The House met at 12:30 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. STEARNS).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC.
August 2, 1999.
I hereby appoint the Honorable CLIFF STEARNS to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

J. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING HOUR DEBATES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 19, 1999, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning hour debates. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to 30 minutes, and each Member, except the majority leader, the minority leader, or the minority whip, limited to 5 minutes.

BETTER AMERICA BONDS, H.R. 2446

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, it has been said that the only means of conservation is innovation, and I believe that is what Vice President Gore had in mind in recommending an innovative proposal called Better America Bonds. I joined him back in January of this year over at the American Institute of Architects with a number of outstanding planners and conservationists to announce this initiative. Now, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GIPHARDT), the gentleman from California (Mr. MATSU), the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENSAUER) and I, along with a number of our colleagues, have filed this legislation to establish the Better America Bonds program.

Mr. Speaker, we believe that the Federal Government should be an active partner with local communities supporting their efforts to build more livable communities as we approach the 21st century.

I believe that there is strong, broad-based support for these locally developed, “smart growth” or sustainable growth initiatives. The Better America Bonds program would assist State and local governments in their efforts to plan for their future growth and development.

Through the issuance of this new type of bond, one that carries a Federal tax credit as opposed to a small amount in interest payments, local governments would be enabled to make purchases to preserve green space, create or restore urban parks, or simply to clean up land or water.

I believe that the preservation of more open space, more green space in which families can enjoy life, is becoming a leading environmental issue across this country. Both property values on homes and the basic quality of life that we all expect are improved with additional open space and parks.

It really is not that hard to understand why that is so if we are coming or going from Washington, D.C. along the George Washington Parkway or the Rock Creek Parkway. Or if, as my wife and I like to do, one is enjoying bicycling along the trail that leads beside the parkway down to Mt. Vernon, one recognizes how much the beauty of the green space and the opportunity to walk and play in that green space adds to the quality of life.

Mr. Speaker, the Better America Bonds legislation has some 110 Members of this House now as cosponsors. We would provide up to almost $10 billion in bonding authority for communities across the country to buy up threatened farmland or to purchase downtown waterfront property to convert into a park perhaps, like the great hike and bike trail we have along Town Lake in my hometown of Austin, Texas. In Austin, we have a number of new projects that are under consideration, including a project along Walker Creek and a project for an additional Town Lake park, both to preserve green space. Additional green space provided through these projects means not only more fun but more opportunity for economic development in some areas that have been neglected and not properly used in the past by the city.

My constituents back in central Texas have realized the importance of additional green space acquisition and of clean water by approving local bond initiatives through which the City of Austin has already purchased some 15,000 acres of land towards this objective. These new land purchases will protect our sensitive environment in central Texas and provide additional parks.

They have also provided a unique opportunity for some groups that have warmed against each other to work together. In Austin, the Save Our Springs Alliance, the Greater Austin Chamber of Commerce and the Real Estate Council were once opposing each other over some of the environmental efforts made in the community. Now they have united in what is called a “Vast Open Spaces” project to acquire additional land and in the process of uniting over this issue, they have come to achieve some common ground on a number of other issues toward improving the quality of life in central Texas as well.

I believe that the Better America Bonds program, by supporting that kind of effort, will allow them to do an even better job, reach more parts of our community, and provide more parks and green space, not only along Town Lake but throughout central Texas.

Mr. Speaker, I think the same kind of thing can happen around the country, whether it is along the Anacostia here in Washington, the Chattahoochee in Atlanta, or along the Los Angeles River, these bonds provide the opportunity to reinvigorate downtown areas, make them more livable, and reinvestigate the economy in some of these areas.

The Better America Bonds initiative has received support from the American Institute of Architects and the National Realty Committee because they support strong neighborhood planning and this program provides the means for communities to do just that. Communities and local governments are also supporting the Better America Bonds program because these bonds are much less costly to a local government for them to use than the traditional interest-bearing debt to work to accomplish.

As Vice President Gore said earlier this year, “Plan well, and you have a community that nurtures commerce and private life. Plan badly, and you have what many of us suffer from first-hand: Gridlock, sprawl and that uniquely modern evil of all, too little time.”

We incorporated this concept of Better America Bonds in the Democratic tax substitute. It received a substantial number of votes, and I hope that we can come together in a bipartisan effort to support Better America Bonds in the future. I believe that we must all be active participants in preserving our livable communities for our children and grandchildren. Through innovative conservation programs like Better
As a result of these organizations getting together, Ocala recorded its lowest crime rate in 1997. Furthermore, in 1998, the city's homicide rate was only one, and in the previous decades it went as high as 20 per year.

Another program that is cited in this article is called "Problem-Oriented Policing." Under this program, officers identify possible areas which, quote, "are detracting from good living conditions in the neighborhoods they patrol, end quote. These areas may be abandoned lots or houses that are abandoned or they might be areas that provide haven for drug trafficking and criminal activities.

Once they identify these areas, a form is completed by the officer and is sent through the chain of command. The identified site is then referred to the city department best able to handle the situation. Let me quote from Lieutenant DeVilling's article. "It is not uncommon for a police officer to identify a dilapidated building which is used as a crack house. Within a short time, the building is burned to the ground by firemen to prevent the practice and improve their skills. The property is then cleared and recycled. These recycled properties are frequently used for purposes such as building a brand-new home by Habitat for Humanity."

Other programs operated by the Ocala Police Department include drug education for young people, drug abuse resistance education, and of course dealing with the gangs through education and training.

Mr. Speaker, this morning I am pleased to be here. I commend the Ocala Police Department, the local and State officials, and all the organizations involved in this dramatic, dramatic success achieved in crime prevention. As we here in Congress attempt to find solutions to the violence that is sweeping this country and this Nation, it is comforting to know that our local law enforcement and community organizations working hard to combat this problem at its source and it is happening in my hometown of Ocala. They are succeeding.

Mr. Speaker, I will submit to enter into the Record Lieutenant DeVilling's article as it appears in the Department of Justice's spring 1990 report, "Weed and Seed and Best Practices Report." For brevity, Mr. Speaker, I will submit only that section dealing with "Taking it to the Streets," which is a small part of this article explaining how the Ocala Police Department actually reduced crime in my hometown using the "Weed and Seed" program.

My efforts this morning are also to recognize the fine things being done by the Ocala Police Department to reduce and eliminate crime in my hometown of Ocala, Florida.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 19, 1999, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MICA) is recognized during morning hour debates for 5 minutes.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, from time to time the comments from this administration and the President of the United States lead me to the floor to comment. I think my colleagues and the American people saw the President of the United States calling the Republicans reckless. And I guess I am in reckless then, I am a Republican. We were called reckless for proposing a significant tax cut for the American people.

Mr. Speaker, I almost had to chuckle to hear the President of the United States call me reckless and the Republicans for offering a tax cut. It is almost hysterical when we think about it when the other side of the aisle for some 40 years had control of this body and under the Constitution of the United States we all know bills, financial bills start in the House of Representatives on the basis of a judgment made by our founding fathers. For 40 years, the recklessness of the other side nearly bankrupt this Nation.

When I came into the House of Representatives in 1992, we were facing financial disaster. This was carried through with the reckless policy of this President who instituted one of the largest tax increases in American history following his own election. And again when he had complete majorities in the House, the Senate, and controlled the White House.

What was reckless is 40 years of taking money out of Social Security. It is like robbing our senior citizens' pension accounts, their funds, and using it for outlandish spending. Spending real- ly to buy votes and win elections in a giveaway program that backfired and nearly ran us into financial oblivion. That is reckless.

Reckless when they robbed every trust fund, including the Federal employee's trust funds, when they robbed the highway trust funds, which this responsible new majority has restored. Is it reckless in fact when we guarantee the Federal taxpayers should not be paying for people to live in places where God repeatedly has shown that he does not want them.

There is a home in Houston which has an assessed value of $114,000 which has received over $800,000 in flood insurance payments in 16 events in the last 20 years. Over 5,600 properties, nearly 1 in 10, have loss claims which exceed the value of the property. Forty percent of our flood insurance goes to 2 percent of the property that is repeatedly flooded.

Mr. Speaker, if the local government and private property owners are going to be foolish, they need to do it on their own dime. Indeed, it is not just our money they are wasting; these development patterns take on a life of their own. They pressure organizations like FEMA and other state and local communities to further engineer the environment and protect ill-advised development from flooding, often succeeding in making matters worse.

Despite having spent over $40 billion since 1960, our losses adjusted for inflation are three times greater than when we started the building spree. Our disaster relief costs have increased 550 percent in the last 10 years.

It is time for us to rethink our policies and our investments. It is time to stop the waste of money, predictable loss of property, and threat to public safety. As a basic simple common sense step, it is time to reform the National Flood Insurance program.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to join with the gentleman from Nebraska, (Mr. Bereuter) who has long been a champion of reforming the Flood Insurance Program to propose a simple approach to flood protection. We reintroduced the Flood Insurance Program so that rather than continuing to rebuild a repeatedly flooded home, the program would provide homeowners with money to help them move away from flood waters or at least floodproof their homes. Those who refuse assistance must start paying the real actuarial insurance costs for the risks that they choose to take.

This policy is both humanitarian and fiscally responsible, allowing people to move out of harm's way and protect the Federal taxpayer by making the National Flood Insurance program solvent. We need to enforce the existing rules and regulations to keep people out of harm's way. We need to spend money to prevent loss rather than repeatedly cleaning up after it is too late.

This basic solution to more livable communities will not require more money or bureaucratic regulations. As usual, a livable community is possible if the Federal Government is a thoughtful partner with citizens and their local government. I would like to urge my colleagues to join with me and the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. Bereuter) to reform the National Flood Insurance program and to sign on as cosponsors of our "Two Floods and You're Out" legislation.

WHO IS RECKLESS?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 19, 1999, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MICA) is recognized during morning hour debates for 5 minutes.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, from time to time the comments from this administration and the President of the United States lead me to the floor to comment. I think my colleagues and the American people saw the President of the United States calling the Republicans reckless. And I guess I am in reckless then, I am a Republican. We were called reckless for proposing a significant tax cut for the American people.

Mr. Speaker, I almost had to chuckle to hear the President of the United States call me reckless and the Republicans for offering a tax cut. It is almost hysterical when we think about it when the other side of the aisle for some 40 years had control of this body and under the Constitution of the United States we all know bills, financial bills start in the House of Representatives on the basis of a judgment made by our founding fathers. For 40 years, the recklessness of the other side nearly bankrupt this Nation.

When I came into the House of Representatives in 1992, we were facing financial disaster. This was carried through with the reckless policy of this President who instituted one of the largest tax increases in American history following his own election. And again when he had complete majorities in the House, the Senate, and controlled the White House.

Spending really to buy votes and win elections in a giveaway program that backfired and nearly ran us into financial oblivion. That is reckless.

Reckless when they robbed every trust fund, including the Federal employee's trust funds, when they robbed the highway trust funds, which this responsible new majority has restored. Is it reckless in fact when we guarantee the Federal Government an additional dime, and it gives the communities more choices as they solve their problems and increase livability.

The National Flood Insurance program poses another critical water resource management challenge. It is appropriate for the Federal Government to step in when there is a case of unforeseen natural disaster. However, if it is clear that some people make it hard on themselves by continuing to invest in unwise anti-environmental, unsustainable situations, then we have an obligation to draw the line. The
If we take 6 million Americans, 5 percent starting at the top of the scale down to one who makes $125,000 a year. I think it might be instructive to remember that single Member of the Congress, every Member of the House and every Member of the Senate has income greater than $125,000 a year, that 5 percent will average $15,000 a year in tax cuts and gets 61 percent of the total reduction.

Mr. Speaker, if we start at the other end and come all the way up, all the way up from the lowest income American to people making under $125,000 a year, all 95 percent of them, all 120 million taxpayers, they will receive less than the 1 percent whose income is over $300,000 per year. It turns out that those people, who include the broad middle class making from $25,000 a year to $65,000 a year under the House-passed bill, would get less than half as much in total tax reduction as the 1 percent richest portion of the population.

Let me put that in slightly different terms. If we were to take 100 people that we know, one person whose income is over $300,000 a year and the rest whose income comes down from that point, and we have $100 to give out in tax reduction, 100 people and $100 in tax reduction, that one wealthiest person, that single one is going to get $45. Forty-five of the dollars that it is possible to give out under the circumstances. Ninety-five people, the 95 starting from the lowest income up to incomes that covers the broad middle-class, they are going to get a total of $39 divided among them.

If we look at it in terms of families, a family making $50,000 a year would get less than $1 a day in tax reduction. A family making $50,000 a year, two people working, second jobs whatever it happens to be but under $50,000 a year, at $50,000 a year they would get less than $2 a day in income. Yet the person who is making $1 million a year, that person would get $70,000 in that year, $200 a day in tax breaks. The Senate-passed plan is a little bit different. The wealthiest 5 percent in the Senate plan gets almost the same amount as the 95 percent, the 120 million people whose income is less than $125,000 a year. And, again, I would urge my colleagues to remember that the portion of the population that is getting most of the tax break includes every Member of the House and the Senate of the United States. I have to ask, does anyone think that that is a fair way to distribute tax reduction in this country?

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE
A message from the Senate by Mr. Lundregan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment concurrent resolutions of the House of the following titles:

- H. Con. Res. 107. Concurrent resolution expressing the sense of Congress rejecting the conclusions of a recent article published in the Psychological Bulletin, a journal of the American Psychological Association, that suggests that sexual relationships between adults and children might be positive for children.

- H. Con. Res. 168. Concurrent resolution waiving the requirement in section 132 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 that the Congress adjourn sine die not later than July 31, 1999.

The message also announced that the Senate had passed with an amendment in which the concurrence of the House is requested, a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 2488. An act to provide for reconci-lation pursuant to sections 105 and 211 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2000.

The message also announced that the Senate insists upon its amendment to the bill (H.R. 2488). An Act to provide for reconci-ation pursuant to sections 105 and 211 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2000, and requests a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and appoints Mr. Roth, Mr. Lott, and Mr. Moynihan, to be the conferees on the part of the Senate.

The message also announced that the Senate had passed bills of the following titles, in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 1497. An act to extend the funding levels for aviation programs for 60 days.

S. 1488. An act to authorize the minting and issuance of Capitol Visitor Center Commemorative coins, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that pursuant to Public Law 100–458, the Chair, on behalf of the Majority Leader, appoints the Senator from Virginia (Mr. Warner) to the Board of Trustees of the John C. Stennis Center for Public Service Training and Development, for a term ending October 11, 2004.

COMMUNICATION FROM HON. RICH-ARD A. GEPHARDT, DEMOCRATIC LEADER

The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from Richard A. Gephardt, Democratic Leader:

Hon. J. Dennis Hastert,
Speaker of the House, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: Pursuant to Section 581a(2) of the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 1999 (112 STAT. 2681–210), I hereby appoint to the National Commission on Terrorism:

Ms. Juliette N. Kayyem of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Yours Very Truly,

RICHARD A. GEPHARDT.

THE REAL COST OF TAXING MINING INTERESTS

(Mr. Gibbons asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Gibbons. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to address the claim of some of my colleagues that gold mines get a free ride because they do not pay their fair share of Federal royalties. Well, when considering a Federal tax increase on the mining industry, we must always remind my tax and spend colleagues to take into account the adverse effect of such a tax increase on state and local tax revenues as well.

There is a direct correlation between increasing mining royalties or taxes and the reduction in mining activities. Federal royalties are deductible from the income base on which many of these State taxes are levied. This results in an even less tax dollar amount for State and local governments. Even a small increase in mining taxes in the best economic interests of this country or the mining industry, we should avoid it.

Abraham Lincoln had the great foresight when he said, “Tell the miners for me that I shall promote their interests to the utmost of my ability, because their prosperity is the prosperity of the Nation, and we shall prove in a very few short years that we are indeed the treasury of the world.”

NORTH KOREA ACCUSED OF DRUG DEALING

(Mr. Traficant asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Traficant. Mr. Speaker, needing cash to run their government, the government of North Korea has been accused of selling heroin and cocaine. I am not kidding you. Reports say that North Korean agents were arrested by international police possessing 80 pounds of cocaine and $100 million worth of methamphetamine that was sponsored for sale officially by their government.

Now, if that is not enough to trigger your interest, or about the same time, the White House announced they are asking Congress for another $55 million in foreign aid for North Korea.

Unbelievable. North Korea is selling dope, and Uncle Sam is fronting the buy money. Beam me up, Mr. Speaker.

So help me. I yield back further the fact that North Korea is building missiles that are being aimed in the future at America.

DEFINING A TARGETED TAX CUT

(Mr. Chabot asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks).

Mr. Chabot. Mr. Speaker, when I hear some of my liberal friends on the other side of the aisle, not the gentleman who just spoke, I might add, talk about targeted tax cuts, I know exactly what they mean. It means you will not be getting one.

Republicans, I should add, also are putting forth a targeted tax cut, but there is a very big difference. If you are a taxpayer, you get one.

That is right, our targeted tax cuts target all taxpayers, a concept that really sticks in the craw of many of my liberal friends on the other side of the aisle.

Many politicians in Washington have a hard time coming to grips with the fact that the budget surplus, a tax repayment, really, does not belong to them. That money, every penny of it, belongs to the taxpayers.

Washington is taking more than it needs out of the pockets of those who work all over this country and pay their taxes.

The bottom line is the American people are overtaxed, and the real issue is, who should decide how the money gets spent: The bureaucrats up here in Washington, or the taxpayers all over this country.

I will cast my lot with the people of this Nation. Let us cut the taxes on the American people, and let us do it now.

REPORT ON REVISED DEFERRAL OF BUDGET AUTHORITY—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES (H. DOC. NO. 106–180)

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read and, together with the accompanying papers, without objection, referred to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed:

To the Congress of the United States:

In accordance with the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, I herewith report one revised deferral of budget authority, now totaling $173 million.

The deferral affects programs of the Department of State.

WILLIAM J. CLINTON.

THE WHITE HOUSE, August 2, 1999.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the provisions of clause 8 of rule XX, the Chair announces that he will postpone further proceedings today on each motion to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered or on which the vote is objected to under clause 6 of rule XX.
Such rolloff votes, if postponed, will be taken later today.

AMENDING FEDERAL RESERVE ACT TO BROADEN RANGE OF DISCOUNT WINDOW LOANS WHICH MAY BE USED AS COLLATERAL FOR FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES

Mr. LEACH. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1094) to amend the Federal Reserve Act to broaden the range of discount window loans which may be used as collateral for Federal Reserve notes, as amended.

H.R. 1094

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the third sentence of the twenty-fifth paragraph of section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 412) is amended by striking "acceptances acquired under the provisions of section 13 of this Act" and inserting "acceptances acquired under section 10A, 10B, 13, or 13A of this Act".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. LEACH) and the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFAUCI) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. LEACH).

Mr. LEACH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1094, a bill to broaden the range of discount window loans which may be used as collateral for Federal Reserve notes.

I would like to point out at the outset this is not a new approach for this House. Virtually the same proposal was incorporated into the bankruptcy reform bill, H.R. 833, which passed this body on May 5, but which has not yet cleared the other body.

The bill enjoys the strong support of the Federal Reserve, as reflected in correspondence with Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan to the last Congress, and again in testimony by the member of the Federal's Board of Governors, Edward Kelly, at a hearing held by the committee in April.

The bill also enjoys strong bipartisan support on the Committee on Banking and Financial Services. The original sponsors of the bill include the ranking minority member of the full committee, the gentleman from New York (Mr. LAFAUCI), as well as the Chairman of the Subcommittee on Domestic and Monetary Policy, the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. BACHUS), the ranking member, the gentleman from California (Ms. WATERS), and I understand it has the support of my good friend the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. VENTO).

Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a brief moment to explain the need for the bill and the issue of timing. Section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act requires the Federal Reserve to collaterize Federal Reserve notes when they are issued. The list of eligible collateral includes, at present, Treasury and Federal agency securities, gold certificates, special drawing rights certificates, and foreign currencies. In addition, the legally eligible backing for currency includes discount window loans made under Section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act.

Over the years, Congress has added a new section to the law to permit lending by the Federal Reserve to deposit institutions under provisions other than section 13 and against a broader range of collateral. However, section 16 has not been similarly amended to accommodate these new sections, thus limiting the types of loans that can serve as collateral for currency. For example, certain discount window loans made by the Federal Reserve under 10B of the Act and secured by mortgages on one-to-four family residences cannot be used to back currency.

The bill before us today, H.R. 1094, simply seeks to update the currency collateral provisions in section 16 to reflect the broader range of collateral accepted for discount window loans under section 10A, section 10B and section 13A of the Federal Reserve Act.

Finally, I would like to point out the reason for bringing this measure to the floor today as a stand-alone proposal is one of timing. According to the Federal Reserve Board, the existing limits on currency collateral are becoming a potential problem because of the increased use of retail sweep accounts over the past 5 years and the corresponding decline in reserve balances that can be used as excess collateral for discount window loans. The margin of available currency collateral could pose a potential problem should there be a substantial increase in the demand for discount window loans due to temporary or unusual circumstances, such as might occur around the year 2000 date change.

Mr. Speaker, as I explained earlier, this is not a new proposal, but given the issues of timing and the need to ensure that our bank agencies have all the necessary tools at their disposal to smooth the transition to the year 2000, I believe it is important for this body to act separately on this bill. I appreciate the great courtesies extended by the minority in this regard.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LAFAUCI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I join the gentleman from Iowa (Chairman LEACH) of the Committee on Banking and Financial Services in supporting this much-needed measure. It will ensure that the public has available any and all cash it might demand near the end of the year as the country's computer systems make their changeover to the new millennium. Although we expect few if any problems with regard to the issuance of Federal Reserve Board paper, the one dollar bills and larger bills that some of us have an opportunity to spend.

Two things have happened. One is, obviously as has been pointed out by the chairman and ranking member, the types of credit paper available have changed and evolved and we have not kept up with them with regard to the provisions of law to be used as collateral. In the past, the Federal Reserve Board notes the dollar bills.

The other, as pointed out by our staff and research folks, is in fact the Fed, like most accounts, are subject to... sweep accounts. Some of the credit paper that they otherwise have is not deposited there long enough to use, so it cannot be used to offset the dollars placed into circulation. As our good counsel, Mr. Peterson, pointed out in the research papers of the gentleman from New York (Mr. LaFalce), if in fact we issue treasuries, which the Fed could do, they could buy treasuries at the end of the year and that might cause a spike in the market with the demand for currency expected regarding the Y2K phenomena.

Mr. LEACH. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Stearns). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Leach) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1094, as amended.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Sensenbrenner) and the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Lofgren) each will control 20 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Sensenbrenner) and the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Lofgren) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Sensenbrenner).

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. LEACH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the bill just passed.

There was no objection.

EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE HOUSE WITH REGARD TO SHUTTLE MISSION STS–93, COMMANDED BY COLONEL EILEEN COLLINS, FIRST FEMALE SPACE SHUTTLE COMMANDER

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 267) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives with regard to Shuttle Mission STS–93 commanded by Colonel Eileen Collins, the first female space shuttle commander.

H. Res. 267

Whereas Shuttle Mission STS–93 successfully deployed the Chandra X-Ray Observatory; Whereas the Chandra X-Ray Observatory will provide scientists from around the world with a better understanding of the structure and evolution of the universe; Whereas Shuttle Mission STS–93 is the first mission in the history of the United States space program to be commanded by a woman; Whereas women continue to be underrepresented in the science, engineering, and technology fields; Whereas the selection of Colonel Eileen Collins as the first female space shuttle commander has raised the level of awareness and appreciation of women’s contributions in the advancement of science and technology; and Whereas Colonel Eileen Collins’ accomplishments in the United States space program have made her a role model for women pursuing an education and career in scientific fields: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) congratulates the crew of Shuttle Mission STS–93 and honors Colonel Eileen Collins on being the first female commander of a United States space shuttle;

(2) recognizes the important contribution Colonel Eileen Collins has made to the United States space program and to the advancement of women in science; and

(3) invites Collins and the crew of STS–93 to the United States Capitol to be honored and recognized by the House of Representatives for their achievements.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Ms. Lofgren) will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Sensenbrenner).

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H. Res. 267.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, last Tuesday evening, Space Shuttle Columbia touched down at the Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Florida. The crew of Space Shuttle Columbia completed an important mission. A few short hours after launch, shuttle mission STS–93 successfully deployed the Chandra X-ray Observatory. With the launch of Chandra, we begin to explore the universe in new and exciting ways.

Chandra will allow us to examine the hot, turbulent regions in space with images nearly 25 times sharper than previous X-ray pictures. The scientific promises that Chandra holds are far beyond our understanding of how our universe operates.

Yet beyond the scientific accomplishments of the recent shuttle mission, we rise today to celebrate a new turning point in history. STS–93 is the first-ever shuttle mission commanded by a woman, U.S. Air Force Colonel Eileen Collins. Colonel Collins has downplayed her role as the first female space shuttle commander. In her mind, she is just another astronaut, not unlike her male predecessors, who has worked hard and has been bestowed the great honor of commanding a U.S. space shuttle into space.

In reality, Colonel Collins has emerged as a role model for all young women who aspire to one day follow in her footsteps or to pursue careers in other scientific fields. However, Mr. Speaker, a young girl watching the recent nightly news coverage of Colonel Collins’ flight will not be able to command her own space shuttle flight unless she acquires the science and math skills necessary to succeed as an astronaut in the U.S. space program.

Sadly, many young girls, and boys, are discouraged from pursuing a quality education even in the most basic math and science courses. The release last year of the Third International Mathematics and Science (TIM) study revealed that American high school seniors, even our Nation’s best students in advanced classes, are among the world’s least prepared.

We must expect more from our Nation’s students with respect to math and science. Curricula for all elementary and secondary years need to be developed in a manner that conveys the excitement of science and math so that students are prepared to follow in the footsteps of Colonel Collins and her crew if they choose to do so.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentlewoman from Maryland (Ms. Morella), the chairwoman of the Subcommittee on Technology, and the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. Eddie Bernice Johnson), the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Basic Research, for introducing H. Res. 267 for our consideration today.

I congratulate Colonel Eileen Collins and the crew of Shuttle Mission STS–93 and urge my colleagues to support H. Res. 267.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to speak in support of the resolution to honor the accomplishments of Colonel Eileen Collins, NASA astronaut.

As my colleagues know, she recently commanded the successful STS–93 shuttle mission. As such she was the first female shuttle commander in the history of the United States Space Program. She completed the mission with distinction, and she and the rest of the crew are to be congratulated.

By all accounts she has handled all of her assignments at NASA and in the Air Force with distinction, and she represents the best in service to our Nation.

In addition, Colonel Collins is a valuable role model for young women. She shows them that the sky is not the limit if they study hard, work hard, and are willing to dream. Colonel Col- lins shows determination can lead one to get ahead.

She began her academic career at Corning Community College where she got a degree in mathematics and science. She went on to get her bachelor's degree in mathematics and economics from Syracuse in 1978, a master's of science degree in operations research from Stanford University in 1986, and a master's of arts degree in space systems management from Webster University in 1989.

Colonel Collins had nothing given to her, but Colonel Collins worked hard and made a future for herself in the space program and as a role model for girls all over the country. She is just the person to help inspire more young Americans to seek benefits of a math and science education.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that Congress is planning to honor her with this resolution. Unfortunately, however, I believe that it risks being a hollow honor. On the one hand we will vote today to honor Colonel Collins for her accomplishments at NASA. On the other hand later this week, the majority is preparing to bring to the floor an appropriations bill that will cut NASA's budget by a billion dollars compared to fiscal year 1999.

It is a bill that cuts the President's request for human space flight by a quarter of a billion dollars. The request for space science research is also cut by a quarter of a billion dollars. The request for Earth science research is cut by more than a quarter of a billion dollars. And the request for NASA's infrastructure budget for facilities, personnel, and so forth, is cut by almost a quarter of a billion dollars.

I think that the majority is making a grave mistake. NASA has done a great job in streamlining its programs and delivering good value for the taxpayers' investment. We should be supporting NASA's efforts, not slashing its structure budget for facilities, personnel, and so forth, by more than a quarter of a billion dollars. The request for space science research is also cut by a quarter of a billion dollars. The request for Earth science research is cut by more than a quarter of a billion dollars. And the request for NASA's infrastructure budget for facilities, personnel, and so forth, is cut by almost a quarter of a billion dollars.

I hope that we can restore the fund- ing for NASA when the VA–HUD bill is necessary even at the lower amount if we are to avoid having a government shutdown of NASA. And I think that we ought to be thinking for NASA when the VA–HUD bill is cut.

Porting NASA's efforts, not slashing its budget for facilities, per- sonnel, and so forth, is cut by almost a quarter of a billion dollars. The re- quest for space science research is also cut by a quarter of a billion dollars. The request for human space flight by a billion dollars. And it was my Committee on Appropriations relative to the NASA budget. And it was my Committee, I have had the pleasure of meet- ing the Commission on Women and Minorities in Science and Technology. I introduced the legislation that created the Commission on Women and Minorities in Science, Engineering and Technology working to reverse the underrepresentation of these groups in the sciences through better education and encouragement at all levels of learning. Through my work on the Science Committee, I have had the pleasure of meet- ing Col. Collins. I was impressed by her enthusiasm for science. In a sense she is an American hero. The Commander of this mission, U.S. Air Force Colonel Eileen Marie Collins was born in 1956, just one year before the space race began with the Soviet launch of Sputnik 1. She grew up in the tense climate of the cold war, fully aware that, as demonstrated by Sputnik, the Soviet Union mis- sile with enough force to threaten her home. No doubt she shared the apprehension that would spark the Space Race and see the United States play catch-up to the apparent dominance of the world's other Superpower.

She just turned twelve when Apollo 8 made its 10 historic orbits of the moon on Christmas Day 1968, and I have no doubt she was among the millions who watched Neil Arm- strong, Michael Collins, and Buzz Aldrin make their voyage in Apollo 11 in the summer of 1969.

She dreamed of being a test pilot and an astronaut, but it didn't come easy for her. Though women were early pioneers of flight, in the 1930s fewer opportunities were open to women. In 1969, she was finally offered that women became eligible for positions as mili- tary aviators, the traditional route to the astron- aut program.

Collins was working her way through community college during this time and earned a scholarship to Syracuse. She studied mathe- matics and economics, going on to later earn a Master of Science degree in operations re- search from Stanford University and a Master of Arts in space systems management from Webster University. In 1979, the same year Skyrise fell out of Earth's orbit, she completed her pilot training for the Air Force.

She became a flight instructor, and in 1983, when Sally Ride became the first American woman in space, she was a C–141 com- mander and instructor. As a test pilot, she eventually logged over 5,000 hours in 30 dif- ferent aircraft.

She was selected as an astronaut in 1990 and became the first woman pilot of the Space Shuttle aboard the Discovery on STS–63 in February of 1995. Going into this past mis- sion, she had already logged over 419 hours of time in space.

With her latest mission, however, she em- barked on an adventure that marks another moment in history. She became the first woman commander of a mission to space.

As Chair of the Subcommittee on Tech- nology, I introduced the legislation that created the Commission on Women and Minorities in Science, Engineering and Technology working to reverse the underrepresentation of these groups in the sciences through better education and encouragement at all levels of learning. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of House Resolution 267, honoring Colonel Eileen Collins, our first female shuttle commander, and her crew on Shuttle Mission STS–93.

This latest shuttle mission deployed the most sophisticated X-ray observatory ever built and will give us even greater opportunities to observe areas of the universe about which we still know very little, such as the remnants of exploded stars.

Still more remarkable, however, is that this 118 hour and 50 minute mission was the first commanded by a woman. Colonel Collins has four degrees in science and mathematics and spent three years teaching mathematics at the U.S. Air Force Academy, making her something of an anomaly in society where so few of our young girls go on to science and mathematics course work in their secondary and post-secondary education. While much progress has been made over the past few years, there is still a disparity in the number of girls who go on to take advanced mathematics and science classes in high school and college. Similarly, women are less likely to pursue a science or mathematics degree in college or related career.

This disparity is not caused by lack of achievement, as earlier science and math proficiency gaps between young boys and girls have narrowed and virtually disappeared. According to a recent National Science Foundation study on women’s entry into science and engineering fields, one possible reason is the lack of role models in secondary schools. Colonel Collins may not be a high school teacher, but she is certainly a fine role model for aspiring engineers, astronauts, and mathematicians. In fact, both girls and boys can look up to her as an example of where science and mathematics can take us. I commend Colonel Collins for her pioneering role in America’s space program and her crew for a job well-done.

Mrs. KELLY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 267, to pay tribute to Col. Eileen Marie Collins, as the first female space shuttle commander. I congratulate her for her leadership and thank her for her efforts to improve our space program. Through her dedication she has become one of the most visible role models for girls in aeronautics and science today. Since 1978, when NASA hired it’s first female astronaut, women have come to earn a place in the space program, peaking with Col. Collins’ historic effort as the first female commander in NASA’s 95 missions, commanding the space shuttle Columbia. With this mission she has earned a place in history alongside pioneers like, Amelia Earhart and Cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova, the first woman in space.

I had the good fortune to travel to Cape Canaveral on July 20th for this historic launch. Regrettably, safety precautions grounded the mission that day. However, on July 23, this mission became able to be piloted. What a proud day that was for Col. Collins, NASA and for the women of our country. She has persevered in a way that most of us can only dream of.

Mr. Speaker, we all can remember the awe that we felt as children as we watched John Glenn, Neil Armstrong and their fellow astronauts, as they brought space discovery home to all of us. Thanks to Col. Collins and her colleagues, our children will also be inspired by brave Americans, who like Col. Collins, have dedicated their lives to the space program and improving our knowledge of the world around us. Once again I would like to congratulate Col. Collins and NASA on their successful mission in which they claimed a place in history and opened a new eye on the universe.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, on July 23, 1999 Col. Eileen Collins—on a very successful mission—took one giant step for all womankind by serving as the first woman in history to command a space shuttle flight. I was privileged to fly to Cape Canaveral, with the First Lady and the U.S. Women’s Soccer Team on July 22, to watch the shuttle’s first attempt.

Although we were disappointed that the flight was delayed, we all marveled that just a few years ago events such as this one could not have occurred.

Col. Collins was born in upstate New York, not far from my district, at a time when women were excluded from our nation’s space exploration program. Col. Collins rarely ever missed an episode of Star Trek or Lost in Space according to her family. Along with her father, Col. Collins would watch the gliders soaring over Elmira hoping one day she too could fly. Eileen Collins dared to dream and her dreams became our dreams. Her efforts are inspiring young women and girls to tackle and excel at math and the sciences today. Col. Collins is blazing a trail that will undoubtedly be followed by many women astronauts. She has rendered outstanding service to her country and is a true role model to young and old alike. I would like to take this opportunity to commend and congratulate her on a tremendous accomplishment.

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to join my colleagues in honoring Colonel Eileen M. Collins, the first American woman to command a mission in space. I congratulate Colonel Collins and her crew—Pilot Jeffrey S. Ashby and Mission Specialist Steven A. Hawley, Catherine G. Coleman, and Michael T. Good on a successful mission.

On July 23, 1999, Colonel Collins made history when the Space Shuttle Columbia took off under her command with the heaviest payload in shuttle history. The objective of the mission—to deploy the Chandra X-Ray Observatory—was flawlessly accomplished. A veteran of three space flights since becoming an astronaut in 1991, Collins has logged over 537 hours in space. She served as pilot on her two previous shuttle flights in 1995 and 1997—in fact, she was also the first woman pilot of a space shuttle.

The girls of today have some powerful role models to emulate, and Colonel Collins is one of the best. She has consistently excelled in fields dominated by men. Colonel Collins has demonstrated that there are no limits to what women can accomplish if given the opportunity. An example will inspire more women to pursue careers in science and technology.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H. Res. 267, the resolution congratulating NASA on its successful Shuttle Mission STS–93, commanded by Colonel Eileen Collins, the first female space shuttle commander.

Col. Eileen Marie Collins, who is originally from Elmira, New York, was selected by NASA in January 1990, and became an astronaut July 1991. She has an extensive resume at NASA. A veteran of three space flights, Collins has logged over 537 hours in space. She served as pilot on STS–63 (February 2–11, 1995) and STS–84 (May 15–24, 1997), and was the first woman Shuttle commander on STS–93 (July 22–27, 1999).

Women have come a long way since Alan Shepard became the first American man to go into space in 1961.

Women have faced numerous barriers when it comes to advancing in science professions. I can remember when signs were put up advertising for a job but saying “women need not apply.” We passed the Civil Service Act in 1973 eliminating weight and height requirements in federal jobs and the EEOC ruled that employers cannot discriminate against women. Today, women have been breaking barriers in professional careers. It seems that today there are no limits to the professional success of women.

The selection of Col. Eileen Collins as shuttle commander is not only a product of her own hard work and effort, but a product of the rights which women have established for themselves. Col. Collins accomplishments in the U.S. space program have made her a role model for women pursuing an education and career in science and technology.

Women continue to be underrepresented in the science, engineering, and technology fields. The statistics paint a bleak picture:

Women have historically been underrepresented in scientific and engineering occupations, and although progress has been made over the last several decades, there is still room for improvement.

Female and minority students take fewer high-level mathematics and science courses in high school.

Female students earn fewer bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees in science and engineering.

Among recent bachelors of science and bachelor of engineering graduates, women are less likely to be in the labor force, to be employed full-time, and to be employed in their field than are men.

Among doctoral scientists and engineers, women are far more likely to be employed at 2-year institutions, are far less likely to be employed in research universities, and are much more likely to teach part-time.

Among university full-time faculty, women are less likely to chair departments or hold high-ranked positions.

A substantial salary gap exists between men and women with doctorates in science and engineering.
SEC. 2. CRIMINAL PROHIBITION ON THE DISTRIBUTION OF CERTAIN INFORMATION RELATING TO EXPLOSIVES, DESTRUCTIVE DEVICES, AND WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION.

(a) UNLAWFUL CONDUCT.—Section 842 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(p) DISTRIBUTION OF INFORMATION RELATING TO EXPLOSIVES, DESTRUCTIVE DEVICES, AND WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION.—

"(1) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection—

"(A) the term ‘destructive device’ has the same meaning as in section 921(a)(4);

"(B) the term ‘explosive’ has the same meaning as in section 844(c); and

"(C) the term ‘weapon of mass destruction’ has the same meaning as in section 2382a(c)(2).

"(2) PROHIBITION.—It shall be unlawful for any person—

(A) to teach or demonstrate the making or use of an explosive, a destructive device, or a weapon of mass destruction, or to distribute by any means information pertaining to, in whole or in part, the manufacture or use of an explosive, destructive device, or weapon of mass destruction, with the intent that the teaching, demonstration, or information be used for, or in furtherance of, an activity that constitutes a Federal crime of violence; or

(B) to teach or demonstrate to any person the making or use of an explosive, a destructive device, or a weapon of mass destruction, or to distribute to any person, by any means, information pertaining to, in whole or in part, the manufacture or use of an explosive, destructive device, or weapon of mass destruction, knowing that such person intends to use the teaching, demonstration, or information for, or in furtherance of, an activity that constitutes a Federal crime of violence;

"(3) PENALTIES.—Section 844 of title 18, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)—

(A) by striking ‘‘person who violates any of subsections’’ and inserting the following: ‘‘person who—

(i) violates any of subsections;’’

(B) by striking the period at the end and inserting ‘‘; and’’; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

‘‘(2) violates subsection (p)(2) of section 842, shall be fined under this title, imprisoned not more than 20 years, or both.’’; and

(2) in subsection (j), by inserting ‘‘and section 842(p)’’ after ‘‘this section’’.

SEC. 3. SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS OF MENOMINEE INDIAN TRIBE OF WISCONSIN.

(a) PAYMENT.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to or receive by the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin, out of any funds in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, $32,052,547 for damages sustained by the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin by reason of—

(1) the enactment and implementation of the Act entitled ‘‘An Act to provide for a per capita distribution of Menominee tribal funds and authorize the withdrawal of the Menominee Tribe from Federal jurisdiction’’, approved June 17, 1964 (68 Stat. 250 et seq., chapter 252); and

(2) the mismanagement by the United States of assets of the Menominee Indian Tribe held in trust by the United States before the date of termination of Federal supervision of the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin.

(b) EFFECT OF PAYMENT.—Payment of the amounts referred to in subsection (a) shall be in full satisfaction of any claims that the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin may have against the United States with respect to such damages referred to in that subsection.

(c) REQUIREMENTS FOR PAYMENT.—The payment to the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin under subsection (a) shall include—

(1) the status of a judgment of the United States Court of Federal Claims for the purposes of the Indian Tribal Judgment Collection Act (25 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.); and

(2) be made in accordance with the requirements of that Act on the condition that, of the amounts remaining after payment of attorney fees and litigation expenses—

(A) at least 30 percent shall be distributed on a per capita basis; and

(B) a balance shall be set aside and programmed to serve tribal needs, including funding for—

(i) educational, economic development, and health care programs; and

(ii) such other programs as the circumstances of the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin may justify.

(d) LIMITATION ON FEES.—Not more than 15 percent of the sums authorized to be paid by subsection (a) shall be paid to or received by any agent or attorney for services rendered in connection with the recovery of such sums. Any person violating this subsection shall be fined not more than $1,000.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM) and the gentleman from California (Ms. Lofgren) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM).

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks, and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, section 1 of this legislation will right a long-standing wrong involving the Federal Government and Global Exploration and Development Corporation and Kerr-McGee Corporation. Global and Kerr-McGee became embroiled in a dispute with the Department of Interior more than 20 years ago— a dispute for which they were improperly denied an opportunity to participate in the environmental assessment process of a potential mining site in the Osceola Forest in Florida.

In January 1991, I introduced legislation for the relief of Global and Kerr-McGee for damages incurred due to wrongful government actions. That bill was successfully referred to the U.S. Court of Federal Claims which ruled... that the Government had, in fact, committed a wrongful act. The parties subsequently reached a settlement, the terms of which are embodied in this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I am hopeful that the passage of this legislation will bring long awaited and long overdue relief for the parties involved. Protecting private rights and rectifying public wrongs are essential if we are truly a government of, for, and by the people.

The second section of S. 606, authored by Senator DIANE FEINSTEIN, would amend the Federal Criminal Code to prohibit any person from teaching or demonstrating the making or use of an explosive, destructive device, or weapon of mass destruction. This conduct would be criminal if accompanied by either the intent that the teaching, demonstration, or information for such activity.

We live in dangerous times and some believe that the next 10 or 20 years may witness an unprecedented number of acts of terror in the United States. We face the very real threat that a weapon of mass destruction will be used against civilians in a major American city in the next 10 or 20 years. We certainly pray that does not happen, but we must do everything in our power to reduce the threat of terrorism on a massive scale.

No one should be allowed to distribute bomb-making information with the intent that it be used and be used to commit a violent crime. This legislation is carefully crafted to prohibit and punish conduct, not speech, and I am quite confident it will withstand constitutional challenge. Senator FEINSTEIN worked with the Justice Department on the constitutionality, and they support it.

With the Internet, it has become all too easy to disseminate bomb-making information to anyone with a personal computer. While we cannot and should not inhibit constitutionally-protected speech, we can and should do everything in our power to prevent the dissemination of bomb-making information to commit a violent crime.

Similar or virtually identical provisions were passed on the floor of this House were passed previously and I am confident this will now finally become law if we pass it today.

Now, I turn to section 3 of this bill. S.606 additionally authorizes the U.S. Government to finally make good on a $32 million court settlement with the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin. The history of this settlement can be traced back to 1954, when the Federal Government terminated the tribe’s Federal trust status and the Bureau of Indian Affairs grossly mismanaged many of the tribe’s assets.

In 1967, the tribe filed a lawsuit challenging the determination and seeking damages. After decades of litigation, in 1993 Congress passed a congressional reference directing the U.S. Claims Court to determine what damages, if any, were owed the tribe.

Finally, in August of last year, the tribe and the Federal Government presented a settlement agreement to the Claims Court paying the tribe $32 million. That settlement was approved by the court. These dollars will only be used to improve education, health care, and economic opportunities for the tribe and the areas surrounding the reservation.

I particularly want to commend the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. GREEN) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER) for their work in this particular area.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, though these three provisions are somewhat related, and as such a good illustration of the three open rules of procedure by each body, each of the legislative initiatives contained within S.606 are straightforward and relatively non-controversial. I ask for the support of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this bill, which passed both the Subcommittee on Immigration and Claims and the full Committee on the Judiciary during the 105th Congress, and passed the full Senate this year, will pay $10 million and $9,500,000 respectively to Kerr-McGee Corporation and Global and Kerr-McGee Corporations. Rather, the recommendation made by the Court of Claims as to the amounts equitably due those companies.

This legislation is intended to resolve litigation between the Federal Government and these corporations. This litigation was based upon the corporations’ allegations that the United States improperly failed to grant or approve leases or to allow phosphate mining by Global and Kerr-McGee Corporations in Osceola National Forest.

After a 6-week trial before the Court of Federal Claims, but before the court could issue an opinion, the parties agreed to a joint stipulation of settlement and submitted this stipulation to the court. On November 18, 1996, the court published its recommendation to Congress that the disputes be settled for the amounts set forth in this bill.

The Court’s recommendation to Congress was not based upon the finding of any wrongdoing by the United States in its dealings with Global or the Kerr-McGee Corporations. Rather, the court’s recommendation was based upon and limited to a finding that an equitable claim against the United States existed and it was in the best interest of all parties to settle this claim for the amounts set forth in the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues in favor of passing S. 606.

Mr. Speaker, I would note that the section referred to in the bill by my colleague, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Crime, relative to penalties for teaching individuals weapons of mass destruction may or may not prove violative of the first amendment. But clearly a very strong effort has been made to comport with the requirements of the first amendment, and I would urge my colleagues to support the measure. We will certainly find out soon enough whether our efforts to succeed in that regard are successful or not when the measure is challenged in court.

Let me just put a word of procedural caution relative to how this bill is being considered. All three of the provisions of this bill have merit and should be enacted into law on their own. Two of them are private bills in nature, the Kerr-McGee settlement and the Menominee Indian Tribe settlement, and the other provision is public in nature relative to disseminating on the Internet a do-it-yourself kit on how individuals can make their own weapons of mass destruction. So they all should become law, and I support this legislation today.

However, I am disturbed at the practice of putting both public and private legislation in the same bill, and I would hope that the consideration of this bill today as a mixture of both public legislation and private legislation will not be viewed as a precedent for future mixings by either this body or the other body.

I would hope that this motion to suspend the rules will be overwhelmingly agreed to so that we can get these three items out of the way and enacted into law, but I would hope we would take a little bit more care procedurally as we deal with both public and private legislation in the future.

Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume to simply respond that I think the gentleman from Wisconsin’s point is well taken, I concur, and I also agree we should move forward today but we ought to be more vigilant. I appreciate his remarks.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. I urge that my colleagues vote in favor of S. 606.
I think it has been well stated what is in this legislation. It is good legislation. It is three separate provisions that all will become law, and I urge its adoption.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. STEARMAN) said the question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MCCOLLUM) that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 606, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ARCTIC TUNDRA HABITAT EMERGENCY CONSERVATION ACT

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2454) to assure the long-term conservation of mid-continent light geese and the biological diversity of the ecosystem upon which many North American migratory birds depend, by directing the Secretary of the Interior to implement rules to reduce the overabundant population of mid-continent light geese, as amended.

H.R. 2454

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) The winter index population of mid-continent light geese was 800,000 birds in 1969, while the total population of such geese is more than 5,200,000 birds today.

(2) The population of mid-continent light geese is expanding by over 5 percent each year, and in the absence of new wildlife management actions it could grow to more than 6,800,000 breeding light geese in 3 years.

(3) The primary reasons for this unprecedented population growth are—

(A) the expansion of agricultural areas and the resulting abundance of cereal grain crops in the United States;

(B) the establishment of sanctuaries along the United States flyways of migrating light geese; and

(C) a decline in light geese harvest rates.

(4) As a direct result of this population explosion, the Hudson Bay Lowlands Salt-Marsh ecosystem in Canada is being systematically destroyed. This ecosystem contains approximately 135,000 acres of essential habitat for migrating light geese and many other avian species. Biologists have testified that ½ of this habitat has been destroyed, ½ is on the brink of devastation, and ½ is overgrazed.

(5) The destruction of the Arctic tundra is having a severe negative impact on many avian species that breed or migrate through this habitat, including the following:

(A) Canada Goose.

(B) American Wigeon.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that we are considering H.R. 2454, the Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act. This bipartisan legislation addresses the devastating impact of an exploding population of light geese, more commonly known as snow geese.

Included within the Members’ folders is a chronology on the issue. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been monitoring snow goose populations for over 50 years. During that time the mid-continent population, that is the population that frequents the Mississippi flyway, has increased from 800,000 birds in 1969 to more than 5.2 million geese today. In the absence of new wildlife management actions, there will be more than 6 million breeding light geese in 3 years.

This unprecedented population explosion is creating serious problems. The geese appetite for Arctic coastal tundra has created a strip of desert stretching for 2,000 miles in Canada. These birds are world-class foragers, and their favorite foods are found in the 135,000 acres that comprise the Hudson Bay lowland salt marsh ecosystem. These geese are literally eating themselves out of house and home and, in the process, destroying thousands of acres of irreplaceable nesting habitat. These wetlands are crucial to the survival not only of light geese but to dozens of other species.

On February 16, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service issued two final rules to reduce this ever-expanding population of light geese. Sadly, in response to a legal challenge, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service withdrew these two regulations on June 17. While the judge did not rule on the merits of the regulations, the Service was instructed to complete an Environmental Impact Statement. This process will take between 12 and 18 months to complete, and during that time the tundra will continue to be systematically destroyed by an ever-increasing population of light geese.

This is a simple bill. It will reinstate the two regulations already carefully evaluated, approved and then withdrawn by the Fish and Wildlife Service. States would have the flexibility to allow the use of electronic goose calls and unplugged shotguns, and to implement conservation orders to take mid-continent light geese.

H.R. 2454 enacts these regulations in their identical form. In addition, the bill sunsets when the Service has completed both its Environmental Impact Statement and a new rule on mid-continent light geese. This is an interim solution to a very serious and evergrowing environmental problem.

Mr. Speaker, I urge an “aye” vote.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

August 2, 1999

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation with the changes that have been made in terms of making this program available for the next two hunting seasons. I think that puts the kind of limitation on it that we can monitor and will make it a well-run program.

In game bird and wildlife management, some times our best efforts to restore wildlife populations can go awry and produce unintended consequences, and that seems to be the case with mid-continent light geese.

No reasonable field biologist who has examined light geese census data disputes the fact that the population of light geese has shot up dramatically over the past decade to a point now where the birds are virtually eating themselves out of their arctic and subarctic nesting habitats through overpopulation management actions, including the establishment of protective areas and abundance of cereal grain crops, are partly to blame, but so is the natural wariness and reproductive capacity of this species.

And so, we are left with the unfortunate reality that our species—either through increased human harvest or natural mortality—population of light geese will be culled in order to prevent widespread habitat deterioration. It is a regrettable circumstance which offers no simple, painless solutions.

H.R. 2454 would authorize two emergency regulations proposed earlier this year by the Fish and Wildlife Service to increase the harvest of light geese in States within either the Mississippi and Central flyways. These regulations were broadly supported by a wide range of State and private wildlife and conservation organizations, including Ducks Unlimited and the National Audubon Society.

These regulations were withdrawn earlier this year by the Fish and Wildlife Service after a Federal appeals court ruled that the Service needed a full environmental impact statement (EIS) regarding the proposed emergency actions. I commend the Service for voluntarily withdrawing their proposed regulations and for recognizing the need to develop a full EIS, and urge the Service to complete this EIS at the earliest possible date.

I think it important to note for members that Congress is legislating in this matter solely because all other administrative options available to the Service—under NEPA or any other statute—had been exhausted, and that the only remedy remaining was a legislative fix. This is an important factor driving the need for this legislation.

I do appreciate the helpful modifications made to the bill in the Resources Committee. Even improved, the bill does contain two troubling provisions of which I am still concerned. First, the bill would waive all procedural requirements under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), and second, the bill authorizes the use of otherwise outlawed hunting practices, notably the use of electronic calling devices and un-plugged shotguns.

However, while I personally disagree with the Congress passing legislation to waive NEPA or to authorize the otherwise illegal hunting methods, and while I remain concerned that these regulations may be too broad, I realize that under the constraints of this specific emergency situation, such provisions may be added, if necessary.

Moreover, I am pleased that the Resources Committee amended the bill to include an expiration date of May 15, 2001, or earlier if the Service files its final EIS before that date, to limit the duration of this emergency action.

And while I believe the Fish and Wildlife Service will act in good faith to complete the EIS at the earliest possible date, I also believe that a fixed expiration date is necessary to ensure that a temporary action does not inadvertently become permanent. I look forward to the Service completing its EIS, and I hope that this additional analysis will provide other alternatives to address the overabundance of light geese in a less indiscriminate manner and without requiring Congress to pass legislation.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the legislation being offered today by the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON].

H.R. 2545, the “Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act,” quite simply is trying to head off an unmitigated conservation disaster for white geese, including greater and lesser snow geese and Ross’ geese. During the past three decades, these mid-continent snow geese species populations have literally exploded, from an estimated 800,000 in 1969 to more than five million today. This dramatic increase has resulted in the devastation of nearly 50,000 acres of snow goose habitat around Canada’s Hudson Bay. This tundra habitat, most of which comprises a coastal salt marsh, is vital for nesting. As the snow goose proliferate and consume this habitat, other populations of birds are also placed at risk by this loss of habitat.

A special report issued in January 1998, by Ducks Unlimited provides a good example of the depth and the breadth of the problem. In studies conducted in Churchill, Manitoba, there were 2,000 nesting pairs in 1968. In 1997, there were greater than 40,000 pairs. The result is a cruel fate for the birds, particularly the thousands of orphaned, malnourished and eventually dead goslings who cannot survive on barren tundra.

Together with expected population increases is another vexing problem: recovery of habitat, destroyed by overfeeding at this far-north latitude, is expected to take at least 15 years; it will take even longer if some of the acreage continues to be foraged by geese during the recovery period.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been working for a few years in partnership with the Canadian Wildlife Service, several departments of Fish and Game, Ducks Unlimited, the Audubon Society and other non-governmental entities to try to address the problem. In February of this year, the Fish and Wildlife Service issued two final rules to authorize the use of additional hunting methods to reduce the population of snow geese so that a reasonable population can survive on a viable habitat. The goal was to reduce the number of mid-continent light geese in the first year by 975,000, using additional hunting methods carefully studied and approved by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Unfortunately, the Service withdrew the rules in the aftermath of a court challenge. The result of inaction, however, would be devastating. Chairman Saxton was correct to press for a legislative solution to expedite the recovery process by implementing the Service’s rules, as the bill before us does today. It is clear that human decision making has contributed mightily to the light geese problem through increased agricultural production, sanctuary designation, and reduction in harvest rates.

Mr. Speaker, the bill before us takes an affirmative and humane step to help assure the long-term survival of mid-continent light geese and the conservation of the habitat upon which they and other species depend. I urge my colleagues to support this important bill.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, as co-author of H.R. 2454, I rise in strong support of the Arctic Tundra Habitat Emergency Conservation Act. The fundamental goal of this legislation is to stop the destruction of the Canadian Arctic Tundra by a growing population of mid-continent light geese. If we do not act, these valuable wetlands may be lost forever.

Three years ago, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service joined with the Canadian Wildlife Service, Ducks Unlimited, the National Audubon Society and several State and Provincial Fish and Game Departments in forming the Arctic Goose Habitat Working Group. After carefully studying the problem, the Group issued a report that recommended that the population of mid-continent light geese, which now numbers more than five million birds, be cut in half within six years.

The working group suggested that the food supply be reduced along U.S. Flyways, bailing of light geese be permitted, sharpshooters be hired to kill large numbers of geese and additional hunting methods such as electronic goose calls and unplugged shotguns be utilized.

The Fish and Wildlife Service carefully reviewed these recommendations and it conducted an exhaustive analysis of the various wildlife management options to reduce the population of snow geese of the Arctic Tundra of “letting nature run its course” because it would cause an environmental catastrophe and many of the suggestions of the Working Group were not implemented.

In fact, in the end, the Service issued two modest rules which would have increased the harvest of light geese by allowing hunters to use electronic calls and unplugged shotguns. While these changes by themselves would not save the fragile Arctic ecosystem, they were a responsible step in the right direction.

Once enacted, these rules will reduce the population of mid-continent geese and more importantly they will slow the destruction of the Arctic Tundra that is being transformed from thickly vegetated wetlands to a virtual desert.

In La Prouse Bay in Canada, which is a critical nesting site, more than 60 percent of the salt-marsh vegetation has already been destroyed or damaged to the point where it is unable to nourish birds.

Regrettably, in response to a court order, the Fish and Wildlife Service withdrew their regulations and they are now completing an Environmental Impact Statement on mid-continent light geese.

While that occurs, the Arctic Tundra will continue to be destroyed an acre at a time.
and these essential wetlands which provide life for literally hundreds of avian species, besides geese, will be irreparably lost.

There is a better way. H.R. 2454 will reinstate the Fish and Wildlife Service’s rules in their identical form. It is a temporary solution that will save critical Arctic wetlands. This legislation is strongly supported by the conservation community including Ducks Unlimited and the National Audubon Society.

In closing, let me quote from the Chairman of the Arctic Goose Habitat Working Group, Dr. Bruce Batt, who testified that “the finite amount of suitable goose breeding habitat is rapidly being consumed and eventually will be lost. Every technical, Administrative, legal and political delay just adds to the problem. There is real urgency here as we may not be far from the point where the only choice is to record the aftermath of the crash of goose numbers with the related ecosystem destruction with all the other species that live there with geese.”

I urge an aye vote on H.R. 2454, a bipartisan bill that will save critical Arctic wetlands.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The Speaker pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2454, as amended.

The question was taken; and two-thirds having voted in favor thereof, the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ARIZONA STATEHOOD AND ENABLING ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1999

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 747) to protect the permanent trust funds of the State of Arizona from erosion due to inflation and modify the basis on which distributions are made from those funds.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 747
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Arizona Statehood and Enabling Act Amendments of 1999”.

SEC. 2. PROTECTION OF TRUST FUNDS OF STATE OF ARIZONA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 28 of the Act of June 20, 1910 (36 Stat. 574, chapter 310) is amended in the first paragraph by striking “the income therefrom only to be used” and inserting “distributions from which shall be made in accordance with the first paragraph of section 28 and shall be expended”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 25 of the Act of June 20, 1910 (36 Stat. 573, chapter 310), is amended in the provision therefor by striking “the income therefrom only to be used” and inserting “distributions from which shall be made in accordance with the first paragraph of section 28 and shall be expended”.

(2) Section 27 of the Act of June 20, 1910 (36 Stat. 574, chapter 310), is amended by striking “the interest of which only shall be expended” and inserting “distributions from which shall be made in accordance with the first paragraph of section 28 and shall be expended”.

SEC. 3. USE OF MINERS’ HOSPITAL ENDOWMENT FUND FOR ARIZONA PIONEERS’ HOME.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 28 of the Act of June 20, 1910 (36 Stat. 574, chapter 310) is amended in the second paragraph by inserting before the period at the end the following: “The income therefrom shall be made from the trust funds as profitably as possible. The income therefrom only to be used”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall be deemed to have taken effect on June 20, 1910.

SEC. 4. CONSENT OF CONGRESS TO AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION OF STATE OF ARIZONA.

Congress consents to the amendments to the Constitution of the State of Arizona provided by Senate Concurrent Resolution 1007 of the 43rd Legislature, Regular Session, 1998, entitled “Senate Concurrent Resolution requesting the Secretary of State to return Senate Concurrent Resolution 1018, Forty-Third Legislature, First Regular Session, to the Legislature and submit the Proposition contained in Sections 3, 4, and 5 of this Resolution of the proposed amendments to Article IX, Section 7, Article X, Section 7, and Article XI, Section 8, Constitution of Arizona, to a vote of the voters, hereby, subject to a vote of the voters, relative to investment of State monies”, approved by the voters of the State of Arizona on November 3, 1998.

The Speaker pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON).

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that we are considering H.R. 747, a bill to amend the Arizona Enabling Act of 1910 to allow the State of Arizona to manage its State trust differently.

The bill was introduced by our colleague, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP), who we will hear from in just a moment. The State of Arizona, like many other States, receives revenues generated from lands that were granted to the State upon admission to the Union. These revenues contribute funds to schools and other public institutions.

As currently provided for in the original Enabling Act, the funds must pay all of their own income. This creates a problem because it does not account for or adjust to rates of inflation. Moreover, the current Enabling Act has a number of investment restrictions. While these restrictions may have been appropriate at one time, they are outdated and no longer necessary or advisable.

In order to make the necessary changes to allow the State trust fund to be managed differently, it is necessary for Congress to approve and amend the Arizona Enabling Act.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the Act of June 20, 1910, which provided statehood for Arizona, granted federally owned lands to the new State and created a permanent trust fund into which revenues from these lands are invested. However, the act also placed certain limitations on the fund which have worked over time to prevent the State from managing the trust fund as profitably as possible. H.R. 747 will alter the terms of the trust fund and correct the problem.

These changes have been approved by the voters in Arizona, but because they alter the original statehood act, Congress must approve them as well. This measure is almost identical to legislation approved in a previous Congress for the State of New Mexico.

This is noncontroversial, and I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. STUMP).

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Utah (Mr. HANSEN) for all his hard work on this. The bill has been explained. Let me just say that it has been approved by the Governor. It is supported by the entire Arizona delegation as well.

The proposition on the ballot that was considered in the State of Arizona makes very minor changes to the 1910 Enabling Act. I urge its support.

I would also like to thank the Arizona delegation, Mr. PASTOR, Mr. KOLBE, Mr. HAYWORTH, Mr. SALMON and Mr. SHADEGG for their support and cosponsorship of H.R. 747.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 747 amends the 1910 act of Congress that granted the State of Arizona’s entry into the Union. This bill makes two minor changes to the Arizona Enabling Act relating to the administration of state trust funds. This legislation is supported by the Governor of Arizona, our State Treasurer, State Attorney General, State Legislature, and most importantly, the citizens of Arizona through their approval of this change through the ballot process.

On November 3, 1998, Arizona voters passed Proposition 102. This ballot measure amended the Arizona constitution to authorize the investment of Permanent Land Trust Fund monies in equity securities. These trust fund monies derive from the sale of State Trust Lands granted to Arizona by the federal government at statehood. The proposition allows the State of Arizona to capitalize on the higher return rates offered through equity securities. This would improve management in the State and assist in the generation of more revenues for the beneficiaries by gaining authorization to invest up to $100 million and to invest some earnings to offset inflation.

The Arizona Statehood and Enabling Act Amendments legislation will also make a much needed and essential change to the funding of the Arizona Pioneers' Home. This state-operated facility has been dedicated to the long-term care of miners and homesteaders since 1911. Inadequate funds exist in the Miners' Hospital Endowment Fund to build and operate a separate hospital for disabled miners. Disabled miners have been cared for at the Arizona Pioneers' Home, but current law prohibits the commingling of funds associated with state trust lands. H.R. 747 would allow the Arizona Pioneers' Home to expend monies from the Miners' Hospital Endowment Fund to continue care for miners who meet the statutory admission requirements.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 747 is a bill that is supported by bipartisan interests in the State of Arizona and most importantly, the citizens of Arizona. I ask my colleagues for favorable consideration of this legislation.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the agreement offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) the author of the bill.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to proceed to the consideration of H.R. 1104. This legislation is the result of efforts by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON), the subcommittee chair, for his support.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 1104 is the result of efforts by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON), the subcommittee chair, for his support.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to proceed to the consideration of H.R. 1104. This legislation is the result of efforts by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON), the subcommittee chair, for his support.

Finally, I would like to thank the gentleman from Utah (Mr. HANSEN), the subcommittee chair, for his support.

I am proud to rise in support of H.R. 1104. This legislation is introduced to transfer administrative jurisdiction from the National Park Service to the National Archives for the construction of a visitor center at the Franklin D. Roosevelt National Historic Site.

The much anticipated visitor center will serve three area National Historic Sites and will be a great addition to the rich history of the Nation's Roosevelt era and that of New York's Hudson Valley.

The 105th Congress provided $3.2 million to the National Archives for construction of the much-needed new facility on a one-acre parcel within the historic site. However, construction is stalled due to a legal snag; and this legislation corrects that snag.

In short, jurisdiction over this site for the visitor center must be transferred from the National Park Service to the National Archives and Records Administration before we can begin construction on this long-awaited visitor center.

Mr. Speaker, Franklin D. Roosevelt, our Nation's 32nd President, lived at his home in Hyde Park, New York, commonly referred to as
Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 695) to direct the Secretary of Agriculture to convey an administrative site in San Juan County, New Mexico, to San Juan College, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 695

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. OLD JICARILLA ADMINISTRATIVE SITE.

(a) CONVEYANCE OF PROPERTY.—Not later than one year after the date of completion of the survey referred to in subsection (b), the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to San Juan College, in Farmington, New Mexico, subject to the terms, conditions, and reservations under subsection (c), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property (including any improvements on the land) not to exceed 20 acres known as the “Old Jicarilla Site” located in San Juan County, New Mexico (T29N; R5W; sections 29 and 30).

(b) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the President of San Juan College. The cost of the survey shall be borne by San Juan College.

(c) TERMS, CONDITIONS, AND RESERVATIONS.—(1) Notwithstanding exceptions of application to the Recreation and Public Purposes Act (43 U.S.C. 869(c)), consideration for the conveyance described in subsection (a) shall be—

(A) an amount that is consistent with the Bureau of Land Management special pricing program for Governmental entities under the Recreation and Public Purposes Act; and

(B) an agreement between the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture and San Juan College indemnifying the Government of the United States from all liability of the Government that arises from the property.

(2) The lands conveyed by this Act shall be used for educational and recreational purposes. If such lands cease to be used for such purposes, at the option of the United States, such lands will revert to the United States.

(3) The Secretary of Agriculture shall identify any reservations of rights-of-way for ingress, egress, and utilities as the Secretary deems appropriate.

(4) The conveyance described in subsection (a) shall be subject to valid existing rights.

(d) LAND WITHDRAWALS.—Public Land Order 3443, only insofar as it pertains to lands described in subsections (a) and (b), shall be revoked simultaneous with the conveyance of the property under this Act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON).

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 695 would direct the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior to convey an administrative site in San Juan County, New Mexico, to San Juan College.

H.R. 695 a bill to direct the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior to convey an administrative site in San Juan County, New Mexico, to San Juan College. The Forest Service no longer requires its use and has not occupied the site for several years.

This legislation will require the Secretary to convey a 10-acre parcel known as the “Old Jicarilla Site” to San Juan college. The Forest Service no longer requires its use and has not occupied the site for several years.

The bill will also require the site to be used for educational and recreational purposes. Our good friend the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. Udall) has done an excellent job on this legislation. I urge all my colleagues to support its passage under the suspended rules.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 695 by the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL) which would direct the Secretary of the Interior to convey approximately 20 acres of both Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management land, including real property on the land, on the Carson National Forest in San Juan County, New Mexico, to San Juan College in Farmington, New Mexico.

