

well. The gentleman from Florida is a little shaky, but I think he is going to make it.

Abigail is the sixth generation Putnam to be born in Polk County, Florida, and her great grandfather, who is 92 years old, is so excited that he said he is probably more excited about the gentleman from Florida becoming a father than he was when the gentleman got elected to Congress.

I know that all my colleagues want to join with me in wishing the gentleman from Florida and his wife Melissa and their new baby Abigail a wonderful life together.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CRENSHAW. I yield to the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me, and I want to add my congratulations to the growing congressional family, to Melissa Putnam for putting up with the gentleman from Florida (Mr. PUTNAM), and to the happiness. The knowledge that children are a reward from the Lord is something we are pleased to acknowledge, and we send prayers and best wishes, Mr. Speaker, to all of those who share that sentiment.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CRENSHAW. I yield to the gentleman from Virginia.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I, too, rise to extend my congratulations from the Commonwealth of Virginia to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. PUTNAM) and Melissa Putnam on the birth of their baby and wish them much strength through the next couple of months of interrupted sleep.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. OSBORNE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H. Con. Res. 172, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Nebraska?

There was no objection.

Mr. OSBORNE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to bring House Concurrent Resolution 172 to the floor. This concurrent resolution recognizes and honors the Young Men's Christian Association, commonly known as the YMCA, on the 150th anniversary of its founding in the United States.

YMCAs are very much a part of the American landscape and history. The organization began in London, England, in 1844. And in 1851, the first YMCA in America was established in Boston, Massachusetts. The YMCA's presence in America has grown steadily to serve nearly 18 million individuals, including 9 million children annually.

I imagine many of us have participated in or benefited from YMCA's services. Over time, the YMCA has been associated with programs, including youth camping and the creation of volleyball and racquetball. Additionally, by the late 1990s, YMCAs were providing daycare for half a million children annually. The YMCA has provided learn-to-swim programs and has been connected to pools and aquatics for many years.

Throughout all of these programs, the YMCA promotes the values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility. Its commitment to these values can be seen in its history of wartime service dating back to the Civil War, its commitment to the physical and spiritual well-being of the poor and unemployed during the Depression, and its current efforts to teach and reinforce good character in youth through after-school sports and activities.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to congratulate the YMCA on the anniversary of their 150 years of existence in America. They have a long history of exemplary service, and I believe we all benefit from the YMCA's existence.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in celebration also of the 150th anniversary of the YMCA's founding in America. The organization has a special place in my heart, because I had the privilege to serve as the president of the National Council of YMCAs of the USA from 1970 to 1973 and have been involved with the organization most of my adult life, beginning with my teaching career in the late 1950s. Newark's combined YMCA and YWCA has become an integral part of all aspects of our community. In many ways, the history of the local YMCA is a perfect example of the support and stability that Ys around the globe have provided for 150 years to the world.

It seems appropriate tonight to reflect back on many years of successful involvement and rich history this organization has shared with individuals through all parts of the world.

Mr. Speaker, at this point I would like to highlight the route this institution has taken to reach this extraordinary anniversary. The YMCA was founded in London, England, on June 6, 1844, in response to unhealthy social conditions arising in big cities at the end of the Industrial Revolution, roughly 1750 to 1850. The Industrial Revolution took place in Europe.

Growth of the railroads and centralization of commerce and industry brought many rural young men who needed jobs into cities like London. By 1851, there were 24 Ys in Great Britain with a combined membership of 2,700. That same year, the Y arrived in North America. It was established in Montreal on November 25, and then in Boston on December 29 of that year.

The idea proved popular everywhere. In 1853, the first YMCA for African Americans was founded right here in Washington, D.C., by Anthony Bowen, a freed slave.

The next year, the First International Convention was held in Paris. At that time there were 397 separate YMCAs in 7 Nations with 30,369 members in total.

Then by 1866, the influential New York YMCA adopted a fourfold purpose: the improvement of the spiritual, mental, social and physical conditions of young men.

In those early days, the YMCAs were run almost entirely by volunteers. There were a handful of paid staff members before the Civil War who kept the place clean, ran the libraries and served as correspondent secretaries. But it was not until the 1880s, when the YMCA began putting up buildings in large numbers, that most associations thought they needed to have some full-time employees.

Today's YMCA movement is the largest not-for-profit provider of child care, and it is larger than any for-profit chain in the country. In the 1990s, about half a million children received care at a YMCA each year. In 1996, child care became the movement's second largest source of revenue after membership dues.

Tonight we celebrate the many years of positive change the YMCA has had on our neighborhoods, townships, States and countries. My local YMCA, in Newark, New Jersey, opened its doors in 1881. Since its inception in 1881, the Newark Y has been an integral part of the Newark community.

The programs offered by the YMCA and YMWCA assist Newark residents in their day-to-day lives. For example, the YMWCA has affordable and safe housing options, in addition to state-of-the-art fitness facilities and educational programs.

We must continue our commitment to the YMCA to make it continually strong. As my colleagues know, the triangle of the YMCA, the symbol of the Y stands for the mind, the body and the spirit. We talk about the whole person that must be developed in order for that person to take their rightful place in our society.

And so we would like to acknowledge that the YMCA of the USA in its 150 years of service has been a tremendous asset to this country, as they celebrate this 150-year anniversary this weekend in New Orleans, where people from all over the United States and the world will be celebrating in this great achievement and activities.

We have been very fortunate in our local Y, where many local leaders today in our city of Newark have come up through the YMCA's programs of youth and government and Model United Nations and trips abroad and work programs, and so it is with that spirit that I stand here proud to commend the YMCA on 150 years.

We wish them continued success in their work.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OSBORNE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from Maryland (Mrs. MORELLA).

