strong economic fundamentals in the Republic of China.

CELEBRATION OF THE COMPLETION OF THE KIDS’ CREATED KINGDOM PROJECT

HON. RON KLINK
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. KLINK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the efforts of the organizers and the volunteers of the Kids’ Created Kingdom project. In only five days, volunteers built a 15,000 square foot, state-of-the-art playground complex for the children of Ellwood City. Six hundred people gathered to celebrate their achievements with a picnic and dedication the evening it was finished.

I would like to pay special recognition to some of the key individuals in this project. The Project General Coordinators were Tim Post and Earla Marshall. The Core Committee consisted of Harold Marshall, Cindy Falotico, John Carolino, Jeff Berendt, Steve Oliver, Ellwood “Woody” Hazen, Rick and Sharon McClintick, Terri and Larry Crespo, Tom Yoho, Mary Post, Nan Beachem, Beverly Todd, Kim Rangel, Carole Houghton, Julie D’Amico, Cathy Basler, Rosina Betz, Sharon Razani, Wesley Calve, Peggy Figuret, and Robin Lucas. The Construction Site Captains were Bosse Ross, Ernie Mallory, Jerry Maine, Jerry Hulick, Sam and Beth Kasper, Allen Polochak, “Skip” Volpe, Dave Buana, Joe Hawrylak, Jim Palagallo.

These individuals along with many volunteers worked hard to not only construct the playground but to raise the necessary funds. The project played a significant role in the City and County of Sumter. I appreciate the City and County of Sumter, the first non-profit interracial day care center in the United States.

In 1968, Dr. Smith started with 26 children in a seven-room basement apartment in central city Newark to establish one of the first day care programs in the United States and the first non-profit interracial day care center in New Jersey to provide day care for children from 21 months to five years old. If we go back to 1968, it was a time that women while moving into the workforce had very limited resources for child care. This sometimes meant that these families had to depend on public assistance for survival rather than become self-sufficient. Today, we see the benefits of providing safe, clean and educatable day care services. The lack of day care was a lemon to Dr. Smith. She took her knowledge, skills and foresight to make some lemonade that has quenched the thirst of day care need for countless families and children.

Babyland Family Services, Inc. has evolved to comprise 11 different facilities offering 20 separate programs that benefit over 1,500 children, women and families each year. It has a staff of over 200, volunteer support of almost 700 and a reputation that extends to the international arena.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure my colleagues will want to join me in thanking Dr. Mary Smith and Babyland as they are recognized for their hard work and dedication to the health, well-being and education of children from urban areas. I would also like to encourage all citizens to become interested in helping the future, our children, thus ensuring a brighter future for them and the generations to come.
improve the community of Elwood City for its children.

TRIBUTE TO JIM RUPP

HON. GLENN POSHARD
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. POSHARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to my constituent and dear friend, Mr. "Jolly" Jim Rupp of Decatur, Illinois who has recently passed. He was a devoted public official and my condolences and best wishes go to his family and all who will miss him.

Some of my Illinois colleagues may remember Jim as Decatur’s mayor from 1966 to 1976 and state senator until 1986. But anybody who knew Jim, knew him as “Jolly Jim.” He was always happy, rarely ever down in spirit. His smile would warm you up on the coldest of mornings, and his personality was genuine. Jim got along with anybody and everybody. This was his best quality not only as a politician, but as a person. He was cut from a different type of political cloth. Jim realized that politics relied on personal qualities, and paying attention to the grass roots. He would make visits just about everywhere he represented to arouse interest in issues, and gain support from constituents. In fact, he was once quoted that he loved making these visits so much, that he could rarely ever complete a personal house chore. Nevertheless, he took the concept of politician to mean personable, and in touch with his constituents, which is a quality public officials still need to follow.

Jim grew up in New Jersey, and served in World War II and the Korean War proudly for this nation. He married Florence Reineke in 1944, who unfortunately passed away last December. He moved to Decatur in the 1950’s and became partner and later sole owner of Creighton-Jackson Insurance Agency. Jim was then elected mayor several years later in 1966. He also offered much of his time outside of public office in the Decatur community.

Jim was a member of the Rotary International, VFW Post 99, Decatur Shriners Club and the American Legion Post 105. Moreover, Jim was a devout Christian and a charter member of Woodland Chapel Presbyterian Church. He is survived by his sons James and Jeffrey and his grandchildren.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in recognizing Mr. Jim Rupp, whose dedication to his community has had a profound impact on those who knew him, including myself. It has been an honor to represent him in the United States Congress. I will miss “Jolly Jim” immensely. His style was so unique and he was so humble. Many of our national and local leaders need to follow in his footsteps to succeed in politics and in life as he did.

A TRIBUTE TO FRANK PALLONE

HON. GARY L. ACKERMAN
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, earlier today at a meeting of the Congressional Caucus of India and Indian Americans a number of our colleagues honored me by electing me Co-Chairman of the Caucus. In doing so, I am being asked to fill a pair of big shoes by succeeding the Caucus’s founder and first Co-Chairman, FRANK PALLONE.

Mr. Speaker, the Caucus on India and Indian Americans was founded more than five years ago by Frank Pallone. It has a large and vibrant Indian American community, and Frank decided their voice needed to be heard in the Congress. What began as a handful of Members five years ago has been transformed into a thriving Caucus of more than one hundred Members, one of the largest ethnic Caucuses in the Congress.

Mr. Speaker, much of this success and growth is a tribute to FRANK PALLONE’s leadership and energy. During his term as Co-Chairman, he has worked tirelessly in the House to improve relations between India, the world’s largest democracy, and the United States, the world’s oldest democracy. The Caucus has been a forum for important discussions between the Caucus Members and senior politicians, diplomats and industrialists from India. Outside Washington, there has been heavy, very active, traveling to cities around the United States where he has met with hundreds of Indian American community leaders.

Mr. Speaker, as the Caucus of India and Indian Americans enters its sixth year, I know my colleagues join me in congratulating Frank on a job well done. I am certain the other Members of the Caucus agree with me that we are looking forward to his continued strong participation as a senior Member of the Caucus and to his strong support of the interests of the Indian American Community.

RESOLUTION REASSERTING U.S. OPPOSITION TO THE UNILATERAL DECLARATION OF A PALESTINIAN STATE

HON. MATT SALMON
OF ARIZONA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. SALMON. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to introduce with Representative Jim Saxton and Majority Whip Tom DeLay a resolution calling on President Clinton to publicly and unequivocally state that the United States will actively oppose a unilaterally declared Palestinian state and that any such action would have severe negative consequences for Palestinian relations with the United States. Though the United States has traditionally opposed a unilaterally declared Palestinian state, recent statements by the Administration have been ambiguous, and contradictory to its previous policy. This shift in the attitude by the U.S. government has been followed by recent announcements by the Palestinian Authority of their intention to declare a Palestinian state unilaterally. Such a declaration would be a violation of the Oslo Accords. It would also pose a threat to Israel, and it would have a destabilizing effect on the entire Middle East. Therefore, it is urgent that the U.S. reaffirms its opposition to a unilateral declaration of a Palestinian state.

For decades U.S. policy has been to oppose statements in the United States Congress designating Jerusalem as the capital of any Palestinian state. I would like to call upon all of you from this place—the source of international legitimacy and peacemaking, the guardian of freedom, security and stability, and the source for the achievement of justice and prosperity for humankind—to stand by our people, especially as the five-year transitional period provided for in the Palestinian-Israeli interim agreements expires on May 4, 1999. In mid-July, Chairman Arafat stated that “there is a transition period of 5 years and after 5 years we have the right to declare an independent Palestinian state.” Even more recently, on September 24th, Chairman Arafat’s cabinet threatened to unilaterally declare a Palestinian state that would encompass a portion of Jerusalem: “At the end of the interim period, it (the Palestinian government) shall declare the establishment of a Palestinian state on all Palestinian land occupied since 1967, with Jerusalem as the eternal capital of the Palestinian state.” (The Columbian, Mark Lavie, Associated Press, September 25, 1998.) Chairman Arafat continued his push for statehood on September 28th in a speech before the United Nations, calling upon world leaders to support an independent Palestinian state:

I would like to call upon all of you from this place—the source of international legitimacy and peacemaking, the guardian of freedom, security and stability, and the source for the achievement of justice and prosperity for humankind—to stand by our people, especially as the five-year transitional period provided for in the Palestinian-Israeli interim agreements expires on May 4, 1999. Our people demand of us to shoulder our responsibilities, and they await the establishment of their independent state.