The “Old Jicarilla Site,” as it is known, contains a surplus and abandoned ranger station. The college would pay for all lands in accordance with the Recreation and Public Purposes Act and use the site for educational and recreational purposes.

The bill represent a bipartisan effort both in the House and the Senate. I urge my colleagues to support it.

I would like to take the time to congratulate the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL) on his sponsorship of this piece of legislation in an effort to get it passed.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. SAXTON) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 695, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend this remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 2654, H.R. 1104, and H.R. 747, the bills just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY PAYMENT PROTECTION ACT OF 1999

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1219) to amend the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act and the Miller Act, relating to payment protections for persons providing labor and materials for Federal construction projects.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. R. 1219

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Construction Industry Payment Protection Act of 1999.”

SEC. 2. AMENDMENTS TO THE MILLER ACT.

(a) ENHANCEMENT OF PAYMENT BOND PROTECTION.—Subsection (a)(2) of the first section of the Miller Act (40 U.S.C. 270(a)(2)) is amended by striking the second, third, and fourth sentences and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

“Amount of the payment bond shall be equal to the total amount payable by the terms of the contract unless the contracting officer awarding the contract makes a written determination, supported by specific findings that a payment bond in that amount is impractical, in which case the amount of the payment bond shall be set by the contracting officer. In no case shall the amount of the payment bond be less than the amount of the performance bond.”.

(b) MODERNIZATION OF DELIVERY OF NOTICE.—Section 2(a) of the Miller Act (40 U.S.C. 270b(a)) is amended in the last sentence by striking “mailing the same by registered mail, postage prepaid, in an envelope addressed” and inserting “any means which provides written, third-party verification of delivery.”.

(c) NONWAIVER OF RIGHTS.—The second section of the Miller Act (40 U.S.C. 270b) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(c) Any waiver of the right to sue on the payment bond required by this Act shall be void unless it is in writing, signed by the person whose right is waived, and executed after such person has furnished labor or material for use in the performance of the contract.”.

SEC. 3. IMPLEMENTATION THROUGH THE GOVERNMENT-WIDE PROCUREMENT REGULATIONS.

(a) PROPOSED REGULATIONS.—Proposed revisions to the Government-wide Federal Acquisition Regulation to implement the amendments made by this Act shall be published not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act and provide not less than 60 days for public comment.

(b) FINAL REGULATIONS.—Final regulations shall be published not less than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act and shall be effective on the date that is 30 days after the date of publication.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN).

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I include for the RECORD at this point a letter from the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HYDE), agreeing to the discharge of the Committee on the Judiciary from further consideration of H. R. 1219.

Mr. Speaker, H. R. 1219, the Construction Industry Payment Protection Act of 1999, is a bill introduced by my colleague, the gentleman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY). It would modernize the 1935 Miller Act.

Under the Miller Act, contractors performing work on a Federal public works project costing in excess of $100,000 are required to furnish a payment bond. The purpose of the bond is to protect subcontractors and suppliers and materials against the risk of nonpayment when working on Federal construction projects.

The Act also requires a performance bond to guarantee completion of the project.

In addition, the Miller Act requires the contractor to provide a performance bond that guarantees completion of the project.

The bill also would expand the methods by which the subcontractors could use to notify the prime contractor of their intent to seek payment from the payment bond. It permits notice by any delivery service that provides written third-party verification of delivery, including the United States Postal Service or a private express delivery service.

Moreover, the bill would require that any waiver of the Miller Act protections by a beneficiary of those protections must be in writing and may be made only after a subcontractor or supplier has furnished labor or materials for use in the performance of the contract.

The bill also requires that the Office of Management and Budget issue final regulations implementing these provisions not less than 180 days after enactment of this legislation.

H. R. 1219 represents a bipartisan effort to update the 1935 Miller Act. This bill contains proposals to amend the Miller Act that address some of the concerns of a variety of trade associations representing essentially every segment of the construction and surety industries. Our thanks go to the Democrats and Republicans who have worked together long and hard to bring this important bipartisan measure to the floor.

I was pleased to be a cosponsor of the gentleman from New York’s bill, the prime author, and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Davis) was also one of the key people in assuring that these different parties came together. The time has come to modernize the Miller Act. I urge my colleagues to support this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced by the gentleman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) as a means of addressing some very serious concerns surrounding the bond requirements established in the Miller Act of 1935. I want to commend the gentleman from New York for her leadership in this legislation, specifically her work in bringing all the parties together that have an interest in this bill, working with them, ensuring that all of the concerns that were laid on the table by all of the parties were addressed. She did an outstanding job in working in a very bipartisan way on this issue.

Specifically, subcontractors who perform construction projects for the Federal Government have raised questions about the adequacy of the payment bond requirement. The gentleman from New York as a member of the Committee on Government Reform, former ranking member of the Subcommittee on Government Management, Information, and Technology, has been persistent in trying to correct the deficiencies of the current law. H.R. 1219 would remedy these problems. The performance bond is a good enough protection of all of the subcontractors. At the same time the legislation would modernize and strengthen the Miller Act and provide a means of improving a relationship of the subcontractors that has been long needed.

This bill was reported by the Committee on Government Reform on May 19 by voice vote. The measure has also been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary which has discharged the bill. I would like to thank particularly the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS) and the gentleman from New York (Mr. NAZLER) for their help in crafting this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HORNY. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. DAVIS). He has done an outstanding job in bringing together the parties to support this particular bill and we deeply appreciate his work on it.

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman of the sub-committee for yielding me this time and I particularly thank the author of this bill the gentlewoman from New York who has worked, I think, over and beyond the usual call of duty in trying to bring consensus to something very technical but I think something very meaningful to government contractors and subcontractors and sureties.

I rise today in support of H.R. 1219, the Construction Industry Payments Act of 1999.

This legislation we have been involved with during the 106th Congress when the gentlewoman from New York began working with the affected industry groups to find consensus on updating the original Miller Act of 1935. I am happy to say that this bipartisan cooperation resulted in a strong bill that industry, Congress and the Federal Government can all support. It is fiscally responsible and it offers reasonable protections to all parties involved in this type of Federal procurement.

H.R. 1219 amends the 1935 Miller Act which has stood the test of time very well. It has needed relatively little legislative attention or congressional oversight since its passage. Currently, the Miller Act requires a contractor to repay the government, with a performance bond and a payment bond. These bonds protect the government and certain persons providing labor and material for performance of that work. H.R. 1219 prepares the Miller Act for the 21st century. It should achieve its objectives without reasonably increasing the financial exposure or placing additional burdens on the prime contractor or the surety bond producers and corporate sureties that provide Miller Act bond payments.

It modernizes the act in three areas. The legislation allows the payment bond to the value of the contract award, allows receipt of notice through any method that provides written third party verification of receipt, and it prevents any waiver of the Miller Act rights prior to the commencement of the work. These three key updates of the 1935 legislation enhance the procedures and protections of the Miller Act for the government and those with rights under the act as we continue to update our procurement procedures the next century.

I am particularly impressed with H.R. 1219 and the reasonable updates of the Miller Act that allow it to be particularly effective in protecting all parties to the parties to the parties to the construction process. Not only does it preserve the authority of the United States courts to adjudicate issues under the Miller Act but it preserves the freedom of the contractor and the subcontractor to choose within their particular dispute resolution process that will govern their dispute. This is an effective reform that focuses on everyone’s goal, providing the best product to the Federal Government in a timely manner.

Additionally, H.R. 1219 maintains a subcontract provision that allows for requiring arbitration or another alternative dispute resolution process. A protected person’s Miller Act rights would be preserved by a timely suit in the District Court that can be stayed pending the subcontract dispute resolution process.

Simply put, this legislation modernizes the procedures and protections of the Miller Act, preserves the exclusive jurisdiction of the District Court to resolve issues arising under the Miller Act, and respects the freedom of the contractor and subcontractor to choose their own dispute resolution process, thereby bolstering the Federal Government’s strong policy in favor of alternative dispute resolution.

Finally, I want to again thank the gentlewoman from New York for her willingness to sit down and negotiate on this legislation what appeared to be differences too great to overcome in the waning days of the 105th Congress. Instead this has resulted in a strong, updated Miller Act early on in this Congress. I believe the extensive negotiations between the gentlewoman from New York, myself and others diminish the key elements of the Miller Act to address and improve future situations in Federal contracting. H.R. 1219 is legislation that both enhances and preserves the 1935 legislation. This could not have occurred without a willingness to build consensus or work together. I would also like to thank the many industry organizations that agreed to sit down and come up with reasonable compromises that helped us develop the strong bill before us today.

In particular, I want to thank the Association of General Contractors of America, the Associated General Contractors of America, the American Insurance Association, and other organizations that I will insert in the Record. I urge the passage of this bill. I would also like to thank Amy Heerink and Melissa Wojciak from my staff.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, it is an honor for me to yield such time as he may consume to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY). I too would like to thank the gentlewoman for the leadership she has provided on this bill. She has spent more time working on this than any other Member of this House. She is the sponsor of this bill.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Speaker, I thank the ranking member for yielding me this time and I thank him for his leadership and support.

The best legislation is bipartisan and this has truly been a bipartisan effort over the past 3 years. I particularly congratulate the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN) with whom I have worked in a constructive way on many pieces of legislation before this body and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS) who likewise led on this effort and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. DAVIS) who led actually a task force over the last summer between the industries involved, over 25 industries came together and signed their own contract in support of the legislation and their pledge to work to pass it. So it has indeed been a combined effort which will ultimately not only help the employers and the employees but the American taxpayer, because the cost of the jobs will go down because those bidding on them will know that the risk of not being paid will now be covered and that risk will not be built into their bid. So for the first time in many years everyone benefits in our country and I am very proud to have been part of the team that made this happen.

This is truly a historic day for the construction industry and their workers. This bill is a heartening piece of legislation that will restore full payment protection for construction firms and their employees who do business with the Federal Government. Thanks to this bill, subcontractors who work on Federal projects will actually be paid and will not have to worry about being paid for their work. H.R. 1219 will modernize the 65-year-old Miller Act which was passed in 1935 to provide payment protection for contractors, subcontractors and suppliers. Under the Miller Act, prime contractors on Federal projects are required to purchase two types of surety bonds, one, the performance bond which assures the government that the work will in fact be completed, and a second, the payment bond that provides payment protection for subcontractors and suppliers. The payment bond is critical, because it is the payment protection of last resort in the event of a default on the part of the prime contractor. Yet under the Miller Act’s depression-era requirements, prime contractors are not required to obtain a payment bond equal to the full value of the contract. In fact, for contracts of $5 million or more, the payment bond need not be worth more than $2.5 million regardless of the size of the project. Since 1935, Federal construction projects have grown out of proportion to the size of the payment bond. The protections afforded by the Miller Act may have been adequate in 1935, but they are simply not sufficient for today. In fact, if the value of $2.5 million were simply adjusted for inflation, it would be at least $30 million. With Federal construction projects costing hundreds of millions of dollars, $2.5 million is simply not enough to provide payment protection for subcontractors, particularly those working in the later stages of complex, multi-year construction projects.

Earlier this year, President Clinton announced that the Federal Government, along with Senator MOYNIHAN, would be taking the lead in renovating the Farley Building in my home city of New York as part of the Penn Station mass transit redevelopment project. It is estimated that this project will cost almost $400 million. Now, under the Miller Act, a general contractor would only be required to furnish a payment bond worth $2.5 million, clearly not enough to provide protection for subcontractors and suppliers and their workers on a $400 million project. But thanks to this legislation that we are about to pass today, the subcontractors working on the Farley Building will actually be paid and will enjoy full payment protection.

I learned firsthand about the problems of the Miller Act when I was contacted by one of my constituents, Fred Levinson, a Florida contractor who was being forced to pay his own company before paying his subcontractors. After months of negotiations, the subcontractors were paid before the main contractor was. Fred Levinson was financed by one of our local banks to do a $2.5 million building and the bank was happy to have Mr. Levinson use their money. Mr. Levinson did a great job and was paid in full by his major investor. Unfortunately, the federal government, who is the main investor in the building, held back. Fred Levinson’s contract was not protected and his company went broke. This is exactly what happened to the team that made this happen. The protections afforded by the act.

Thanks to this bill, no subcontractor in the future, including those working on the Farley Building or any Federal building, will again be subject to inadequately protected payment bond as did my constituent Fred Levinson. This is also, I might add, a case study in democracy, an example of how one person can come to a legislator, point out a problem, and work with them to solve it and to make a difference. I would like to dedicate my work on this bill to Fred Levinson, who brought it to my attention.

Mr. Speaker, as someone who has long been interested in Federal procurement policy, I can speak firsthand to the importance of full and timely payment to all segments of the construction industry. In particular, small firms face project risks when they are not paid for work they complete. Many small firms across the country have faced bankruptcy simply because they were not paid on time or in full by a project owner. Cases in which the Federal Government is the owner of the project are certainly no exception.

This bill will make three important changes to the Miller act.

First, it will require that prime contractors working on Federal projects furnish a payment bond of a value equal to the value of the contract they have been awarded. This provision will ensure full payment protection for subcontractors who choose to work on Federal projects. They will no longer be a $2.5 million limit.

Second, this bill will modernize the provisions of the Miller act which deal with notification of an intent to make a claim on a payment bond. Current law permits notification only by certified mail. Under this bill, notification will be permitted by any means that permit verification of notification of delivery. In this era of overnight mail and electronic commerce, it simply makes no sense to permit notification only through registered mail.

Finally, this bill includes a provision that prohibits any waiver of the right to surety protection unless it is signed by the person whose right was waived after they have commenced work on the project. This provision is critical to protecting the rights of subcontractors throughout the bidding process and beyond.

I always believe that the best legislation is bipartisan, and that is certainly true in this case. This legislation enjoys broad support from Members across the political spectrum. This bill grew out of a hearing that was held jointly by my friend from California (Mr. HORN) and my friend from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS).

At that hearing we heard from several witnesses who spoke on the need to modernize the act, including my friend from Virginia (Mr. DAVIS) who owns a small construction firm and was very instrumental in moving this bill through the legislative process, as were the ranking members, the gentleman from California (Mr. WAXMAN) and the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS).

My friend from Virginia (Mr. DAVIS) took the lead in getting everyone involved in this issue to agree to sit down at the table and negotiate so that we could reach the agreement on the legislation we have before us today. In addition, many other Members of this House, including the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SCARBOROUGH), the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS), the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH), and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. KANJORSKI) have supported and worked on this legislation from the beginning and were very instrumental in moving it to the floor today.

Equally important, Mr. Speaker, is the hard work that many of the industry groups have done. I am pleased that every industry group with an interest in modernizing the Miller act supports this bipartisan legislation. This bill enjoys the backing of at least 25 industry organizations, all of which have had a vested interest in the payment bond protection afforded by the act.
In particular, I would like to thank the American Subcontractors Association which has spearheaded its efforts to modernize the Miller Act for their hard work on this bill as well as that of the Associated General Contractors of America and the Surety Association of America, both of which played a critical role in the negotiations which led to this bill.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Speaker, finally I am very pleased to announce that the administration has recently said that it, too, supports the bill. This bill will bring about a common sense reform that will make a tremendous difference for construction subcontractors and their workers who do business with the Federal Government. It will not cost the taxpayers anything, and in fact it might lower the cost of projects.

Mr. Speaker, I urge all Members to support this important bipartisan bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of the time.

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I just want to, in conclusion, note that the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER), the ranking minority member on the subcommittee, has been very helpful on this; and I mentioned earlier, I will mention again, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS) is a very distinguished legislator from Pennsylvania and a key person on the Committee on the Judiciary, and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HYDE) gave the waiver of this bill to the floor, and we are extremely grateful for that bipartisan, bi-committee cooperation.

But in closing, I want to say to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) who put it right on the nose, that right on the nose, this is a case study in democracy. Everyone that is listening or hearing or reading the RECORD is going to see this is an example of a constituent walking through their Representative's door and say, Look, I've had a problem here. Can you do anything about it? A lot of us have had that experience, and the fact is people do not need to go through lobbyists; they do not need to go through people that are at PAC parties or anything else. They can just walk into their legislator, and if they got a good case, something will happen. The gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) showed something that happened, and all of us cooperated to do it because we knew this was just and we needed to update that law, and I would hope that we have a unanimous vote of the House.

I want to thank my own majority staff, George, the chief counsel and staff director, Randy. The counsel and professional staff member have worked with the staff of the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) and the staff of the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GEKAS), and we thank them all for their help. I urge adoption of this measure.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1219, as amended.

The question was taken. Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further requests for time on this motion will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 1219, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was ayes and nays. There was no objection. The yeas and nays were ordered. The yeas and nays were ordered. The yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX the yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1442) to amend the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 to continue and extend authority for transfers to State and local governments of certain property for law enforcement, public safety, and emergency response purposes, as amended.

TITLE II—IMPROVING FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PRACTICES

SEC. 201. MISCELLANEOUS CORRECTIONS TO SUBCHAPTER II OF CHAPTER 37 OF TITLE 31, UNITED STATES CODE

(a) Child Support Enforcement.—Section 3716(h)(3) of title 31, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

``(3) In applying this subsection with respect to any debt owed to a State, other than past due support being enforced by the State, subsection (c)(3)(A) shall not apply.''

(b) Debt Sales.—Section 3711 of title 31, United States Code, is amended by striking subsection (i).

(c) Gainsharing.—Section 3720C(b)(2)(D) of title 31, United States Code, is amended by striking "delinquent loans" and inserting "debts".

(d) Provisions Relating to Private Collection Contractors.—

(1) Collection by Secretary of the Treasury.—Section 3711(g) of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

``(I) In attempting to collect under this subsection any debt owed to the United States, a private collection contractor shall not be precluded from verifying the debtor's current employer, the location of the payroll office of the debtor's current employer, the period the debtor has been employed by the current employer of the debtor, and the compensation received by the debtor from the current employer of the debtor.

(2) In evaluating the performance of a contractor under any contract for the performance of debt collection services entered into by an executive, judicial, or legislative agency, the head of the agency shall consider the contractor's gross collections net of commissions (as a percentage of account amounts placed with the contractor) under the contract. The existence and frequency of valid debtor complaints shall also be considered in the evaluation criteria.''

(3) Construction.—None of the amendments made by this subsection shall be construed as altering or superseding the provisions of title 11, United States Code, or section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(e) Clerical Amendment.—Section 3720A(h) of title 31, United States Code, is amended—

(1) beginning in paragraph (3), by striking the close quotation marks and all that follows through the matter preceding subsection (b); and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

``For purposes of this section, the disbursing official for the Department of the Treasury is the Secretary of the Treasury or his designee.

(f) Coordination with References to Federal Agency.—Sections 3716(c)(6) and 3720A(a), (b), (c), and (e) of title 31, United States Code, are each amended by striking "Federal agency" each place it appears and inserting "executive, judicial, or legislative agency".

(g) Inapplicability of Act to Certain Agencies.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no provision in this Act, the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 (chapter 10 of title III of Public Law 104–134; 31 U.S.C. 3701 note, chapter 7 of subchapter II of chapter 33 of title 31, United States Code, or any amendments made by such Acts or any regulations issued thereunder, shall apply to activities carried out pursuant to a law enacted to protect, operate, and administer any deposit insurance funds, including the resolution and liquidation of failed or failing insured depository institutions.

(h) Contracts for Collection Services.—

Section 3718 of title 31, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in the first sentence of subsection (b)(1)(A), by inserting "or in connection with" after "collection of claims of indebtedness";

(2) in the second sentence of subsection (b)(1)(A)—

(A) by inserting "or in connection with" after "collection of claims of indebtedness"; and

(B) by inserting "or claim" after "the indebtedness"; and

(3) in subsection (d), by inserting "or any other monetary claim of" after "indebtedness".

SEC. 202. BARRING DELINQUENT FEDERAL DEBTORS FROM OBTAINING FEDERAL BENEFITS.

(a) In General.—Section 3720B of title 31, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

``3720B. Barring delinquent Federal debtors from obtaining Federal benefits.

``(a)(1) A person shall not be eligible for the award or renewal of any Federal benefit described in paragraph (2) if the person has an outstanding nontax debt that is in a delinquent status with any executive, judicial, or legislative agency, as determined under standards prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. Such a person may obtain additional Federal benefits described in paragraph (2) only after such delinquency is resolved in accordance with those standards.

(b) The Federal benefits referred to in paragraph (1) are the following:

(A) Financial assistance in the form of a loan (other than a disaster loan) or loan insurance or guarantee.

(B) Any Federal permit or Federal license required by law.

(c) The Secretary of the Treasury may delegate the waiver authority under paragraph (1) to the chief financial officer or, in the case of any Federal performance-based organization, the chief operating officer of the agency.

(d) As used in this section, the term 'nontax debt' means any debt other than a debt under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 or the status with any executive, judicial, or legislative agency may waive the application of subsection (a) to any Federal benefit that is administered by the agency based on standards promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

(e) The head of an executive, judicial, or legislative agency may waive the application of subsection (a) to any Federal benefit that is administered by the agency based on standards promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury.''

SEC. 203. COLLECTION AND COMPROMISE OF NONTAX DEBTS AND CLAIMS.

(a) Use of Private Collection Contractors and Federal Debt Collection Centers.—

(1) In General.—Section 3711(g) of title 31, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

``(g) Inappplicability of Act to Certain Agencies.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no provision in this Act, the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 (chapter 10 of title III of Public Law 104–134; 31 U.S.C. 3701 note, chapter 7 of subchapter II of chapter 33 of title 31, United States Code, or any amendments made by such Acts or any regulations issued thereunder, shall apply to activities carried out pursuant to a law enacted to protect, operate, and administer any deposit insurance funds, including the resolution and liquidation of failed or failing insured depository institutions.

(h) Contracts for Collection Services.—

Section 3718 of title 31, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in the first sentence of subsection (b)(1)(A), by inserting "or in connection with" after "collection of claims of indebtedness";

(2) in the second sentence of subsection (b)(1)(A)—

(A) by inserting "or in connection with" after "collection of claims of indebtedness"; and

(B) by inserting "or claim" after "the indebtedness"; and

(3) in subsection (d), by inserting "or any other monetary claim of" after "indebtedness."
nontax debts referred or transferred to the agency shall be serviced, collected, or compromised, or collection action thereon suspended or terminated, in accordance with otherwise applicable statutes of limitations and authorities.

(2) The head of each executive agency that operates a debt collection center may enter into an agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury to carry out the purposes of this subsection.

(3) The Secretary of the Treasury shall—

(i) maintain competition between private collection contractors;

(ii) ensure, to the maximum extent practicable, that a private collection contractor to which a nontax debt is referred is responsible for any nontax debt or terminate collection action associated with the contract under which the referral is made; and

(4) by adding at the end the following:

the term 'nontax debt' means any debt other than a debt under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 or the Tariff Act of 1930.''

(b) LIMITATION ON DISCHARGE BEFORE USE OF PRIVATE COLLECTION CONTRACTOR OR DEBT COLLECTION CENTER.—Paragraph (9) of section 3711(g) of title 31, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by redesignating subparagraphs (A) through (H) as clauses (i) through (viii); and

(2) by inserting ‘‘(A)’’ after ‘‘(9)’’;

(iii) maintain competition between private collection contractors;

(iv) ensure, to the maximum extent practicable, that a private collection contractor to which a nontax debt is referred is responsible for any nontax debt or terminate collection action associated with the contract under which the referral is made;

(4) by adding at the end the following:

(ii) The head of an executive, judicial, or legislative agency shall establish a program of nontax debt sales in order to—

(i) reduce delinquent nontax debts held by the agency;

(ii) improve credit management while servicing such debts or loans if the head of the agency determines that the sale would interfere with the mission of the agency administering the program under which the loan was disbursed, or the head of the agency, in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget and the Secretary of the Treasury, determines that a longer period is necessary to protect the financial interests of the United States.

(3) After terminating collection action, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget and the Secretary of the Treasury, determines that the sale is not in the best financial interests of the United States. Sales under this paragraph shall be conducted under the authority in section 301. 'The head of an executive, judicial, or legislative agency shall sell, using competitive procedures, any nontax debt or class of nontax debts owed to the United States unless the sale is not in the best financial interests of the United States. (b) INTEREST.—Section 3902(c)(3)(D) of title 31, United States Code, is amended by striking—

the end of paragraph (8), by striking the second sentence and inserting—

"Any fee charged pursuant to section 3711(g)(7) and shall be collected forthwith shall, when appropriate, promptly be deposited into the Debt Services Account under this section (hereinafter referred to in this section as the 'Account')."
The bill also focuses attention on large debts. It would require agencies to report annually to Congress on their high value delinquent loans. Loan sale programs would benefit the Federal Government in a number of ways. Loans that are sold in a competitive market could yield substantial proceeds, reduce administrative costs, and allow agencies to focus their limited resources on other programs. An agency with guidance from the Office of Management and Budget could exempt any class of debt from the sale provisions of this bill if it were determined that the sale would interfere with agencies, programs or mission.

For example, certain performing loans or loans with social or economic benefits may be required to remain in the Federal Government. The administrator of General Services would be required to develop a mechanism to ensure that employees of executive branch agencies are not charged State and local taxes on travel expenses relating to official business. H.R. 1442 also includes a provision that would remove a December 31, 1999, sunset provision in the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949. It would make permanent the authority for State and local governments to acquire surplus Federal property for law enforcement and emergency response purposes.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. CALVERT).

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support passage of this bill. H.R. 1442 will amend the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 to extend authority for transfers to State and local governments of certain property for law enforcement and emergency response purposes.

I introduced H.R. 1442, the Law Enforcement Public Safety Enhancement Act of 1999, to permanently extend the pilot program that has become an important tool for local law enforcement and public safety officials. Without the help, leadership and support of the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN), my good friend, and the Bi-partisan Committee on Government Management, Information and Technology, this legislation would never have come to the House floor. I owe a debt of gratitude to him for helping to find the offsets necessary for this bill to conform to budgetary parameters.

I would also like to thank the chairman of the Committee on Government Reform as well as the ranking members of the full committee and subcommittee for their efforts.

As we well know, one of the keys to crime prevention is a well-trained local police force and public safety officials. My bill will strengthen law enforcement and emergency management training, while saving these organizations thousands, sometimes millions, of dollars.

When the Federal Government declares real property as a surplus, various local entities may apply for the property on a no-cost basis if they use the property for official business. H.R. 1442 currently allows surplus Federal property to be transferred to State and local governments on a no-cost transfer. My bill would permanently extend this 2-year-old authority to allow local agencies the ability to apply for surplus property at no cost for the purpose of law enforcement and emergency response training.

Due to the efforts of the Riverside, California, Sheriff's Department to create a comprehensive, multijurisdictional training center, the need for this legislation became clear. In 1997, Congress passed legislation to create a 2-year pilot program to allow the Department of Justice and the Federal Emergency Management Agency to sponsor local law enforcement and emergency management response entities for a no cost transfer. The results of this 2-year program are startling. Twenty-one separate local agencies in 11 States applied for this program. Their applications are in various stages of the process. Without this legislation, these projects will be stopped in their tracks.

I would like to encourage all of my colleagues to support this pro-law enforcement legislation and give back to the men and women that battle on our streets every day.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the Federal Property Administration Act currently allows surplus Federal property to be transferred to State and local governments at a discount off the fair market value. Public benefit discounts are available under current law for public health or educational uses, cultural or historic monuments, correctional institutions, port facilities, public airports and wildlife conservation.

In 1997, this Congress overwhelmingly passed a bill that made Federal property available to State and local authorities for law enforcement and emergency response purposes for a 2-year trial period. With the sunset date fast approaching in December of this year, H.R. 1442, which was introduced through the good work of the gentleman from California (Mr. CALVERT), we will extend that worthwhile provision and make it permanent.

Mr. Speaker, this bill would allow the Department of Justice and FEMA to sponsor the use of excess Federal property for law enforcement and fire fighting and rescue training purposes. I expect this bill will move quickly through the legislative process and become law. Only last week the Senate successfully included a similar provision in the Commerce-Justice-State appropriations bill for fiscal year 2000.

There are currently at least 22 jurisdictions around the country who have submitted applications to acquire surplus Federal property for these purposes, and at least three of them have successfully acquired their property. We must not deny the remaining 19 the opportunity to complete their application process and to secure the property that they need to make their communities safer.

Law enforcement and fire rescue services provide vital services for State and local governments, and it is critical that we allow them to acquire this Federal surplus property at a discount.

This legislation benefits police officers, fire fighters, and other emergency response officials across the country, and I commend the gentleman from California (Mr. CALVERT) for his hard work on this particular provision.

In addition, H.R. 1442, as amended, is designed to address problems with Federal debt collection and Federal credit management. In 1996 Congress passed the Debt Collection Improvement Act, which was designed to centralize management of Federal debt collection at the Department of Treasury and to enhance cooperation of Federal agencies in the collection of delinquent debt.

Within the past 2 years, the Federal Government centralized debt collection activities at the Financial Management Service have begun to work more efficiently. In fact, collections have grown from $1.7 million in fiscal year 1997 to $2.5 billion in fiscal year 1999, after the Debt Collection Improvement Act enhanced the Treasury's offset authority.

Clearly there has been improvement in the government collection efforts. There are, however, many challenges that remain. According to the Department of Treasury, the Federal Government is owed approximately $50 billion in delinquent, non-taxed debt. Of this amount, $47 billion has been delinquent for more than 180 days. In addition, the Federal Government writes off about $10 billion in delinquent debts every year.

H.R. 1442 focuses management attention on high-risk programs and builds upon prior initiatives to improve Federal debt collection practices by providing Federal agencies with the additional tools they need to improve Federal debt collection. It is almost identical to H.R. 4857, a bill that passed the House of Representatives with overwhelming bipartisan support under suspension of the rules in the 105th Congress. We passed these provisions by a vote of 419 to 1 earlier this year.

I would like to commend the gentleman from California (Chairman HORN), who has done an outstanding job in leading to improve the Federal debt collection practices through his diligent legislative oversight activities. The gentleman has worked to ensure that the taxpayers get every dollar they are entitled to and no more.

I also want to mention and commend the leadership of the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY), who has continued her partnership with the gentleman from California (Chairman HORN) since the time she served in the position of ranking member of this subcommittee.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to thank the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER), the ranking member. He had an excellent series of questions this morning of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the General Accounting Officer. The gentleman is deeply committed to an effective and efficient government, and especially to getting at the non-tax debt.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this legislation. H.R. 1442, as amended, provides the opportunity to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of Federal debt collection and credit management. It would also assist State and local governments in their efforts to acquire much needed surplus property for law enforcement and emergency response. This legislation has broad bipartisan support, as was evident on the floor. The provisions are the result of a bipartisan effort between majority and minority on the Committee on Government Reform, working closely with the administration.

Mr. CRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 1442, the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Enhancement Act of 1999. I am a co-sponsor of this legislation which makes permanent the General Services Administration authority to transfer federal surplus lands at no cost to state and local governments for the purpose of law enforcement and emergency response services.

H.R. 1442 will have a direct and immediate impact on my Congressional District as well as a number of other districts throughout the country. Currently, thirteen sites across the nation, one of which is in my District, are utilizing a temporary authorization allowing the Department of Justice (DOJ) to transfer excess federal property to local government entities for law enforcement and public safety purposes.

This temporary authority, which expires December 31, 1999, allows local law enforcement, fire services, and emergency management agencies the opportunity to receive federal surplus property through a “no-cost” transfer. This legislation aims to make permanent this temporary authority.

In my Congressional District, the Fifth District of Alabama, the City of Huntsville has applied for the transfer of a Naval Reserve Center to the City for use as a public safety training facility for our police officers, firefighters, and rescue personnel. This facility will allow Huntsville to provide excellent training to the men and women who safeguard our citizens. Currently, Huntsville’s application is under review. Many projects that are currently underway or those pending applications for land transfers like the one in my district—will be severely impacted by the quickly approaching sunset date of December 31, 1999. This legislation will permanently allow the Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to sponsor the use of excess federal property for law enforcement, public safety, and emergency management purposes.

I would like to once again express my strong support for this legislation. We in Congress can and should do everything in our power to assist law enforcement officers, firefighters, and emergency management personnel in their efforts to improve public safety on our streets, in our schools, and in our neighborhoods.

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. HORN) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1442, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

The title of the bill was amended so as to read: “To reduce waste, fraud, and error in Government programs by making improvements with respect to Federal management and debt collection practices, Federal payment systems, Federal benefit programs, and for other purposes.”

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 1442, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

SILK ROAD STRATEGY ACT OF 1999

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1152) to amend the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 to assist support to the economic and political independence of the countries of South Caucasus and Central Asia, as amended. The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 1152

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The ancient Silk Road, once the economic lifeline of Central Asia and the South Caucasus, traversed much of the territory now with the countries of Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan.

(2) Economic interdependence spurred mutual cooperation among the nations of the Silk Road and restoration of the historic relationships and economic ties between those peoples is an important element of ensuring their sovereignty as well as the success of democratic and market reforms.

(3) The development of strong political, economic, and security ties among countries of the Central Asian countries and the West will foster stability in this region, which is vulnerable to political and economic pressures from the south, north, and east.

(4) The development of open market economies and open democratic systems in the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia will provide positive incentives for international private investment, increased trade, and other forms of commercial interactions with the rest of the world.

(5) Many of the countries of the South Caucasus have secular Muslim governments that are seeking closer alliance with the United States and that have active and cordial diplomatic relations with Israel.

(6) The region of the South Caucasus and Central Asia could produce oil and gas in sufficient quantities to reduce the dependence of the United States on energy from the volatile Persian Gulf region.

(7) United States foreign policy and international assistance should be narrowly targeted to support the economic and political independence as well as democracy building, free market policies, human rights, and regional economic integration of the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia.

SEC. 3. POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES.

It shall be the policy of the United States in the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia—

(1) to promote and strengthen independence, sovereignty, democratic peoples and, respect for human rights;

(2) to promote tolerance, pluralism, and understanding and counter racism and anti-Semitism;

(3) to assist actively in the resolution of regional conflicts and to facilitate the removal of impediments to cross-border commerce;

(4) to promote friendly relations and economic cooperation;

(5) to help promote market-oriented principles and practices;

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

18917

Mr. BERERER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 1152, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERERER) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. HOEFFEL) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERERER).

Mr. BERERER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as chairman of the Subcommittee on Europe of the Committee on International Relations and the original sponsor of H.R. 1152, this Member rises in strong support of the Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999. In introducing this important legislation, this Member was joined by the distinguished ranking Democrat on the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific, the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS), the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN), the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. BACH), and many other colleagues in the House who were interested in and concerned about improving U.S. relations with the countries in this vital region of the world.

Mr. Speaker, with the disintegration of the Soviet Union in 1991, Russia became the focus of U.S. attention and heir to the vast Soviet arsenal. Russia is strategically located at the geographic nexus of Russia, China, Iran, Afghanistan and Turkey. A peaceful post-Soviet era largely depended on Washington’s ability to get along with Moscow. It is not surprising then that U.S. attention, including the Freedom Support Act, was directed primarily at Moscow.

We should remember, however, that 15 countries emerged or reemerged from the collapse of the Soviet Union. A few, the Baltics and Ukraine, garnered special attention in the Freedom Support Act, or in the SEED Act, which addresses Eastern Europe. But the Caucasus and Central Asia region received scant attention.

The area includes some 75 million people in the Nations of Georgia, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Nebraska?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERERER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 1152, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Nebraska?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERERER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as chairman of the Subcommittee on Europe of the Committee on International Relations and the original sponsor of H.R. 1152, this Member rises in strong support of the Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999. In introducing this important legislation, this Member was joined by the distinguished ranking Democrat on the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific, the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS), the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN), the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. BACH), and many other colleagues in the House who were interested in and concerned about improving U.S. relations with the countries in this vital region of the world.

Mr. Speaker, with the disintegration of the Soviet Union in 1991, Russia became the focus of U.S. attention and heir to the vast Soviet arsenal. Russia is strategically located at the geographic nexus of Russia, China, Iran, Afghanistan and Turkey. A peaceful post-Soviet era largely depended on Washington’s ability to get along with Moscow. It is not surprising then that U.S. attention, including the Freedom Support Act, was directed principally at Moscow.

We should remember, however, that 15 countries emerged or reemerged from the collapse of the Soviet Union. A few, the Baltics and Ukraine, garnered special attention in the Freedom Support Act, or in the SEED Act, which addresses Eastern Europe. But the Caucasus and Central Asia region received scant attention.

The area includes some 75 million people in the Nations of Georgia, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERERER) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. HOEFFEL) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERERER).

rejected the expansion of Islamic fundamentalism. They are a front-line force to contain the spread of terrorism, the proliferation of sensitive weapons and technologies and drug trafficking. Rich in natural resources, these nations are a proven storehouse of energy with vast crude oil and natural gas reserves.

Second, given the region’s clear importance, it is time for the United States to become more energetically and effectively engaged in the region. For this area is at an historic crossroads, poised between merging into or retreating from the free world order. It is undergoing an uncertain and turbulent economic, political and cultural transformation.

H.R. 1152 seeks to invigorate and provide direction to U.S. policy in the Caucasus region and the Central Asian Republics.

First, it outlines what our foreign policy and foreign aid priorities should be.

Second, it delineates potential rewards for continued cooperation with the United States, as well as actions that would result in the termination of U.S. assistance.

Third, it does not authorize new money. Instead, it redirects funding already provided to the countries of the former Soviet Union.

Fourth, it does not address the difficult question of section 907 of the Foreign Assistance Act, the prohibition of assistance to Azerbaijan. Frankly, where the votes are on this issue is well-known, and elements of this legislation are too important to subordinate to a Section 907 debate.

The states of this region are looking to the outside for political and economic opportunities. Russia and Iran, Turkey, potentially, to China and Pakistan, and even to Afghanistan, as well as to the United States. They are actively looking to the United States for leadership and guidance on a range of international issues and to long-standing U.S. friends in the area, such as Israel and Turkey, for closer relations.

At this crucial juncture in their evolution, the support the U.S. does provide can tip the scales of these countries’ orientation towards or against the West. We have a unique opportunity to influence events there now by adopting a broad-based and proactive policy of engagement designed to keep conquerors away from the region, to foster cooperation among the states, and to unleash and channel the engines of growth, economic, social and democratic growth.

We cannot build toward these goals without the creation and use of effective tools. This body has been at the forefront in encouraging the formation of coherent policies for assisting the Caucasus region and Central Asian republics and, indeed, moved the Freedom Support Act for just this purpose.

This body can and must continue legislative initiatives in this area. This Member’s proposed legislation, H.R. 1152, the Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999, is an essential tool in building toward U.S. goals in the region. Broadly, this bill targets U.S. assistance to support the economic and political independence and cross-border cooperation of the Central Asian and Caucasian states. This puts the U.S. squarely behind efforts to, first, build democracy and cross-border cooperation as well as resolve regional conflicts; second, to build market-oriented economies and legal systems as well as the infrastructure to facilitate strong East-West commerce and other relations; and, third, to promote U.S. business interests and investments in the region.

Sustained, affordable engagement that matches U.S. ambitions with resources is indispensable to the Caspian region’s evolution in a manner compatible with the Free World order and interests. H.R. 1152 is an essential tool in helping to ensure that the region’s political and economic options are clear and expansive. That the foreign policy-making changes under way in the nations there will turn out to be desirable ones.

Mr. Speaker, this Member urges his colleagues to vote in favor of H.R. 1152, the Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HOEFFEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1152, the Silk Road Strategy Act. I would like to start by commending the distinguished gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERHUTER) for his leadership on this bill. He is the prime sponsor. He is the distinguished chair of the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific, and has provided great leadership on this.

Mr. Speaker, I also commend as well a bipartisan group of cosponsors from the committee, including the gentleman from California (Mr. LANDS), the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN), the gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN), and the gentleman from New York (Mr. KING).

Mr. Speaker, the five countries of Central Asia and the three countries of the South Caucasus are an important part of the newly independent States. This bill recognizes the unique interests that the United States has in these countries.

We have a strategic interest in seeing that the region does not become a hotbed of armed conflict, terrorism and drug trafficking, and we have some reason to worry. Many of these countries have difficult neighbors, including drug traffickers and others.

The region is also rife with not only the seeds of ethnic and political conflict, but as we have seen in Nagorno-Karabagh, with actual conflicts that have claimed tens of thousands of lives and have created hundreds of thousands of refugees. We have legitimate and important economic interests in Central Asia and the Caucasus. All eight of these countries have a lot to offer in terms of natural and human resources. There is great potential for trade and investment and a positive exchange of people and ideas.

We have a great political interest in Central Asia and the South Caucasus. These countries are still emerging from Soviet rule, and it is in our interest to help them in the difficult transition away from their communist past.

Unfortunately, many of the governments of the region have a long way to go regarding democratization. It is our desire to engage these countries economically and politically, but we must not neglect the democratization that must occur there. We need to keep democratic values and human rights at the top of the agenda in the bilateral meetings with leaders of all eight of these countries and need to reach out further to those within these countries that are working to develop a civil society, including independent media, the people in the nongovernmental sector and in private business.

It is imperative that we make sure that democratization becomes and remains a priority of ours in this region.

Mr. Speaker, I also welcome the inclusive nature of the bill. We recognize the fact that these countries are interconnected, there is economic integration that is needed in this region, and that includes all of the countries of this region. We will not see a full potential for this region without the full participation of all of those countries.

It is our hope that these countries understand the incentive of cooperation and make a renewed effort to solve the conflicts that have stood in the way of a greater integration.

Similarly, because we are endorsing integration within the region, this should not be seen as an endorsement of excluding others outside of the region. To tap the resources of South Asia and the Caucasus to settle these conflicts, we will need to work with others outside of the immediate region such as Russia, Ukraine and Turkey, in order to have the fullest possible success.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to note the administration is already pursuing many of these policy issues called for in this bill. It is also providing the kind of assistance authorized by this bill.

I must also note that the administration has expressed strong reservations about two amendments attached during the committee markup. The administration is concerned that these provisions which condition assistance on certification of free and fair elections... and the resolution of business disputes may actually hinder progress on achieving the goals for which and goals that we all share. If these issues are not resolved during the conference, it may jeopardize administration support for the final version of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, it is my view and our view that this bill is helpful; that it focuses attention on the region, makes a call for a renewed push on solving regional conflicts promoting regional integration and democratization. I urge all of the Members of the House to support this bill, H.R. 1152.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I first want to thank the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Hoeffel), a first-term member of the Committee on International Relations, who is making a major contribution there, for his kind remarks and for his support. I recall well how the gentleman came up to me after the markup and pointed out something that we mutually agreed was a problem, and we have a way outlined to resolve it and I think to meet the administration's satisfaction. It was one of those things that we recognized, but at the moment we could not do anything about. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman for his perceptiveness in that respect.

Mr. Speaker, at this point I submit for the RECORD a statement in support of the legislation from the gentleman from New York (Mr. Gilman), the chairman of the committee.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman indicates, for example, that he believes this legislation will serve as a signal to the peoples of those countries of America's desire to ensure that their future will be one of democracy, prosperity, peace and security.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the bill before us today, H.R. 1152, the "Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999," sponsored by my colleagues from Nebraska, Congressman Bereuter, the chairman of the committee.

The Subcommittee on the International Relations Committee chaired by Congressman Bereuter—the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific—has jurisdiction over the countries of Central Asia, but the countries of the Caucasus region also covered by this bill—deserve to be a specific focus of our policy and assistance in the region of the former Soviet Union as well.

This bill, which relates to all eight countries of Central Asia and the Caucasus, attempts to ensure the implementation of that specific focus.

While it creates a new Chapter 12 of the Foreign Assistance Act to provide that focus, however, it cites, with regard to those countries, the on-going authority of Chapter 11 of that Act known as the "FREEDOM Support Act of 1992.

I think that it is very important, given the key work done by the office of the State Department Coordinator of Assistance created by the 1992 "FREEDOM Support Act.

Nothing on this legislation could or will endanger that important coordinating function for all of the New Independent States of the former Soviet Union.

The bill simply ensures that an added, specific focus on the states of Central Asia and the Caucasus.

Mr. Speaker, I support passage of this measure, which should serve as a signal of America's interest in the future of the eight newly independent states in the regions of Central Asia and the Caucasus.

It should serve as well as a signal to the peoples of those countries of America's desire to ensure that their future will be one of democracy, prosperity, peace and security.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join in supporting the passage of this measure.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. Radanovich) for the purposes of a colloquy. And I would say as we begin this that the gentleman has been very much interested and concerned about this legislation and supportive overall and came to the committee hearings and participated in those hearings. Mr. Speaker, this distinguished gentleman from California is a new member of the committee.

Mr. RADANOVICE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Nebraska. Mr. Bereuter for his leadership in bringing this bill to the floor. I share the gentleman's vision in promoting greater regional cooperation, supporting increased economic integration, and facilitating the free flow of transportation and communication among the states of the Caucasus and Central Asia.

While I support these goals, I along with many of my colleagues, remain concerned that legislation may, at a subsequent step in the legislative process, become a vehicle for the weakening or the repeal of Section 907 of the Freedom Support Act.

Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that this bill is being brought forth today with the clear understanding that Section 907 of the Freedom Support Act will remain in place and unchanged throughout the remaining legislative process.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I will be happy to respond to the gentleman's statement. I am pleased that the gentleman has joined the Committee on International Relations this year, and as my colleague knows, this Member, the author of the legislation, has made it a point to ensure that the Silk Road Strategy Act intentionally did not include any change in Section 907. Neither the Senate version of the Silk Road legislation which was advanced after amendment, repeals or otherwise revises Section 907. So there would be no basis in a conference, with the approval of this legislation we pass in the House today, for Section 907 to be repealed or altered. Therefore, I think the gentleman's concerns are fully addressed.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join in supporting the passage of this legislation and commend the gentleman from Nebraska for his strategy with this bill and attention to current events in Caucasus region. Since 1923, Armenia and Azerbaijan have been in conflict over Nagorno-Karabagh.

In the beginning of this year, Armenia and Nagorno-Karabagh accepted a compromise peace proposal developed by the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE). Azerbaijan rejected it outright. This issue remained and the Armenian government and the Azerbaijani government are extremely disappointed to those involved in the peace process.

However, at the NATO summit in Washington in April and in recent weeks, the Presidents of Armenia and Azerbaijan have been discussing other strategies for peace. This is very promising, and I hold out hope for a permanent peace in this area.

The most important role that the United States can play at this point is to continue to encourage all parties towards a lasting peace. This includes the continued enforcement of Section 907 of the Freedom Support Act. This provision keeps needed pressure on Azerbaijan to come to the negotiating table and works toward a permanent peace settlement.

All Azerbaijan must do to have Section 907 lifted is to "take demonstrable steps to cease and desist all attacks against Nagorno Karabagh." Any attempt to repeal or waive Section 907 legitimates Azerbaijan's blockade and rewards its rejection of the current OSCE compromise plan. Further, such a waiver would seriously jeopardize any chance for peace in the near future.

While I share a commitment to greater regional cooperation and economic integration in the Caucasus and Central Asia, I am very concerned that this legislation could become a vehicle for the weakening or repeal of Section 907. I would strongly oppose such action and urge the House to continue Nagorno Karabagh. Any attempt to repeal or waive Section 907 legitimates Azerbaijan's blockade and rewards its rejection of the current OSCE compromise plan. Further, such a waiver would seriously jeopardize any chance for peace in the near future.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues in urging the adoption of H.R. 1152, the Silk Road Strategy Act of 1999. I want to pay tribute to my distinguished colleague from Nebraska (Mr. Bereuter) for his leadership in introducing this legislation. I am pleased to be an original cosponsor of this legislation.

The Silk Road Strategy Act deals with a number of newly-emerging countries, which only recently became independent nations— the Central Asian republics of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan and the Southern Caucasus republics of Armenia, Azerbaijan, and Georgia.

Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of the United States to give greater attention to the important countries of Central Asia and the Caucasus. We have significant national concerns in this region related to our national security and our international economic interests. These countries were part of the former Soviet Union, and we have a great interest in fostering democracy, an open market economy, and respect for human rights there. Many of these countries are resource-rich, and we likewise have a strong interest in assuring that oil, gas, and other natural resources are developed and available on the world markets through free and fair international trade.

We have a strategic interest in seeing that these areas do not become hotbeds of armed conflict, terrorism, or drug trafficking. The countries are located in a difficult neighborhood—the adjacent countries include Iran, Afghanistan, and China. In this area are a number of serious ethnic conflicts and unresolved political differences which could lead to bloodshed and instability. We need only remember, Mr. Speaker, that in this region we have already seen serious strife in Nagorno-Karabakh and Abkhazia, which have resulted in the loss of tens of thousands of lives and the creation of hundreds of thousands of refugees.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 1152 authorizes and urges that we provide humanitarian assistance, as well as help for economic development and the development of democratic institutions. These countries are already eligible for other forms of U.S. assistance, but we can and should be doing more. I would also note, Mr. Speaker, that the Administration is currently pursuing many of the policy lines that are called for in this bill, and I commend the Administration for its efforts in this regard. I support this legislation because it helps to focus attention on this important region and urges our government to make a greater effort to help solve regional conflicts, promote regional economic development, and further the development of democracy.

Mr. Speaker, I want to express my support for an amendment adopted during the markup of this legislation in the International Relations Committee. American companies and firms from other OECD nations have made substantial direct investments in “Silk Road” countries, but they are not being accorded fair treatment. In some cases investment contracts are not being honored, export permits are not being issued, and de facto nationalizations of foreign investment have taken place. In several instances, formal complaints have been registered with the U.S. Embassy and raised by the U.S. Embassy with the host government.

I cosponsored this amendment in Committee and I support its inclusion in the bill, Mr. Speaker, because without it the Silk Road Strategy Act could lead countries in this region to conclude that they have a green light to renege on commitments to foreign investors, jeopardizing hundreds of millions of dollars of foreign investments. The inclusion of this amendment should send a strong signal that countries cannot expect to receive American assistance if they mistreat the companies that provide critical investment capital and employment opportunities for their own citizens.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 1152, the Silk Road Act of 1999.

Mr. HOEFFEL. Mr. Speaker, I have no requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BERETUER. Mr. Speaker, I urge again support of the legislation, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BERETUER) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1152, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CERTIFIED DEVELOPMENT COMPANY PROGRAM IMPROVEMENTS ACT OF 1999

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Certified Development Company Program Improvements Act of 1999.”

SEC. 2. WOMEN-OWNED BUSINESSES.

Section 501(d)(3)(C) of the Small Business Investment Act (15 U.S.C. 696(d)(3)(C)) is amended by inserting after the comma “women-owned business development”.

SEC. 3. MAXIMUM DEBENTURE SIZE

Section 562(2) of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 (15 U.S.C. 686d(2)) is amended to read as follows:

“(2) Loans made by the Administration under this section shall be limited to $1,000,000 for each identifiable small business concern, except loans meeting the criteria specified in section 501(d)(3), which shall be limited to $1,300,000 for each identifiable small business concern.”

SEC. 4. FEES.

Section 503(f) of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 (15 U.S.C. 687f) is amended to read as follows:

“(f) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The fees authorized by subsections (a) and (d) shall apply to financings approved by the Administration on or after October 1, 1996, but shall not apply to financings approved by the Administration on or after October 1, 2003.”

SEC. 5. PREMIER CERTIFIED LENDERS PROGRAM.

Section 217(b) of the Small Business Reauthorization and Amendments Act of 1994 (relating to section 508 of the Small Business Investment Act) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by striking “(1)” and inserting “(1)”;

(2) by redesignating subsections (d) through (j) as subsections (e) through (j), respectively;

(3) in subsection (f) (as redesignated by paragraph (2)), by striking “subsection (f)” and inserting “subsection (g)”;

(4) in subsection (h) (as redesignated by paragraph (2)), by striking “subsection (f)” and inserting “subsection (g)”;

(5) by inserting after subsection (c) the following:

“(d) SALE OF CERTAIN DEFAULTED LOANS.—

(1) NOTICE.—If, upon default in repayment, the Administration acquires a loan guaranteed under this Act, the Administration notifies the companies that are funded with the proceeds of the sale in a bulk asset sale of defaulted or repurchased loans or other financings, it shall give prior notice thereof to the certified development company which has a contingent liability under this section. The notice shall be given to the company as soon as possible after the financing is identified, but not less than 90 days before the date the Administration first makes any records on such financing available for examination by prospective purchasers prior to its offering in a package of loans for bulk sale.

(2) LIMITATIONS.—The Administration shall not offer any loan described in paragraph (1) as part of a bulk sale unless it—

(A) provides the opportunity to examine the Administration’s records with respect to such loan; and

(B) provides the notice required by paragraph (1).

SEC. 6. SALE OF CERTAIN DEFAULTED LOANS.

(a) LIQUIDATION AND FORECLOSURE.—Title V of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 (15 U.S.C. 685 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 510. FORECLOSURE AND LIQUIDATION OF LOANS.

“(a) DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY.—In accordance with this section, the Administration shall delegate to any qualified State or local development company (as defined in section 505(e)) that meets the eligibility requirements of subsection (b)(1) the authority to foreclose and liquidate, or to otherwise treat in accordance with this section, defaulted loans in its portfolio that are funded with the proceeds of debentures guaranteed by the Administration under section 503.

“(b) ELIGIBILITY FOR DELEGATION.—A qualified State or local development company shall be eligible for a delegation of authority under subsection (a) if—

“(1) the company—

(A) has participated in the loan liquidation pilot program established by the Small Business Programs Improvement Act of 1996 (15 U.S.C. 686c, note), in effect on the day before promulgation of final regulations by the Administration implementing this section;

(B) is participating in the Premier Certified Lenders Program under section 508; or

(C) during the 3 fiscal years immediately prior to seeking such a delegation, has made an average of not less than 50 percent of the proceeds of debentures guaranteed under section 503; and

August 2, 1999

“(B) the company—

(1) has completed training program—

(a) has 1 or more employees—

(i) with not less than 2 years of substantive, decision-making experience in administering the liquidation and workout of problem loans secured in a manner substantially similar to the proceeding.

(ii) who have completed a training program on loan liquidation developed by the Administration in conjunction with qualified State and local development companies that meet the requirements of this paragraph; or

(iii) if the Administration determines that the company has contracted with a qualified third-party to perform any liquidation activities and secures the approval of the contract by the Administration with respect to the qualifications of the contractor and the terms and conditions of liquidation activities.

“(2) CONFIRMATION.—On request the Administration shall examine the qualifications of any company described in subsection (a) to determine if the company is eligible for the delegation of authority under this section. If the Administration determines that a company is not eligible, the Administration may—

(A) deny the request; or

(B) litigate any matter relating to the performance of the functions described in subparagraph (A), except that the Administration may delegate authority under paragraph (2)(C).

“(B) DEFENSE OR BRING ANY CLAIM—

(i) the Administration may with respect to any loan described in subsection (a), perform all liquidation and foreclosure functions, including the purchase in accordance with this subsection of any other indebtedness secured by the property securing the loan; and

(ii) the Administration may with subparagraph (E) notice to the company that the Administration has failed to approve or reject a liquidation plan in accordance with subparagraph (E) notice to the company that submitted the plan.

“(C) SCOPE OF DELEGATED AUTHORITY—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each qualified State or local development company to which the Administration delegates authority under section (a) may with respect to any loan described in subsection (a), perform all liquidation and foreclosure functions, including the purchase in accordance with this subsection of any other indebtedness secured by the property securing the loan.

(2) CONTENTS.—Each report submitted under paragraph (1) shall include the following information:

(i) Consider an offer made by an obligor to compromise the debt for less than the full amount owing; and

(ii) pursuant to such an offer, release any obligor or other party contingently liable, if the company secures the written approval of the Administration.

“(D) CONTENTS OF NOTICE OF NO DECISION—

Any notice provided by the Administration under subparagraphs (A)(i)(II), (B)(ii)(II), or (C)(i)(II) shall—

(1) be in writing;

(2) state the specific reason for the Administration’s inability to act on a plan or request;

(3) include an estimate of the additional time required by the Administration to act on the plan or request; and

(4) if the Administration determines that the company submitted the liquidation plan in accordance with subparagraph (E) notice to the company that submitted the plan, the Administration shall annually submit to the Committees on Small Business of the House of Representatives and of the Senate a report on the results of delegation of authority under this section.

“(E) REPORT—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Based on information provided by qualified State and local development companies and the Administration, the Administration may—

(A) With respect to each loan foreclosed or liquidated by a qualified State or local development company under this section, or for which losses were otherwise mitigated by the company pursuant to a workout plan under this section—

(i) the total cost of the project financed with the loan;

(ii) the total original dollar amount guaranteed by the Administration;

(iii) the total dollar amount of the loan at the time of liquidation, foreclosure, or mitigation of loss;

(iv) the total dollar losses resulting from the liquidation, foreclosure, or mitigation of loss; and

(v) the total recoveries resulting from the liquidation, foreclosure, or mitigation of loss, as a percentage of the amount guaranteed and the total cost of the project financed.

(B) With respect to each qualified State or local development company to which authority is delegated under this section, the totals of each of the amounts described in clauses (i) through (v) of subparagraph (A).

(2) WITH RESPECT TO ALL LOANS SUBJECT TO DELEGATION—

(C) With respect to all loans subject to foreclosure, liquidation, or mitigation under this section, the totals of each of the amounts described in clauses (i) through (v) of subparagraph (A).

(3) A COMPARISON BETWEEN—

(D) The number of times that the Administration has failed to approve or reject a liquidation plan in accordance with subparagraph (A)(i), a workout plan in accordance with subparagraph (B)(i), or to approve or deny a request for purchase of indebtedness under subparagraph (B)(ii); and

(E) The number of times that the Administration has approved or rejected a request for purchase of indebtedness under subparagraph (B)(ii).

(4) REPORT—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 150 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
The Committee on Small Business recognizes the important role women-owned businesses play in the economy and believes this change is needed to ensure the expansion of this sector of our economy.

H.R. 2614 will reauthorize also the fees currently levied on the borrower, the Certified Development Company, and the participating bank. The 504 program, as is, operates with a zero subsidy rate based on calculations estimating the net present value of a year’s loans plus fees and recoveries from defaulted loans minus losses. of fees, we can ensure the solvency of the program. We also have a responsibility to make the 504 program more efficient. Under the Premier Certified Lender Program, specific experienced CDC’s are granted the authority to approve debentures without SBA involvement. In return, the lenders agree to reimburse the SBA 10% of any loss on a debenture guaranteed by the SBA. By making the Premier Certified Lender Program permanent, the 504 program will be more efficient.

The 504 loan program must properly serve the borrower. The current loan liquidation program has been successful in ensuring that the 504 program works for borrowers. Loan liquidation is the most expensive portion of the 504 program. Through the involvement of the CDC, which has resulted in a higher response rate, the overall costs are lowered for the program. By lowering the cost of the program, businesses will have access to reduced rates on loans, which will lower expenses to small businesses.

H.R. 2614 is good for borrowers and small businesses and is therefore good for our economy. We should vote in favor of H.R. 2614 and expand opportunities for small business ownership.

Mrs. KELLY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. VELAZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. KELLY) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2614.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

AMENDING SMALL BUSINESS ACT TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS IN GENERAL BUSINESS LOAN PROGRAM

Mr. TALENT. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2615) to amend the Small Business Act to make improvements to the general business loan program, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. R. 2615
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. LEVELS OF PARTICIPATION.

(1) in paragraph (i) by striking “$100,000” and inserting “$150,000”; and

(2) in paragraph (j) by striking “$100,000” and inserting “$150,000”.

SEC. 2. LOAN AMOUNTS.

Section 7(a)(3)(A) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 636(a)(3)(A)) is amended by striking “$750,000,” and inserting “$1,000,000 (or if the gross loan amount would exceed $2,000,000).”

SEC. 3. INTEREST ON DEFAULTED LOANS.

Subparagraph (B) of section 7(a)(4) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 636(a)(4)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(iii) APPLICABILITY.—Clauses (i) and (ii) shall not apply to loans made on or after October 1, 1999.”

SEC. 4. PREPAYMENT OF LOANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 7(a)(4) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 636(a)(4)) is amended—

(1) by striking “(4) INTEREST RATES AND FEES.—” and inserting “(4) INTEREST RATES AND PREPAYMENT—”;

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(C) PREPAYMENT CHARGES.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A borrower who prepays any loan guaranteed under this subsection shall remit to the Administration a subsidy recoupment fee calculated in accordance with clause (ii) if—

“(I) the loan is for a term of not less than 15 years;

“(II) the prepayment is voluntary;

“(III) the amount of prepayment in any calendar year is less than or equal to 25 percent of the outstanding balance of the loan; and “(IV) the prepayment is made within the first 3 years after disbursement of the loan proceeds.

“(ii) SUBSIDY RECoupMENT FEE.—The subsidy recoupment fee charged under clause (i) shall be—

“(I) 5% of the amount of prepayment, if the borrower prepays during the first year after disbursement;

“(II) 3% of the amount of prepayment, if the borrower prepays during the 2nd year after disbursement; and “(III) 1% of the amount of prepayment, if the borrower prepays during the 3rd year after disbursement.

(b) EXCEPTION.—Section 7(a)(4)(B) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 636(a)(4)(B)) is amended by inserting “(A)” before “I NTEREST RATES AND FEES.”

MS. VELAZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the time in support of H.R. 2615 be equally divided between the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) and the gentlewoman from Missouri (Ms. VELAZQUEZ)?

Mr. TALENT. Yes, Mr. Speaker. It was my intention to yield the time to the gentlewoman, and I join her in her unanimous consent request.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair understands 10 minutes in favor of the bill will be divided equally, so that the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) has 10 minutes and the gentleman from New York (Ms. VELAZQUEZ) has 10 minutes.

Without objection, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) is recognized.

There was no objection.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2615, a bill to amend the Section 7(a) loan program at the Small Business Administration. I want to start by thanking my colleague, the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. VELAZQUEZ), the ranking Democrat on the committee, for her assistance in drafting this bill. Her help has been invaluable, and I thank her on behalf of myself and the small business community as a whole.

Mr. Speaker, the 7(a) general business loan program provides over $9 billion of financial assistance to small businesses every year. The bill before us, H.R. 2615, will improve this program and make it more responsive to the needs of small businesses.

I would like to briefly describe the proposed changes to the 7(a) program contained in H.R. 2615. First, the maximum guarantee amount of a 7(a) loan program is increased to $1 million from the 1986 limit of $750,000 in order to keep pace with inflation. In fact, Mr. Speaker, to fully keep pace with inflation, the maximum guarantee amount should be increased to approximately $1,250,000. The committee believes a simple increase to $1 million is sufficient and has not gone further.

Second, H.R. 2615 removes a provision which reduced SBA’s liability for accrued interest on defaulted loans since the provision’s intended savings have failed to materialize.

The third change to the 7(a) program concerns the problem of early repayment of large loans, which is jeopardizing the subsidy rate supporting the program. H.R. 2615 will remedy this... problem by assessing the fee to the borrower for prepayment of any loan with a term in excess of 15 years within the first 5 years of the loan.

The committee believes this increase in prepayments is due to a variety of factors. There have been some instances of misuse by the program by businesses seeking bridge financing. There have also been a couple, where, due to the strong economy, lenders have approached borrowers offering improved terms, effectively skimming loans, and avoiding the need to process credit analyses. This removes authorization dollars from the program which could have been used for other loans and is a disservice to both the small business borrowers and the 7(a) lenders. Both parties work to put financing packages together at the cost of both time and money.

H.R. 2615 also includes three changes designed to encourage the making of smaller loans. The 80 percent guarantee rate will be expanded from loans under $100,000 to loans under $150,000. Likewise, the 75 percent guarantee fee will now apply to loans up to $150,000. That represents a significant savings for these small borrowers.

Finally, for small loans we have included a provision allowing lenders to retain one-quarter of the guarantee fee on loans under $150,000 as an incentive to make these loans.

These changes add to the innovations that Congress has introduced over the past several years concerning the availability of loans at the lower end of the 7(a) spectrum. As a result, since 1994, the number of loans made under $100,000 significantly. In 1998 alone, 53 percent of the 7(a) loans were under 100,000. This compares with only 37 percent in 1994. The figure fluctuates, Mr. Speaker, as interest rates change generally in the direction of smaller loans.

Finally, H.R. 2615 modifies current 7(a) program rules prohibiting loans from passive investments. When Congress last reauthorized the program, we modified a similar restriction in the 504 program in order to permit the financing of projects where less than 20 percent of a business space will be rented out when the small business owner is no longer using it. If a loan is for an already existing business, then the bank should make the loan, not the SBA. If a borrower still needs government guarantees because this is a recipe for failure, and the taxpayers will be left paying off the default.

If a loan is for an already existing business, then the 7(a) loan program provides start-up capital for new entrepreneurs, while the 504 program is designed to meet the capital needs of growing small businesses for expansion or purchases of additional equipment.

We just passed, with my concurrence, H.R. 2614, which increased the maximum loan guarantee amount in the 504 loan program from $750,000 to $1 million. I agree with that because growing small businesses already in existence have greater capital needs. In addition, the program operates at no cost to the taxpayer because the fees it charges offset its costs. However, H.R. 2615 plans to do the same thing for the 7(a) loan program and I disagree with this policy change.

No one should start up a business with a $1 million loan backed by the SBA. If a bank needs a 75 percent government-backed guarantee to feel comfortable with a $1 million loan, then we should think twice before passing the bill. If someone requires a $1 million loan for start-up, they are probably buying a lot of new equipment and large amounts of real estate. They should rethink their business plan because this is a recipe for failure, and the taxpayers will be left paying off the default.

The question essentially is this: At what point should companies be weaned off government guaranteed loans without having to rely upon the crutch of the taxpayer. These companies already have a financial track record. It should be on the merits, not an SBA guarantee, that the bank should make the loans.

If a borrower still needs government backing for an expansion project, then they should turn to the 504 loan program. The 504 program should serve capital expansion needs, not the 7(a) loan program.

The question essentially is this: At what point should companies be weaned off government guaranteed loans? 1 year, 2 years, 5 years, 10 years, up capital available to them from $750,000 to $1 million? We should be keeping it the same and encouraging companies to get off the government help.

If the purpose of the Small Business Administration is to give a jump-start to companies that otherwise would not be able to start up a business, then why are we increasing the amount of start-up capital available to them from $750,000 to $1 million? We should be keeping it the same and encouraging companies to get off the government help.

It stands to reason that if the SBA has an overall fixed amount of total loans it can support, then throughout the year, as small business owners are able to borrow larger amounts, then the overall loan volume will decrease, to the detriment of the number of small borrowers.

This is what is really confusing. The SBA maintained, for the longest period of time, and sent a memo to my office which they have never corrected in writing, that if the authorization level were kept the same, which it is, but the level of 7(a) loans went from $750,000 to $1 million, then in excess of 6,000 entrepreneurs, who otherwise would be applying for and qualifying for small business loans, would be left out because the bigger borrowers would be in there taking up all the money.

That was SBA's position for the longest period of time until they mysteriously, and without any empirical evidence, suddenly changed their mind and said that the small business incentives in the small business bill means there would be a net loss of people receiving loans.

We have to think about that. This bill has a small business incentive in the Small Business Administration loan program. would be a wash at best. But we have no empirical data, nothing, that has been furnished to this Member of Congress, who requested the SBA first of all to come to an analysis as to the loss of businesses that would be deprived of start-up capital; and they, on their own, advised this Member of Congress that it would be in excess of 6,000. Later on they changed their mind, but they told the press still that the information given to this Member of Congress was correct.

