TRIBUTE TO THOMAS H.
WARDLEIGH

● Ms. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I pay tribute to Mr. Thomas H. Wardleigh, Alaskan aviation legend, who left us for new horizons on July 7, 2004, following a long battle with cancer.

A World War II Navy veteran, Tom moved to Alaska in 1951 and continued his aviation career as a mechanic with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, keeping its fleet of Grumman aircraft in operation for decades. He completed his federal service at the Federal Aviation Administration. He then devoted the rest of his life to promoting safety enhancements for Alaskan aviation. In 1984 he became chairman of the Alaskan Aviation Safety Foundation and produced more than 1,000 weekly episodes of a TV show called "Hangar Flying" which was broadcast all over Alaska. Because of the value of the instruction, the national organization, Aircraft Owner and Pilots Association, recently gave a grant to the University of Alaska Archives to transfer all of the programs to DVD so that future aviators will be able to learn from his timeless wisdom.

Tom Wardleigh logged over 33,000 flight hours in numerous types of aircraft. He was in great demand as an advanced flight instructor, and was one of the few multiengine sea plane instructors. Many, many Alaskan pilots were Tom's students over the years.

Although he was a tenacious fighter, Wardleigh was soft spoken, friendly, and always a gentleman, perhaps some reasons he was such a successful advocate for aviation safety enhancement, whether in education or technology. He was most recently instrumental in the development of the FAA Capstone Project which has been credited as a significant factor in lowering the accident rate in rural Alaska. While his work was primarily in Alaska, Tom participated in forums and projects all over the United States as well as in other countries whose aviation leaders often came to Alaska to personally seek Tom's advice on developing their safety programs.

The list of commendations Tom had received over the years is long, and includes AOPA's Laurence P. Sharples' national award in 1994 for his lifetime of service. Last year, FAA Administrator Marion Blakey personally recognized Tom with one of the agency's most significant honors in U.S. civil aviation, the Distinguished Service Award—this in addition to having previously bestowed on him the Charles Taylor Master Mechanic and the Wright Brothers' Master Pilot Awards.

While Tom Wardleigh may have taken his last flight, pilots and passengers alike will fondly remember this special aviator as they turn onto Wardleigh Drive at the Anchorage Ted Stevens International Airport.●

NEW JERSEY STATE SOCIETY BIDS
FAREWELL TO JOHN AND HELEN PANNULLO

● Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, I am pleased to take this opportunity to acknowledge the outstanding contributions of John and Helen Pannullo in strengthening the New Jersey State Society. This valuable organization has played a major role in the professional and social lives of so many present and former New Jersey residents who live and work in the National Capital area. Unfortunately, their colleagues and many friends must bid them a fond farewell as they finally retire and move from this area.

John is a former association executive who has represented a number of associations in New Jersey and Washington, DC. Helen is retiring after 31 years of Federal Government service during which she held a variety of management positions in the information technology field and served on the board of Executive Women in Government.

In 1997 John assumed the Presidency of the New Jersey State Society, and Helen became its secretary. Under their expert leadership, the NJSS had a period of unprecedented growth and activity. They created an annual membership directory and quarterly newsletter. They also initiated the participation of the NJSS in 10 to 12 high-profile events each year, including New Jersey Day at the National Cathedral, the Battle of the Beltway to raise funds for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, and the National Book Fest on the Mall. One of the highlights of this period was the 2001 New Jersey inaugural gala attended by more than one thousand NJSS members and their guests.

During their tenure the income of the society has increased ten fold, and the membership has gone from fewer than 100 to nearly 900.

I am sincerely grateful for John and Helen's dedication to the New Jersey State Society and their noteworthy accomplishments on behalf of the citizens, businesses, labor organizations and educational institutions in our State. While we will miss them, I wish them every success and much happiness in this new chapter of their very successful and productive lives.●

TRIBUTE TO THE TOWN OF CHATOM, ALABAMA

● Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I take this opportunity to recognize the town of Chatom in my home state of Alabama. On October 4, 2004, the Town of Chatom will celebrate its 100th birthday. Named the county seat of Washington County in 1907, the town later became the home of the county's first high school. Washington County Hospital and Nursing Home, where an uncle of mine was ably cared for, was founded there in 1952. In 1956, Chatom citizens founded the beautiful Washington County Public Library. Chatom became a regional leader in aviation when Roy Wilcox Airport was established there in 1963. In 1995, the town extended its appeal to additional tourists and golf enthusiasts by opening an eighteen hole golf course. Reflecting the hospitable environment of the town, residents established the Chatom Community Center in 2000. Lake Ellis opened that same year, providing increased avenues for fellowship and leisure to both residents and visitors. Currently, the Town of Chatom encompasses a population of 1,205.

