the 3rd Infantry Division, and the Marine Expeditionary Force during Operation Iraqi Freedom. They fought for nearly a year in the streets of Baghdad and Ramadi.

Many of those soldiers returned in April 2004 and were quickly deployed last summer to assist Floridians throughout our state who were devastated by four hurricane strikes. They served for up to 70 days helping with our state-wide recovery effort.

A large number of the troops my wife Beverly and I met with today at Camp Shelby are eagerly volunteering for a return to Southwest Asia to serve in Task Force Phoenix after having served earlier tours in Afghanistan and Iraq.

When Frank Pepe Pizzeria Napoletana first opened in 1925, it was the dream of Frank and his wife Filomena to have a successful neighborhood business where friends and neighbors could gather. Frank and Filomena could have only dreamed of the success their small business has come to be. Four generations later, the business is still run by family and the walls are still adorned with family photos as well as those of Bill Murray, Meryl Streep, and Matthew Broderick—just a few of the stars who have dined at Pepe’s in the past. Their pizza is legendary and the ambiance enjoyed by neighbors and celebrities alike. However, it is not just the pizza that make Pepe’s such a special part of our community. It is the history and community spirit of Frank Pepe and his family that has made it a New Haven landmark.

Today, as they mark their 80th anniversary, it is not just a celebration of a successful family business, but of a thriving community treasure. It is with the greatest pleasure that I rise today to join Frank Pepe’s children, Elizabeth and Serafina, grandchildren, Anthony, Francis andathon, Abby, as well as friends, and extended family of customers and fans as they celebrate this very special occasion.

HONORING FRANK PEPE PIZZERIA NAPOLETANA AS THEY CELEBRATE THEIR 80TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. ROSA L. DELAUR
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, June 24, 2005

Ms. DELAUR. Mr. Speaker, early in the twentieth century, Frank Pepe, an Italian immigrant living in New Haven, created the first American pizza by putting tomatoes on top of old bake-shop bread. The creation was so popular that he opened America’s first pizzeria on Wooster Street—and so the local legend of Pepe’s pizza is recounted. Today, I am proud to stand and join the thousands of Pepe’s fans across the Nation in extending my sincere congratulations to Frank Pe Pizzeria Napoletana and the Pepe Family as they celebrate their 80th Anniversary—a remarkable milestone for this New Haven institution!

When Frank and Filomena opened their pizzeria in 1925, pizza was not considered a delicacy or a treat that you found on every street corner—in fact, it was a peasant meal. With hard work, countless hours, and dedication, the Pepe’s created a successful business that carried themselves and their extended family through the Great Depression and allowed them to raise their two children, Elizabeth and Sara. Throughout the years, Pepe’s popularity grew outside the Italian-American community of Wooster Street and for four generations enthusiastic customers have returned with their own families. The excitement and loyalty of their customers has never wavered—a truth that is reflected in the long lines of anxious patrons that are a constant on Wooster Street.

In fact, Pepe’s has even inspired other pizzeria entrepreneurs, the first of whom was Frank’s nephew, Sam Consiglio who opened his own restaurant, Sally’s, just steps from his uncle’s restaurant. Years later another former employee opened Randy’s Wooster Street Pizza Shop.

RECOGNIZING THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL AWARD COUNCIL

HON. MAURICE D. HINCEY
OF NEW YORK
Friday, June 24, 2005

Mr. HINCEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call attention to the AIDS Drug Assistance Program, ADAP, and the dire need for increased funding to help meet the needs of Americans living with HIV and AIDS. This essential program provides critical resources for uninsured and unequipped HIV/AIDS patients. Without ADAP, these patients would not be able to obtain the necessary medication to prolong and improve their lives.

Every year since its inception, the number of people helped by ADAP has increased dramatically. While we are all aware of the limited resources this committee has been given to meet its pressing needs, the ADAP program is simply and urgently a matter of life and death for over 136,000 Americans each year.

ADAP has been given a $10 million increase in this year’s appropriations bill over last year, but the reality is that to keep pace with current and anticipated patient needs, ADAP requires a funding increase of $303 million. Without this funding, some 25,000–35,000 HIV+ Americans who may have relied on ADAP will not be able to this year.

In my home state of New York, where more than 22,000 people are enrolled in ADAP each year, I know first-hand the importance of the ADAP program. New York has been particularly hard-hit by the AIDS epidemic, with more than 160,000 residents diagnosed with AIDS, and 150,000 to 200,000 persons currently living with HIV/AIDS. The state government has been extremely supportive of ADAP, appropriating $60 million for 2005 to supplement the federal assistance.

Despite New York’s statewide commitment, there are dozens of states that find themselves unable to keep up with the demand for coverage under ADAP. As documented in the National ADAP Monitoring Report, some states are being forced to take drastic measures to offset the federal funding shortfall, including establishing waiting lists for AIDS medications, reducing drug coverage, and restricting eligibility.
