Mr. GREGG. I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. KAUFMAN. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

KAGAN NOMINATION

Mr. KAUFMAN. Mr. President, I rise in support of the nomination of Solicitor General Elena Kagan to be an Associate Justice on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Last month, the Judiciary Committee held 4 days of hearings on General Kagan’s nomination, including 2 very full days of testimony from the nominee herself.

I came away from the hearings deeply impressed with General Kagan’s intellect, thoughtfulness, demeanor, and integrity. These characteristics, already evident in her lifetime of accomplishment, were on full display during her testimony.

Last year, when Justice Souter announced his retirement, and again when Justice Stevens announced his retirement this April, I suggested that the Court would benefit from a broader range of experience among its members.

My concern was not just the relative lack of women or racial or ethnic minorities on our Federal courts, though that deficit remains glaring.

I was noting the fact that the current Justices all share very similar professional backgrounds. Every one of them served as a Federal circuit court judge before being appointed to the Supreme Court.

Not one of them has ever run for political office, like Sandra Day O’Connor or Earl Warren or Hugo Black.

I am heartened by what this nominee would bring to the Court based on her experience working in and with all three branches of government, the skills she developed running a complex institution like Harvard Law School, and yes, the prospect of her being the fourth woman to serve on our Nation’s highest court.

One of the aspirations of the American judicial system is that it render justice equally to ordinary citizens and to the most powerful.

We need Justices on the Supreme Court who not only understand that aspiration but also are committed to making it a reality. I believe Elena Kagan, through her truly impressive record of accomplishment, and through the entire confirmation process, has demonstrated that commitment.

In short, this nominee has all the qualities necessary to serve well all Americans, and the rule of law, on our Nation’s highest court.

I urge my colleagues to confirm her without delay.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

APPOINTMENT OF DONALD BERWICK

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I came to the Senate floor earlier today to speak about the appointment of Don Berwick to run the CMS and talked a little bit this morning about the area in which he specializes, which is how to lower the cost of the American health care system by improving the quality of care; that it is a war, and to call it rationing is incredibly misleading and raises a legitimate question about whose side somebody is on who wants to attack this kind of reform of the health care system.

I went back to my office and found an article in the Washington Post today, which is entitled “Hospital infection deaths caused by ignorance and neglect, survey finds.” So if I could just read a few pieces from it, then I will ask unanimous consent to have this article printed in the RECORD.

An estimated 80,000 patients per year develop catheter-related bloodstream infections, or CRBSIs. . . . About 30,000 patients die as a result, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, accounting for nearly a third of annual deaths from hospital-acquired infections in the United States.

So 80,000 people get hospital-acquired infections in their blood from the catheters that go into them when they are
