Mr. Karzai made the remarks at an event sponsored by the United Nations to mark International Anti-Corruption Day. Afghanistan is one of the world’s most corrupt countries, tying for 149th place in Transparency International’s rankings, which tracks perceptions of global corruption.

Several Western diplomats and officials who worked with Karzai said they were disappointed by Mr. Karzai’s speech, in which he appeared to again shift much of the blame for corruption to foreign hands. Why are foreigners uninvolved in some of the corruption, they shared responsibility with the Afghans and were only peripherally involved in the Kabul Bank debacle.

Mr. Karzai also asked that foreigners who are involved in the corruption to create financial trouble for us, he said.

"We felt the whole bank scam was created by foreign hands." Mr. Karzai declined to be specific, but the American Embassy is the only one that has deeply consulted with the Afghans and foreign hands. Mr. Karzai declined to be asked by the bear’s in their bear’s or shares 30 basketballs.

Among his awards and accolades in 2011 were the Chic Harley Award for the National Player of the Year, the Big 12 Player of the Year, first team All-American, the Davey O’Brien Award, and, of course, the 77th annual Heisman Memorial Trophy, awarded to the most outstanding player in college football each year. He did all of this while leading the Bears to their first national title in 95 years and a berth in the Alamo Bowl in 2011.

What makes Robert such an excellent role model is that his success at Baylor has not only been on the field. Robert graduated from Baylor in 3 years with a 3.67 GPA and a degree in political science. He is currently in graduate school pursuing a master’s in communication and plans to attend law school in the future. He is a six-time member of the Big 12 Commissioner’s Honor Roll and a two-time Big 12 All-American.

Robert is also very active in his community, regularly volunteering for several charities in the Waco area. Robert is also a world-class hurdler, and he hopes to qualify for the 2012 Olympic Team. I am personally proud of RG III because he is a fine Christian man and publicly professes his faith in God.

I also want to congratulate Baylor University football team and football coach Art Briles on a great 2011 football season. As Coach Briles says, “great things come with great effort” and the Baylor Nation should be justifiably proud of their football team and coaching staff for their great effort this year.

Before I close, I would like to wish all Americans a safe and fulfilling Christmas season and holiday season. I ask that all of us continue to pray for our country and our military men and women during these difficult times. Sic ’em, Bears.
