

health care down, and we can see the quality of it go up, and we can also be an inspiration for the rest of the world.

And creating socialized medicine is not a solution for an economic problem. That will make the problem worse, not better. And we are, on one side of us, we are Adam Smith free-marketeers on the Republican side of the aisle. These are the Keynesian economists on the Democrat side of the aisle, those who want to grow government, nationalize eight huge entities in America; that all happened on the watch of President Obama, the nationalization of eight huge entities.

And with that in mind, nationalization, there is no exit strategy there. There will be no exit from socialized medicine, and cap-and-tax will crush this economy as well. We must draw a line. This is it. This is the Rubicon. I'm not going across into the irrevocable policy. And those that do, I believe, will regret it the rest of their life.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your indulgence, and I would yield back the balance of my time.