Therefore, I can come to one conclusion, and that is that the Small Business Administration itself does not understand the mechanics of this bill. And if they do not understand the mechanics of this bill and they do not understand the wording of it and they do not understand the impact of it, then this bill should not pass, it should come up under regular order and be subject to an amendment.

I urge my colleagues to reject the bill now and send it back to committee. Once we have a more clear understanding of how this bill will impact the budget and small loan borrowers, then we can always act on this provision. We do not have the information yet.

There is plenty of time to work on this legislation. An additional hike in the maximum guarantee amount of the 7(a) loan program can be included in the regular SBA authorization bill. It would be easy to bring it up at a later time. We can mark up a separate bill later this fall. But I do not see the reason for rushing to action on this now when we have incomplete information.

Thus, I respectfully disagree with my chairmain and ranking minority member and ask that H.R. 2615 be defeated in its current form.

This is the only alternative left to me because I cannot amend the bill under suspension of the rules. The rest of the bill is fine.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. VELAZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2615, legislation to improve and update the General Business Loan Guaranty, or 7(a), program.

With the passage of today’s legislation, we will grow the 7(a) loan program in a reasonable and thoughtful way that expands the program, while continuing our commitment to those businesses that need access to start-up capital.

Although SBA administers numerous programs that provide financial and technical assistance to small firms, the 7(a) program is the agency’s flagship loan program. It is far and away the agency’s largest and most important program because of the number of loans and program level supported.

Under 7(a), loan guarantees are provided to eligible small businesses that have been unsuccessful in obtaining private financing on reasonable terms. The proceeds from a 7(a) loan may be used for any purpose, and have made the difference for countless entrepreneurs.

Under a 7(a) partnership between Government and nearly 7,000 banks and non-bank lenders that participate, small businesses are ensured access to capital they need. Since the program’s inception, more than 600,000 7(a) loans totaling $30 billion have been made to help this Nation’s small businesses.

One of the important items in this legislation is the increase in the loan guarantee from $750,000 to $1 million. It has been over a decade since we increased the loan guarantee. As a matter of fact, if we were to index the current state of the current state of the Commerce-Justice-State appropriations bill we will consider this week, that is unlikely; or eliminate these important small business loan provisions. And I believe that that will be short-sighted.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire how much time I have remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) has 6 1/2 minutes remaining.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the jurisdiction of the small business community, the legislative jurisdiction of it, is really only over the Small Business Administration and its programs.

Since I became chairman, I have tried to use the opportunity and the jurisdiction of the committee, which is much broader, to struggle for tax and regulatory relief for small businesses around the country. And that is really what we devote a whole lot of our time to on the committee. But we do take seriously the job of overseeing the programs in the Small Business Administration.

In order to accomplish that, we periodically work together on a bipartisan basis and we pass bills designed to update the network of statutes that on the basis of which those loan programs run. I have tried to push them in the direction in my chairmanship and with the support first of the gentleman from New York (Mr. LaFalce) and then of the gentleman from New York (Ms. Velázquez) in the direction of making those programs more efficient and making them run as entirely private lending programs do whenever we can.

This bill is part of that trend. It contains a number of different provisions which are important to achieving that effort.

We have worked together on a bipartisan basis. We produced the bill by a
Mr. Speaker, I am happy to work with the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. MANZULLO). He and I have worked together out of the general revenue in order to support this program.

First of all, Mr. Speaker, there is no question and I do not think the gentleman would deny that, on balance, this bill continues the trend of moving the 7(a) portfolio in the direction of smaller loans.

First of all, the bill caps the total size of all loans granted at $2 million. So a lender cannot issue a 7(a) loan or make a 7(a) loan for more than $2 million. There has been no statutory cap on loan size.

The bill allows lenders to retain a somewhat greater percentage of fees that are paid when they make smaller loans, and the bill increases guarantee rates for smaller loans. So there is no question that this bill will continue prudently pushing the portfolio in the direction of smaller loans.

The sole dispute is over one small provision in this bill which allows the total amount of the guaranteed loan to go up from $750,000 to $1 million. In other words, the portion that the Government guarantees of any loan is now at $750,000. If this bill passes and the President signs it, it will be $1 million.

The reason we do that, Mr. Speaker, is that amount has not been adjusted for inflation for 11 years. It was made $750,000 in 1988 I believe. We have watched what changed it at all. We have made a modest adjustment that does not even keep pace with inflation. It is the only part of this bill that is in issue.

To be perfectly frank, I simply do not see why it is that big a deal. We felt it was important to do it because, without some aspect of this portfolio being somewhat larger loans, it tends to undermine the stability and the financial prudence of the portfolio as a whole.

We want to push it in the direction of the small, but not too far and too fast, we yank out of the portfolio the somewhat larger loans which really support the whole 7(a) portfolio. And we do not want to do that. That could result in a lot more defaults and a lot more money that we have to find out of the general revenue in order to support this program.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I respect the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. MANZULLO). He and I have worked together on our Committee together. I respect the sincerity of his view here.

I would say it is a small part of this bill. I am happy to work with the gentleman as we go through the process over in the Senate and then in conference. But I hope we can have the support of the House in supporting this bill.

It came out of the committee by an overwhelming majority. It may be housekeeping to most of the House. It is important to these programs. We try to do a responsible, bipartisan job on the Committee on Small Business. The ranking member and I are in full agreement, as was the overwhelming majority of the committee.

Again, I ask the House for its support. We will continue working on this issue as we move through the process.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire of the Chair the amount of time that I have remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Illinois (Mr. MANZULLO) has 12 minutes remaining.

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, first of all, I want to concur with the statements of the chairman of the Committee on Small Business, who has done a tremendous effort in turning the Committee on Small Business into a committee that has been very responsive, listening to the needs and the desires of the people across this Nation.

I chair the Subcommittee on Small Business, Tax, and Trade. I have seen the chairman conduct other hearings, and I know that he has the small businessperson at heart. In fact, when he practiced law before he came to this body, it was as a person involved in small business and he knows the needs of the small business community intimately well.

I would only suggest to the chairman of the Committee on Small Business, my friend the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) this fact: With the increase of the loan amounts from $750,000 to $1 million, financially there is less money in the overall pot. Because there has been no increase in the authorization.

As the gentleman from New York (Ms. VELAZQUEZ) says, there is little opportunity, little likelihood that there would be an increase in the authorization. Simply based upon the fact that there is less money in the pot, who is going to be the recipient of not getting the money? Is it going to be the little guy, or the people who have the attorneys and the CPAs and the bankers that can increase their amounts from $750,000 to $1 million? That begs the basic question as to what is the purpose of the Small Business Administration is.

I am trying the best I can to preserve some type of mission that the SBA has. We have absolutely no empirical data, nothing to refute the original data that the SBA gave me, nothing in writing, no words from the SBA, nothing from members of the committee, so I hope that the memo they gave me stated unequivocally and in concurrence with Mr. Hocker who testified at the Small Business hearing that unless the authorization were increased, the fact that we are increasing the amount that could be borrowed from $750,000 to $1 million means that in excess of 6,000 small businesses, the people who otherwise would qualify for an SBA loan will be excluded from the process. To aggregate that, in the past 3 years, as the amount of SBA loans go up, the number of small business recipients goes down and the number of smaller businesses receiving the loan has now dropped to about 53 percent of the total, meaning that the larger applicants are getting the bulk of the money and that is the dangerous trend. I am trying to stop that.

Is it worth objecting to an entire bill because you are opposed to one-seventh of the bill? The answer is yes. The name of the bill is small business. Does anybody think that borrowing $1 million today is small business? It could be, but if it is of that magnitude, then the bank should be willing to kick in the extra amount and to guarantee the extra amount, not put it upon the shoulders of the taxpayers to say we want you to guarantee up to $1 million. If you are solvent enough to borrow up to $750,000 with an SBA guarantee, then the banks themselves should be willing to loan the rest of the amount of money based upon their own private arrangement with the borrower. It is just that simple.

Ms. VELAZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would just like to echo the comments made by the gentleman from Missouri. You have to continue updating a program. What works in the 1980s does not necessarily work in the 1990s. No bank would allow its loan program to go a decade without updating it. If we are going to make SBA, a cutting edge financial institution of the 21st century, we must continue to improve these programs. It just makes sense.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Let me repeat again both my friendship and my respect for the passion and the commitment of the gentleman from Illinois to small business. He and I have talked over this issue. We had a full debate over it in committee. I do want to continue working with him as this bill goes through the process. I do not think that we are increasing the amount that Members of the House who may not, and I certainly could not blame them if they were not familiar with the ins and outs of all these programs, but I hope... they will understand that these programs are important, that the committee does oversee them and that it is important that we move this legislation through to make all the different corrections that are in there.

So I would ask of the House, let us get this bill out and get it in conference. I pledge to continue working with the gentleman. It is a small part of the bill over which we have a disagreement. There is no question that the bill as a whole moves in the direction of pushing the portfolio gently towards smaller loans. I have worked for that under my chairmanship. He has worked for that with the ranking member. This is a modest inflationary update. I would hope that we would have the House's confidence in being able to make it and that we can move this bill through.

I would urge the House to support H.R. 2615.

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TALENT. I yield to the gentleman from Illinois.

Mr. MANZULLO. Based upon the gentleman's assertions that he is willing to continue discussing this figure of $750,000 increased to $1 million, I would still be opposed to the bill, I will vote "no" on an oral vote but not call for a recorded vote.

Mr. TALENT. Reclaiming my time, I appreciate very much the gentleman's most gracious concession in that regard. I certainly will be glad to keep working with him. He and I disagree on this. My major concern is making sure that we have a proper balance in the portfolio so that we do not have the unintended impact of undermining the stability of the smaller loans that we do make by not allowing this minor inflationary update. But perhaps we can provide for that in some other context. I am happy to work with the gentleman on that regard.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILER of Florida). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2615.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. TALENT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 2615.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Missouri?

There was no objection.

THOMAS S. FOLEY UNITED STATES COURTHOUSE AND WALTER F. HORAN PLAZA

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 211) to designate the Federal building and United States courthouse located at West 920 Riverside Avenue in Spokane, Washington, as the “Thomas S. Foley Federal Building and United States Courthouse”, and the plaza at the south entrance of such building and courthouse as the “Walter F. Horan Plaza”, as amended.

H.R. 211

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. DESIGNATION OF COURTHOUSE.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The Federal building and United States courthouse located at 920 West Riverside Avenue in Spokane, Washington, shall be known and designated as the “Thomas S. Foley United States Courthouse”.

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the Federal building and United States courthouse referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the “Thomas S. Foley United States Courthouse”.

SEC. 2. DESIGNATION OF PLAZA.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The plaza located at the south entrance of the Federal building and United States courthouse referred to in section 1(a) shall be known and designated as the “Walter F. Horan Plaza”.

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the plaza referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the “Walter F. Horan Plaza”.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE) and the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE).

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 211, as amended, introduced by the gentleman from Washington (Mr. NETHERCUTT), honors two former Members of this body, former Speaker Tom Foley and Congressman Walter Horan. The amendment simply corrects the address and properly designates the facility as a United States courthouse, which the building is typically referred to as in Spokane.

This legislation will designate the United States courthouse and courthouse plaza in Spokane, Washington, as the “Thomas S. Foley United States Courthouse and Walter F. Horan Plaza”. This designation is a most deserving one.

Ambassador Foley served in the Congress from January 1965 until December 1994. As most of the Members here are well aware, Ambassador Foley was the 49th Speaker of the House of Representatives. Prior to his election as Speaker, Ambassador Foley was the majority leader, majority whip, chair of the Democratic Caucus and chair of the Committee on Agriculture. After being elected to the Congress, Ambassador Foley was special counsel to the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. He also served as deputy prosecuting attorney in Spokane and assistant attorney general for the State of Washington.

After leaving this body, former Speaker Foley continues to distinguish himself in public service as the United States Ambassador to Japan. Naming the courthouse in Ambassador Foley's hometown is a reminder of his dedication and hard work in public service.

The plaza entrance to the courthouse will be designated as the “Walter F. Horan Plaza”. This will be a reminder to all that are entering the courthouse that the nation acknowledged accomplishments by former Congressman Horan for his eastern Washington district.

If there ever was an example of the American dream, it is Walter Horan. He was born in a log cabin on the banks of the Wenatchee River in 1898. After attending the Wenatchee public schools, he was graduated from Washington State College in 1925. Prior to that, he entered World War I, serving for 2 years in the United States Navy as a gunner's mate third class. Upon graduation, he returned to his apple farm in Wenatchee, Washington where he engaged in fruit growing, packing, storing and shipping until he was elected to the 78th Congress in 1942. He went on to serve in the next 10 succeeding Congresses and rose to third in seniority on the Committee on Appropriations. He always gave close attention to agriculture and the conservation community. Former Congressman Horan passed away in 1966. Naming the Plaza on his behalf is a fitting designation.

This is a fitting tribute, Mr. Speaker, to two former Members of this body. I support the bill and urge my colleagues to join in support.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Also, I want to thank the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE) for introducing this bill and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHUSTER) for bringing this bill to the floor in such a timely manner.

I rise in strong support of H.R. 211, a bill to designate the Federal building and courthouse located at 920 West Riverside Avenue in Spokane, Washington as the Thomas S. Foley United States Courthouse, and the plaza located at the south entrance as the Walter F. Horan Plaza.
Mr. Speaker, as a new Member from Washington State, I know that we come here with big shoes to fill. We had Scoop Jackson, Warren Magnuson, and we had Speaker of the House Tom Foley. Tom Foley had an outstanding and distinguished public career and it is a career that continues to this day. As we all know, for 30 years he ably represented the Fifth Congressional District in Washington. During that time he served as the majority leader, the majority whip, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture and was, of course, the 49th Speaker of the House. Mr. Foley continues to serve today as our country's Ambassador to Japan.

During his time in Congress, Tom Foley's top legislative priorities included increasing the minimum wage, revising clean air standards and parental leave and child care measures.

Tom was a Washington native. He was born in Spokane in 1929. He attended local school, graduated from Gonzaga University, and went on to attend the University of Washington in Seattle. He later graduated from the University of Washington Law School in 1957.

Tom Foley's legacy is lasting and his reputation for fairness, for dignity and for openness is a model for all Members to follow. He is well respected, affable and a conciliatory person. Speaker Foley served to help make Congress the best forum for democracy in the entire world. It is with great pride that I support this bill.

Mr. Foley, as was mentioned, H.R. 211 also honors Walt F. Horan by designating the plaza at the south entrance to the building as the Walter F. Horan Plaza. As was mentioned earlier, Mr. Horan served his country in the House of Representatives for 22 years, from 1942 to 1964. He was proud of the fact, it was mentioned, that he was born in a log cabin on the banks of the Wenatchee River, truly a pioneer in our State and a pioneer in this legislative body. He attended local public schools. After graduating high school, he served in World War I as a gunner's mate third class. In 1925 he graduated from Washington State College in Pullman.

Walter Horan served with dignity and diligence for over 20 years. It is fitting, I support this legislation strongly. But I did have the privilege of knowing Ambassador Foley, of knowing him as a colleague, of knowing him as the distinguished Speaker of this House, of knowing him as the chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, and I felt I had to be here today to express my enormous admiration for this distinguished American.

He as a Speaker, a Democratic Speaker, but a Speaker of the Whole House, was always very, very fair. This distinguished American treated those of us in the minority, when indeed Republicans in the minority, with fairness, with consideration. In fact, one of my Democratic friends some years ago who served here in the House, and I'm not sure his name, the whole House, and he was fulfilling his duties and his obligations, and he was fulfilling them with dignity, with intelligence and in the best tradition of the great speakers of this august body.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly therefore want to very strongly support this legislation today as a tribute particularly to Ambassador Foley, and I want to note that indeed it is a Republican Member of Congress, the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Nethercutt) who has been the prime mover of this legislation, and I think that is very fitting because I believe it sends the very clear message that we on this side of the aisle have the same respect and love and affection for Speaker Foley that our good friends on the other side of the aisle certainly have indicated.

So I urge the passage of this legislation, and I trust and hope it will be unanimous.

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Speaker, I have no more requests for time at this point, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Nethercutt) the sponsor of the bill. Mr. NETHERCUTT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Coble) for the time and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Shuster) and the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Baird) for their kind remarks. I am proud to be the sponsor of this legislation along with the other 8 members of the Washington State congressional delegation to name the Federal Court House in Spokane, Washington, my hometown, the Thomas S. Foley United States Courthouse and the plaza in front of that courthouse as the Walter F. Horan Plaza.

As the successor to Tom Foley, I came to know him very well in the 1994 elections, and I must say, as difficult as elections can be, the one that occurred in 1994 in my judgment and I think in the judgment of many other people was one that was carried on with great dignity and discussion and debate of the issues and the leadership that was proper for the future for our Fifth Congressional District.

So I urge the passage of this legislation with mixed emotions frankly. I felt terrible for my predecessor who had served for 30 very long years and dignified years and years filled with great service, and I felt sorry that he ended his service with an election like that which occurred in 1994, but at the same time I was pleased to be able to represent the Fifth Congressional District and go forward in the years ahead, wanting to have good representation for the entire electorate of the State of Washington.

So it was bitter sweet in many respects, but my respect for Mr. Foley certainly is not bitter sweet. It is unyielding, it is constant, because I have had him as my representative before I came to public life for 30 years and Mr. Horan for the prior 22 years, virtually my entire adult life until I was elected in 1994. So I have known these two men and watched them represent eastern Washington and the State of Washington's interests with great dignity, with certainly unquestionable respect for the institution of Congress and respect for the people of eastern Washington.

During law school I happened to serve as a law clerk in the Spokane County Superior Court, and my prime judge for whom I was assigned was William F. Williams, a very close friend of Foley who was later a Supreme Court Justice in our State. But I also served as a law clerk for Thomas S. Foley's father, Judge Ralph Foley.

So Tom, the former Speaker, comes to this institution with a very distinguished background, a distinguished family. His mother and father were very highly recognized and respected in eastern Washington, as was Thomas S. Foley. He served, as was stated here, for 30 years representing our district as Speaker, a Democratic Speaker, as majority leader, as chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, a chairmanship that was proper for the future for our Fifth Congressional District.

So it was bitter sweet in many respects, but my respect for Mr. Foley certainly is not bitter sweet. It is unyielding, it is constant, because I have had him as my representative before I came to public life for 30 years and Mr. Horan for the prior 22 years, virtually my entire adult life until I was elected in 1994. So I have known these two men and watched them represent eastern Washington and the State of Washington's interests with great dignity, with certainly unquestionable respect for the institution of Congress and respect for the people of eastern Washington. in eastern Washington and in our State of Washington, our beloved State of Washington. So it was with pleasure that all of the members of our delegation signed onto this bill that I introduced, most notably Democrats and Republicans alike who had worked with Mr. Foley and Mr. Horan in some respects and have enormous respect for both of them.

So I thank the House for considering this bill, I urge that it be adopted unanimously and that the respect and dignity that is due Mr. Horan and Mr. Foley will continue under the name of the Thomas S. Foley United States Courthouse and the Walter F. Horan Plaza.

Mr. COBLE. I have no further requests for time, Mr. Speaker, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The question is on the motion to amend by the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 211, as amended.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) for 2 minutes.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 211, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

COPYRIGHT DAMAGES IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 1999

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 211, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE 18929

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1761) to amend provisions of title 17, United States Code, relating to penalties, and for other purposes as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 1761

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Copyright Damages Improvement Act of 1999".

SECTION 2. STATUTORY DAMAGES ENHANCEMENT.

Section 504(c) of title 17, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1)—

(A) by striking "$500" and inserting "$750"; and

(B) by striking "$30,000" and inserting "$30,000"; and

(2) in paragraph (2), by striking "$100,000" and inserting "$150,000".

SEC. 3. SENTENCING COMMISSION GUIDELINES.

Section 2(g) of the No Electronic Theft Act (28 U.S.C. 994 note) is amended by striking paragraph (2) and inserting the following:

"(2) in implementing paragraph (1), the Sentencing Commission shall amend guideline applicable to criminal infringement of a copyright or trademark to provide an enhancement based upon the retail price of the legitimate items that are infringed upon and the quantity of the infringing items. To the extent the conduct involves a violation of section 2319A of title 18, United States Code, the enhancement shall be based upon the retail price of the infringing items and the quantity of the infringing items."

SEC. 4. EFFECTIVE DATE.

The amendments made by section 2 shall apply to any action brought on or after the date of enactment of this Act, as though the authority under that Act had not expired."

One way to combat this problem is to increase the statutory penalties for copyright infringement so that there will be an effective deterrent to this conduct.

Another significant aspect of H.R. 1761 addresses a problem the subcommittee learned about during an oversight hearing on the implementation of the NET Act and enforcement against Internet piracy. The House Judiciary Subcommittee on Courts and Intellectual Property received testimony about the lack of prosecutions being brought under the act by the Department of Justice and the Sentencing Commission staff failure to address Congress' desire to impose strict penalties for violations of the act that will deter infringement in their recent report. H.R. 1761 clarifies Congress' intent that the United States Sentencing Commission ensure that the sentencing guideline for the intellectual property offenses provide for consideration of the retail price of the legitimate infringed-upon item and the quantity of infringing items in order to make the guidelines sufficiently stringent to deter such crime. This language gives the Sentencing Commission the discretion to adopt an aggravating adjustment where it may be appropriate in cases of pre-released copyright piracy in which no corresponding legitimate copyrighted item yet exists, but the economic harm could be devastating. These changes will enable the Department of Justice to better prosecute crimes against intellectual property.

It is vital that the United States recognizes intellectual property rights and provides strong protection and enforcement against violations of those rights. By doing that the United States will protect its valuable intellectual property and encourage other countries to enact and enforce strong copyright protection laws.

I would like to commend the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. ROGAN) for his leadership in introducing this bill and his hard work in bringing it to this point. H.R. 1761 is an important piece of legislation, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1761, the Copyright Damages Improvement Act of 1999. Consistent with the responsibility conferred on us by article 1, section 8, of the Constitution, we are required from time to time to assess the efficacy of our intellectual property laws in protecting the works of authors and inventors. Toward that end earlier this year the Subcommittee on Courts and Intellectual Property resolved to address several concerns which had been brought to our attention regarding the deterrence of copyright infringement and penalties for such infringement in those instances when it does unfortunately occur.

The bill originally reported out by the Committee on the Judiciary was broader in scope than the bill before us today, and I supported that bill in its previous form, but we resolved to bring before this body a bill reflecting a consensus, and that is what we have done. I know of no opposition to the bill under consideration today.

The bill has two key features. First, the bill provides an inflation adjustment for copyright statutory damages. It has been well over a decade since we last adjusted statutory damages for inflation. Our purpose must be to provide meaningful disincentives for infringement, and to accomplish this the cost of infringement must substantially exceed the cost of compliance so that those who use or distribute intellectual property have an incentive to comply with the law. The inflation adjustments provided in H.R. 1761 accomplish that objective.

Secondly, at a hearing held this past May, the Subcommittee on Courts and Intellectual Property heard testimony that the current sentencing guidelines for intellectual property crimes is not sufficiently stringent to deter such crimes.

The subcommittee’s conclusion was that the current guideline with its reliance on the value of the infringing good should be replaced with a guideline based on the retail price of the infringing good. At the same time, as a result of quite productive discussions with the staff of the sentencing commission, we acknowledged the commission’s ability to make reasonable adjustments, aggravating or mitigating, as appropriate.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the chairman of the subcommittee for bringing this bill to the floor and for his consistent work in bringing bills to strengthen our intellectual property laws to the floor.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from California, and I was about to do the same to him. We have worked very closely on this. This has taken a good amount of time, both on the part of the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and me as well as other members of the subcommittee and staff. All have done a good job. This is an important piece of legislation.

Mr. ROGAN. Mr. Speaker, copyright violations, particularly those via the Internet, are a growing problem. H.R. 1761 the Copyright Damages Improvement Act of 1999 ensures that changes in federal law keep up with changes in technology. This bill provides an effective deterrent against copyright infringers and Internet privacy. I am pleased to join the chairman of the Courts and Intellectual Property Subcommittee, Mr. COBLE, and the gentleman from Virginia Mr. GOODLATTE, along with the ranking member of the subcommittee, the gentleman from California Mr. BERMAN, to make these significant improvements to the Copyright Act and the No Electronic Theft Act. H.R. 1761 will increase the amount of statutory damages available for copyright infringement. Specifically, this bill, as amended, increases existing penalties for infringement by 50%. Further, the bill clarifies Congress’ intent that the United States Sentencing Commission consider the retail price of a legitimate infringed-upon work and the quantity of the infringed-upon work when determining sentencing guidelines for intellectual property offenses.

During the subcommittee’s hearing on the “Implementation of the NET Act and Enforcement Against Internet Privacy,” the concern was raised about the lack of prosecutions being brought by the Justice Department and the Sentencing Commission’s failure to address Congress’ desire to impose strict penalties for violators. The committee heard how the price that pirated material is sold for on the black market is often the value used for prosecution, not the actual value of the copyrighted item. This is wrong. My bill clarifies that the Sentencing Commission shall use the retail price and quantity of the infringed-upon goods as bases for determining their value.

Finally, I want to recognize and thank all of the interested parties who came together to work out the compromise language that is contained in the manager’s amendment today. These needed changes will give added protections to copyright owners by strengthening the deterrents for intellectual property theft, and enable the Department of Justice to better prosecute crimes against copyright owners.

Mr. Speaker, it is crucial that our country remain the leader in the protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, H.R. 1761 increases the statutory damages available for copyright infringement, and serves as a strict deterrent for those who try to skilt the law. I urge my colleagues to support the passage of this bill in its amended form.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE) that the House agree to the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1761, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-hairs having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker’s table the Senate bill (S. 1257) to amend statutory damages provisions of title 17, United States Code, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I do so simply to yield to my friend from North Carolina to indicate his intentions with respect to bringing up the Senate bill at this time.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BERMAN. I yield to the gentleman from North Carolina.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this request is to amend the companion Senate bill and send it back to the Senate with the amendment that the House just passed.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 1257

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Digital Theft Deterrence and Copyright Damages Improvement Act of 1999”.

SEC. 2. STATUTORY DAMAGES ENHANCEMENT.

Section 504(c) of title 17, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1)—

(A) by striking “$500” and inserting “$750”;

(B) by striking “$20,000” and inserting “$30,000”;

(2) in paragraph (2)—

(A) by inserting “(A)” after “(2);”;

(B) by striking “$100,000” and inserting “$150,000”;

(C) by inserting after the second sentence the following:

“(B) In a case where the copyright owner demonstrates that the infringement was part of a repeated pattern or practice of willful infringement, the court may increase the award of statutory damages to a sum of not more than $250,000 per work.”;

and

(D) by striking “‘the court shall remit statutory damages’” and inserting the following:

“(C) The court shall remit statutory damages”.

Passed the Senate July 1, 1999.

MOTION OFFERED BY MR. COBLE

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. COBLE moves to strike all after the enacting clause of the Senate bill, S. 1257, and to insert in lieu thereof the text of H.R. 1761 as it passed the House.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

The title of the Senate bill was amended so as to read: “to amend provisions of title 17, United States Code, relating to penalties, and for other purposes.”

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.
A similar House bill (H.R. 1761) was laid on the table.

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to review and extend their remarks on H.R. 1761, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina? There was no objection.

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida) at 5 o'clock and 17 minutes p.m.

 Appointment of Conference on H.R. 2488, FINANCIAL FREEDOM ACT OF 1999

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to clause 12 of rule XXII and by the direction of the Committee on Ways and Means, I move to take from the Speaker’s table the bill (H.R. 2488) to provide for reconciliation pursuant to sections 105 and 211 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2000, with a Senate amendment thereto, disagree to the Senate amendment, and agree to the conference offered by the Senate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARCHER) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this is the customary motion to go to the conference with the Senate. I understand that the minority has a motion to instruct which is debatable for 1 hour, so I would yield back the balance of my time.

more money and more money and more money.

I know there are those who believe that Washington knows best how to spend the people's money and they should not be given the opportunity to do it because maybe they might make a mistake; but it is their money, not ours and I am proud that the House and Senate on a bipartisan basis think this is unfair and have passed good plans to let people keep more of their money. Yes, the plans are different, but they are both based on the principle that all Americans deserve to keep more of what they have earned. After all, it is their money. If we keep it in Washington, politicians will most surely spend it.

That has been the way it has been throughout history. And over the last hundred years right here in Washington, over 70 percent of all of the surpluses that have ever been generated into the Federal Government have been spent by politicians. Unfortunately, the motion before us is designed to keep hundreds of billions of dollars in excess taxpayer money in Washington to be spent. All along, we warned that there would be enormous pressure and great temptation to spend this budget surplus on more government programs, and it looks like we were right. But, Mr. Speaker, we do not need full-time government and part-time families. We need part-time government and full-time families.

This motion guts broad-based tax relief for the taxpayers who created the budget surplus in the first place. This motion threatens marriage penalty relief. This motion would make it tougher for people who care for elderly relatives at home by blocking health and long-term care insurance incentives. This motion would stand in the way of pension modernization that will help more men and women enjoy retirement security.

This motion would take away education incentives to make college more affordable and to give parents the ability to save for their children's education and that is what is fair.

Mr. Speaker, we can save Social Security, strengthen Medicare, and provide for prescription drug benefit for needy seniors, pay down the debt and provide tax relief for the American people. Mr. Speaker, 25 cents out of every dollar of surplus is what we are talking about in this tax relief bill. There is plenty to do all of these other things.

I hearken back again when I say deja vu to 1995, 1996, and the beginning of 1997 when people with the same people were talking about in this tax relief bill. There is plenty to do all of these other things.

Yet, most of them voted for a tax relief bill when we did not even have a balanced budget. Most of them voted for a tax relief bill almost as big as this bill. I say that they call risky and irresponsible when we had no surplus projections at all.

We heard not one word about Social Security. We heard not one word about Medicare. We heard not one word about paying down the debt. My how things have changed.

To my colleagues on the other side who say we cannot, I simply remind them of the Democratic Senator from Nebraska, Bob Kerrey's comment about their argument. He said, 'To suggest that we cannot afford to cut income taxes when we are running a $3 trillion surplus is ludicrous.'

Mr. Speaker, I urge opposition to this motion to instruct conferees.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. Matsui).

Mr. Matsui. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to make a couple observations. As the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Social Security who has studied the issue of Social Security now for 2 1/2 years, I have to say that there was a lot of misleading information passed on by the House of Representatives last week when we discussed this bill.

There has been a lot of talk about a lockbox and $3 trillion. The fact that $2 trillion will be put in a lockbox, that in fact is Social Security money. That is payroll tax money coming in over the next decade, 15 years, the $2 trillion. The problem is that will not preserve Social Security.

Mr. Speaker, we can save Social Security, we can save Medicare, we can give a prescription drug benefit, and we can pay down the debt, and we can give a small amount in tax relief to the people who earned it. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the respected gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Wellers), a member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. Weller. Mr. Speaker, as Ronald Reagan once said "Here we go again."

Whenever Republicans want to lower the tax burden on families, my friends on the other side always say it is going to somehow hurt people when they lower their taxes. Now, where I come from, people tell me their tax burden is too high. Our tax burden today is 21 percent of our economy which is consumed by the Federal Government.

Since 1993, the tax burden has continued to go up. In fact, in 1993, the tax burden was less than 18 percent. Today it is 21 percent of our gross domestic product going to the Federal Government that tax burden is too high.

When it comes to Medicare and Social Security, thanks to this Republican Congress, we have a balanced budget, the first balanced budget in 28 years. It is now projected to provide a $3 trillion surplus over the next 10 years.

Under our budget, of course we do something that Congresses of the past and Presidents of the past for the last 30 years have refused to do; and that is, we save 100 percent of Social Security for retirement security to save Medicare and Social Security.

Now these 3 dollar bills I have, each dollar bill represents $1 trillion. Under
Mr. WELSER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, first, let me correct the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. WELLER) in that we do not have a balanced budget. We do not have a balanced budget today unless they count the surplus for Social Security generated income, and none of us want to do that.

They talk about $3 trillion over the next 10 years. We do not have that. If they look at what is the on-budget surplus that we all acknowledge is money that could be used, we have a projected $1 trillion surplus over the next 10 years; and we have not seen dime one of it yet. Yet, the Republicans want to spend the surplus before we get the surplus. That is not responsible.

We are talking about what should the priorities be. The Socialists and Social Democrat motion makes it clear that our priorities should first meet our current responsibilities under Social Security and Medicare, not an expanded role, but acknowledging their responsibilities. We think that should be our first priority.

We do have projected surpluses in the future. Let us use that to pay down our debt so that we can continue the economic prosperity that we have. Let us meet our obligations under Social Security and Medicare. Let us invest in the priorities that are important, including responsible tax legislation.

This bill is irresponsible. The motion to instruct corrects it. I urge my colleagues to support the motion.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I want my colleagues to look up in the web page www.dsausa.org. It stands for Democratic Socialists of America. It is a web page of the Democratic Socialists of America. It is a web page of the Democratic Socialists of America. It is a web page of the Democratic Socialists of America.

In there, the Progressive Caucus, 58 Members of the Democratic party belong to that. What do they want, Mr. Speaker? This is their own 12-point agenda, not mine, but their 12-point agenda. They want government control of health care. They tried to force through a bill that when they had the White House, the House, and the Senate. They wanted government socialized health care. It failed miserably.

They want government control of education and environmental laws. They even want government control of private property. They want union over small business. They want the highest possible socialized spending, and they want the highest possible progressive tax that they can get. The highest progressive tax, income tax.

That is what the Democratic Party is controlled by, their leadership, the Democratic Socialists of America, the Progressive Caucus. Guess what, one of the agendas is also to cut defense by 50 percent to pay for that spending.

We fought to save Medicare, and the Democrats fought against it, dead fought against it, $100 million of union
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 10 seconds just to say that Herbert Hoover is still alive and Herbert Hoover is well. The same accusations that were made against President Franklin Roosevelt for the Social Security System we hear today.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. LEVIN).

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. LEVIN) that we have a balanced budget, that we are going to have tax relief, not for the rich, as the Karl Marx-Engels class warfare Democrats talk about, but we are going to have a tax break for working Americans.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY).

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the Democratic motion to instruct conferences on the Republican tax bill.

America needs a fiscally responsible tax bill, not an excessive and reckless $800 billion tax cut, almost a trillion dollar tax cut. A tax bill of this magnitude would be compliant with the Senate provisions that must be complied with, there is not $1 of revenue loss outside of the 10-year window. So the gentleman needs to find a new chart for his next speech.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY).

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the Democratic motion to instruct conferences on the Republican tax bill.

My constituents have demanded this Congress strengthen and protect Social Security and Medicare as well as to continue to pay off the national debt, rather than give tax breaks to the top 1 percent of Americans. I am not arguing there are no Americans who need tax relief, but let me just add that no one on this side of the aisle has said no one need tax relief, but let me just add that no one on this side of the aisle has said one in this country needs some tax relief, we are saying just do not give it to the wealthiest 1 percent of Americans.

Mr. Speaker, please listen to the American people. And if my colleagues will not listen to them, they should listen to the chairman of the Federal Reserve, Mr. Greenspan, who has vocally denounced a massive tax cut initiative such as the ones passed by the House and the Senate as potentially harmful to our Nation.

This bill does not strengthen Social Security and Medicare and it does not help our crumbling schools. It does absolutely nothing, to reduce the deficit and reduce the national debt, and it does nothing, it does absolutely nothing, to help our crumbling schools. It does absolutely nothing to help middle income families who are in crisis, and are now the congressional budget for the United States of America.

Will it be easy? No, it will not be easy. We need to assure the taxpayers that the money that they send here is spent right and not wastefully, instead of merely saying we have to throw more money at it. And there is more than enough money in the Social Security surplus to pay down the Federal debt, to save Medicare.

The charts that my friend from Michigan used are a little outdated. I am sure he did not prepare them recently, in the last 24 hours. The Senate already, by their rules, prohibits any additional revenue loss outside of the 10-year window. They are shut off totally. Not $1 is permitted to be used for tax relief outside of the 10-year window.

Besides that, there are no official projections for the years after 10 years, so one can only guess. There are not official government documents, but under the Senate provisions that must be complied with, there is not $1 of revenue loss outside of the 10-year window. So the gentleman needs to find a new chart for his next speech.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY).

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the Democratic motion to instruct conferences on the Republican tax bill.
Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this motion to instruct the House. Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, because again Mr. Greenspan’s comments are taken out of context. He said that as between tax relief and spending, he would far prefer tax relief. In fact, he said, “It is not even a close call.”

The Congressional Budget Office has just certified that the President proposes to spend almost all of the projected on-budget surplus. Mr. Greenspan would most certainly say that tax relief is better than spending from the surplus. In fact, he did say it and he will continue to say it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. Moore).

Mr. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, I also would like to speak to the last gentleman who spoke and say that I also heard Mr. Greenspan in the Committee on Banking and Financial Services. I heard what he said, and what he said was, “My first preference is to pay down debt.” My first preference is to pay down debt. Now, maybe the majority knows something Alan Greenspan does not, but I do not think so. I do not think so.

We have a $5.6 trillion debt in this country. We have an opportunity for the first time in a generation to do the right thing and put our financial house in order. The question is whether we will step up to the plate and do that or we will take the money and run and hand the debt to our children and grandchildren.

It is simply not right. It is unconscionable and we should not do it. The fiscally prudent and the financially sound thing to do is to use 50 percent to pay down the debt, 25 percent for tax relief, and 25 percent for Social Security and Medicare.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire how much time is remaining on each side?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARCHER) has 14 minutes remaining, and the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) has 13 minutes remaining.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. PORTMAN), a respected member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I would like to say that he deserves a lot of credit for getting this bill through the House and for having spent this weekend working with the Senate to come up with a compromise package that will, in the end, be able to give taxpayers the relief that they so well deserve.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to the motion to instruct. I was watching it in my office and thought I should come over and talk about the fact that the Financial Freedom Act that the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARCHER) and others have put together, so many of us have had a part in this, is, in fact, not fiscally responsible. By simply taking what is $3 trillion in projected surpluses over the next 10 years and allowing the taxpayers to keep a little more of their hard-earned money, roughly one-third of that amount, rather than spending it here in Washington on new programs, it comes down to a philosophical difference, really. The philosophical difference is that Republicans believe people should be able to keep more of their hard-earned money, and the other side believes that it ought to be spent.

Now, we have talked about Alan Greenspan here a lot today. I heard Alan Greenspan testify before the Committee on Ways and Means, and I questioned him. He was very straightforward. He said if it is going to be spent or it is going to be sent back in terms of tax relief, he would far prefer tax relief. In fact, he said it is not even a close call.

Now, Alan Greenspan may believe if it were to stay here in Washington that it would be used to reduce the surplus. I find that hard to believe when I look at the President’s own budget proposal, which in fact spends the money. In fact, in this tax bill there is more debt relief than there is in the President’s proposal, based on what the Congressional Budget Office, the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office, just told us last week.

Second, I believe that if we look simply at the record of the last 40 years, we see that every time there is indeed a surplus in this town, Congress turns around and spends it, expanding Federal programs already in place and creating new programs.

Second, I believe that if we look simply at the record of the last 40 years, we see that every time there is indeed a surplus in this town, Congress turns around and spends it, expanding Federal programs already in place and creating new programs.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER).

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the Republican tax message is one that we cannot trust Congress to act responsibly with the surplus. They say, get the money out of town before it even arrives here yet. Is it not a little bit ironic to think their theme is one cannot trust the Congress to manage money wisely, when they in fact are in the majority? Do my colleagues not think that we could be disciplined enough just to run one true budget surplus before we spend what we do not even have yet?

If a business had borrowed money from a bank to operate for 25 years straight and for the first time in 25 years showed a small profit, would we not think we would try to pay down that huge debt?

Two weeks ago this House had a historic opportunity that every businessman and woman understands. That is, when faced with a choice of paying down the debt or spending the surplus, we should pay down the debt. We had a motion on the floor that would dedicate 50 percent of the on-budget surplus to paying down the debt, 25 percent to tax cuts, 25 percent to priority spending needs such as Medicare and Social Security.
Today we are trying again.
Where have all the fiscal conservatives gone in the Republican Party? Fiscal conservatives do not spend money that we do not even have yet. Fiscal conservatives do not ignore the advice of Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan. Fiscal conservatives do not gamble with our economic security, our health security, our retirement security. Fiscal conservatives understand that paying down the debt means lower interest rates. Fiscal conservatives do not pass on debts to our children and our grandchildren. And fiscal conservatives do not backload tax cuts into an uncertain future.

The President is right to veto this bill. We can take it up next year. What is the rush anyway? There is only $5 billion in tax cuts next year out of the $792 billion in the bill, and half of that is extenders.

Only six-tenths of 1 percent of the tax relief will be effective next year, fiscal year 2000. The 10 percent across-the-board tax cut, the increase in standard deduction to reduce the marriage penalty, those could not even happen next year. There is little tax relief in the bill next year, so what is the rush?

I say pay down the debt. Do what is right for our children, right for Social Security, right for Medicare, and right for America.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, what is the time proration again, please?
The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The gentleman from Texas (Mr. ARCHER) has 10 1⁄2 minutes remaining. The gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) has 11 minutes remaining. The gentleman from New York has the right to close.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. BECERRA), a member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. BECERRA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the motion to instruct. I hope we will vote for this motion to be responsible and to be prudent.

We have to remember, we are not at a crap table in Washington, D.C. This is not Vegas. And I have seen the trick made with the $3. I hope that all Americans understand that the $3 we keep hearing about, these $3 which represent $3 trillion, when we talk $2 trillion being saved for Social Security, we are not saving it for Social Security; we are just telling all the people who contributed this money, the Social Security contributors, the taxpayers who gave out of that payroll taxes that money, that we are going to reserve it.

Because that is what it was supposed to go for. It was never meant to be spent for tax cuts or something else. So when my colleagues talk about the three, take the two off the table. Because no one would want us to play with that money.

When we take out of people’s paycheck every month Social Security taxes, we do not tell them it is for tax cuts or anything else. We tell them it is for their retirement.

So we are left with $1 trillion, this $1 bill. Most of that, under this Republican bill, would go to tax cuts, some $800 billion dollars.

Now, if we take that $800 billion tax cut, two-thirds of all that money, two-thirds of this $1 trillion is going to go to 10 percent of all of America. The 10 percent wealthiest tax filers get two-thirds of this dollar. That means the remaining one-third is left 90 percent of America. That is what we get with this tax bill.

But forget about all that because all this is just projections. We do not know what kind of surplus we will have. The projection is we will have a large surplus. This is like playing craps on a crap table. They are shooting and hoping and praying that they win.

But what happens if they do not? Let me put it to my colleagues this way: the average tax cut for someone who earns about $50,000, a couple who earns about $50,000 under the Republican tax bill is about $200 per year. And that is when we have got some of these provisions fully phased in. Because, by the way, in the year 2000 no one is going to get $200 in tax relief if they earned about $50,000. They have got to wait until all these provisions are phased in.

But say they are all phased in. They get $200 in tax cuts. They are not going to have it. Because all they have to do is save that money, use it for debt relief; and if they have a $20,000 debt, interest rates go down by one percent, they will save $200. Do not vote for the tax bill. Vote for this motion to instruct.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I have so many speakers, perhaps the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means might yield some time to us so that we could allow the Members to speak out.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. RANGEL. I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I would be happy to yield adequate time to anyone on the side of my colleague who wants to speak against the motion to instruct.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, that does not sound fair. Let me say this. Would the chairman permit me to have all of the Democrats speak and then close the argument debate?

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will continue to yield, I served in the minority for 24 years, where I was greatly outnumbered. So I feel very comfortable today being by myself here.

Mr. RANGEL. Well, I guess that makes sense. But what I am trying to do is to find out whether or not my colleague intends to be the last speaker before I close the debate. Because I have half a dozen people here and I just want to know, with the time being what it is, I have 8 minutes and my colleague has 11, I do not know how to space it.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will continue to yield, when he gets to his last speaker, then I will be glad to yield the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Very good. I understand.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT), a member of the committee.

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, this Republican tax bill has declared Christmas while it sizzles.

On this Christmas tree that has been erected here in Washington, one will find a package wrapped up for anyone who has a lobbyist and a political action committee.

There is one break after another. They think nothing of having the taxpayers subsidize 80 percent of the cost of a $100 bottle of cabernet or a two-martini lunch. They want the taxpayers to subsidize our defense contractors to go out and start more arms races around the world. And these con- ferences will even be considering a tax subsidy for chicken manure, something that many people have said symbolizes this entire bill.

Instead of simplifying the Tax Code, this bill makes the Tax Code even more complex, and it certainly does not reduce the abusive billions of dollars that occur in corporate tax shelters that all the rest of us end up having to pay. And of course when it comes to fairness, this Christmas tree, while it sizzles, is one that provides a third of its proposed individual tax benefits to the wealthiest one percent of Americans.

It is truly amusing to listen to this debate about Alan Greenspan. After all, what difference does it, really make? Well, the difference I think centers on the fact that he is a President Ronald Reagan appointee, an admitted Republican, who has been given credit by many people, Democrats and Republicans, for the success of our economic expansion.

It has been said he would prefer tax cuts to spending. My guess is he prefers tax cuts to death, as well. But that is not the alternative that he was presented. There is the alternative instead of this massive tax cut bill of reducing the Federal debt. When he was asked last week about this House and Senate Republican approach to taxes, he said
Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to gentleman from Arizona (Mr. HAYWORTH), a respected member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. HAYWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, the esteemed chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means, for yielding me the time.

As I walked onto the floor, Mr. Speaker, I was greeted by the familiar incendiary rhetoric of my friend from Texas. While I appreciate his ability to frame in the most extreme terms what is a reasonably prudent bill and action to give the American people more of their hard-earned dollars, give it back to them, I do find it interesting that my friend from Texas supported tax reduction in 1997 when this government was still in a deficit and yet he would use all matters of extreme rhetoric to try and mischaracterize the essence of what we are doing here as the responsible majority in the United States House of Representatives as we prepare to go to conference with our friends from the other body.

I think the motion offered from my good friend from New York (Mr. RANGEL), the ranking member of the committee, shows the length to which the minority will go to separate the American on their hard-earned money. It is sad but true, and the rhetoric indicates it and so does the motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, as we have documented before, we talk so much about billions and trillions of dollars in this body and before, we talk so much about billions and billions of dollars that this government proposes. It is sad but true, and the rhetoric of the Democratic Speaker, I was greeted by the familiar incendiary rhetoric of my friend from Texas. While I appreciate his ability to frame in the most extreme terms what is a reasonably prudent bill and action to give the American people more of their hard-earned dollars, give it back to them, I do find it interesting that my friend from Texas supported tax reduction in 1997 when this government was still in a deficit and yet he would use all matters of extreme rhetoric to try and mischaracterize the essence of what we are doing here as the responsible majority in the United States House of Representatives as we prepare to go to conference with our friends from the other body.

I think the motion offered from my good friend from New York (Mr. RANGEL), the ranking member of the committee, shows the length to which the minority will go to separate the American on their hard-earned money. It is sad but true, and the rhetoric indicates it and so does the motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, as we have documented before, we talk so much about billions and trillions of dollars in this body and on the airwaves across America that sometimes we tend to lose focus about what it is our common sense majority proposes.

I think the best way to characterize it, Mr. Speaker and my colleagues, is to ask us to take a look at these $3 bills and let them represent the $3 trillion of surplus that this government will have in the years to come. This is what we propose to do, to lock away almost $2 trillion dollars to save Social Security and Medicare. And that leaves the resultant dollar gap.

This is the crux of the question, when we get through all the legislative legalese and the name calling, this question remains at the end of the day. It would be "creating a risk that I don’t think we need."

We do not need to jeopardize either Social Security or our economic success. The leading Republican economist in this country is the one who said we ought not to do it. If he were here tonight, he would be endorsing the motion of the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL), which is only a modestly prudent and fiscally responsible bipartisan alternative; and it ought to be preferred over this tax break and borrow-more scheme that is being advanced by our Republican colleagues.

To whom does this money belong? We would say, in the common sense majority, this money belongs to the people who earned it, not to the Washington bureaucrats. Let us take this money and return it to the hardworking taxpayers who have been called on again and again and again to feed the gaping maw which is this insatiable Washington bureaucracy.

And so the gentleman’s motion to instruct conferees again asks us, after we have seen the largest tax increase in American history, so extreme a tax increase that over 10 years’ time it asked for an additional $800 billion from the pockets of every American, we are told somehow that is responsible, a tax increase so extreme that it was retroactive, to take money from taxpayers beyond the grave in terms of the death tax. What we simply say is, Americans have had enough of this. We should put the death tax to death, we should reduce the marriage penalty, and I am glad my friend from Texas mentioned the special interests. Because, as we have seen throughout the years, no one accedes to the special interests more than the previous liberal majority.

Mr. Speaker, I stand with my friends on the right. Reject the motion to instruct conferees.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York for yielding me this time. I rise to support the motion to instruct.

Mr. Speaker, I wish we had time for a philosophical debate as was just given by my esteemed colleague, but we have business. I would simply tell him that from the far reaches of my district and the people that I have spoken to, businesspersons, they say they do not want a tax cut that is so enormous that it damages Social Security and Medicare, they do not want a tax cut that will increase the national debt by $1 trillion over the next 10 years, will increase the national debt by an additional $4.4 trillion over the next 10 years. What they want is a family-friendly, middle-income tax cut and what the Harris County citizens want is the ability to support the Harris County Hospital District with Medicare and Medicaid dollars so that we do not have to cut 165 beds, cut the treatment for AIDS and cancer, and I would imagine the public hospital systems around this Nation are crying now because we are taking $800 billion away from treating sick people, closing beds, denying them service.

What we want is a motion to instruct to protect Social Security, Medicare, and provide more Medicaid dollars. I would hope my colleague from Texas and all of my colleagues, Republicans and Democrats, will come down on the side of middle-income tax cuts and saving Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the one thing that has not been debated tonight yet is what is in the Democrats’ motion to instruct. One thing that is not in it is a 10 percent across-the-board tax relief to all working Americans and families, men and women who made this surplus possible. What is not in it is marriage penalty relief for millions of Americans who are being punished simply because they got married. That is not in their motion to instruct. They do not include education incentives on student loan interest payments, education savings accounts, and making prepaid college tuition plans tax-free. Those education provisions are not in their motion to instruct. Health care provisions, providing a tax deduction for people who buy their own health insurance and for long-term care, help for people who take care of their elderly in their own homes. Our plan has those provisions. It is nowhere to be found in the Democrats’ motion to instruct. The Democrat motion has no strengthening of our pension system to help more American workers, particularly women, get a pension and have greater retirement security. No, that is not in their motion.

To 100 million American investors, the Democrats say, “Sorry, you’ve got to keep paying taxes on your savings every time you sell an asset.” To 68 million Americans who have small savings accounts, the Democrats have no provision in their motion to instruct to help. And the Democrats’ tax cut is because that is what they proposed in their substitute, and this motion does not even lessen the unfair death tax or the punitive alternative minimum tax. This motion is a turnback to the days of expensive taxes and away from the days of economic growth and opportunity for every American.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I think the biggest problem with this tax cut is that it is built upon a false assumption, a false assumption that at least the majority party is not willing to admit, and that is, that of the $792 billion tax cut, $720 billion is attributable to cutting agriculture by 33 percent, the FBI by 28 percent. Are you going to cut transporation by 23 percent, are going to cut defense by $68 billion? You are not going to do it.
The Committee on Appropriations met last week. It did not do it. It will not do it. And so if you do not do it, $720 billion of the $792 billion tax cuts is not there. It evaporates because it is built upon a false assumption. You know it and we know it and that's why you should support this truthful instruction.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP).

Mr. CAMP. I thank the distinguished gentleman for yielding me this time. Mr. Speaker, I think it is important to point out that we are here talking about this measure only after we have a balanced budget. We have passed legislation to set aside the surplus to save Social Security and Medicare. We have locked that Social Security surplus away in a lockbox, and we are talking about part of what is left.

I think it is important to point out that the average American family, and I repeat, the average American family today pays double in taxes what it paid only in 1985. Today's tax burden is the highest ever in peacetime history.

I think the key question is, should your hard-earned tax dollars stay here in Washington to be spent on new Federal programs? Or should they be returned to you, the taxpayer, who sent them here in the first place? I think the answer is pretty clear that you, the taxpayer, deserves the money.

We have over $1 trillion in non-Social Security surplus, and I think we absolutely must return the taxpayers' money to the people who sent it here. Our bill means that the average Michigan factory worker and his family will save $1,000 in income taxes. Our across-the-board rate reduction will save the seniors who live in my district over $500 in income taxes, and, if that senior has a mutual fund, will cut her investment rate so that more of her savings can stay with her, not the government.

Mr. Speaker, I believe tax relief is needed. There is no doubt about that. We have balanced the budget, we have passed the balanced budget, we have avoided deficit spending, and we have a plan that pays down the debt.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the motion to instruct. There is not a $200 billion increase in the national debt over the next 5 years. There is not a $3 trillion increase in our national debt from 2011 to 2020, or $1.5 trillion of additional debt when you add in interest. That is also not in the Democratic motion to instruct. The motion to instruct is truly a debate about priorities and values. The priorities, we believe very strongly this is the time for us to use that which we have to invest it in saving our country, our country, that is, to pay down our national debt. We do have a surplus. This is the time for us to be fiscally responsible and pay down the national debt. This is the time for us to be dealing with a very special surplus, the Social Security surplus, of which the gentleman from Texas certainly knows and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Staw) here knows that unless we do some things of a responsible nature soon, we will have huge problems in 2011. That is what we ought to be doing. That is what the motion to instruct is all about. Do not have a tax cut today. What we should be debating this week before we go home is Social Security reform. What we ought to be dealing with is Medicare and Medicaid reform. We ought to have the debate on this floor right now dealing with the problems of our hospitals around the country that are saying to us, "Unless you deal with some of our problems by October the 1st, we must close." That is what we ought to be doing.

Really and truly what this motion to instruct is all about is just saying 'no' to a tax cut before dealing with Social Security, let us deal with Medicare first and then let us bring a tax cut to the floor.

If we would only do that, we would send the kind of message to our children and grandchildren that they would hear. We should not be spending their future inheritance today based on our desires and all of the wonderful things that we say today. We ought to be paying down the debt so that they will have an opportunity for the same kind of future.

Although a lot of numbers get thrown around in the budget discussions, this is really a debate about priorities and values. This motion to instruct says that meeting our obligations for Social Security and Medicare first reducing the debt burden on future generations should be a higher priority than current consumption for tax cuts or new spending.

We should put our fiscal house in order before we talk about tax cuts or new spending. We should agree to lock up a substantial portion of the surpluses outside of the Social Security trust fund to pay down national debt and deal with Social Security and Medicare before we start talking about how to carve up the surplus between tax cuts and new spending. How can we talk about having surpluses to spend when we still have a substantial national debt and huge unfunded liabilities facing Social Security and Medicare?

The tax bills passed by the House and Senate do not deal with these obligations and do not reduce the burden on future generations at all. Even if we stick with the lock box and save the Social Security surplus, this will not reduce the total national debt—it just shifts the debt from one part of the ledger to another.

While my Republican colleagues are correct when they say that the lockbox requires us to use the $2 trillion in Social Security surpluses to pay down the debt held by the public, they forget to mention the rest of the story: that we will be accumulating $2 trillion in IOUs to the Social Security trust fund at the same time. If the lockbox is successful in requiring us to save future Social Security surpluses, it will prevent us from paying the debt. But not only does this lockbox have no impact at all on the amount of new spending that will happen tomorrow, it won't do anything about the $5.6 trillion hole we have already dug for ourselves.

Despite all of the talk about the debt reduction trigger added to the tax bill, the debt left for future generations to pay would not be one dime smaller than the tax bill passed by the House. In fact, the national debt would increase by $200 billion over the next five years under the Republican tax bill according to their own numbers.

My Republican friends will say that the President's budget would increase the debt as well because his budget uses some of the surpluses for new spending. I agree with much of those criticisms, but that is not what we are talking about today. The motion before us today provides that we should reduce the debt and deal with Social Security and Medicare before we talk about tax cuts or new spending.

The only way to truly reduce burden on future generations is to lock up a significant portion of the non-Social Security surpluses to reduce debt held by public. That is what this motion to instruct calls on our conferees to do. Paying down the national debt is the most important thing Congress can do to maintain a strong and growing economy with low inflation and providing working men and women with a tax cut in the form of lower mortgages, lower credit card payments, etc. Reducing our $5.4 trillion national debt will reduce the burden left to future generations by reducing the amount of the federal budget that will be consumed by interest payments.

The motion to recommit will provide an opportunity to begin a bipartisan process to achieve a responsible budget arrangement. Members on both sides of the aisle have said they agree with the Blue Dog budget approach of paying down our national debt, dealing with Social Security and Medicare, and then dealing with tax cuts.

Voting for the motion to instruction would send a strong message to the conferees, the leadership in Congress and the President that we are committed to a fiscally responsible, bipartisan budget that is based on the principles of paying down the national debt, dealing with our obligations before agreeing to tax cuts or new spending.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. BERG).

Mr. BERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the motion to instruct. The tax bill passed by the House and Senate do not deal with these obligations and do not reduce the burden on future generations at all. Even if we stick with the lock box and save the Social Security surplus, this will not reduce the total national debt—it just shifts the debt from one part of the ledger to another.

The motion to instruct is truly a debate about priorities and values. The priorities, we believe very strongly this is the time for us to use that which we have to invest it in saving our country, our country, that is, to pay down our national debt. We do have a surplus. This is the time for us to be fiscally responsible and pay down the national debt. This is the time for us to be dealing with a very special surplus, the Social Security surplus, of which the gentleman from Texas certainly knows and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Staw) here knows that unless we do some things of a responsible nature soon, we will have huge problems in 2011. That is what we ought to be doing. pay down the debt, deal with Social Security and Medicare first, and then talk about tax cuts. Do not spend projected revenues we know just do not exist and certainly do not exist today.

Let us take this terrible burden of a $5.6 trillion national debt off our children. Vote for the motion to instruct.

Mr. ARCHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SHAW), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Social Security.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida), The gentleman from Florida is recognized for 2 minutes.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

In looking at what is before us and the guidelines in which the tax bill that is presently going to conference is drawn, and looking at that in comparison with the motion to instruct, these tax bills, both the House and the Senate, were very carefully drawn and crafted within the budget limitations. I think it is important for the people of this House to realize that the budget that passed out of the Senate and, under which this tax bill is tailored, pays down the debt more than the President’s budget.

We have heard a lot of rhetoric this afternoon regarding Social Security.

There is a bill, that will be filed shortly, that the people on both sides of the aisle are fully versed in, that is the Archer-Shaw bill that could save Social Security for all time. There is ample money to save Social Security and save Medicare and pay down the debt and give the taxpayers some relief.

The previous speaker, I know he did not mean to be flip, but he talked about funny money. This is not funny money. This is the taxpayers’ hard-earned dollars, and I think when my colleagues find that we are moving forward, that we have created a surplus, I think it is important that we not pay down the debt, which I agree with, the accumulated debt must be reduced; but I think it is also important that we let the taxpayer keep some of their own money.

This is hard-earned dollars. The taxpayers are paying far too much money today, and when we put all the taxes together that the taxpayers pay, let us reject this motion to instruct, and let us let the conference go about their task of conferenceing this most important bill and give the taxpayers some relief that they so richly deserve.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KLECZKA) to close out the debate on the motion to instruct the conferences.

Mr. KLECZKA. Mr. Speaker, I would like to respond to some of the items that have been brought up in debate.

Let me start out by saying I support the motion to instruct, and my Republican colleagues know full well that after their tax bill is vetoed, we are going to be back to precisely what we are talking about today, a tax cut which would give back about 25 percent of the projected, projected surplus.

My good friend from Florida talks about funny money. The thing that is funny about the money is it is not here yet. I have heard this afternoon Members come up and say, give it back, it is not easy to balance the budget, but we did it. My friends and colleagues as we close out this fiscal year, the budget is not in surplus, but in a $5 billion deficit, and for those who say, give it back, we do not have it. It is a projection over the next 10 years based on some very rosy assumptions, very low inflation. One economic downturn. Mr. Speaker, and those dollars will not be here.

In fact, I said it before, and I will say it again. I have a better chance at winning the lottery than this government having a trillion dollars surplus over the next 10 years.

We have had unheralded economic success over the last 4 years. To think it is going to continue for 14 and then for another 10 to make it 24 is totally absurd.

The motion before us says, let us pay down the debt. The gentleman says already we are paying down the debt. If the Congress will go home for 2 years, that debt would be paid down because it is a double counting of the Social Security surplus. Do not kid a kidder. That is going to happen with or without the Congress doing anything.

But what we are saying in our motion is let us take it down even further. It is in excess of $5 trillion. The Republican tax bill expands all the money and leaves no room for modernizing Medicare. What happens to the extra dollars that are there? We spend it on the national debt. So to say that we are doing Social Security and Medicare is totally false.

The bill will be vetoed. I ask my colleagues to vote for the motion to recommit, vote for the motion to instruct, because in October that is exactly what we are going to do any way.

Mr. PACKARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to express my extreme concern over the President’s threat to veto H.R. 2488, the Financial Freedom Act of 1999. This legislation offers nearly $800 billion in tax relief for America’s families, including eliminating the death tax, reducing the marriage penalty tax and capital gains tax, a 10 percent across the board income tax reduction for all Americans.

The President opposes the Financial Freedom Act because he claims this legislation does not secure Social Security. This is false. The fact is, H.R. 2488 leaves more than $2 trillion for Social Security and Debt Reduction, which exceeds the amount requested in the President’s own budget.

Mr. Speaker, tax relief is the right thing to do. H.R. 2688 gives the surplus back to those who created it, the American taxpayer. Over the next ten years, the government will receive an average $5,307 more in taxes from each American family than it needs to operate. If families continue to overpay the federal government in taxes, Washington will just spend it on more big government programs. Mr. Speaker, it is time we let those who worked for the money spend it as they see fit.

I urge the President to reconsider his position against American taxpayers and support the Financial Freedom Act. Government should do more for its citizens than raise their taxes and feed the federal bureaucracy.

The SPEAKER pro tempore.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present.

The Sergeant at Arms will notify absent Members.

The Chair announces that proceedings will resume immediately following this vote on two motions to suspend the rules postponed from earlier today. The first vote on the motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 747 will be not less than 15 minutes in length, followed by a 5-minute vote on the motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 1219.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were yeas 205, nays 215, not voting 15, as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT REGARDING AMENDMENT PROCESS FOR H.R. 417, CAMPAIGN FINANCE REFORM ACT OF 1999

Mr. REYNOLDS, Mr. Speaker, a “Dear Colleague” letter will be sent to all Members informing them that the Committee on Rules is planning to meet this week to grant a rule which may limit the amendment process for floor consideration of H.R. 417, the Bipartisan Campaign Finance Reform Act of 1999.

The Committee on House Administration ordered H.R. 417 reported this evening, and is expected to file its committee report on Wednesday, August 4. Any Member wishing to offer an amendment should submit 55 copies and a brief explanation of the amendment to the Committee on Rules in room H–312 of the Capitol by 4 p.m. on Wednesday, August 4. Amendments should be drafted to the bill as ordered reported by the Committee on House Administration. Copies of the bill may be obtained from the Committee on House Administration, and is also expected to be posted on that committee’s web site.

Members should use the Office of Legislative Counsel to ensure that their amendments are properly drafted and should check with the Office of the Parliamentarian to be certain their amendments comply with the rules of the House.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on further consideration of the bill (H.R. 2296), making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alabama?

There was no objection.

REQUEST FOR CONSIDERATION OF S. 1467

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker’s table the bill (S. 1467) and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is not able to entertain the gentleman’s request.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), I understand, is reserving the right to object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHUSTER) is not recognized for that purpose.

Mr. SHUSTER. May I ask why the gentleman is objecting? Is it in order, Mr. Speaker, for me to ask why the gentleman is objecting?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s guidelines, the Chair is not recognizing the gentleman from Pennsylvania for that purpose at this time.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFEREES ON H.R. 2488, FINANCIAL FREEDOM ACT OF 1999

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the Chair announces the Speaker’s appointment of the following conferees on the bill (H.R. 2488) to provide the reconciliation pursuant to sections 105 and 211 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2000:

- For consideration of the House bill, and the Senate amendment, and modifications of:
  - Messrs. ARCHER, ARMY, CRANE, THOMAS, RANGEL, and STARK.

- As additional conferees for consideration of sections 313, 315–316, 318, 325, 329, 338, 341–42, 344–45, 351, 362–63, 365, 369, 371, 381, 1261, 1305, and 1406 of the Senate amendment, and modifications committed to conference:
  - Messrs. GOODLING, BOEHNER, and CLAY.

There was no objection.

FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2000

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 263 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill, H.R. 2606.

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H.R. 2606) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes, with Mr. THORNBERRY in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The CHAIRMAN. When the Committee of the Whole rose on Thursday, July 29, 1999, amendment No. 3 printed in part B of House Report 106–269 by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PITTS) had been disposed of.

Under the order of the House of that day, it is now necessary to consider amendment No. 6 printed in the Congressional Record by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

AMENDMENT NO. 6 OFFERED BY MR. ANDREWS

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 6 offered by Mr. ANDREWS: Page 116, after line 5, insert the following:

"PROHIBITION ON FUNDS FOR NEW OPIC PROJECTS

SEC. 585. None of the funds made available by this Act may be used for new guarantee, insurance, reinsurance, or financial participation by the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, after the enactment of this Act, for the issuance of any guarantee, insurance, reinsurance, or financial participation, or for initiating any other activity which the Corporation is otherwise authorized to undertake.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the previous order of the House, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) and a Member opposed each will control 15 minutes.

Does the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) seek to control the time in opposition?

Mr. CALLAHAN. Yes, I do, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that my time be halved with the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), and that she be given the authority to yield the time for her 7½ minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alabama?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) is recognized for 15 minutes.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.
Mr. Chairman, in 1996, this House voted to end welfare as we know it for single men, and for people struggling to raise families in America. The amendment says that it is time for us to end corporate welfare as we know it.

The amendment says that the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, OPIC, will be precluded from initiating new deals, new transactions, with the money that is in this underlying bill. It says that DuPont and General Electric, and McDonald’s, and some of the largest corporations in the world, ought to risk their capital in risky international investments, not the capital of the American taxpayers.

Now, I have had the opportunity to outline my views previously on Thursday night, but I want to quickly summarize them before yielding to support—opposition amendment.

We will no doubt hear that this will cause chaos at OPIC. It will not. This amendment does not interfere with the ongoing operation and the wind-down of the entity. It simply says that funds should be used to effectuate that wind-down rather than to initiate new deals.

We will hear that this will have a devastating effect on U.S. investment overseas. Frankly, the huge majority, the immense majority of private investments by U.S. corporations overseas have nothing to do with OPIC. They have to do with the judgments of entrepreneurs and investors in the global market every day.

