THE DEDICATION OF THE JOHN D. ONG LIBRARY
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, June 9, 2000

Mr. SAWYER. Mr. Speaker, on Saturday, June 10, Western Reserve Academy in Hudson, OH, will dedicate a new building, the John Ong Library. I am pleased to note, that it is not a memorial service, but one of celebration. For John Ong, when he is not tending to his Pennsylvania farm, continues to contribute his time, wisdom, and service to our community and our Nation.

John Ong has described himself as “the World’s Most Flexible Man.” But that flexibility does not mean inconsistency. Since his college days, John Ong has recognized that a knowledge of history and the humanities is essential for well-rounded citizenship. While John embraces change, he values the principles that guide and strengthen our Nation. He understands that committed corporate activism strengthens communities as much as it does corporate ledgers and the national economy. He is a reminder of the good things that come about when businesses and their leaders see themselves as part of the community rather than as self-interested, self-contained entities.

John Ong’s career in business is a well-documented story of accomplishment and service. A graduate of the Ohio State University and the Harvard Law School, John spent 36 years at the BFGoodrich Company, rising from assistant counsel in 1961 to chairman and CEO from 1979 to 1997. At a time when the tire and rubber industry was buffeted by global change, John Ong demonstrated remarkable vision and leadership as he guided and transformed his company from a tire manufacturer into a leading provider of aircraft systems and specialty chemicals.

Today, as chairman emeritus, John has not rested on his laurels, but looks to the future. His life of leadership and community service continues.

I rise today to honor a distinguished American and proud Californian, Evelyn Banks Neely, on the occasion of her retirement as director of the Income Maintenance Division of the County of San Mateo, CA, Human Services Agency.