A unilateral declaration of statehood would be a renouncement of the Oslo Accords and could ignite hostilities. The Oslo Accords make no provision for the creation of a Palestinian state and, in fact, prohibit the Palestinian Authority from taking any actions that would affect the sovereignty of the Israeli-administered territories. Earlier this week Assistant Secretary of State Indyk said that a declaration of statehood “becomes a renouncement of the Oslo Accords and a renouncement of almost immediate confrontation…” (Hillel Kuttler, Jerusalem Post, October 4, 1998). The threat of designating Jerusalem as the capital of a unilaterally declared Palestinian state is particularly offensive. It is also an affront to official U.S. policy. The Jerusalem Embassy Act of 1995 codified that “Jerusalem should be recognized as the capital of the State of Israel.” In light of Chairman Arafat’s repeated threats to unilaterally declare a Palestinian state, and due to the lack of clarity in the Administration’s position on this issue, it is important that Congress urge the President to state explicitly that a unilateral declaration of Palestinian statehood is in contravention to long-standing U.S. policy and is a violation of the Oslo Accords, and the United States will oppose and refuse to recognize such action.

HON. MICHAEL P. FORBES OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of the “Telecommunications Competition and Consumer Protection Act of 1998” (H.R. 3888).

Enactment of the “Telecommunications Competition and Consumer Protection Act of 1998” is critical to end the problem of “slamming,” that effects more than 20,000 consumers a year, according to the General Accounting Office. This legislation imposes a set of requirements that, when implemented by the industry, will eliminate the financial incentive for any carrier to make illegal changes in a consumer’s selection of his or her telecommunications carrier.

Equally important are changes that I pressed for and that were made to the bill when it was marked up by the full Commerce Committee. This legislation avoids imposing burdens that will be as extensive or intrusive as some traditional rules and regulations placed on the telecommunications industry, while taking steps to avoid financial incentive for a carrier to engage in “slamming.”

The “Telecommunications Competition and Consumer Protection Act of 1998” takes the approach of encouraging telecommunications providers to abide by a code of contact that includes a self-police mechanism. While this type of code is a common practice in many industries, it has yet to be adopted by telecommunications providers in the context of protecting consumers from “slamming.” H.R. 3888 encourages the industry, under the direction of the Federal Communications Commission, to put in place the requirements of such a code. Under the code approach, the Commission shall engage in limited and minimal regulatory oversight; it will serve as a backstop, ensuring the proper code provisions are in place and, where appropriate, punishing those who willfully violate the code. By agreeing to adhere to the code, carriers can avoid more burdensome regulation and the significant civil penalties that can be imposed against companies that fail to follow the code and “slam” unsuspecting consumers.

This bill strikes the proper balance and I believe it will stop the unacceptable practice of “slamming.” I urge my colleagues to support it.

HON. JANE HARMAN OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. HARMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to join the family and friends of Robert E. (Bob) Chase and commend him on his retirement at the end of this month as Assistant City Administrative Officer for the City of Los Angeles.

Bob, is retiring after 41 years of distinguished service during which he served the citizens of Los Angeles and four mayors—Norma Pouslin, Sam Yorty, Tom Bradley and Richard Riordan. Soon after he first joined the city in 1957, Bob rapidly rose into the city administrative office, being named to the position of assistant city administrative officer and executive officer in 1971 in recognition of his management skills. These same skills earned him recognition within the Metropolitan Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration, which elected him president in 1975.

Bob’s record tenure as Executive Officer of the city administrative office has been a source of stability and reassurance to the city’s residents. Indeed, the office has been at the center of all of the major events and changes which have shaped the city of Los Angeles. Most importantly, the administrative office enjoys a nationally-recognized reputation overseeing the fiscal affairs of the nation’s second largest city—undoubtedly, to Bob’s talents and those of the fine staff he assembled.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud that Bob Chase is a constituent. He is an example of the high quality of public servants who serve the city and one of many who devote considerable time and effort to build a strong and stable community.

I know Bob is looking forward to spending more time with his wife, Sallie, and their family. From time to time, I understand he will also honor his already formidable skills at golf. In all the future ventures to come, Bob will do very well and, again, join in thanking him for his service to the residents of the City of Los Angeles.

HON. GENE GREEN OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. GREEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate and pay tribute to Burbank Middle School on their 50th anniversary. This wonderful school has been serving the community of Houston, Texas faithfully for 50 years, and is well deserving of recognition and praise. Burbank Middle School is truly a model school that has a distinguished student body and staff.

Burbank was dedicated on September 20, 1949, with 1,700 students, parents, teachers, and school administrators in attendance. The building’s original cost was $2,250,000. This was a large investment in those days and demonstrates the commitment that the residents had for quality education.

The dedication of the cornerstone was performed by past school board president Ewing Warlein. During the ceremony, he said: “This great structure is dedicated to education in the finest sense of the word and is not only a monument to education, but a monument to the American way of life, to free enterprise and our constitutional form of government. This building is dedicated not only to the education of the children in this district but also to the boys and girls of generations yet unborn.”

Education is the key to our children’s future and the key to our country’s continued success. The teachers and staff at Burbank Middle School also believe this and have worked hard to ensure that all their students have an opportunity for quality education.

The twenty-first century will bring new challenges for our young people, and we have an obligation to educate them to deal with these challenges. With the leadership of the parents, teachers, and staff of Burbank Middle School, we can accomplish anything.

For years, families have known this school as a living monument in the community, making it a good place to study and learn. I am certain that the strength of this community would not be what it is today without the commitment of this school. I am honored to congratulate the members of the Burbank Middle School for making it a source of community pride for the past 50 years.

HURRICANE RELIEF FOR PUERTO RICO RESIDENTS

HON. STEVE R. ROTHMAN OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. ROTHMAN. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to extend my deepest sympathies and offer my support to those on the island of Puerto Rico who have suffered losses due to the damage caused by Hurricane Georges. I would also like to clear up some confusion regarding the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the Federal agency currently working to alleviate the pain and suffering caused by the hurricane.

I recently learned that erroneous reports regarding the funding of FEMA have been circulating in Puerto Rico. Some in the Commonwealth have stated to the press that funding for the FEMA program is obtained from local taxes and user fees within Puerto Rico and thus, the inhabitants of Puerto Rico are being forced to fully fund the FEMA relief efforts on their own. These reports are completely untrue.

On the contrary, the funds for FEMA come from the U.S. Treasury general fund and are appropriated by the Appropriations Committees in the House of Representatives and the Senate. The general fund is supported by the collection of federal taxes and federal user fees from citizens of the mainland of the United States. Thus the burden of FEMA relief efforts is not being incurred solely by citizens of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

I urge all of my colleagues in the United States Congress to join me in continuing efforts to aid our fellow American citizens in Puerto Rico in their time of need. We need to continue to seek disaster relief funding for FEMA before Congress adjourns.

HONORING CLIFFORD R. HOPE
HON. JERRY MORAN OF KANSAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. MORAN of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce legislation naming the post office in Garden City, Kansas after former Congressman Clifford R. Hope.

Mr. Hope represented the 7th Congressional district in Kansas from 1927 to 1957. During those 30 years, Mr. Hope rose in prominence in the House and eventually became the Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture. In fact, he was the last Republican of the Agriculture Committee prior to the Republican party gaining control of the House in 1994.

During Mr. Hope’s political career, he rose first in the Kansas House of Representatives becoming the Speaker of the Kansas House. Following his election to Congress, Mr. Hope became the Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and was deeply involved in establishing many of the agricultural programs still in existence today. In addition to his work on behalf of agriculture, Mr. Hope was a strong advocate for defense programs and was heavily involved in the military programs essential to the war efforts of World War II.

Mr. Speaker, as a fellow Kansan I am proud that I associate myself with Mr. Hope and I am honored to introduce this legislation.

A TRIBUTE IN MEMORY OF BENNY WATERS
HON. GREGORY W. MEEKS OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great sense of loss that I pay tribute to Mr. Benny Waters, a jazz legend and the oldest touring jazz musician, who died on August 11.

Benjamin Arthur Waters was born the youngest of seven children to Edward and Francis Waters on January 23, 1902 in Brighton, Maryland. Mr. Waters started his musical education at age 5 with organ lessons, and he soon moved to reed instruments. While in high school, still in the pre-jazz era, he played synthesized music with Charlie Miller’s band. In his late teenage years he attended the Boston Conservatory of Music, where he studied theory and arranging and gave private clarinet lessons. Among his pupils was Harry Carney, who went on to play baritone saxophone with Duke Ellington.

In 1952, a turning point came in Waters’ life when he was asked to join Jimmy Archey’s Band for a European tour. The saxophonist decided to stay on in Paris and remained there making it his home while touring festivals and giving concerts in Europe for the next 42 years. Last year, the French government presented Waters with its distinguished “Chevalier Legion d’Honneur.”

