U.S. GOVERNMENT SHOULD PRESS
INTERIM GOVERNMENT OF
TURKMENISTAN TO HOLD FREE
AND FAIR PRESIDENTIAL ELEC-TIONS ON FEBRUARY 11, 2006

HON. TOM FEENEY

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, January 17, 2007

Mr. FEENEY. Madam Speaker, the world has recently witnessed the deaths of two bloody despots: one—Saddam Hussein—was executed for crimes against his own people; the other—President Saparmurat Niyazov of Turkmenistan—was able to escape justice by dying in his sleep.

Under President Niyazov, Turkmenistan became a secretive police state modeled after North Korea. Declaring himself President-for-life, Niyazov banned all political parties except his own; threw his opponents in jail or drove them into exile; and established a state monopoly on media, exercising control over the editorial content.

With the death of the dictator, one would hope that the people of Turkmenistan would finally wake up from their long nightmare and reclaim their rights, chief among them the right to elect their leaders in free and fair elections. However, the interim government has pledged to continue Niyazov's policies and has brought into question their ability to hold truly democratic elections.

The interim government's most competent opponents—the exiled community of business leaders and intellectuals—have effectively been prevented from contesting the elections, even though their leader Khudaiberdy Orazov, whom the united opposition chose as its presidential candidate, would win the majority of the popular vote according to the most recent polls. As former chairman of the Central Bank and a renowned economist, Mr. Orazov is precisely the kind of leader whose insights are badly needed if Turkmenistan is to rebuild its crumbling infrastructure and revive its ailing education and healthcare systems.

I urge my colleagues in calling for free, fair, and democratic elections in Turkmenistan and for the interim government to allow its opponents the opportunity to contest the February 11 elections. In order to maintain our commitment to democracy, both at home and abroad, we can do no less.

I am including for the RECORD a copy of Jan. 3 Washington Post article, "New Future for Turkmenistan," which was written by a well-respected pro-democracy opposition leader in exile, Nurmukhammet Hanamov, whose two sons were assassinated in retaliation for his outspoken opposition to Niyazov's regime. The U.S. government would do well to hear the heartfelt plea this courageous man makes in his article.

[From The Washington Post]

A NEW BEGINNING FOR TURKMENISTAN

(By Nurmukhammet Hanamov)

Last week Turkmenistan buried its brutal dictator, Saparmurat Niyazov. His ruthless reign spanned two decades, during which time his policies became increasingly irrational and unpredictable. The long list of Niyazov's crimes against our people includes: banning all political parties except his own and jailing his opponents; preventing thousands of disloyal citizens from traveling abroad; persecuting religious and ethnic minorities; outlawing opera; and shutting down regional hospitals, firing thousands of doctors and nurses. Under Niyazov, Turkmenistan became a corridor for heroin trafficking from Afghanistan to the West and gained for itself one of the highest heroin addiction rates in the world.

Above all, Niyazov was a selfish and kleptocratic despot, stashing billions in proceeds from the sale of the country's enormous natural gas resources in personal accounts in Western banks. He used this money to fuel his outlandish personality cult, building opulent palaces and golden statues of himself even as his people were deprived of basic necessities and suffer one of the world's lowest life expectancy rates. The West's indifference was striking compared with the relentless criticism by the United States and the European Union against the more benign regime of Alexander Lukashenko, president of gas-poor Belarus.

With Niyazov gone, the West has a historic second chance to help our country make a peaceful transition to democracy. Turkmenistan's interim rulers have unfortunately pledged to continue Niyazov's policies, even ordering new statues of him, and their efforts to grab power amount to a coup d'état. The former health minister—under the de facto control of Niyazov's Presidential Guard—has arrested the speaker of Parliament, who constitutionally is next in the line of succession. He has sealed the country's borders and, using other unconstitutional measures, has set the stage for his own unchallenged victory in presidential elections scheduled for Feb. 11.

The United States must send a clear message to Niyazov's holdouts in the interim government in Ashgabat: that they will not have its support unless they agree to hold free and fair elections—ones that allow all citizens of Turkmenistan, including exiled opposition leaders and political prisoners, to take part.

We know that the United States has tried to help the people of Turkmenistan in recent years, and thanks to American educational exchange programs, there is a thriving community of bright Turkmen students and intellectuals who are living in Western countries and are ready to return and help rebuild their country. This community is largely held together by the efforts of Khudaiberdy-Orazov, a former chairman of the National Bank and an accomplished and energetic leader who was forced into exile several years ago. He was unanimously nominated to be a candidate in the February presidential elections by a broad coalition of opposition groups inside and outside of Turkmenistan. According to a recent poll, Orazov's candidacy would have the support of a majority of Turkmen voters. Until Orazov and other opposition candidates are allowed to contest the February elections, the United States and the European Union must refrain from recognizing the junta in Ashgabat and freeze all personal accounts of Niyazov and his cronies abroad. We hope that members of Congress and other government officials will visit Turkmenistan soon to personally deliver that message.

