

TRIBUTE TO KELLER HAYES

HON. DIANA DeGETTE

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 22, 2004

Ms. DEGETTE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to recognize the notable accomplishments of a remarkable woman in the 1st Congressional District of Colorado. It is both fitting and proper that we recognize Keller Hayes for her impressive record of business and civic leadership as well as her invaluable service to our state and community.

Keller Hayes has used her time, skill and energy to make Colorado a better place. She came to our community from a small ranch in rural Nebraska and graduated from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln with a degree in Journalism and Women's Studies. She worked for various publishing houses, including a trade publication in Minnesota and for Monterey Life in California before joining the Colorado Women's Chamber of Commerce.

For Keller, the economic empowerment of women has meaning. Whether advocating for passage of a pay-equity resolution at the statehouse or developing a Women's Business Certification program to allow women-owned companies to gain greater access to corporate and government contracts, Keller has been a champion for social and economic empowerment. She believes in the mission of the Colorado Women's Chamber of Commerce and during her tenure as President, she gave its mission new life and helped build a dynamic organization. When Keller took up the job, she and a part-time person were the only staff the chamber had. Today, the organization has eight staff people, boasts 1,700 members and has become the largest women's chamber in the country. Under Keller's leadership, the Women's Chamber created a structure that promotes the economic advancement of its members and provides meaningful leadership for women in business. Keller has opened doors and garnered respect for the women's business community. She has brought other women along and helped get them a seat at the table. Keller has fought for recognition of both the immeasurable contribution of women to our economy and the full value of women's abilities. As a result of her leadership, business women have become a more powerful force in our city and our state.

For her efforts, Keller was chosen the 2001 Outstanding Woman in Business Nonprofit by the Denver Business Journal and 2002 Women in Business Advocate of the Year in Region VIII for the Small Business Administration. But it takes a special person to reach a high level of professional accomplishment and still find the time and energy to give back to the community. Over the past six years, Keller has volunteered for the Rape/Spouse Abuse Crisis Center as an on-line counselor, volunteer trainer, speaker and public relations volunteer. Not only has Keller used her skills and talents to promote the economic empowerment of women, she has done much to advance the well-being of our people.

While I believe many of us are saddened Keller has left the Women's Chamber, I am confident that her leadership, skill and experience will be of great benefit to all of us in her new venture and we look forward to her continued involvement in our civic life.

Please join me commending Keller Hayes for her professional achievement, community service and active involvement in helping women attain professional excellence and a dynamic voice in public life. It is the strong leadership she exhibits on a daily basis that continually enhances our lives and builds a better future for all Americans.

HONORING BILL LYNCH AS DEPUTY MANAGER FOR KERRY-EDWARDS CAMPAIGN
HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize the appointment of William (Bill) Lynch Jr. as Deputy Campaign Manager for the Kerry-Edwards Presidential Campaign.

A Harlem native and former Deputy Mayor of the City of New York, Bill Lynch has more than 30 years experience in local and national politics, government operations and public policy. In 1997, former President William J. Clinton nominated Mr. Lynch for the position of Vice Chair to the Democratic National Committee.

Prior to Mr. Lynch's appointment as the Deputy Mayor for Intergovernmental Affairs in 1989, he served as Campaign Manager for David Dinkins '89 and as Chief of Staff to the then Manhattan Borough President. Bill Lynch has been a social and political activist for the past twenty-five years, serving as Director of Legislation and Political Action for District Council 1701 of the American Federation of State and Municipal Employees (AFL-CIO), as well as Campaign Manager for Congressman MAJOR OWENS and Assemblyman William Frank Boyland both of Brooklyn, New York.

Mr. Lynch will lead a national effort to motivate and deliver key Democratic Party constituent groups, particularly African Americans and Latinos that have been marginalized in the past. I urge my colleagues to join me in commending Mr. William Lynch on his recent appointment as the Deputy Campaign Manager for the Kerry-Edwards Presidential Campaign and wish him all the success.

I commend to my colleagues the following article, which appeared in the New York Daily News on July 20, 2004.

[From the Daily News, July 20, 2004]

DEMS' NEW CAPTAIN

(By Errol Louis)

On a quiet, isolated farm in Tennessee, a few hundred political leaders gathered Sunday to honor two New Yorkers—Len Riggio, the Brooklyn-born chairman of Barnes & Noble, and former Deputy Mayor Bill Lynch—in a ceremony that symbolizes a pivotal moment in the race for President. Newly named to the post of deputy manager of the Kerry-Edwards campaign, Lynch will help lead a national effort to fire up and deliver many of the Democratic Party's key constituent groups. That includes women, gays, young adults, blacks, Latinos and union members, especially in the swing states—all in the 104-day sprint between now and Election Day.

Should Lynch succeed, the ticket stands a good chance of winning. But if he comes up even a little bit short in key states like Ohio, Pennsylvania or Florida, it could cost the Democrats the election.

Given the importance of his mission, it's fitting that Lynch was back at the Haley Farm Freedom School, a 157-acre spread outside Knoxville, over the weekend. There he joined a cross section of the Democratic Party's elite, including David Dinkins and Elizabeth Edwards, the wife of the vice presidential candidate, at the dedication of the Riggio-Lynch Chapel, a building paid for by the bookstore magnate and designed by renowned architect Maya Lin (of Vietnam memorial fame).

The farm, formerly owned by the writer Alex Haley, was acquired a decade ago by the Children's Defense Fund and transformed into a thriving conference and training center for veterans of the civil rights movement and their younger, modern successors. Over the last 10 years, more than 6,000 young people have passed through the Haley farm for retreat-like workshops on everything from writing policy papers to studying how civil disobedience works.

College-age activists, many with dreadlocks and tattoos, regularly sit and swap stories with movement veterans who put their bodies on the line in places like Selma, Birmingham and the Mississippi Delta. The same kids are the secret weapon that could carry the election.

Lynch, a former union organizer who did his share of sit-ins before turning to electoral politics, is expected to tap into this army of well-trained young activists and bring their farm-stoked energy into the Kerry-Edwards campaign.

The challenge for Lynch will be to persuade party bigwigs that in many communities, no amount of expensive advertising, fancy Internet networking or televised debating can replace doorknocking, phone-banking and other kinds of grass-roots organizing.

It's a debate that goes on in every Democratic campaign. All too often, fancy media strategists win the debate and grab most of the campaign funds—and then lose the election.

It doesn't have to turn out that way. The troops who could win the fall election have been training quietly for more than a decade on that quiet farm outside Knoxville. If Lynch succeeds at bringing them into a Democratic win, it will look like a 100-day electoral miracle.

INTRODUCTION OF BILL TO ESTABLISH A BORDER PATROL UNIT FOR THE U.S. VIRGIN ISLANDS
HON. DONNA M. CHRISTENSEN

OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mrs. CHRISTENSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce legislation to require the Secretary of Homeland Security to establish at least one Border Patrol unit for the U.S. Virgin Islands.

With over 175 miles of unprotected and open borders, the Virgin Islands are the gateway to the U.S. and our nation's southernmost border. And, it would appear, Mr. Speaker that the U.S. Virgin Islands is today the gateway of choice for human smugglers.

Since 1998 more than 500 Chinese nationals have entered the territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands. Those dropping the aliens ashore have identified the Virgin Islands as an area from which illegals can try to travel undetected to the U.S. mainland. While most of these