Failing eyes and the need for cataract surgery brought the saxophonist home and unfortunately resulted in losing his eyesight. Waters’ never-failing buoyancy and upbeat spirit brought him to the attention of the “Statesmen of Jazz” Tour, and he was invited to become a founding member. Through his performance, he achieved a homegroove in America. Waters, along with his fellow “Statesmen,” contributed his time to Arbors Records for the “Statesmen” CD, and its sales are donated to perpetuate the nationwide and international tours. His most recent recording was “Birdland Birthday—Live at 95.”

In blindness, he persevered, averaging 100 dates a year until this year, making a second-floor apartment in Hollis, Queens—a suburban town in my district—his home base. Jazz historians indicate that Benny was one of only six survivors of jazz recording artists of the late 1920s who were still active, along with Claude “Fiddler” Williams, Benny Carter, Lionel Hampton, Spiegel Willcox and Rosy Mchargue.

Benny will be missed by his family, friends, colleagues, fans and communities across the world.

AUTHORIZED COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER SUFFICIENT GROUNDS EXIST FOR THE IMPEACHMENT OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON CLINTON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
SPEECH OF HON. GARY L. ACKERMAN OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice my strong objections over the Republican resolution ordering an impeachment inquiry against President Clinton. This has become a one-sided, all-out and disgraceful witch hunt into the private life of the President, and I strongly disagree with its objectives and methods.

Although I believe that the President’s behavior with Ms. Lewinsky was indefensible and disgraceful, and I certainly do not condone it, it is in no way an impeachable offense. Given the existing evidence, I believe that there is no basis for impeachment of the President. Lying about an extramarital affair, regardless of to whom, does not rise to the level of an impeachable offense, as defined by the Constitution: “The President shall be removed from Office on Impeachment for, and Conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors.” While the President’s behavior was offensive, I believe that it does not fit this definition. I sincerely doubt that the farmers of the Constitution had Kenneth Starr’s report—which focused on private sexual behavior—in mind when drafting the impeachment clause.

It is time for us to put this issue behind us and move on to matters that are vital to our nation. Our country has many challenges to confront, and it is imperative that Congress give its attention to the very important issues that affect the daily lives of all Americans—such as improving our education system, protecting Medicare and Social Security, and strengthening the world economy. Over the course of the 105th Congress, we have witnessed an abuse of power.

And it is this Congress that is guilty of the abuse. You see, Mr. Speaker, we abuse the power we have when children go to bed hungry, and we do little or nothing about it. We abuse our power when Social Security is in trouble and we sit idly by;

We abuse our power when we don’t address the problems of the environment, such as polluted waterways and dirty air;

We abuse our power when the tobacco companies poison our children without regard;

We abuse our power when our campaign financing system needs reform and we ignore it;

We abuse our power when our students are lagging behind those of other nations and we don’t address the issue properly;

I think it becomes painfully obvious that the Republican leadership wants simply to ignore the priorities that remain important to the general public, while insisting on following through with a purely partisan and never-ending investigation into the private life of our President. This is something that I simply cannot be a party to and that I strongly oppose.

PATRICIA ROBERTS-HARRIS
HON. GLENN POSHARD OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. POSHARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize one of Illinois’ most prominent government officials and a dear constituent of Mattoon, Illinois, Mrs. Patricia Roberts-Harris. It is an honor to acknowledge one of the 19th congressional districts own as Mrs. Fran Phillips-Calhoun and the Patricia Roberts-Harris Commemorative Campaign celebrate and organize their energy on a U.S. postal stamp and a biographical book on Pat Harris.

As many of my colleagues may remember, Pat was a distinguished official in both the United States government and the arena of international diplomacy. But before she became the first black female U.S. cabinet member and the first black female ambassador, she was one of Illinois’ favorite daughters. A native of Mattoon, she was proud of Illinois and wanted to do more for the United States and the African-American community. Pat was the only daughter born to Bert Fitzgerald and Mildred Brodie Roberts of Mattoon. During her early childhood, Pat’s family owned a farm and she attended the local elementary and middle school in Mattoon. By high school age, her family moved to Chicago, where she finished at Englewood High School. Pat later attended Howard University in 1942 and graduated within three years, summa cum laude. She wanted to return back to Illinois and get involved in the Chicago community as an activist at the Young Women’s Christian Association (YWCA).

However, it was in Washington where Pat became well known for her tireless public service and political leadership positions. In 1949, she worked for Delta Sigma Theta Sorority as executive director and with Howard University as dean of students and professor of law. She even had... enough time to fit George Washington law school into the picture, where she graduated first in the graduating class of 1960. Within five years, Pat was appointed by President Lyndon Johnson as the first black female ambassador to Luxembourg. She also later became the first black female U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare under President Jimmy Carter.

Pat had a tremendous professional career, as well as a style unlike anyone else in public office. She had a unique way or organizing and formulating policy strategies effectively. Pat's expectations were high, but she took every turn and situation in life head on. This was evident as professor, ambassador, public official and particularly when she served as co-chair for President Kennedy's National Women's Committee for Civil Rights in 1963. She not only played an essential leadership role in this position, she garnered support for the enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

In 1985, Pat passed away. She bequeathed part of her will to a public affairs program named in her honor at her alma mater of Howard University. Pat wanted to make sure that future generations would have the same opportunities as she, and continue to pursue her goals through government internships. This demonstrates just how dedicated Pat Harris was to the African-American community and spreading the influence of public service to other.

Mr. Speaker, it is an honor to recognize Pat Harris as the commemorative campaign continues organizing her postal stamp, and as Mr. Calhoun completes writing her childhood biography on this great public official. I wish the organization, and Mrs. Calhoun, my very best wishes and future success as they finish high-lighting the many accomplishments of Pat Harris.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. MINAL KUMAR

HON. PATSY T. MINK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Speaker, I take this opportunity to give thanks for the life of Minal Kumar, an extraordinarily dedicated and effective advocate for the health of women and children in the State of Hawaii. As the only public health nutritionist on the island of Kauai, Mrs. Kumar, in the span of only six years, managed to triple the number of clients served by the State Department of Health's Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) programs and for the first time extended WIC programs to the largest Native Hawaiian community.

Minal Kumar's special mission was to encourage women to breast-feed their infants because of the significant health benefits breast-fed babies enjoy and because of the special bond that breast-feeding promotes between mother and child. Mrs. Kumar is remembered with great fondness by the people of Kauai for her commitment to the health of women and children and for her personal contribution to relief efforts after Hurricane Iniki devastated the island.

It has been almost a year since Minal Kumar's passing, but she has not been forgotten by her many friends and admirers on Kauai. A garden at the Kauai office of the Hawaii Department of Health was dedicated this past summer and a memorial fund benefiting Hawaii Mothers' Milk has been established in her name. I send my heartfelt aloha to Minal's loving family—her husband Dr. Krishna Kumar, daughter Roshni, and son Akash—and I ask all of my colleagues to join me in honoring the memory and special contributions of Minal Kumar.

THE HOUSEPARENT PROTECTION ACT

HON. JOSEPH R. PITTST

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing legislation to provide an exemption from Department of Labor (DOL) wage and hour regulations to employees of private, non-profit institutions who serve as houseparents.

Houseparents are men and women who work and live in certain institutions and care for and supervise residents of the institution. Usually in compensation for their services, houseparents receive a fixed annual salary, food, lodging, and transportation.

Mr. Speaker, in my district that use the houseparent model, they are: a home for teenage mothers with small children, a home for pregnant young women, a home for disabled adults, as well as several homes for troubled and abused children. These homes have been very effective in caring and ministering to these needy individuals. Because of the care and support of their houseparents, most of these individuals are able to leave the group home and become productive members of society.

Mr. Speaker, the Department of Labor's recent interpretation of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) as it applies to houseparents has resulted in lawsuits and large legal fees for a small non-profit group home in my district, and several other homes across the nation. Houseparents serve a much different purpose than other caretakers of institutions.

Houseparents volunteer to permanently reside at the group home in which they work. Caring for the individuals in their home is more of a calling to them than an occupation.

The DOL, however, has decided that these houseparents should be paid minimum wage and overtime pay for the time they are at the home. This means that many houseparents would need to be paid 24 hours a day, even for the time they are sleeping, or not directly caring for the residents of the home. This ridiculous interpretation by the DOL has driven several homes to the point that many of them can no longer provide services and have been shut down. Other homes are being forced to use a type of employment model whereby "teams" of houseparents would be required to work in eight-hour shifts to care for the residents. Not only does this shift model also drive up costs, but also destroys the family-like arrangement of the home.