I firmly believe that it is out of the small towns and rural communities of America that there arises the rich values that shape our State and Nation. People know and care for one another. They go to church. They encourage the children of the community. They stand up for truth, justice and common sense. That is the way they were raised and that raising forms the basis for a fierce sense of independence, a respect for the ownership of property, and a love of democracy, where people from the heart of America rule. They love and respect America, they understand the exceptional character of our country, obey her laws, and send their sons and daughters to defend her just national interests. Without the people of Chatom and millions like them, we would cease to bear the stamp, "American".

Chatom has been a commercial and educational center for southwest Alabama for many years. In fact, I recently found a diploma of another uncle, Harry A. Powe, Jr., who came down from Black Creek outside Silas to graduate from Chatom High School in the 1920s.

The rich history and character of Chatom are proof of the leadership potential of Americans intent upon the pursuit of the American dream and the promotion of American ideals. Since its founding on October 4, 1904, the Town of Chatom has been a leader of Washington County, due not only to its expanding educational and economical opportunities but also to the hard work and good hearts of its people. As Chatom prepares to celebrate its centennial, we should pause to look forward to the future achievements of its citizens. I congratulate and commend Chatom for its accomplishments and continued growth. I thank the residents of Chatom for their examples of American ideals and southern hospitality.●

HONORING THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF JEREMY TODD BOWLING

● Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, I pay tribute and congratulate Jeremy Todd Bowling of Manchester, KY on being awarded the Kentucky Farm Bureau

Insurance Agents Association Scholarship from the Kentucky Farm Bureau Education Foundation. This academic scholarship will provide Jeremy with $2,000 toward his education.

Jeremy has proven to be a very able and competent student by winning this prestigious award. He will represent the graduates of Clay County High School very well when he enrolls at the University of Kentucky in the autumn. There he plans to study biology.

The citizens of Clay County should be proud to have a young man like Jeremy Todd Bowling in their community. His example of dedication and hard work should be an inspiration to the entire Commonwealth.

He has my most sincere admiration for this work and I look forward to his continued service to Kentucky.●

COLONEL ROBERT MORGAN

● Mrs. DOLE. Mr. President, I would like to reflect for a moment and explain why we should take a moment to honor Colonel Robert Morgan, a man of distinguished valor. Not only was he part of our Greatest Generation, he was a true hero, aptly defined as one who inspires through manners and actions, who leads through personal example and accomplishments requiring bravery, skill, and determination. As commander of the famed "Memphis Belle" during World War II, and at a time when German anti-aircraft fire brought down 8 in 10 bombers, Colonel Morgan repeatedly risked everything for his country. In this extremely dangerous environment he piloted the first heavy bomber to complete 25 combat missions in the European Theater, an unprecedented achievement and the magic number to be sent home.

Colonel Morgan's exceptional courage did not end in the European Theater. He continued his valiant service to his country in the Pacific Theater and again made history when his B-29 named "Dauntless Doty" was chosen to lead the first B-29 raid on Tokyo. A native of Asheville, NC, Colonel Morgan represented the American Spirit—courage in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds.●

HONORING THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF JESSE DUKE WELTE

● Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, I pay tribute and congratulate Jesse Duke Welte of Maysville, KY on being awarded the Kentucky Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company Scholarship from the Kentucky Farm Bureau Education Foundation. This academic scholarship will provide Jesse with $2,000 toward his education.

Jesse has proven to be a very able and competent student by winning this prestigious award. He will represent the graduates of Maysville St. Patrick High School very well when he enrolls at the University of Louisville in the autumn. There he plans to study political science.

