

manufactured homes, and regulators. In addition, the definition outlined in the Dodd-Frank Act may create unintended regulatory and compliance risks. The current definition of mortgage originator is based on traditional mortgage market roles and does not consider the unique lending model of the manufactured housing market.

I'm introducing the Mortgage Originator Clarification Act to provide clarity in the residential mortgage market with a clear and consistent standard recognizing the unique activities of the manufactured home sales process. This bill will further clarify the definition of mortgage originator so that manufactured homes will remain an available housing option for Americans across the nation.

RECOGNIZING THE HONORABLE ROSCOE BARTLETT AND THE HONORABLE DON MANZULLO
FOR THEIR YEARS OF PUBLIC SERVICE

HON. JOHN L. MICA

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 20, 2012

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to two of my Republican colleagues who were elected in 1992. It has been my honor to serve with both ROSCOE BARTLETT and DON MANZULLO for the past two decades. I am pleased today, to recognize their outstanding service to our nation. ROSCOE BARTLETT has represented Maryland's 6th District and DON MANZULLO Illinois's 16th District.

These two classmates have distinguished records of service. ROSCOE earned his PHD in physiology from The University of Maryland and spent 20 years as a scientist and engineer for the military and NASA. He has 20 patents, 19 of which are held by the U.S. Government for his inventions of life support equipment used by military pilots, astronauts, search and rescue personnel, and firefighters. He has served on the Armed Services Committee since his first year in Congress and he became chairman of the panel's Air and Land Forces Subcommittee for this 112th Congress.

DON has served as Chairman of the Small Business Committee and long championed the cause of America's chief economic generator, our nation's small businesses. He also chaired the Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific for this 112th Congress. Before being elected, DON was an attorney and the owner of his own small law firm.

During our service together history should record that upon assuming the majority in Congress in 1995, these two individuals helped bring about remarkable achievements for our country. They helped craft plans that balanced our federal budget from 1997 to 2002 and reformed welfare. They aided our nation in the aftermath of September 11, 2001.

Not only have we been fortunate to have their leadership in Congress they have both, in their family life, set examples for the American People. By their side ROSCOE's wife Ellen and DON's wife Freda have always aided their husband's efforts and supported their Congressional Districts. ROSCOE has ten children, 18 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren. DON's children are Neil, Noel, and Katie.

As these two friends and most accomplished members of Congress depart, I know that my colleagues wish them well and God Speed.

IN MEMORIAL OF CONGRESSMAN
DAVID O'BRIEN MARTIN OF NEW YORK

HON. FRANK R. WOLF

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 20, 2012

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, my colleague from Kentucky, Mr. ROGERS, and I share the sad news of the passing of our colleague, David O'Brien Martin, originally of Canton, New York, who died with his wife Dana by his side on November 20 at his home in Hedgesville, West Virginia, at the age of 68.

Representative Martin is survived by his children, Victoria (Duskas), Kelly (Bridges) and Julia (Bassett); two grandchildren, Jacqueline Victoria and William O'Brien; a stepson Michael McGee, a stepdaughter Kimberly Travis and, shared with his wife, eleven grandchildren and a great-granddaughter. He is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Congressman Martin, who was a commissioned officer in the Marine Corps and served in Vietnam, will be interred at Arlington National Cemetery on January 4, 2013.

We had the honor of being elected to Congress with Dave in 1980 as part of the Reagan wave. He served on the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence and on the Armed Services Committee, where he was the senior Republican on the Military Installations Subcommittee and vice chair of the Morale, Welfare and Recreational Panel.

Dave O'B. Martin will be remembered for his indelible footprint on the North Country, where his efforts led to the revitalization of Fort Drum and the reactivation of the Army's storied light infantry division, the 10th Mountain Division. It has been reported that his efforts led to an influx of over $1.3 billion to the local economy to construct the post.

We also submit for the record an article by The Watertown Daily Times further noting his service to the North Country and the nation.

Dave O'B. Martin served with us for six terms before electing to retire.

Dave enjoyed history, particularly related to the Civil War. He will be remembered for his friendly demeanor and storytelling ability.

We offer our heartfelt thoughts and prayers to Dana and his family.

MARTIN, FORMER NORTH COUNTRY
CONGRESSMAN, DIES AT 68

(By Roger Dupuis)

David O'Brien Martin's roots in the north country ran deep. His legacy may run deeper still.

The former Republican congressman, who represented the north country from 1981 to 1993, died Tuesday night at his home in Hedgesville, W.Va. He was remembered by friends and colleagues for his commitment to serving the region, perhaps best exemplified by his efforts to bring the 10th Mountain Division to Fort Drum in the 1980s.

"For those of us in the north country, his work truly changed our lives," said Secretary of the Army John M. McHugh—who, like Mr. Martin, formerly represented the region in Congress.

Mr. Martin, 68, was with his family and under hospice care when he died, said Steven M. Cary of O'Leary Funeral Service in Canton. The cause of death was not disclosed.

Services are scheduled for next week in West Virginia, followed by calling hours Dec. 3 at O'Leary, 5821 Route 11, Mr. Cary said. Mass will be said Dec. 4 at St. Mary's-Catholic Church, 66 Court St., Canton. Burial plans were not finalized as of Thursday evening, he said.

Mr. Martin served in Vietnam, and was a commissioned officer in the U.S. Marine Corps. A graduate of the University of Notre Dame, he resumed his studies upon returning to civilian life. He earned a law degree from Albany Law School in 1973, the same year he was elected to the St. Lawrence County Board of Legislators.

Following three years in county government, Mr. Martin rose quickly, serving in the state Assembly from 1977 until the end of 1980, the year he was elected to the first of six terms in the U.S. House of Representatives.

It was just four years later, at the Watertown American Legion post, that Mr. Martin broke the news that the storied light infantry division would be reactivated in Northern New York.

"His incredible effort to revitalize Fort Drum and bring the 10th Mountain Division to our doorstep brought renewed sense of vitality and purpose to the region," Mr. McHugh said Wednesday.

More than $1.3 billion was spent on construction on the post from 1985 to 1993, during Mr. Martin's tenure in Washington, according to a 2006 Times article.

"He probably did more for the north country than anyone has," said former Republican state Sen. H. Douglas Barclay, Pulaski. "It's a sad day for the north country. He was a great guy, a great friend and a wonderful public servant, both in the Assembly and in Congress."

While in Congress, Mr. Martin was a member of the Committee on Armed Services for 10 years, serving as senior Republican member of the Military Installations Subcommittee and vice chairman of the Morale, Welfare and Recreational Panel, overseeing military commissaries, exchanges and related activities. He also served on the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence.

While Mr. Martin's commitment to the nation and the region loom large, so do the contributions he and his family made to St. Lawrence County. His father, Edson A. Martin, donated the land for SUNY Canton in the early 1960s. The younger Mr. Martin's longtime advocacy was honored by the college in 2006 with an honorary doctorate of laws.

"Congressman Martin was a wonderful supporter of SUNY Canton and the north country," Interim SUNY Canton President Carli C. Schiffner said Wednesday. "He assisted the college in many ways throughout his career, and he dedicated much of his life to furthering the development of Fort Drum, our schools and our communities."

There was life after Congress for Mr. Martin. After deciding not to run in 1992, Mr. Martin became a professor at the Naval War College in Newport, R.I., and later an executive with soft-drink trade groups. He founded a government affairs, consulting and marketing firm in 2000.

It was in that role that then-SUNY Canton president Joseph L. Kennedy observed Mr. Martin's clout and camaraderie first hand during a visit to Washington.

"He was just known by everybody. He could walk us through security without