Mr. Speaker, houseparents serve a very important role in these institutions. They create a family atmosphere for individuals who do not have parents or whose parents are unable to care for them. Individuals who work in these homes do so out of a selfless calling, and provide structure and care for a vulnerable group of people in our country. My bill will end the Department of Labor's policy of stopping houseparents from caring for people who need their loving support.

HONORING AURORA METALS ON ITS 100TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. BENJAMIN L. CARIDN

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. CARDIN of Maryland. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Robert P. Gajdys, who is retiring after 8 years as executive director of the Community Assistance Network, Inc., Baltimore County's non-profit community action agency. The Community Assistance Network (CAN) operates over three dozen programs that serve the diversified needs of more than 50,000 low-income families.

An outspoken advocate for the poor and disadvantaged, Bob Gajdys turned CAN from a $250,000 surplus. Because of his leadership and diversity of its workforce has contributed greatly to its success. The firm's dedication and commitment to providing high quality products at a fair price represent the ideals that have made our nation great, and are, in no small part, what have enabled Aurora Metals to grow and prosper.

Mr. Speaker, I urge you and my colleagues to join me in honoring the workers and management of Aurora Metals on reaching this centennial milestone and wish them continued success for the future.

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT P. GAJDYS

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Robert P. Gajdys, who is retiring after 8 years as executive director of the Community Assistance Network, Inc., Baltimore County's non-profit community action agency. The Community Assistance Network (CAN) operates over three dozen programs that serve the diversified needs of more than 50,000 low-income families.

An outspoken advocate for the poor and disadvantaged, Bob Gajdys turned CAN from an agency with a $100,000 deficit to one with $250,000 surplus. Because of his leadership and exceptional abilities, CAN has built and strengthened regional partnerships, worked to develop state-wide anti-poverty strategies, and received national recognition for program excellence.

Before his tenure at CAN, Bob spent 32 years working for the Federal Government. He has served as Director of Personnel at NOAA, Director of Administration at the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and Deputy Director of the Office of Program Development and Accountability at the Department of Labor. A Native American of the Mohawk tribe, Bob also served as Deputy Director of Indian and Territorial Affairs at the Department of the Interior.

I invite my colleagues to join me in honoring two young men in my district who have earned the distinguished rank of Eagle Scout. Mr. Joshua Westly Robinson and Mr. Loren Christopher Robinson, two brothers from Coats, North Carolina exemplify leadership and community service, as a bright hope for the future of America.

Joshua Westly Robinson began his Scouting career as a member of Cub Scout Pack 779 in 1989. As a Cub Scout, Joshua earned the God and Me and God and Family Religious Awards, his WEBELOS Badge, and nineteen Activity Badges. In January of 1993, he earned his Arrow of Light Cub Scout Badge and bridged over to Boy Scout Troop 779. He has served as a Troop Guide, Patrol Leader, and Senior Patrol Leader as a member of Troop 779. To date, he has earned a total of 56 Merit Badges. Joshua is currently a Brotherhood Member in the Order of the Arrow, and Honor Camper’s Organization.

Joshua embodies the idea of a student athlete, earning many academic awards while participating in four team sports at Erwin Triton High School. Currently, Joshua is a junior at the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics. He earned his Eagle Scout Award on December 12, 1997 and is currently eligible to wear a Gold Palm.

Loren Christopher Robinson also began his Scouting career as a member of Cub Scout Pack 779 in 1989. He earned both the God and Me and God and Family Religious Awards, and nineteen Activity Badges on his way to becoming a WEBELOS Scout in 1992. He became a Boy Scout in 1993 after achieving the Arrow of Light Award. As a member of Troop 779, Loren has served as Patrol Leader and as Assistant Senior Patrol Leader. To date, Loren has earned 50 Merit Badges and is currently a Brotherhood Member of the Order of the Arrow.

Loren is currently a Junior at Erwin Triton High School where he excels in the sport of swimming. He has won many state and local awards, including representing the state of North Carolina in national competition. Loren earned his Eagle Scout Award on August 17, 1998.

As a former Scout leader myself and a recipient of the Silver Beaver Award, I know the difference that Scouting can make in young lives. I congratulate Joshua Westly Robinson and Loren Christopher Robinson on their momentous achievements. I wish them both all the best in their future endeavors.

ART OF THE GOLD RUSH—A FASCINATING AND IMAGINATIVE EXHIBITION AT THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART

HON. TOM LANTOS
OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of my distinguished colleagues in the House to an outstanding exhibition entitled “Art of the Gold Rush,” which will be on display at the Smithsonian Institution’s National Museum of American Art from October 30, 1998 until March 7, 1999. I am pleased that it has been chosen to celebrate the 150th anniversary of this defining moment in the history of Northern California and in the development of the American West in such an appropriate manner.

On January 24, 1848—nine days before California was admitted to the United States by Mexico—an obscure laborer and European immigrant named James W. Marshall discovered a few nuggets of gold in the South Fork of the American River at Sutter’s Mill. He presented his find to his employer, Captain John A. Sutter, who joined Marshall in a fruitless attempt to keep news of the treasure secret.

Slowly, but with unabashed excitement inspired by the hope of a quick fortune, reports of the discovery leaked throughout the Bay Area. Proclaimed the Californian newspaper on May 29: “The whole country from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and from the sea shore to the base of the Sierra Nevadas, resounds with the sordid cry of GOLD, GOLD, GOLD!”

Before long, the gold euphoria spread across the entire country and around the world. Declared President James K. Polk in a message to Congress on December 5: “The accounts of abundance of gold are of such an extraordinary character as would scarcely command belief were they not corroborated by the authentic reports of officers in the public service.” The following year, tens of thousands of adventurers and dreamers descended upon San Francisco, hoping for a “lucky strike” and a lifetime of wealth. In the process, the City by the Bay swelled from a “lucky strike” and a lifetime of wealth. In the process, the City by the Bay swelled from a

ON THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DISCOVERY OF GOLD AT SUTTER’S MILL

HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to St. Elias Post 1618 of the Catholic War Veterans on the occasion of their 50th anniversary.

On the date October 7, 1948 is very significant for members of St. Elias Church and the Catholic War Veterans community. On this date, St. Elias Post 1618 was installed as a Catholic War Veterans Post under the leadership of George Kudlak as Commander and Rev. Demetrius Yackanich as Chaplain. Stephen J. Zipay was a member of the initial Officers Roster and Charter Membership.

Throughout the years, veterans of World War I and World War II were joined by veterans of the Korean and Vietnam conflicts to create a unified veterans organization in Greenpoint, Brooklyn. These veterans combined their Catholic heritage and patriotism as veterans of the United States Armed Forces. With the establishment of a headquarters building, many visitors joined in annual events sponsored by the St. Elias Post 1618, Special guests included sports figure Stan Musial and Bishop Fulton Sheen. St. Elias Post sponsors annual parades throughout the streets of Greenpoint.

On November 15, 1998, St. Elias Post 1618 will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their post and of the installment of their officers. Stephen J. Zipay will maintain the exclusive honor of having been installed for the 50th time. He has maintained every position in St. Elias Post 1618 throughout his tenure, including an entire decade as post commander.

Mr. Speaker, I am humbled to bring to your attention an important anniversary in the history of St. Elias Post 1618 of the Catholic War Veterans. I am proud to have such a dedicated veterans organization in my district.

CELEBRATING THE 87TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA ON TAIWAN

HON. MATT SALMON
OF ARIZONA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. SALMON. Mr. Speaker, I extend my best wishes and greetings to the Republic of China on Taiwan on the 87th anniversary of the founding of their nation.

Under President Chiang Kai-shek and Vice President Chiang Ching-kuo, the Republic of China continues to foster the freedoms of speech, religion, and press, and to further the principles of democracy and human rights. The United States has been a staunch supporter of the Republic of China, and recognizes it as the one and only legal government of China.

Mr. Speaker, Taiwan under President Chiang Ching-kuo has made great progress. Taiwan has become a major trading nation, and its GNP is one of the world's largest. Its growth in per capita income has improved the lives of the 21 million hardworking men and women of Taiwan. Furthermore, the rapid democratization and constitutional reforms on Taiwan in recent years have made Taiwan a model for many nations.

I also applaud President Lee for resuming bilateral discussions between Taiwan and the Chinese mainland.

Happy Birthday to Taiwan.

HONORING RONALD L. MACE FOR PUBLIC SERVICE FOR AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES

HON. BOB ETHERIDGE OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor the life of Ronald L. Mace, a North Carolinian who worked to make the world a more accessible place for persons with disabilities.

Mr. Mace was an architect who envisioned environments that were accessible and comfortable for everyone. He was a pioneer in the fight for the rights of persons with disabilities and by removing architectural barriers.

