

measure the boys who pursue them and an example of sacrificial love between a man and a woman. As the ministers were at pains to say last week, it isn't the incompetence of mothers that is at issue but the absence of half of the adult support needed for families to be most effective.

Interestingly, they blamed the black church for abetting the decline of the black family—by moderating virtually out of existence its once stern sanctions against extramarital sex and childbirth and by accepting the present trends as more or less inevitable.

They didn't say—but might have—that black America's almost reflexive search for outside explanations for our internal problems delayed the introspective examination that might have slowed the trend. What we have now is a changed culture—a culture whose worst aspects are reinforced by oversexualized popular entertainment and that places a reduced value on the things that produced nearly a century of socioeconomic improvement. For the first time since slavery, it is no longer possible to say with assurance that things are getting better.

As the Rev. Jesse Jackson said in a slightly different context, "What began as a problem has deteriorated into a condition. Problems require solving; conditions require healing."

How to start the healing? Rivers and his colleagues hope to use their personal influence, a series of marriage forums and their well-produced booklet, "God's Gift: A Christian Vision of Marriage and the Black Family," to launch a serious, national discussion and action program.

In truth, though, the situation is so critical—and its elements so interconnected and self-perpetuating—that there is no wrong place to begin. When you find yourself in this sort of a hole, someone once said, the first thing to do is stop digging.

IN HONOR AND RECOGNITION OF
RICHARD CORDRAY

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 25, 2005

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor and recognition of Richard Cordray, an outstanding public servant who has recently been named the 2005 County Leader of the Year. In his many years of service he has proven his dedication to the betterment of the constituents he serves, and as Treasurer of Franklin County, Ohio, he has redefined his post to accommodate the particular needs of the county and the people who belong to it.

A man full of ideas and enthusiasm, Richard is always ready to think outside the box to find a solution that works for everyone, and he never loses touch with the higher goal of improving the quality of life for all whom he serves.

Richard's ingenuity, combined with a sincere and determined desire to help people, has driven him to create numerous programs to help the citizens of Franklin County learn to help themselves. From providing public services to seniors in danger of losing their homes to foreclosures and back taxes to establishing educational programs to help high school students become financially responsible at a young age, Richard finds inventive solutions to many chronic problems faced by the community of Franklin County. With his ability to look beyond what is, to see what could be, Richard is a shining example of the kind of public servants who are really making incredible and lasting changes in their communities.

Richard frequently goes above and beyond the call of duty with programs that seek to improve financial literacy, but even within his conventional job description he shines. In the last year alone, he has collected over $77 million in unpaid back real estate and personal property taxes. Due to his interest in all aspects of county operations, he is able to help on both the micro and macro level and the positive effects of his programs and policies are truly improving the lives of the entire community.

Mr. Speaker and Colleagues, please join me in honor and recognition of Richard Cordray for his years of outstanding service to his community. His ability to seek out the greatest needs of his community and fill those needs is to be commended and admired. Through his energy and dedication he has had a tangible affect on the lives of many in Franklin County and deserves our sincere appreciation.

RESOLUTION HONORING THE CAREER OF LANCE ARMSTRONG

HON. EARL BLUMENAUER

OF OREGON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 25, 2005

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing a resolution honoring and congratulating Lance Armstrong upon his retirement from professional cycling following his 7th successive victory of the Tour de France. One of the world's most grueling athletic events, this year's Tour de France bicycling race covered 2,254 miles in 21 days.

Aside from his many victories as a racer, Lance Armstrong has become a household name, vital to the promotion of cycling as a sport, a healthy fitness activity, and a pollution-free transportation alternative. These athletic accomplishments are even more dramatic considering his successful battle against widespread cancer. Lance has become a role model to cancer patients and his efforts through the Lance Armstrong Foundation have helped to advance cancer research, diagnosis, treatment, and after-treatment services.

The resolution being introduced today is a deserving tribute to Lance Armstrong and his Tour de France victory, commitment to cancer awareness and survivorship, and promotion of bicycling.

IN MEMORY OF COLONEL BENNIE
HOWARD MANN

HON. CHRISTOPHER COX

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 25, 2005

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a distinguished constituent of mine, Colonel Bennie Mann of Laguna Woods, California. Bennie Mann's recent passing follows an inspiring, 31-year career as one of the finest helicopter pilots in the United States Armed Forces.

Bennie was born in Yuma, Arizona, on May 31, 1928, to Mr. and Mrs. Bennie H. Mann, Sr. After Colonel Mann graduated from Yuma Union High School in 1946, he attended Arizona State University at Tempe. He joined the Navy in 1950, traveling to Korea aboard the U.S.S. Essex. He was selected for the Aviation Cadet Program the following year, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps in 1953.

Following a second tour of duty in Korea and an assignment to instructor duty with the training command at Naval Air Station Pensacola, Florida, Bennie was transferred to the Marine Corps Air Station in Cherry Point, North Carolina. In 1960, he was ordered to the Second Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, for duty with the Force Communications Company.

Bennie, then a captain, received a military science degree from the University of Omaha. After attending the Junior Officers' Course at Quantico, Virginia, in 1962, Mann became a helicopter pilot based in Santa Ana, California. In December 1964, then-Major Mann departed for Vietnam, serving as operations officer and executive officer of Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 163 before moving to Washington, DC, to serve in the policy analysis and career planning branches of the Marine Corps headquarters.

Mann returned to Vietnam in December 1969, serving as commanding officer of HMM-161 and as executive officer of MAG-16. After a year in Vietnam, he returned to Santa Ana, where he remained until 1972. In due course, Mann's leadership was rewarded with a promotion to the rank of colonel. He then received an MBA degree from Pepperdine University and joined the 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing, serving as assistant chief of staff before assuming command of MAG-16 in 1977. In June 1978, Colonel Mann became chief of staff of the Third Marine Amphibious Force, Okinawa, Japan.

Colonel Mann retired from the United States Marine Corps on December 23, 1981. He was the first Marine helicopter pilot in our Nation's history to be awarded the Navy Cross. Colonel Mann was the deserving recipient of a host of other awards, including the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Bronze Star, the Meritorious Service Medal, and 37 Air Medals. Colonel Mann recently passed away, and was buried at Arlington National Cemetery on July 7. He is survived by his wife Carroll of Laguna Woods, California, his sons George and Russ, his daughter Connie Lee Coln, his nine grandchildren, and his six great-grandchildren.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the California delegation and the people of Orange County, I am honored to salute Colonel Mann for his service to this great country and to extend my condolences to his friends and family.