We must rebuild our country, and with the help of our friends and neighbors we can do it in an open and transparent way. Priorities for a democratically elected government during the initial post-Niyazov reconstruction must be to release all political prisoners, conduct open tenders and allow Western companies to bid for a stake in developing Turkmenistan's oil and gas fields; to consider new ways of getting our gas and oil to Western markets; to restore private property that Niyazov confiscated from Turkmen citizens; and to create a reconstruction fund using Niyazov's personal bank accounts and proceeds from the sale of oil and gas to revive the health-care and education systems.

The United States is spending billions of dollars trying to turn Afghanistan and Iraq—both deep in the throes of civil war—into democratic nations while all but abandoning their peaceful post-Soviet neighbors to the north. Turkmenistan is ready for a new beginning, and the West must finally step up to the plate. To do otherwise would waste a historic opportunity and allow yet another case of popular discontent with an illegitimate government to become an anti-Western lost cause.

TRIBUTE TO THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE DANCE TEAM

HON. JOHN J. DUNCAN, JR.

OF TENNESSEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, January 17, 2007

Mr. DUNCAN. Madam Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the University of Tennessee Dance Team, located in my District, for winning their first ever Division IA National title.

On January 15th, 2007, the team competed against 17 other Division IA dance teams at the Universal Dance Associations College Nationals held at the Walt Disney World Resort in Orlando, FL.

The team was awarded an all expenses paid trip to the national competition after placing third in the qualifying round, based on a two minute video they submitted in October, 2006.

Although they placed 1st in semi-finals, the team knew their competitors would step up their performances in the next round. In the final round, Tennessee gave its strongest performance yet, leaving the crowd in awe and leaving no doubt in the minds of the judges who should receive the National title.

The team defeated the four time National Champions, the Minnesota Golden Gopher Dance Team, by a margin of more than 20 points.

The Tennessee dancers worked intensely to reach this never before attained goal, practicing up to three times a day over their holiday break.

The Tennessee Spirit program is the only program in the country to place in the top five in the Cheerleading, Mascot and Dance divisions.

I would also like to congratulate coaches Kelley Eidenmuller, Valerie Baxter and Spirit Coordinator Joy Postell on their exceptional work with this group of dancers.

Madam Speaker, in closing, I would like to call to the attention of my colleagues and other readers of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD a recent article from utsports.com regarding the University of Tennessee Dance Team's outstanding achievement.

TENNESSEE DANCE TEAM CAPTURES FIRST NATIONAL CROWN

ORLANDO, Jan. 14, 2007.—Tennessee's long elusive national crown finally found its resting place in Knoxville as Tennessee's Dance team captured its first national crown in commanding fashion in the land of dreams and wishes.

At the Milk House in Orlando, Florida, Tennessee put on a dominating performance before a packed house at the Wide World of Sports Complex. Performing to "Your House" by Alisa Morissette, the dance team performed to an Acapella version of the song and simply rocked the house.

Co-Head Coach Kellie Edenmueller said this team knew this was the material it would take to bring home the national championship.

"We knew from the moment we put this together it had the potential to bring us a national championship. Our girls worked tirelessly and put together a great performance."

Tennessee was not without their fans as more than 150 made their way to the Milk House and turned the old can into a home away from home. It was something this program has sought for almost a decade.

"It is finally a breath of fresh air to win this national title, both from a coaching standpoint and a coordinator of trying to raise the bar," said UT Spirit Coordinator Joy Postell. "Repeatedly these squads have come here and have left disappointed because they did not achieve their goal. To finally achieve the goal, to represent your university and to win the title is breathtaking and ecstatic."

"The feeling I have and pride I have that UT has allowed me to have a phenomenal program to reach out to so many spirit athletes. Not just athletics but in every aspect and to bring notoriety to this university. At Tennessee we work together as a team and cheer, dance, and mascot are all emphasized as being winners and achievers. Everyone of these teams is very supportive of the other. I am very fortunate to have the tools the university provides me to succeed. For us to reach the top five in every category is both not just a personal goal but a goal of every athlete in this program."

Tennessee was the only program in the nation to place in the top five in the country in Mascot (5th place), Cheer (4th place) and dance again in the Hip-Hop division with a 5th place finish.

Tonight was truly magical and the young women made it happen.