Mr. Mace cannot be recognized enough for his contributions. His innovative ideas about incorporating accessible design into the North Carolina building code eventually became the backbone of many State and Federal accessibility laws, including the Americans With Disabilities Act. Mr. Mace coined the term "universal design" for the concept.

Mr. Mace was a mentor to thousands of persons with disabilities, himself disabled by polio at the age of 9. By his example and through his work, Mr. Mace instilled confidence and purpose and encouraged many to be proud members of the disability community and to contribute to the cause of disability rights.

Ron reached out to thousands of people with disabilities, instilling confidence and purpose by sharing his knowledge and expertise with everyone. Being a mentor was second nature to him, although he probably never realized he was "mentoring." He had a way of promoting others rather than himself, a quality that made him a leader in the truest sense of the term.

Ron's life was not about heroism or inspiration. It was about having the courage to be true to your beliefs and experiences, living with integrity, dignity and respect for everyone, and celebrating differences among us without the constraints of unnecessary, artificial barriers. His life challenges us to continue building community among people with disabilities and our families, and use our collective strength for the common good.

As did, we who are older must share our disability experience, both the struggles and victories, with the next generation who will be tomorrow's disabilities rights leaders. Finally, Ron would expect us to keep the Americans with Disabilities Act strong and meaningful in North Carolina and our nation so that everyone benefits—disabled and non-disabled alike.

At Ron's funeral, parked on the street was a long line of modified, accessible vans, some with wheelchair lifts extended. Among the community together once again. Like the 5-year-old girl, I also gazed at the man in the casket, and felt deeply the blessing of his life. I didn't have to stand on tiptoe or be lifted up to tell him goodbye. That day, the little girl and I could do what we wanted to do.

REMARKS OF UN DEPUTY SECRETARY GENERAL LOUISE FRECHETTE AT RECEPTION MARKING 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE UNIVERSAL DECLARATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS

HON. TOM LANTOS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, this year marks the 50th anniversary of the signature of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which was proclaimed on December 10, 1948, after its adoption by the General Assembly of the United Nations without a dissenting vote. Mr. Speaker, the Universal Declaration sets forth fundamental human rights for women and men everywhere, and it is "a common standard of achievement for all peoples and all nations." It has become the most widely accepted international statement of fundamental human rights. It is frequently referred to in resolutions and covenants adopted by international organizations, as well as bilateral treaties, and in laws and decrees of many nations.

Earlier this year, this House adopted H. Con. Res. 185, a resolution which I introduced with the support of our colleagues John Edward Porter of Illinois, the co-chairman of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus, and Christopher Smith of New Jersey, the Chairman of the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights of the House Committee on International Relations. That resolution notes that the centennial of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights this year and reemits the United States to the principles expressed in the Universal Declaration.

Mr. Speaker, earlier this week, the distinguished Deputy Secretary General of the United Nations, Louise Frechette, represented the United Nations and spoke at a reception here on Capitol Hill in honor of the 50th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. The reception was given by the United Nations in cooperation with the Congressional Human Rights Caucus. On that occasion, Mr. Speaker, Mme. Frechette delivered an excellent statement.
Louise Fréchette has had a distinguished diplomatic career in her native country of Canada. Prior to her appointment as Deputy Secretary-General of the United Nations, Mme. Fréchette served as the Deputy Defense Minister of Canada and played a particularly important role in Canada’s participation in a number of United Nations peacekeeping operations.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that Mme. Fréchette’s speech be included in the RECORD, and I urge my colleagues to give it careful and thoughtful attention.

The first article of the Declaration is quite simple. Let me quote it to you: “All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. They are endowed with reason and conscience and should act towards one another in a spirit of brotherhood.”

Nobody personified that spirit of brotherhood better than Raoul Wallenberg. That fact was acknowledged here in Washington 17 years ago yesterday, when Wallenberg became the third foreigner to be given honorary citizenship of this country—thanks to legislation written by you, Congressman [TOM] LANTOS.

Wallenberg’s life and achievements highlighted the vital difference an individual can make amidst conflict and suffering. His interactions gave hope to victims, encouraged them to fight and resist, to hang on and bear witness.

Remembering his life should be an inspiration for others to act; for future generations to act; for all of us to act.

Congressman LANTOS, I know that you owe much to Raoul Wallenberg. But I also know we owe much to you, to your indefatigable work in the cause of human rights and in keeping his legacy alive. You, like him, provide an example to us all.

And the work of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus is an example of what can be achieved when we join forces to achieve common goals. Such partnerships strengthen immeasurably the work of governments and the United Nations.

For although the United Nations is an association of sovereign States, the rights it exists to uphold and defend belong to people. As you know, the FHA guaranties 100 percent of mortgage loans provided by private lenders to middle- and low-income families under the National Housing Act. Yes, 100 percent. When a home is foreclosed, the FHA has to pay the lender the entire cost of the mortgage. As you can imagine, this is tremendously costly. It can also be avoided in many cases.

In such cases, temporary assistance can make all the difference for homeowners, allowing homeowners to pay for repairs and honor their mortgages. The FHA saves money because the temporary assistance they provide is far less costly than paying the full cost of the mortgage. In addition, the temporary assistance must be paid back thus recouping additional taxpayers’ dollars. The FHA pays an equal share because they are receiving their monthly assessments. And the community is preserved from blight that would otherwise reduce property values throughout the area.

The Homeowners Emergency Mortgage Assistance Act is a solution that restores the dream of homeownership for everyone concerned.

The program has also been “battle-tested.” My legislation is based on a very successful program in Pennsylvania. More than 24,000 Pennsylvania families faced with possible foreclosure have received help from the state’s Homeowners Emergency Mortgage Assistance Program (HEMAP). Pennsylvania’s Republican Governor Tom Ridge and Democratic leaders throughout the state have hailed the program as a cost-efficient means to prevent homelessness.

In Pennsylvania, 90 percent of assistance payments have been paid back and only eight percent of HEMAP loans have resulted in foreclosure. This record of success should be duplicated at the federal level.

Savings homes, money and neighborhoods is what government programs should work to achieve. The Homeowners Emergency Mortgage Assistance Act will accomplish these vital goals. I urge my colleagues to co-sponsor this legislation and work with me to maintain the dream of homeownership for middle- and low-income Americans.
Mr. FOSSELLA. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise today to support this resolution. I say this not as a Republican, not as a New Yorker, but as a person who loves this great country and all it represents.

Earlier today, the gentleman from New York, Mr. NADLER, stated in essence: “This matter will be the most divisive issue this nation has faced since Vietnam. While I do not question the gentleman from New York’s belief that he believes this to be true, I do take exception to the comparison and respectfully disagree. Here is why—during the Vietnam War, as has been the case with every war or military conflict since our Nation’s birth, men and women were sent overseas with a willingness to die for freedom, liberty and to defend the rule of law. In the case before us, the President of the United States has been charged with violating the rule of law that so many Americans have died for and are still willing to die for at a moment’s notice all over the globe. The same rule of law that we must ensure applies equally to every single American, including the President of the United States.

This matter goes to the very heart and soul of what America is all about. This matter will determine whether we defend the Constitution, or destroy it. I hope and pray that each distinguished Member of this body sees through the clouds of rhetoric to uphold the rule of law.

It is the rule of law that unifies this country. It is the rule of law that offers each American the opportunity to enjoy and to pursue what our Founding Fathers and every generation of Americans since have always hoped for—that each American be entitled to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. If we, indeed, cherish the notions of personal freedom and individual liberty granted to every single American, then we will seek to vindicate the rule of law and proceed with this matter with all deliberate speed and an unbreakable bond with each other toward fairness, equity and justice for each party involved, including the President of the United States.

