

To remedy this sad situation, last year the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. NORWOOD) and I and Senators TIM JOHNSON, JOHN MCCAIN, and our esteemed colleague, Paul Coverdell, introduced the Keep Our Promise to America's Military Retirees Act, H.R. 3573.

The Keep Our Promise Act united military retirees and families across the country. Their billboards, bumper stickers, e-mails, phone calls, and letters to newspapers and Congress have educated us to their plight. Their persistence gained the Promise Act 306 cosponsors in the House and 36 in the Senate.

We would not be celebrating historic improvements in military health care today without the grass roots support for the Shows-Norwood Keep Our Promise Act.

We should commend the efforts of every military retiree or family member across the country who participated in the grass roots efforts. I cannot allow Congress to adjourn without acknowledging the efforts of two very special Americans, two Mississippians. Jim Whittington of Laurel and Floyd Sears of Ocean Springs organized the meeting in March of 1999 that resulted in the introduction of the Keep Our Promise Act. They led the grass roots in the fight for justice for military retirees that brings us here today.

There are many, many more grass roots leaders who must be recognized. While it is not possible to name them all, I want to thank several people who communicated regularly with my staff and me for the outstanding work to keep our promise to America's military retirees: Colonel George "Bud" Day and everyone with the Class Act Group; General Robert Clements, Edith Smith, Floyd Felts, Dick Manion, Lonnie Vessel, Jack Hollinsworth, Chuck Huffman, and Joe Priestley.

I also appreciate the many veterans and military service organizations of the Military Coalition and the National Military and Veterans Alliance.

Particularly, I want to thank my friends at the National Association for Uniformed Services, the Retired Enlisted Association, the Retired Officers Association and the Air Force Sergeants Association. I am proud that the defense bill accomplishes part of what the Keep Our Promise Act would do by extending military health care to retirees over age 65; but the defense bill does not do everything the Promise Act would do. The Promise Act would offer military retirees the option to participate in the FEHBP plan because many retirees are not well served by TRICARE. We need to pass the rest of Keep Our Promise Act because it is the right thing to do, and I promise that the military retirees across the country will keep fighting for the benefits they were promised, earned and richly deserve.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. SMITH) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. SMITH of Michigan addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. WU) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. WU addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

WHERE HAS THE STRATEGIC PETROLEUM RESERVE REALLY GONE?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, every American citizen will remember the heightened crisis that occurred in our oil situation and our fuel and its rising prices over the summer. Many of us wondered what was next. Well, what was next was that sometime in September the President, after being urged by Vice President GORE, released 30 million barrels of oil from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Now, the first shock wave that occurred when that announcement was made was, what is going on here? The Strategic Petroleum Reserve is exactly that, Strategic Petroleum Reserve, meaning that it is to be used and was to be intended to be used for strategic purposes for defense purposes, for the national security of our Nation. That is, there would be a pool, literally a pool, of oil held back from the normal market so that if oil was cut off from the Middle East and we did not have our required fuel available for our Armed Forces, then this reserve would be at hand to protect our people in a national security situation.

Well, let us set that aside, as important as that is, and that is very important. We still have reservations about even approaching this Strategic Petroleum Reserve unless there be some kind of emergency action, some threat to our security at hand. In any event, put that aside for the moment. Many people were concerned that because of the rising fuel prices and even some shortages that were occurring, that the Northeast would find itself in this winter coming that it would be short of fuel for their home heating needs. So ostensibly, the directive by the President was to release these 30 million barrels for home heating. Well, at least we said the target is a humane one, is a proper one.

Then what did we learn? We found in the Wall Street Journal report and various other newspapers, including one from Bangor, Maine, where, of course, one of the areas would be that would most require this home heating oil, complained that what they discovered was that the 30 million barrels that were being released from our strategic reserve were going to be sent to Europe by the oil refineries. That is, the oil bidders would buy this oil and then instead of sending it to New England would sell it on the market to Europe. Well, this is outlandish. We do not know if that is correct, but all the evidence yields a conclusion that that would be the case.

Moreover, out of the 30 million barrels, 30 million barrels that were released, it appears that only about 250,000 under any circumstances, 250,000 only would be delivered to the Northeast in time to help this winter. What we did was author a letter to the Secretary of Energy, our former colleague, Bill Richardson, to ask these questions: Is this oil going to Europe or is it not? And if it is not, why will only 250,000 barrels be finding its way to the home heating oil needs of the Northeast, which needs much more than that?

The letter was sent. No response was forthcoming. My staff contacted the Energy Department several times, and we did not receive a proper response, or any response. The Congress in its own way in committee hearings evoked the same kind of questions out of the circumstances. We do not know what the final answer is.

What all of this shows is, dipping into the Strategic Petroleum Reserves for our national security purposes already waiting in reserve, as the title implies, and using it for home heating oil which never arrives there, that is not government at its best. Yet, that is what Secretary Richardson said, this is government at its best. What it shows is that much more can be done and much better use can be made of our Strategic Petroleum Reserves.

I have introduced a bill, H.R. 4035, which calls upon a blue ribbon commission to be able to declare independence for the United States, again, to declare independence, this time energy independence, within 10 years, to take full cognizance of all the oil reserves in Alaska, in offshore drilling, in the Midwest and far West, in Oklahoma and Texas which have been traditionally the source of our domestic oil drillings; to look at solar energy; to look at hydroelectric; natural gas and coal, and declare independence for our country so that we do not have to depend on OPEC.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to insert the following articles into the RECORD.

[From the Wall Street Journal, Thursday, October 5, 2000]

EUROPE'S LOW OIL SUPPLIES MAY BLUNT U.S. EFFORT

(By Alexei Barrionuevo and John Fialka)

Low supplies of heating oil in Europe are threatening to blunt the impact of releasing 30 million barrels of crude from the U.S. Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Europe's market for heating oil is 50% bigger than the U.S. heating-oil market, Europe's stocks are even tighter and prices