TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF COURT TV

• Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, this month marks the 10th anniversary of Court TV, which has played a crucial role in educating the public about our nation's criminal justice system. When Court TV went on the air in July of 1991, about nine out of ten Americans had never seen a trial. Now ten years later, Court TV has aired more than 732 trials nationally and provides more than 60 million households with the opportunity to watch trials—as well as other criminal justice-related programming—on a daily basis.

During those years, Court TV has provided the Nation with an extraordinary civics lesson, enabling Americans to see their own criminal justice system first-hand. Viewers have seen some of the nation's finest judges, prosecutors and defense attorneys at work and have watched the judicial process unfold—with the benefit of expert commentators and analysts. As part of that civics lesson, Court TV has enabled viewers to watch live trial coverage—for the first time ever—of cases involving such issues as, among other things: appellate arguments, breach of contract, jury selection, libel, medical malpractice, negligence, parole hearings, product liability, and even war crimes.

Mr. President, Court TV has also made a special commitment to helping reduce youth violence. Its public affairs initiative, "Choices and Consequences," has received the cable television industry's highest public service award, the Golden Beacon Award, for its efforts to keep our Nation's children out of our Nation's courts. A middle school curriculum, based on trial coverage of cases involving youth offenders, has been provided to more than 10,000 schools. A new high school curriculum, which addresses bullying among other issues, is now available online and through Court TV's "Cable in the Classroom" feed. Cable television operators in more than 50 cities in 24 states, plus the District of Columbia, have also partnered with Court TV in supporting "Your Town" town meetings, which have addressed a wide range of issues affecting adolescents and have been aired nationally.

Earlier this year, Court TV chairman and CEO Henry Schleiff was honored to be joined by the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, J. Dennis Hastert, as well as Minority Leader Richard Gephardt and our colleague, Senator Sam Brownback, among other Congressional leaders, in announcing a new "media literacy" campaign designed to help students distinguished between the positive and negative images that they see in all forms of media—and to help them understand the consequences of actions in the real world that may seem inconsequential onscreen.

Court TV offers a unique mix of programming, including trial coverage by day and compelling stories of the criminal justice system in the evening. That mix has now made Court TV the fastest-growing basic cable network in the nation. Its growth is testament to the fact that high-quality programming can be both educational and entertaining.

Today, I am pleased to recognize the important contribution that Court TV has made to public understanding of the judicial branch of Government and to criminal justice issues more broadly, and we applaud and encourage its continued efforts to work with our nation's schools to reduce youth violence and help students understand that choices made in a moment can have consequences for a lifetime.●

CELEBRATING THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE PHOENIX HOME LIFE MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY

• Mr. DODD, Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the Phoenix Home Life Mutual Insurance Company as it celebrates its 150th anniversary.

From its modest birth in 1851 as the Hartford-based American Temperance Life Insurance Company, the Phoenix has evolved into one of the largest and most well-respected insurance companies in the world. It has weathered many global watersheds of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries—including civil war, depressions, and world wars. But true to its name, the Phoenix has emerged from these and other trials with an unswerving commitment to corporate innovation, social progress, and community service.

The Phoenix's corporate ethos thrives on a unique and important principle—one that encourages employees to invest human capital as a means of promoting community development. As a result, Phoenix serves as a paradigm for businesses truly committed to improving the quality of life of the people they serve. In 2000 alone, the Phoenix Foundation contributed $1.6 million to charitable organizations across the country.

The Phoenix encourages its employees to devote 80 hours of company and personal time to community activities each year. The company also rewards its top 20 professional advisors through the Donor Award Program, which enables award recipients to designate up to $2,000 to a local charity. Over the years, the Donor Award Program has provided vital funds to many organizations, including the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, Lou Gehrig Baseball, and the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Furthermore, Phoenix field offices have established a plethora of independent donation programs—many of which have benefited organizations such as the American Cancer Society, Habitat for Humanity, the YMCA, and the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

I am proud that the Phoenix's commitment to community development has helped many local organizations in the State of Connecticut. By lending their professional expertise, leadership, and time to a number of local outreach initiatives, Phoenix employees have worked assiduously to make a difference in their communities. For example, Phoenix employees in the Hartford office work in conjunction with Foodshare each summer to deliver vegetables donated by Connecticut farmers to area soup kitchens and homeless shelters. And in 1999, a group of Phoenix employees planned and organized Connecticut's first Adoption and Foster Care Exposition—an event that successfully promoted greater public awareness of these two important social issues.

The Phoenix has made significant contributions to the education of children. Through long-term partnerships with local schools such as the Fred D. Wish Elementary School in Hartford, Phoenix employees have worked individually with students in grades three through six to sharpen math skills and proficiency in the language arts. As a result, schools are seeing improved student attendance and higher student test scores. Phoenix also contributed $75,000 toward the establishment of the Trinity College Boys and Girls Clubs—two Hartford-based organizations that provide education, culture, citizenship, health, and physical education programs for neighborhood children and adolescents. In terms of higher education, the Phoenix annually contributes $250,000 to a matching gifts program. The company has also spearheaded a $3 million "Legacy Campaign" to sustain and cultivate the