Mr. Speaker, too many Americans have died to defend these principles we hold so sacred. Too many generations of Americans have given so much to wish reluctantly that some are trying to depict this as a small town that desperately needs im- mense relief and assistance for reconstruction. The pace and scale of aid and investment in Omagh and other towns recently bombed—Banbridge, Markethill, and Newtownhamilton—could determine whether the Agreement holds.

c. The International Community, including the European Union and the World Trade Organization (WTO), has a strong record of responding to historic political and economic circumstances. It has fought for and approved WTO waivers, such as transitional aid to take account of Geneva, Unification and the Treaty of Lome, that allow necessary international flexibility and cooperation to enhance trade and investment and stabilize economically deprived and politically revitalized regions.

d. The U.S. can continue its crucial role in the peace process by creating and promoting economic growth through trade and investment in the region’s severely economically deprived areas. In addition to promoting trade and investment in NI and IR, the U.S. should consider granting aid communities suffering terrorist attacks.

e. Fair employment practices in Northern Ireland are an essential element for an expanding full employment economy. Congress notes with approval the constant efforts undertaken by the Northern Ireland Fair Employment Commission and Employment Tribunal to achieve this end. Congress is also aware that the Good Friday Peace Agreement established an Anti-discrimination Committee to augment the work done by the Commission and Tribunal and believes their continuing efforts constitute persuasive evidence that economic justice principles maintained here must be actively safeguarded, secured and promoted for all communities. (Assistance in legislation is contingent on MacBride principles as agreed to in H.R. 1757 conference report).

b. New Technology Fund: No less than $10 million shall be dedicated to investment in projects emanating from new technologies.
(3) increased funding for the international fund for industrial development (IFID) by $30 million a year, and that U.S. contribution to IFID shall not fall below $40 million/year through 2003. The President shall ensure that enhanced contributions develop in severely economically deprived areas.
am. 50% of annual U.S. contribution should go to projects aimed at promoting and expanding the development of women-owned businesses.

(4) Department of Commerce initiatives for NI & IR: New technologies and industries are among the key strengths of the region. New technology development is critical. If the economy doesn't produce more jobs, last month's historic peace deal could still be stillborn.

(5) $250,000 for executive development. One of the key weaknesses in the Northern Ireland education sector is the low level of skills and competency at the middle management level in both the public and private sector. Closing the skills gap must include continuous executive development. An executive development program for up to 50 executives drawn from local government and private sector can be developed to meet these training needs. A 20-week program of workshops, peer learning, peer assessment and vacations could be implemented between a university such as the Ulster Business School and a U.S. business school. Local government and business could be encouraged to co-finance the project with the IFID.

(6) $13 million for Springleaf Project to tackle twin problems of urban economic regeneration and the generation of further and higher education. Springleaf would be a university campus in a deprived area of West Belfast, the scene of much of the terrorist violence and community strife over the past 30 years. Springleaf project would be supported by the Central Government, the University of Ulster and Belfast Institute of Further and Higher Education. IFI support would be contingent on significant confidence for this important initiative.

(7) $50 million for Omagh Memorial and other Science Parks. The UK plans to set aside $16 million to support the creation of Science Parks in Northern Ireland to bring to the marketplace the fruits of the scientific research that is undertaken in Northern Ireland's two universities. The IFI should consider leveraging this investment by allocating funds to establish 5 science parks in Belfast, Northern Ireland, Coleraine, Lagan Valley, and Omagh—which of which are located near existing research centers and campuses. It is the hope that these parks could attract additional private sector investments and that the number of jobs between 20 and 30 viable businesses would increase by the end of the five-year period.

i. $5 million in co-financing to the $8 million Innovation Fund established by the UK to provide support for technology-transfer start-ups with commercial potential.
ii. $20 million in funding to support the strengthening of existing ties between Hand-made in America and the Northern Ireland craft sectors. Enhancing the existing partnerships would go a long way toward boosting the contribution of craft industry to employment and economic growth and development.

iii. $7 million in funding to support the strengthening of existing ties between Hand-made in America and the Northern Ireland craft sectors. Springleaf project would be supported by the Central Government, the University of Ulster and Belfast Institute of Further and Higher Education. IFI support would be contingent on significant confidence for this important initiative.

(4) Department of Commerce initiatives for NI and IR: New technologies and industries are among the key strengths of the region. New technology development is critical. If the economy doesn't produce more jobs, last month's historic peace deal could still be stillborn.

(5) $250,000 for executive development. One of the key weaknesses in the Northern Ireland education sector is the low level of skills and competency at the middle management level in both the public and private sector. Closing the skills gap must include continuous executive development. An executive development program for up to 50 executives drawn from local government and private sector can be developed to meet these training needs. A 20-week program of workshops, peer learning, peer assessment and vacations could be implemented between a university such as the Ulster Business School and a U.S. business school. Local government and business could be encouraged to co-finance the project with the IFI.

(6) $13 million for Springleaf Project to tackle twin problems of urban economic regeneration and the generation of further and higher education. Springleaf would be a university campus in a deprived area of West Belfast, the scene of much of the terrorist violence and community strife over the past 30 years. Springleaf project would be supported by the Central Government, the University of Ulster and Belfast Institute of Further and Higher Education. IFI support would be contingent on significant confidence for this important initiative.

(7) $50 million for Omagh Memorial and other Science Parks. The UK plans to set aside $16 million to support the creation of Science Parks in Northern Ireland to bring to the marketplace the fruits of the scientific research that is undertaken in Northern Ireland's two universities. The IFI should consider leveraging this investment by allocating funds to establish 5 science parks in Belfast, Northern Ireland, Coleraine, Lagan Valley, and Omagh—which of which are located near existing research centers and campuses. It is the hope that these parks could attract additional private sector investments and that the number of jobs between 20 and 30 viable businesses would increase by the end of the five-year period.

i. $5 million in co-financing to the $8 million Innovation Fund established by the UK to provide support for technology-transfer start-ups with commercial potential.
ii. $20 million in funding to support the strengthening of existing ties between Hand-made in America and the Northern Ireland craft sectors. Enhancing the existing partnerships would go a long way toward boosting the contribution of craft industry to employment and economic growth and development.
iii. $7 million in funding to support the strengthening of existing ties between Hand-made in America and the Northern Ireland craft sectors. Enhancing the existing partnerships would go a long way toward boosting the contribution of craft industry to employment and economic growth and development.
factory, he was chosen. "It's changed everything for me," says McIntyre, 45, who was born and raised in the Catholic ghetto here known as the Bogsise. Derry's efforts to cultivate U.S. economic links date back more than a decade ago. On frequent trips to the USA, Derry's John Humen, an architect of the peace agreement as leader of the Social Democratic Labor Party, tapped an extensive network of Irish-American political contacts, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. Humen pitched Northern Ireland to companies looking for a European foothold. "There had been a substantial amount of organised crime and violence coming from America," Humen says. "I told them the real help they could give us was economic.

In those days, when car bombs and bullets appeared to fill Northern Ireland's streets, the province was a tough sell.

Declan O'Hare, who ran the investment promotion office in New York in the late 1980s, says, "You'd have doors slammed in your face. You'd say you were from Northern Ireland and people didn't want to see you.

Now, with U.S. investment last year of $620 million, vs. about $50 million 10 years ago, the Derryns get a different reception. In March, to more than 500 U.S. executives on a tour of Boston, New York and Washington—several the number he attracted during previous visits. And don't think Northern Ireland is synonymous with random violence? Says Allen: "I feel a lot safer in Derry than in Minneapolis or Chicago or many other American cities."

POVERTY IN REPUBLIC IS SECOND IN UN REPORT

(By Paul Cullen)

The Republic has the highest concentration of poverty among Western countries outside the U.S., according to a United Nations report published today. In spite of increased wealth and improvements in social services, the Human Development Report 1998 reveals wide disparities in the distribution of wealth within the State.

Irish women are worse off economically than in any other industrialised country. They are also less likely to hold positions of political responsibility. Canada is the country with the fewest women in public office and Canada taps into the Social Democratic Labor Party, the architect of the peace agreement as leader of the Social Democratic Labor Party, tapped an extensive network of Irish-American political contacts, including Sen. RURAL AREAS COMPLAIN OF PITIFUL NEGLECT—TOWNS SUCH AS BALLINA IN COUNTY MAYO TYPOFY THE REGION'S POOR RELATION STATUS

(By Kieran Cooke)

The town of Ballina lies on the western edge of the county, the bleak but hauntingly beautiful landscape of County Mayo. The Moy, one of Europe's finest salmon rivers, flows by churches and old warehouse buildings. The Atlantic wind whips down streets lined with fishing tackle shops and pubs.

Mention of the Celtic tiger brings a wry smile to the face of Terry McCoile, a Ballina college principal and former head of the local Sinn Fein council. "People round here say Ireland's economic tiger must have run out of steam on its journey to the west from Dublin. The politicians and planners have largely ignored this part of the country. Dublin and the east have been grabbing the bulk of investment and benefits of economic growth—we're left to fight over the crumbs."

Mr. McCoile's views are echoed all along Ireland's Atlantic seaboard—from County Donegal in the northwest to County Clare in the southwest. Ireland, say the government's critics, is fast becoming a two-nation state. On the eastern side, the country has the increasingly wealthy areas around Dublin and Cork, sucking up inward investments and EU funding. On the other are the disadvantaged border, midland and western counties, bereft of investment and facing serious population declines.

Ballina, County Mayo's biggest town with a population of 8,000, has an unemployment rate of 25 percent—over twice the national average. In the early 1970s Asahi, the Japanese group, opened a synthetic fibres plant near the town with the promise of 1,100 jobs. At its peak, employment reached 500—the factory was forced to close down last year due to worldwide overcapacity for its product.