We will hear that somehow or another this is unilateral disarmament in the war on trade. It is nothing of the sort. It is the recognition that the real engine of international growth for the U.S. economy is not the taxpayers’ pockets, but the entrepreneurs taking a risk.

This is one of the few amendments I have seen that is supported by Ralph Nader and Milton Friedman. And that is probably all people need to know about why they should support it.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to yield the 7½ minutes that has been yielded to me to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ) and that he be allowed to control that time.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from California?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ) will control the 7½ minutes.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL), the distinguished Democrat on the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Chairman, I oppose this amendment. It really puts a damper on American entrepreneurial investment in America to foreign countries, this Member recommends they examine closely what kind of programs OPIC is supporting and what kind of so-called foreign jobs are being created. The United States cannot supply raw electric power to Egypt. We can supply American-made power generating equipment and services. How is selling power generating equipment and years of spare parts and services taking jobs away from Americans?

The United States does not grow tea. Therefore, how does investing in a tea plantation in Rwanda steal American jobs? Indeed, it supports U.S. jobs insofar as the tea operations need tools, machines, trucks and other services—and these are products and services made by American labor.

The United States is not home to the great Afritors. Most of our infrastructure—construction materials, furnishing, vehicles, and services—these goods and services Americans produce and sell.

OPIC-backed projects around the world are U.S. small businesses. Over the next 4 years it is estimated that OPIC projects will generate $23 billion more in America exports. $6 billion of those exports are to be from over 150 American small businesses.

OPIC has proven itself to be a successful supporter of American foreign policy. OPIC mobilizes private sector investment in support of U.S. foreign policy at no cost to the American taxpayer. The Andrews amendment would mean no support for U.S. investment in high priority foreign policy areas. It would mean no support for U.S. investment in Sub-Saharan Africa, $4 billion in Central America and the Caribbean, and $8 billion for development of Caspian Sea energy resources.

Since 1971, OPIC supported projects which have resulted in the export of $58 billion of American products. More than $2.8 billion in American exports were generated by OPIC supported projects in 1998 alone.

With respect to the Andrews-Sandera-Sanford amendment, I would have to say that it hurts American competitiveness and benefits our foreign competitors. Most of our developing nations, like France, Germany and Japan, offer a comprehensive array of export and overseas investment support. They clearly understand the importance of such programs in supporting jobs and economic growth at home. The U.S. spends less per capita, as a percentage of GDP, and in dollar terms on supporting private sector investment in developing countries than any other major competitor country.

Mr. Chairman, the support OPIC provides is not corporate welfare and has not eliminated American jobs as the “Dear Colleague” letter circulately recently complained. Caterpillar was
Mr. SANFORD, one of the co-authors of this amendment and a person who has been very diligent about cutting costs for the American public.

Mr. SANFORD. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. I support this amendment and am, indeed, a cosponsor on this amendment because it makes sense to the United States taxpayer.

This amendment is not about the inefficiency of OPIC. As government organizations go, it is quite efficient. It is not about the management. It has a good management. I have met with George Munoz, who is head of OPIC. The issue that this amendment gets to is not OPIC able to handle the mandate that it has been given, but rather is that mandate in the best interest of the United States taxpayer. And I think if we look under the hood on this, we would come to the conclusion that no is the answer.

First, Mr. Chairman, there is a financial risk to the U.S. taxpayer with OPIC. OPIC was given a billion dollars of seed money in 1971 when OPIC was begun, and yet if we look, since 1971 there has not been, for instance, a world war. These loans or guarantees are backed with the full faith and credit of the United States Government. If there was a war, we would see the cost to those guarantees. There has not been a global depression since 1971. If there was a severe economic downturn, we would see the cost to those guarantees.

I think if we look in Brazil, where there is $1.9 billion of taxpayer exposure, OPIC itself has said that fully half of their portfolio could be affected by the crisis there. The same could be said, for instance, in Russia. So, one, there is a contingent liability that goes back to the United States taxpayer.

With the money that was originally provided, interest is earned on that money. And if we look at the income statement of last year, $139 million was the net income and $135 million came in as a result of these interest payments. That leaves a loss of $54 million.

Admittedly, $54 million is not a lot of money in Washington, but back home that is a lot of money. In fact, I did a back-of-the-envelope calculation, and it would take 15,500 taxpayers, average taxpayers, working and paying taxes for a full year, to send Washington $54 million.

This consideration is that it does cost American jobs. And that is not my opinion or the opinion of the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS). That is the opinion of Time magazine. They did a three-part series on corporate welfare. What they found was, for instance, a $29 million loan guarantee for Levi Strauss and Company to build a manufacturing plant in Turkey, while, at the same time, the Labor Department was handing out unemployment and training benefits for 6,400 American workers who had been laid off in 11 American plants with Levi Strauss and Company. The point of that article was saying that the two were directly correlated.

Finally, I would just make mention of the fact that this changes markets. If we change a market, we change where an investment can be made. And so what we are doing is subsidizing development off our coast. And as well, what we are doing is preventing a marketplace from developing with other insurers.

This is a need that needs to take place, but it could be easily handled by the Lloyds of London, who are not in the United States. London, nobody could come in and fill that gap. Lloyds of London, nobody could come in and fill that gap.

In fact, OPIC has been partnering with Lloyds of London on being able to come up to a relationship whereby part of this type of insurance can be privatized. The reason we need OPIC is so that we can be on an even keel with our exporting partners around the world.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I am strongly supporting this amendment, which would strike a good blow against the $125 billion a year we are currently spending on corporate welfare. us they believe in government insurance. This is what it is.

Now, it is interesting, however. This is not government insurance for middle-class homeowners. This is not government insurance for those people who are paying outrageous premiums for automobile insurance. No, no, no. We do not get government insurance for that.

But if they are J.P. Morgan, they can get government insurance for a $200 million investment in an oil field in Angola. If they are Texaco, they get government insurance for $139 million for investment of a power generating project in the Philippines. If they are the Chase Manhattan Bank, they get socialized insurance.

Here we have conservative Republicans, corporate Democrats telling us government, government is too big for them.

Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that we should note in Indonesia right now OPIC officials are in that country, and this is a country because the government there is suggesting that an American-backed company may not be able to make as much money as they wanted; and if that in fact takes place, it is going to be the American taxpayer through OPIC that bails out that particular company that invested in Suharto’s dictatorship.

Mr. Chairman, another disturbing aspect of this situation is that the United States Government is providing financial incentives to the largest corporations in this country to invest abroad.

Now, some of us think that it would be a very good idea for these corporations that are investing tens of billions of dollars abroad to maybe bring that investment back to the State of Vermont and other States around this country to put our people to work at decent paying jobs.

I hear our friend say that OPIC makes money. OPIC makes money. Well, if OPIC makes money, then maybe we better think about government insurance in other areas. And if I would yield right now to any person who is opposing the Andrews amendment to tell us that they are prepared to support government insurance for homeowners and automobile people who need automobile insurance.

Are they in favor of that, Mr. Chairman? Not. I ask the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ).

Only government insurance for the large multinational corporations. Let us stop corporate welfare. Let us support the Andrews amendment.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. GEJDENSON), ranking Democrat of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. GEJDENSON. Mr. Chairman, I would join my friend from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS) in having universal health coverage, but that is not the debate today. The debate today is whether this amendment has good intentions, but does not support Americans and American workers.

I would argue that $52 billion in exports that OPIC facilitated helps American workers, that almost $3 billion in the U.S. the Treasury in fees from these corporations, not welfare, but charges to these corporations giving us profits in every year that OPIC has operated, $20 million in 1970, in excess of $200 million in 1997, and even during the Asian financial crisis $138 million, and anticipated back over to $200 million next year.

What this does is help American jobs, helps us export manufacturing, helps America’s international national foreign policy get executed. It is cheaper and anti-Monroe Plan and it helps American jobs.

The gentlemen who are opposing this amendment have good intentions, but they are dead wrong.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), chairman of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey prohibiting OPIC from supporting any new investment projects.

This amendment would not only close down any future OPIC investments in Africa, but it would eliminate billions of dollars of OPIC-related hurricane assistance for Central America and the Caribbean. The adoption of this amendment would mean billions of dollars of future U.S. exports from ever taking place. Thousands of jobs now held by American workers would be lost, and millions of dollars in tax revenue would be unavailable to our States and local communities.

Since its inception in 1971, OPIC generated over $58 billion in U.S. exports, created more than 237,000 jobs. It operates on a self-sustaining basis and actually provides funding authority to pay for the humanitarian development assistance programs contained in the legislation we are now debating.

Accordingly, I urge my colleagues to oppose the Andrews amendment.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to my friend, the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. BACHUS).

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BACHUS. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Chairman, let me just make one thing very clear about OPIC making money. OPIC holds government bonds. The Department of the Treasury of the United States then pays interest on the government bonds.

So when we talk OPIC making profit, the profit is being paid for by taxpayers to an organization that holds government bonds. It has nothing to do with making money or having a profit.

So let us just be clear about the fact that we use this terminology carefully. We know this is a very tough fight here because it is right at the heart of subsidies to the most powerful, and we understand that it is hard to win that. But I think it is very important that when we have this debate that we be clear about it.

I am not suggesting for a second that anybody is trying to distort the truth. We have just got to get the facts about what profits are all about. It is not about any government operation making money in the marketplace. It has to do with taxpayers giving them money, which some call profits. That is in error. So we ought to be clear about what this organization actually does.

Mr. BACHUS. Mr. Chairman, reiterating my time, I would say, as chairman of the Subcommittee on Monetary Policy, I would join the chairman in his assessment on the profit it makes.

Now, we have heard that OPIC helps American workers, and we have heard that it hurts American workers. I want to focus on that one claim.

Let us look at one of these transactions. In 1997, OPIC financed the building for Levi Strauss of a garment-making factory in Turkey, a $29-million guarantee, because they did not want to finance it themselves and private insurers would not do it.

Well, what happened when Levi Strauss built that factory? They laid off 6,400 workers at U.S. garment-making factories, but in 11 locations in the United States.

Now, do my colleagues think that those 6,400 employees, if any of them are listening today, that they will buy this argument that we are creating jobs? We lost those jobs. And not only did we lose those jobs, but the Labor Department had to go in, and let me tell my colleagues what they had to do. They had to provide unemployment assistance, and they also had to provide trade adjustment assistance because of the injuries from factories which had been built in Turkey, financed by OPIC.

I strongly urge support of this amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. BLUNT), the chief deputy whip.

Mr. BLUNT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

As the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ) and others have talked about, we are in a global economy.
OPIC does open markets. OPIC has helped create jobs in this country. And OPIC charges premiums. OPIC charges premiums everywhere the world.

One of the big criticisms of OPIC is that the premiums are too high and that is why they have $3.3 billion in reserves. Now, if the premiums are too high and the private sector would be interested in going into these areas, why is it not there?

OPIC fills a void that the private sector will not go into if OPIC is eliminated. They will go into troubled countries. They go into countries that insurance companies of a private nature will not go into. These premiums have generated $139 million last year. They are expected to generate $200 million this year.

OPIC’s claims because of the way OPIC and they have become a priority whenever these troubled countries try to re-establish relationships with the United States.

No private company would have that great advantage in settling claims. That is why OPIC does not lose money. That is why OPIC does encourage trade. That is why OPIC works. That is why the private sector will not replace it if it is eliminated.

I urge my colleagues to vote against this amendment.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL).

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support for this amendment. If it were true that this agency is profitable, we would not be here. They would be making profit, and OPIC would not need to come here every year.

They are asking for $55 million. Where does the profit come from? It was stated earlier very clearly; from OPIC is not doing its job properly. They are looking for new markets to get into.

The Stewart & Stevenson Company builds turbine engines and then sells them throughout the world. And when they sell more engines, they hire more Americans to build them in my district.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) has 2 minutes remaining. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) has 2 minutes remaining. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ) has 3½ minutes remaining. The gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) has the right to close.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BENTSEN).

Mr. BENTSEN. Mr. Chairman, the reason why we have this insurance program is the same reason why we have the H U D insurance program for homeowners in this country, low-income homeowners, because the marketplace does not provide for it, just as my colleague from Missouri just said.

The other reason we have this program is because our trading partners around the world do this and do it a lot more. So if we are to pass this amendment and unilaterally withdraw from being a competitive trading Nation, we will only drive up the imports in this country, drive down the exports from this country, and cost Americans jobs.

By passing this amendment, we will not do anything to bring capital back into this country. OPIC is used in my district where we have companies that are looking for new markets to get into.

That is what is this is about. So if you want to try and find some sort of philosophy, that only the United States is going to do, it will be at the expense of the American worker.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. WU).

Mr. WU. Mr. Chairman, I rise today on behalf of small business owners and workers in my home State of Oregon in opposition to the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS). This amendment to abolish OPIC would damage the efforts of Oregon’s small businesses in opening markets overseas. In Oregon, OPIC has financed and insured projects worth $27 million. These efforts have generated $33 million in Oregon exports. Many new jobs come through businesses that supply goods and services to projects insured or financed by OPIC, businesses like Hyster Sales Company in Tigard, Oregon, and Interwrap Industries in Portland, Oregon.

OPIC helps level the playing field for American businesses of all sizes which compete for overseas projects. OPIC offers American businesses essential risk insurance for their investments in high-risk emerging markets. It provides temporary financing for investments when private sector support is lacking.

But OPIC does all of this in a fiscally sound manner. Customers which benefit from OPIC repay the full principal amount.

I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on the Andrews amendment.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY), a very articulate freshman Member.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Andrews amendment. I am not debating whether or not it is corporate welfare, but I want to talk about how OPIC must get its own house in order first as I lack confidence in this program.

I am going to tell my colleagues a story about a company in my district, Mid-American Energy, who has been working with OPIC, had used OPIC to build a power plant in Indonesia. They are pursuing to recover this lost investment.

In May 1999, OPIC required this company to go three out of five arbitrations. The company lost three and won two. And we have a story about a company in my district, Mid-American Energy, who has been working with OPIC, had used OPIC to build a power plant in Indonesia. They are pursuing to recover this lost investment.

What next? OPIC said, “That’s not good enough. We need you to do it again. We want you to go somewhere else for another arbitration.”

When OPIC loses this time, will they change the rules again? Will they require this company to go three out of five arbitrations?

Mr. Chair. Mr. Chairman, Mid-American has followed OPIC guidelines. Now it must fulfill its obligations. I urge the support of this amendment.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).
Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, let me say that I know the gentleman from New Jersey is well-intended in his beliefs, but I do believe him to be absolutely wrong.

He mentioned the fact that plants have already spent their own money in his home State without government assistance, and they are not associated with the plants that are already there, like AT&T, like Berger International, like Schick, like Johnson & Johnson. Nabisco, Squibb and Ingersoll-Rand are all using OPIC, and I am sure that the hundreds of thousands of people in my State are benefitting from the fact that they are exporting the products which could probably convince their fellow New Jerseyans that he was making a mistake.

The same with the gentleman from Alabama who stood up and talked about it. Yet in his hometown of Birmingham, Alabama, Mr. Chairman, they utilize OPIC more than any other city in the entire State. But the good thing about that is that they ship those products through the port of Mobile, and enhance the ability of the people in my district to benefit from exporting these products.

They say OPIC is not really making any money, and how the books say that, but OPIC is making $200 million a year, period. That is the fact. They are not losing money. It is true that when our countries go now into a foreign country, they are on a leverized playing field with all of the other industrialized nations that have similar programs. These are insurance programs that for the most part assure that if the government expropriates all of the properties there, that OPIC, the United States of America, will guarantee payment to the bank from which most of this money comes from for their guarantees.

This is not corporate welfare. This is a sensible export program that is vital to American industry. I would urge my colleagues to vote 'no' on the Andrews amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, is it the Chair's understanding that after this vote, there will be no more votes tonight, that the rest of the amendments that we debate tonight will be carried over until tomorrow so that this would be the last vote of the night?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman is correct. Under the rule the Chair has the authority to postpone votes on amendment and intends to do so after the vote on the Andrews amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I would urge my colleagues to vote 'no' on this last amendment.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in opposition to the Andrews amendment and in support of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, or OPIC.

Let me tell you what OPIC has meant to companies, large and small, in my State of New Jersey. With the help of risk insurance provided by OPIC since the program began, New Jersey companies have generated $3 billion in exports which supported 10,000 jobs.

I hope my colleagues from New Jersey will take note of the companies from New Jersey who needed OPIC insurance in order to sell their products abroad and thus support jobs here at home in our state of New Jersey.

Many New Jersey companies have benefited from OPIC financing and insurance. They include, among others, Copelco Capital of Mahwah, Croll Reynolds Co. of Westfield; Engelhard Pollution Control of Iselin; Guest Supply Inc. of Monmouth Junction; H.W. Baker Linen Co. of Mahwah; Ingersoll-Dresser Pump Co. of Liberty Corner; Ingersoll-Rand of Woodcliff Lake, ITT of Midland Park; Maersk Inc. of Madison; Regal International of Closter.

And what have these companies been able to do with OPIC Insurance? Let's just talk about some of the small New Jersey companies that have benefited. Misco America from Holmdel supplied products for a project in Ethiopia; Casale Industries from Garwood was involved in an electrical service project in Turkey; G.R. International from Red Bank was a supplier for the privatization of a copper mine in Peru.

So, again, I hope my colleagues from New Jersey take note of the importance of OPIC to New Jersey companies, large and small, and their employees.

OPIC is a key component in our efforts to open up markets all over the globe to U.S. products and services. Again, Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to oppose this amendment and support OPIC.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS). The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 103, noes 315, not voting 15, as follows:
Mr. WATKINS and Mr. EVERETT changed their vote from "aye" to "no." Mr. FLETCHER changed his vote from "no" to "aye." So the amendment was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated against:

Mr. SHERWOOD. Mr. Chairman, on rollcall No. 359 I was inadvertently detained. Had I been present, I would have voted "no."

□ 2030

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word in order to enter into this colloquy with the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) to explain the problem and his request.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CALLAHAN. I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, as the chairman indicated, we have a serious problem in this country with regard to individuals who are noncitizens who have been arrested for serious felonies and have been ordered deported.

They are then in the custody of the Immigration and Naturalization Service pending the acceptance back by their country of their citizenship. Unfortunately, we have many countries, well over 100 countries now, who have either refused to accept their citizens back or are unduly delaying the process of accepting them back, over 3,300 people, and we are adding approximately 60 every month to this list. These are individuals who are having to be detained in our Federal detention facilities at a cost of about $67 a day, and the cost on an annual basis is somewhere of about $80 million.

My amendment would have addressed that by simply saying to those nations, many of whom do receive assistance under this particular bill, that they would not be able to receive that assistance unless they cooperated, which is the responsibility of the government of nations to accept your citizens back once they have been ordered deported from another country, and that that would be a condition for their receiving assistance under this bill.

As the chairman has indicated, unfortunately, we did not receive the waiver from the Committee on Rules, but it is a serious problem, not only in my district, but in many other parts of the country. We cannot criticize the INS for not issuing deportation orders when we run into the problems of these over 100 countries who refuse to cooperate with that deportation process.

I want to thank the chairman for his cooperation in making the matter a matter before the House tonight. I appreciate his cooperation and look forward to working with the gentleman as we approach the Commerce, Justice and State appropriation, as hopefully we can find wording that will address the issue there. I also appreciate his willingness that if we are not successful there, to continue to work with us to find a solution.

I think the American people expect when we order a person deported, that their country will accept them back, and, if they do not, that they should not expect to receive foreign aid at the same time. Other countries, including the American taxpayers over $80 million a year.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, I would also say I believe this is the law of the land anyway. It is my understanding we are not just allowing, but consistently enforcing it; that the State Department and the Justice Department have the authority already to enforce this, and yet they are failing to do so. It is an issue that needs to be addressed by this Congress, and I am very appreciative of the gentleman from Georgia for bringing it to our attention.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. BURTON

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. BURTON of Indiana:

Page 116, after line 5, insert the following: Sec. 5. Of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available in this Act in title II under the heading "DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE", not more than $33,500,000 may be made available to the Government of India.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Thursday, July 29, 1999, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON), and a Member opposed each will control 25 minutes.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the Burton amendment and claim all time in opposition to the Burton amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) will control 25 minutes.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to yield half of the time allocated to me to the gentleman from California (Ms. PELOSI), and that she be allowed to control said time.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alabama?

There was no objection.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I thank the distinguished gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to yield my time to the gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN), and that he be allowed to control said time.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, our foreign policy in our country has been concerned about human rights violations around the world for a long time. However, Mr. Chairman, we have been concerned about human rights around the world on a very selective basis in this country.

Recently we were in Yugoslavia, in Kosovo, trying to help the people who were being persecuted on both sides, and there were about 10,000 deaths in Kosovo. In Haiti, we sent in our troops a few years ago, and there were only a few hundred people killed, and it cost us probably several hundred million dollars to have our troops down there, but we thought it was a good cause in this country. Yet in places like the Sudan, where 2 million people have been killed, 2 million, in the struggle for freedom, we have not done a thing. Our role is almost nonexistent.

In other parts of Africa, Rwanda, Burundi, they killed seven or eight thousand of the people in some areas and hundreds of thousands of people have been killed, we have not done a thing. We do not even talk about it.

In a place called Kashmir, where there are half a million Indian troops occupying that area, women are being gang raped and men are being tortured and killed. Amnesty International calls the policy of the Indian government "an official policy sanctioning extrajudicial killings," and we do not even talk about it.

In Punjab, since 1984, the last 14 to 15 years, a quarter of a million, 250,000 Sikhs, have been killed, not to mention those who have been tortured and maimed. In Kashmir, since 1988, a mere 10 years ago, 60,000 Muslims have been killed. Thousands of so-called untouchables, Dalits, the blacks in India, have been killed.

As result of some of these problems, there are 500,000 troops. Women are being gang raped while their husbands are beaten with truncheons, rolled over with heavy logs, and then thrown into canals with their hands and feet bound together. One thousand women are gang raped while their husbands are forced to wait outside at gun point.

Sikhs are routinely found floating dead in canals with their hands and feet bound together. One thousand cases of unidentified bodies were cremated not too long ago by the military.

Sikhs are routinely found floating dead in canals with their hands and feet bound together. One thousand cases of unidentified bodies were cremated not too long ago by the military.

The human rights organizations around the world, such as Human Rights Watch say, "Despite government claims that normalcy has returned to Kashmir, Indian troops in the state continue to carry out summary executions, disappearances, rape and torture." This report was written in July of 1999, this year.

Methods of torture include severe beatings with truncheons, rolling a heavy log on the legs, hanging the detainee upside down, and the use of electric shocks. Indian security forces have raped women in Kashmir during search operations.

I can go on and on. Amnesty International, another human rights group says, "Torture, including rape and ill-treatment continue to be endemic throughout the country. This is true everywhere." This is their annual report, 1999. "Disappearances continue to be reported during the year, predominantly in Punjab and Kashmir." 1999. "Hundreds of extrajudicial killings and executions were reported in many states, including Kashmir and Punjab," 1999.

I talk about this year after year after year. My colleagues who defend India's government policies keep coming down saying, "Oh, well, it is a big country, the second biggest in the world. We have to keep those economic doors open. We have got to make sure that we do business with them."

Well, okay, let us do business with them, but let us at least send them a signal, send a little-bitty signal to them that these kinds of atrocities cannot be tolerated, should not be tolerated. $11 million cut from our foreign aid to India is a drop in the bucket. They are getting foreign aid from all over the world. So if we cut them by a mere $11 million, one-fourth of the developmental aid we are going to give them, to send a little signal that they should stop these human rights abuses, is that wrong? I think not.
But if the persecution of these people were not enough, let me talk to you about something else, something that I think is extremely important that we have not talked about for a while.

Last week, my colleagues who support these atrocities in India by not sending them a signal, last week the Indian oil minister attempted to circumvent the United Nations embargo on Iraq by extending a $25 million loan to Iraq in a deal that knowingly violated, or were going to knowingly violate the U.N. trade sanctions imposed on Iraq for invading Kuwait in 1990. It was not until international pressure was put on India that they reluctantly bowed and complied with the U.N. rules governing these transactions.

India’s minister of oil and gas said, granted his agreement would violate U.N. sanctions, but he said his country would never allow a friend like Iraq to suffer. He went on to say India is deeply concerned about the situation in Iraq, adding that the Indian government would offer Iraq all the political, material, and moral support that they needed.

India also wants to help Iraq rehabilitate some Iraqi oil refineries and a lubricant oil plant. India and Iraqi officials have said they would like to soon sign a contract to develop two oil fields in southern Iraq.

So India wants to help one of the worst tyrannical regimes in the world, Saddam Hussein’s, at a time when we are participating in a U.N. embargo. And we are going to continue to send the same amount of foreign aid or almost the same amount. We are not going to send any signal about the human rights violations or about them breaking this embargo, or wanting to break this embargo, about their intention to work with Saddam Hussein to develop the oil fields in southern Iraq. And I say to my colleagues, do you not want to say anything about this? Do you not want to send any kind of a signal to India?

Eleven million dollars is a drop in the bucket, but it will tell the whole world that the United States is paying attention to the horrible human rights abuses that are taking place, the atrocities that are taking place, the killings that are taking place, and, yes, the violation of the U.N. embargo that they want to take place.

Mr. Chairman, I wish to point out to Members and to the author of the amendment that the intent of his amendment would actually place a ceiling of $33.5 million on the amount of development assistance aid available to the government of India. However, the President’s fiscal year 2000 budget request for all development assistance to India, including both aid to the government and aid directly to nongovernmental organizations, is only $28.7 million. In fact, about 85 percent of all aid funding to India goes through NGOs, not the government.

Therefore, the amendment of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) would actually allow considerably more funding to the government of India than the President, the Secretary of State, USAID, and the committee is recommending. I do not think it was the intent of the gentleman from Indiana to increase funding for India, but based upon the reading of his amendment, it appears to me that it raises the level of assistance to India and he may want to withdraw it.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. Berman).

Mr. Berman. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the Burton amendment.

Cutting development assistance for India at this time would be totally counterproductive because it would undermine U.S.-India relations just when we’re starting to make some real progress.

India showed great restraint in the recent Kashmir crisis, and the Indian government has made a strong commitment to resuming bilateral discussions with Pakistan as soon as all the militants have withdrawn behind the Line of Control.

India has also indicated that signing the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty will be a high priority.

On both counts, India is moving in a direction that’s totally consistent with U.S. security interests in South Asia. It would be foolish to put this progress in jeopardy by cutting India’s development assistance.

Mr. Chairman, human rights abuses should be taken seriously wherever they occur, India, like most countries in the world, doesn’t have a perfect record.

But according to the latest State Department report on human rights practices, India is making real progress. The Indian Supreme Court has acknowledged and condemned earlier human rights abuses in Punjab, and the independent National Human Rights Commission is conducting an investigation.

The best way to improve human rights in India is to continue an open and frank dialogue, not to cut programs that limit the spread of AIDS, improve access to reproductive health services, and provide basic health care for mothers and children.

With some 500 million Indians living below the poverty line, the modest amount of assistance we provide barely scratches the surface when compared to the overall need.

But it’s an important symbol of the relationship between the world’s two largest democracies and it should be continued.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to defeat the amendment.

Mr. Ackerman. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Brown).

Mr. Brown of Ohio. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. Ackerman) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the Burton amendment. We have heard a variety of arguments as to why we should abandon ties with India, and frankly none of them make sense. The fact is that India, the world’s largest democracy, is becoming more closely aligned with the United States and is increasingly important to us as a trading partner and a strategic partner.

Over a quarter of a million people are expected to vote in India’s fall elections, free and fair elections open to every citizen of every religion of every region of every race. Think about that. A nation of 1 billion people with a free and open press practicing democracy.

This amendment sends the wrong message to the billions of people around the world who yearn for a secular stable political system, a political system in this country that our Founding Fathers believed should be based on universal freedoms. It sends the wrong message to the best allies that the United States will ever have, the world’s fledgling democracies, whether they are the people of India, the people of Taiwan, or the people of Mali.

Mr. Chairman, I ask for opposition to the Burton amendment.

Mr. Burton of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Callahan), chairman of the committee, just said that our amendment only addresses developmental assistance, and I want to make it absolutely clear that this amendment has been proposed in years past when developmental assistance and child survival and disease assistance was lumped into one category. Today he is trying to say that if our amendment passes, that we are actually increasing money to India, when I think they are trying to come up with a straw issue here to defeat the amendment and it is very disingenuous.

Mr. Callahan. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 15 seconds in which to respond by simply reading the gentleman’s amendment. It says “under the heading Development Assistance, The gentleman’s amendment is drafted wrong. I know that is not his intent. I was telling the gentleman this to make him aware of the consequences. The amendment will actually increase the ability of the administration to increase development assistance.

Mr. Ackerman. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. Maloney).
Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN) for yielding me this time and for his great leadership on this issue and so many others.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the Burton amendment which would cut aid to India. A similar resolution or amendment defeated in 1997, and we should do so again tonight.

The last two State Department Human Rights reports praised India for the progress the country has made in the area of human rights. And in the wake of the recent Pakistan-Indian-backed incursion across the line of control into Kashmir, India has been praised by the international community for the restraint it demonstrated and for the steps it took to ensure that the situation did not escalate out of control.

The momentum gained in U.S.-India relations in recent years needs to be sustained and strengthened. It is the world’s largest democracy and the world’s second largest economy; it should be supporting our friend and ally. I urge a "no" vote.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROM-ABACHER).

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the intent of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) to send a message to India. I really actually actuated my views closer to India in the future. Nothing would make that more likely than for them to seek peace in Kashmir by permitting the people there to have a vote of plebiscite which India, because of ego, continues to say no, no, no. And as long as that happens, India will be spending tens of millions, if not hundreds of millions of dollars on weapons.

Mr. Chairman, think of this. Today we are only talking about decreasing the foreign aid to India by $11 million, when the Indians themselves are spending hundreds of millions on conventional weapons and at least tens of millions, probably hundreds of millions, on nuclear weapons as well. That makes no sense at all for us to be subsidizing the weapons of India. Instead, we should be sending this message to convince them to solve this long-fester ing problem in Kashmir and permit some of the democratic reforms to take place in Punjab and Jammu.

This would be a very positive message for us to send for only an $11 million reduction. I would hope that my colleagues join me. I am sorry if there has been some kind of a drafting problem with this amendment, and I would hope that the gentleman from Indiana is permitted to solve that drafting problem here on the floor with some minor alteration of the text.

Mr. Chairman, I ask support for the intent of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON).

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KNOLLENBERG), who is a member of our subcommittee.

Mr. KNOLLENBERG. Mr. Chairman, I yield all along with the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) as I have done for the last 5 years or so.

In light of the heightened tensions in Kashmir, the Burton amendment is the wrong approach at the wrong time. The gentleman from Alabama has mentioned the NGO situation. That is aside from some of the things that I want to say. It is important, obviously, but I want to say this amendment will have the inappropriate and ill-considered effect of ostracizing India at a critical point in the ongoing conflict over Kashmir.

Mr. Chairman, instead of risking further tension in the region, the United States should be actively engaged in promoting peace in the subcontinent of Asia. While the eventual resolution of the Kashmir conflict must be resolved bilaterally between India and Pakistan, the United States has an interest in facilitating meaningful negotiations between the parties. In fact, I believe so strongly in bringing peace to this region, that I have encouraged the administration to appoint a special envoy to serve as an honest broker to the conflict.

But in order to help bring a framework for peace, the U.S. must come to the table with clean hands. Supporting the Burton amendment would put the recent progress in relations between India and America at risk. Over the past year, we have seen increased dialogue on nuclear nonproliferation, a better understanding of India’s security concerns, and an increase in U.S.-India trade and investment. This improvement in U.S.-India relations should be sustained and strengthened, not put at risk.

In order to address concerns we may have about India, it is important to focus on fostering a positive and constructive dialogue. This amendment would do the exact opposite by risking the progress we have made.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues on both sides to vote against the Burton amendment and in support of peace in Kashmir and engagement with India.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. PRICE).

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, as we rise in strong opposition to the Burton amendment and ask permission to include the full text of my remarks in the RECORD.

Mr. Chairman, I rise again this year to oppose the Burton amendment which would unfairly and unwisely cut foreign assistance to India. As this body has done repeatedly in the past, I urge my colleagues to reject this amendment.

Adoption of this amendment would send the wrong message and the wrong time. We have been through the annihilation of a dangerous confrontation between the world’s two newest nuclear powers, India and Pakistan. Rather than praising India for the restraint it demonstrated during the recent situation in Jammu and Kashmir, the Burton amendment would reassert India and, in targeting humanitarian aid, would punish the poorest and neediest people in a country where 500 million live below the poverty line.

We are all aware of tensions in our relationship with India because of the nuclear tests fourteen months ago. Over the past year, however, we have made significant progress in intense bilateral talks between the United States and India. India has expressed readiness to cooperate in developing a multilateral agreement to halt production of fissile materials and to sign the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty. We need to be encouraging this sort of progress. The Burton amendment could stop it cold.

India has made significant progress in liberalizing her economy and increasing trade and investment. The momentum created by these reforms would also be impeded by passage of the Burton amendment. United States business interests are India's number one overseas investor. Some 107 Fortune 500 companies are currently invested in India, and United States high tech firms see India as one of the world's most important developing markets.

Mr. Chairman, the United States must work with India to limit the proliferation of nuclear weapons, to address the security concerns of the region, and to safeguard the progress that has been made in protecting human rights. This amendment would not merely affect the level of assistance, which is already extremely limited, but far more significantly, would stigmatize India at precisely the moment we need most to build trust. I urge my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from North Carolina (Mrs. CLAYTON).

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the Burton amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I oppose the Burton amendment.

This amendment, whether it freezes, cuts, or caps foreign assistance to India, is a step in the wrong direction.

India's Government is moving in the right direction, at a rapid pace to strengthen its ties with the United States and the world.

The economic and diplomatic relationship between the United States, the world's oldest democracy, and India, the world's largest democracy, would receive a harmful blow with successful passage of this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, the Government of India has been on a constant pace of change since 1991.

Indeed, the most recent State Department human rights reports praised India for the substantial progress it has made.

India has established a process to receive and resolve complaints of human rights violations.

Those complaints are investigated.

And when officials and members of security forces are found to have violated human rights, India has taken swift and sure action.

Indeed, the human rights violations that Mr. Burton alleges, no longer exist.

More than 650 million citizens are expected to vote in India's elections later this year. There is no other nation that can boast of voter participation by that many citizens, and few that can match India's voter turnout which ranges around two-thirds of its voters.

And, there is no other nation that can boast of its economic ties to the United States in comparison to India.

U.S. business in India has grown at an astonishing rate of nearly 50 percent a year since 1991, from $500 million then, to more than $12 billion now, with the United States becoming India's largest trading partner and largest investor.

Some one hundred of America's Fortune 500 companies have invested in India, opened offices and plants there.

With so many large American companies that have now invested in India and opened operations there, it would be foolish to break those ties, lest we have so diligently strived to assemble.

It is false and misdirected to say that India is not our friend.

I would remind my colleagues, Mr. Chairman, that our Government and the Government of India have negotiated on very sensitive matters of disarmament and non-proliferation.

Serious efforts have been made by our two countries to find common ground on these important security issues.

Any action by the United States to stigmatize India on inaccurate human rights allegations will likely complicate our efforts to create a lasting and meaningful friendship in a very dangerous part of the World.

It should also be noted that the aid we provide to India goes for very important projects. The aid we provide to India goes to the control of AIDS, to population control, disease control and rural development.

These are important and worthy causes, causes that not only benefits India, they benefit us and the world.

In 1997, we overwhelmingly defeated this amendment by a vote of 342 to 82.

We took the right position then, and we should take the right position now.

Mr. Chairman, let us as Members of Congress not view the Government of India as being callous to alleged human rights violations.

India has made great strides in their battle to bring together diverse states within its Region. Vote NO! on the Burton Amendment.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the Burton amendment.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE).

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Chairman, I just find it so sad to listen to my colleagues in support of this Burton amendment spread inaccurate information about India which has tried so hard to deal effectively with human rights problems within the country.

The true human rights problem in Kashmir is that of a violent separatist movement supported by outsiders, supported by Pakistan, carried out by the followers of bin Laden and other extremist terrorist leaders destroying the homes and lives of thousands of peace-loving Hindus and Muslims.

Mr. BERUTER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.
The amendment, according to the intent of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON), would cut one-quarter of the developmental assistance aid to India. This would affect, of course, not only American national interests, but some of the neediest people in the world in South Asia.

Make no mistake about it, the purpose of the gentleman’s amendment is punitive. It is designed to show our displeasure and our disapproval of the government of India. But India, a nation of a billion people, is too important to American interests to threaten or to punish in order to send a message or to show a pro-Pakistan tilt. Regrettably, despite his intent to the contrary, I have to submit that the gentleman’s amendment does not serve our national interests, neither with regard to arm’s control nor in relationship to human rights.

It cuts off all aid except Public Law 480 Title II when it comes to humanitarian aid. Some of the most important things that we are trying to do to assist the poorest people in the world and those specifically in India in this instance would be cut off. We are talking about immunizations against communicable diseases, basic education, nutrition programs, programs relating to HIV/AIDS.

I urge opposition to the amendment of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON).

India is already subject to a wide range of sanctions in accordance with Glenn Amendment to the Arms Export Control Act. As a result, all military assistance and even the commercial sale of defense articles are prohibited. All foreign assistance except humanitarian assistance has been terminated.

While this Amendment does not affect the $81 million Title II food aid provided by the United States, it does directly affect other kinds of humanitarian aid. Utilizing the waiver process, the remaining U.S. development aid program responds other non-food humanitarian aid which supports to two key U.S. national interests: (1) the global issues of population growth, infectious diseases and environmental conservation; and (2) the humanitarian concerns of alleviating poverty and supporting child survival.

This Amendment would directly affect these poverty alleviation and basis development programs. It would cut HIV/AIDS containment and cut immunizations against such communicable diseases as polio and tuberculosis. It would cut basic education and nutrition programs. The recipients of this aid, mostly poor Indian women and children, have absolutely nothing to do with their government’s nuclear proliferation, human rights or foreign trade policies. Their lives should not be further jeopardized for the sake of making a symbolic political statement.

Our national interests in South Asia go beyond poverty alleviation. With India’s and Pakistan’s successful testing of nuclear weapons, it is in our own short term and long term national security interests to bring both South Asian countries into the regime of international arms control agreements. The chances for and consequences of nuclear warfare in this very volatile region are too great to belittle those real statements aimed at only party. In just the past few months, we have seen tensions escalate to a very dangerous level due to Pakistan’s irresponsible provocations in Kashmir. The fact that India reacted in a relatively measured and internationally responsible way certainly helped contain and diffuse the conflict. While this Member does not support direct linkage between humanitarian aid and regional conflict resolution, to arbitrarily cut humanitarian assistance to India given these recent positive actions by New Delhi would, indeed, undermine the leverage we have and jeopardize our efforts to further engage India on critical nuclear proliferation issues that affect their own national security.

Human rights problems exist in India. It is appropriate just to express concern about this issue. However, cutting humanitarian assistance is not an appropriate or effective way to influence human rights practices in India. On the contrary, it only punishes the poor in India, who unfortunately, are often the actual victims of human rights transgressions. India is not our enemy. India is a friendly democracy. The United States continues to be India’s largest trade and investment partner with trade between our two countries exceeding $10 billion annually.

Deep cuts in humanitarian assistance to some of the world’s neediest people are not the way to go about addressing the gentleman’s concerns and advancing American interests. Accordingly, this member urges his colleagues to reject the Burton Amendment.

Mr. ACKERMAN, Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS).

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I thank the ranking member for yielding me this time. This marks the fifth year that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) has submitted an amendment that unjustly singles out India and hopefully the fifth year that we decide to vote it down.

The alleged claims of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) of India’s human rights violations completely ignores the last two State Department human rights reports that praise India for its considerable progress in the human rights area.

Supporting the Burton amendment would not only weaken our dialogue with India but would undermine the strong economic relationship that both of our countries have achieved. The United States is India’s largest trading partner and largest investor. U.S. investment has grown from $500 million per year in 1991 to more than $12 billion in 1999. Many large American companies have seen the economic opportunities in India and have invested heavily there.

We clearly need to sustain and further strengthen the momentum that has been gained in U.S.-Indo relations. Instead of proposing legislation that merely alienates an important ally, I suggest the esteemed member from Indiana first take the time to travel to India and see its progress first-hand. Mr. Chairman, I urge all of my colleagues to help India continue its progress in spreading the ideals of democracy by voting no to the Burton amendment.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I would just like to point out that there are seven multilateral and 13 bilateral donors that provide assistance to India.

The United States is the seventh largest donor after the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the European Union, Japan, Germany, and the United Kingdom.

So there is a lot of people that are giving money to India. But nobody is sending any kind of a message to them that they ought to clean up their act as far as the human rights tragedies that are going on.

Christians are dying in Nagaland. Dalits, the blacks in India, are being persecuted and are dying because of Indian repression, because of the caste system. In Punjab, Sikhs are dying and being tortured. In Kashmir, women are being gang raped and men are being tortured and dying. People are going to jail without proper judicial proceedings.

We ought to at least send a signal. That is all we are saying. They are getting money from all over the world. A signal. The signal is going to be sent tonight whether we pass this amendment or not because we are talking about it.

The Indian ambassador came to me and did not want me to introduce this amendment because of what is going on over there right now. But somebody said to me a little while ago, what about the signal this is sending because of the Indian connectivity to Pakistan on India on up there on the border between Kashmir and Pakistan or India and Pakistan?

But what about the signal that was sent when they were going to give $25 million to Iraq just the other day? When the Indian ambassador was in my office, they were planning to give $25 million to Iraq in violation of the U.N. embargo. Does not anybody care about that?

Do we want them to support and work with Saddam Hussein? They said they are planning to work with him in developing oil fields in southern Iraq. Saddam Hussein has not changed. He is a terror to that entire region. He is a blot on the world. India says they want to help them, and we are not going to send a signal? Let alone the human rights violations of my time.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), the chairman of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON), cutting development assistance to India.

Democratic India is in a tough neighborhood. China occupies Tibet to India’s north. China sells nuclear and ballistic missiles to Pakistan on India’s west, and China has sold over $1 billion worth of arms to the drug-ridden Burmese military junta to India east. Our Nation should be strongly supporting India, the only truly democratic nation of the subcontinent.

Passage of the Burton amendment would undercut our strategic goals of supporting peace and stability through the promotion of democratic governments in the region.

In support to the point of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) that India will enter into a commercial arrangement with Iraq, I received information from the State Department that the Indian ministry of external affairs has issued a statement that India will only enter into contracts approved by the U.N. sanctions committee on Iraq.

Accordingly, I urge my colleagues to vote against the Burton amendment.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

India is the world’s largest democracy, and I agree that she is not a perfect nation. But I really do not know any perfect nations.

India is a young democracy, much younger than our very own. We still have problems with human rights in America. But India is moving, moving positively to try and overcome some of the difficulties of a country that has been colonized, a country steeped in poverty, a country that is seeking, working, struggling to overcome. Let us not take them back. Let us help them.

There is an old African proverb that says “When elephants fight, the grass gets hurt.” Well, India will be hurt, 950 million of them. Let us help them, not hurt them.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of India and against the Burton amendment.

Today, India is the world’s largest democracy with 950 million people. For half a century India has struggled to overcome colonialism, religious and ethnic conflicts and all of the problems of underdevelopment.

India has made tremendous progress in trying to address its human rights problems. India has instituted a process to receive complaints, initiate investigations of all claims, and, passed laws to take action against those officials who are committed human rights offenses. The Burton amendment would eliminate U.S. assistance to help sustain these achievements.

Mr. Chairman, I know that India is not a perfect country. However, and perhaps unfortunately, there are none, or at the very least, none that I am aware of. Even in our own country, one whose democracy is much older, one that is more technologically advanced, we are still trying to form a more perfect union and so is India.

So why, why reduce or cut funding to the world’s largest democracy? Why cut funds to a nation that is working hard and struggling to pull itself out of the depths of poverty and despair? Why cut back and or cut out the progress that is being made? W.E.B. Dubois is reported to have once said, when asked about the lack of progress being made by African Americans towards becoming a part of mainstream America, Dubois is reported to have said that “a people so deprived should not be expected to race with the wind.” Perhaps one could say that a young democracy like India should not be expected to progress at a much faster pace.

They are making progress in the human rights arena, but have not quite gotten there yet. They are moving in the right direction and I say, let’s help and not hinder them, let us support and not oppose them, let us fund and not cut them.

Mr. Chairman, I have lived long enough to understand the African proverb that says when elephants fight it is the grass that suffers, in this case it is the people, 950 million of them. Today let us make a stand for the 950 million people who need our help.

Vote “No” on the Burton amendment and “Yes” for people of India.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 1/2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MCCOLLUM).

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Chairman, I rise to oppose the Burton amendment this evening, as I have done several times over. A very similar amendment to make the same type of point was defeated in 1997 by a vote of 82 to 342. This House, and I hope that this House’s parameters would be defeated by a similarly wide margin.

The reason I feel this way and so strongly is because it is our national security interest for the United States to have a strong relationship with India.

We do not need to be showing the kind of vote that a vote for this amendment would do right now when we are having the best relationships we have ever had with India in the entire history of the two countries; at a time when India is sharing a common fight with us against terrorism, terrorism spawned by radical Islamists in that region of the world which do terrorist acts, not only in India, but all over the world, and particularly against our interests in many parts and maybe against us ourselves; at a time when China is a growing presence that we are not quite sure of and India provides a democratic ballast in that part of the world.

India is the world’s largest democracy. It has the best relationships we have ever had with India and we should not cut funding to a country steeped in poverty, a country on the edge of poverty, a country that is preventing the world from a much more developed, a much more stable, a much more prosperous world. This is why I hope that this amendment fails.

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

I personally have spoken with the Indian ambassador within the last week, and I am very aware that the activity level involving the question of the aid to Iraq is fully within the United Nation’s parameters, and it says so in its most current report.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment. There is no greater priority in U.S. foreign policy than checking the potential of aggression by the People’s Republic of China. There is no greater...
Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the logic of some of the arguments tonight kind of eludes me. One of my colleagues was talking about India being such an essential ingredient in world peace and, for that reason, we ought to do everything we can to work with them.

The logic that we have used with China is that China is so big, and they are a nuclear power, we have to stay engaged with them. We cannot criticize them. We cannot do anything but appease them because it might lead to a conflict down the road. As a result, we accept things like nuclear espionage; we accept things like illegal campaign contributions coming to the United States.

Attitudes of appeasement usually do not lead to a solution. They lead to a conflict. We saw that in World War II when Lord Chamberlain went to Munich.

All I can say is we are not talking about destabilizing or causing a problem in India right now. What we are talking about is sending a message to them. We are talking about sending a message to them that human rights violations, that gang rapes by Indian soldiers who are occupying, imposing martial law on Kashmir and Punjab will not be tolerated.

I am not saying sever relations with India. I am not saying that we should not do business with India, trade with India. I am saying we should send them a strong signal like we should send to China. We do not want espionage from China. We do not want them stealing our nuclear secrets in our nuclear labs. We do not want them trying to influence our elections, like we do not try to influence theirs. We do not want India to violate human rights, or China.

So we should send signals to those countries around the world where that occurs. We are supposedly the superpower. We are supposedly the moral compass in this world. If we are the moral compass, then at least send a signal to them.

If we cut off just $11 million, and we did vote for that one year. We did pass that one year not too long ago, because I do remember debating Steven Solarz on this subject. I think sending that signal was the reason that India unleashed all of its resources that they possibly could to lobby this body so that we would not ever do it again.

They evidently have been fairly successful. But the feeling I have is that is so strong and the reason I bring this up year after year is because I cannot go to sleep at night when I know that there are gangs rapes taking place, people being tortured, people being put in jail for no good reason other than they do not like what is going on when we are supposed to be the people who really believe in freedom, democracy, and human rights.

Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New York (Mr. OWENS).

Mr. OWENS. Mr. Chairman, I have listened to the debate for the last 10 minutes, and I am appalled by the fact that the debate is taking place without any real examination of the question of Kashmir.

I have heard the various reasons that the gentleman has given for sending a signal to India, but the reason that all of us should be concerned about sending a signal to India is that the Kashmir bid that we have been in for almost 50 years is caused by the fact that India refuses to accept the simple route of Democratic self-determination for Kashmir.

Kashmir is a large body of people who ought to have the right to vote as to what they want to do, whether they want to be independent or join Pakistan, or maybe we will even let India cross that off and do not have annexation to Pakistan on the agenda. Let them vote either to join India or to become an independent state. They will not even agree to that.

If Kashmir were located in Europe or in Yugoslavia, we would all be concerned about the denial of self-determination by the people of Kashmir. It has gone on for decades now and nobody seems to care about the fact that the world’s largest democracy, and India likes to call itself the world’s largest democracy, and I applaud democracy in India, but it has great limitations and it is totally blind when it comes to democracy for Kashmir. Kashmir is not permitted to exercise the simple right to vote.

Now we have a situation where the situation has escalated because these two powers, which dispute about a number of things but mainly about Kashmir, are now nuclear powers. They are nuclear powers. And I hate to say, but as new nuclear powers or amateur nuclear powers, they may rush into something and cause havoc in that part of the world. And of course, once we start using nuclear weapons, we have a problem with the atmosphere, we have a problem with the ashes being blown and radioactive activity, all kinds of things can be set up between Indian and Pakistan.

I think that if we remove Kashmir as a point of contention between India and Pakistan, we would take a giant step toward promoting peace in that part of the world and toward avoiding a catastrophic which would pull in many other nations.

Now, I was all in favor of doing what we did in Kosovo, because I thought it was important to establish a new moral order and to send a message to predators like Slobodan Milosevic. But India does not have any evil person we can personify in the case of Kashmir.

But they have a long-term policy, a long-term policy of just denying the right to self-determination to the people of Kashmir. Who can justify that? And why not send a signal to India? Why not do something?

I do not hear the United Nations debating it. I do not hear anybody proposing a sense of the Congress resolution. Why are we ignoring the problem of Kashmir? Why do we let it go on and on for decades? Are we waiting for an explosion? Are we waiting for something more serious that we will be drawn into? Are we waiting when we will have to take sides because of geopolitics, that China may be on one side, therefore we have to get on the other side? Why do we not proceed with a simple nonviolent solution?

People have said we should not have gone into Kosovo with bombs; we should not have gone into Kosovo with NATO; we should have had a nonviolent solution. Here is an opportunity for a nonviolent solution. And India, as a nation, has always been in favor of nonviolence in many instances. Gandhi was the founder of the whole nonviolent movement.

Why do we not send a signal to India that we would like to see them change their ways and let Kashmir have a vote on self-determination. Any signal would be a positive signal.

I certainly will support the gentleman’s amendment, because nothing else is being done.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS).

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, I rise to oppose the amendment of my good friend the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON).

Without question, the U.S. relationship with India has been undergoing tremendous improvements in the last decade. With the rising influence of Communist China over Asia, it is in the vital national security interest of the United States to solidify our friendship and cooperation with India.

Not only is India directly threatened by the belligerent government in China, Pakistan gave military assistance to a band of terrorists who crossed into Indian territory of Kashmir and began a military assault.

The Indian military responded with equal force to defend national integrity. India was praised for demonstrating restraint and confined its military activities to recapturing its territory that was occupied by Pakistani-backed military forces. By adopting a
The Burton Amendment would substantially cut critical U.S. humanitarian aid to India. Examples of humanitarian aid projects include: AIDS control, population and disease control, and rural development.

In regard to trade, the U.S. is India's largest trading partner and largest investor. U.S. investment has grown from $500 million per year in 1991 to $12 billion in 1998. Despite the collapse of various economies in Southeast Asia over the last two years, the Indian economy continued to grow at a rate of 6% in 1998.

India has been criticized in the past for human rights violations. The last two reports on human rights from the State Department praised India for the substantial progress the country has made in the area of human rights and, of course, as mentioned the creation of the independent National Human Rights Commission.

As many of my colleagues know, this is the world's largest democracy. Elections have been held in this country in a fair manner and they have made tremendous strides towards their democracy. In 1997, in the State of Punjab open and democratic elections were held and there was a 67 percent turnout. Elections in India are regular. They are contested by numerous parties and scrutinized by a free press.

Later this year, India will conduct the largest exercised democracy in the world. More than 250 million people are expected to vote. More than 100 national and regional political parties will be participating in the elections. India maintains an independent judiciary, a free press, and diverse political parties. The India press corps actively investigates human rights abuses on a regular basis.

So I understand my colleague. Every year he comes to the House floor and offers this amendment. But in this case, I think his differences with the government of India should not harm the Indian people, especially those who are in need of the aid.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, may I inquire as to the time remaining?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from New York (Mr. Ackerman) has 6½ minutes remaining, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Burton) has 1½ minutes remaining, and the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Callahan) has 4½ minutes remaining.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Holt).

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I rise in opposition to the Burton amendment.

As in the past, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Burton) has cited human rights abuses in India as the reason for his legislative initiative. While human rights abuses have been uncovered in India, it is important to note the significant progress that India has made in resolving human rights problems.

As in the past, the State Department's human rights report on India, India is addressing its human rights problems because it is a democracy, as noted, the world's largest. Although the country has confronted many challenges since gaining independence in 1947, it has stayed true to its founding principles.

For 50 years, India has been striving to build a civil society, to institutionalize democratic values of free expression and religion, and to find strength in the diversity of its land and its people, despite such things as outside insurgents in Kashmir.

I do not see why we would want to jeopardize this humanitarian aid. With the re-author and re-authorize the same people this ill-conceived amendment seeks to protect, adequate nutrition, shelter, and education. These are human rights too.

I oppose the amendment, and I urge my colleagues to also oppose it.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. Sherman).

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the Burton amendment as I have in the past.

We have heard India attacked for spending money on its own defense and yet it is subject to attack by the Pakistani army in an action of aggression as Kashmir. And just as importantly, China, one of the world's emerging powers, occupies a small part of India's territory.

We have heard talk of the Iraqi potential loan, and yet that loan would go through only with the approval of the United States Congress, which has been turned down. And yet that loan would go through only with the approval of the United States Congress, which has been turned down.

We are told that India should just allow Kashmir to secede, but there have already been elections in Kashmir. The chief minister is a Muslim. And we should hesitate a minute before we announce that every country should allow any province at any time to hold a referendum on secession, because when South Carolina wanted to hold a referendum, that was an overwhelming vote.

The Burton amendment is the wrong approach at the wrong time. In the wake of the recent Pakistani incursion across the line of control, the U.S. and India have a new opportunity to build a broad-based relationship. Instead of applauding India for the admirable restraint shown in the recent Kashmir crisis, this amendment would punish India by cutting crucial humanitarian assistance.

The Burton amendment would substantially cut critical U.S. humanitarian aid to India. These programs limit the spread of HIV/AIDS, improve access to reproductive health services, and provide supplemental feeding and basic health services to mothers and children. A similar amendment was defeated in 1997 by a vote of 342-82. No similar amendment was offered in 1998.

I oppose the amendment.

The greatest violations of human rights in Kashmir are being committed by the Pakistani sponsored terrorist groups which in the last several months have targeted dozens of entirely innocent civilians, from participants in weddings to passengers on buses.

India is a strong and vibrant democracy that features an independent judiciary, free press and diverse political parties. In fact, the Indian press corps, among the most active in the world, assists in investigating human rights abuses, as do Indian non-governmental organizations.

The U.S. is India's largest trading partner and largest investor. U.S. direct investment has grown from $500 million per year in 1991 to $12 billion in 1998. Despite the collapse of various economies in Southeast Asia over the last two years, the Indian economy continued to grow at a rate of 6% in 1998. In the first half of 1999, new foreign investment in India totaled $660 million.

Many large American companies have invested in India and opened plants and offices there. More than 100 of the U.S. Fortune 500 have invested in India. Among those companies are General Electric, Boeing, AT&T, Citigroup, Morgan Stanley, Ford Motor Company, Microsoft, IBM, Coca Cola, Flextronics, Eli Lilly, Merrill Lynch, McDonnell Douglas, US West, Bell Atlantic, Sprint, Raytheon, Motorola, Amoco, Hughes, Mobil, and Enron.

Later this year, India will conduct the largest exercise of democracy in the history of the world. More than 250 million people are expected to vote and more than 100 national and regional parties will be participating in the elections.

The best way for us to help India continue to improve its human rights record is to affirm our positive and constructive dialogue, one democracy to another. Not with punitive sanctions and cuts in assistance.

The Burton amendment will run counter to the progress that has been made in bilateral relations between the U.S. and India. During the past year, U.S.-India relations have been marked by increased diplomatic, economic, and cultural engagement. However, there are security concerns, and an increase in U.S.-India trade and investment. India and the United States worked very closely to repel the Pakistani regulars and Pakistani-backed terrorists from the Line of Control.

The momentum gained in U.S.-India relations needs to be sustained and strengthened. A vote for the Burton amendment would send the wrong signal to the people of India.

Proponents of the Burton Amendment will make reports that India has offered Iraq a $25 million line of credit. India has said that they will only do this in the context of UN resolutions that印度的制裁。但是，我们没有来得及。现在，当一切都已经结束的时候，我将放弃这一论点，然后我将写信给主席，因为在我被说服之前，我将不会同意或修改这一论点，这样我区的同事就会同意或修改这一论点。

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 21/2 minutes.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Reserving the right to object, Mr. Chairman, I will not object if we do that after the closing statements.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw my request to withdraw the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman withdraws his request.

The gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN) has 6 1/2 minutes remaining.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I think we are seeing a rather unique occurrence here on the floor today. Indeed, we usually enjoy doing battle with the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Burton). He sometimes is really a lone warrior on this issue, the overwhelming majority of the House of Representatives voting against his amendment. But, nonetheless, we have never come to the point where we have forced him into a full retreat on the floor of the House, and that is too bad, because we do appreciate hearing his point of view, in the minority though it might be.

The gentleman’s amendment is being withdrawn because it is flawed, as is his logic, as are his arguments. The gentleman’s intent, as it usually is, is to come to the floor, as he has time and time again, to bash India. And, in fact, if we could indeed allow an increase in aid to be sent to India. Instead of sending a letter bomb, had his amendment passed, he would have sent a Valentine’s card.

The gentleman’s intent was basically to hurt the most vulnerable people of the Indian society. Our assistance programs help children and the elderly and pregnant women. The gentleman from Indiana comes to the floor as a champion of human rights. Does he not know that in Kashmir there is an elected government that is democratically elected; a government that is under continuous assault from secessionist terrorists who are responsible for numerous serious abuses, including extrajudicial executions, torture, kidnapping and extortion?

Mr. Chairman, the fountainhead of human rights violations in Kashmir is state-sponsored terrorism from across the border in Kashmir. Just recently, we were informed again by the facts that India was being victimized by an egregious invasion of forces from across the border in Pakistan. This invasion would have become a full-fledged war but for the commendable restraint shown by New Delhi. India has demonstrated that it is a responsible nuclear power, that it does not get provoked easily, and it knows that real power means acting with restraint.

Mr. ACKERMAN. The rights that the gentleman from New York (Mr. Burton) would seek to protect are the rights of Mr. bin Laden, who has blown up U.S. embassies all over the world. Is that who we are concerned about? I think not. It is these terrorist groups and training camps that we have to target, not Democratic India, as violators of human rights.

India is a beacon of unity and diversity. It is a multi-ethnic, multi-lingual, multi-cultural and multi-religious civilization with a commendable record of tolerance.

This is not the time, as the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Burton) recognizes, to bring this amendment up. It is not the time to bash India and to reward Pakistan. It is not time to punish the victims and to reward the aggressors.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, how much time do I have remaining?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Callahan) has 4 1/2 minutes remaining.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

First of all, Mr. Chairman, and to my colleagues in the House and to those that might be watching on television. If we were to have a vote on the floor of this House tonight or anytime and we would ask the Members of Congress as to whether or not they condone atrocities that are created anywhere in the world by any people, it would be 435 against. That is not really the question here tonight.

I do not question the motives of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Burton). As a matter of fact, I applaud him for bringing this issue to our attention, an issue of great concern to him. But my
Mr. ACKERMAN, that I am not in colleague, the gentleman from New India, so there will not be a polio epidemic there and we will help to eradicate it.

So I do not question the fact that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is concerned. I do not question his motives at all. None of us agree with any atrocities that are committed.

If we look at the situation that the gentleman from New York (Mr. O'WENs) mentioned in Kosovo, the KLA is murdering people in Kosovo. Yet, within the next few months, we are going to appropriate some more money for Kosovo for humanitarian efforts.

We have already appropriated hundreds of millions of dollars already, and yet we still see the KLA now slaughtering the Serbs as they try to exit Kosovo and back into Serbia.

So it is not an indication of tolerance. It is not an indication of no concern. It is an indication of we are doing the right thing, in my opinion, by appropriating this small amount of money, of which only probably less than $3 million goes to the Government of India and it is restricted in its use.

So, in my opinion, we are doing the right thing with the money we have agreed to give to the President in order that he can handle the international affairs as he sees fit, as the Constitution says.

Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON).

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, let me just close by saying to my colleague, the gentleman from New York (Mr. ACKERMAN), that I am not in full retreat. Withdrawing the amendment was because of a technicality, and I think my good friend knows that. And we are good friends. We worked together on other issues.

But the thing that motivates me is 200,000 Christians that have died over the past 30, 40, 50 years in Nagaland; the 250,000 Sikhs that were killed in Punjab in the last 15 years; the 60,000 Muslims killed in Kashmir in the last 10 years; and the thousands of Dalits, who are lower cast people, the blacks, who are mistreated and killed in India.

Maybe we are jousting windmills here. I do not know. But we have got to do what we think is right.

So I would just like to say to my colleague, we will be back another time to fight this battle. And I am sure I will have some formidable opponents like my colleagues over there, but we will do the best we can.

Just remember what Arnold Schwarzenegger said, “I’ll be back.”

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Indiana?

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, reserving the right to object, I just want to understand that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) under the unanimous consent request of last Friday I believe, has the right to offer an amendment, that this being withdrawn does not give the gentleman the right to offer a different amendment, and that is not his intent.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, that is correct.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is withdrawn.

There was no objection.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. HASTINGS OF FLORIDA

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. HASTINGS of Florida:

S E C. 4. (a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) The flower industry of Colombia has been recognized on several occasions by the Department of State, the Drug Enforcement Agency, and the United States Customs Service for its substantive part in reducing drug-related and other criminal activities while working closely with United States law enforcement agencies to establish extensive anti-smuggling programs.

(2) The flower industry of Colombia has been a leader as a major private industry in reducing corruption in the commercial sector, while working closely with the Colombian Government to bolster and advance its Democratic initiatives.

(3) The flower industry of Colombia employs directly and indirectly approximately 125,000 people in Colombia.

(4) The flower industry of Colombia has established numerous social programs for workers and their families such as nursing care, day care, subsidized food and nutrition programs, subsidized schooling, and most recently, a program and publication dedicated to reducing intra-family violence.

(5) This publication is designed to strengthen family value and human rights among the workers of the Colombian flower sector.

(b) SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that the flower industry of Colombia should be recognized for its contributions to strengthening United States and Colombian relations by insuring strong and healthy families, domestic stability, and promoting good government in the democratic nation of Colombia.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Thursday, July 29, 1999, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order on the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) also seek the time in opposition to the amendment?

Mr. CALLAHAN. Yes, Mr. Chairman, I do.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman and the ranking member for their patience with this amendment. I rise today to offer the amendment to the Foreign Operations Bill. The amendment is designed to recognize members of the Colombian flower industry who have worked diligently to improve the living standard of all people in Colombia.

Known by their countrymen as Growers of Flowers, these businesses persons have been leaders in Latin American private industry in reducing corruption in the commercial sector, while working closely with the Colombian Government to bolster and advance its Democratic initiatives.

Programs being supported and funded by Growers of Flowers include corruption reduction in the private sector, the establishment of nursing care, day-care, subsidized food, nutrition, and educational programs, and a new program to eradicate domestic violence.

At this time there is scarce good news coming out of Colombia. On this past weekend, we read and saw further bombings taking place in Colombia.

The work that Growers of Flowers is voluntarily doing on the ground is, however, a bright little light.

I am offering this amendment this evening to acknowledge the contributions of Growers of Flowers, and I hope my colleagues will join me in this effort.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, continuing to reserve my point of order on the amendment, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. FARR).

Mr. FARR of California. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I rise with concern over this amendment. The amendment expresses a sense of Congress. Colombia is in a very grave situation right now.
The Colombian flower growers have been one of its most successful enterprises in Latin America, but not without help from our country. Our country allowed Colombian flowers into this country for free.

There is a downside to the Colombian success, the injury done to U.S. flower growers. We might note that since 1992, 50 percent of the U.S. carnation producers have left the business, 39 percent of the mini-carnation producers have left the business, 54 percent of the U.S. chrysanthemum producers have left the business, and 41 percent of the rose growers have left the business.

Well, I am here to congratulate those businesses in Colombia that are doing well. I think that the flower growers are a good example of Colombia.

Let us not forget or let us not do this praise without remembering that there is a downside, because all of those Colombian flowers get into the United States free of duty.

The Colombian flower industry has made progress in Colombia. However, I ask Mr. Speaker, at what cost?

In 1991, Congress enacted the Andean Trade Preference Act (ATPA) which provided for duty-free treatment, or reduced duties, on many products, including fresh-cut flowers, imported from South America—Andean countries of Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru. This legislation was proposed to promote alternatives to coca cultivation and production by offering broader access to U.S. markets for legal products. Unfortunately, the act has not achieved these goals.

Since the enactment of ATPA, it is clear that Colombian fresh-cut flowers have been the greatest beneficiaries. In 1992, Colombia exported approximately 1.7 billion roses and carnations to the United States. Colombia now controls more than 50 percent of the United States market for roses and 80 percent of the carnation market. Overall, Colombian flowers accounted for about 65 percent of the United States fresh-cut flower market.

Meanwhile, the total number of U.S. fresh-cut flower growers has plummeted from 932 in 1992 to 706 in 1995, a decline of over 10 percent a year. Specifically, since the passage of the ATPA, more than 52.52 percent of U.S. Carnation producers, 39.02 percent of U.S. mini carnation producers, 53.95 percent of the U.S. Chrysanthemum producers, 41.62 percent of the U.S. Pompon Chrysanthemum producers, and 41.3 percent of the U.S. rose producers have left the business. This impact on the domestic-cut flower industry has been disproportionately placed upon California, home of 58 percent of the United States cut flower growers.

The ATPA provides the preferential treatment for Colombian fresh-cut flowers only—not for flowers from the Netherlands, or from any other country. This preferential treatment, however, is not serving its intended purposes of reducing illegal drug production in the nation of Colombia.

In 1996, an International Trade Commission (ITC) report found that the ATPA has had a significant and negative effect on the United States cut flower growers. The number of hectares devoted to coca cultivation in Colombia increased from 37,500 in 1991 to more than 50,000 in 1995. The ITC report also found that the ATPA has had a small and indirect effect on U.S. flower growers.

Thus, we have not achieved the intended goal of reducing drug crop cultivation by providing market access for alternative crops.