Mrs. MORELLA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. OSBORNE) for yielding the time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.Con.Res. 172, which I introduced with the gentleman from New Jersey

(Mr. PAYNE), my colleague, to honor the YMCA.

For 150 years, YMCAs have touched the lives of communities across our Nation by pioneering so many activities that we value; camping, public libraries, night schools, swimming lessons, lifesaving courses and teaching English as a second language. Over 2,400 volunteer-based YMCA programs across this Nation dedicate themselves to building strong youth, strong families and strong communities.

In fact, YMCAs partner with local schools, hospitals, police departments, juvenile courts and housing authorities to incorporate the needs of their own communities into the programs that they offer.

In my district, Montgomery County, Maryland, the YMCAs are invaluable to parents through both after-school care and summer camp programs. My constituents can avail themselves of programs at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase YMCA, Silver Spring YMCA, the Upper Montgomery County YMCA, and Camplets, is an exemplary summer camp.

Horizons is a good example offered at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase YMCA of a program that really works. This coed program assists young people to develop more self-esteem, self-control and improved relationships with people their own age. Youth who take part in Horizons develop self-reliance skills and experience what it means to excel.

Today over a quarter of the Nation's families are headed by single parents.

YMCA is often a helping hand, providing athletic activities, substance abuse programs that also deal with prevention and volunteer programs to increase the involvement of youth in community service. As the country's largest provider of after-school programs, the kids see the YMCA as a safe home away from home.

In addition to providing a supportive and compassionate environment for children and adolescents, the YMCA cultivates innovation and new ideas. Our most recent holiday, Father's Day, was first commemorated by the YMCA. Quite frankly, the Boy Scouts of America, the Campfire Girls, and the Association for the Study of Negro Lives and History, those organizations began at the YMCA. Few organizations boast such creativity and responsiveness to the needs of communities around the Nation.

The YMCA not only charters new programs, but enters into the partnerships with other organizations. Schools, hospitals, and housing authorities work closely with YMCA programs to coordinate youth activities, and millions of soldiers at home and abroad have been aided by war relief services. Such innovations and partnerships make the YMCA the largest non-profit community service network in the United States.

The YMCA currently makes a difference in the lives of all over 17 million people. Our support for the continued good work of the Young Men's Christian Association is vital as it has provided such a positive impact throughout the last 150 years.

I urge this House to join in honoring the YMCA for its unfailingly impressive service to the United States, and I wish the YMCA well in their next 150 years of public service.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OSBORNE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ISAKSON). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. OSBORNE) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 172, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ASKING CONGRESS TO HELP STOP JUVENILE DIABETES IN ITS TRACKS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SANDLIN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SANDLIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask the Congress to help a young friend of mine, Anna Kate Gunn. I am also asking the Congress to help over 1 million other young children in this country who, like Anna Kate, suffer from the disease of juvenile diabetes.

I hold in my hand a book of children from all over this country, all races, all creeds, all colors, all languages, faces of hope, faces that are looking to us to try to do the right thing, faces of other children with juvenile diabetes. Our country is too strong, it is too great, it is too powerful, and it is too rich not to help our children by stopping juvenile diabetes in its tracks right now.

Mr. Speaker, the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation just concluded its 2001 Children's Congress here in Washington. This year, 200 delegates representing all 50 States gathered to meet with policymakers to ask our support as we make decisions about legislation that will impact funding for diabetes research. Diabetes is a chronic debilitating disease that affects every organ system in the body. Type 1 diabetes or juvenile diabetes lasts a lifetime.

Those who are stricken with this disease must take insulin just to live. However, insulin does not cure diabetes or prevent the possibility of its eventual devastating affects. Those affects include kidney failure, blindness, nerve damage, amputation, heart attack, stroke.

More than 1 million Americans have juvenile diabetes. A new case of juvenile diabetes is diagnosed every single hour in this country. Diabetes shortens the life expectancy of these children by 15 years. It is the single most costly chronic disease. It totals more than $105 billion of annual health care spending in the United States of America.

Anna Kate Gunn, my young friend from Texas, came by the office today with her parents and her grandfather, Gene Stallings, a well-known sports hero, former coach of the Texas Cowboys, of Texas A&M, of Alabama, of St. Louis.

Anna Kate was diagnosed with juvenile diabetes when she was 11 months old. Now, at age 3, she endures three insulin injections a day and 8 to 10 finger pricks a day to check her blood sugar level. Without a cure for juvenile diabetes, Anna Kate will have to live with these injections, with these finger pricks for the rest of her life.

One of the funding decisions we make in Congress will be a part that involves stem cell research, a critical part of research in this area. This breakthrough research holds great promise in the cure and treatment of many diseases afflicting Americans and many disabilities including juvenile diabetes.

There are three sources of stem cells, embryonic, fetal, and adult stem cells. Each of these types of cells is very different from the others and all are needed to advance research.

Specifically, embryonic stem cell research offers hope to the more than 1 million American children like Anna Kate who suffer from juvenile diabetes. These cells have the potential to become insulin producing cells because of their unique potential to differentiate into any human type of cell. It is necessary for researchers to understand how embryonic stem cells work before they can get the full affect of the adult stem cell research.

Federal support for embryonic stem cell research is essential to the work that scientists are doing to create therapies for a range of serious and currently intractable diseases. By impeding embryonic stem cell research, we risk unnecessary delay for millions of patients, millions of children across this country who may die or endure needless suffering while the effectiveness of adult stem cells is evaluated.

Certainly, there are legitimate ethical concerns and issues raised by this research. However, it is important to understand that the cells being used in this research were destined to be discarded. The cells used are destined to