"The government does not have any proper regional policy," says Mr. McCoile. "The whole system is designed for the cities. The one place in the west that is really thriving is Galway, which has attracted millions in investment and is now the fastest growing city in Europe. But we have had to fight very hard to achieve some progress."

Ballina's efforts have met with some success. A £10m hotel and apartment complex is being built in central Ballina. The tourism industry is flourishing and last year 200,000 attended a recent festival there—attractions included an animal olympics, with heavy betting on the duck and pig races.

A number of small industries, including a seed potato enterprise, have been established. A computer company is creating 100 jobs. Coca Cola recently invested a multi-million pound investment in a research facility in the town which will employ 150 people. And there are plans to set up a small university, a city in Europe. But we have had to fight very hard to achieve some progress."

"There's no doubt there is a confidence that was absent five years ago," says Terry Reilly, editor of the local Western People newspaper. "But in comparison with what's happening in the east of the country, development in this area is still slow. The great worry is when the economic downturn comes—as it inevitably will—what will happen here? The west has always been the last area to receive the benefits of economic growth and the first to be hit by a decline."

Many schools, hospitals and police stations in the area have been forced to close. The road and rail network is in dire need of updating. Graduates are forced to migrate to the least in search of jobs—the result is a declining skill pool in the west and problems of overcrowding and rapidly increasing house prices in the east, primarily in Dublin. More than a third of Ireland's population now lives in the Dublin area.

Next year Brussels is due to review Ireland's Objective One status, under which the country has received millions of pounds of EU development funding. Mr. Reilly and many others say the government won those funds through neglect to the underdeveloped state of the west of the country—but then proceeded to spend the bulk of the Brussels money in the east.

Due to the rapid growth of its economy, Ireland is almost certain to lose its Objective One status. However, many in the west are determined to fight for its retention in their region.

"So far we've had lots of government reports and initiatives but no real action," says Mr. McCoile. "What's encouraging is that local people are now getting on with development in the area, with and without government help. Perhaps we'll breed our own Celtic tiger."

October 10, 1998 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — Extensions of Remarks E 2045
A principled man, comfortable with himself and the Constitution, should be able to argue that no citizen may be compelled to testify about intimate details of his sex life in order to uphold the interests of a cause that transcend public need. Clinton could have invoked protections against the President related to Whitewater, but instead, Clinton appears to have lied—more than once. Let the lawyers argue whether this technically qualifies as perjury. Clinton would be wise to quit quibbling and rely on the common sense of the American people to see that Congress addresses this transgression (which does not necessarily equal crimes and misdemeanors) in addressing the nation’s problems of growing corporate power and inequality) with a punishment that fits the crime. One of the most striking and surreal situations has been the consistency of the public’s insistence that what happened between Monica Lewinsky and Bill Clinton is their own business, and that of their families. The puntdoctacy’s obsession with the salacious details of Oval Office sex has been matched by its hypocrisy in playing morality police to an audience that does not care what the puntists think.

The Constitution says that Congress shall impeach only “high crimes and misdemeanors.” The President’s lawyers are on firm ground when they assert, “The impeachment clause was designed to protect against a President who was using his official powers against the nation, against the American people, against our society. It was never designed to allow a political body to force a President from office for a personal mistake.” This inquiry has been driven by politics from the start. Clinton is a partisian, conservative Republican who has been the spearhead of an unprincipled, well-funded attack on the Administration almost from the moment it took office. Led we forget: Starr, former chief of staff to Reagan Attorney General William French Smith, was chosen for his current job in 1994 by a three-judge panel that itself was selected by Chief Justice William Rehnquist, who would preside over the Senate in the event of an impeachment trial. Starr considered writing an amicus brief to defend legislation against the President. Starr continued, as a million-dollar-a-year lawyer, to represent the tobacco industry while investigating Clinton, and his deputy, Richard Melmon Scaife-funded deanship at Pepperdine University until a national uproar forced him to give it up. And Starr’s office is under investigation for the unprofessional and possibly illegal manner in which it leaked information designed to damage the President.

This inquiry, which has systematically smeared the reputations of most everyone and everything for which he professed to stand during his six years in office. But those failings should not obscure the glaring failure to stop the endless investigation and the legal process is being used to punish or defame people for activities that may be “politically and culturally anathema,” but not necessarily crimes. Hence the need for the public to hear all the salacious details contained in the Ken Starr report.

I bring these final editorialists to the attention of my colleagues and the public.

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR. OF MICHIGAN

SPEECH OF

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 8, 1998

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I am inserting into the Record two insightful and useful editorials from The Nation magazine. The first one, titled “Clinton, Starr and the Constitution” points out that “this inquiry has been driven by politics from the start.” The Nation, which has been a stringent critic of Bill Clinton, points out that, from the beginning of his Presidency, states that “Kenneth Starr’s impeachment report represents an assault not merely on Bill Clinton but, more significant, on the presidency, the Constitution and our democracy.”

It also rightly points out that “What the conservative establishment by election they have thwarted by investigation. This Congress saw no important legislation passed on tobacco and children, education, childcare, minimum wage or campaign finance reform.”

The second editorial points out that the tactics of this investigation have amounted to “sexual McCarthyism.” In drawing a powerful historical analogy, The Nation points suggest that “the Enemy Other is sexual rather than political deviance.” Just like during the 1950’s, there have been secret grand jury leaks, wiretapping has been used to entrap witnesses and the legal process is being used to punish or defame people for activities that may be “politically and culturally anathema,” but not necessarily crimes. Hence the need for the public to hear all the salacious details contained in the Ken Starr report.

From The Nation, Oct. 5, 1998

KENNETH STARR'S IMPEACHMENT REPORT

Kenneth Starr’s impeachment report represents an assault not merely on Bill Clinton but, more significant, on the presidency, the Constitution and our democracy. It is crucial to the future of all three that it be repudiated before its damage becomes irreversible.

We have no great affection for the President, who has systematically smeared the reputations of most everyone and everything for which he professed to stand during his six years in office. But those failings should not obscure the glaring failure to stop the endless investigation and the legal process is being used to punish or defame people for activities that may be “politically and culturally anathema,” but not necessarily crimes. Hence the need for the public to hear all the salacious details contained in the Ken Starr report.

President Clinton, Starr and the Constitution

Starr’s report and all the rest.

Clinton’s actions ought not to be the subject of an impeachment inquiry. Starr went after possibly more serious allegations against the President related to Whitewater, Filegate and Travelgate, but despite a nearly crazed obsession with nailing his prey, he apparently came up empty-handed. He has thereby left the Clinton impeachment case entirely on Clinton’s adulterous affair and attempts to cover it up.

A principled man, comfortable with himself and the Constitution, should be able to argue that no citizen may be compelled to testify about intimate details of his sex life in order to uphold the interests of a cause that transcend public need. Clinton could have invoked protections against the President related to Whitewater, but instead, Clinton appears to have lied—more than once. Let the lawyers argue whether this technically qualifies as perjury. Clinton would be wise to quit quibbling and rely on the common sense of the American people to see that Congress addresses this transgression (which does not necessarily equal crimes and misdemeanors) in addressing the nation’s problems of growing corporate power and inequality) with a punishment that fits the crime. The puntdoctacy’s obsession with the salacious details of Oval Office sex has been matched by its hypocrisy in playing morality police to an audience that does not care what the puntists think.

The Constitution says that Congress shall impeach only “high crimes and misdemeanors.” The President’s lawyers are on firm ground when they assert, “The impeachment clause was designed to protect against a President who was using his official powers against the nation, against the American people, against our society. It was never designed to allow a political body to force a President from office for a personal mistake.” This inquiry has been driven by politics from the start. Speech of Hon. John Conyers, Jr., of Michigan, extending remarks

STARRISM

Everyone from Alan Dershowitz to a front-page classified advertiser in the New York Times has sounded the alarm about “sexual McCarthyism” in connection with Kenneth Starr’s report and all the rest.

The word “McCarthyism,” as many have pointed out [see Navasky, “Dialectical McCarthyism(s),” July 20] is a misnomer since it describes a phenomenon that began before the Junior senator from Wisconsin arrived on the scene and persisted after he was retired from it. And each time this umbrella term for the excesses of the anti-Communist crusade is recycled as a metaphor for the latest political mugging, it loses something of its original power and precision as a description of a political pathological.