We must do all we can to encourage Colombia to seek alternatives to drug protection. However, the ATPA has not effectively reduced drug crop production in Colombia, nor has it improved the economic situation of cut flower growers in the United States. If we are going to fight drug production at its source in Colombia, Members and the American people should know that the Andean Trade Preference Act is not up to the task.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida, Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the amendment. I thank the chairman and the ranking member for their indulgence. came up against a similar threat by the World Heritage Committee, but this time the verdict was much more agreeable. What is ironic is that the decision was handed down in Paris.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman will yield, I withdraw my point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama withdraws the point of order.

Mr. TANCREDO. A decision affecting the land of private citizens in Australia was decided by bureaucrats in a country halfway around the world. These are decisions which should be handled by the government of the country in which the action in question takes place. It should in no way be given over to an international organization with foreign influence.

Similar amendments to the one I have proposed have been passed in previous appropriations bills because these programs draw from funds of over 10 governmental agencies. This House has given up its control to these two particular organizations, and I believe that we must come together again to make sure more American taxpayer money is not used for programs which do not serve the American people justly.

I believe that there are certainly better places for this funding to be spent than in UNESCO, an organization from which the United States withdrew over a decade and a half ago.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. Does the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) seek to control the time in opposition?

Mr. CALLAHAN. I do seek to control the time, Mr. Chairman, but I also ask unanimous consent to give the time to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI) and give her the authority to yield as she so deems necessary.

Mr. Chairman, I do seek to control the time. Mr. Chairman, but I also ask unanimous consent to give the time to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI) and give her the authority to yield as she so deems necessary.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI) will control 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Ms. PELOSI. I thank the distinguished chairman for his generosity in yielding all the time to me.

Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the very distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), the ranking member on the authorizing committee.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time in opposition to this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, the World Heritage Convention is an international treaty conceived and spearheaded by the United States during the Nixon administration under which countries voluntarily identify culturally and environmentally significant areas within their own borders and promise to continue to protect them.

The program is totally voluntary. The land must be protected in order to be nominated. It is not protected after it is nominated. The only power that the World Heritage Committee has is if the program identifies the site and then sets up a framework where those scientists can share their information internationally.

The framework documents which control the Man and the Biosphere program and the World Heritage Convention both contain language making clear that they in no way alter the ownership or control of these lands.

Since we were the first signatory of the World Heritage Convention in 1973, 152 other nations have followed suit. This convention was not only a promise to live up to our own standards for protecting these sites, it was an invitation to other countries around the world to follow suit.

These two programs have established the United States as a world leader in environmental protection and scientific study and the sharing of that information. Killing these programs will not hurt these sites in the U.S.

They are already protected and will remain so. Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks will still be national parks if we withdraw from the World Heritage Convention. The Everglades will still be protected if we stop our scientific study under the Man and the Biosphere program.

But this action will send a signal around the world that we no longer value the kind of environmental protection and scientific study that we as a nation pioneered and asked the world community to join.

We have seen this amendment a number of times in the last several years and the House has rejected this amendment each and every time because in fact a majority of the House understands the nature of the scientific study, the importance of designating these sites as World Heritage areas, and they also understand that this is a voluntary program. The fact that the process takes place in Belgium or in Paris or somewhere else, this is an international body. This is an international body. So that should not be foreign to the Members of Congress and that is one of the reasons why it is in this legislation. This is an international organization to foster the protection of these huge, huge world class environmental assets. The size of these assets is immaterial. Some of them are there because nations decided that these landscapes, these huge areas should be preserved as we did with the Everglades, as we did with Grand Canyon, as we did with Yellowstone. That is the purpose of this program. The international scientific study is there so scientists in one country can help other scientists learn about the kind of protections, about the kinds of programs we have that we would be relinquishing our role as a world leader in the protection and preservation of culturally and environmentally important areas.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong, strong opposition to this amendment. This amendment is a late-night, backdoor attempt to kill two programs that critics of these programs have been unable to kill in the light of day. Legislation to abolish the Man and the Biosphere and World Heritage Programs failed in 1996 and 1997 and looks like it may fail again this year. So we are here tonight to short circuit the process with a little amendment buried in a huge appropriations bill.

The World Heritage Convention is an international treaty, conceived and spearheaded by the United States during the Nixon administration, under which countries voluntarily identify culturally and environmentally significant areas around the world to follow suit.

The framework documents which control the Man and the Biosphere program and the World Heritage Convention both contain language making clear that they in no way alter the ownership or control of these lands.

So if these programs are so innocuous, what’s the big deal if we abandon them?

Well, since the United States was the first signatory of the World Heritage Convention in 1973, 152 other nations have followed suit. This convention was not only a promise to live up to our own standards for protecting these sites, it was an invitation to other countries around the world to follow suit.

These two programs have established the United States as a world leader in environmental protection and scientific study. Killing these programs won’t hurt these sites in the United States. They are already protected and will remain so. Yellowstone and Glacier National Park will still be national parks if we withdraw from the World Heritage Convention and the Everglades will still be protected if we stop our scientific study of that area under the MAB program.

But, this action will send a signal around the world that we no longer value the kind of environmental protection and scientific study that we pioneered and that the world community has come to expect.

The land must already be protected in order to be nominated, it is not protected after its nominated.

The land must be protected in order to be nominated. The only power that the World Heritage Committee has is if the United States withdraws over a decade and a half ago.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong, strong opposition to this amendment.
This amendment is an attempt to short circuit the will of the Congress and it would send a terrible signal to the rest of the world. Oppose the TANCREDO Amendment.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume. The opponents of the amendment have suggested that in fact we have seen this many times before and it has been turned down by the House. In fact, the House has passed and the Congress has passed this amendment more than once on other programs, on other appropriations. I refer specifically to the State Department authorizations for fiscal year 1998 and 1999, agreed to by recorded vote of 222–202. The Interior appropriations bill, fiscal year 1998, agreed to 222–203. The Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1998, all of these.

For the record, Mr. Chairman, these two programs actually receive funding from a variety of different organizations and a variety of different departments, and so you have to go after them as you see them arise. That is why we had to do this before. But each time, at least in the situations that I have identified, they have been passed by this House.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Mr. Chairman, I will defend the committee position in opposing reluctantly the distinguished gentleman from Colorado’s amendment to our bill.

Mr. Chairman, I think it is important to note that the House Committee on Appropriations mark for the IO&P account is $167 million, which is $25 million below the administration’s request. An additional reduction of $2 million could further erode our ability to gain international cooperation in protecting the environment and natural resources.

A $2 million reduction to the IO&P account exceeds our voluntary contribution to the Man and the Biosphere programs, $355,000, and the World Heritage Fund, $450,000. As a result, this amendment would force reductions in other worthwhile scientific and educational activities, such as the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission and the International Council of Scientific Unions at a time when we look toward science to increase our understanding of global environmental problems.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. PELOSI. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentlewoman for letting me interject here. The fact is that we have amended our own amendment. We do not strike any particular dollar amount, we just prevent funds from going for these two programs. It actually would go other places in the bill.

Ms. PELOSI. Reclaiming my time, I thank the gentleman. We need to make those contributions to the Man and the Biosphere program. Everything else is fully funded.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on the amendment. I commend the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) for his leadership on this issue.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

There have been a number of comments made with regard to the original treaty obligations of the United States, but concerning the Man and the Biosphere program, Congress has never gone on record either authorizing or supporting such a program to be carried out. Furthermore, many people have raised the issue as to the treaty obligation for the World Heritage Fund. This, however, is not true.

In article 16, paragraph 2 of the convention concerning the protection of world cultural and natural heritage, it states that neither party may declare that it will not be bound by the provisions of paragraph 1 which deals with the payment of regular contributions to the World Heritage Fund. Likewise on October 26, 1973, the Senate concurred to the ratification of the convention subject to the declaration that the United States is not bound by provisions dealing with regular contributions to the World Heritage Fund. The Senate has the power to ratify, but this House has the responsibility of the public purse. We are not bound to contribute to the program with the hard-earned money of the American people.

I strongly urge support of this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. TANCREDO).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 263, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. TANCREDO) will be postponed.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. KUCINICH

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. Kucinich:

At the end of the bill, insert after the last section (pressing the short title) the following new section:

SEC. 1. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used by the Overseas Private Investment Corporation for any category A Investment Fund project, as listed in Appendix E, Category A Projects, of the Corporation’s Environmental Handbook of April 1998, as required pursuant to Executive Order 12114 and section 239(g) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2199(g)).

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Thursday, July 29, 1999, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I recognize a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama reserves a point of order.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, my amendment cuts funding to environmentally sensitive Overseas Private Investment Corporation fund projects, such as oil refineries, chemical plants, oil and gas pipelines, large scale logging, and projects near wetlands or other protected areas. Current OPIC investment funds are not subject to any transparency requirements. Furthermore, no specific information on these projects is contained in OPIC’s annual reports.

As a consequence, Congress, the public and the residents living near OPIC projects have no knowledge of the potential environmental and related financial and political risks. What is the taxpayer’s interest in these projects?

Taxpayers are liable for OPIC investments overseas if they fail. I want to repeat that. Taxpayers are liable for OPIC investments overseas if they fail. Private corporations and investors make investments in OPIC investment funds. OPIC-supported funds, in turn, make direct equity and equity-related investments in new, expanding and privatizing companies in “emerging market” economies. While taxpayer money is not actually invested in these funds, taxpayers are liable for the investments should they fail. These funds have invested in more than 240 business projects in over 40 countries. Recent estimates show that the total amount in Investment Fund programs will soon reach $4 billion.

Since taxpayers are exposed to millions of dollars of potential liabilities, I believe OPIC has a responsibility to Congress and to the public to operate in an open and transparent manner. The lack of environmental transparency conceals environmentally destructive investment of these funds not only from Congress and the American public but also to locally affected people in the countries where OPIC projects are run.

For example, a 1996 Freedom of Information lawsuit focusing on OPIC activity in Russia revealed that an investment in a logging project in a clear cutting of primary ancient forests in northwest Russia. Russian citizens, expecting democracy building assistance from the U.S. Government, had not been provided with any environmental documentation. In fact, according to documents obtained in a lawsuit to OPIC consultant had falsified the environmental documentation the Russian citizens’ support for the harmful, irreversible logging of pristine forests.

OPIC investment funds have also been involved in a gold mine in the Cote d’Ivoire and a mine in a primary tropical forest which is opposed by local citizens. Reports of other troubling projects are also being circulated. Conservation groups have filed Freedom of Information requests to obtain the names, nature, location and environmental impact assessments for all OPIC investment fund projects. OPIC, however, continues to conceal the environmental consequences of these questionable investments from the public.

What little information has been uncovered about these funds reveals a checkered environmental record. With environmentally and socially sensitive projects being a main focus of the funds, public disclosure of environmental impact assessments is even more crucial.

Organizations such as the National Wildlife Federation, Friends of the Earth, Institute for Policy Studies, Environmental Defense Fund, Sierra Club, Center for International Environmental Law and Pacific Environment and Resources Center have long advocated increased transparency in OPIC investment fund projects.

Representatives of these organizations met with the new OPIC President in February, where he agreed with their assertion that these funds should be transparent when it comes to the environment. OPIC recently launched a $350 million equity fund for investment in sub-Saharan Africa which will include transparency and public disclosure of the funds. But, Mr. Chairman, there are still 26 other funds which remain shrouded in secrecy. With almost $4 billion invested in these programs and OPIC’s sketchy environmental record, it is ever more important that OPIC be held accountable to the public regarding its investment in environmentally sensitive projects.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, it is my understanding that it is the intent of the gentleman to withdraw his amendment.

That being the case, I will withdraw my reservation of objection and claim the opposition time.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding this time to me. So with almost $4 billion invested in these programs and OPIC’s...

   1. Roadways;
   2. Railroads;
   3. Airports (runway length of 2,100 meters or more);
   4. Large port and harbor developments;
   5. Inland waterways and ports that permit passage of vessels of over 1,350 tons.
I. Major oil and gas developments.
J. Oil and gas pipelines.
K. Disposal of toxic or dangerous wastes:
   1. Incineration;
L. Landfill.
M. Construction or significant expansion of dams and reservoirs not otherwise prohibited.
N. Pulp and paper manufacturing.
O. Mining.
P. Offshore hydrocarbon production.
Q. Major storage of petroleum, petrochemical and chemical products.
R. Forestry/large scale logging.
S. Large scale wastewater treatment.
T. Domestic solid waste processing facilities.
U. Large-scale tourism development.
V. Large-scale power transmission.
W. Large-scale reclamation.
X. Large-scale agriculture involving the intensification of development of previously undisturbed land.
Y. All projects with potentially major impacts on people or serious socioeconomic concerns.
Z. Projects, not categorically prohibited, but located in or sufficiently near sensitive locations of national or regional importance to have perceptible environmental impacts on:
   1. Wetlands;
   2. Areas of archaeological significance;
   3. Areas prone to erosion and/or desertification;
   4. Areas of importance to ethnic groups/independent peoples;
   5. Primary temperate/boreal forests;
   6. Coral reefs;
   7. Mangrove swamps;
   8. Nationally-designated seashore areas;
   9. Managed resource protected areas, protected landscape/seascape (IUCN categories V and VI) as defined by IUCN’s Guidelines for Protected Area Management Categories; additionally, these projects must meet IUCN’s management objectives and follow the spirit of IUCN definitions.

Chairman, this member will finally include with information as to why the Kucinich amendment on OPIC supports investment funds will kill the new Africa Infrastructure Fund.

The Kucinich amendment is a bullet to the heart of OPIC’s $350-million New Africa Infrastructure Fund.

This amendment would:
Stop the fund from investing in a majority of infrastructure projects (since many infrastructure projects are environmentally sensitive).
Prohibit most investments in clean water, sewage treatment, transportation, electric power and other projects that improve the lives of African people.
Undercut the fund’s ability to raise the private sector matching funds.
Make the fund unviable and less able to invest in women and microenterprises.

It would deny the benefits of the fund, including:
6,800 new jobs for Africans.
Almost $50 million in annual revenues for the countries of sub-Saharan Africa.
$2.5 billion in additional financing capital to Africa.
$350 million in exports from the United States.

II. This amendment undercuts the environmental protections and new transparency built into the New Africa Infrastructure Fund.

OPIC has world-class environmental standards that apply to all OPIC programs and funds:

All environmentally sensitive projects must undergo a complete environmental impact assessment.
The New Africa Infrastructure Fund projects will provide for public notice and public comment period in the host country.

All environmentally sensitive projects must meet OPIC requirements to mitigate potential environmental harm.

All environmentally sensitive projects are subject to OPIC environmental monitoring over the life of a project.

The New Africa Infrastructure Fund must have at all times an environmental management system and a full-time qualified environmental expert supervising the implementation of OPIC requirements.

III. The amendment would jeopardize investments by two other OPIC-supported Africa funds totaling $270 million.

These funds:
Would be prohibited from investments in many manufacturing, agricultural, and processing projects as well as many basic services in sub-Saharan Africa.
Will generate more than $300 million in US exports (estimated).
Will create an estimated 5000 African jobs.
IV. The amendment would harm, rather than help, the environment in Africa.

Because OPIC funds would be prohibited from any environmentally sensitive investments,

Some infrastructure projects will go forward with no obligation or requirement to meet OPIC’s world-class environmental standards.
Africa will lose the benefit of OPIC’s world-class standards being applied to a broad range of infrastructure, manufacturing and natural resource projects.

V. This amendment will undermine OPIC’s ability to fulfill its commitment to create another $150 million fund for Africa as called for in the House-passed Africa Growth and Opportunity Act.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE 18963

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. Stearns:

REPORT ON ATROCITIES AGAINST ETHNIC SERBIANS IN KOSOVO

SEC. ___. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available by this Act in title III under the heading “PEACEKEEPING OPERATIONS” may be expended for peacekeeping operations in the Kosovo province of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro) until the Secretary of State prepares and submits to the Congress a report containing a detailed description of the atrocities that have been committed against ethnic Serbians in Kosovo, including a description of the incident in which 14 Serbian farmers were killed on or about July 25, 1999, and a description of actions taken by North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Kosovo to prevent further atrocities.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Thursday, July 29, 1999, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order.

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, I also reserve a point of order.

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I come here tonight, Mr. Chairman, just to request a simple study. None of the funds that are appropriated under this act, under the title “peacekeeping operations,” they should not be obligated or expended for peacekeeping operations in Kosovo, province of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, until the Secretary of State prepares and submits to this Congress a report containing a detailed description of the atrocities that have been committed in this case against the Serbians in Kosovo.

Thirty-four churches. Mr. Chairman, have been bombed since the Air Force, since NATO has stopped their bombing exercise and we declared that we won the war, and of course recently 14 Serbian farmers were massacred on or about July 25, 1999; and my point this evening is that we are going to appropriate more money for peacekeeping organizations will amount to nothing if the perpetrators of these and other crimes are not brought to justice. This report on a massacre committed against the Serbs including the July 25 massacre is necessary if the NATO-led peacekeeping force intends to prevent any further atrocities from happening in Kosovo.

Again, I support this important amendment, and I ask my colleagues to join me in voting for the Stearns amendment; and again I think we are all concerned about events in Kosovo. We are all concerned about what happened to the Kosovar Albanians. Let justice be consistent, and let us also be concerned about what is happening to the Serbs.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, still reserving my point of order, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would like to enter into a colloquy with the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) about his concerns in Kosovo and about the atrocities committed against the innocent Serb citizens who are trying to do the same thing that the Kosovars were doing when they actually did Kosovar into Albania. We are not going to tolerate that.

With respect to the gentleman's concern about reconstruction in Kosovo, as subcommittee chairman, along with the full committee chairman, we have a full hold on all money going to Kosovo until such a time as the administration proves to us that the money is going to be spent for the intended purpose of refugee assistance.

The United States cannot tolerate the slaughter of Serbs. They are faced with the same problem, the same philosophy, the reverse of the states; and we cannot tolerate that, and we must insist with the administration at some point, which I think I can do that as chairman of this subcommittee, of accountability.

Give us an audit of every activity of what is taking place there. How can we continue to tolerate this? Or how can we continue not to speak out so openly against the same atrocities that led Congress to appropriate the millions of dollars that we sent to Kosovo and the front-line states.

So I share my colleagues' concerns, but I still reserve my point of order.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CALLAHAN. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman is absolutely correct. And I am surprised the gentleman is not even aware of the fact that another, that other action has granted $20 million for security for Kosovo, and with the KLA being in charge of the province, it raises questions as to whether or not that money would actually be for the interests of the Serbs, or security of the Serbs, or security of the province.

So I thank the gentleman for expressing his concern that was raised by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS), and I appreciate the gentleman's sentiments.

ORGANIZED CRIME GANGS RULE KOSOVO

(By Laura Rozen)

Around 30 people a week are being killed in Kosovo as organized gangs take advantage of the U.N.'s failure to police the province. U.N. spokesman Jamie Shea admitted yesterday a "law and order vacuum" has been created by a long delay in deploying U.N. civil administrators and an expected 3,000-strong police force. But the war-torn province was not yet out of control.

Western diplomats in Pristina say gangs, some of which are suspected of having links to the Kosovar Liberation Army, are taking apartments, real estate, businesses, fuel supplies and cars from Kosovo Albanians and Serbs, who have little recourse to justice.

A British K-For officer in Pristina said: "UNMIK (the U.N. interim administration) is unprepared to take over law and order. In some areas, lack of people, and legitimate rules, a vacuum has occurred.

"That vacuum is being filled by organized crime. Albanian gangs are invitign Kosovo Serbs to leave their apartments, andiros, and those linked to the KLA. Some Serbs have fled Kosovo since NATO assured its Serb neighbors they are being invited to leave.''

Because so many Kosovo Albanians had identity documents and license plates seized by Serb forces, and because there are now no border controls, many gangs are moving in unhampered by the 37,000 K-For soldiers.

While the U.N. plans to deploy 35 international police, only 400 have arrived. The police commander has decided not to put troops into active service until he has enough to patrol entire areas. Currently, the commander says, his mandate is for border police to keep out more gangs and smugglers.

The German K-For commander, General Fritz von Koriff, said his soldier stop cars to search for weapons and frequently come across smuggled items, such as massive amounts of cigarettes, particularly at the Mitrovica-Kukes border crossing. But Nato's mandate does not permit his soldiers to confiscate any item except weapons, and the police are permitted to take only their loot if it is believed they are from the province.

One of the biggest problems involves gangs that move into Kosovo homes to claim ownership or threatening to beat those who refuse to move out.

No statistics are available on the number of property seizures, but anecdotal evidence suggests a growing problem. And, while initially it seemed that seizures were ethnically motivated, and targeted at Kosovo Serbs in the capital Pristina, increasingly Kosovo Albanians are victims as well.

Kosovo's provisional prime minister, KLA leader Hashim Thaci, 31, denied his organization was behind seizures of Kosovo Serb apartments. "We have no such information. We know there are those who have left Kosovo, but we have not forced anybody to leave, or put pressure on them to leave. That is propaganda. Any one who has not committed crimes is free to live in Kosovo."

According to a U.N. official, a police commander, who asked not to be identified, intelligence suggests there are three main types of organized criminal gangs in Kosovo: Russian, Albanian and those linked to the KLA. Some analysts suggest that the seized apartments and other looted goods are the KLA's way of paying debts to arms procurers, funders and important soldiers and officials.

U.N. officials deny the organization's slow response is responsible for Kosovo's growing

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

August 2, 1999

Mr. OLVER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding this time to me, and I also would like to associate myself with the comments that have been made by the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee. There is no question that there is no shortage of hatred in Kosovo these days, and I would just point out that the first sizable delegation of Members of the Congress was led by the gentleman from Ohio, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Military Construction, of which I serve as the ranking member, and we saw the attempt on the part of American forces there, having detained some 10 or so Serbian Kosovars and some, almost 30, Albanian Kosovars for a variety of actions, but there are no courts in Kosovo to send those actions to, actions of looting and arson and, in fact, murder. In this instance, the 10 Serbian farmers, and one can surely not condone that kind of activity, already three people have been arrested for that. On the other hand, there have been no arrests and may well never be. In fact, the perpetrators out of the Yugoslavian armed forces are probably quite free and among the elite of the military in Belgrade at this time for the atrocities; and I could go into a list of them, one after another, the atrocities of 50 and 50 people who had been killed and burned, hacked apart by machete attack, small children, children as young as 2 years shot in the head, along with aged people thrown into a well along with cows and rocks and so forth as part of the atrocities that were perpetrated there. So there is no shortage of atrocities, but we cannot condone those activities, and I thank the gentleman for withdrawing his amendment.

Mrs. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendment offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) is withdrawn.

Amendment offered by Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment. The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

(1) appreciates the efforts of the Organization of African Unity and the Government of Algeria for aiding in the negotiations between Eritrea and Ethiopia; (2) encourages the completion of the mediation efforts between Eritrea and Ethiopia to enter into proximity talks in Algeria for implementing a cease-fire between the two countries; (3) appreciates the de facto cease-fire agreed to by Eritrea and Ethiopia; (4) appreciates the efforts of the Organization of African Unity and the Government of Algeria for aiding in the negotiations between Eritrea and Ethiopia; (5) in order to more firmly move Eritrea and Ethiopia toward a resolution of the conflict between the two countries, expresses its intent to reconsider its position with respect to Eritrea and Ethiopia if there is a resumption of hostilities between the two countries.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Thursday, July 29, 1999, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I wish to associate myself with my colleagues' remarks, and I look forward to working with them to press upon the administration the concerns that were expressed here by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH), and I commend them for their leadership on this issue.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, to further comment, too, on my comments, as my colleagues know, I have a friend who is from greater Serbia. He now lives in French Guyana. His name is Mr. Novik, and Mr. Novik has kept me posted throughout this entire encounter on the feelings of a lot of Serbian people which are diametrically opposed to Mr. Milosevic. So we do have some people in Serbia who deserve some attention, some respect because they do differ with Mr. Milosevic, but in any event the gentleman's point is taken. I hope he will withdraw it, and if so, I will remove my point of order.

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the distinguished gentleman from Alabama, and I will withdraw it. I just would like to make a final argument here.

I think the gentleman has touched upon it, and my good colleague from Ohio has touched upon it when he mentions the word "accountability." We need to take taxpayers' money and help people; I understand that. But in the overall understanding of this project, we need to have accountability for the taxpayers' money, how it is being spent. So with that in mind, and I am hopeful that the chairman will consider part of what I have in report language, if not at least to make the attempt to tell the administration that money will not be given, taxpayers' money will not be given until there is full accountability in this case and that we have balance and fairness.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Before, Mr. Chairman, I had forgotten I told the gentleman from Massachusetts that I would yield to him. Whatever time remaining I have on my point of order, I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. OLVER) for 2 minutes.

Mr. OLVER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding this time to me, and I would like to associate myself with the comments that have been made by the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee. There is no question that there is no shortage of hatred in Kosovo these days, and I would just point out that the first sizable delegation of Members of the Congress was led by the gentleman from Ohio, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Military Construction, of which I serve as the ranking member; and we saw the attempt on the part of American forces there, having detained some 10 or so Serbian Kosovars and some, almost 30, Albanian Kosovars for a variety of actions, but there are no courts in Kosovo to send those actions to, actions of looting and arson and, in fact, murder. Amendment offered by Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment. The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

(1) expresses its satisfaction with the decision of President Isais of the State of Eritrea and Prime Minister Meles of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia to agree to the Organization of African Unity (OAU) framework in settling the border dispute between Eritrea and Ethiopia; (2) encourages the completion of the mediation efforts between Eritrea and Ethiopia to enter into proximity talks in Algeria for implementing a cease-fire between the two countries; (3) appreciates the de facto cease-fire agreed to by Eritrea and Ethiopia; (4) appreciates the efforts of the Organization of African Unity and the Government of Algeria for aiding in the negotiations between Eritrea and Ethiopia; (5) in order to more firmly move Eritrea and Ethiopia toward a resolution of the conflict between the two countries, expresses its intent to reconsider its position with respect to Eritrea and Ethiopia if there is a resumption of hostilities between the two countries.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Thursday, July 29, 1999, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, just a few minutes ago I rose in opposition to the Burton amendment regarding cutting funds to India because of my reasoning for such strong opposition was to encourage opportunities for peace and the resolution of the conflict and to encourage India to engage in efforts to resolve the tragic conflict and to support India in that effort.

I now rise to express that same kind of support for the terrible tragedy that is occurring in Eritrea and Ethiopia. I rise with a sense of Congress to encourage a peaceful resolution of Eritrea and the Ethiopian conflict and to offer this amendment to acknowledge that there has been progress.

Currently negotiations are being conducted by the State of Eritrea and the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia. These negotiations are in response to their governments' acceptance of the OAU framework, the Organization of African unity framework, to settle the dispute between these two critical on the Horn of Africa.

Our colleague, Mickey Leland, some 10 years ago was continuing to go back and forth to Ethiopia because of the tragedy of the famine. In a few days, it will be 10 years when we lost Mickey Leland in Ethiopia on a humanitarian mission.

I know that his continued efforts there were to ensure that Ethiopia would be a strong nation, peaceful nation, and a friend of the United States. Now we have an opportunity to encourage Ethiopia and Eritrea to correct and resolve this latest conflict, and I applaud them for agreeing to engage in peace negotiations. The commitment the Prime Minister of Ethiopia and the President of Eritrea to move forward and give their people peace and tranquility should be applauded. The Ethiopia-Eritrea conflict has substantially damaged the economic growth and development of the countries and has led to humanitarian suffering on both sides of the border.

For 30 years, a problem dividing Ethiopia and Eritrea was Eritrea's claim that its people have a right to self-determination. In 1991, this long and costly struggle ended through a coalition built to topple the Ethiopian dictatorship that was not acceptable to either country. For 7 years of peace, both neighbors pursued paths of economic and social development to give rise to the very idea of renaissance, establishing a path to economic growth and a better quality of life for the people.

The border dispute that ignited hostilities has smothered any confidence that things would be really better. The war has taken a vicious toll on the people in the countries. The number of casualties are almost surreal. We have seen reports of over 18,000 victims within 3 or 4 days of fighting. Individual border battles have involved over 90,000 soldiers fighting from various fronts. In Eritrea the army is estimated to be over 250,000 soldiers, men and women, a huge drain on a population of 3.5 people.

That is why I brought to the attention of this Congress my desire for a sense of Congress to acknowledge the movement, the progress, that has been made, the fact that the OAU agreement has been accepted or at least has been moved on and as well that there are efforts toward trying to resolve this.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. I yield to the gentleman from New York, the Chairman of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, I share the gentlewoman's concerns that Ethiopia and Eritrea, two fine countries that have already suffered too many years of communist dictatorship, have spent 14 months at war with one another, and the loss has been tragic. We are hopeful now that there is a cease-fire that they will implement the OAU agreement and a better quality of life for the people.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, I know that the distinguished chairman of our committee will be the point of order on this sense of the Congress motion, but I did want to take a half a moment to join her in commending our former colleague here, Mickey Leland. When the gentlewoman mentioned that it is 10 years, it seems impossible, but indeed it was 1989. I was with my family in Cairo when we got word of news. We were all going to join Mickey in Nairobi when he left Ethiopia. Of course, he invited everyone to go to Ethiopia with him.

Fortunately for everyone else, he did not have a large enough plane for everyone. Maybe if he had a larger plane, he would still be with us. Every day I remember him, because his picture is on the wall of my office, holding a baby, that beautiful picture of Mickey Leland. He was there, not helping the countries, but helping people.

I am particularly pleased that the gentlewoman at least has us focused on peace in that region because that is what we should be working toward. Once again, I commend the gentlewoman for calling the Congress' attention to this important region of the world.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I share the gentlewoman's concern about the war in Ethiopia and Eritrea, and I too am optimistic that the war between these two nations will soon be ending. I remind Members that bin Laden has long utilized Sudan as a terrorist training ground. In fact, Sudan served as a safe-harbor for the bin Laden terrorists who blew up the U.S. embassies in Tanzania and in Kenya. But I sincerely hope that the gentlewoman would withdraw her amendment. I do not want to insist on my point of order, but I must insist if the gentlewoman does not choose to withdraw it.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mr. CALLAHAN. I yield to the gentlewoman from Texas.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. If the chairman would allow me just to summarize, then I would like to ask unanimous consent upon my summary to withdraw this amendment.

I appreciate very much the chairman of the Committee, the chairman of the Committee on International Relations and their ranking members for their kind words and agreement with me on the importance of this issue.

Let me close by simply saying that we have at least the makings of the potential of an opportunity for peace. The de facto cease-fire and the work of the government of Algeria in aiding the negotiations between Eritrea and Ethiopia should also be recognized, and hopefully the Congress will continue to monitor this circumstance to avoid the loss of life and certainly in tribute to my predecessor, Mickey Leland and his love for mankind we can monitor the circumstances there.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, I share the gentlewoman's concerns that Ethiopia and Eritrea, two fine countries that have already suffered many years of communist dictatorship, have spent 14 months at war with one another.

I am very hopeful that they will implement the cease-fire and return to peace.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 9 offered by Mr. PAUL:

At the end of the bill, insert after the last section (preceding the short title) the following:

SEC. . None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available by this Act may be used to provide any money for population control, family planning programs; (2) family planning activities; or (3) abortion procedures.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alabama will control the time in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to transfer my 5 minutes to the gentleman from California (Ms. Pelosi), and that she may yield said time.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alabama?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. Paul) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, the amendment is straightforward. It prohibits the use of any money for population control, family planning, or abortion of any funds authorized in this bill, appropriated in this bill.

Mr. Chairman, the question really is this: Should the American taxpayer be required to pay for birth control pills, IUDs, Depo-Provera, Norplant, condom distribution, as well as abortion in foreign countries. Those who believe this is a proper and legitimate function will vote against the amendment. Those who believe that it is not a proper function for us to be doing these things around the world would vote for my amendment.
Mr. Chairman, I mention abortion because although this bill does not authorize funds directly for abortion, any birth control activity that is involved in projects that receive funds from us and are involved with abortion, all they do is shift the funds. All funds are fungible, so any country that we give money to that is involved with abortion, for whatever reason—or especially in a family planning clinic, can very easily shift those funds and perform abortions. So this is very, very clear-cut.

I would like to spend a minute though on the authority that is cited for doing such a thing. Under the House rules, the committee is required to at least cite the constitutional authority for doing what we do on each of our bills. Of course, I was curious about this, because I was wondering whether this could be the general welfare. This does not sound like the general welfare of the U.S. taxpayer, to be passing out condoms and birth control pills and forcing our will on other people, imposing our standards on them and forcing our taxpayers to pay. That does not seem to have anything to do whatsoever with the general welfare of this country.

Of course, the other clause that is generally used in our legislation is the interstate commerce clause. Well, it would be pretty tough, pretty tough, justifying passing out condoms in the various countries of the world under the interstate commerce clause.

So it was very interesting to read exactly what the justification is. The Committee on Appropriations, quoting from the committee report, the Committee on Appropriations bases its authority to report this legislation from clause 7, section 9 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States of America, "no power shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriation made by law." "Appropriations contained in this act," the report says, "are made pursuant to this specific power granted by the Constitution."

That is not a power. That was a prohibition. It was to keep us from spending money without appropriation. It is not even a power. It is with grave disappointment, frankly, that this amendment is even being proposed, though I respect the gentleman’s right to do so, and I respect the gentleman.

If this Paul amendment would be enacted, it would cause deaths and suffering for millions of children. I say that without any fear of contradiction.

Of course, we all want to reduce the number of abortions performed throughout the world, and the best way to do that is to promote family planning. It seems hard to believe that the gentleman would stand up and say he does not know why it is in our national interests that we improve the plight of children, poor children and families throughout the world by allowing them the opportunity to make decisions for themselves about the timing and the number of children that a family would have, or that the impact that this has on women, alleviating poverty, raising the literacy and, thereby, giving more empowerment to women by having them control their own destinies.

The issue of population, certainly we understand that our world’s resources are finite. I think that most would agree that it is in our interests as well as the interests of every person living on this Earth that we husband our resources very carefully, and that includes curbing uncontrolled population growth. I say that as one who does not support any forced measures in that end, but voluntary efforts to that end.

This amendment would close the most effective avenue to preventing abortions. The gentleman says that well, if we spend this money, then the organizations that use this money but also perform abortions have this underwriting, or the money is fungible, and, therefore, we are supporting abortions. I think the gentleman is full well that no funds may be used for abortion procedures. That is the law of the land. We reiterate it every time we have a discussion on this subject. If you are going to apply fungibility, you would have to apply it to everything we do here. I do not know why all of a sudden when it comes to international family planning, fungibility becomes a principle, but when we are dealing with the defense bill or any other authorizations, we never say that giving money for this, or the other purpose helps that country underwrite some practices that we might not approve of.

The amendment would end a more than 30-year-old program recognized as one of the most successful components of U.S. foreign assistance. Tens of millions of couples, Mr. Chairman, in the developing world are using family planning as a direct result of this program, and the average number of children per family basis has, on average, decreased by more than one-third since the 1960’s.

Three out of four Americans surveyed in 1995 wanted to increase or maintain spending on family planning for poor countries. I was, this year, in India and saw what happened in those states where there was effective family planning as opposed to what was the plight of the people in areas where the women did not have access to this family planning information.

So I believe that this amendment would be contrary to the interests and values of the vast majority of the people in the world, and certainly, speaking in our own terms, of the American people. In February 1997, both the House and the Senate showed their commitment to the USAID International Family Planning Program by voting for the early release of funds specifically for this program.

We had to have a vote at that time. Mr. Chairman, I see some of my colleagues on their feet, and I am pleased to yield to the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), chairman of the House Committee on International Relations.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Chairman, I want to associate myself with the remarks of the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI). Population control, population planning is so important today. That is the next crisis that we are to be confronted with. The growth of populations around the world is going to lead to hunger in impoverished areas. And where we have hunger and poverty, we soon have war.

The best way to prevent that is to help with family planning and with population control. And I thank the gentlewoman for her arguments in opposition to this amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. PELOSI. I yield to the gentleman from Alabama.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, it is my duty in this House as chairman of this subcommittee to draft a bill. And in order to draft a bill, I have to depend upon a very able staff which really did the drafting of this 119 pages of law that hopefully will be passed tomorrow morning.

But upon my instruction, I would like to reiterate, and I know the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) has already brought it out, but since I am responsible for writing this bill, the bill says that none of the funds made available under this heading may be used to pay for the performance of abortions as a method of family planning.

So I just wanted to make perfectly clear my position as the author of this bill with respect to abortions.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, the gentleman’s position is well known.

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the gentlewoman makes the point that we should not use... the abortion issue to talk about fungibility and I believe that she is correct. I think it should apply to everything. This is the reason I do not strongly oppose Export-Import Bank money going to Red China. Their violations of civil liberties and abortions are good reasons why we should not do it, and yet they are the greatest recipient of our foreign aid from the Exim Bank. $5.9 billion they have received over the years.
So I would say, yes, the gentlewoman is correct. All of these programs are fungible. And I agree that the wording in the bill says that our funds cannot be used. But when we put our funds in with other funds, all of the sudden they are in a pool and they can shift them around and there is a real thing called fungibility.
So once we send money to a country for any reason, we endorse what they do. Therefore, we should be rather cautious. As a matter of fact, if we were cautious enough we would not be in the business of taking money at the point of a gun from our American taxpayer, doing things that they find abhorrent around the world and imposing our will and our standards on them.
Mr. Chairman, birth control methods are not perfectly safe. As a gynecologist, I have seen severe complications from the use of IUDs and Depo-Provera and Norplant. Women can have strokes with birth control pill. These are not benign.
And my colleagues say we want to stop the killing and abortions, but every time that the abortion is done with fungible funds, it is killing a human being, an innocent human being. So for very real reasons, if we were serious about stopping this and protecting the American taxpayer, there is nothing wrong with some of these goals. I agree. As a gynecologist, I would agree with the goals, but they should not be done through coercion. They should be done through voluntary means through churches and charities. That is the way it should be done.
Mr. Chairman, we do not have the authority to coerce our people to work hard, pay their taxes, and then take the money into foreign countries and impose our will on them.
The CHAIRMAN. All time for debate has expired.
The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL).
The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the nay appeared to have it.
Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote, and pending that I make the point of order that a quorum is not present.
The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 263, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MS. JACKSON-LEE OF TEXAS:

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:
The amendment offered by Ms. JACKson-LEE of Texas:

Sec. 2. (a) Of the amounts made available in title III under the account "INTER-ATIONAL MILITARY EDUCATION AND TRAIN-
ING", $4,000,000 made available for the United States Army School of the Americas is transferred as follows:

(1) $2,000,000 is transferred to the account "ECONOMIC SUPPORT FUND" in title II and made available for providing training and education of Tibetans in democracy activities and for monitoring the human rights situation in Tibet.

(2) $2,000,000 is transferred to the account "UNITED STATES EMERGENCY REFUGEE AND Migration Assistance Fund" in title II and made available for the Tibetan refugee program.

Of the funds appropriated in this Act in title II under the account "ECONOMIC SUP-PORT FUND", not less than $2,250,000 shall be made available for providing training and education of Tibetans in democracy activities and for monitoring the human rights situation in Tibet.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order against the amendment.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, in actuality I wish I did not have to rise to the floor to offer this amendment. I wish that Tibet was living in peace and harmony. I wish the Dalai Lama who is in exile, who I had an opportunity to meet and discuss these issues with, was free to go back to Tibet.

My amendment offers to provide $4 million to the Economic Support Fund to provide training and education of Tibetans in democracy activities and for monitoring the human rights situation in Tibet made worse by the activities of China. In addition, we would like to encourage them in their efforts, encourage them in being able to monitor the various human rights abuse.

Indeed, when in 1989 the Dalai Lama, leader of the Tibetan people, received the Nobel peace prize, the international community documented its commitment to free Tibet. There are 110,000 Tibetan refugees living in 53 settlements in India, Nepal and Bhutan. Over 1.2 million Tibetans have died in a widespread program of imprisonment torture and executions orchestrated by China. Tibet's unique culture and Buddhist religion have been systematically suppressed as China has looted Tibet's enormous mineral wealth, natural resources, and priceless art treasures, and forced the Chinese to fuel its own economic growth.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to congratulate the Committee on International Relations for its removal of $8 million from the World Bank to avoid this so-called apartheid system where there was a movement of 50,000 Chinese farmers into Tibet creating almost an apartheid system where the Tibetans would not have the good jobs or opportunities, but the Chinese would.

Coercive birth control policies, including forced abortion and sterilization, are continuing to wipe out the Tibetan people. It is important that the children be foremost in our focus on peaceful efforts to return Tibet to its people and to bring the Dalai Lama home.

I rise Mr. Chairman to offer an amendment which will take $4 million out of the fund which contains the Foreign Ops funding for the School of the Americans, and redistribute it to the Economic Support and the Emergency Refugee and Migrations Assistance Funds for specific use in Tibet.

As we recently remembered the 10th anniversary of the Tainanmen Square tragedy we continue to acknowledge the human rights abuses imposed upon the people by the Chinese government. Whether on the mainland or in other countries, we must continue to support the Tibetan people and the international community documented its commitment to a free Tibet.

There are about 110,000 Tibetan refugees living in 53 settlements in India, Nepal and Bhutan. Over 1.2 million Tibetans have died in a widespread program of imprisonment, torture and executions orchestrated by China.

Tibet's unique culture and Buddhist religion have been systematically suppressed as China has looted Tibet's enormous mineral wealth, natural resources and priceless art treasures, transporting them back to China to fuel its own economic growth.

An apartheid system is in place, following the mass migration of Chinese into Tibet. These immigrants now dominate the economy and hold all the best jobs. Employment prospects for Tibetans are virtually nonexistent because this is a priority. The plight of the people of Tibet challenges the conscience of the world and by and large the world ignores their plight. Our bill says it all.

Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) I commend for bringing the plight of the Tibetan people to the attention once again of our colleagues. The gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN), our distinguished chairman, has been most cooperative on this issue of Tibet. It is a priority for many of us on the committee and, of course, the gentleman from New York (Mr. GILMAN), chairman of the authorizing committee, has been a champion on the Tibet issue for a long time.

As the gentleman from Alabama said, the funds are in the bill already because this is a priority. The plight of the people of Tibet challenges the conscience of the world and by and large the world ignores their plight. Our bill does not, and the more attention we give it, the better.

Mr. Chairman, even though this may not be able to be received by the full House this evening, nonetheless, the bright light that the gentlewoman focuses on Tibet once again is appreciated and will contribute to freedom there one day.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I would like to conclude by simply thanking both the ranking member and the chairman for the efforts that have been made in the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs, as well as that of the chairman of the Committee on International Relations. My effort tonight was to provide more resources because of the horrific situation in Tibet. The abuse of human rights and the exile of the Dalai Lama in Tibet would continue to work with all of the committee and as well the chairman, ranking member of the subcommittee and the Chairman of the Committee on International Relations.
as we try to bring peace and dignity to the Tibetan people.

Mr. CALLAHAN. I yield 1 1/2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, we have already discussed the impact of the closing down of OPIC earlier tonight, and my colleagues can see that the will of the House certainly agreed with those of us who think that we must have this competitive level playing field with the rest of the G-7 Nations.

The gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) is absolutely right when it says that we should have free trade. We should trade with our friends and with anybody who would trade that we would really, really be careful about issuing sanctions. But here we are, last week we had the great debate and a lot of people could not stand the idea of trading with Red China because of their human rights record and I understand that, although I did not accept that position. But this is the time to do something about it.

Trading with Red China under true free trade is a benefit to both of us. It is a benefit to our consumers and it benefits both countries because we are talking with people and we are not fighting with them. But it gets to be a serious problem when we tax our people in order to benefit those who are receiving the goods overseas.

Now, if there is a worldwide downturn, this $55 billion of liabilities out there could be very significant in how it is going to be paid back. The Chinese right now, their economy is not all that healthy. They are talking about a devaluation.

So this is a liability that the American taxpayers are exposed to. If we do have a concern about Red China and the Chinese, yes, let us work with them, let us trade with them, but let us not subsidize.

This is what I am trying to do. I am trying to stop this type of subsidies. So my bill, my amendment would stop any new obligation. It does not close down Export-Import Bank. It allows all the old loans to operate and function, but no new obligations can be made, no new guaranties, and no agreement, with the idea that someday we may truly move to free trade, that we do not recognize the use of subsidized trade as well as internationally managed trade with organizations such as NAFTA and World Trade Organization.

Those institutions are not free trade institutions. They are managed trade institutions for the benefit of special interests. That is what this type of funding is for is for the benefit of special interests, whether it is our domestic corporation, which, indeed, I would recognize does receive some benefit.

Sixty-seven percent of all the funding of the Export-Import Bank goes to, not a large number of companies, to five companies. I will bet my colleagues, if they look at those five companies in this country that gets 67 percent of the benefit and look at their political action records, my colleagues might be enlightened. I mean, I bet my colleagues we would learn something about where that money goes, because they are big corporations and they benefit, and they will have their defenders here.

It is time we look carefully at these subsidies.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 1/2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Ms. PELOSI).

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment. In doing so, I want to correct the record. Those of us who were asking for raising tariffs on products coming from China were not interested in cutting off trade with China. What we were doing is to say, let us have the same reciprocity between our two countries as we would expect from other countries.

But then to use that and say it is all right to give a $70 billion trade surplus to the regime so they can strengthen their hold on the people of China but we should take our concerns with China on the Ex-Im Bank I think is very inappropriate. That is why I oppose it.

The Ex-Im Bank does not subsidize the Chinese government. The Ex-Im Bank subsidizes U.S. manufacturers selling into countries, including China. Mr. PAUL amendment does not allow the Export-Import Bank to assume any new business. This would mean that all of the Ex-Im’s resources would be used to liquidate existing transactions. In other words, Ex-Im would slowly, gradually shut down.

I agree with the gentleman that we must subject the Ex-Im, OPIC, and all of these institutions to harsh scrutiny. Are they performing the task that is their established purpose, to promote U.S. exports? The Ex-Im Bank, I think, from the scrutiny we subjected to it in our committee does that.

The gentleman’s amendment is ill-advised. The same would apply to OPIC, which, by the way, does not operate in China.

So I urge our colleagues to oppose this amendment for many more reasons than I have time to go into.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, we have already discussed the impact of the closing down of OPIC earlier tonight, and my colleagues can see that the will of the House certainly agreed with those of us who think that we must have this competitive level playing field with the rest of the G-7 Nations.

The gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) is absolutely right when it comes to basic sounding good things, a feel-good amendment, when he talks about Ex-Im Bank giving money to Red China. Ex-Im Bank does not give money to Red China. Ex-Im Bank loans money to American businesses to establish programs in Red China. There is no prohibition against Red China coming to the United States to invest their money in support of a similar organization in China.

What we are saying is we want to be just like the rest of the world when it comes to global economy. This is a
Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Mr. Chairman, I would like to point out that it is truly a subsidy to a foreign corporation, a foreign government. For Red China, corporations and foreign governments are essentially identical. They are not really quite in the free market yet.

But the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. CALLAHAN) points out that, no, that is not true. The money does not go to Red China and they buy things; we just give it directly. We do not even send it round trip. This is true.

We take taxpayers’ money. We take taxpayers’ guarantee. We give them to those huge five corporations that do 67 percent of the business. We give them the money. But where do the goods go? Do the goods go to the American taxpayers? No. They get all of the liabilities. The subsidies help the Chinese.

So, technically, yes, we do not send the money there. But who is going to pay it back? The Chinese pays the loan back. If they default, who pays the bill if the Chinese defaults? Who pays the bill if they default? It is obviously the taxpayers.

What I am pointing out is that $5.9 billion that the Chinese now had borrowed from us, from the Export-Import Bank, is a significant obligation that, too, is on the backs of the American taxpayers.

So I urge support for the amendment because, if we are serious about free trade, just please do not call it free trade anymore. Call it managed trade. Call it subsidized trade. Call it special interest trade. But please do not call it free trade anymore, because it is not free trade.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In closing, Mr. Chairman, I would just like to say that the $16 million, or whatever figure he is using that goes to China, goes in the form of things like airplane. Yes, a lot of it goes to Boeing, which is a huge corporation. But the benefit that the American taxpayers receive are the thousands of jobs that Boeing provides in order to export this plane to China. If indeed there was some problem, we can always go and get the airplanes back.

It is not like we are giving something away. We are just telling my colleagues that many of those Boeing jobs are located in the State of Alabama.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 283, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) will be postponed.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Payne amendment.

Mr. Chairman, the UN World Food Program (WFP) last Tuesday expressed fears of a “worsening humanitarian crisis” in southern Sudan, resulting from the inability to transport food to those who need it. This ban has made most of the region inaccessible to relief agencies trying to deliver urgent humanitarian assistance to some 150,000 people.

Mr. Chairman, the funds appropriated by this amendment which is more than $4,000,000,000 will be used for rehabilitation and economic recovery in areas of Sudan which have endured many hardships due to their remoteness and ignores the need of WFP to help support education, crop growth and other needs necessary for the basic existence of these people.

Mr. Chairman, this is a humane, well thought out, gesture offered by the gentleman from New Jersey and I urge all Members to support this amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. TINGREDO) having assumed the chair, Mr. THOMBERG, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, reported that the Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 2670) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

REPORT ON H.R. 2670, DEPARTMENTS OF COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2000

Mr. CALLAHAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 106-283) on the bill (H.R. 2670) making appropriations for the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes, which was referred to the Unión Calendar and ordered to be printed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule, all points of order are reserved on the bill.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 6, 1999, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

$800 BILLION TAX CUT, BUT NOT FOR THE MIDDLE OR LOWER CLASSES

Mr. OLVER. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that the gentleman from New Jersey and I urge all Members to support the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, this is a humane, well thought out, gesture offered by the gentleman from New Jersey and I urge all Members to support this amendment.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. TINGREDO) having assumed the chair, Mr. THOMBERG, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, reported that the Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 2670) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2000, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

REPORT ON H.R. 2670, DEPARTMENTS OF COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2000

Mr. CALLAHAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 106-283) on Whereas 95 people, starting at the lowest income person in this society issuing a tax return, if we took all 95 percent, coming up to an income of $125,000 a year, all 5 percent of that population, all 120 million would have received 39 percent of the total tax cut; whereas, the 1.25 million, the wealthiest 1.25 million, or 1 percent, would have received 45 percent of that total tax reduction. The 1 percent richest of Americans got more than 95 percent of our population whose income is below $100,000 per year.

At the other end of the scale, starting from the bottom, the lowest income person in this society issuing a tax return, if we took all 95 percent, starting from the lowest income and coming up to an income of $125,000 a year, all 5 percent of that population, all 120 million would have received 39 percent of the total tax cut; whereas, the 1.25 million, the wealthiest 1.25 million, or 1 percent, would have received 45 percent of that total tax reduction. The 1 percent richest of Americans got more than 95 percent of our population whose income is below $100,000 per year.

If I may put that in a slightly different way, if those who may still be watching would consider 100 people, 100 people, the one person who has income over $300,000 and consider that we might have $100 of tax reduction to be able to distribute among those 100 people, that that person who has income over $300,000 would get $45 of the total of $100 that is available for all tax reduction for all Americans.

Whereas 95 people, starting at the lowest income, up to the persons who might have $125,000 of income, that group of 95 people would find that they were able to receive only a total of $39 divided among the 95 of them.

Now, I do not know how many people would believe that that was a fair distribution that would suggest that this tax cut was for the middle class. That is had a substantial middle class tax cut. In fact, it is designed to make the already rich a great deal richer. And that the middle class, those people between incomes of $35,000 and perhaps $80,000 per year, would receive $1 or $2 a day, hardly a middle class tax cut.

But that is only a small part of the story. The rest of the story is what the Republican leadership makes impossible if this rich-get-very-much-richer bill were to become law. I forgot to bring the chart that I have here, but I will get it because I would like to show the American people what happens on just one issue, and that is the issue of the Nation’s debt.

If this tax bill is passed, as it was passed in the House of Representatives, then it would be nearly impossible to reduce the Nation’s debt. Let me show this chart. This chart shows where the present $3.7 trillion of debt that is publicly held was created.

The first 38 presidents, from George Washington, our first president, through Mr. Ford, our 38th president, produced $549 billion of debt. President Carter, in his 4 years, created an additional $236 billion of debt. President Reagan created, in his 8 years, $1.4 trillion. President Bush, $1.1 trillion, and President Clinton, in his almost 7 years, an additional $472 billion.

H.R. 2606

OFFERED BY: MR. KUCINICH

AMENDMENT No. 24: At the end of the bill, insert after the last section (preceding the short title) the following new section:

SEC. 17. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used by the Overseas Private Investment Corporation for any category A Investment Fund project, as listed in Appendix K, Category A Projects, of the Corporation’s Environmental Handbook of April 1999.
The Senate met at 12:01 p.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore [Mr. THURMOND].

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we praise You for great Senators in each period of our Nation’s history. And the Senate of the 106th Congress is certainly no exception. Thank you for our Senators who love You, seek Your best for our Nation, and are indefatigable in their efforts to lead with courage and vision. Over the years, you have impacted their consciences with Your Ten Commandments, Your truth, the guidance of Your Spirit, and vision for this Nation so clearly enabled by our founding fathers and mothers. Daily, refine their consciences. Purify them until they reflect the pure gold of Your character and Your priorities of righteousness, justice, and mercy. Then may their consciences guide their convictions, and may they always have the courage of these sacred convictions.

What we pray for the Senators we ask for the entire Senate family. May we all be one in asking You to develop in us a conscience saturated by Your absolutes and shaped by Your authority. To this end, Senators and all staff join in rededicating our lives to glorify You by serving our Nation. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable STROM THURMOND, a Senator from the State of South Carolina, led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, today by previous order the Senate will begin 1 hour of morning business to be followed by 2 hours of debate on S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act regarding sweepstakes. The first rollcall vote today will occur at 5:30 p.m. on passage of the sweepstakes legislation. At 3 p.m. today, the Senate will resume consideration of the Agriculture appropriations bill. It is hoped that Senators who have amendments will work with the bill managers to schedule time to debate those amendments. Additional votes beyond the 5:30 vote could occur relative to the Agriculture appropriations bill. It is the intention of the majority leader to complete action on as many appropriations bills as possible before the August recess. Therefore, Senators should be prepared to vote into the evenings throughout this whole week.

1 thank my colleagues for their attention.

I yield the floor.

MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for 10 minutes in morning business under the time allocated to Senator DASCHLE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection. It is so ordered.

(F.M. STEVENS assumed the chair.)

FAMILY FARMING IN AMERICA

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, this afternoon at 3 o’clock we will begin debate on a farm disaster relief plan that will be offered by Senator HARKIN, myself, Senators CONRAD, DASCHLE, and others. I think this will be, for those of us from farm country, one of the most important pieces of legislation addressed by this Congress this year. I know that unless one lives on a family farm, it is probably pretty hard to describe the farm crisis, but I thought I would read you a letter from one of my constituents in North Dakota.

Before I do, I am reminded of the story the former chairman of the House Agriculture Committee used to tell. Kika de la Garza was his name. He used to talk about agriculture and food by telling a story about nuclear submarines. He said he met with all these folks from the Defense Department and they told him about the wonders of these nuclear submarines the United States had. They told him about all of their provisions and all their fuel and their capabilities and their speed and their distance. And he said, well, how long can a nuclear submarine stay under the sea? And the admiral says: Until the food runs out. It was Kika de la Garza’s way of pointing out that food, after all, is the essence of most of our existence, and we are a world, a rather fragile, large globe—as seen by our astronauts who leave our Earth and go into space—and diverse interests, diverse people.

However, one thing that seems constant in this world is that we read that so many people go to bed hungry especially children, but so many people across the world go to bed hungry. Somewhere around half a billion people go to bed with a serious ache in their belly because they do not have anything to eat. Malnutrition and lack of good nutrition among billions of others exists around the world.

Then we go to the farm belt in the United States where a family is struggling to make a living on the family farm and find that its farmer loaded some grain on the truck and took it to the elevator and the grain trade said to the farmer: Your food does not have any value. Our grain trade assesses the value of your food as relatively meaningless. The farmer wonders about that because we live in such a hungry world. How could it be that what we produce in such abundance has no value?

That is what our farmers wonder. Let me talk just about these farmers in the context of their words. This is a letter from a woman in the central part of our State whose family farms; she farms. Here is the kind of plaintive cry that exists from a proud and hardworking people in our country, family farmers who take enormous risks, risk everything they have to try to make a living with seeds they plant in the ground. They do not know whether the natural disasters will occur—insects and hail and rain too much, too little. They don’t know what will happen with this money they have invested in the soil. If they finally get their crop and they escape all of those problems, they get the crop off the ground and take it to the elevator, they don’t know whether there will be a price that allows them to get a return for that crop.

These are the kinds of people who live on our family farms. They are the people who create the backbone of our society in our country. They are the people who together build a small community where they trade and do business. They build our churches in those communities. They create charities. They do the things together in a community that we forget about sometimes in our country. What is it that makes this country work at its roots? It is entrepreneurship, it is family farming, it is a sense of community, and it is a sense of sharing.

Here is a family farm. This woman says in her letter to me:

We aren’t asking for a free ride, just the possibility of surviving. We are private people and we bear our pain alone, and we don’t
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

Mr. LINCOLN. Mr. President, I rise to speak on what I think is the most critical as well as the most worthy of discussion. I think what we should be dealing with in the Senate and the Congress; that is, the emotional well-being of our children. They are truly the fabric of the success of our Nation into the next century.

All too often we have been through incidents such as Jonesboro, AK, as well as Littleton, CO. We like to talk about them and discuss these issues and the crises that are going on in our children’s minds and in their souls. But all too often we talk about it, and we seem to forget it. We don’t do what we really need to be doing on behalf of our children in this country.

Mr. President, the Safe Schools Act of 1999 will provide resources to public schools so they can remain safe and strong cornerstones of our communities.

As we move into the 21st century, we must adapt our approach to education to meet the changing needs of students, teachers and parents in these communities.
Although I am one of the youngest Members of the Senate, I grew up in Helena, Arkansas during what seemed to be a simpler time, even though we were in the height of desegregation in the South.

Our parents pulled together to make everyone’s education experience a success. Students came to school prepared to learn. Teachers had control of their classroom. The threat of school violence was virtually non-existent.

Now, more than twenty years later, things are different.

Our children are subjected to unprecedented social stresses including divorce, drug and alcohol abuse, child abuse, poverty and an explosion of technology that has good and bad uses.

These stresses exhibit themselves in the behavior of teenagers, as well as in our young children. Increasingly, elementary school children exhibit symptoms of substance abuse, academic underachievement, disruptive behavior, and even suicide.

Too many students bring guns and weapons to school.

This is a very complex problem and there is no one simple answer. It will take more than metal detectors and surveillance cameras to prevent the tragedies occurring in our schools today. But we must do something. We cannot wait any longer. We have to address this issue now.

I believe the Safe Schools Act reflects the needs and wishes of students, parents, teachers and school administrators. It is the first step toward addressing the emotional well-being of our young people.

During my Senate campaign last year, I spent a lot of time listening to parents and teachers. From my experience, the most effective solutions being at the local level.

This bill incorporates the lessons I have learned from the people of my state who are working on the front lines to educate and care for our children.

First, this bill would provide funds to elementary and secondary schools to hire additional mental health professionals.

Students today bring more to school than backpacks and lunchboxes. Many of them bring severe emotional troubles.

It is critical that schools be able to help these students and help teachers deal with them. We can possibly prevent a horrific act of violence, and if a disruptive student receives help, his or her teacher will have more control of the classroom in order to instruct all of the children there to learn.

Unfortunately, there are not nearly enough mental health professionals working in our nation’s schools today.

The American School Health Association recommends that the student-to-counselor ratio be 250:1. In secondary schools, the current ratio is 518:1. In elementary schools, where the student-to-teacher ratio exceeds 1000:1, this is just not good enough for a country as advanced as ours to not be providing the needs of our children.

The second major component of my Safe Schools Act provides funding for after-school and mentoring programs.

Many of our children go home to empty houses or spend hours every day in poorly supervised settings. Studies show that youth crime peaks between 3:00 and 7:00 p.m.

Local public schools need additional resources so they can establish or expand after school and summer programs for children.

This is a wonderful chance for the community to get involved. Many non-profit organizations can bring their resources to children in the schools and to the community.

A variety of organizations can come together to build strong after school and summer programs which enhance the academic work of students and provide them with other meaningful activities.

Many communities in Arkansas are doing just that.

The city of Fort Smith has begun the SPICE Program, which has been working for nine years with adult tutors who help kids after-school with homework, and teach them arts and crafts which keep them out of trouble.

In Little Rock the Camp Aldersgate Youth Initiative encourages teenagers to participate in supervised community service activities, such as tutoring, recreation and conflict management.

The Safe Jonesboro Mentoring Program in Jonesboro, Arkansas, brings adults from the local business community to Jonesboro High School once a week to mentor high school student.

And just being put into place in our larger towns, they’re also cropping up in rural communities.

In Monticello and six counties throughout Southeast Arkansas, the Southeast Arkansas Foster Grandparents Program has helped improve literacy and reading test scores for hundreds of children. In this program, senior citizens serve as literacy and reading tutors to K-3 elementary school students twenty hours a week.

The Boys, Girls and Adults Community Development Center in Marvell, a Save the Children grantee, has been providing educational, cultural and recreational activities, as well as mentoring for children after school. 60% of the children participating in this program have improved their grade point average. It works.

Studies show that one-on-one attention raises the academic scores of children and improves their self-esteem. With just a little extra help, a child who is struggling with reading or math can catch up with the help of volunteers or mentors and excel.

We can utilize organizations like AmeriCorps and our older volunteers in the Senior Corps program. Encourage high school students majoring in elementary school students who need a little extra attention, to see an older peer being a part of their life makes a difference.

The bottom line is we don’t need to reinvent the wheel. Good examples already exist in our communities, initiatives like the ones I’ve mentioned today. By providing added resources to the states, we can emphasize the successful programs and make them available to more students.

I’m also asking states to inform parents about the quality of public schools by issuing a Safe Schools Report Card. My own state of Arkansas will begin releasing a more comprehensive report card next year.

All states should collect this information and make it readily available to parents and the community. This information will help parents and schools officials better address the most important issues at the local level.

Above all, we must continue to share information and ideas, to talk to one another. Our country cannot possibly meet the challenges of the 21st century if each community operates in a vacuum and there is no mechanism to pass on what is working and what isn’t.

During the August Recess I will hold five “Back to School” meetings with students, parents, teachers, school administrators and concerned citizens.

These meetings will be a good chance to discuss the various components of my Safe Schools Act as well as other important education issues like school construction, class size, school discipline and parent involvement.

I welcome the chance to listen to the concerns of people who care deeply about our public schools and I hope my colleagues will spend some of their time during the recess to do the same.

I also hope my colleagues will take the opportunity to review the components of this bill. I feel strongly it should be a critical part of any federal response to school safety issues. I look forward to its passage.

This is our opportunity to begin the process that will show our children we do care about their emotional well being and the future success of our nation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks recognition?

The Senator from Wyoming.

PRIVILEGE OF THE FLOOR

Mr. THOMAS, Mr. President, first of all, I ask unanimous consent that Brooks Hayek, who works on my staff, be permitted the privilege of the floor during today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.
Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I would like to take 12 minutes of the time allotted, and then the Senator from Montana would like 20 minutes following that time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ISSUES AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS
OF 1999

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, this is the last week before we go on recess. We will be gone approximately a month. We will have an opportunity to be home, to talk to our constituents about the issues that are here, to talk about what we have done during this calendar year, and talk about what we have not done for this year as well. We will be back, then, the first part of September. We will have, probably, 2 months to continue and to complete our work for this year.

There are 13 appropriations bills that must be passed to keep the Government running. They must be passed by September end of the fiscal year. This is a very difficult task. We are, hopefully, running on time. We passed eight bills out of the Senate. However, none has yet been sent to the President. So we will have a couple of months to wind up the year's work. I cannot tell you how important it is that we do complete that work. Of course, the Presiding Officer is the key Senator in that regard. He has done a great job.

We do not want the President to be able to put us in a position again of closing down the Government and blaming the Congress. I hope what we do is get these bills to him. I think we will do that. I cannot help but mention as we think about this a little bit, I hope in Congress we take a look at a biennial budget, as we have in many States—for instance, my home State of Wyoming. The Congress or the legislature would form a budget for a 2-year period, which has advantages, particularly for the agencies, and we would have the other year for oversight, which is equally as important a task for the Congress—to oversee the expenditure of those dollars. So I hope we are able to do that.

This has been a tough year. We have had lots of difficulties, starting, of course, with the impeachment process, which was difficult. I don't know that it slowed us up particularly. On the contrary, we did a lot of committee work during the time the impeachment was going on. Nevertheless, it was tough. Then came the Colorado Columbine situation, of course, the tragedy out there at the school and, with that, the great controversy over gun control, which we are likely to see again now after the tragedy in Georgia. Then Kosovo was also an issue, of course, although Congress really was not as involved. It was pretty much the President on his own, committing troops there. Obviously, we were going to support him.

So it has been a difficult year. Despite that, it seems to me we have accomplished a great deal. I am a little disappointed that most of the accomplishments have been made without the support of the minority. Our friends on the other side have, in fact, opposed nearly everything that has been done—I think, unfortunately, often more to create an issue than to create a solution. That often is the choice we have; you can cook up something you can take home to talk about in political rhetoric, as opposed to trying to find some solutions.

But we have accomplished a great deal. Much of the controversy will continue, I suppose. There are legitimate differences of view on the floor on almost every issue. Generally, the issue is the larger issue of whether or not you want more and more Federal Government, more and more Federal regulation, more and more taxes—which is basically Senators on that side of the aisle as opposed to this side of the aisle, where we are looking for limited government, where we are looking for less regulation, where we are looking for an opportunity for people to spend more of their own money.

So basically, when you get down to it in almost all these issues, if you really pare it away, that is the debate. Legitimate? Yes, indeed, it is legitimate. I happen to be on the side of being more conservative, of thinking we ought to be moving more and more of these decisions back to the States and to the counties rather than deciding everything, one-size-fits-all, at the Federal level. But these are the differences, and they are the basis for most of the things we find in conflict. We have had less cooperation from the administration than I had hoped we would have, from that side of the aisle. I think the President is seeking to change his image so the politics become more important than the movement of the congressional budget.

Let's review some of the highlights. The most recent one, of course, is the passage of tax relief, something I think is very legitimate, perfectly logical. We were the advocates about it, of course. One of the keys, naturally, is that you have to talk about reduction of taxes after having done something to save Social Security, having done something to strengthen Medicare, that is part of the program. That is not the choice.

We see these polls that are run from time to time. They say: Would you rather have Social Security protected or would you rather have tax relief? That is not the choice. That is one of the things we worked at. All of us are setting aside this surplus that comes from Social Security for the preservation of Social Security. These funds which will be used to reduce taxes and give some tax relief are beyond that.

I think one of the best illustrations is that the first dollar has three dollars. This is basically the surplus we are looking at in the next 10 years, $3 trillion, each of these. Two of them are being set aside for Social Security. Tax relief constitutes about 75 percent of the third one, with the additional amount of the third one being set aside for spending and for Medicare. The press has not been very helpful, of course, trying to get that understanding. But in any event, I think that is a real movement forward.

The thing one also has to keep in mind is, if there is money lying around here, it is going to be spent. It is going to be spent enlarging Federal Government. So if you go back to that original thesis, you go back to the original notion that you would like to move actively back closer to home, you do it that way rather than bringing more and more money here that inevitably will be spent increasing the size of Government.

