

H.R. 4365: CHILDREN'S HEALTH ACT
OF 2000

HON. SUE WILKINS MYRICK

OF NORTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 5, 2000

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, a woman who becomes pregnant in less than ideal circumstances has a difficult road ahead no matter what action she takes. She faces serious questions about what will happen to her future: Will the father help? How will I afford the costs? What will my family think and will they support my decision? How am I going to get through this? It is an incredibly scary time and the ultimate question is whether her life will ever be the same.

My biggest concern for a woman in this situation is that she may see abortion as the easiest solution—when there is no easy choice. Too often, I hear stories about women who are frantic for a solution and rush to an abortion clinic without learning about the long-term emotional and physical consequences. As a mother and a grandmother, I can tell you that pregnancy changes a woman's life forever—even if the pregnancy is not carried to term.

The law states that women have the right to choose between carrying the baby and aborting it. Before she makes the decision, I pray that she is given the information and the support to truly be able to choose what is best for her and the tiny baby.

This bill strengthens a woman's choices in two ways. First, it increases access to information about adoption in the health clinics where it is needed most. Women facing unplanned pregnancies deserve to hear about their options from a well-trained counselor who can provide accurate, up-to-date information and refer them to a reputable placement agency.

This bill also authorizes a new grant program for research and additional services (such as mobile health clinics to provide comprehensive health services, including ultrasound screenings), to enhance access to health care for pregnant women and infants, including grants to increase access to prenatal care, ultrasound services, and prenatal surgery.

Prenatal surgery is now a very realistic option. Look at this picture that was taken by Max Aguilera-Hellwag—this baby underwent prenatal surgery to correct spina bifida. Sarah Marie Switzer was born on August 22, 1999.

Mr. Speaker, there are many exciting programs contained in this bill, and I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of H.R. 4365.

IN RECOGNITION OF BENNIE L.
THAYER

HON. NYDIA M. VELAZQUEZ

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 5, 2000

Ms. VALAZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay a sad farewell to Bennie Thayer, the long-time President and Chief Executive of the National Association for the Self-Employed, who died October 2.

As a retailer and manufacturer himself, Mr. Thayer knew small business issues from the inside out. On the first day that I became the Democratic leader of the House Small Business Committee, he came to my office to advocate the need to accelerate the 100 percent deduction of health insurance for the self-employed.

He was a regular fixture in the Halls of Congress, where he frequently testified about the importance of simplifying government regulations for small businesses, clarifying the home-office deduction and promoting tax fairness.

When Mr. Thayer talked, I listened, because I knew he spoke straight from the heart of the small business community.

He has such an impressive history of accomplishments on behalf of small businesses that it is impossible to list them all adequately. He chaired and served on the boards of numerous local and national business associations concerned with economic development, credit development, small business enhancement and general business growth. In this capacity, he advised three Presidents on small business issues.

He authored a book that examined health care issues from the standpoint of small business owners. It was called, "We, the People: An American Solution to Health Care Reform."

But his accomplishments don't stop there. He served as the State Chair of the Maryland delegation to the 1995 White House Conference on Small Business and as the Regional Implementation Chairman. He was also on the Microsoft Small Business Technology Board to promote computer and information technology to small businesses nationwide. And he served as the Co-Chairman of the Maryland Delegation to the 1986 White House Conference on Small Business.

He was a renowned public speaker, appearing on various radio and television shows to increase awareness of the opportunities and challenges of the self-employed.

I will remember Bennie Thayer as a passionate champion of small businesses, a man of principle and someone who cared deeply about his community.

While the nation's small businesses have lost a great advocate, Mr. Thayer's legacy will live on in Congress and in the hearts of the self-employed.

I salute Bennie Thayer and extend my sympathies to his family.