Moreover, in the case of Starr & Co. the metaphor seems inexact because McCarthy was notorious for the slippiness of his method, the manipulation of numbers (first there were 205, then fifty-seven, then eighty-one), the manipulation of numbers (first there were 205, then fifty-seven, then eighty-one), and he has abused the grand jury system. Demonstrators against Clinton appear to be well documented, and Starr seems obsessively precise and meticulous (although the closer one looks at his report the less confidence one has in its integrity).

Is “sexual McCarthyism” a misleading metaphor for what is happening? Not really. Though there are obvious differences, there are at least three significant similarities between then and now. It’s important to identify what they are before too many reputations are at risk, too many democratic values violated, too many dangerous precedents established, too much privacy invaded.

First and foremost, there is the attempt to defend a political target as the Enemy Other. Historians like the late Frank Donner have demonstrated how the great Red hunt of the fifties exploited the nativist impulse, which identifies the foreign with the radical and the immoral.

In the days of the domestic cold war it meant, however, McCarthy, Nixon, HUAC, etc.—cheered on by such as the Rev. Billy Graham and the American Legion—arguing that the test (or fellow traveler) of the enemy was to be a “red,” an agent of an international conspiracy, a spy. The reason Arthur Miller’s play The Crucible, about the Salem witch trials of the 1690s, speaks so frequently to the 1950s is that just as there were no witches in Salem, there was no internal Red menace in the United States of the fifties. Other than the hysteria that resulted in the wholesale invasion of the rights and liberties of citizens.

Today we have independent counsel Kenneth Starr, Representatives Henry Hyde and Newt Gingrich, with Chief Justice William Rehnquist waiting in the wings to preside over impeachment proceedings in the Senate—cheered on by such as the Christian Coalition and William Bennett—arguing in effect that to have (dirty) sex in the Oval Office may or may not be a crime. The Enemy Other that is sex is now the President rather than the CP. Arthur Miller’s image of a witch hunt fueled by political deviance, the target of opportunity that to have (dirty) sex in the Oval Office again—VICTOR NAVASKY.

TRIBUTE TO DR. ELIZABETH KARLIN

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, October 9, 1998

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, Dr. Elizabeth Karlin, a physician and humanitarian, who possessed uncompromising compassion and belief in humane medical treatment for women, died of a brain tumor on July 27, 1998. She was 54 years old. Elizabeth Karlin was a mother of two children, an impresario of folk music, a general practitioner of medicine in rural Tanzania, an internist specializing in endocrinology, an abortion provider, and a national leader in the movement to provide access to abortion as part of a full range of health services for women and families.

Dr. Karlin served as Director of the Women's Medical Center in Madison, Wisconsin. She was a founding member of the Board of Directors of Physicians for Reproductive Choice and Health and a Clinical Assistant Professor in the Department of Internal Medicine at University Hospitals in Madison. She received her BA from Antioch College and graduated with honors from the University of Wisconsin Medical School. The American Medical Women's Association awarded her its Reproductive Health Award in 1993 and its highest honor, the Elizabeth Blackwell Award in 1996.

Because of her outspoken belief in providing the best possible care for women faced with unintended pregnancies, Elizabeth Karlin was targeted by extremists, who stalked her in her neighborhood and staged protests in front of her home. In a New York Times article in 1995, Dr. Karlin explained why she had chosen such a courageous, but difficult path when she said: "I don't do abortions because it's a filthy job and somebody has to do it. I do them because it is the most challenging medicine I can think of. I provide women with nurturing, preventive care to counteract a violent religious and political environment. I hope to do it well enough to prevent repeat abortions . . . My job is to stop the next abortion. To do this we expect our patients to leave us empowered, more informed, healthier, and, yes, happier than when they came in."

Dr. Karlin testified before the Congressional Women's Caucus in October 1997, urging the importance of American women's access to contraception and new contraceptive research. Following the hearing, the Congressional Women's Caucus, pressed for the full range of contraceptive coverage for federal employees in their benefit plans.

A role model for many and an apologist to no one, Dr. Karlin set a high standard for doctors who strive to provide women with the best medical care possible under the worst of circumstances.

Freedom From Religious Persecution: The House agreed to the Senate amendments to H.R. 2431, to establish an Office of Religious Persecution Monitoring, to provide for the imposition of sanctions against countries engaged in a pattern of religious persecution— clearing the measure for the President;

Torture Victims Relief: The House agreed to the Senate amendment to H.R. 4309, to provide a comprehensive program of support for victims of torture— clearing the measure for the President;

Regarding Culpability of Hun Sen: H. Res. 533, amended, expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding the culpability of Hun Sen for war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide in Cambodia (the former Kampuchea, the People's Republic of Kampuchea, and the State of Cambodia). Agreed to amend the title;

Regarding Repressive Policies Toward Ukrainian People: H. Con. Res. 295, amended, expressing the sense of Congress that the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine of 1932–1933 should serve as a reminder of the brutality of the government of the former Soviet Union's repressive policies toward the Ukrainian people;

Regarding Bombing of U.S. Embassies in Africa: H. Res. 523, amended, expressing the sense of the House of Representatives regarding the terrorist bombing of the United States Embassies in East Africa;

Alternative Dispute Resolution: Agreed to the Senate amendment to H.R. 3528, to amend title 28, United States Code, with respect to the use of alternative dispute resolution processes in United States district courts— clearing the measure for the President;

Police, Fire, and Emergency Officers Educational Assistance: H.R. 3046, amended, to provide for financial assistance for higher education to the dependents of Federal, State, and local public safety officers who are killed or permanently and totally disabled as the result of a traumatic injury sustained in the line of duty. Subsequently, the House passed S. 1525 in lieu after amending it to contain the language of H.R. 3046 as passed by the House. H.R. 3046 was then laid on the table;

National Oilheat Research Alliance: H.R. 3610, amended, to authorize and facilitate a program to enhance training, research and development, energy conservation and efficiency, and consumer education in the oilheat industry for the benefit of oilheat consumers and the public;

Recognizing Accomplishments of Inspector General: S.J. Res. 58, recognizing the accomplishments of Inspector General since their creation in 1978 in preventing and detecting waste, fraud, abuse, and mismanagement, and in promoting economy, efficiency, and effectiveness in the Federal Government—clearing the measure for the President;

D.C. Courts and Justice Technical Corrections: H.R. 4566, amended, to make technical and clarifying amendments to the National Capital Revitalization and Self-Government Improvement Act of 1997. Agreed to amend the title;

Honoring Hunter Scott: H. Res. 590, amended, recognizing and honoring Hunter Scott for his efforts to honor the memory of the captain and crew of the U.S.S. INDIANAPOLIS and for the outstanding example he has set for the young people of the United States;

Wetlands and Wildlife Enhancement: S. 1677, amended, to reauthorize the North American Wetlands Conservation Act and the Partnerships for Wildlife Act. Agreed to amend the title; and

Mississippi Sioux Tribes Judgment Fund Distribution: S. 391, amended, to provide for the disposition of certain funds appropriated to pay judgment in favor of the Mississippi Sioux Indians.

Suspensions—Vote Postponed: The House completed debate and postponed the vote on the following measure:

National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment: S. 2095, amended, to reauthorize and amend the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Establishment Act.

Question of Privilege: Representative Visclosky rose to a point of privilege. The Chair ruled that his question did not constitute a question of the privileges of the House. Congressional Record

The public proceedings of each House of Congress, as reported by the Official Reporters thereof, are printed pursuant to directions of the Joint Committee on Printing as authorized by appropriate provisions of Title 44, United States Code, and published for each day that one or both Houses are in session, excepting very infrequent instances when two or more unusually small consecutive issues are printed at one time. Public access to the Congressional Record is available online through GPO Access, a service of the Government Printing Office, free of charge to the user. The online database is updated each day the Congressional Record is published. The database includes both text and graphics from the beginning of the 103d Congress, 2d session (January 1994) forward. It is available on the Wide Area Information Server (WAIS) through the Internet and via asynchronous dial-in. Internet users can access the database by using the World Wide Web; the Superintendent of Documents home page address is http://www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs, by using local WAIS client software or by telnet to swais.access.gpo.gov, then login as guest (no password required). Dial-in users should use communications software and modem to call (202) 512-1530 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Eastern time, Monday through Friday, except for Federal holidays. The Congressional Record paper and 24x microfiche will be furnished by mail to subscribers, free of postage, at the following prices: paper edition, $150.00 for six months, $295.00 per year, or purchased for $2.50 per issue, payable in advance; microfiche edition, $141.00 per year, or purchased for $1.50 per issue payable in advance. The semimonthly Congressional Record Index may be purchased for the same per issue prices. Remit check or money order, made payable to the Superintendent of Documents, directly to the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Following each session of Congress, the daily Congressional Record is revised, printed, permanently bound and sold by the Superintendent of Documents in individual parts or by sets.