The citizens of Maysville should be proud to have a young man like Jesse Duke Welte in their community. His example of dedication and hard work should be an inspiration to the entire Commonwealth.

He has my most sincere admiration for this work and I look forward to his continued service to Kentucky.●

HONORING THE RETIREMENT OF PAUL STABILE

● Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I publicly congratulate Paul Stabile on a very successful career helping individuals with disabilities obtain jobs. He is retiring from the Black Hills Workshop on September 13, 2004.

Over the years, Paul has been extraordinarily committed to exploring new roles for people with disabilities in the workforce throughout the United States. Paul began his career with the Black Hills Workshop in 1973 when philosophies about the people with disabilities were making dramatic changes. The de-institutionalization of people with disabilities in South Dakota was reflective of what was happening all over the United States. Paul's friends recall that Paul welcomed dozens of men and women to Black Hills Workshop and the Rapid City community who had spent their entire lives living in an institution in Redfield. Paul offered them support in living, working and assuming a quality of life that people with disabilities had never before known.

In 1996, a separate corporation, Black Hills Services, was formed to provide services to the Department of Defense and employment opportunities at Ellsworth Air Force Base. Paul was selected to lead the new corporation.

Paul's association with the U.S. Air Force has provided thousands of job opportunities to people with disabilities and provided the Air Force with much-needed support. Paul's partnership with the Air Force has been a shining example to Human Service Agencies around the country for people with disabilities.

During Paul's tenure, Black Hills Services, and the people with disabilities that it serves, has been recognized with some of the highest honors that can be bestowed by the Air Force. These awards include Best Large Commissary in the United States, Best Large Merchandise Department-Commissary, R.T. Riney Award, Best Food Services and the prestigious Hennessy Award for Best Air Force Dining Facility Worldwide.

Paul also served on the Rapid City Mayor's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities. Paul's leadership has gone beyond South Dakota. From 1996 to 2003, Paul was a member of the NISH Board of Directors where he served as treasurer and secretary. NISH is the nonprofit organization that assists work centers in obtaining and maintaining contracts with the Federal Government. In March 2004, in recognition of Paul's years of service on behalf of NISH, the Javits-Wagner-O'Day, JWOD, Program and people with disabilities, the NISH Board of Directors granted him the status of emeritus Board member.

Paul was recently honored with the prestigious Milton "Milt" Cohen Leadership Award, which recognizes an individual from a Community Rehabilitation Program, CRP, working within the JWOD Program. The honoree must have demonstrated national leadership qualities leading to enhanced employment opportunities for people with severe disabilities. Milton Cohen was a respected national leader in the field of vocational rehabilitation.

I've appreciated Paul's insight, advice and counsel on issues of importance to people with disabilities in South Dakota. His undying commitment and dedication have helped open countless doors of opportunities to people with disabilities. Paul's efforts have helped tear down barriers—barriers set for those set in attitudes. I wish nothing but the best for him and his family. It is with great honor that I share his impressive accomplishments with my colleagues.●

RECOGNIZING HAWAII PARTICIPANTS IN 2004 ECONOMICS CHALLENGE

● Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, today I congratulate the team of students from Iolani School of Honolulu, HI, for logging a national accomplishment in the National Economics Challenge recently held in New York City. The team traveled over 5,000 miles to represent not only Hawaii, but the western region in the competition, at which they achieved a second-place finish in their category, the David Ricardo division, which is for students enrolled in single-semester economics courses.

The National Economics Challenge is sponsored by the National Council on Economic Education, NCEE, and the Goldman Sachs Foundation, which created the Challenge in 2000 to promote student interest in economics, reinforce classroom instruction, advance academics, and reward scholarship. Preliminary rounds began in April with more than 3,600 students on over 700 teams participating in 33 State and 4 regional competitions. I commend the Hawaii Council on Economic Education for sponsoring the State-level competition in my State and, on a constant basis, training teachers and working to improve economic and financial literacy in Hawaii's schools. Student teams in the final round at the national level faced difficult questions on complex economic concepts and theories involving microeconomics, macroeconomics, international economics, and current events. The final round of the competition was held before a crowd of hundreds at the New York High School of Economics and Finance
