

not do it, if the board of directors does not do it, then the law will make that person do it.

That, Mr. Speaker, is all I think the public has a right to. It is what we have not given them yet. This is Monday. There is still time. We are rushing with homeland security. Important as that is, I do have no hesitation to say, it is not nearly as important to meet the deadline of Friday for the Sarbanes bill. That is what is important. If we get away from here on Friday, that market continues to do what it is doing today and there is nobody here to do anything about it, there is a price we ought all to pay if we get away from here and it continues to be out of control, then at least we can say we have done all we can do.

Capitalism and marketing economies have their own mind. They work in mysterious ways, and they are not subject to the command of man or woman all of the time.

So I say to my good friends and colleagues that I have come to the floor today because I did not believe it was appropriate to discuss this matter only as one of the individuals without understanding where this greed comes from, that the culture of greed comes because we have allowed it to grow. We cannot stand away from our own responsibility here. We have got to pass laws that say that we at least have shored up the system and instructed it to do right by putting in place laws that put a person at risk if they do not do right.

When I go home, I go up the street. When my colleagues go home, they will be going far away. I ask my colleagues not to go one step away from this place without leaving our economy in order to the best of their ability. Pass the bill that is before us. Pass the Sarbanes bill. Let us not quibble about the details. If we make mistakes with the bill in one fashion or another, there will be time to correct them. There will be no time to correct what happens to the economy if we leave this place and the economy, with a mind of its own, goes its own way and its own way turns out to be a way not in keeping with what is best for the people we represent.

I believe that the signs and the message from the market have been clear. I ask only that we reply in a way that is appropriate to the moment.
