

assume more loan burden than they can afford. Without School as Lender, many students will now be forced to take out more loans and student debt.

Within my Congressional District, one of the pioneers of the School as Lender program, Midwestern University, uses its School as Lender program to provide need-based grants to students who would otherwise not be able to pursue the University's graduate programs in osteopathic medicine, pharmacy, dental medicine and other health sciences. Decreasing access to education for low-income students would further inflame the shortage of the healthcare workforce as Congress considers a massive expansion of health insurance coverage. Over the past three academic years, Midwestern University has paid out over four million dollars in School as Lender scholarship monies to more than 1,500 students. Midwestern lacks profit motives to continue the program—they simply desire to maintain an affordable option to attract graduate students.

Midwestern University offers flexible and innovative student loan options. Through the School as Lender program, Midwestern is able to break down cost barriers that keep many low-income students from seeking graduate degrees. I urge my colleagues to stand on the side of students in need and reject this government grab for control of student lending that will rob many graduate students of the assistance needed to pursue advanced education.

TRIBUTE TO MR. FRANK BATTEN
SR.

HON. J. RANDY FORBES

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 17, 2009

Mr. FORBES. Madam Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Mr. Frank Batten Sr., who was 82 when he passed away on September 10, 2009.

America lost an icon with the death of Frank Batten Sr. Frank will be remembered for his successful business career, steadfast community involvement, and selfless charitable endeavors. Nationally, he will be remembered as the founder of Landmark Communications Inc., which employed more than 10,000 people at its peak.

Born in 1927, Frank grew up in Norfolk and seemed destined to enter the newspaper industry lending to the influence of his uncle, Samuel L. Slover, who helped raise Frank and owned the publication that would become the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch. Frank graduated from Culver Military Academy in Indiana in 1945. After serving in the U.S. Merchant Marine, Frank graduated from the University of Virginia and earned a master's degree from Harvard University in 1952. Two years later, at the age of 27, Frank became the publisher of two newspapers, the Virginian-Pilot and the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

Batten's Virginian-Pilot was the only major Virginia newspaper to courageously oppose Governor Almond's 1958 orders to close six Norfolk secondary schools rather than accept court-ordered integration, and its editorials against the plan earned its editor the 1960 Pulitzer Prize.

Frank's company grew with the acquisition of other newspapers and media outlets, and in 1967, Landmark Communications, Inc. was born. Landmark's founder is perhaps best known for the audacious proposal to create a 24-hour weather channel, known as The Weather Channel. A now familiar household name, the Channel is a trusted source that has been relied upon by millions of Americans for more than 20 years when planning family vacations and in times of severe weather.

Education was the cause Frank Batten was most passionate about. After sitting on the State Council of Higher Education and serving as a trustee of Norfolk Academy, Frank became Old Dominion College's first rector in 1962. He guided the school until it achieved university status, and donated $32 million to ODU in 2003. Frank also created the Access College Foundation in 1988, which is credited with sending 70,000 Hampton Roads high school students to college over 20 years. Frank also donated $100 million to create the University of Virginia's Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy.

At home, Frank was the proud husband of Jane Parke Batten since 1957. They had three children—son Frank Jr., who followed his father's footsteps into the publishing business, and daughters Mary Elizabeth "Betsy" and Dorothy.

Frank's love for people and community will not soon be forgotten or easily replaced, and his contributions to our lives in Virginia will live on for generations.

STUDENT AID AND FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY ACT OF 2009

SPEECH OF

HON. BARBARA LEE

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, September 16, 2009

The House in committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 3221) to amend the Higher Education Act of 1966, and for other purposes:

Ms. LEE of California. Madam Chair, I rise in support of H.R. 3221, the Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act. As a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, HHS, and Education, with the responsibility for funding these programs, I want to thank Chairman MILLER for crafting this important bill and bringing it to the floor.

Education is the key to ensuring that our future leaders, scientists, teachers, doctors and others are well prepared to be globally competitive. This legislation will help countless students realize the dream of going to college by: (1) Improving college access and completion; (2) Increasing Pell Grant awards and expanding the low-cost Perkins Loans; (3) Investing in Historically Black Colleges and Universities and Minority-Serving Institutions; (4) Strengthening our community colleges; (5) Establishing an Early Learning Challenge Fund; (6) Streamlining student aid applications; and (7) Reforming students loans to help students not banks.

That means more of our youth will go to college and acquire the skills they need to compete in the global economy while graduating with less college debt. Now that's something we should all support.

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.

Mr. CONYERS. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the career of my fellow jazz enthusiast, Jimmy Cobb. Born in Washington, D.C. in 1929, Jimmy has for more than fifty years moved audiences with his recordings and live performances.

In 1957, Jimmy Cobb joined Miles Davis, Bill Evans, Wynton Kelly, Paul Chambers, John Coltrane and Julian Adderley; two years later they recorded the groundbreaking Kind of Blue album. Kind of Blue stands in American history today as one of the most influential albums in jazz history, ranking number 12 in Rolling Stone magazine's 500 greatest albums of all time.

He collaborated with Wynton Kelly and Paul Chambers to produce the Wynton Kelly Trio Albums, and later released albums with Kenny Burrell, and J.J. Johnson, among others. Jimmy then worked with Sarah Vaughn for 9 years, and freelanced with other acclaimed artists worldwide throughout the 70s, 80s and 90s including, Sonny Stitt, Nat Adderly, Ricky Ford, Hank Jones, Ron Carter, George Coleman, Fathead Newman, The Great Jazz Trio, Dave Holland and Warren Bernhardt. Jimmy has also performed on Sketches of Spain, Someday My Prince will Come, Live at Carnegie Hall, Live at the Blackhawk, and Porgy and Bess.

Jimmy was honored for his contribution to the world of jazz in 2005 when New York's longest running jazz series Highlights in Jazz chose Jimmy Cobb for its annual salute to a living jazz legend. In 2008, Jimmy received the Don Redman Heritage award. He was one of six chosen on October 17, 2008 to receive the 2009 National Endowment for the Arts, NEA Jazz Masters award. He was also honored with his own album on the Marsalis Music Honors Series.

He currently performs and tours with his So What Band, featuring Miles Davis' protégé Wallace Roney on trumpet, Vincent Herring on alto saxophone, Javon Jackson on tenor sax, Larry Willis on piano, and Buster Williams on bass.

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of Kind of Blue, Jimmy and the So What Band will perform on September 24, 2009 in Washington, D.C. for the Congressional Black Caucus' Jazz Forum and Concert.

Today, Jimmy Cobb stands as the only surviving musician of the original Kind of Blue Sextet. His work remains a legendary standard in American jazz. Through the medium of music, he continues to inspire generations of performers and audiences.