I think we have some hope that both Houses have passed some tax relief. We will see if we can find a way to put that together, hopefully this week. Then it will be up to the President to say whether he wants to spend more and more money, wants to spend $1 trillion on 61 new programs, or let the American people have an opportunity to spend some of their own.

Education? Our position again has been that the decisions that are basic to elementary and secondary education ought to be made closest to the people. They ought to be made by the States and by the school boards. Sure, we have an obligation to provide some financial help, but the Ed-Flex program that was passed by this Senate allows those decisions to be made more at home.

I can tell you, the delivery of education is quite different in Wyoming or different in Alaska, the State of the Presiding Officer, from what it is in New York—and properly so. But to make that work, then, the local people have to have that opportunity. We have done that with Ed-Flex, and we had some other educational programs.

I feel fairly strongly about some of the Federal involvement. My wife is a teacher. She teaches special ed and spends almost half of her time on paperwork because of the kinds of Federal programs that are involved. So we are making some movement to change that.

The military fulfills what is obviously one of the principal, if not the principal, obligations of the Federal Government, to provide for the safety and protection and defense of this country. Over the last number of years, the administration has increasingly reduced the amount of resources there.
At the same time, we had more demands on the military than what we had before. They are not able to conduct their mission on the amount of resources that have been available. I was very disappointed it took a congressional committee to press and push and demand from the Joint Chiefs of Staff to really get down to whether they were able to carry out their mission with the resources they have. The answer was no. So we have moved to make some additions to that, in the first step for a very long time.

The other thing is, if you are going to have a voluntary force, you have to make it fairly attractive to be in the military, and after having trained people to do technical things like flying airplanes or servicing airplanes, they have a stay in the service and do that. So we need more of that kind of support.

Social Security? For a very long time no one would talk about Social Security. We really touch it and you are dead. Now, finally, everyone does understand that you have to do something different if, indeed, your purpose is to maintain the benefits that are now going to beneficiaries and to provide an opportunity for young people, who are beginning to work and put their money into the fund, to have some anticipation of having benefits for themselves.

We have to make some changes. The sooner those changes are made the less severe they will have to be.

The President has been talking about saving Social Security for several years. He has no plan. He has done nothing except talk about it. We now have a plan. There is a bipartisan amendment to preserve Social Security funds. It has been opposed on the other side of the aisle five times, but we are going to move forward on Social Security.

VA funding: The administration has for several years requested a flat budget for VA health care but at the same time has expanded eligibility for people to utilize those facilities. We find, for instance, in my State we have two facilities, but they are underfinanced and are not providing the kinds of services to veterans who are entitled. More money needs to be provided, and we are going to do that. The Republican budget this year had an additional $1.7 billion for veterans' health. It is something that is very important.

Patients’ Bill of Rights: We passed a Patients’ Bill of Rights that did not involve the Federal Government, did not involve lawyers and the courts making the decisions but indeed guaranteed emergency services without having to go through some kind of clearance. It guaranteed, if you felt as if you were not getting the services, an appeal to a physician, not to a lawyer or to a court, and that was passed.

Medicare: We moved to doing something with Medicare. A bipartisan commission was set up and they had a reasonable plan for Medicare, but the President asked his folks whom he appointed to serve on that commission to vote against it, so it did not come out as a commission report and as a consensus recommendation. We are going to take that, basically, and move forward and do something on Medicare.

We are moving toward the end. We have some very difficult issues to deal with, particularly in appropriations. We have to deal with them. We will deal with them. I am hopeful we will also have some kind of a relief valve so that if we get through and cannot come to an agreement with the President that it goes on as it has and will not let that problem be used again. I hope we find a little less resistance from our friends on the other side in terms of finding solutions to these problems.

My hope — and this is a philosophy, I admit — that as we go forward we continue to understand the greatness of this country. And it is a great country. If you have had a chance to travel about a bit, you find it is the greatest. Each time I have a chance to go somewhere, I come back thanking God this is the place in which I live. But it is a great country not because of the Federal Government. There is a legitimate role for the Federal Government, of course, described, by the way, in the Constitution, but the real strength of this country lies in its communities and in its individuals who have the freedom to make decisions for themselves. They have the freedom to get together and do things that are required to be done in their communities to make them healthy.

Admittedly, I come from a State that is unique. Maybe we are the lowest populated State now. We are one of the largest States. The delivery of services is quite different, whether it be air or services or education. We cannot have this one-size-fits-all situation.

Again, I am pleased with what we have done. I say to the President Officer that he has had one of the most difficult tasks of leadership in the Appropriations Committee and has done a good job.

I hope we will continue to provide an opportunity for us to come together to resolve our problems so that we can continue to have the opportunity to serve, to let communities make some of their decisions, and we will continue to be the greatest country in the world.

Mr. President, I would like to talk today about the relationship between trade and the environment.

When I joined the Finance Committee in 1979, debate about the Tokyo Round was just concluding. I don't remember a single mention of water pollution, air pollution, or the protection of sea turtles and other endangered species — important issues, but they were not part of the trade debate.

NAFTA changed this. We negotiated the environmental side agreement, and created the North America Commission on Environmental Cooperation. There were flaws and limitations, but it was a turning point.

Now, like it or not, environmental issues are an integral part of the trade debate. Environmental group opposition was one of the major reasons for the defeat of Fast Track legislation last year. Ambassador Barshefsky has said that the next round of trade negotiations should address environmental protection. Two months ago, the WTO held a series of high level roundtable discussions on trade and the environment, in part to help define the issues for consideration in Seattle.

Why has this happened?

It is partly a function of technology. Environmental groups have plugged into the Internet — aggressively. Browse the web sites of almost any environmental group, and you will see what I mean. Anyone can follow a high-level environmental trade dispute on the Internet. The heretofore insular, inaccessible, and arcane international trade world meets the chaotic, grassroots, democratic, and Internet-savvy environmental world.

Let me tell my friends in the trade world something about my friends in the environmental world. I have worked with them for years. Sometimes on the same side, sometimes in disagreement. They are smart, dedicated, energetic, and aggressive. And they are very good at using the latest communications technology. So, if you are uncomfortable with the new role of the environmental community in the trade debate, my only advice is: Get used to it and figure out how to work together. The same advice goes to my environmental friends: The trade folks are here to stay. Figure out how to work with them.

There's a second important reason why environmental protection is now an important part of the trade debate. We are in the midst of an economic boom in the United States and the revolution of globalization. Globalization is bringing every classroom in every small western town, and on every Native American reservation, smack into the middle of the information-based marketplace. It allows small businesses all over the world to tap into the global marketplace. It's forcing virtually every company to become more competitive.
But there's another side to the story. Call it the dark side of globalization. And it has a long, hard—yet America's history of industrialization created great wealth and progress. But it left behind a terrible environmental legacy. Rivers so infected with toxic chemicals that they caught fire. Abandoned mine tailings that dot the landscape. The loss of wetlands and other habitat necessary to sustain the animal and plant species upon which our survival depends.

In America, we have turned the tide. Our air and water are cleaner now. But we have seen what unchecked economic development did to us.

Extend that kind of growth worldwide. And pick up the pace, to reflect the hyper-speed of global competition. As globalization and the expanded trade benefit us. But we must ensure that globalization and expanded trade are conducted in a way that enhances, and does not undermine, environmental protection.

One thing that worries me greatly is the polarization that has occurred among participants in the trade and environment debate. The middle ground seems to have fallen into a sink hole. Yet the middle is where we need people to find solutions to these very difficult problems.

Let's turn to the next round of multilateral trade negotiations that will be the subject of the WTO Ministerial in Seattle in late November. We must accommodate globalization and expanded trade while, at the same time, preserve and enhance environmental protection. America must lead. We are the world's largest economy. We are the world's largest consumer. And we are the world's leader in developing strong environmental laws. As in many different areas, if we don't exert leadership, no one else will. This is not arrogance. This is not unilateralism. This is leadership, and I offer no excuses and no apologies for it.

I believe that we must follow three broad precepts in developing the proper linkage between trade and the environment. Call these my "Three No's":

- Trade liberalization must not harm the environment: Trade rules must not be used to stop legitimate and reasonable environmental protection; Environmental regulations must not be used as an instrument to trade protection that closes markets and distorts trade flows.

- We need to balance trade and environmental goals and prevent trade and environmental disputes from getting too high up to my agenda for trade and the environment in the next round of trade negotiations.

- The WTO dispute resolution process must be made more open, transparent and publicly accessible. This is important in the context of environmental law and regulation, which relies heavily on citizen suits and the public's right to know. And it is important in the context of the WTO's credibility. Sovereignty does not enhance respect and confidence in institutions.

- The GATT was created in an era when nation-states were the only significant actors on the world stage. The WTO followed the same structure. But it does not reflect the world's reality, where non-governmental entities have become important international and national players. The rules and procedures must accommodate these new actors.

The dispute settlement process takes too much time and must be shortened significantly. Loopholes that allow delay in complying with decisions must be plugged. The WTO needs to take on this set of tough issues that sit clearly at the intersection of trade and the environment. We need serious and responsible discussion now.
Sixth, the environmental community believes that we need to find a way to integrate multilateral, trade agreements, and environmental agreements, as we did in NAFTA. We could start out by providing a so-called ‘‘safe haven’’ for the Montreal Protocol and CITES, the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora. The other is to describe the characteristics of an MEA that will automatically be protected.

Let me add a few other agenda items that are unrelated to my Seattle list but need to be on our ‘‘to do’’ list in the United States.

First, we should take a hard look at the NAFTA environmental side agreement, and see how it is working. I will ask the key Congressional Committees, including the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee, to conduct appropriate oversight.

Second, we need to improve our domestic trade policy institutions. And that includes enhancing the role of Congress in trade negotiations. Last week, in a speech at the Washington International Trade Association, I proposed the establishment of a Congressional Trade Office. This office would provide the Congress with additional independent, non-partisan, neutral trade expertise.

Its functions would include: monitoring compliance with major bilateral, regional, and multilateral trade agreements; analysis of Administration trade policy, trade actions, and proposed trade legislation; participation in dispute settlement deliberations at the WTO and NAFTA, and evaluation of the results of dispute settlement cases involving the United States.

The National Wildlife Federation and the Sierra Club have proposed such an office, although the functions in my concept are quite different.

I will be offering legislation on this later this year.

One of the most difficult issues that has arisen in recent years has been the relationship between trade policy and environmental protection. The lack of consensus on this relationship has been one of the major reasons that we have not been able to proceed with fast track legislation in the Congress.

Paralysis helps no one. I hope that the thoughts I have set out today for Seattle and for our own domestic agenda will help to begin a constructive and responsible dialogue between the trade and the environmental communities.

We need environmental protection. We need a sustainable earth, and that means a clean world and a growing world—more and better jobs everywhere, increased income, cleaner air and water, the protection of our natural heritage for future generations. These goals are only incompatible when people are unwilling to talk about them together.

I yield the floor.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. KYL). Under the previous order, morning business is closed.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFEREES—

H.R. 2468

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that with respect to H.R. 2468, the Chair be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. KYL) appointed Mr. ROTH, Mr. LOTT, and Mr. MOYNIHAN conferees on the part of the Senate.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2000

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Pursuant to the order of the Senate of July 1, after having received H.R. 2587, the Senate will proceed to the bill. All the enacting clause is stricken, and the text of S. 1283 is inserted. H.R. 2587 is read a third time and passed. The Senate insists on its amendment and requests a conference with the House, and the Chair appoints Mrs. HUTCHISON of Texas, Mr. KYL, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. DURBIN, and Mr. INOUYE conferees on the part of the Senate.

(The text of S. 1283 was printed in the RECORD of July 12, 1999.)

DECEPTIVE MAIL PREVENTION AND ENFORCEMENT ACT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now proceed to consideration of S. 335, which the clerk will report by title.

The legislative assistant read as follows:

A bill (S. 335) to amend chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, to provide for the nonmailability of certain deceptive matter relating to games of chance, administrative procedures, orders, and civil penalties relating to such matter, and for other purposes.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill which had been reported from the Committee on Governmental Affairs, with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the ‘‘Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act’’.

SEC. 2. RESTRICTIONS ON MAILINGS USING MISLEADING REFERENCES TO THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Section 3001 of title 39, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (h)—
(A) in the first sentence by striking ‘‘contains a seal, insignia, trade or brand name, or any other term or symbol that reasonably could be interpreted or construed as implying any Federal Government connection, approval or endorsement’’ and inserting the following: ‘‘which reasonably could be interpreted or construed as implying any Federal Government connection, approval or endorsement’’;
(B) in paragraph (2)—
(i) in subparagraph (A) by striking ‘‘and’’ at the end;
(ii) in subparagraph (B) by striking ‘‘or’’ at the end and inserting ‘‘and’’; and
(iii) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following:
(C) does not contain a false representation implying that Federal Government benefits or services will be affected by any purchase or nonpurchase; or’’;

(2) in subsection (i) in the first sentence—
(A) in the first sentence by striking ‘‘contains a seal, insignia, trade or brand name, or any other term or symbol that reasonably could be interpreted or construed as implying any Federal Government connection, approval or endorsement’’ and inserting the following: ‘‘which reasonably could be interpreted or construed as implying any Federal Government connection, approval or endorsement through the use of a seal, insignia, reference to the Postmaster General, citation to a Federal statute, name of a Federal agency, department, commission, or program, trade or brand name, or any other term or symbol; or contains any reference to the Postmaster General or a citation to a Federal statute that misrepresents either the identity of the mailer or the protection or status afforded such matter by the Federal Government’’; and
(B) in paragraph (2)—
(i) in subparagraph (A) by striking ‘‘and’’ at the end;
(ii) in subparagraph (B) by striking ‘‘or’’ at the end and inserting ‘‘and’’; and
(iii) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following:
(C) does not contain a false representation implying that Federal Government benefits or services will be affected by any purchase or nonpurchase; or’’;

(3) by redesignating subsections (j) and (k) as subsections (n) and (o), respectively; and
(4) by inserting after subsection (i) the following:

‘‘(j)(1) Matter otherwise legally acceptable in the mails described under paragraph (2)—
(A) is nonmailable;
(B) shall not be carried or delivered by mail; and

(A) ‘sweepstakes’ means a game of chance for which no consideration is required to enter, (B) ‘skilled contest’ means a contest in which the outcome or entry form, that a purchase will not be required or implied to be required to enter the contest; and

(C) ‘sweepstakes’ means a game of chance for which no consideration is required to enter.
prior violations of such section, the degree of culpability and other such matters as justice may require.

(d) Any person who violates section 3001(l) shall be liable to the United States for a civil penalty not to exceed $500,000 for each mailing to an individual; and

(3) by amending subsection (e) (as redesignated by paragraph (3) of this section) to read as follows:

“(c) (1) From all civil penalties collected in the administrative and judicial enforcement of this chapter, an amount equal to the administrative and judicial costs incurred by the Postal Service in such enforcement, not to equal or exceed $500,000 in each year, shall be—

(A) deposited in the Postal Service Fund established under section 2063; and

(B) available for payment of such costs.

(2) Except for amounts deposited in the Postal Service Fund under paragraph (1), all civil penalties collected in the administrative and judicial enforcement of this chapter shall be deposited in the General Fund of the Treasury.

SEC. 7. ADDITIONAL AUTHORITY FOR THE POSTAL INSPECTION SERVICE.

(a) In general.—Chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

§3016. Administrative subpoenas

“(a) AUTHORIZATION OF USE OF SUBPOENAS BY POSTMASTER GENERAL.—In any investigation conducted under this chapter, the Postmaster General may require by subpoena the production of any records (including books, papers, documents, and other tangible things which constitute or contain evidence) which the Postmaster General finds relevant or material to the investigation.

“(b) SERVICE.—

(1) SERVICE WITHIN THE UNITED STATES.—A subpoena issued under this section may be served by a person designated under section 2061 of title 18 at any place within the territorial jurisdiction of any court of the United States. In such manner as the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prescribe for service in a foreign country. To the extent that the courts of the United States may assert jurisdiction over a person who resides, is found, or transacts business, or is being served within the territorial jurisdiction of any court of the United States, in such manner as the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prescribe for service in a foreign country.

(2) FOREIGN SERVICE.—Any such subpoena may be served upon any person who is not to be found within the territorial jurisdiction of any court of the United States, in such manner as the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prescribe for service in a foreign country. To the extent that the courts of the United States may assert jurisdiction over a person who resides, is found, or transacts business, or is being served within the territorial jurisdiction of any court of the United States, in such manner as the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prescribe for service in a foreign country.

(c) SERVICE ON BUSINESS PERSONS.—Service of any such subpoena may be made by a Postal Inspector upon a partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity by—

(1) delivering a duly executed copy thereof to any partner, executive officer, managing agent, or general agent thereof, or to any agent thereof authorized by appointment or by law to receive service of process on behalf of such partnership, corporation, association, or entity;

(2) delivering a duly executed copy thereof to the principal office or place of business of the partnership, corporation, association, or entity;

(3) delivering a duly executed copy thereof to any natural person by—

(A) delivering a duly executed copy to the person to be served; and

(B) depositing such copy in the United States mails, registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, duly addressed to such person at his residence or principal office or place of business;

(5) VERIFIED RETURN.—A verified return by the individual serving any such subpoena setting forth that such subpoena was served shall be proof of such service. In the case of service by registered or certified mail, such return shall be accompanied by the return post office receipt of delivery of such subpoena.

“(c) ENFORCEMENT.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Wherever any person, partnership, corporation, association, or entity refuses or fails to appear or serve the subpoena duly served upon him, the Postmaster General may request that the Attorney General seek enforcement of the subpoena in the district court of the United States for any judicial district in which such person resides, is found, or transacts business, and serve upon such person a petition for an order of such court for the enforcement of this section.

“(2) JURISDICTION.—Whenever any petition is filed in any district court of the United States under this section, such court shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the same, and to take any action respecting compliance with such petition as such court may deem proper, and to enter such order as may be required to carry into effect the provisions of this section. Any final order entered shall be enforceable in any court of the United States. Any disobedience of any final order entered under this section by any court may be punished as contempt of court.

“(d) DISCLOSURE.—Any documentary material provided pursuant to any subpoena issued under this section shall be exempt from discovery or disclosure under section 505 of title 15.

“(e) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this section, the Postal Service shall promulgate regulations setting out the procedures the Postal Service will use to implement this section.

“(f) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“2016. Administrative subpoenas.”

SEC. 8. REQUIREMENTS OF PROMOTERS OF SKILL CONTESTS OR SWEEPSTAKES MAILING LIST MAINTENANCE SYSTEMS.

(a) In general.—Chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code (as amended by section 7 of this Act) is amended by adding after section 3016 the following:

§3017. Nonmailable skill contests or sweepstakes matter; notification to prohibit mailings

“(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the term—

“(1) ‘promoter’ means any person who originates and causes to be mailed more than 500,000 mailings in any calendar year of any skill contest or sweepstakes, except for mailings that do not include an opportunity to make a payment or order a product or service;

“(2) ‘removal request’ means a written request stating that an individual elects to receive skill contest or sweepstakes mailings and that the individual’s name and address be excluded from all lists of names and addresses used by all promoters to mail any skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(3) ‘skill contest’ means a puzzle, game, competition, or other contest in which—

“(A) a prize is awarded or offered;

“(B) the outcome depends predominately on the skill of the contestant; and

“(C) a purchase, payment, or donation is required or implied to be required to enter the contest; and “(4) ‘sweepstakes’ means a game of chance for which no consideration is required to enter.

“(b) NONMAILABLE MATTER.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Matter otherwise legally acceptable in the mails described under paragraph (2) is nonmailable matter;

“(2) (B)(i) is addressed to an individual who made an election to be excluded from lists under subsection (e); or “(ii) does not comply with subsection (c)(4).

“(c) REQUIREMENTS OF PROMOTERS.—Any promoter who mails a skill contest or sweepstakes mailings shall provide with each mailing a clear and conspicuous statement that—

“(A) includes the address and toll-free telephone number of the notification system established under paragraph (2); and

“(B) states how the notification system may be used to prohibit the mailing of any skill contest or sweepstakes to such individual.

“(d) NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—If an individual contacts the notification system through use of the toll-free telephone number provided under subsection (c)(1)(A), the system shall—

“(1) inform the individual of the information described under subsection (c)(1)(B); and

“(2) inform the individual that the election to prohibit mailings of skill contests or sweepstakes to such individual shall take effect 45 business days after receipt by the system of the signed removal request by the individual.

“(e) ELECTION TO BE EXCLUDED FROM LISTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—An individual may elect to exclude the name and address of such individual from all mailing lists used by promoters of skill contests or sweepstakes by mailing a removal request to the notification system established under subsection (c).

“(2) RESPONSE AFTER MAILING REMOVAL REQUEST TO THE NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—Not later than 45 business days after receipt of a removal request, all promoters who maintain lists containing the individual’s name or address for purposes of mailing skill contests or sweepstakes shall exclude such individual’s name and address from all such lists.

“(3) EFFECTIVENESS OF ELECTION.—An election under paragraph (1) shall—

“(A) be effective with respect to every promoter; and

“(B) remain in effect, unless an individual notifies the system in writing that such individual—

“(i) has changed the election; and

“(ii) elects to receive skill contest or sweepstakes mailings.

“(f) PROMOTER NONLIABILITY.—A promoter, or any other person maintaining the notification system established under this section, shall not be subject to civil liability for exclusion of an individual’s name or address from any mailing list maintained by a promoter for mailing skill contests or sweepstakes if—

“(1)(A) a removal request is received by the notification system; and

“(B) the promoter or person maintaining the system has a good faith belief that the request is made by the individual whose name and address is to be excluded; or
"(B) another duly authorized person.

"(9) PROHIBITION ON COMMERCIAL USE OF LISTS—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—

"(A) PROHIBITION.—No person may provide any information (including the sale or rental of any name or address) in a list described under subparagraph (B) to another person for commercial use.

"(B) LISTS.—A list referred to under subparagraph (A) is any list of names and addresses (or other related information) used, maintained, or created by the system established under this section.

"(2) CIVIL PENALTY.—Any person who violates paragraph (1) shall be assessed a civil penalty by the Postal Service not to exceed $2,000,000 per violation.

"(h) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Any person who violates subsection (b) shall be liable to the United States in an amount of $10,000 per violation for each mailing of nonmailable matter to the United States in violation of subsection (b) shall be liable to the United States.

"(b) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The table of sections for chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by adding after the item relating to section 3016 the following:

"3017. Nonmailable skill contests or sweepstakes mailings.

"(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 9. STATE LAW NOT PREEMPTED.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in the provisions of this Act (including the amendments made by this Act) or in the regulations promulgated under such provisions shall be construed to preclude any provision of State or local law that imposes more restrictive requirements, regulations, damages, costs, or penalties. No determination by the Postal Service that any particular piece of mail or class of mail is in compliance with such provisions of this Act shall be construed to preempt any provision of State or local law.

SEC. 10. EFFECTIVE DATE.

Except as provided in section 8, this Act shall take effect 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Amend the title so as to read: “A bill to amend chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, to provide for the nonmailability of certain deceptive matter relating to sweepstakes, skill contests, facsimile checks, administrative procedures, orders, and civil penalties relating to such matter, and for other purposes.”.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there will now be 2 hours for debate on S. 335, to be equally divided between the Senator from Maine and the Senator from Michigan or their designees.

PRIVILEGE OF THE FLOOR

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following members of my staff be granted the privilege of the floor during consideration of S. 335: Lee Blaylock and Michael Bopp.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that at 5:10 today Senator Edwards be allowed to speak for up to 10 minutes, with the time coming from the time controlled by the Senator from Michigan, that the Senator from Michigan be permitted to speak for 5 minutes following Senator Edwards, and that I be permitted to speak for 5 minutes immediately prior to the 5:30 vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, I am pleased that the Senate is now considering S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Practices Prevention Act, which I authored along with my colleagues, Senator Levin, Senator Cochran, Senator Edwards, Senator Durbin, and Senator Specter.

S. 335 is the product of an extensive investigation and 2 days of public hearings held by the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, which I chair. This legislation would establish for the first time tough new Federal standards for sweepstakes and other promotional mailings.

For example, these mailings would be required to clearly inform consumers that a purchase is not necessary to win the contest and that a purchase will not enhance their chances of winning. In addition to these important consumer protections, the bill confers additional investigative and enforcement authority on the U.S. Postal Service and authorizes civil fines of up to $2 million for companies that violate the consumer protection standards.

This comprehensive measure has the support of the AARP, the National Consumers League, and the U.S. Postal Service.

I particularly recognize the leadership roles played by several members of the committee. Senator Levin, in particular, has long been a leader in the effort to curtail deceptive mailings. Senator Cochran held some of the first hearings on this issue. Senator Edwards, Senator Specter, and Senator Durbin all contributed greatly to our investigation.

Let me also express my appreciation for the assistance provided by the chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee, Senator Thompson, and by the committee’s ranking minority member, Senator Lieberman.

In addition, I salute Senator Campbell, who was one of the first to call attention to the growing problem of deceptive sweepstakes mailings. Some of the provisions in our legislation are similar to those in a bill introduced by Senator Campbell.

I first became aware of the growing problem of deceptive sweepstakes last year after receiving several complaints from my constituents in Maine. In order to learn more about this growing problem, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations began an investigation into the nature of deceptive mailings and the extent of sweepstakes and other promotional mailings. The subcommittee soon realized that the promotional mailing industry generates an enormous volume of mail that reaches the mailboxes of millions of Americans. In fact, the four major sweepstakes companies alone flood the market with nearly 1 billion solicitations each year.

The subcommittee held 2 days of public hearings. At the first subcommittee hearing in March, we examined the practices of the four major sweepstakes companies: Publishers Clearinghouse; Publishers, Publishers Clearinghouse, Time, Inc.; and Reader’s Digest.

I want to make clear that they all run legitimate sweepstakes, legitimate in the sense that they do award the prizes they promise in the promotional copy, and they do not seek to conceal their identities. However, there is a critical distinction between running a legal contest and treating consumers fairly, without resorting to misleading or deceptive practices.

Our hearings in March examined the key issue of whether consumers are being clearly informed that no purchase is necessary to enter sweepstakes and that buying something does not increase one’s chances of winning. Far too many consumers believe that if they make a purchase in response to the sweepstakes solicitations, they somehow improve their chances of winning.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The subcommittee heard testimony indicating that the existing disclaimers used by the large sweepstakes companies are of very little value. They are too often deceptively worded or they are contradicted by the glowing promises in the promotional copy. In addition, they are fabricated to locate on the mailing, and they are often written in very tiny print that is difficult to read.

Our hearings in March prompted over 1,000 letters from across the country to the subcommittee. Many of these letters included mailings from smaller sweepstakes companies with which the subcommittee had not been familiar. This public response prompted an expansion of the subcommittee’s investigation into the deceptive practices of these smaller sweepstakes companies.

Those smaller companies were the focus of the subcommittee’s second
Unfortunately, these are not isolated examples. According to a recent survey commissioned by the AARP, nearly 40 percent of seniors surveyed believed there was a connection between purchasing and winning, that either making a purchase would help you to win or it would ensure that you would win a prize.

You have only to look at some of these sweepstakes mailings to understand why consumers draw these conclusions. For example, one mailing from Publishers Clearinghouse, which is famous for its Prize Patrol, tells consumers to “open your door to $31 million on January 31.” You can see the personalized mailing, although we blocked out the name of the person involved. This mailing clearly suggests to the consumer that he or she will win in this case—purchases are paying off. It specifically states:

You see, your recent order and entry has proven to us that you’re indeed one of our lucky clients and a savvy sweepstakes player. And now I’m pleased to tell you that you’ve passed our selection criteria to receive this special invitation...

Mr. President, this is clearly and blatantly designed to deceive the consumer into drawing a connection between making a purchase and winning the prize.

The next example is a mailing from American Family Publishers. It states: “It’s down to a 2 person race for $11 million—you and one other person in Georgia were issued the winning number. Whoever returns it first wins it all.” It also prompted lawsuits by several States’ attorneys general, and American Family Publishers eventually agreed to a multistate settlement.

I wish the misleading mailings from the largest sweepstakes companies represented the worst of the lot. Unfortunately, they do not. Let’s take a look at a couple of examples of deceptive practices of some of the smaller sweepstakes companies. As you will recall, these were the companies that were brought to the subcommittee’s attention by outraged constituents from across this country who wrote to us after our first round of hearings. This solicitation, or promotion, from Mellon, Astor & Fairweather is a deceptive attempt to make the consumer think that a prestigious firm—presumably an accounting firm—willingly do the dirty deed. The name was completely made up to give an aura of legitimacy and credibility to this mailing.

In summary, the subcommittee found that many of our senior citizens are particularly vulnerable to such deceptive mailings. Their ages, their health, their need or want, in the mistaken belief that a purchase will help them win or it will ensure that they would win a prize.

One example that was related to us by a witness was a magazine subscription extending to the year 2018 that had been purchased by her 82-year-old father-in-law in response to repeated solicitations.

In some cases, these smaller companies are run by promoters for a year or two and then shut down. The operator then starts up a new company under yet another name, often one that is specifically chosen to lend credibility to the contest or to deceive consumers. These companies profit not only from their extremely deceptive mailings but also by reselling the names of their customers to other operators who then inundate the unlucky consumer with still more mailings. Unfortunately, our investigation demonstrated that this business, this practice, is quite lucrative.

Anonymity, as our hearings demonstrated, is crucial to the success of many of these small operators. They depend on working in the shadows and underneath the radar of State and Federal regulators. They are, in many ways, the “stealth” sweepstakes companies. They are difficult to detect, to track, and to stop. Our investigation discovered that most of these companies attempt to conceal their identities through multiple corporate names and various mailbox drops in several different States. Their mailings are often designed to deceive even the most cautious and wary consumer.

Our investigation and hearings demonstrated that sweepstakes companies, both large and small, use deceptive and aggressive marketing techniques far too often to entice consumers into making purchases that they do not need or want, in the mistaken belief that a purchase will improve their chances of winning. Indeed, we heard testimony that deceptive sweepstakes mailings can induce trusting consumers to purchase thousands of dollars of questionable merchandise. One example that was related to us by a witness was a magazine subscription extending to the year 2018 that had been purchased by her 82-year-old father-in-law in response to repeated solicitations.

The losses suffered by consumers could not, however, be measured in dollars alone. As one elderly gentleman put it:

My wife has finally come to realize that she has been duped by the sweepstakes solicitations for all these years. Although the financial drain is now halted, the loss of her dignity is incalculable.

Unfortunately, these are not isolated examples. According to a recent survey commissioned by the AARP, nearly 40 percent of seniors surveyed believed there was a connection between purchasing and winning, that either making a purchase would help you to win or it would ensure that you would win a prize.

You have only to look at some of these sweepstakes mailings to understand why consumers draw these conclusions. This mailing clearly suggests to the consumer that he or her—in this case—purchases are paying off. It specifically states:

You see, your recent order and entry has proven to us that you’re indeed one of our lucky clients and a savvy sweepstakes player. And now I’m pleased to tell you that you’ve passed our selection criteria to receive this special invitation...

Mr. President, this is clearly and blatantly designed to deceive the consumer into drawing a connection between making a purchase and winning the prize.

if you can see, it is marked “Urgent Deliver only empty appeals for purchases that are treated as a cost of doing busi-nations and entry procedures for the contest. The bill would prohibit mailings from describing the recipient as a “winner” unless the recipient has really won a prize.

You can see from some of the mailings that we have discussed here today why this mailer.

Second, this legislation includes the provision drafted by Senator Edwards to require companies sending sweepstakes or skill contests to establish a system that will allow consumers to request that they be removed from sweepstakes mailing lists. Companies sending sweepstakes mailings must include either a toll-free number or the address at which the consumer may request that their name be removed altogether from future sweepstakes mailings. Companies would be required to remove such individuals from sweepstakes lists within 35 days.

Our hearings showed that far too many consumers had great difficulty in turning off the spigot of sweepstakes mailings to themselves, or, as was often the case, to an elderly family member. Senator Edwards' provision will assist consumers who want relief from the flood of solicitations.

Third, our legislation strengthens the current law regarding “Government look-alike” mailings by prohibiting mailings that imply a connection to, approval, or endorsement by the Federal Government through the misleading use of a seal, insignia, refdence to the Postmaster General, citation to a Federal law, or any other term or symbol unless the mailings carry true disclaimers.

The bill imposes new Federal standards for facsimile checks that are sent in any mailing. These tests must include a statement on the check itself stating that it is non-negotiable and has no cash value.

Finally, S. 335 will strengthen the ability of the Postal Service to combat deceptive mailings. Under existing law, the Postal Inspection Service does not possess subpoena authority, is unable to obtain a judicial order to stop the deceptive mailing at multiple mailboxes in different States, and may only seek financial penalties after a company has violated a previously imposed order for sending deceptive mailings.

Our legislation grants the Postal Service subpoena authority, nationwide stop mail authority, and the ability to impose strong civil penalties for the first violation. At our hearings in July, the Postal Service testified that civil penalties would be a significant deterrent against deceptive mailings. We can't just have minor penalties that are treated as a cost of doing business. The penalties under our legislation can reach as high as $1 million, and, if a company violates an order, that penalty is doubled and can range as high as $2 million.

The current penalties—capped at $10,000 per day—are simply inadequate to deter deceptive mailings, especially since they can only be imposed after the mailer has evaded or failed to comply with a prior order.

Our bill recognizes the important role played by the States in investigating and prosecuting deceptive mailings. We do not preempt any provision of State or local law. In many instances, it is the States that have taken the strong action against deceptive sweepstakes mailings largely be-case they lack the resources of the Federal Government. During our investigation, we worked very closely with the National Association of Attorneys General.

I would like to close my initial statement by urging my colleagues to support S. 2335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act, so that the Senate, by passing this legislation later today, can take an important first legislative step in curtailing deceptive sweepstakes and protect the American consumer.

I reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Maine for her tremendous leadership on this issue and so many other consumer protection issues. She is leading the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations with tremendous distinction, with great strength, and the consumers of this Nation are all better off because of that leadership. This bill is a further example of that leadership. I am proud to be her principal cosponsor of the bill that we have worked on for so long.

Sweepstakes for many Americans has become a cruel joke. Americans are overwhelmed with sweepstakes solicitations in the mail that deceptively appear to promise large winnings but deliver only empty appeals for purchases of unneeded products and more entries into additional sweepstakes.

The majority of Americans may have a healthy skepticism about these solicitations and don’t believe the misleading representations. But many are a healthy skepticism about these solicitations and don’t believe the misleading representations. But many are America, who receive these mailings and believe that they have been awarded a prize.

Several of my constituents from Michigan lost tens of thousands of dollars to sweepstakes solicitations. One woman in Grand Rapids spent over $12,000 in one year with Reader's Digest. A woman in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan spent $30,000 in less than a month on sweepstakes-related promotions.

Sweepstakes solicitations are big business. Companies using sweepstakes to promote their products, be it magazines or coupon books, or jewelry, send over a billion pieces of mail a year to American consumers.

We learned that one person could get from one company alone as much as 144 different sweepstakes letters per day in a year. That was from a so-called "legitimate company." Purchases through these types of mailings are in the billions of dollars. Sweepstakes are used as the "come-on" to get the recipient to purchase a product or make a contribution. They are used, companies say, to get the recipients to open the envelopes, and, once opened, used to get the person to respond with a purchase or contribution. Promoters argue that sweepstakes entice buy the products because they want them or need them.

Our investigation demonstrated that many people who enter these sweepstakes purchase items only because they think doing so will improve their chances of winning the sweepstakes prize. A large number buy and buy and spend tens of thousands of dollars, with that expectation that the purchase of items will help improve their chances of winning.

Companies are not allowed by law to use the U.S. mails to conduct a lottery. A lottery is where payment must be given in order to have a chance to win. It is illegal for a sweepstakes promoter to require a purchase in order for a person to have a chance to win or to improve a person's chances of winning. Buying something when entering a sweepstakes cannot, by law, do anything to improve a person's chances of winning. Many people don't know that or believe a purchase will improve their chance and many sweepstakes companies try to leave the impression that buying something will give that recipient an advantage.

Sweepstakes companies encourage this in many ways. For example, some use different envelopes for those who buy a product and those who don't. Here is an example from Reader's Digest. They send two envelopes. If a person orders something, the envelope says: Yes, Reward Entitlement [underlined], Granted and Guaranteed. If a person does not order something, the envelope says: No Reward Entitlement, Denied and Unwarranted. They go to different post office boxes, clearly leaving a very different impression. It is a very strong different impression of a very deceptive different impression.

Other sweepstakes companies use their own envelope and address card for those entering the sweepstakes without purchasing a product. In another sweepstakes, they are given an envelope if they want to buy something; if they don't want to buy something but still enter, they have to fill out their own envelope or their own card, which is much more difficult than if they are simply buying a product.

Some companies try to confuse the message, leaving the recipient to believe he has to pay a fee to collect a prize that he has already won. This certificate, "Awards for Vehicle Awards" states: [You] are guaranteed to receive a brand-new automobile or a cash award.

The first envelope has the name of the person personally so it is very personalized: [Mr. or Miss Someone] are guaranteed to receive a brand-new automobile or cash award.

They ask the recipient to confirm that his name is spelled correctly on the certificate and to indicate how he wants the car delivered. In the very last paragraph it says: In addition, an optional commodities package with a fully redeemable value of over $2,500 is being held pending your submission of the standard acquisition fee.

The impression is that the recipient has won a car, that all he has to do is return the certificate for the car, and pay an acquisition fee. Of course, the impression they attempt to create—and often do, according to our testimony—is that acquisition fee relates to the car.

If he does that, the impression is he will receive a car and the commodities package. The goods are sold at $14.98 for a car and commodities package. In reality, this is a sales promotion for the commodities package connected to a sweepstake. The acquisition fee of $14.98 is buying the commodities package. The commodities package is nothing more than a booklet of coupons that require buying items in order to redeem the coupons.

One must spend thousands and thousands of dollars for items that you don't need in order to receive the savings that are promised. Yet we learned at our hearings this is a very common sweepstakes scheme. Honest businesses don't engage in these tricks. Over and over we heard from victims of the deceptive sweepstakes packages that they thought they had to buy something to receive the big prize or to improve their chances of winning. The sweepstakes companies are very artful at creating this impression. This is about stringing people along. Often the people being strung along are the most vulnerable.

This is a promotion from Reader's Digest to a constituent of mine whose house is filled to the brim with tapes, books, CDs, and funny stories he thought it would help her get the prize. This is a Certificate of Recognition for her loyalty to Reader's Digest: Dear valued customer: You've been selected to receive one of our highest honors—the Reader's Digest Recognition Award. It's your obvious love of Reader's Digest and sweepstakes that made you an ideal candidate. In fact, it was your recent subscription request that finalized our decision.

In other words, keep buying and we will keep sending opportunities to win a sweepstake. It is buying the Reader's Digest that they are saying gets the special treatment. What is the Reader's Digest Recognition Award? It is a little stick 'em that Mrs. Rosenberg got for spending over $12,000 in 1 year for products she didn't even open, filling up her house. Through the artful placement of words and graphics, the sweepstakes companies make the reader believe they have won. They use such large screaming headlines: [Mr. X] is Officially Declared $833,337 Winner. A big headline you can't miss. However, one misses the fine print that says, no, you haven't—only if you held the right number. What jumps out is the headline that you have won. Our sweepstakes promoters try to make their envelopes look special, not like the bulk mail which they are, or even open, filling up her house. In other cases, there are some things we can and should insist upon. We can insist that the companies state clearly and conspicuously that buying something will not improve a person's chances of winning. We cannot control each and every trick that a company uses to get the recipient of a sweepstakes promotion to buy something. However, there are some things we can and should insist upon. We can insist that the companies state clearly and conspicuously that buying something will not improve a person's chances of winning. We can insist that these companies state clearly and conspicuously that you don't need to buy anything to win. We can make these companies state clearly and conspicuously what are the odds of winning. In many cases, the odds are nearly 1 in 100 million, or 1 in 150 million. We can also require the sweepstakes promoters not tell a person they have won if they haven't and not use devices to suggest that the mail is from a Government agency. That will hopefully alert the folks receiving the sweepstakes promotion and will help them think twice before buying items from a Government agency. That will alert the folks receiving the sweepstakes promotion and will help them think twice before buying items from a Government agency.

In the last Congress, several of our colleagues joined in sponsoring a bill to increase enforcement of deceptive mailings by the Postal Service. This year Senator COLLINS held hearings on sweepstakes and other forms of deceptive mail. We have introduced two bills to try to eliminate deceptive sweepstakes practices. Senator COLLINS’ bill is S. 335; my bill is S. 336. We learned during the hearings that the financial costs to consumers for deceptive and fraudulent sweepstakes is a serious problem and one that particularly plagues our senior citizens. We learned that the Postal Service has inadequate law enforcement tools to effectively shut down deceptive direct marketers who use deceptive sweepstakes promotions to sell their products. We also learned that the Postal Service can’t impose a fine against such a promoter until the Postal Service has issued an stop order, and the stop order has been violated. Willy promoters craft their mailing so that it technically complies with a particular stop order but is this deceptive? Thus, time and time again these promoters continue to prey on Americans, and the postal Service has been all but powerless to stop them.

The bill before us is a combination of our two bills. It establishes a special provision in law for deceptive sweepstakes mailings, requires certain disclosures to be clearly and conspicuously displayed in key parts of the sweepstakes promotion; prohibits other misleading and deceptive statements in the promotion; gives the Postal Service additional law enforcement tools; requires sweepstakes promoters to provide a mechanism for a recipient of mail to remove his or her name off a mailing list if requested.

Mr. President, what is the time situation?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. These are 34½ minutes remaining on the Senator’s side.

Mr. LEVÉN. I yield myself 10 additional minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The provisions in S. 336 have been incorporated into the substitute. First, to prevent unscrupulous mailers from duping people into believing that a purchase will increase their chances of winning, the bill requires that a statement that a purchase will not increase an individual’s chances of winning be clearly and conspicuously displayed on the entry form. Such a statement will, hopefully, help readers dissociate the ordering process from the sweepstakes entry.

Second, it provides the Postal Service with the authority to issue a civil penalty for a first-time violation of the statute. This means the Postal Service does not have to first issue a stop order and then wait for that order to be violated before assessing civil penalties. This has the effect of applying the penalty to the deceptive offense, not for noncompliance with the order. It makes enforcement a one-step instead of a two-step process. Third, it gives the Postal Service the subpoena authority it often needs to help identify sweepstakes violators.

Despite the specificity of the disclosures required under the bill, I remain quite concerned that the disclosures be noticeable and understandable to the reader. That is why the bill requires all disclosures to be clearly and conspicuously displayed. With a managers’ amendment, we define “clearly and conspicuously displayed” in the bill so that there can be no misunderstanding by the Postal Service and the direct mail industry as to what we mean. Furthermore, two critical disclosures—“no purchase necessary” and “a purchase will not increase an individual’s chances of winning”—are required to be not only “clearly and conspicuously displayed” but “prominently” displayed as well. This means that these two disclosures must be highly visible to and easily noticeable by the reader. These important messages will not be allowed to be hidden or disguised through illegible print size, glitzy displays, or a color of the disclosure, or barely noticeable ink color.

The Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act of 1999 takes a tough approach to dealing with sweepstakes solicitations and other games of chance offers that are sent through the mail. If you use sweepstakes or a game of chance to promote the sale of a legitimate product, provide adequate disclosure, and abide with Postal Service regulations, then the Postal Service will grant that solicitation without any interruption. If deceptive practices are used in a sweepstakes or game of chance solicitation, the Postal Service will be able to stop the solicitation and impose a significant penalty.

I again thank Senator COLLINS again for her hard work and commitment to consumers in this legislation. I also thank Senator COCHRAN for his early support and Senator EDWARDS for his excellent work on the provision requiring a label identifying consumers who want to receive sweepstakes mailings. Finally, I want to thank the staff of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations for the terrific job they did putting together the hearings and developing this legislation. In particular I want to thank Linda Gustitus and Leslie Bell of the minority staff, Lee Blaylock and Kirk Walder of the majority staff, and Maureen Mahon of Senator EDWARDS’ staff.

I reserve the remainder of our time as Senator COLLINS has indicated, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. For the Senator’s information, the Senator from Michigan has 29 minutes remaining. The Senator from Maine has 35 minutes.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, first I thank my colleague from Michigan for his generous comments. Also, once again I commend his outstanding leadership on this issue. It has been terrific working with him in a variety of areas related to consumer protection. We are where we are today because of his efforts.

I also echo the thanks to our staff who have done a tremendous job.

PRIVILEGE OF THE FLOOR

I do ask unanimous consent the privilege of the floor be granted to the following members of my staff during the pendency of this legislation: R. Emmett Mattes, Kathy D. Cutler, and Deirdre Foley.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, it is with my greatest pleasure to yield to the Senator from Mississippi, who is the chairman of the Subcommittee on Governmental Affairs with jurisdiction over the Postal Service. Senator COCHRAN held the first hearings on deceptive mailings last year. He has been a tremendous supporter of the effort to curtail deceptive mailings. I really appreciate his leadership on this issue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to be a cosponsor and to support the passage of the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act, S. 335. This legislation would establish new safeguards to protect consumers against deceptive and dishonest sweepstakes and other promotional mailings. The bill grants additional investigative and enforcement authority to the U.S. Postal Service to stop deceptive mailings, and it establishes standards for all sweepstakes mailings by requiring certain disclosures on each mailing.

In the last Congress, our subcommittee examined the use of mass mail to deceive and defraud consumers. At one hearing, we heard how sweepstakes and other promotions were causing individuals to make unwanted or excessive purchases in the hope that the purchases would increase their chances of winning or other prizes. Since conducting that hearing, the subcommittee has been flooded with stories from consumers all over the country who have lost thousands of dollars.
in some cases—sometimes their life savings—to deceptive mailing practices. But it is not just sweepstakes offers that concern us. Some mailers imply an association with the Government, often enticing consumers to pay unnecessary fees.

This bill will address several types of deceptive mailings, including sweepstakes and Government look-alike mailings.

First, it will require sweepstakes mailings to display a statement that no purchase is necessary to enter the contest and that a purchase will not improve the chances of winning. Other disclosures will also be required, including the sponsor of the sweepstakes and the principal place of business or an address at which the sponsor can be reached, and the estimated odds of winning each prize and the estimated value of each prize. In addition, all terms and conditions of the sweepstakes promotion, including the rules and entry procedures for the sweepstakes, will be required on each mailing.

Second, the bill will expand the authority of the U.S. Postal Service by granting the Postal Inspection Service subpoena authority, nationwide stop-mail authority, and the ability to impose civil penalties of up to $1 million for the first offense and $2 million for a violation of an existing order.

Finally, the bill will strengthen existing law regarding Government look-alike mailings by requiring disclaimers on any mailings that might be interpreted as implying a connection to the Federal Government.

This legislation was reported out of the Subcommittee on International Security, Proliferation and Federal Services and reported unanimously by the Committee on Governmental Affairs on May 20. It has the support of the U.S. Postal Service, a number of consumer groups, and the American Association of Retired Persons.

I commend the work of the distinguished Senator from Maine, Ms. COLLINS, in crafting this legislation to curb deceptive mailings. As chair of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, Senator COLLINS has thoroughly examined the issue, and I applaud her important efforts in developing this bill and her continuing efforts to protect consumers. The distinguished ranking minority member of the committee, Senator LEVIN, has also supported this initiative, and we appreciate his assistance.

This bill takes an important step toward the prevention of deception in sweepstakes and other promotional mailings. I urge Senators to support it.

Mr. VOINOVICH, the Senator from Maine.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Mississippi for his very kind comments and for his strong support of this initiative. He has been a partner throughout this investigation into deceptive mailings, and I am very grateful for his support. I agree with the Senator that these different-looking mailings do not clearly state that they are promoting the same sweepstakes. I think that it is important to prevent consumers from being deceived by these mailings.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, during the July 1999 hearing on deceptive mail held by the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, several promoters testified that they use different business names and different stationery to send to the same people different-looking mailings to promote the same sweepstakes. So, for example, on day one, a person can get a solicitation to enter a $10,000 sweepstakes, and the solicitation says on the top that "Company Blue" is making the offer. In the rules it says "your chances of winning are 1 in 3 million." Let's say you enter that sweepstakes. One week later you get another solicitation for a $10,000 sweepstakes.

And we learned that the standard operating procedure for this type of sweepstakes is to send 5 or 6 mailings for the same sweepstakes after the person responds to the first mailing.

On this second mailing, it says "Company Red" at the top and the materials look totally different from the "Company Blue" promotions. The rules of this second solicitation also say you have a 1 in 3 million chance of winning $10,000, which a reasonable person would think is a completely different sweepstakes. That's also what the promoter wants you to think. So you think you have a chance of winning $20,000 in total. But, you don't. The most you can win is $10,000.

I believe these mailings are misrepresenting the facts, and under existing law these misrepresentations are deceptive. Clearly, the IRS said that "Company Red" scenario I just described, the promoter wants you to think that you're receiving two separate solicitations, each involving two separate sweepstakes. In fact, the solicitations for "Company Blue" and "Company Red" are for the same sweepstakes and thus you can win only once. Section 3005 of title 29 currently allows the Postal Service to deny delivery of mail used as part of a scheme to obtain money through the mail by use of deceptive representations. Clearly, many sweepstakes promoters use different business names and different stationery to make you think their multiple solicitations are unique and have no relationship to each other.

Does the Senator from Maine agree that these multiple mailing schemes mislead people into thinking they are entering separate contests from different companies?

Ms. COLLINS. Yes, I agree with the Senator. The practice of using different-looking promotional mailings without any information explaining that they are for the same sweepstakes serves no purpose except to lead recipients into believing that they are different sweepstakes. Once the recipient believes in the idea that these different sweepstakes, the recipient who believes that a purchase either is required or will confer an advantage upon them will then believe that a separate purchase must be made for each unsolicited sweepstakes because these different-looking mailings do not clearly state that they are promoting the same sweepstakes, I agree with the Senator from Michigan that they can be deceptive.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, our bill requires a sweepstakes or skill contest promotion, in order to be mailable matter, to contain a number of specific disclosures. Each of the disclosures required by the bill must be "clearly and conspicuously displayed." We have defined that term in the bill to mean "readily noticeable, readable, and understandable." This is a definition consistent with the definition used by the Federal Trade Commission.

Two of the required disclosures—that no purchase is necessary to win and that purchasing does not improve your chances of winning—are so important to giving a consumer the information he or she needs to decide whether or not to enter a sweepstakes and if so, whether or not to purchase an advertised product—that they should appear prominently in three places in each mailing. Our addition of the term "prominently" to these two disclosures is intended to emphasize the heightened significance of these disclosures. This means that these two disclosures must be highly visible and highly noticeable to the reader. In Edgeworth v. Fort Howard Paper Co., 673 F. Supp. 922, 923 (N.D. Ill. 1987), rev. on other grounds, 883 F. Supp. 1193 (1988), the District Court defined "prominent and accessible place" as a place where the message conveyed can readily be observed by the people for whom it is intended. In Allstate Insurance Co. v. Clemonns, 742 F. Supp. 1073, 1075 (D.NV 1990), the District Court defined "prominently displayed" to mean "the message must have greater prominence than the balance of the policy language. . . . In other words, a clause attains prominence by being different from its surrounding terms." Prominently displayed requires for purposes of our bill, making the two disclosures to which "prominently" applies different from other messages in appearance, manner of presentation, and location. These two disclosures must stand out from the rest of the printed material on the three locations where they are required to appear.

One can argue that there is going to be some subjectivity in deciding whether a statement is prominently placed in a promotion or not. Our intention here is to provide the Postal Service with enough guidance to ensure that when it comes to these two disclosures, there should be no close calls. These two disclosures should be obviously clearly and conspicuously displayed in a prominent manner and location.

Does the Senator from Maine agree with my description?

Ms. COLLINS. Yes, I do. Of the several disclosures we require to be included in a mailing containing a sweepstakes or skill contest promotion, these two disclosures—that no purchase is necessary and that purchasing does not improve your chances of winning—are particularly important for the reader to see in a prominent way. The statements themselves should be clear and conspicuous, as required by the bill, and they should be prominent in three places in each mailing, so it would be very difficult for a recipient not to notice them.

A number of sweepstakes and skill contest promoters currently include in their mailings the statement that no purchase is necessary. But this is often included only as a part of a lengthy set of rules or buried in other statements and notices that allow it to be easily overlooked. That is why our managers’ amendment includes the requirement that these two statements be prominent, and clearly and conspicuously displayed. I thank the Senator from Michigan for his assistance on this issue.

AMENDMENT NO. 147

(Purpose: To provide a managers’ amendment)

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I send to the desk the managers’ amendment. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Maine [Ms. COLLINS], for herself and Mr. LEVIN, proposes an amendment numbered 147.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 19, insert between lines 22 and 23 the following:

“(A) ‘clearly and conspicuously displayed’ means presented in a manner that is readily noticeable, readable, and understandable to the group to whom from the applicable matter is disseminated;”

On page 19, line 23, strike “(A)” and insert “(B).”

On page 20, line 1, strike “(B)” and insert “(C).”

On page 20, line 9, strike “(C)” and insert “(D).”

On page 20, line 21, insert “prominently” after “that.”

On page 21, line 1, insert “prominently” after “that.”

On page 21, lines 4 and 5, strike “an entry from such materials” and insert “such entry.”

On page 21, lines 8 and 9, strike “in language that is easy to find, read, and understand.”

On page 21, line 15, strike “clearly.”

On page 22, line 5, insert “or” after the semicolon.

On page 22, line 11, strike “or” after the semicolon.

On page 22, strike lines 12 through 17.

On page 22, lines 23 and 24, strike “in language that is easy to find, read and understand.”

On page 23, line 1, strike “clearly and conspicuously.”

On page 23, line 6, strike “clearly.”

The amendment is as follows:

SEC. 8. REQUIREMENTS OF PROMOTERS OF SKILL CONTESTS OR SWEETPARKS MAILINGS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 39 of title 39, United States Code (as amended by section 7 of this Act) is amended by adding after section 3016 the following:

“§ 3017. Nonmailable skill contests or sweepstakes mailings; notification to prohibit mailings

(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the term—

“(1) ‘promoter’ means any person who—

“(A) originates and mails any skill contest or sweepstake matter; notification to prohibit mailings

“(B) includes the address or toll-free telephone number of the notification system established under paragraph (2); and

“(C) shall provide with each mailing a statement that any individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from all lists of names and addresses used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes mailings from that promoter.

“(3) ‘skill contest’ means a puzzle, game, competition, or other contest in which—

“(A) a prize is awarded or offered;

“(B) the outcome depends predominately on skill, or

“(C) a purchase, payment, or donation is required or implied to be required to enter the contest; and

“(4) ‘sweeps’ mean a game of chance for which no consideration is required to enter.

“(b) NONMAILABLE MATTER.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Any promoter—

“(A) originates and mails any skill contest or sweepstakes matter; notification to prohibit mailings

“(B) elects to receive skill contest or sweepstakes mailings from that promoter.

“(e) PROMOTER NONLIABILITY.—A promoter shall not be subject to civil liability for the exclusion of an individual’s name or address from any list used by a promoter for mailing skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(2) RESPONSE AFTER SUBMITTING REMOVAL REQUEST TO THE NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—The promotor shall notify the system of the individual’s name and address in a compliance with subsection (c) and notify the system of the individual’s name and address in a mailing to an individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from any list used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes mailings.

“(g) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

“(1) A person who violates this section is subject to a civil penalty of $2,000 per violation.

“(2) The promoter has a good faith belief that the request is from—

“(A) the individual whose name and address is to be excluded; or

“(B) another duly authorized person.

“(3) PROHIBITION OF COMMERCIAL USE OF LISTS.—

“(a) IN GENERAL.—No person may provide any information (including the sale or rental of any name or address) derived from a list described under subparagraph (2) and other related information compiled from individuals who exercise an election under subsection (d).

“(b) Lists.—A list referred to under subparagraph (2) is a list of names and addresses (or other related information) compiled from individuals who exercise an election under subsection (d).

“(2) CIVIL PENALTY.—Any person who violates a paragraph (1) shall be assessed a civil penalty not to exceed $2,000 per violation.

“(3) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

“(A) A person who violates a paragraph (1) shall be subject to a civil penalty of $10,000 per violation for each mailing to an individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from any list used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(3) RESPONSE AFTER SUBMITTING REMOVAL REQUEST TO THE NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—Not later than 35 calendar days after a promoter receives a removal request pursuant to an election by the Postal Service (1), the promoter shall notify the system of the individual’s name and address in a mailing to an individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from any list used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(2) The Senate shall provide with each mailing a statement that any individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from all lists of names and addresses used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes mailings.

“(2) The Senate shall provide with each mailing a statement that any individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from all lists of names and addresses used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes mailings.

“(B) the outcome depends predominately on skill, or

“(C) a purchase, payment, or donation is required or implied to be required to enter the contest; and

“(4) ‘sweeps’ mean a game of chance for which no consideration is required to enter.

“(b) NONMAILABLE MATTER.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Any promoter—

“(A) originates and mails any skill contest or sweepstakes matter; notification to prohibit mailings

“(B) elects to receive skill contest or sweepstakes mailings from that promoter.

“(e) PROMOTER NONLIABILITY.—A promoter shall not be subject to civil liability for the exclusion of an individual’s name or address from any list used by a promoter for mailing skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(g) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

“(1) A person who violates this section is subject to a civil penalty of $2,000 per violation.

“(2) The promoter has a good faith belief that the request is from—

“(A) the individual whose name and address is to be excluded; or

“(B) another duly authorized person.

“(3) PROHIBITION OF COMMERCIAL USE OF LISTS.—

“(a) IN GENERAL.—No person may provide any information (including the sale or rental of any name or address) derived from a list described under subparagraph (2) and other related information compiled from individuals who exercise an election under subsection (d).

“(b) Lists.—A list referred to under subparagraph (2) is a list of names and addresses (or other related information) compiled from individuals who exercise an election under subsection (d).

“(2) CIVIL PENALTY.—Any person who violates a paragraph (1) shall be assessed a civil penalty not to exceed $2,000 per violation.

“(3) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

“(A) A person who violates a paragraph (1) shall be subject to a civil penalty of $10,000 per violation for each mailing to an individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the individual’s name and address from any list used by that promoter to mail skill contest or sweepstakes.
Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I offer this managers' amendment on behalf of myself, Senator Levin, to clarify certain provisions of S. 335.

As I described in my opening statement, this legislation imposes a number of new standards on promotional mailings. The managers' amendment further defines what is meant by the "clear and conspicuous" standard for the disclaimers and notices required in this bill. All disclaimers and notices must be "clearly and conspicuously displayed," which means "in a manner that is readily noticeable, readable and understandable to the group to whom the applicable matter is disseminated."

During its investigation into deceptive sweepstakes mailings, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations found numerous examples of mailings that misled consumers into believing that they must purchase a product to win a prize, or that a purchase will improve their chances of winning. The investigation showed that many mailings did not clearly inform consumers that no purchase was necessary to enter the sweepstakes and that buying a product did not increase their chances of winning. The disclaimers and notices in many existing sweepstakes mailings are of little value because they are too often buried in tiny print or contradicted by the promotional copy. Consumers should not need a law degree or a magnifying glass to read the rules or to decipher how to enter a sweepstakes without placing an order. In order to give some value to the disclaimers and consumer notices mandated by this bill, S. 335 requires each of these disclosures to be "clearly and conspicuously displayed."

The managers' amendment defines "clearly and conspicuously displayed" in a manner that is consistent with previous agency and court rulings. As the committee report for this legislation explains, the Federal Trade Commission has issued opinions on the meaning of "clear and conspicuous" and this standard is a staple of commercial law. The definition of clear and conspicuous, as used in S. 335, is meant to be consistent with the interpretation of the standard as developed in previous regulatory opinions, statements, and case law.

Thus, as the definition states, the required disclosures must be readily noticeable, readable, and understandable to the group to whom the matter is mailed. As the committee report notes, in some instances, the language may need to be highlighted, in bold letters, or placed in a visible location. We recognize that the format and layout of promotional mailings differ dramatically and, accordingly, the presentation of each required disclosure will necessarily vary. Thus, we believe it is appropriate to use the size, font, color, or placement of each disclaimer imposed on promotional mailings. The definition in this managers' amendment, however, gives the regulators broad guidance to interpret on a case-by-case basis what is required for a disclaimer or notice to qualify as "clearly and conspicuously displayed."

The committee report accompanying S. 335 provides a detailed description of the clear and conspicuous standard as enunciated by the Federal Trade Commission and in court decisions. The standard was designed to prevent deception, and we expect those enforcing this Act to make use of this standard to protect consumers receiving promotions in their mailboxes. We agree with the Federal Trade Commission that deception occurs if there is a representation, omission, or practice that is likely to mislead the reasonable consumer or his or her detriment.

Furthermore, the managers' amendment adds the word "prominently" to the two most significant disclosures required by S. 335: first, that no purchase is necessary to enter the sweepstakes; and second, that a purchase will not increase an individual's chances of winning with that entry. S. 335 already places significance on these two disclosures by requiring that they appear in three different places in most sweepstakes mailings: (1) the mailing, (2) the rules, and (3) the entry or order form. Because the subcommittee's investigation found strong evidence that some consumers believed a purchase would increase their chances of winning, we view these two disclosures as particularly important. Because of the brevity of these disclosures, we believe that it is particularly important that they be easily identifiable by the reader.

The Federal Trade Commission has used a variety of terms to describe clear and conspicuous, including sufficiently clear and prominent. Because many of the other disclosures required by S. 335 may be lengthy and may only appear in one place in a mailing, we believe that the "clear and conspicuous" for one disclaimer may differ from what is necessitated by another. A disclosure of a few words, such as "no purchase necessary," would by its very nature dictate a different yardstick than would the entire contest rules, which might consist of several hundred words. We expect all disclosures to be clear and conspicuous but these two disclosures should be "prominent" in the three required places in most sweepstakes mailings.

The managers' amendment also makes several technical changes. It removes duplicative language from several different disclosures required by S. 335. These deletions, however, are not intended in any way to weaken the overall requirement that disclosures be "clearly and conspicuously displayed." The managers' amendment also deletes a somewhat duplicative requirement relating to advantages that a sweepstakes might imply are given to those entries that accompany a purchase. Given the managers' amendment, which states that a purchase will not improve the contestant's chance of winning, we determined that this provision was superfluous.

Finally, the managers' amendment replaces section 8 of the bill reported by the Governmental Affairs Committee with new language requiring all companies sending sweepstakes or skill contest mailings to establish a system for removing the names of individuals who do not wish to receive such mailings. Section 8, as reported out of the Committee on Governmental Affairs, established a uniform notification system for most sweepstakes and contest mailings.

Under the new provisions companies would be required—on a company-by-company basis—to include on their mailings a notice of the address or toll-free telephone number that individuals could contact to request that their names be removed from future mailings. Such names must be removed within 35 days after appropriate notice. If a mailing is recklessly sent to consumers who have requested not to receive further solicitations, the maller shall be subject to a penalty of $10,000. This section shall take effect one year after enactment of this legislation. We commend our colleague and friend Senator Edwards for his strong leadership in crafting this proposal.

In closing, I thank my colleagues, particularly Senator Levin, for their assistance in crafting this managers' amendment, and I urge its adoption. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

August 2, 1999

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak in support of the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act. Unwanted mailings are seen by many as a nuisance. But when junk mail makes insupportable and outrageous claims of instant wealth, phantom prices, and bogus benefits annoyance becomes fraud—the small print notwithstanding.

Among its provisions, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act, S. 335, would place new requirements on sweepstakes offerings and allow fines to be levied on deceptive mailings. S. 335 would also require sweepstakes information to be presented clearly, and grants the Postal Service new authority to halt misleading mailings. I feel strongly that these reforms will benefit an untold number of American families and elderly persons from some unscrupulous elements of our society.

It pleases me to remark briefly on the genesis of this proposal. In my experience, the role of oversight and investigation the Congress has crafted its most informed, well reasoned, and thorough legislative proposals. As past chairman of the Senate’s Permanent Subcommittee on Investigation and current chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, I have long used and continue to use these tools to assess and reform.

I commend my successor as chairman of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigation, Senator SUSAN COLLINS, for taking a thorough approach to crafting this proposal. Following a process of investigation and hearings, Senator COLLINS has applied the right tools to a common problem. The people of Maine, Delaware, and the rest of our Nation will benefit from her hard work.

Mr. President, I rise today to express my strong support for S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act.

As a cosponsor of this legislation, let me first thank Senator COLLINS for her hard work in crafting this legislation, and for the informative and insightful oversight hearings she has held on the sweepstakes industry this year. Those hearings have exposed some troubling practices, and clearly demonstrate the need for this important legislation.

Earlier this year a constituent of mine from Huntington, Vermont, e-mailed my office and relayed his own personal story as an example of the need for this legislation. He had been asked by his mother to help review her mail as she was certain she had won something from a variety of sweepstakes mailings. He was shocked to learn in reviewing the material that while technically correct the material she was certain she had won was from a variety of sweepstakes mailings. He was shocked to learn in reviewing the material that you have the winning number” are subdued, and in small print. The intent of these mailings was clearly to create a false sense of “winning” in the recipient.

As his e-mail further points out, it was used to only the big names which sent out these sweepstakes mailings, but it may seem to be every fund-raising group, catalog, or magazine has some version of these sweepstakes mailings. However, even if you are just receiving material from one company it can be an overwhelming amount of sweepstakes mailings.

For example, another constituent of mine from Barre, Vermont, brought into my office over fifteen pounds of sweepstakes mailings from one company that related to only one contest. You had to read fifteen pounds of material for only one contest from one company. Multiply that by the number of contests and companies people receive mailings from and you are looking at an overwhelming amount of mail.

One of the most outrageous practices in these mailings is the request for a donation or a purchase of a product without making it clear that the donation or purchase has no effect on your chances of winning any of the prizes. This has caused some people to expend their precious resources thinking they are giving themselves a better chance at winning the grand prize, when in reality it has done nothing to change the odds.

Senator COLLINS’ legislation, S. 335, will go a long way to solve the problems of these deceptive sweepstakes mailings. It requires a clear disclosure of the game’s rules and an indication that the odds of winning are not improved by purchasing any products that are being advertised. It also will restrict the mailing from depicting an individual as a winner unless that person actually has won a prize. In addition, the bill will implement stricter penalties for sending mail that does not comply with the federal standards.

Everyday people are being inundated with these mailings and many of them promote a belief that you have already won, or that a donation or purchase will increase your chances of winning. For many, especially for the most vulnerable in our society, it has been very difficult to separate the truth from the fantasy in these mailings, and as past history has shown sweepstakes mailings are a particular problem for the elderly in our society.

Mr. President, we have a chance to protect all Americans, particularly the elderly, and I urge all my colleagues to support this important piece of legislation.

MS. COLLINS. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the time remaining on the majority side be equally divided between Senator THOMPSON and Senator BURNS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the time under the quorum call, which I will ask for, be charged against our side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I lend my strong support for Senate approval of S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act. This bill will establish new consumer protections to shield consumers from falling victim to deceptive and fraudulent practices found in some sweepstakes and mail promotions.

