Since the start of OIF/OEF, these trauma centers have served as regional referral centers for individuals who have sustained serious disabilities due to combat. Patients treated at these facilities may have a serious Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) alone or in combination with amputation, blindness, or other visual impairment, complex orthopedic injuries, auditory and vestibular disorders, and mental health concerns. Because TBI influences other areas of rehabilitation, it is critical that individuals receive care for their TBI prior to, or in conjunction with, rehabilitation for their additional injuries.

“Operation Helping Hand” provides assistance to the families of the very seriously wounded and injured service members who were deployed in either Iraq or Afghanistan and are now recovering treatment at the James A. Haley VA Medical Center. The average hospital stay for the injured is approximately 45 days. The families of these injured service members travel from all over the country to be with their loved ones at this critical time.

“Operation Helping Hand” assistance ranges from providing rental or leased cars, bus or taxi fares, cell phones or phone cards to the families of wounded service members. The program also provides tickets to local amusement parks, movie theaters and restaurants for the families and their loved ones to recuperate. The assistance provided allows families to focus on their loved ones’ recovery.

This year marks the sixth year that New- man’s Own Inc., Fisher House Foundation Inc., and the Miami Media Group have joined forces to present the “Newman’s Own Awards” which seek to reward ingenuity and innovation for volunteer organizations working to improve the quality of life for military personnel and their families. These organizations issued a challenge to all private organizations serving military communities, “We believe that the bonds be- tween America and military families must be stronger, that the ties that we form with other nations reflect our own national values and beliefs. While it is my sincere hope that relations between the United States and Vietnam will be stronger in the future, we must remember that our Nation prides itself upon protecting democracy and upholding human rights all over the world.

Although Vietnam has made steps toward progress, we have seen that it still partakes in practices meant to oppress its citizens. Therefore, it is my expectation that the United States will work with Vietnam to improve its grave human rights and religious freedom records so that we may continue to take steps to strengthen and broaden our ties with that country.

The United States must not ignore the oppressive practices of governments with which we are engaged in economic and military ties. For our relationships with other nations reflect our own national values and beliefs. While it is my sincere hope that relations between the United States and Vietnam will become stronger in the future, we must remember that our Nation prides itself upon protecting democracy and supporting human rights around the world.

We must not interfere with Title IX. Title IX, the landmark legislation banning gender discrimination in federally funded education programs, was enacted into law.

I adamantly oppose restrictions to Title IX. Recent “clarifications” to the law will only lead to allowing schools to avoid providing equal opportunities to female students.

For women, especially young women, Title IX is one of the most important pieces of legislation in the past half century. Title IX helps those who need help the most, particularly in low-income areas.

Girls who participate in athletics at the high school and college levels are more likely to graduate with higher grades than their peers who do not play sports. The health benefits of exercise are well documented and girls who play sports often take their appreciation of exercise and activity into their adulthood.

Team sports prepare girls for success in the workplace by teaching the benefits of teamwork and tenacity at a young and receptive age. Athletics imbues girls with self-confidence they may not be able to develop elsewhere.

We must not interfere with Title IX’s effectiveness. That is why I oppose the recent clarification and advocate for increased equality in sports for female students.