Thanks to the hard work of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigation, under the leadership of Senator SUSAN COLLINS, we have become privy to the operations of some of these sweepstakes companies. As the hearings pointed out, sweepstakes companies are now sending out more than one billion mailings per year. In the course of these mailings, some recipients have been led to believe that their chances of winning large amounts of money could be increased through the purchase of the promoter’s products or merchandise. Whether through the use of unclear and ambiguous language, symbols, or documents, these mailings have been a source of confusion and have lead to some readers spending significant sums of money ordering products in the mistaken belief that this would increase their chances of winning.

S. 335, for the first time, would establish specific guidelines and parameters for mailings containing sweepstakes, games of skill and facsimile checks. The legislation requires unobtrusive disclaimers that “no purchase is necessary” on the sweepstakes claim or entry form. The legislation also improves restrictions on government look-alike mailings. Further, the bill directs sweepstakes companies to adopt procedures to prevent the mailing of these materials to someone who submits a request stating their intent not to receive these mailings.

This bill has the strong support of the Postal Service. If providing the Postal Service with the ability to protect consumers through civil enforcement, the bill further grants the Postal Service administrative subpoena authority. It will also give U.S. district courts the ability to impose nationwide temporary training orders.

As a strong proponent of federalism, I think it is important that this bill does not preempt the authority of the state attorneys general and various consumer protection agencies which also combat deceptive mailings. The Postal Service and these agencies have a history of cooperation in the investigation and prosecution of these cases. The Postal Service reports that this collective effort has produced significant results in policing a variety of frauds.

This bill represents that the collective efforts we have seen this year. Legislation including Senators Collins, Cochran, and Edwards, for the way they have worked together with my former colleagues, the State attorneys general, the AARP, and the sweepstakes industry itself to put together this important consumer protection legislation. I think their combined efforts stand as a model not only of cooperation but of thoughtful legislating from which we can all learn. I am very proud to join them as a cosponsor of this bill.

As a Senator, I want to raise a couple of questions that I think are important and to focus on some unpleasant facts that we should be willing to face up to.

First of all, I point out for my colleagues the fact that the welfare rolls are down 40 percent begs the question of whether or not we have reduced poverty. The fact of the matter is, the welfare rolls are down 40 percent, but poverty is barely down. The goal was not to reduce the welfare rolls; the goal every everybody talked about was to move families from poverty to economic independence. That is really what the goal was all about. The issue has never been welfare; the issue has been poverty.

The question is, How do you reduce the poverty? I also wonder about the stand that the White House or any Democrat or any Republican can proclaim this success when we have done so little to reduce poverty in our country, especially poverty of children. There are about 14 million people who are poor in the country.

My second point is, when the President and the White House talk about the number of mothers who are now working, that begs the question as to what kind of jobs and what kind of wages. What we should be talking about are family-wage or living-wage jobs. The evidence we have right now is that most of the mothers who are working are working in jobs with wages somewhere between about $5.50 and $7 an hour, which is barely above minimum wage but does not enable these families to escape poverty.

My third point is, Families USA just came out with a study that points out there are about 675,000 low-income citizens who have now been cut off medical assistance because of the welfare bill. There are about 675,000 low-income citizens who no longer are receiving any medical assistance.

My final point is, there was a Wall Street Journal piece today about the dramatic, precipitous decline of participation in the Food Stamp Program. I argue especially the decline of participation among children which cannot be explained alone by the state of the economy—there has been a dramatic increase in the use of food shelf service.

What is going on? Do we have a situation now where the AFDC structure is no longer there, and when people come in, no one tells them about the fact they and their families are eligible for food stamps—that is happening—or they are not told they are eligible for medical assistance—that is happening—all of which leads me to two final thoughts today as we move into debate about the Agriculture appropriations bill.

First, I lost by one vote on a welfare tracking amendment, and then the Senate adopted it on the Treasury-Postal bill. It is now in conference committee. The amendment called upon the State of Maryland to apply for the $1 billion bonus money, to present to Health and Human Services the data on what kind of jobs women have, whether or not they and their children are participating in food stamps and do the families have medical assistance, so we can find out if families are better off or worse off. That is now in conference. If that gets taken out of conference committee—amendments are adopted in the Senate and taken out in conference committee—I am going to bring that amendment back up on this bill, and we are going to have a vote because sometimes we do not know what we do not want to know, and sometimes we only know what we want to know.

That is the way it is with the White House about this welfare bill. We ought to be engaged in an honest policy evaluation to find out what is happening in the country. We are talking about poor women and poor children, and we ought to know whether they are better off or whether they are worse off. There is some disturbing evidence that many of these families might, in fact, be worse off. It is a little early and premature for the White House to be declaring this a success or for any Senator or Representative, Democrat or Republican, to be declaring it a success.

My final point is, since we are dealing with an Ag appropriations bill—and I think I will have an amendment to this effect—we need to call on USDA, or someone, to do a study and to report back to the Senate and to the Congress in a relatively brief period of time, as soon as possible, what is happening with the Food Stamp Program in this country. We need to know.

There was a dramatic piece in the Washington Post about 2 weeks ago. I could hardly bear to read it. It was the front page of the B section. It was a picture of an 8-year-old child, a little boy. The whole piece was devoted to hungry children in the District of Columbia.

The gist of the article was that in August—now—the summer schools are going to shut down and the breakfasts will not be there, the School Lunch Program will not be there, and there is no food at home.

In this particular family, the grandmother with four children does not have enough money to feed her children. What I want to know is, whatever happened to the Food Stamp Program? That has been our safety net program. What is going on when we have a dramatic rise in the use of food shelves and food pantries in this country? The Catholic Church network study pointed this out just last month.

What is going on when 675,000 low-income people are removed from medical assistance as a result of the welfare bill? What is going on when the vast majority of these women are working at jobs that still do not get them and their families out of poverty? What is going on when we are unwilling to do an honestly policy evaluation of this legislation, because very soon in many States there will be a drop-dead date certain, and all families, all women, and all children will be cut off from any welfare assistance at all. Before that happens, we need to know what is happening with this legislation.

I have come to the floor of the Senate today to basically challenge my colleagues to make sure this stays in the conference committee and to announce I will be out here on the floor with an amendment if it gets eliminated from the conference committee, and to announce we ought to also have a study of the Food Stamp Program to find out why it is not reaching children and families who need the help, and also to directly challenge the White House and the President. It is not enough to say we have cut the rolls by 40 percent. The question is, Have we reduced the poverty by 40 percent? We have not.

It is not enough to say these mothers are now working. The question is, Are they working jobs that will enable them and their children to no longer be poor in our country? That is the goal which I do not believe has been met.

We are talking about the lives of poor women and poor children. They deserve to be on our radar screen. They deserve an honest, rigorous policy evaluation so that we, as decisionmakers, know whether or not, by our actions, we are helping these women and children or whether or not we are hurting these women and children. We ought to have the courage to step up to the plate.

I think we are about ready to start on the Ag appropriations bill. I will yield the floor. I look forward to this debate. I came down here on the floor to debate this bill. This is the crisis that is staring my State of Minnesota in the face. I am going to leave it up to Senator HARKIN or Senator DASCHLE to start out debate on our side, but I am very anxious to be in this debate and very anxious to speak for farmers and for agriculture.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THOMAS). The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative assistant proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

AMENDMENT NO. 1499
(Purpose: To provide emergency and income loss assistance to agricultural producers)

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that after reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The assistant legislative clerk read the amendment.

Mr. KOHL. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. LOTT. Since objection has been heard, I have no alternative other than to offer an amendment. This is important because we do need to move forward with the Agriculture appropriations bill. We brought it up earlier, this past month. It became embroiled in an unrelated issue, and we had to set it aside.

The farmers in America and the consumers of America and the children of America are depending on this very important legislation going through the process. We are talking about $60.7 billion, roughly more than that by the time it is completed, for agriculture in America. We need to get it completed.

I know there are some issues that cause a lot of concern: How do you deal with a disaster in America, when you do deal with it, and how would any assistance be apportioned among the farmers that were impacted by disasters in a number of ways. And also, of course, we have this very important dairy issue. I have advised Senator Cochran, Senator Jeffords, Senator Kohl, and Senator Daschle to make sure everybody understands what I am doing here. (Purpose: To provide emergency and income loss assistance to agricultural producers)

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, I send an amendment to the desk on behalf of Senator Daschle and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi (Mr. LOTT), for Mr.arkin, for himself, Mr. Daschle, Mr. Dorgan, Mr. Kerry, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Conrad, Mr. Durbin, Mr. Wellstone, Mrs. Lincoln, and Mr. BTanen, proposes an amendment numbered 1499.

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that after reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The text of the amendment is printed in today's RECORD under Amendments Submitted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 1500 TO AMENDMENT NO. 1499
(Purpose: To make a perfecting amendment)

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, on behalf of Senator Cochran and others, I send a second-degree amendment to the desk and ask for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi (Mr. LOTT), for Mr. Cochran, proposes an amendment numbered 1500 to amendment No. 1499.

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The text of the amendment is printed in today's RECORD under Amendments Submitted.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT WITH AMENDMENT NO. 1501
(Purpose: To restrict the use of certain funds appropriated to the Agricultural Marketing Service)

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, I now move to recommit the bill with instructions to report back forthwith with an amendment, and I send the motion to the desk.
These payments are transition payments called AMTA payments. They are in the form of the production of agriculture commodities that go to protect income, or support the ability to derive income from his labor. So that is a major distinction in our country, are in the form of assistance for disaster assistance and economic assistance to our Nation’s farmers.

The amendment, which is the amendment in the second degree offered by the majority leader on my behalf, provides a wide range of benefits to individual farmers and ranchers who, under the terms of this legislation, are eligible for disaster assistance because of economic losses and disasters that have occurred by reason of vagaries in the weather and other conditions that will cause these farmers to undergo unusual hardship.

We think this amendment is better and a more sensitive approach to the real needs of those involved in production agriculture than the proposal coming from the Democratic leader. Here is why. Most of the funds that are appropriated in this amendment for economic and disaster assistance go directly to the agriculture producer who has been victimized by floods or drought or economic catastrophes affecting his ability to earn a profit this year.

On the other hand, much of the assistance that is appropriated or funded in the Democrats’ package goes to continue or expand Federal programs, to enlarge programs. In other words, the money is going to the Government to expand and administer programs that either have to work, in some cases, or really do nothing to improve the farmer’s ability to derive income from his labor. So that is a major distinction that I hope Senators will consider as they try to decide which of these proposals to support.

As Senators know, most of the funds that go to protect income, or support the production of agriculture commodities in our country, are in the form of assistance called AMTA payments. These payments are transition payments that were begun under the last farm bill to prepare farmers for the time when predictable subsidies under the old farm bill program are reduced and then finally eliminated. Over this 5-year period under this new farm law, the transition payments are made to help support farmers as they become knowledgeable about agriculture, to get the benefit of the old subsidy payments. Farmers are now free to make planting decisions, for example, for themselves, as indicated by the condition of the market and the likelihood of crops being produced in an efficiently produced, rather than what the Government tells them they should produce under the restraints of Federal law.

Many farmers are beginning to make these decisions and shift from one program crop to another, without running the risk of losing Federal Government support. In order to show that the economic conditions and the market conditions have been so severe as to cause farmers not to be able to profitably under the new transition payment system, that payment is doubled under the Cochran amendment. And so instead of receiving $5,000 as a transition payment, a person who is entitled to that benefit under existing law this year will get twice that amount as an economic assistance payment from the Federal Government. A total of $5.54 billion will be paid to agriculture producers for market transition payments under the Cochran amendment. This is a 100 percent increase in a producer’s 1999 payment under the existing farm bill.

Other benefits that are available to agriculture producers under this amendment would include $500 million in direct payments to soybean and oilseed producers; $350 million in assistance to livestock and dairy producers, to be administered by the Secretary of Agriculture. The amendment would also suspend the budget deficit reduction assessment on sugar producers for the remainder of the farm bill, as long as no Federal budget deficit exists.

There will be a direct payment provided in this amendment to producers of quota and non-quota peanuts, equal to 5 percent of the current loan rate. The Cotton Step Two Export Program is reinstated in this amendment. There is an increase in the current loan deficiency payment limit from $75,000 to $150,000. There is, additionally, a provision in this bill that expresses the sense of the Congress, encouraging the President to be more aggressive in strengthening trade negotiating authority for Agriculture and expressing the Congress’ objectives for future agriculture trade negotiations. The amendment also requests that the President evaluate and make recommendations on the effectiveness of our existing export and food aid programs.

If you add up all of the direct benefits that are payable, they have been scored by the Congressional Budget Office as amounting to a total of $6.67 billion for fiscal year 2000. The added cost over the next 3 years, from 2000 to 2004, would add another $309 million to the cost of the bill, for a total of $6.979 billion in total cost from fiscal year 2000 to 2004, as scored by the Congressional Budget Office. MADAM PRESIDENT, Senators will remember that when we first brought this bill from the committee to the floor of the Senate, there was a great deal of concern about whether or not there should be a disaster program included in a title of the bill. We had asked the administration to submit a budget request for any funds that were expected to be needed. We have had no response whatsoever from the administration to that request. We attached that to an amendment offered on behalf of the ranking member of the committee on Appropriations. We discussed it on the floor of the Senate when this bill was before the Senate earlier, and I am very distressed that we have yet to hear any request made by the administration for this assistance. So in spite of the absence of cooperation in trying to identify and work together on a program that would be sensitive to the problems in production agriculture, we are moving to suggest to the Senate that this is a program that ought to be adopted.

I have additional comments to make. I will be glad to respond to questions that may arise from Senators on the content of this legislation to try to answer any questions that others may have. But I know we will soon have a vote that is scheduled to occur on another bill that was debated in the Senate earlier today. In an effort to accommodate friends who have asked for time to talk on their amendment, I will yield the floor at this time so other Senators may speak.

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I wonder if the Senator will yield. I would like to ask the Senator a question.

Mr. COCHRAN. I would be happy to respond to the Senator.

Mr. HARKIN. I didn’t get a copy of the amendment. What is the bottom line? What is the total package?

Mr. COCHRAN. The Congressional Budget Office scored the provisions I discussed at $6.67 billion for fiscal year 2000, and the total cost during fiscal years 2000 to 2004 is scored at $6.979 billion.

Mr. HARKIN. I thank the Senator.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, today all across America most people are doing pretty well. Unemployment is at its lowest rate in years. The stock market keeps going up. Our gross domestic product is going up at a great rate. As we now know, we have a surplus for the first time in almost 30 years in the Federal budget. We just had a lengthy debate last week on what we are going to do with that surplus. Our friends on the other side want to take 75% of it, throw it back as a tax break, to people mostly in the upper-income brackets.

If you just looked at that, you would think we shouldn't be worried too much about what is happening in America; things look pretty good.

Out of the glare of Wall Street, far from the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, sort of silently and quietly, American farmers and ranchers are losing their businesses. They are at the end of their rope. Our small towns and communities that dot our countryside are facing a bleak winter, with the prospect that things will get even worse after the harvest is in and the snow falls.

The situation facing American agriculture today—according to bankers, farm economists, and agricultural economists from many of our universities—is the worst it has been since the Great Depression. We have to respond. We have to respond in a way that is meaningful. That is what our first-degree amendment does.

I listened to my friend from Mississippi describe this amendment. I guess my response basically would be, "Nice try." Would it help farmers? Would the Republican amendment help farmers? Why, sure. Any little bit would help. Does it get to the underlying problem? Does it really help get our farmers through this winter and into next year? The answer is no. It is hopelessly too short.

While I appreciate the effort by my friends on the Republican side to come up with a last-minute amendment to perhaps put out a smoke screen on what is really happening in agriculture and what we need to do to respond to the crisis, it is a nice effort, but it really doesn't do it. Our hard-working, dedicated, progressive farmers and ranchers across this country don't just need a little bit of a handout that the Republican amendment will give them. What they need is a package of help that will not only get them through this summer and this fall but through next winter so they can get back on their feet again next year.

You will hear a lot of talk about how one of the problems is our lack of exports. I just want to point out that even though the United States has a trade deficit, one sector that earns us money and that has a positive trade balance is agriculture. But there are those who would have you believe it is because of the lack of exports that our farmers are in such bad shape. Here is the chart that puts the lie to that.

For wheat, rice, corn, and soybeans—the commodities we export—the exports are fully up this year over what they were in the previous couple of years. We are exporting more. If we are exporting more, what is the problem? The problem is, there is no price and farmers aren't getting anything for their commodities. Here is what has happened to soybeans just in my State of Iowa since the fall of 1997: Basically about a 45 percent decrease in the value of that crop. The same is true with corn. There have been precipitous drops just in the last year and a half. It is not a lack of total exports. It is a lack of the money and the price that farmers are getting.

While we need to get an emergency package of money out to farmers, we need to do it now. We also have to be about changing the farm policy. We cannot go on another year under the Freedom to Farm bill and be back here again next year looking at another package of several billion dollars. The Freedom to Farm bill has failed miserably. It has failed our Nation. It has failed our farmers. It has failed our rural communities.

I have an article that was in the Kansas paper back in 1995 when we passed the Freedom to Farm bill by my friend from Kansas, Senator Roberts. He said:

Finally, Freedom to Farm enhances the farmer's total economic situation. In fact, the bill results in the highest net farm income over the next seven years of any proposal before Congress.

I hate to say it to my friend from Kansas, but net farm income in key farming areas is down dramatically. For the principal field crops, net farm income is going to be down about 29 percent this year from the average of the last 5 years. That is why we are facing one of the greatest depressions in agriculture since the 1930s. That is why halfhearted measures are not going to work. That is why the bill we have here really does address the magnitude of the problem. It is deep, and it is a very large problem and one that has to be addressed efficiently.

The amendment that Senator Daschle and I, along with Senator Dorgan, Senator Kerry, Senator Johnson, Senator Conrad, Senator Baucus, Senator Durbin, Senator Wellstone, Senator Lincoln, and Senator Sarbanes have just sent to the desk provides for a total of $10.79 billion to farmers and ranchers for this next year.

There is a great gulf of difference between what the Republicans have set up and what we are proposing. First, the Republicans are proposing that we send all of this money out in a direct payment to farmers; an AMTA payment, it is called, a market transition payment. Our payments go out in supplemental loan deficiency payments, which means they are based upon a farmer's production—what that farmer actually produced this year, not what they did 10 or 20 years ago. In that way, it is more fair and it is more direct to the actual farmers this year. We include $2.6 billion for disaster assistance.

We include a number of other measures, such as $212 million for emergency conservation. We have had a lot of floods and a lot of damages in a lot of States. We need to repair the damage to farm and ranch land and enhance our conservation. For emergency trade provision, we have $976 million for purchases of commodities for humanitarian assistance. We have people starving all over the world. We have a Public Law 480 food assistance program and related programs. Our bill provides about $1 billion to take the surplus food we have and send it around the world to starving people. The Republican proposal does not include that.

We include money for emergency economic development for our rural towns, small towns, and communities that are hit hard. Only a package of $10.79 billion addresses the magnitude of the problem. It is that big.

I say to the people who think $10.79 billion is a lot of money, we passed a tax break bill last week for $792 billion, most of which goes to upper-income people in this country. Very little will ever go to our farmers and our ranchers around America.

This point in time is going to decide what happens to rural America this winter. That is why it is so important to act now. That is why it is so important that we get the money out that is needed—not some halfhearted measure in a way that doesn't address the real and devastating economic problems that farmers have all over America.

I will have more to say about my amendment later.

Mr. COCHRAN. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. HARKIN. I yield to the Senator.

Mr. COCHRAN. My colleague asked me whether the Congressional Budget Office had scored the amendment that I offered. I ask my friend the same question: What does the Congressional Budget Office say the amendment that the Democratic leader has offered will cost the American taxpayer over the next few years?

Mr. HARKIN. I answer to my friend from Mississippi that all of the items in our amendment are direct appropriations for next year. The only items that are not are the Cotton Step Two Export Program, and that is scored by CBO at $439 million for 3 years, and the adjustment to the payment limitations.

Mr. COCHRAN. Does that mean that the exact dollar amount set aside for each of the programs such as the Wetlands Restoration Program, the EQIP program—which is an emergency conservation program—emergency watershed program, all total $212 million in the bill?

Mr. HARKIN. That is the amount of money provided for those items.
Mr. COCHRAN. Emergency trade provisions, humanitarian assistance, cooperator program, for a total of $988 million; is that what the Senator is saying the CBO has verified the cost to be?

Mr. HARKIN. That is the amount of money we specifically provide in the amendment.

Mr. DORGAN. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. HARKIN. I am delighted to yield, and I want to thank the Senator from North Dakota with whom I serve on the agriculture appropriations subcommittee.

I appreciate the very strong help in putting this package together. It has been a very difficult year for farmers in North Dakota as well as Iowa and I can say without fear of contradiction the Senator from North Dakota has been one of the people in actually putting this package together.

I appreciate the support.

Mr. DORGAN. I want to address the question to the Senator from Iowa. The discussion we had about income support for farmers in the nature of a disaster program being income support in the form of a transition payment or AMTA, the whole notion of a transition payment is to transition farmers out of a farm program into the free market.

This chart shows what has happened to the price of wheat since 1996. This chart is similar to the corn chart and the price of corn which the Senator from Iowa shared. This is what has happened to the so-called “free market” for wheat. The price of wheat has collapsed. The notion of a transition was philosophically by those in this Chamber who said let’s transition people out of a farm program.

Isn’t that the base of an AMTA payment?

Mr. HARKIN. As I read the debate and all the talk on the Freedom to Farm bill when it passed, the idea was that we would transition out of farm programs with AMTA payments.

Mr. DORGAN. This is the right subject and the right time; we are debating the right issues. The Senator said it well. We have an economy that is growing and prospering, more people are working, fewer people are unemployed, fewer people in welfare. Inflation is down. So many good things are going on in this country, but in rural America family farmers are in desperate trouble through no fault of their own.

If any group of Americans found their income had collapsed, or if the salary for Members of Congress had fallen where income for family farmers had fallen, we would have dealt with this immediately and a long time ago. The same is true with corporate earnings.

However, we are here through no fault of the family farmers but because they are trying to do business in a marketplace where prices have just collapsed. If we don’t take action soon, we won’t have many family farmers left across the bread basket of the country.

Mr. HARKIN. The Senator is absolutely correct. The Freedom to Farm bill was premised that we would put farmers on the free market. As the Senator from Kansas said, they would have high net income for the next several years. However, Freedom to Farm ripped the safety net out from agriculture.

As I pointed out, our exports are up. We are exporting more of our key commodities, but there is no price. The safety net has been taken out from underneath agriculture. Farmers all across America recognize that Freedom to Farm has been a total and absolute disaster when it comes to protecting farm income, and it has to be changed. That is why the first thing we need to do is get the emergency package, but then we have to address the end-of-the-line problem of Freedom to Farm.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Madam President, I have a question.

Mr. HARKIN. I yield for a question.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I actually have three quick questions. First of all, dealing with the urgency of now, is it not true that the Senator from Iowa and other Democrat Senators have tried to pass an emergency assistance package and we have been working on this for some time? Would the Senator from Iowa give a little bit of a historical background? I think farmers are wondering how much more has to happen to them before there is some assistance.

Mr. HARKIN. I thank my friend from Minnesota. I also thank him for his help in putting this package together.

The Senator is right. We started this spring, in the emergency supplemental appropriations bill, trying to add some money. We got beat on a nearly straight party-line vote. All but one Republican voted no; Democrats voted yes.

We then came back, as the Senator from Minnesota knows, and tried it again in the subcommittee on this bill. We again lost on a straight party-line vote.

Now we are on the floor. I will say we are making some progress. At least now our friends on the other side recognize there is a problem. At least they are willing to address it somewhat. The amendment that the Senator from Mississippi sent to the desk is better than nothing, but it is not going to do enough to help get our farmers through this winter. It is only a little more than half of what is needed.

Mr. WELLSTONE. If I might ask my colleague from Iowa, one question to be clear about what is at stake—we will all have a chance to speak later. My colleague from Iowa says that what the Senator from Mississippi intro-
The legislation barred the use of any seal, insignia, trade or brand name, or other symbol designed to construe government connection or endorsement. Today, we have all heard to support S. 335, which builds on the foundation laid by the 1990 law, in recognition of the problems that have emerged as sweepstakes offers have proliferated, with all of the accompanying abuses we have witnessed.

How many times have each of us received an offer in the mail promising enormous sweepstakes payoffs or other prizes? These promises are a clever way to market magazine subscriptions and other products. The old adage—‘if it’s too good to be true, it probably is’—comes to mind. Regrettably, for many, such offers seem too good to pass up particularly when the are accompanied by dire warnings such as ‘urgent advisory,’ ‘don’t risk losing your multi-million dollar prize,’ or ‘don’t risk forfeiture now!’ Many consumers are misled by this type of advertising, which is deliberately designed to mislead.

Many offers are designed to entice the consumer into believing that he or she has already won a valuable prize. For example, or is on the verge of winning, when in fact, the odds against winning may be astronomical.

The sad truth is that companies use deceptive advertising because it works—it sells more product. And the tragic problem facing us today is this: all too often, the consumer who is being victimized is a senior on a fixed income or is disabled.

We have all heard the horror stories about unwitting victims on fixed incomes who have purchased hundreds or thousands of dollars worth of magazine subscriptions—sometimes multiple subscriptions to the same magazine, thinking they would improve their chances of winning a prize. We have heard the tragic accounts of individuals flying to another city or state to claim a prize, genuinely believing that they had been selected as the winner, only to discover they have become a victim. Some have squandered life savings on misleading offers. When these types of incidents become commonplace, I think, we have a good indication that there is a problem. And we have a responsibility to correct the problem.

What I find most troubling about this issue is that many unscrupulous companies intentionally target the most vulnerable consumers, knowing full well how devastating the results can be. S. 335 is targeted at those companies that have demonstrated that they will not police themselves.

Among other things, S. 335 requires sweepstakes mailings to display rules clearly and explicitly that no purchase is necessary to increase one’s chance of winning. It requires the sponsor of an offer to clearly state the odds of winning and the value of the prize, and prohibits companies from making false statements, such as an individual is a winner, unless they have actually won a prize. It also strengthens safeguards to protect those who have requested not to receive sweepstakes mailings and other such offers, and enhances the Postal Service’s authority to investigate, penalize, and stop deceptive mailings.

S. 335 does not prohibit legitimate offers. Rather, it puts fair, common sense restrictions in place in order to protect consumers, particularly those most at risk, such as seniors, or the disabled.

This week, the Senate Commerce Committee, of which I am a member, is scheduled to hold a hearing on fraud against seniors. It is a serious problem, and one that is not going to go away on its own. We must address the problem, and the deceptive mailings which S. 335 seeks to curb are certainly a component of this problem.

I am pleased that S. 335 has generated so much debate on this issue, because I believe that in addition to government action, the key to this challenge is increased awareness and personal responsibility on the part of companies and individual consumers and families.

Companies should police themselves. Likewise, there are steps that consumers can take to protect themselves. For example, always read the rules for any offer very carefully, especially if it sounds too good to be true. And if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. If you receive a letter in the mail informing you that you have won a prize, and it sounds a bit fishy, hang up the phone, don’t waste your time or money.

I hope this legislation will be a constructive step forward in this important effort, and I hope that it sends a strong message that government takes its responsibility as a watchdog and regulator of anti-consumer practices very seriously.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Madam President, today the Senate is taking another important step toward enacting sweepstakes reform legislation.

We continue the good fight that was launched nearly fourteen months ago when the Senate first began consideration of sweepstakes reform legislation. I was pleased to lead the fight for sweepstakes reform on June 5th, 1998, in the 105th Congress, when I introduced S. 2414, the Honesty in Sweepstakes Act of 1998. This was the first legislation of its kind.

A few months later, on September 1st, 1998, a high-impact Senate hearing focusing on the Honesty in Sweepstakes Act of 1998 attracted national attention and widespread public support. That hearing, followed by a series of hearings chaired by Senator COLLINS this year, was the turning point in the battle for sweepstakes reform and by my colleague Senator COLLINS. This momentum that has carried sweepstakes reform forward.

I was prompted to fight for Honesty in Sweepstakes when I heard far too many horrible stories about how consumers, especially and seniors, were being taken advantage of, and all too often seriously financially harmed by sweepstakes promotions that prey upon people’s hopes and dreams by making convincing yet false promises of riches. They use massive mailing lists to deliberately target our most vulnerable consumers with false promises of riches and then bombarding them again and again.

Since I first introduced the Honesty in Sweepstakes Act I have been contacted by many people from Colorado and all over the country with stories of their unfortunate experiences with sweepstakes promotions. They told stories of how their loved ones, often their elderly parents, had squandered many thousands of dollars after having been lured in by cleverly presented promotions promising instant riches.

Many people from all over the country have also sent me large envelopes stuffed full of examples of the misleading sweepstakes promotions they and their loved ones have received.

I am pleased to be an early cosponsor of the bill we consider today, S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act, which was introduced by my colleague Senator COLLINS. This bill includes a number of provisions similar to those I included in the Honesty in Sweepstakes Act. There are two additional provisions included in S. 335 that I believe will be especially beneficial in the fight against misleading sweepstakes. The first calls for establishing centralized and easy to access toll free phone numbers where consumers’ questions can be answered. The second provision makes it much easier for people to have their names removed from misleading lists.

Our nation’s seniors and other vulnerable consumers are clearly being taken advantage of, and in some cases...
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I rise today in support of S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act. I am proud to be one of the co-sponsors of this important legislation.

I commend Senators COLLINS and LEVIN for their efforts in addressing the serious problems with deceptive mailings involving sweepstakes, skill contests, facsimile checks, and mailings made to look like government documents. The investigation and hearings of the Senate Governmental Affairs Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations have shed light on sweepstakes and other mailings that promise extravagant prizes in order to entice individuals to make unnecessary purchases.

Far too many of these mailings are full of deceptive and misleading statements, which lead unsuspecting recipients to believe that they must purchase various items in order to be a winner or in order to improve their chances of winning. In too many cases, the prizes and awards are never granted. In many instances, the customer receives a trinket or coupon book of little value. Those consumers who respond to these mailings are then bombarded with additional mailings seeking more money for the same or similar items.

The effect on many consumers can be devastating. One of my constituents wrote about his 88-year-old father, who had spent thousands of dollars in hopes of receiving a large cash prize.

This legislation would set new standards for mailings that use sweepstakes, skill contests, and facsimile checks as promotions to sell merchandise. More disclosures would be required, disclosures which are clear and conspicuous, displayed in a manner that is readily noticeable, readable and understandable. Sweepstakes mailings must include prominent notice that no purchase is necessary to win, and that a purchase will not increase the chances of winning. In addition, the mailing must state the estimated odds of winning.

While S. 335 will probably not put an end to all of these deceptive mailings, it will go a long way toward eliminating any sort of deceptive, misleading sweepstakes mailings.

The bottom line is this. This legislation goes a long way toward eliminating any sort of deceptive, misleading sweepstakes mailings. It allows every person in this country, in this day and time, to live without having to worry about another deceptive mailing.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. EDWARDS. Madam President, I rise today to urge my colleagues to vote in favor of the sweepstakes legislation, which is S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act.

Let me say first, I thank my colleague, Senator LEVIN—I do not see him on the floor right now—also, my colleague, Senator COLLINS. They worked so hard and so long on this remarkably important piece of legislation.

Let me start by telling a story. It is a story I have told before, but I think it goes to the very heart of what this legislation is about.

There is an elderly man in North Carolina who lives in Raleigh, NC. I believe—right outside of Raleigh—named Bobby Bagwell. Bobby Bagwell is an elderly man who was watched over by his family, his daughter-in-law. Although he lived alone, he had a difficult time living alone.

His daughter-in-law went over to his house one day. When going through his various belongings, she discovered boxes and boxes of sweepstakes mailings. She came to discover in addition to that, in response to these sweepstakes mailings, Mr. Bagwell had purchased thousands and thousands of dollars of devices—goods that were basically useless. They were of no value to him at all. When she questioned his father-in-law about why he had bought these goods, the response was that he believed it would increase his chances of winning the sweepstakes.

He had spent, I think, something on the order of $20,000, which was basically his life’s savings, on purchasing this useless, worthless material.

As I mentioned earlier, Mr. Bagwell was an elderly man. For that reason, he was vulnerable. But there is an even worse part to this story. Mr. Bagwell, as it turns out, suffers from dementia.

So he could not remember from day to day what he had bought, how much money he had spent, or why he had spent it. His daughter-in-law, doing everything in her power to do something about this very sad situation, contacted the sweepstakes companies, asking them to take him off their mailing lists. She got no response. She then sent a doctor’s order to the sweepstakes companies saying, “My father-in-law suffers from dementia. I ask you, take him off your lists for sweepstakes mailings because he is buying all these goods, he doesn’t remember that he is spending his life’s savings, and we need to take him off the lists so he does not continue to engage in this kind of behavior.” For the second time, she got no response.

Finally, when they contacted me and I became aware of the situation and I contacted the sweepstakes companies, they responded appropriately and took him off the lists.

I believe that Senator COLLINS has done such a remarkable job in conducting hearings and bringing this matter to the attention of the American people so something can be done about it. It is something for which I believe we have broad bipartisan support, support on both sides of the aisle. Everyone knows and recognizes something needs to be done about this problem.

I do want to discuss one specific feature. The bill has many wonderful provisions, including provisions that require the sweepstakes companies, for example, to tell people that buying these goods does not increase their chances of winning. That would save a man such as Bobby Bagwell from being taken advantage of.

One specific provision I worked on awful hard, with Senator COLLINS and Senator LEVIN, basically provides that sweepstakes companies be required to provide a vehicle for people to be taken off these mailing lists so someone such as Bobby Bagwell, who has dementia, an elderly person who is being taken advantage of, who is vulnerable, can be protected and can be taken off the lists. In addition to that, it reduces junk mail and it saves money for every North Carolinian—in my case—and every American who simply does not want to continue to receive these sweepstakes mailings.

We all recognized during the course of the hearings there are some reputable, legitimate companies that engage in these sweepstakes techniques as a marketing tool. But people need to have a way to get off these lists if they want to get off the lists. One of the provisions in this legislation specifically provides that for.

The bottom line is this. This legislation goes a long way toward eliminating any sort of deceptive, misleading sweepstakes mailings. It allows people who do not want to receive these mailings to never receive them again. Ultimately, what it does is it empowers American families who want to make sure the elderly members of their families—their parents, their in-laws—are taken care of. It empowers them to make sure they are not taken advantage of with these sweepstakes mailings. I am, in fact, if they want to do it, that they no longer continue to receive these mailings.

This is a wonderful piece of legislation. As I mentioned earlier, it has bipartisan support. It's something that you authored, and I am very proud to have worked with Senator COLLINS and Senator LEVIN, who have done a tremendous job for the American people in connection with this legislation.

Lastly, I ask unanimous consent that a letter be ordered to be printed in the Record. They specifically provide their strong support for this legislation.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

Hon. John Edwards,
U.S. Senate, Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

Dear Senator Edwards: AARP thanks you for including a provision to the Managers Amendment to S. 335, the Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act, to institute a notification system. As drafted, the notification system would provide consumers with numbers to call to have their names removed from the mailing lists of companies that promote products and services through sweepstakes. The ability to have one's name removed from mailing lists is an important consumer protection, and facilitating such removal through the use of a toll free number is even better for consumers.

AARP has supported the use of toll free helplines to respond to questions or concerns in the telemarketing area, and the requirement to provide such a service to slow the proliferation of deceptive mailings is a logical extension. Further, we applaud the amendment's strong civil penalty provisions imposed on companies that violate a consumer's request.

AARP appreciates your efforts on behalf of consumers to eradicate the practice of fraudulent sweepstakes mailings through this provision to the Manager's Amendment to S. 335. We strongly support the notification system provisions, and hope that this section of the bill will be retained as it works its way through conference. We look forward to working with you and other Members on a bipartisan basis to ensure that this issue is resolved in the 106th Congress.

Sincerely,

HORACE B. DIETS,
Executive Director.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan is recognized.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, I again commend Senator COLLINS for her recent leadership of our subcommittee in so many consumer protection measures. This is just the latest of many on which Senator COLLINS has been the leader. That leadership is critically important to the American people. I commend her on it.

I also want to commend Senator EDWARDS. He made a major contribution to this bill by making it possible for people who no longer want to receive these sweepstakes to call a phone number to stop the deluge of mail that is received in so many homes. As in so many other areas, he is already making a great contribution to this Senate.

I especially thank him for his contribution to this bipartisan bill. That part of this bill is a very important part. It is a very creative part of the bill. Again, it makes it possible, in a very practical way, for people who get sick and tired of the swamping of their mailboxes with these sweepstakes offers, to end that.

This bill attempts to end these sweepstakes mailings, which are swamping our Nation. The sweepstakes scams are part of a $1 billion industry, an industry which is too often based on deception, an industry which too often tells people they have won a prize, dangers in front of the promised prize, and then, of course, encloses the promotional materials that create the impression that buying a product will help to get that prize.

Most people are skeptical when they get this mail. They realize there could be 100,000 people who are told they have just won a huge amount of money, but there is a significant percentage of our people who are misled. The companies that do this prey on some of the most vulnerable among us and they take special advantage of our seniors. This is shown, in particular, when somebody responds to one of these promotions and then they are frequently inundated with followup targeted promotions. In fact, according to one of our witnesses, one consumer company—such as 144 mailings from one company in 1 year and that, by the way, is one of the larger companies that does that, one of the so-called legitimate companies.

Our bill is aimed at ending the abuses and the deceptions and the scams. It will require the companies that are using these sweepstakes to display clearly and conspicuously and in a prominent place and in a prominent manner a statement that no purchase is necessary to enter the contest. And, even more important, in my judgment at least, a statement saying that a purchase will not improve their chances of winning.

There are other requirements in this bill, and they are important requirements, but I think those are two of the most important requirements that we do now impose on an industry to see if we can clean up some of these abuses.

We also give the Postal Service some authority. The Postal Service will have subpoena authority. The Postal Service will no longer have to take two steps before clamping down on the deception; they will be able to do it in one step. If the representation is true and the statements on the bill, the Postal Service will be able to act directly and not have to first go through an order which, in turn, will have to be violated as is the current law.

If someone violates the law, they should not need two steps. One step ought to be enough to stop the violation and punish the perpetrator. This bill is intended to close the loopholes in our law, to end the deceptions that permit too many of these sweepstakes to take in too many people, usually too many vulnerable people, raising hundreds of millions of dollars from people who usually cannot afford the dollars they are scammed into sending to the deceptive mailers of some of these sweepstakes.

In conclusion, again, I commend the Senator from Maine. Ms. COLLINS, for her very strong leadership, and the other members of our committee who have participated, including Senator COCHRAN who has been a leader in this and, again, Senator EDWARDS for his major contribution to this bill. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maine.

Ms. COLLINS. I thank the Chair. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator DOMENICI and Senator FEINGOLD be added as cosponsors to the pending legislation S. 335.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. I commend the Senator from Michigan, Mr. LEVIN; the Senator from North Carolina, Mr. EDWARDS; and the Senator from Mississippi, Mr. COCHRAN. Without their help, we would not have been able to craft such an effective bill. I am very grateful for their assistance and support.

We have heard very eloquent statements from a number of Senators today about the need for this legislation. In closing this debate, let me quote from a 74-year-old woman who wrote to me about how deceptive sweepstakes put her deeply into debt. In her letter, she said:

My only source of income is a monthly Social Security check totaling $893. I estimate that I have spent somewhere between $10,000 and $20,000 in the last 19 years. What money I did not have, I borrowed from my daughter who is now responsible for my total financial support. I am deeply in debt. Their mailings were worded in such a way that I was certain I was going to win anywhere from $1 million to $10 million. I truly wish I could recoup the moneys that I squandered in the hope that a real payoff would come my way.

Unfortunately, it is too late for this woman, but today the Senate can act to avoid financial hardship, wasted savings, and a great deal of heartache for countless other vulnerable citizens by passing this legislation.

It is my hope that we will have a very strong vote today and that it will prompt the House to act and we will see this important legislation signed into law before we adjourn this year.

I yield back the remainder of my time. I ask for the yeas and nays. I think they have already been ordered, but if they have not, I request the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. I believe the vote is slated for 5:30 p.m. Seeing no other speakers requesting time, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. COLLINS. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Minnesota, Mr. WELLSTONE, be added as a cosponsor of the bill S. 335.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Without objection, the substitute amendment, as amended, is agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading and was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass?

The yeas and nays have been ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH), the Senator from Delaware (Mr. BIDEN), the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICI), the Senator from Arizona (Mr. MCCAIN), the Senator from Alabama (Mr. SESSIONS), and the Senator from Delaware (Mr. SHELBY) are necessarily absent.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH) would vote "yea."

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Delaware (Mr. BIDEN), is absent at my attention.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Delaware (Mr. BIDEN) would vote "aye."

The result was announced—yeas 93, nays 0, as follows:

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE 19005

S. 335

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa- tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Deceptive Mail Prevention and Enforcement Act”.

SEC. 2. RESTRICTIONS ON SWEEPSTAKES AND DECEPTIVE MAILINGS USING MISLEADING REFERENCES TO THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Section 3001 of title 39, United States Code, is amended—

(iii) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following:

"(C) does not contain a false representa- tion implying that Federal Government ben- efits or services will be affected by any pur- chase or nonpurchase;";

(ii) in subparagraph (B) by striking “or” at the end and inserting “and”;

(iii) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following:

"(C) does not contain a false representa- tion implying that Federal Government ben- efits or services will be affected by any pur- chase or nonpurchase; or”;

(b) in paragraph (2)—

(i) in subparagraph (A) by striking “and” at the end;

(ii) in subparagraph (B) by striking “or” at the end and inserting “and”;

SEC. 3. RESTRICTIONS ON SWEEPSTAKES AND DECEPTIVE MAILINGS.

Section 3001 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by inserting after subsection (j) the following:

"(k)(1) In this subsection, the term—

(A) ‘skill contest’ means a puzzle, game, contest, or other contest in which—

(i) the outcome depends predominantly on the skill of the contestant; and

(ii) a purchase, payment, or donation is required or implied to be required to enter the contest; and
“(D) ‘sweepstakes’ means a game of chance wherein no consideration is required to enter.

“(2) Matter otherwise legally acceptable in the mails that is nonmailable matter described under paragraph (3) shall not be carried or delivered by mail and may be disposed of as the Postal Service directs.

“(3) Matter that is nonmailable matter referred to under paragraph (2) is any matter except mail matter as provided under paragraph (4) that—

“(I) includes entry materials for a sweepstakes or a promotion that purports to be a sweepstakes; and

“(II) does not contain a statement that prominently discloses in the mailing, in the rules, and on the order or entry form, that no purchase is necessary to enter such sweepstakes,

“(III) does not contain a statement that prominently discloses in the mailing, in the rules, and on the order or entry form, that a purchase will not improve an individual’s chances of winning or receive a prize; and

“(IV) does not state all terms and conditions of the sweepstakes promotion, including the rules and entry procedures for the sweepstakes,

“(V) does not disclose the sponsor or mailer of such matter and the principal place of business at which the sponsor or mailer may be contacted;

“(VI) does not state the estimated odds of winning each prize;

“(cc) the estimated odds of winning each prize;

“(BB) A proper showing under this paragraph shall be made available at the post office of mailing or delivery for examination by the defendant in the presence of a postal employee;

“(B) be delivered as addressed if such mail is clearly shown not to be the subject of proceedings under sections 3005 and 3006. No finding of the defendant in intent to make a false representation or to conduct a lottery is required to support the issuance of an order under this section.

“(2) Matter otherwise legally acceptable in the mails that is nonmailable matter described by paragraph (1), (2), or (3) of this subsection and that otherwise meets the requirements of rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

“(A) is not directed to a named individual; or

“(B) does not include an opportunity to make a payment or order a product or service;

“(C) includes a statement that such check is not a negotiable instrument and has no cash value.

“(3) Mail detained under paragraph (2) shall—

“(A) be made available at the post office of mailing or delivery for examination by the defendant in the presence of a postal employee; and

“(B) be delivered as addressed if such mail is clearly shown not to be the subject of proceedings under sections 3005 and 3006. No finding of the defendant in intent to make a false representation or to conduct a lottery is required to support the issuance of an order under this section.

“(C) shall be liable to the United States for a civil penalty in an amount not to exceed $25,000 for each mailing of less than 50,000 pieces; $50,000 for each mailing of 50,000 to 100,000 pieces; $100,000 for each mailing of 100,000 to 500,000 pieces; with an additional $10,000 for each additional 10,000 pieces above 100,000, not to exceed $10,000,000.

“(4) In any proceeding in which the Postal Service assesses penalties under this subsection the Postal Service shall determine the civil penalty taking into account the nature, circumstances, extent, and gravity of the violation or violations of section 3005(a), and with respect to the violator, the ability to pay the penalty, the effect of the penalty on the ability of the violator to conduct lawful business, any history of prior violations, the results of any investigation or examination, and other such matters as justice may require.

“SEC. 4. POSTAL SERVICE ORDERS TO PROHIBIT DECEPTIVE MAILINGS.

“Section 3005(a) of title 39, United States Code, is amended—

“(1) by striking ‘‘or’’ after ‘‘(h),’’ both places it appears; and “(2) by inserting ‘‘(j),’’ after ‘‘(i)’’ in both such places.

“SEC. 5. TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER FOR DECEPTIVE MAILINGS.

“Section 3007 of title 39, United States Code, is amended—

“(1) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c); and

“(2) by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

“(a)(1) In preparation for or during the pendency of proceedings under sections 3005 and 3006, the Postal Service, in accordance with section 406(d), may apply to the district court in the district in which mail is sent or received as part of the alleged scheme, de- vice, lottery, gift enterprise, sweepstakes, skill contest, or facsimile check or in any other manner that is consistent with the foregoing, for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction under the procedural re- quirements of rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

“(2)(A) Upon a proper showing, the court shall enter an order which shall—

“(i) remain in effect during the pendency of the statutory proceedings, any judicial re- view of such proceedings, or any action to enforce orders issued under the proceedings; and “(ii) direct the detention by the post- master, in any and all districts, of the de- fendant’s incoming mail and outgoing mail, which is the subject of the proceedings under sections 3005 and 3006.

“(B) A proper showing under this para- graph shall require proof of a likelihood of success on the merits of the proceedings under section 3005 or 3006.

“(3) Mail detained under paragraph (2) shall—

“(A) be made available at the post office of mailing or delivery for examination by the defendant in the presence of a postal employee; and

“(B) be delivered as addressed if such mail is clearly shown not to be the subject of proceedings under sections 3005 and 3006. No finding of the defendant in intent to make a false representation or to conduct a lottery is required to support the issuance of an order under this section.

“(C) shall be liable to the United States for a civil penalty in an amount not to exceed $25,000 for each mailing of less than 50,000 pieces; $50,000 for each mailing of 50,000 to 100,000 pieces; $100,000 for each mailing of 100,000 to 500,000 pieces; with an additional $10,000 for each additional 10,000 pieces above 100,000, not to exceed $10,000,000.

“(D) ‘sweepstakes’ means a game of chance wherein no consideration is required to enter.

“(ii) the quantity, estimated retail value, and nature of each prize; and “(ii) the schedule of any payments made over time; or

“(C) includes any facsimile check that does not contain a statement on the check itself of that such check is not a negotiable instru- ment and has no cash value.

“(4) Matter that appears in a magazine, newspaper, or other periodical and contains materials that are a facsimile check, skill contest, or sweepstakes is exempt from para- graph (3), if the matter—

“(A) is not directed to a named individual; or

“(B) does not include an opportunity to make a payment or order a product or serv- ice;

“(C) includes a statement that such check is not a negotiable instrument and has no cash value.

“(V) does not contain sweepstakes rules that state—

“(aa) the estimated odds of winning each prize;

“(cc) the schedule of any payments made over time; or “(VI) represents that individuals not pur- chasing products may be disqualified from receiving future sweepstakes mailings.

“(VII) requires that a sweepstakes entry be accompanied by an order or payment for a product previously ordered.

“(VIII) represents that an individual is a winner of a prize unless that individual has won a prize; or “(IX) contains a representation that con- tracts, or is inconsistent with sweepstakes rules or any other disclosure required to be made under this subsection, including any statement, promise, or guarantee of the rules or disclosures in a manner incon- sistent with such rules or disclosures;

“(BB) A proper showing under this paragraph shall be made available at the post office of mailing or delivery for examination by the defendant in the presence of a postal employee; and

“(C) includes any facsimile check that does not state all terms and condi- tions of the skill contest, including the rules and entry procedures for the skill contest;

“(D) does not disclose the sponsor or mail- er of such skill contest and the principal place of business at which the sponsor or mailer may be contacted;

“(E) does not contain skill contest rules that state, as applicable—

“(aa) the number of rounds or levels of the contest and the cost to enter each round or level;

“(bb) that subsequent rounds or levels will be more difficult to solve;

“(cc) the maximum cost to enter all rounds or levels;

“(dd) the estimated number or percentage of entrants who may correctly solve the skill contest or the approximate number or per- centage of entrants correctly solving the past 3 skill contests conducted by the spon- sor;

“(ee) the identity or description of the qualifications of the judges if the contest is judged by other than the sponsor;
“(e)(1) From all civil penalties collected in the administrative or judicial enforcement of this chapter, an amount equal to the administrative and judicial costs incurred by the Postal Service in such enforcement, not to equal or exceed $500,000 in each year, shall be—

“(A) deposited in the Postal Service Fund established under section 3061 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“‘(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(2) Except for amounts deposited in the Postal Service Fund under paragraph (1), all civil penalties collected in the administrative and judicial enforcement of this chapter which constitute or contain evidence) which the Postmaster General finds relevant or material to the investigation.

“(b) SERVICE.—

“(1) SERVICE WITHIN THE UNITED STATES.—A subpoena issued under this section may be served by a person designated under section 3661 of title 18 at any place within the territorial jurisdiction of any court of the United States.

“(2) FOREIGN SERVICE.—Any such subpoena may be served upon any person who is not to be found within the territorial jurisdiction of any court of the United States, in such manner as the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prescribe for service in a foreign country. To the extent that the courts of the United States may assert jurisdiction over such person consistent with due process, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall have the same jurisdiction to take any action respecting compliance with this section by such person that such court would have if such person were personally within the jurisdiction of such court.

“(3) SERVICE ON BUSINESS PERSONS.—Service of any such subpoena may be made by a Postal Inspector upon a partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity by—

“(A) delivering a duly executed copy thereof to any partner, executive officer, managing agent, or general agent thereof, or to any agent thereof authorized by appointment or by law to receive service of process on behalf of such partnership, corporation, association, or entity;

“(B) delivering a duly executed copy thereof to the principal office or place of business of the partnership, corporation, association, or entity; or

“(C) depositing such copy in the United States mails, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, duly addressed to such partnership, corporation, association, or entity at its principal office or place of business.

“(4) SERVICE ON NATURAL PERSONS.—Service of any subpoena may be made upon any natural person by—

“(A) serving a duly executed copy to the person to be served; or “(B) depositing such copy in the United States mails, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, duly addressed to such person at his residence or principal office or place of business.

“(5) VERIFIED RETURN.—A verified return by the individual serving any such subpoena setting forth the manner of such service shall be proof of such service. In the case of service by registered or certified mail, such return shall be accompanied by the return post office receipt of delivery of such subpoena.

“(c) ENFORCEMENT.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Whenever any person, partnership, corporation, association, or entity fails to comply with any subpoena duly served upon him, the Postmaster General may require the Attorney General to seek enforcement of the provisions of this section in the district court of the United States for any judicial district in which such person resides, is found, or transacts business, and serve upon such person a petition for an order of such court for the enforcement of this section.

“(2) JURISDICTION.—Whenever any petition is filed in any district court of the United States under this section, such court shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the matter so presented, and to enter such order or orders as may be required to carry into effect the provisions of this section. Any final order entered shall be subject to appeal under section 1291 of title 28. Any disobedience to any final order entered under this section by any court may be punished as contempt.

“(d) DISCLOSURE.—Any documentary mate- rial provided pursuant to any subpoena issued under this section shall be exempt from disclosure under section 552 of title 5.

“(e) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this section by any court may be punished as contempt.

“(b) REQUIREMENTS OF PROMOTERS.—

“(1) NOTICE TO INDIVIDUALS.—Any promoter who mails a skill contest or sweepstakes shall provide with each mailing a statement that—

“(A) is clearly and conspicuously displayed;

“(B) includes the address or toll-free telephone number of the notification system established under subsection (c); and

“(C) states that the notification system may be used to prohibit the mailing of all skill contests or sweepstakes by that promoter to such individual.

“(2) NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—Any promoter that mails or causes to be mailed a skill contest or sweepstakes shall establish and maintain a notification system that provides for any individual (or other duly authorized person) to notify the system of the individual’s election to have the name and addresses of the individual excluded from all lists of names and addresses used by that promoter to mail any skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(3) ELECTION TO BE EXCLUDED FROM LISTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Any individual (or other duly authorized person) may elect to exclude the name and address of that individual from all lists of names and addresses used by a promoter of skill contests or sweepstakes by submitting a removal request to the notification system established under subsection (c).

“(2) RESPONSE AFTER SUBMITTING REMOVAL REQUEST TO THE NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—Not later than 35 calendar days after a promoter receives a removal request pursuant to an election under paragraph (1), the promoter shall exclude the individual’s name and address from all lists of names and addresses used by that promoter to select recipients for any skill contest or sweepstakes.

“(3) EFFECTIVENESS OF ELECTION.—An election under paragraph (1) shall remain in effect, unless an individual (or other duly authorized person) notifies the promoter in writing that such individual—

“(A) has changed the election; and

“(B) elects to receive skill contest or sweepstakes mailings from that promoter.

“(e) PROMOTER NONLIABILITY.—A promoter shall not be subject to civil liability for the exclusion of an individual’s name or address from any list maintained by that promoter for mailing skill contests or sweepstakes, if—

“(1) a removal request is received by the promoter’s notification system; and

“(2) the promoter in good faith believes that the request is from—

“(A) the individual whose name and address is to be excluded; or

“(B) another duly authorized person.

“(f) PROHIBITION ON COMMERCIAL USE OF LISTS.
(1) IN GENERAL.—

(A) PROHIBITION.—No person may provide any information (including the sale or rental of any name or address) derived from a list described under subparagraph (B) to another person for commercial use.

(B) LIST.—A list referred to under subparagraph (A) is any list of names and addresses (or other related information) compiled from individuals who exercise an election under subsection (d).

(2) CIVIL PENALTY.—Any person who violates paragraph (1) shall be assessed a civil penalty by the Postal Service not to exceed $2,000,000 per violation.

(g) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

(A) who recklessly mails nonmailable matter in violation of subsection (b) shall be liable to the United States in an amount of $10,000 per violation for each mailing to an individual of nonmailable matter; or

(B) who fails to comply with the requirements of subsection (c)(2) shall be liable to the United States.

(2) ENFORCEMENT.—The Postal Service shall assess civil penalties under this section.

(b) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The table of sections for chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by adding after the item relating to section 3016 the following:

```
3017. Nonmailable skill contests or sweepstakes matter; notification to prohibit mailings.
```

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 9. STATE LAW NOT PREEMPTED.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in the provisions of this Act (including the amendments made by this Act) or in the regulations promulgated under such provisions shall be construed to preemp any provision of State or local law that imposes more restrictive requirements, regulations, damages, costs, or penalties. No determination by the Postal Service that any particular piece of mail or class of mail is in compliance with such provisions of this Act shall be construed to preemp any provision of State or local law.

(b) EFFECT ON STATE COURT PROCEEDINGS.—Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prohibit an authorized State official from proceeding in State court on the basis of an alleged violation of any general civil or criminal statute of such State or any specific civil or criminal statute of such State.

SEC. 10. EFFECTIVE DATE.

Except as provided in section 8, this Act shall take effect 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to amend chapter 30 of title 39, United States Code, to provide for the nonmailability of certain deceptive matter relating to sweepstakes, skill contests, facsimile checks, administrative procedures, orders, and civil penalties relating to such matter, and for other purposes."

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LEVIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.
their AMTA type payments are based on that very same outdated base acreage and payment yield system that is decades old. AMTA is, quite frankly, a relic of the past and has not changed. The AMTA system, payments can go to someone who is not even trying to grow a crop and has not incurred those expenses. And the benefits of AMTA payments are too easily claimed by absentee landlords. They could be long gone and living in—Palm Beach, Miami, or retired in southern Texas or someplace else. Our proposal is designed to provide the money to real farmers who are actually farming and trying to grow crops. I might also add one other thing: We are facing some terrible disaster conditions around the country. I know out in the upper Midwest we have had floods and excessive moisture that have put to a stop many farmers in the Dakotas for example, and we have had terrible floods and rainstorms in parts of Iowa. We are facing a tremendous drought on the eastern seaboard among the Atlantic coastal States where we also have farmers who are in dire straits.

In our package, we have over $2 billion for disaster-related assistance. The Republican package has zero dollars to help farmers survive disasters, not for those on the Eastern seaboard suffering that terrible drought or others under-going disasters. That is another big difference because these are truly farmers in need. They need help. Our bill has that help for them; the Republican bill doesn’t.

Those are the two major differences I see. I will have more to say tomorrow about the Freedom to Farm bill. Freedom to Farm had a lot of cheerleaders when it passed a few years ago, saying how great it would be. Those cheers ring hollow now. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Quite frankly, farmers are going broke. And they know it is a failure. It has not protected farm.

We must change the underlying farm policy. We need to get loan rates up. We had a bipartisan group of State representatives and Senators from Iowa here last week, Republicans and Democrats. They had a proposal for us: Raise the loan rates, allow the Secretary of Agriculture to extend in the Inter-

The name Freedom to Farm reminds me of a conversation a little bit ago when it was asked, is there anything good about the bill. I said about the only thing good in the Freedom to Farm bill is the name “freedom.”

But considering where the farm economy is today, consider the words in the Janis Joplin song, “‘Freedom is just another word for nothin’ left to lose.’” How accurate that is when it comes to the farm crisis. For our farmers, the word “freedom” in the Freedom to Farm bill, is just another word for “nothin’ left to lose.”

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, every time I’m home, farmers are saying to me: We appreciate some assistance so we can live to be able to farm another day, but we want to know whether we or our children or grand-children will have any future? How are you going to deal with the price crisis? What are you going to do to change the direction that this freedom to farm bill has taken?

Farmers focus on the structural issues. They want Members to write a new farm bill. They don’t want a ball out every year. They want to be able to get a decent price in the marketplace. They want a fair shake. That is all they want.

I ask my colleague from Iowa, also my friend from North Dakota, what should we be focusing on here in the U.S. Senate beyond this emergency assistance package to make sure that farmers can get a decent price, and that family farmers can be able to make a living and their children can farm and our rural communities can flourish?

Mr. HARKIN. In responding to my friend from Minnesota, I was meeting with farmers this week in Iowa talking about our emergency package. On more than one occasion the farmers got up and said: We appreciate what you are trying to do but we don’t understand the money. But if all you are going to do is send out another check and we are going to have the Freedom to Farm bill again next year, it isn’t going to work because we will be even deeper in the hole next year.

They are begging Congress to change this policy.

I tell my friend from Minnesota what I hear most often from them is they have to have a better price, they have to be able to market their grain more efficiently, and they need some limited kinds of conservation land idling program shorter than 10 years.

The vast majority of farmers I talked to said we have to get our supply and demand in line. The only way we will get them in line anytime soon is if we have some land out of production. With short-term land retirement, something to take land out for conservation purposes for 2 years, or 3 years at the most, where they get some economic benefit for that, coupled with higher loan rates and the extension of the loan and storage payments, we can start to get some stability and get the farm economy back on track.

This past weekend as well as on other Iowa visits, farmers are telling me if we don’t change the underlying farm bill it will be too little too late. Mr. DORGAN. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. HARKIN. I yield.

Mr. DORGAN. I think the points being made here are important to understand. If all we do is to pass a disaster relief package and do nothing to change the underlying farm bill, we will not have addressed problems in a way that gives family farmers hope that there is a future. Let me ask the Senator about the underlying farm bill. The underlying farm bill, the Freedom to Farm bill, has put us in a position where payments were made to farmers early on when farm prices were very high and farmers didn’t need them. Now, when farm prices have collapsed and farmers need a bigger payment, they are still getting the same payment or a lower payment than they were getting when prices were high.

In other words, there is a disconnect with respect to need. Freedom to Farm, was it not, was a transition payment. It was to transition them out of the farm program. That was the philo-osophical underpinning of the farm bill. Is it the judgment of the Senator from Iowa that while we do this—and it is urgent that we must do this, pass some disaster relief bill—that we also must accompany that with a change in the underlying farm bill, sooner rather than later, because if we do not, those farmers who are making decisions about the future will have to decide there is no hope ahead?

Freedom to Farm means there are lower price supports even when prices collapse. Isn’t it true that this must be the first step in a two-step process?

Mr. HARKIN. I could not agree more. I would proffer this. If all we do is pass this emergency package, either this one or the scaled-down package of the Republicans, and we do nothing else, farmers are going to see the handwriting on the wall. If we do not change that Freedom to Farm bill, they are going to see it and they will say, I’m going to be right back where I am again next year. Farmers are going to say, I’m getting out. They will be leaving in droves. It will drive farmers out.

In the State of Iowa, from April of 1998 to April of 1999, land prices in Central Iowa have gone down 11 percent already. The Governor of Iowa was at a meeting I held in Iowa this weekend. He said, when the legislature left 3 months ago, when they went out of session, they estimated the growth in revues at 1.8 percent. It is now down to 1 percent. That is going to affect our schools and everything else in the State of Iowa. So the broader impacts on Iowa’s economic health are already being felt. It is already happening.
I have had people tell me if we are going to do is put the money out there, it will help those some with their debts, it will help them get through the next few months, help them get through the harvest, but if we do not change the Freedom to Farm bill, they are out, they are not going to be there next year.

Mr. DORGAN. May I ask one further question?

Mr. HARKIN. I yield for a question.

Mr. DORGAN. Payments, as I understand them, have gone too far in the current farm bill, the underlying farm bill; too high in the disaster programs. Perhaps both programs should be adjusted lower. My understanding of the program that has been offered earlier today, by the majority party, is with the triple-entity rule, the payment limitation if that is not what it is, it is about, in my judgment, that is too high. In my judgment, we should craft a farm program and craft disaster programs that target help for family-size farms. That doesn't make any sense to me.

That is not what a farm program ought to be. If I have missed part of that, I have to follow this down, but I will rule, be about $460,000—under their disaster package. In my judgment, that is too high. In my judgment, we should craft a farm program and craft disaster programs that target help for family-size farms, that are out, they are not going to be there next year.

Mr. HARKIN. The Senator is onto something regarding payment limitations. In the Republicans' proposal, the maximum payments that an individual can receive—by setting up partnerships or corporations to maneuver around the limits—would be $460,000. Nearly half a million dollars to one individual.

Mr. DORGAN. If I might—

Mr. HARKIN. Again, I think we ought to be here to help people who really need some help and get it out. To me, that is going way beyond the bounds there.

I yield for a question.

Mr. DORGAN. If I might again just inquire, I had computed it under the three-entity rule, what they could achieve. If I have missed part of that, they can achieve $160,000. It simply makes the point: $300,000 is too much.

Mr. President, $460,000 is way out of bounds. We ought to be trying to get a reasonable amount of support during this price collapse to family-size farms. I can't do it as country, but I will not support giving $300,000 to anybody in farm country. We don't need that, that is not what a farm program ought to be about, in disaster help or in regular help, when prices collapse. That is not supporting a family-size farm: that is spending taxpayers' money in support of farm operations far in excess of family farms. That doesn't make any sense to me.

Again, when I inquired of the Senator from Iowa, I was thinking of the repeal of the three-entity rule. If there is another device that goes above the $300,000, that simply compounds the aggravation with respect to who is going to get this money and how much. Let us find a way.

I ask the Senator from Iowa, isn't our job here to create a decent disaster bill, first, that gets the most help possible to family-size farms and, second, to decide we must follow it quickly by saying the current farm bill doesn't work, that is obvious to everyone—obvious beleaguered, we have to pass disaster bills every year now—and we should change the underlying farm bill in the same way that provides real help to family farmers when prices collapse they have a chance to survive?

Mr. HARKIN. I respond to my friend from North Dakota: These big cash payments are an inherent part of the Freedom to Farm bill—an inherent part of it. A lot of that money goes to the big operators. Yet we have our family farmers out there who are just trying to get by.

That is why this Freedom to Farm bill—I wish I could say just one good thing—the only good thing about Freedom to Farm was flexibility. It gave that to farm operators. But as the Senator from North Dakota might remember, when we were debating the farm bill, the Senator from North Dakota offered an amendment to provide the planting flexibility to farmers and still have a farm program that provided storage payments and some set-asides within the confines of the farm program. If I am not mistaken, it was the Senator from North Dakota who offered the amendment to provide the flexibility to farmers to plant what they wanted, where they wanted, and yet it was defeated on a party-line vote.

So there were those who sold to the farmers the Freedom to Farm bill on the basis that they would have planting flexibility. We are just for Carakil, it is their proposal. We provided planting flexibility in our alternative—I believe it was the Senator from North Dakota who offered it—

Mr. DORGAN. Senator CONRAD.

Mr. HARKIN. Senator CONRAD, the other Senator from North Dakota, offered it. That was to provide that planting flexibility. We were all for that. There was no one here who was not for that. I think farmers by and large were very confused by that. They were told by our friends on the other side of the aisle you had to have Freedom to Farm to get flexibility. That is not so. What happened with Freedom to Farm is that it took away the safety net and we are in the situation we are in right now. I repeat, for emphasis' sake, these big cash payments are an inherent part of the Freedom to Farm bill.

I will yield for one more question.

Mr. WELSTONE. I say to my friend from Minnesota, I hope each one of us in our own capacity would understand what is happening out there right now. We are not blind. We are not deaf. We are not without the capability of going out in the countryside and talking to farmers and listening to them. We all do that. If you have eyes and ears to hear and a decent knowledge of what is happening on the farms, I hope we will not have to have all the rallies and have farmers come to big meetings to try to impress upon us this need. I disagree, however, the way things are going that will happen.

If we do not address the underlying aspects of the Freedom to Farm bill, you are going to get more and more farmers out to these meetings, especially the larger farms. Of course, farmers are busy during the harvest. You will not see too many of them probably in the fall. It is going to be a long, cold winter if we do not change the underlying bill. It will not be just the farmers, you will have the bankers out in. I have heard from bankers in, and you are going to have people from small towns and communities, the school boards and everybody else saying: Look, what is happening? Our towns are drying up.

I say to my friend from Minnesota, I hope we will not force farmers to go to meetings and plead with us to recognize the dire straits they are in. We know it. We know what it is like out there. We have all the data. We have the statistics. We know what the prices are. Pick up the newspaper and read what the prices are. Look at what futures prices are. I had a chart earlier today about the soybeans. Cash price of soybeans is down about half, about 45 percent in the last 2 years. You do not really need much more than that to understand what the problem is. I say to my friend from Minnesota. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to print in the RECORD an outline of the dire straits they are in. We know it. We know what it is like out.
It comes out this way, is $2.9 billion less than the 5-year average. The average for the 5-year period covering 1997 through 1992 was $17.7 billion. So, this year’s result is 1.9 less than the 8-year average, or approximately 4 percent.

I am not making a claim it is higher; I am saying it is going to be lower. It is going to be lower by $300 million as opposed to last year and at least $2 billion to $3 billion less than the 5-year and 8-year averages.

As I have been listening to the debate and Senators have described this as a depression, a circumstance, Senators must take a look at the parameters of what is the actual set of facts. Let me point out historically the high water mark for agricultural income in the last 10 years was $54.9 billion in 1996. That followed the low year in 1995 of $37.2 billion. Low of 7, high of 54.9. Average: 45, 46 for the 5-year/10-year situations. This year: 43.8, close to 44 billion.

That is the range. This is net income, not net loss. Agriculture had a substantial net income never below $37.2 billion and never higher than $54.9 billion in this 10-year period of time.

We are taking a look at a situation that shows loss, but we ought to quantify that loss. These are the official USDA projections as of last week.

Senators will recall that 1998’s net farm income of $44 billion included $12.2 billion of direct Federal Government payments. About $9 billion was provided by the farm bill and the remaining $3 billion was made available by the October 1998 emergency appropriations bill. But this year, already, before this legislation comes to the floor, Federal payments are projected to be $16.6 billion.

Let me demonstrate how this can be true. The safety net provided by the current farm bill—that safety net—provides for an annual transition payment, a so-called AMTA payment, of $5.1 billion. That is provided for by the farm bill, and to be paid to all farmers according to formulas at the times that are prescribed. But loan deficiency payments for corn, wheat, soybean, and other crops eligible for marketing loans are estimated at $6.6 billion. This is a safety net provided by the current farm bill.

It has been suggested a number of times that the current farm bill, in its emphasis upon market economics, has no safety net. But I am pointing out $5.1 billion in AMTA payments and another $6.6 billion in so-called loan deficiency payments, still another $4.8 billion to be paid out in conservation and crop loss disaster payments, with $2 billion of that authorized by the 1998 October emergency appropriations bill.

It is important to note that most of the farm debate has focused on low prices, and charts have been given to the Senate indicating how prices have tended downward over the years. But, nevertheless, the more important figure would be price times yield; that is, the income coming from acreage. If, in fact, the price is low but the yield is high, the product of the two may still be a reasonable return for that acre in that year. There is an even more important fact that I suspect that many Senators have not thought through clearly. An article that I saw on the front page of USA Today talked about a farm meeting the distinguished occupant of the Chair attended in Illinois. That particular article mentioned low prices and pointed out the depression and the fall of those prices.

But if the price of corn—as has been sometimes suggested—has been quoted at elevators at $1.75 or $1.70 per bushel, the good news is that a farmer will receive, at least if he is a farmer in the Midwest, that in wheat, $1.95. That is a price guaranteed through the loan deficiency payment in that part of the state.

How does this work? Let’s say the farmer brings the corn in and the market price is $1.70 per bushel at the time of harvest. At the Beach Grove elevator in Indianapolis, that farmer will receive what amounts to 25 cents a bushel more, bringing that $1.70 up to $1.95. The same is true for soybeans at Beach Grove, IN. The soybean loan rate will be $5.40. In some parts of the country it may be $5.26. I am advised, but it is not $4 or $4.50 or $4.60 or $3.75 or various figures that have been quoted.

This is a tough concept to try to get across because even after you make the point again and again, people talk about a $3.75 market price for soybeans. What I am saying is that every bushel of soybeans the farmer brings into the elevator, he is going to get $5.26. The Government loan deficiency payment will provide him with a payment equal to the difference between his market price and the local county loan rate. That is very different.

This is not a question about how low the prices are going to go. If they go lower, the loan deficiency payment is higher. That is why the Federal Government will be paying out at least $6.6 billion to make up the difference. It was the same for wheat. In many parts of the country the loan has already come in. But the government guarantees at least $2.58 for wheat at many elevators around the country.

I make that point because that is the safety net of the current farm bill. It is a pretty strong safety net. It will provide a very substantial amount of income as the harvests occur, as the grain comes in, as the loan rates are established. It will amount to $5.6 billion that has not yet been received but will be received by farmers. Hopefully, that will take the debate away from a comparison of how low the prices are going to go to the concrete figure of what the loan deficiency payment will be—specifically, as I say, again, in most parts of the country, at least $1.89 for every bushel of corn, and for every bushel of wheat, and $5.26 for every bushel of soybeans. At many elevators it will be a higher figure than that, including the one in Indianapolis that I cited. Farmers receive that even if the quoted market price is much lower.

Let me mention some other statistics the USDA has pointed out that may give you some idea about the parameters of our discussion.

In the same report last week of USDA giving estimates on net income, USDA also went into the question of farm assets and farm debt and farm equity. If you had heard the entirety of the debate today—or maybe for some time—on this issue, the Chair might logically believe that many values in this country are going down if they pertain to agriculture; that the net worth of farmers collectively in this country is going down way that, in fact, is not the case.

The Agriculture Department points out that farm equity, which was $325 billion in 1996, rose to $387 billion in 1997. It is estimated to go up to $365 billion this year. That is an increase of approximately $8 billion more, or a 1 percent increase in net worth. The farm real estate figures are $302 billion for this year as opposed to $794 billion last year, and $783 billion the year before, and $746 billion the year before that.

It does not mean every acre of land in every county all over America is going up. As a matter of fact, the Federal Reserve Board statistics for my home State of Indiana indicate an estimate that in the first quarter of 1999, real estate values in agriculture may have gone down by 2 percent. As a matter of fact, that was true of a number of States. But in a fair number of States, obviously, the estimate that agricultural land is going up. The aggregate, the total, for America is the land values are higher. Furthermore, the net worth is higher because farm debt will decrease from $172 billion to $171 billion.

Once again, listening to the debate you would say, how can that be? If we are in a depression circumstance, how can you be arguing that real estate on farms is going up, that debt is coming down? Because that is what is occurring. You can give any number of statistics about prices falling, but the fact is that net income is going to fall by $300 million. And that will still be within $2 to $3 billion of a range for the last 5 or 10 years of time.

Let me try to bring clarity to the argument in still another way.

The distinguished Senator from Iowa, Mr. HARKIN, has mentioned, in a fact sheet that he released and he gave some of these figures again today, that there will be a 29-percent drop in agricultural income, but Senator HARKIN correctly says this is a drop in principal field crops, not all of agriculture, but primarily grains and corn. I have noted that situation on my own farm. The distinguished Senator from Iowa, Mr. GRASSLEY, is on the floor. He has a family farm and could cite statistics from his farm if he were inclined to do so.

On my farm, Lugar farm in Marion County, IN, our net income in 1998 was 18 percent less than in 1997. That was true principally because our major income sources were soybeans and corn. My guess is that our net income in 1999 may have a similar reduction, although I hope not so great as the 18-percent that was suffered the earlier year.

Obviously, it makes a very great deal of difference, when you come to the net income situation or the difficulty of a farmer's family farm, the farmer's family. Our situation is one in which we do not have debt. We are able to finance our operating loans, our operating expenses, without loans and out of retained capital. So that gives you a big headline. For those farmers who have extended themselves to buy the adjacent farm or have never quite paid off the family mortgage and who must borrow each year to put a crop in the field, the interest costs are very substantial. Those are reflected still in the overall aggregate statistics of net farm income in this country.

As you take a look at ag statistics, the fourth that do the best as opposed to the fourth that do not do as well, very frequently the same amount of land is involved, same weather was involved. The question of debt intrudes and makes a big difference in the bottom line figure; likewise, the sophistication of the marketing plan. Even in the midst of all, we were talking about last week, I was able to come out of sale of 1,000 bushels of corn to an elevator in Indianapolis at a figure higher than the loan rate, the government's guaranteed minimum price. That prospect was available to each farmer in America, I suspect that day. We sold that corn for $1.97 for fall delivery. That is not a high price, but that is a payment of $2 or $3 billion. Neither of the proposals before us is of that nature.

I have pointed out in colloquies with the press during the past week that there is before the Agriculture Committee now a risk management bill that would, in fact, provide about $2 billion a year for each of the next 3 years to passers-by, who would pretty well fill the gap, if that was the intent of the Senate to do that. I conclude that Senators finally will take a look at this entire situation and reach some overall judgments. Let me offer at least some reasons why some payments might be justified.

First of all, farmers or the rest of America could not have anticipated the Asian crisis that hit about 2 years ago. The last bushel sold probably took away 40 percent of the demand of Asian countries for American agricultural products. That probably took away 10 percent of our entire market last year, which means that demand fell over night by 10 percent, whereas supplies for the last 3 years have not only been ample but around the world the weather has been mighty good and the amount of supply abundant, really throughout that period of time. So a 40 percent hit in terms of the Asian export demand hit very hard. It hit suddenly. Within a 90-day period of time we realized that difficulty.

Let me also mention, in addition to the supply situation, the abnormally good weather in China, in Europe, in Brazil, in Argentina, Australia, major sources of food throughout the world, that the American farmers have run up against the problem of genetically modified organisms in European debate, which means that Europeans are rejecting corn and soybeans that come with the roundup ready genetic changes.

As we all know in America agriculture, in order to get rid of the weeds in the field, it is a much simpler procedure to strengthen the soybean and corn plants that rejects the herbicides that kills all the weeds but leaves the corn and the soybeans standing. We believe that not only is corn and soybeans from such situations safe, but as a matter of fact, our yields have increased. The health of the plants has increased, and we felt all over the world people might want to benefit from these breakthroughs. Not so in Europe, and a debate rages as to whether there is something fundamentally wrong with our genetically modified seeds to the point we are finding it very difficult to export a single bushel of corn or beans to the European market. That debate is going to go on for awhile, and it has not been helpful.

We are on the threshold of a World Trade Organization meeting in Seattle that comes up in October. We must have fast track authority. That is, the President must be able to negotiate on behalf of the administration with other countries, knowing this body will vote up or down on the treaty without amendment, because amendments by all of us attempting to influence the situation to benefit our particular States or crops or so forth could be matched by amendments all over the world and the treaty negotiations collapse.

We don't have fast track authority. We have tried in this body several times to obtain that. The House of Representatives had similar difficulties. It will require enormous leadership by the President and by many of us, but we cannot make a new treaty that does not go down the hill. That increases our exports in the way that all Senators want, without doing the basic steps. Fast track authority is one of them, as well as a determined will that agriculture will not be left off the table, that agriculture is an integral part of what our Nation must do at the WTO meetings.

I make this point because we talk, often glibly, about the need for exports. Of course, we have a need for exports. But they will not happen in the quantities that we need to have happen without lowering tariff and nontariff barriers, and the Seattle meeting is where that does or does not get done. If we don't have fast-track authority, it will not occur during this administration. That is a long time.

So for all these reasons, farmers have taken a direct hit, largely because of worldwide demand and in the case of many fields in the State of Illinois, or in my State of Indiana, or the State of Iowa, as much as a third to a half of all our acreage literally results in yields that must be exported, or we have it coming up around our ears. We know
Mr. President, obviously, we are in the middle of a very important debate. I think the Senate has benefited from his remarks. He has given this debate a great deal of substance and has definitely elevated the level of discussion on the issue before the Senate. I thank him for his testimony and we will ask him for the administration’s point of view, which I think is relevant to what we are discussing here.

I know it is relevant on the basis of last year’s experience because we passed an agriculture appropriation bill, and it had considerable benefits for farmers. But it was vetoed by the President. And, as a result, the benefits did not accrue very rapidly, and we got into what I would say was a bidding war again. That is not advisable if it can be avoided in some normal framework. So I am hopeful that we will have a hearing, and at least that it will provide some benefit for the debate we are now having before us, and certainly for the ones to come.

I hope we will continue to testify in behalf of that when it comes to American agriculture. I thank the Chair for this indulgence; likewise for other Senators.

I am hopeful that before action is taken on either of the two amendments, there will be testimony by the Secretary and then very thorough debate by each Senator. I believe that our obligations should be to American agriculture both to encourage and enhance it and, likewise, that our obligations is to all the taxpayers of the country and the other major objectives that lie before our country.

I thank the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Indiana. He has elevated the level of discussion on the issue before the Senate by his remarks. He has given us this debate unusual insight based on his experience and his knowledge of the subject and his personal experience as one who is engaged in production agriculture in the State of Indiana.

I think the Senate has benefited from his remarks. I, for one, want to congratulate him and thank him for remaining on the floor this evening and putting the Senate to the benefit of his observations on this issue.

Tomorrow, as he points out, there will be a hearing in the Agriculture Committee which could also be very helpful to our further understanding of the situation. The Economic Research Service and other agencies of the Department of Agriculture could make available to us information that would be very helpful and constructive as we try to decide what is best in this situation for our farmers around the country.

I don't want to overdue this or gild the lily too brightly. But I personally respect the Senator so much—and he knows that—and consider him a great friend. I again express my personal appreciation for his being here tonight and for his leadership in the agricultural area specifically.

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Senator from Mississippi, who is my friend and whose leadership I appreciate so much.

Let me inquire of the distinguished Senator from Mississippi if he knows of further debate. If not, I make an inquiry because I have been asked to substitute for the leader in making motions.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I know of no other Senator who seeks recognition on this. I think it would be appropriate to go to final wrap-up.

Mr. LUGAR. I thank the Senator.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period of morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TAXPAYER REFORM ACT OF 1999

Mrs. LINCOLN. Mr. President, I wish to express my support for the Bingaman amendment to recommit S. 1429 to the Senate Finance Committee which would have enabled us to clarify that debt reduction is a top priority for this government in spending any budget surplus.

As we say in my home state of Arkansas, the best time to fix the roof is when the sun is still shining.

Now is the time for us to take steps to reduce our enormous federal debt. I believe we have an unprecedented opportunity before us. We've been making tough decisions—living within our means, so to speak.

We have a surplus that's bigger than we thought it would be and a chance to save Social Security for future generations, protect for Medicare and help older people afford prescription drugs.

So, now we have a shot at reducing our nation's debt, which in turn will lower interest rates and put more money back in the pockets of more Americans.

Using a major portion of any surplus accumulated in these times of prosperity to improve the financial integrity of the federal government. Reducing the national debt is a smart long-term strategy for the U.S. economy and it must be our priority in this bill.

Reducing our national debt will provide a tax cut for millions of Americans because it will restrain interest rates, saving them money on mortgages, new mortgages, auto loans, credit card payments, etc. Each percentage point decrease in interest rates would save American families hundreds of dollars every year.

By reducing the national debt we will protect future generations from increasing tax burdens. Currently, more than 25 percent of individual income taxes go to paying interest on our national debt. Every dollar of lower debt saves more than one dollar for future generations, a savings that can be used for tax cuts, or for covering the baby boomers retirement without tax increases.

Reducing the national debt will also make it easier for the government to deal with the future costs of Social Security and Medicare and repay the Social Security trust fund when the Social Security system faces annual shortfalls.

In addition, reducing the national debt will reduce our reliance on foreign investors. More than $1.2 trillion of the national debt—roughly one third of the publically held debt—is held by foreign investors. In 1996, the U.S. government paid $91 billion in interest payments to foreign investors.

It was not the American way to live beyond one's means. Our parents taught us to work hard so that we can pay our bills, clothe our children and save for the future.

Accumulating debt and simply letting it grow and grow is not—and should not be—an option for most families around this country. It should no longer be the practice of this government.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan has repeatedly advised Congress that the most important action we could take to maintain a strong and growing economy is to pay down the national debt. I, for one, believe he is on the right track.

Clarifying our intent to prioritize debt reduction is the right thing to do.

THE VERY BAD DEBT BOXSCORE

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, at the close of business yesterday, Thursday, July 29, 1999, the Federal debt stood at $5,638,655,711,931.60 (Five trillion, six hundred thirty-six billion, three hundred sixty-four billion, four hundred eighty dollars and fourteen cents) during the past 25 years.

Five years ago, July 29, 1994, the Federal debt stood at $4,638,362,000,000 (Four trillion, six hundred thirty-six billion, three hundred sixty-two million).

Twenty-five years ago, July 29, 1974, the Federal debt stood at $476,155,000,000 (Four hundred seventy-six billion, six hundred fifty-five million) which reflects a debt increase of more than $5 trillion—$5,163,318,711,931.60 (Five trillion, one hundred sixty-four billion, four hundred eighty dollars and fourteen cents) during the past 25 years.

THE VERY GOOD DEBT BOXSCORE

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, at the close of business Friday, July 30, 1999, the Federal debt stood at $5,544,483,000,000 (Five trillion, five hundred forty-three billion, four hundred eighty dollars and fourteen cents) during the past 25 years.

One year ago, July 30, 1998, the Federal debt stood at $5,544,483,000,000 (Five trillion, five hundred forty-three billion, four hundred eighty dollars and fourteen cents).

Purging all long-term debt will continue to save American families hundreds of dollars every year.
from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report; which was referred to the Committees on Appropriations, the Budget, and Foreign Relations.

To the Congress of the United States:

In accordance with the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, I herewith report one revised deferral of budget authority, now totaling $173 million.

The deferral affects programs of the Department of State.

WILLIAM J. CLINTON.

THE WHITE HOUSE, August 2, 1999.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The following reports of committees were submitted:

By Mr. CAMPBELL, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, without amendment:

S. 944. A bill to amend Public Law 105–188 to provide for the mineral leasing of certain Indian lands in Oklahoma (Rept. No. 106–132).

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

The following bills and joint resolutions were introduced, read the first and second time by unanimous consent, and referred as indicated:

By Mr. BREAUX:

S. 1471. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to allow a deduction for contributions to individual investment accounts, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

By Mr. SARBANES (for himself, Ms. MIKULSKI, Mr. WARNER, Mr. ROBB, and Mr. AKAKA):

S. 1472. A bill to amend chapters 83 and 84 of title 5, United States Code, to modify employee contributions to the Civil Service Retirement System and the Federal Employees Retirement System to the percentages in effect before the statutory temporary increase in calendar year 1999, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

By Mr. ROBB (for himself, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. JEFFFORDS, Mr. LUGAR, Mr. TORRICELLI, Ms. SNOWE, and Mr. HOLLINGS):

S. 1473. A bill to amend section 2007 of the Social Security Act to provide grant funding for additional Empowerment Zones, Enterprise Communities, and Strategic Planning Communities, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

By Mrs. HUTCHISON:

S. 1474. A bill providing conveyance of the Palmetto Bend project to the State of Texas; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

By Mr. KENNEDY (for himself, Mr. DODD, Mr. CHAFEE, Mr. ROBS, Mr. ALLEN, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mr. HARKIN, Mr. FINGOLD, Mr. KERRY, and Mr. INOUYE):

S. J. Res. 30. A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relative to equal rights for women and men; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

SUBMISSION OF CONCURRENT AND SENATE RESOLUTIONS

The following concurrent resolutions and Senate resolutions were read, and referred (or acted upon), as indicated:

By Mr. THOMPSON:

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. SARBANES (for himself, Ms. MIKULSKI, Mr. WARNER, Mr. ROBB, and Mr. AKAKA):

S. 1472. A bill to amend chapters 83 and 84 of title 5, United States Code, to modify employee contributions to the Civil Service Retirement System and the Federal Employees Retirement System to the percentages in effect before the statutory temporary increase in calendar year 1999, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

FEDERAL EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT CONTRIBUTIONS ACT OF 1999

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I am again pleased to join with my colleagues, Senators MIKULSKI, WARNER, ROBB and AKAKA, in introducing the Federal Employee Retirement Contributions Act of 1999. This bill makes a technical correction to legislation introduced last week that would return Federal employee retirement contribution rates to their 1998 levels, effective January 1st, 2000. It is my belief that the temporarily increased retirement contributions enacted as part of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 represent an unfair penalty against Federal workers at a time when budget surpluses are predicted into the next ten years.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1472

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the "Federal Employee Retirement Contributions Act of 1999".

7.75 January 1, 1999, through December 31, 1999, inclusive 7.75 After December 31, 1999.”.
own states, but I'd like to take a moment to talk about the Norfolk-Portsmouth Enterprise Zone (EZ) in my state of Virginia. The Norfolk-Portsmouth EZ won its new designation in 1997. One of the many services Norfolk-Portsmouth provides through Norfolk Works, Inc. the entity implementing the many activities of the EZ, are GED classes and job training and apprenticeship programs. There's even a Multi-media Training Course, which includes an 15-week internship at a media company. Norfolk Works also recruits and screen applicants for jobs. And they don't do this alone: Norfolk Works coordinates with many agencies, organizations and businesses to help the residents within the Norfolk-Portsmouth Zone. Already, the Norfolk Works has produced impressive results—from May 1995 to June 1999, 60 percent of those completing training are employed with another 16% involved in additional training.

The success of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Enterprise Zone is just one example of the promise and results of Enterprise Zones. But unlike Round I EZ/ECs, Round II EZ/ECs did not receive the Social Service Block Grant (SSBG) that provides resources for social services such as job training and child care which complements the tax incentives and funding authority already approved.

Communities competed for these designations with the understanding that Congress would give them the full funding to implement their vision. We have a responsibility to fulfill our obligations to these communities, that worked very hard to win the resources to make their vision a reality. I look forward to working with our colleagues to fulfill this promise.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 49—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING THE IMPORTANCE OF "FAMILY FRIENDLY" PROGRAMMING ON TELEVISION

Mr. VOINOVICH (for himself and Mr. LIEBERMAN) submitted the following concurrent resolution referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

S. CON. RES. 49

Whereas American children and adolescents spend between 22 and 28 hours per week viewing television—more than any other activity except sleeping;

Whereas American homes have an average of 2.75 television sets, and 87 percent of homes with children having more than one television set;

Whereas a very limited number of prime time programs are suitable for the entire family;

Whereas surveys of television content demonstrate that many programs contain substantial sexual and/or violent content;

Whereas parents are ultimately responsible for the appropriate supervision of their child’s television viewing, and critical viewing and “co-viewing” of television programming, with the child are especially important;

Whereas “family friendly” programming means programs which are relevant, interesting, and appropriate for audiences of all ages, including movies, series, documentaries, and informational programs aired during hours when parents and children are likely to be together watching television (between 6:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m.);

Whereas “family friendly” programming is of a type that the average viewer or parent would not be embarrassed to watch with children in the room and ideally presents an uplifting message;

Whereas efforts must be made by television networks, studios, and the production community to produce more quality family friendly programs;

Whereas the Family Friendly Programming Awards, which we encourage, recognize, and celebrate creative excellence in, and commitment to, family friendly programming;

(3) honoring outstanding family friendly television programs with a new tribute, the Family Program Awards, to be held annually in Los Angeles, California;

(4) establishing a development fund to finance family friendly scripts; and

(5) underwriting scholarships at television stations, departments at institutions of higher education to encourage student interest in family friendly programming; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That Congress—

(1) recognizes and honors the efforts of the Forum on Family Friendly Programming and other entities supporting family friendly programming;

(2) supports efforts to encourage television networks, studios, and the production community to produce more quality family friendly programs;

(3) supports the Family Friendly Programming Awards, which we encourage, recognize, and celebrate creative excellence in, and commitment to, family friendly programming; and

(4) encourages the media and American advertisers to further a family friendly television environment within which appropriate advertisements can accompany the programming.

Mr. VOINOVICH. Mr. President, I rise today along with my distinguished colleague from Connecticut, Senator LIEBERMAN, to submit a concurrent resolution recognizing the importance of expanding the amount of family friendly television programming, and the contributions that the Forum for Family Friendly Programming is undertaking to make this goal a reality.

One of the more frustrating aspects of being a parent in the United States is the fact that we cannot always protect our children from what they see and hear. Images and descriptions of violence, sex and drug and alcohol consumption permeate our culture, but nowhere are these depicted more readily than on television. Recent studies support the theory that children exposed to violent video programming at a young age have a higher tendency to engage in violent and aggressive behavior later in life. Even more distressing is that children witness an average of five violent acts per hour on prime-time television and 200,000 acts of violence on television by the time they are 18 years old. There is no doubt that this exposure threatens the healthy development of our children.

For families that have both parents working, it’s becoming harder for them to keep track of what their children watch after school or during the summer months. More likely than not, a child will pick up the television clicker before he or she will pick up a book. In one week, the average child will watch 22-28 hours of television, which is more time than he or she spends on any outside activity other than sleeping.

Mr. VOINOVICH. Mr. President, I rise today along with my distinguished colleague from Connecticut, Senator LIEBERMAN, to submit a concurrent resolution recognizing the importance of expanding the amount of family friendly television programming, and the contributions that the Forum for Family Friendly Programming is undertaking to make this goal a reality.

One of the more frustrating aspects of being a parent in the United States is the fact that we cannot always protect our children from what they see and hear. Images and descriptions of violence, sex and drug and alcohol consumption permeate our culture, but nowhere are these depicted more readily than on television. Recent studies support the theory that children exposed to violent video programming at a young age have a higher tendency to engage in violent and aggressive behavior later in life. Even more distressing is that children witness an average of five violent acts per hour on prime-time television and 200,000 acts of violence on television by the time they are 18 years old. There is no doubt that this exposure threatens the healthy development of our children.

For families that have both parents working, it’s becoming harder for them to keep track of what their children watch after school or during the summer months. More likely than not, a child will pick up the television clicker before he or she will pick up a book. In one week, the average child will watch 22-28 hours of television, which is more time than he or she spends on any outside activity other than sleeping.
The trick for parents is to establish good viewing habits for their children—as well as the entire family—that emphasize quality family programming. Right now, most parents indicate that the so-called “family viewing” time of evening—traditionally between 8:00 and 10:00 p.m.—often contains programming that they feel is inappropriate for their children. It is important that broadcasters recognize that the daily “family viewing” period needs to focus more on programming that is actually family friendly; shows that parents and children can readily watch together.

Lawrenceburg is the good judgment of a parent in determining what a child watches on television. However, parents can use all the help they can get in ensuring that more family-oriented shows are aired during the evening hours.

To help in this endeavor, a number of our nation’s largest companies have joined together to establish the Forum for Family Friendly Programming. Like many American families, the members of the Forum are concerned that fewer and fewer television programs are specifically geared towards the entire family. They are concerned, also, that too many of the programs that our children view contain storylines, language and characters to which they should not be exposed.

Most of the companies that belong to the Forum are sponsors of a wide range of television programs, but they believe that more family-friendly television programming, including more very high quality documentaries or informational programs that are interesting or relevant to a broad audience, will actually appeal to more families.

Right now, the members of the Forum for Family Friendly Programming are working with and in the entertainment community on a variety of initiatives on family friendly programming including: meetings with industry leaders; speeches and discussions at industry meetings and conferences; award tributes to family friendly television programs; a development fund for family friendly scripts; university scholarships in television studies departments; to encourage student interest in family friendly programming; and a public awareness campaign to promote more family friendly programming.

Mr. President, as a father and a grandfather, I am deeply concerned about the healthy development of all of our nation’s young people. Since the future of our country depends upon our children, we must do all that we can to limit their exposure to negative influences and provide them with as safe and nurturing an environment as possible. Therefore, I encourage efforts that will expand the number of quality family programs shown on television, and I congratulate the Forum for Family Friendly Programming on their leadership towards that goal.

I believe that passage of this resolution honoring the Forum’s commitment will help raise awareness and inspire others in the business world to align themselves with the goal of bringing quality television to our nation’s families. I am pleased to join with my colleague, Senator Lieberman, who has been a leader in the Senate on addressing the needs of our children, and I urge my colleagues to join us in co-sponsoring this resolution, and calling for it’s speedy consideration by the Senate.

Mr. THOMPSON submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

SENATE RESOLUTION 170—RECOGNIZING LAWRENCEBURG, TENNESSEE, AS THE BIRTHPLACE OF SOUTHERN GOSPEL MUSIC

Whereas Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, is the home of many of the first major southern gospel music songwriters, including such songwriters as James D. Vaughan, Adger Pace, James Rowe, G.T. Speer, and William Walbert; Whereas Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, is the home of the first professional southern gospel music quartet, which was founded by James D. Vaughan in 1910; Whereas Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, is the home of the first southern gospel music radio station WOAN, which was founded in 1922; Whereas Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, is the home of the Vaughan School of Music, which helped train the first generation of southern gospel music artists and songwriters, including V.O. Stamps, the LeFevres, and the Speers; Whereas Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, is the home of the Vaughan Family Visitor, the first influential southern gospel music newspaper, which was published from 1914 to 1964; Whereas Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, is the home of the James D. Vaughan Music Company, which has published millions of shape-note southern gospel music songbooks from the date of its founding in 1902 until 1964; and Whereas the Southern Gospel Music Association recognizes Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, as the official birthplace of southern gospel music; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved

SECTION 1. RECOGNITION OF LAWRENCEBURG, TENNESSEE, AS THE BIRTHPLACE OF SOUTHERN GOSPEL MUSIC.

The Senate—
(1) recognizes Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, as the birthplace of southern gospel music; and (2) requests that the President issue a proclamation honoring Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, as such a birthplace.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, today I rise to submit a resolution recognizing my hometown of Lawrenceburg, TN, as the official birthplace of Southern Gospel Music.

Lawrenceburg is not a large town by any means, nor is it altogether prominent in the political landscape. What this humble town lacks, however, it more than makes up for with its importance in the history of American music. Since the turn of the 20th century, Lawrenceburg has been the home of Southern Gospel Music, a musical tradition embraced and perpetuated by talented and dedicated artists.

The roots of Southern Gospel Music reach back to some of the most gifted pioneers of our time, such as Adger Pace, James Rowe, G.T. Speer, William Walbert, and the great James D. Vaughan. Vaughan went on to found the first Southern Gospel Music quartet in Lawrenceburg in 1910. He also founded, in Lawrenceburg, the Vaughan School of Music and the James D. Vaughan Music Company. This school helped train the first generation of Southern Gospel Music artists, such as V.O. Stamps, Frank Stamps, and the Speers. While the music company published millions of shape-note Southern Gospel music songbooks during its existence from 1902 until 1964.

Lawrenceburg was also integral in getting the word out to the world that Southern Gospel Music was on its way. Along with the many traveling quartets originating from the training ground of the Vaughan School of Music, Lawrenceburg was the home of the first influential Southern Gospel Music newspaper, the Vaughan Family Visitor, which began publication in 1914. Eight short years later the first Southern Gospel Music radio station WOAN was founded, also in Lawrenceburg.

With the endorsement of the Southern Gospel Music Association, which has designated Lawrenceburg the birthplace of Southern Gospel Music, I proudly ask my colleagues to support this resolution recognizing Lawrenceburg, TN, as the official birthplace of Southern Gospel Music.

SENATE RESOLUTION 171—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE THAT THE PRESIDENT SHOULD RENEGOTIATE THE EXTRADITION TREATY BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE UNITED MEXICAN STATES

Mr. TORRICELLI submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas, under the Extradition Treaty between the United States of America and the United Mexican States, Mexico refused to extradite murder suspect and United States citizen Jose Luis Del Toro to the United States until the State of Florida agreed not to exercise its right to seek capital punishment in its criminal prosecution of him;
Whereas under the Extradition Treaty Mexico may extradite other suspects of capital crimes; and
Whereas the Extradition Treaty interferes with the justice system of the United States and encourages criminals to flee to Mexico: Now, therefore, be it
Resolved,
SECTION 1. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE RENEGOTIATION OF THE UNITED STATES-MEXICAN EXTRACTION TREATY.
It is the sense of the Senate that the President should renegotiate the Extradition Treaty Between the United States of America and the United Mexican States, signed in Mexico City in 1978 (31 U.S.T. 5059), so that the possibility of capital punishment will not interfere with the timely extradition of criminal suspects from Mexico to the United States.

Mr. TORRICELLI. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce a resolution regarding our extradition treaty with Mexico. This resolution expresses the sense of the Senate that the United States renegotiate our extradition treaty to allow for the possibility of capital punishment.

When Sheila Bellush was brutally murdered in November 1997, her accused murderer, Jose Luis del Toro, fled to Mexico to escape prosecution in the United States. From this time forward, there has been little consolation for the Bellush family, and a great deal of hardship. While Del Toro was apprehended in Mexico just 13 days later, a nightmare of government delays and roadblocks prevented his extradition to the United States.

The details of Sheila Bellush’s murder are shocking. By all accounts, her four 23-month-old quadruplets probably witnessed their mother’s murder, and wandered around in her bloodstained home from school and found Mrs. Bellush’s body.

There is overwhelming evidence that Del Toro was involved in the murder. The Sarasota police believe that he stayed in a nearby house in his car, which was seen near the crime, and he stayed in a nearby motel, where a .45 caliber bullet was found, like the one used in the murder.

The Mexican government refused his extradition unless the United States agreed to waive the death penalty. Amazingly, we approved such a provision in the U.S.-Mexico Extradition Treaty of 1978. This agreement allows Mexico the right to refuse extradition if the death penalty may be applicable in the case. In the Bellush case, this provision allowed Del Toro to evade prosecution for over a year while awaiting his extradition.

I became involved in this case when Jamie Bellush moved their six children to Newton, New Jersey, and sought my help with Del Toro’s extradition. I was in constant contact with the Justice and State Departments and the Mexican Embassy urging them to move quickly in returning Del Toro. The Mexican Government has since honored our request, and extradited Mr. Del Toro to Florida to stand trial. However, I believe that the U.S. should still move to renegotiate our extradition treaty with Mexico and prevent this unfortunate series of events from happening to other families in the future.

I look forward to working with this Congress to pass this resolution.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

· Mrs. BOXER, Mr. President, today, I recognize an important and historic
The restoration project now nearing completion in Mendocino, California. While the Northern California landmark has captured the imagination of this rugged region. Built in 1858, the Point Cabrillo Lighthouse is a living reminder of California’s maritime history. And on August 8th, the Lighthouse celebrates the 150th anniversary of the first lighting of its light. This one-of-a-kind structure was originally built by the United States Lighthouse Service to protect the legendary “doghole schooner” that plied the lumber trade between San Francisco and California’s northern coast at the turn of the century. The Lighthouse was turned over to the U.S. Coast Guard in 1939, and still houses Coast Guard navigational aids and monitoring equipment. However, the Lighthouse structure and its rare Fresnel lens suffered significant damage from fog and weather. Then in 1998, the California Coastal Conservancy and North Coast Interpretive Association stepped forward to restore and reinstate the original Fresnel lens, and to renovate the Lighthouse for use as an educational and interpretive center.

Thanks to the efforts of the people of Mendocino, the Coastal Conservancy and the North Coast Interpretive Association, the Lighthouse restoration project will soon be complete. A weekend of festivities will celebrate the Lighthouse’s revival and highlight the attractions of the Point Cabrillo Preserve and Light Station. This celebration will acknowledge the efforts of the many volunteers and community partners that also helped make this project a success.

It is important to take the time to applaud the restoration of this nationally significant historic landmark. I also think it is important to recognize the significance of community projects such as the Point Cabrillo Lighthouse, which serve as invaluable, irreplaceable links to our common past and as unique educational tools for the future. I commend the efforts that have gone into this restoration project, and send the Point Cabrillo Lighthouse volunteers and other partners my best wishes for their continued success.

ICELANDIC HERITAGE

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I rise today to celebrate the Icelandic heritage of our country and of the state of North Dakota. For a century it has been North Dakota’s custom to set aside time to honor the contributions of Icelanders to North Dakota. In order to honor the thousands of people of Icelandic descent that reside in my state, the Governor has proclaimed July 30 to August 2 as Icelandic Heritage Days. Icelandic Heritage Days culminates with a celebration of the historical presentation of a new constitution to the Icelandic Parliament. This occurred on August the second, or “August the Deuce,” as many Icelanders call it. Since 1874 by King Kristjan the Ninth. This action formally freed Iceland from hundreds of years of Danish rule. In 1878, people of Icelandic descent first settled in northeastern North Dakota. Since this time, Icelandic-Americans have been instrumental in the development of their communities and my state. One settler, E.H. Bergman, was a member of the Territorial Legislature, which passed legislation enabling the establishment of the state of North Dakota. Since Bergman’s time, many more people of Icelandic descent have represented their constituencies in the ND Legislature and state government.

Mr. President, this year’s celebration is especially noteworthy because an Icelandic dignitary, the Honorable Olafur Ragnar Grimsson, the President of Iceland, will be in attendance. This visit will mark the first time that an Icelandic head-of-state has visited North Dakota.

It is a pleasure to have President Grimsson visit North Dakota, and a privilege to honor Icelandic-Americans for all they have done for North Dakota and this great country.

ANGELO QUARANTA

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, today, I extend special birthday wishes to a very special Californian, Angelo Quaranta, whose birthday is August 8.

Angelo is perhaps best known as the owner and driving force behind Allegro, an Italian restaurant on San Francisco’s Pacific Avenue. In the 1960s, he attended the police academy and became national Judo champion while serving with the Italian Police Force. Upon arriving in San Francisco, he first worked as a window washer and then began a distinguished career in the insurance industry.

Cooking may be Angelo’s passion, but he can be found in many more places than the kitchen. He has long been active in local government and is a leader in community affairs. He is currently president of the Commission of Parking and Traffic, and serves on San Francisco’s Recreation and Park Commission. In the 1970s, he operated an Italian television station that broadcast programming from Italy. He founded Unione Sportiva Italia, and has been active in numerous efforts to celebrate the invaluable contributions of Italians and Italian-Americans to the life of the city and nation. Angelo has served as a member of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation and founded Candlelight Again, an organization comprised of restaurant owners and their patrons dedicated to raising funds for community needs. In recognition of his work, and in addition to many other honors, the Mayor’s Office has twice proclaimed it “Angelo Quaranta Day in San Francisco.”

Angelo has two adult daughters who live with their husbands and children in Italy. It is a pleasure to join them and the larger civic family Angelo continues to nurture in San Francisco in wishing him a joyous 65th birthday.
TRIBUTE TO HONOR BEDFORD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, I rise today to honor the Bedford Presbyterian Church which is celebrating its 250th Anniversary on August 15, 1999. The church first organized on August 15, 1749 and has been serving the people of Bedford ever since.

The church was founded under the rules of Massachusetts Colony who deeded the land to the New Hampshire and also mandated that in order to organize a town there must be land for a church, a minister, and an orthodox ministry. The church was thus formed in 1749 and the town charter was signed the next year.

As a person of strong religious convictions, I applaud the services and strong sense of family and community that the church has provided to its community. Furthermore, I applaud their monthly celebrations of this historic event.

I commend the Bedford Presbyterian Church and wish them luck in the next 250 years. It is an honor to represent the members of Bedford Presbyterian Church in the United States Senate.

TRIBUTE TO ADMIRAL BARRY COSTELLO

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize Rear Admiral (Select) Barry Costello, United States Navy, for the excellent job he has done as the Director of Senate Liaison for the Navy. I want to recognize Admiral Costello for his many achievements and commend him for the exemplary service he has provided to the Senate, to the Navy, and to our great nation.

Barry Costello is a sailor’s sailor who has distinguished himself through his seamanship, tactical acumen, and inspiring leadership. He has served on some of our country’s finest warships, including command of the destroyer U.S.S. Elliot (DD 967). Prior to coming to the Senate, he commanded the prestigious “Little Beavers” of Destroyer Squadron 23, following in the footsteps of Admiral Arleigh “Thirty-One Knot” Burke, who famously led the “Little Beavers” to a decisive victory over Japanese forces in the Battle of Cape Saint George in 1943.

In March 1997, Admiral Costello took the helm of the Navy’s Senate Liaison Office. His integrity, enthusiasm, and foresight have earned the admiration of all members of the Senate who have worked with him, and it is not an exaggeration to say that through his service to the Senate, Barry Costello has helped to ensure that our Navy remains the best trained, best equipped, and best prepared naval force in the world.

Mr. President, Rear Admiral (Select) Barry Costello exemplifies what is best in the Navy and in America. The Senator, the Navy and the American people are indebted to him for his many years of distinguished service. As he departs

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT STEPHEN

Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Robert Stephen of Manchester, New Hampshire for his appointment to Director of Community Development Services at New Hampshire’s Department of Resources and Economic Development.

After ten years of service as a New Hampshire State Senator, Democratic Leader from 1984 to 1990, Robert was appointed Deputy Executive Director of the New Hampshire Job Training Council. In this capacity Robert was responsible for providing New Hampshire businesses with the skilled labor needed to grow and be successful and New Hampshire citizens with the skills they need to become self-sufficient. He has also been a driving force in workforce development by overseeing the state’s Rapid Response effort and convening the Statewide Business Relations Team.

Not only has Robert taken on the task of improving the New Hampshire workforce, but he has been an asset to his community. He has won numerous Multiple Sclerosis Fund-Raising Awards, was a former member of the New Hampshire State Athletic Commission, has received the Easter Seal VIP Award and has been a business owner in downtown Manchester. On top of all this service, Robert was also able to become a three-time New Hampshire Golden Gloves Boxing Champion.

Robert’s new responsibility as Director of Community Development Services will give him the opportunity to cultivate a stronger and more job ready workforce, meeting the needs and specifications of New Hampshire companies. His presence at the New Hampshire Job Training Council will surely be missed.

I want to commend Robert Stephen for his hard work on behalf of New Hampshire citizens and wish him luck in his new endeavor. It is an honor to represent Robert in the United States Senate.

The amount determined under subparagraph such taxable year.

(b) IN GENERAL.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 relating to business related credits is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 45D. EMPLOYER-PROVIDED CHILD CARE CREDIT.

"(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—For purposes of section 21(e), the employer-provided child care credit determined under subparagraph (A) for the taxable year is an amount equal to the sum of—

"(1) 25 percent of the qualified child care expenditures, and

"(2) 10 percent of the qualified child care resource and referral expenditures, of the taxpayer for such taxable year.

(b) DOLLAR LIMITATION.—The credit allowable under subsection (a) for any taxable year shall not exceed $150,000.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) QUALIFIED CHILD CARE EXPENDITURE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'qualified child care expenditure' means any amount paid or incurred by the taxpayer for qualified child care services unless the providing of such services to employees of the taxpayer does not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees (within the meaning of section 340(q)).

"(B) EXCLUSION FOR AMOUNTS FUNDED BY GRANTS, ETC.—The term 'qualified child care resource and referral expenditure' shall not include any amount expended in relation to any child care resource and referral service if such service is funded by grants to employees of the taxpayer.

"(C) NONDISCRIMINATION.—The term 'qualified child care expenditure' shall not include any amount to the extent such amount is funded by any grant, contract, or otherwise by another person (or any governmental entity).

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall not apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2000.

SEC. 342. EXTENSION OF MISSING PARTICIPANTS PLAN FUNDING TO MULTIEmployer PLANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 4050 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (29 U.S.C. 1350) is amended by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (d) and by inserting after subsection (b) the following:

“(c) MULTIEmployER PLANS.—The corporation shall prescribe rules similar to the rules in subsection (a) for multiemployer plans covered by this title that terminate under section 4041A.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 206(f) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (29 U.S.C. 1082(c)(7)) is amended by striking “the plan shall provide that”,

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to plan years beginning after December 31, 2000.

SEC. 343. EXCISE TAX RELIEF FOR SOUND PENsion FUNDING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (c) of section 4972 (relating to nondeductible contributions) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(7) Defined benefit plan exception.—In the case of a defined benefit plan, the employer may elect not to take into account any contributions to a defined benefit plan except for such contributions otherwise required to be taken into account for the purposes of the excise tax imposed by section 4972 (relating to nondeductible contributions) for any taxable year, but such election shall apply only to contributions for plan years beginning before January 1, 2004. For purposes of this paragraph, the excise tax imposed by section 4972 shall first be applied to contributions to defined benefit plans and then to amounts described in this paragraph. If an employer makes an election under this paragraph for any taxable year, paragraph (6) shall not apply to such employer for such taxable year.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to years beginning after December 31, 2000.

SEC. 344. FAILURE TO PROVIDE NOTICE BY DEFINED BENEFIT PLANS SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCING FUTURE BENEFIT ACCRUALS.

(a) EXCISE TAX.—(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 43 of subtitle D (relating to qualified pension, etc., plans) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4980F. FAILURE OF DEFINED BENEFIT PLANS REDUCING BENEFIT ACCRUALS.

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the tax imposed by subsection (a) on any failure with respect to any individual shall be not less than the lesser of $100 or the amount of tax imposed by subsection (a) with respect to such failure.

(2) NONCOMPLIANCE PERIOD.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘noncompliance period’ means, with respect to any failure, the period beginning on the date the failure first occurs and ending on the date the failure is corrected.

(3) MINIMUM TAX FOR NONCOMPLIANCE PERIOD WHERE FAILURE IS CORRECTED AFTER NOTICE OF EXAMINATION.—Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection (c)—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In the case of 1 or more failures with respect to an individual—

(i) which are not corrected before the date a notice of examination of income tax liability is sent to the individual or (ii) which occurred or continued during the period under examination, the amount of tax imposed by subsection (a) by reason of such failures with respect to such beneficiary shall not be less than the lesser of $2,500 or the amount of tax which would be imposed by subsection (a) without regard to such paragraphs.

(B) HIGHER MINIMUM TAX WHERE VIOLATIONS OCCUR IN EXCESSIVE RELATION TO THE FAILURE INVOLVED.—No tax shall be imposed by subsection (a) on any failure if—

(a) such failure was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, or

(b) such failure is corrected during the 30-day period beginning on the date any of the persons referred to in subsection (d) knew, or exercising reasonable diligence would have known, that such failure existed.

(3) OVERALL LIMITATION FOR UNINTENTIONAL FAILURES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of failures that are due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, the tax imposed by subsection (a) shall apply to failures during the taxable year of the employer (or of a multiemployer plan, in the case of a multiemployer plan) for which the plan is not meeting the full-funding limit (as defined in section 412(c)(7), determined without regard to subparagraph (A)(i)(I) thereof). For purposes of this paragraph, the tax imposed by section 4980f shall first be applied to contributions to defined benefit plans and then to amounts described in this paragraph. If an employer makes an election under this paragraph for any taxable year, paragraph (6) shall not apply to such employer for such taxable year.

(4) NOTICE REQUIREMENTS FOR PLANS SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCING BENEFIT ACCRUALS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If a defined benefit plan adopts an amendment which has the effect of significantly reducing the rate of future benefit accrual of 1 or more participants (including any elimination or reduction of an early retirement benefit or retirement-type subsidy), the plan administrator shall not later than the 30th day before the effective date of the amendment, provide written notice to each affected individual (and to each employee organization representing applicable individuals) which—

(1) sets forth the plan amendment and its effective date, and

(B) includes sufficient information (as determined in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary) to allow such participants and beneficiaries to understand how the amendment generally affects different classes of employees.

(5) ADDITIONAL NOTICE REQUIRED IN CERTAIN CASES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If a plan amendment to which paragraph (1) applies—

(i) provides for a significant change in the manner in which the accrued benefit is to be determined, or

(ii) requires an applicable individual to choose between 2 or more benefit formulas, and

(iii) may reasonably be expected to affect such applicable individual, the plan shall, not later than the date which is 60 days after the date such amendment is adopted, provide written notice to such applicable individual which includes the information described in subparagraph (B).

(B) ADDITIONAL NOTICE.—The notice under subparagraph (A) shall include the following information:

(i) the accrued benefit (and if the amendment adds the option of an immediate lump sum distribution, the present value of the accrued benefit) as of the effective date, determined

(b) QUALIFIED PUBLIC EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES.—Section 142 (relating to exempt facility bonds) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

‘‘(k) QUALIFIED PUBLIC EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES.—

‘‘(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subsection (a)(13), the term ‘qualified public educational facility’ means any school facility which is—‘‘(A) part of a public elementary school or a public secondary school,

‘‘(B) owned by a private, for-profit corporation pursuant to a public-private partnership agreement with a State or local educational agency described in paragraph (2),

‘‘(C) which is not used primarily for the activities described in subparagraph (A), and

‘‘(D) if the term ‘school facility’ means—

‘‘(i) schools, libraries, or other property, to which section 168 applies (or would apply but for section 179), in the case of educational institutions, or ‘‘(ii) any property, to which section 168 applies (or would apply but for section 179), in the case of other property.

(3) SCHOOL FACILITIES.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘school facility’ includes—

‘‘(A) the Armed Forces Housing Authority to construct, rehabilitate, refurbish, or equip a school facility, and

‘‘(B) as an issue described in subsection (a)(13) if

‘‘(1) the aggregate face amount of bonds issued by the State pursuant thereto (when added to the annual aggregate face amount of such bonds which may be so guaranteed) does not exceed $500,000,000 in any calendar year.

‘‘(2) DOLLAR LIMITATIONS.—

‘‘(A) in the case of an issue of bonds described in subsection (a)(13), the aggregate face amount of bonds issued by the State pursuant thereto (when added to the annual aggregate face amount of such bonds which may be so guaranteed) does not exceed $500,000,000 in any calendar year.

‘‘(B) the term of which does not exceed the term described in paragraph (1). paragraph (1) for a taxable year with respect to amounts provided to each child of such employer shall not exceed $2,000.

"(B) AGGREGATE LIMIT.—The amount excluded from the gross income of the employee by reason of paragraph (1) for a taxable year (after the application of subparagraph (A)) shall not exceed the excess of the dollar amount contained in section 127(a)(2) over the amount excluded from the employee's gross income under section 127 for such year.

"(3) PRINCIPAL SHAREHOLDERS AND OWNERS.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply to any amount provided to any individual (or such individual's spouse) (on any day of the year) more than 5 percent of the stock or of the capital or profits interest in the employer.

"(4) DEGREE REQUIREMENT NOT TO APPLY.—In the case of an amount which is treated as a qualified scholarship by reason of this subsection, section (a) shall be applied without regard to the requirement that the recipient be a candidate for a degree.

"(5) CERTAIN OTHER RULES TO APPLY.—Rules similar to the rules of paragraph (4), (5), and (7) of section 127(c) shall apply for purposes of this subsection.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after the date of enactment of this Act.

TITLE V—HEALTH CARE TAX RELIEF PROVISIONS

SEC. 501. DEDUCTION FOR HEALTH AND LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE COSTS OF INDIVIDUALS NOT PARTICIPATING IN EMPLOYER-SUBSIDIZED HEALTH PLANS.

(a) In General.—Part VII of subchapter B of chapter 1 is amended by redesignating section 222 as section 223 and by inserting after such section the following new section:

"SEC. 222. HEALTH AND LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE COSTS.

"(a) In General.—In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a deduction an amount equal to the applicable percentage of the amount paid during the taxable year for insurance which constitutes medical care for the taxpayer and the taxpayer's spouse and dependents.

"(b) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of subsection (a), the applicable percentage shall be determined in accordance with the following table:

<table>

"(c) LIMITATION ON BASIS OF OTHER COVERAGE.—

"(1) COVERAGE UNDER CERTAIN SUBSIDIZED EMPLOYER PLANS.—

"(A) In General.—Subsection (a) shall not apply to any taxable year for which the employer participates in any health plan maintained by any employer of the taxpayer or of the spouse of the taxpayer if 50 percent or more of the cost of coverage under such plan (determined under section 4980B) and without regard to payments made with respect to any coverage described in subsection (e) is paid or incurred by the employer.

"(B) EMPLOYER CONTRIBUTIONS TO CAFETERIA PLANS, FLEXIBLE SPENDING ARRANGEMENTS, AND MEDICAL SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.—Employer contributions to cafeteria plans, a flexible spending arrangement, or a medical savings account which are excluded from gross income under section 106 shall be treated for purposes of subparagraph (a) as amounts paid by the employer.

"(C) AGGREGATION OF PLANS OF EMPLOYER.—A health plan which is not otherwise described in subparagraph (A) shall be treated as described in subparagraph (A) if it would be so described if all health plans of persons treated as a single employer under subsections (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 were treated as separate employers.

"(D) SEPARATE APPLICATION TO HEALTH INSURANCE AND LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE.—Subparagraphs (A) and (C) shall be applied separately with respect to

"(i) plans which include primarily coverage for qualified long-term care services or are qualified long-term care insurance contracts, and

"(ii) plans which do not include such coverage and are not such contracts.

"(2) COVERAGE UNDER CERTAIN FEDERAL PROGRAMS.—

"(A) In General.—Subsection (a) shall not apply to any amount paid for any coverage for an individual for any calendar month if, as of the first day of such month, the individual is covered under any medical care program described in—

"(i) title XVIII, XIX, or XXI of the Social Security Act,

"(ii) chapter 55 of title 10, United States Code,

"(iii) chapter 17 of title 38, United States Code,

"(iv) chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code, or

"(v) the Indian Health Care Improvement Act.

"(B) EXCEPTIONS.—

"(i) QUALIFIED LONG-TERM CARE.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to amounts paid for coverage under a qualified long-term care insurance contract.

"(ii) CONTINUATION COVERAGE OF FEHR.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to coverage which is comparable to continuation coverage under section 4980B.

"(iii) QUALIFIED LONG-TERM CARE DESTRUCTION LIMITED TO QUALIFIED LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE CONTRACTS.—In the case of a qualified long-term care insurance contract, only eligible long-term care premiums (as defined in section 213(d)(10)) may be taken into account under subsection (a).

"(iv) DEDUCTION NOT AVAILABLE FOR PAYMENT OF ANNUITY COVERAGE PREMIUMS.—Any amount paid as a premium for an insurance which provides for—

"(i) coverage for accidents, disability, dental care, vision care, or a specified illness, or

"(ii) making a contribution of a flat amount per day (or other period) by reason of being hospitalized, shall not be taken into account under subsection (a).

"(B) SPECIAL RULES.—

"(1) DEDUCTION FOR HEALTH INSURANCE COSTS OF SELF-EMPLOYED INDIVIDUALS.—The amount taken into account by the taxpayer in computing the deduction under section 162(l) shall not be taken into account under this section.

"(2) DEDUCTION WITH MEDICAL EXPENSE DEDUCTION.—The amount taken into account by the taxpayer in computing the deduction under this section shall not be taken into account under section 213.

"(3) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be appropriate to carry out this section, including regulations relating to amounts paid to employers to report to their employees and the Secretary such information as the Secretary determines to be appropriate.

"(B) DEDUCTION ALLOWED WHETHER OR NOT TAXPAYER OR SPOUSE OF TAXPAYER IS ELIGIBLE FOR QUALIFIED BENEFITS.—Subsection (a) of section 22(b) is amended by inserting after paragraph (17) the following new item:

"(18) HEALTH AND LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE COSTS.—The amount described in subsection (a) of section 22(b) shall be taken into account for purposes of subsection (a) of section 22(b) for a taxable year beginning after December 31, 2000.

"(C) ADDITIONAL PERSONAL EXEMPTION FOR TAXPAYER CARING FOR ELDERLY FAMILY MEMBER RESIDING WITH TAXPAYER.—

"(1) In General.—An exemption of the exemption amount for each qualified family member of the taxpayer.

"(2) QUALIFIED FAMILY MEMBER.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'qualified family member' means, with respect to any taxable year, any individual—

"(A) who is—

"(i) the father or mother, or an ancestor of either, or

"(ii) a stepfather or stepmother, of the taxpayer or of the taxpayer's spouse or former spouse,

"(B) who is a member for the entire taxable year of a household maintained by the taxpayer, and

"(C) who has been certified, before the due date for filing the return of tax for the taxable year (without extensions), by a physician (as defined in section 161((1)(1) of the Social Security Act) as being an individual with long-term care needs described in paragraph (3) for a period—

"(i) which is at least 180 consecutive days, and

"(ii) of a portion of which occurs within the taxable year.

"Such term shall not include any individual otherwise meeting the requirements of the preceding sentence unless within the 39½ month period ending on such due date (or such other period as the Secretary determines to be appropriate) the Secretary has certified that such individual meets such requirements.

"(D) INDIVIDUALS WITH LONG-TERM CARE NEEDS.—An individual is described in this paragraph if the individual—

"(1) is unable to perform (without substantial assistance from another individual) at least 2 activities of daily living (as defined in section 7702(b)(2)(B)) due to a loss of functional capacity, or..."

SEC. 605. FARM, FISHING, AND RANCH RISK MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTS.

(a) In general.—Subpart C of part II of chapter 1 (relating to taxable year for which deductions taken) is amended by inserting after section 602 a new section 602A as follows:

"SEC. 602A. FARM, FISHING, AND RANCH RISK MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTS.

"(a) Deduction allowed.—In the case of an individual engaged in an eligible farming business or commercial fishing, there shall be allowed as a deduction for any taxable year the amount paid in cash by the taxpayer during the taxable year to a Farm, Fishing, and Ranch Risk Management Account (hereinafter referred to as the 'FFARM Account').

"(b) Limitation.—(1) The amount which a taxpayer may pay into the FFARM Account for any taxable year shall not exceed 20 percent of so much of the taxable income of the taxpayer (determined without regard to this section) which is attributable (determined in the manner applicable under section 1301) to any eligible farming business or commercial fishing.

"(2) Distributions from a FFARM Account may only be used to purchase any new fishing vessel, add capacity to any fishery, or otherwise contribute to the overcapitalization of any fishery. The Secretary of Commerce shall implement regulations to enforce this paragraph.

"(c) Eligible farming business.—(1) For purposes of this section, the term 'eligible farming business' means any farming business (as defined in section 263A(c)(4)) which is not a passive activity (within the meaning of section 469(c)) of the taxpayer.

"(2) Commercial fishing.—For purposes of this section, the term 'commercial fishing' is defined under section 3 of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1802).

"(d) FFARM Account.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) In general.—The term 'FFARM Account' means a trust created or organized in the United States for the exclusive benefit of the taxpayer, but only if the written governing instrument creating the trust meets the following requirements:

"(A) No contribution will be accepted for any taxable year in excess of the amount allowed as a deduction under subsection (a) for such year.

"(B) The trustee is a bank (as defined in section 263A(e)(4)) or another person who demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manner in which such person will administer the trust will be consistent with the requirements of this section.

"(C) The assets of the trust consist entirely of cash or of obligations which have adequate stated interest (as defined in section 1274(g)(2)) and which pay such interest not less often than annually.

"(D) All income of the trust is distributed currently to the grantor.

"(E) The assets of the trust will not be commingled with other property except in a common trust fund or common investment fund.

"(F) ACCOUNT TAXED AS GRANTOR TRUST.—The grantor of a FFARM Account shall be treated for purposes of this title as the owner of such Account and shall be subject to tax thereon in accordance with part I of subchapter E of chapter 1 of this title.

"(G) INCLUSION OF AMOUNTS DISTRIBUTED.—Any amount distributed from a FFARM Account shall be included in the gross income of the taxpayer for the taxable year to which such distribution relates and shall be treated as a deduction under section 162.

SEC. 811. CERTAIN COSTS OF PRIVATE FOUNDATION IN REMOVING HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCES TREATED AS QUALIFYING COSTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In the case of any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1999, the disallowable amount of a private foundation for such taxable year for purposes of section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall be reduced (but not below zero) by any amount paid or incurred (or set aside) by such private foundation in order to prevent, correct, or prevent the spread of a hazardous substance or to mitigate the effects of such substance (as defined in section 1004 of such Act). For such purposes, the term "hazardous substance" means the meaning given such term by section 1004 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 9604), as applied by section 1004(c) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 9604(c)).

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2000.
(ii). Such an election, once made, shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2004, graph (B)(i) and may be made only for the first year of the affiliated group referred to in subparagraph (C) with respect to any worldwide affiliated group which would be treated as described in subparagraph (C) of section 901(b)(2), and subsection (e)(6) shall apply to any such group in the same manner as subsection (e) applies to the pre-election worldwide affiliated group of which such group is a part.

(2) Financial corporation.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘financial corporation’ means any corporation if at least 80 percent of its gross income is income described in section 904(d)(2)(C)(ii) and the regulations thereunder which is derived from transactions with persons not having a relationship described in section 267(b) or 707(b)(1) to the corporation.

(3) Antiabuse rules.—In the case of a corporation which is a member of an electing financial institution group, to the extent that such corporation—

(A) distributes dividends or makes other distributions with respect to its stock after the date of the enactment of this paragraph to any member of the pre-election worldwide affiliated group (other than to a member of the electing financial institution group) in excess of—

(i) its average annual dividend (expressed as a percentage of current earnings and profits) during the 3-taxable-year period ending with the taxable year of such distribution, or

(ii) 25 percent of its average annual earnings and profits for such 5 taxable year period, or

(B) deals with any person in any manner not clearly reflecting the income of the corporation (as determined under principles similar to the principles of section 482), an amount of indebtedness of the electing financial institution group has been allocated and apportioned to foreign corporations which, if such allocation would be appropriate to carry out this subsection and subsection (e), correctly reflect the treatment of such indebtedness of the electing financial institution group.

(C) Treatment of worldwide affiliated group.—For purposes of applying paragraph (1), the taxable income of the domestic members of a worldwide affiliated group from sources outside the United States shall be determined by allocating and apportioning the interest expense of such domestic members to such income in an amount equal to the excess (if any) of—

(i) the portion of earnings and profits attributable to foreign source income if this subsection were applied to a group consisting of all the foreign corporations which would have been allocated and apportioned to foreign source income if this paragraph were applied to such a group, over

(ii) the interest expense of all foreign corporations which are members of the worldwide affiliated group to the extent such interest expense of such foreign corporations would have been allocated and apportioned to foreign source income if this subsection were applied to such a group.

(D) Election.—An election under this paragraph with respect to any worldwide affiliated group may be made only by the common parent of the affiliated group to which such election shall be applied by this paragraph (B)(i) and may be made only for the first taxable year beginning after December 31, 2004, in which a worldwide affiliated group exists which includes such affiliated group and at least 1 corporation described in subparagraph (B)(ii). Such an election, once made, shall apply to such common parent and all other corporations with respect to any worldwide affiliated group for such taxable year and all subsequent years unless revoked with the consent of the Secretary.

(E) Election To Expand Financial Institution Group of Worldwide Group.—Section 864 is amended by redesignating subsection (f) as subsection (g) and by inserting after such subsection—

(1) Election to expand financial institution group of worldwide group.—

(A) In general.—If a worldwide affiliated group for which an election under subsection (e)(6) is in effect elects the application of this subsection, all financial corporations which—

(i) are members of such worldwide affiliated group;

(ii) are not corporations described in subsection (e)(5)(C); and

(iii) are not described in subparagraph (B) of section 901(b)(2), shall be treated as described in subsection (e)(5)(C), and the provisions of applicable sections (e)(5)(B) and (e)(5)(C).

(B) Election to electing financial institution group.—The term ‘electing financial institution group’ means the group of corporations to which a payment of interest is attributable by reason of the application of subsection (e)(5)(B) and which includes financial corporations by reason of an election under paragraph (1).

(2) Conforming amendments.—

(A) Pre-election worldwide affiliated group.—The term ‘pre-election worldwide affiliated group,’ with respect to a corporation, the worldwide affiliated group of which such corporation would (but for an election under this subsection) be a member for purposes of applying subsection (e)(5)(C), shall apply.

(B) Electing financial institution group.—The term ‘electing financial institution group’ means the group of financial institutions to which a payment of interest is attributable by reason of the application of subsection (e)(5)(B) and which includes financial institutions by reason of an election under paragraph (1).

(3) Effective date.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2004.

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of applying section 47(c)(2)(C) under this section with respect to the rehabilitation of a building to which this paragraph applies, consideration shall be given to—

"(i) the feasibility of preserving existing architectural and design elements of the interior of such building,

"(ii) the risk of further deterioration or demolition of such building in the event that certification is denied because of the failure to preserve such interior elements,

"(iii) the effects of such deterioration or demolition on neighboring historic properties.

"(B) BUILDINGS TO WHICH THIS PARAGRAPH APPLIES.—This paragraph shall apply with respect to any building—

"(i) any part of which is a targeted area within the meaning of section 139(b)(1), or

"(ii) which is located within an enterprise community or empowerment zone as designated under section 1391, but shall not apply with respect to any building which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, is certified for purposes of the provisions of this section, be treated as having made (on the date of purchase) an expenditure in connection with the rehabilitation of buildings within the jurisdiction of such officer (or local government) for purposes of this section.

"(e) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) QUALIFIED HISTORIC HOME.—The term 'qualified historic home' means a certified historic structure—

"(A) which has been substantially rehabilitated, and

"(B) which (or any portion of which)—

"(i) is owned by the taxpayer, and

"(ii) is used (or will, within a reasonable period, be used) by such taxpayer as his principal residence.

"(2) SUBSTANTIALLY REHABILITATED.—The term 'substantially rehabilitated' has the meaning given such term by section 47(c)(2)(C), except that, in the case of any building described in subsection (d)(2), clause (ii)(I) thereof shall not apply.

"(3) PRINCIPAL RESIDENCE.—The term 'principal residence' has the same meaning as when used in section 121.

"(4) CERTIFIED HISTORIC STRUCTURE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'certified historic structure' means any building (and its structural components) which—

"(i) is located in the National Register, or

"(ii) is located in a registered historic district (as defined by section 47(c)(3)(B)) within which only qualified census tracts (or portions thereof) are located, and is certified by the Secretary of the Interior to the Secretary as being of historic significance.

"(B) CERTAIN STRUCTURES INCLUDED.—Such term includes any building (and its structural components) which is designated as being of historic significance by a State or local government, if such statute is certified by the Secretary of the Interior to the Secretary as containing criteria which will substantially enhance its historical significance.

"(C) QUALIFIED CENSUS TRACTS.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(ii)—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section a qualified census tract means a census tract in which the median family income is less than twice the statewide median family income.

"(D) DATA USED.—The determination under clause (i) shall be made on the basis of the most recent decennial census for which data are available.

"(E) REHABILITATION NOT COMPLETE BEFORE CERTIFICATION.—A rehabilitation shall not be treated as complete before the date of the certification referred to in subsection (d)

"(6) LESSEES.—A taxpayer who leases his principal residence shall, for purposes of this section, be treated as the owner thereof if the remaining term of the lease (as of the date determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary) is not less than such minimum period as the regulations require.

"(7) TENANT-STOCKHOLDER IN COOPERATIVE OR CONDOMINIUM UNITS.—The percentage of the total expenditures made in the rehabilitation of a building containing cooperative or condominium residential units allocated to the rehabilitation of the exterior of the building shall be attributed proportionately to each cooperative or condominium residential unit in such building for which a credit under this section is claimed.

"(f) WHEN EXPENDITURES TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT.—In the case of a building other than that subsection (a) applies, qualified rehabilitation expenditures shall be treated for purposes of this section as made on the date the rehabilitation is completed.

"(g) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT FOR PURCHASE OF REHABILITATED HISTORIC HOME.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a qualified purchased historic home, the taxpayer shall be treated as having made (on the date of purchase) the qualified rehabilitation expenditures made by the seller of such home. For purposes of the preceding sentence, expenditures made by the seller shall be deemed to be qualified rehabilitation expenditures if such expenditures, if made by the purchaser, would be qualified rehabilitation expenditures.

"(2) QUALIFIED PURCHASED HISTORIC HOME.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'qualified purchased historic home' means any substantially rehabilitated certified historic structure purchased by the taxpayer if—

"(A) the taxpayer is the first purchaser of such structure after the date rehabilitation is completed, and the purchase occurs within 5 years after such date,

"(B) the structure (or a portion thereof) will, within a reasonable period, be the principal residence of the taxpayer,

"(C) the credit was allowed to the seller under this section or section 47 with respect to such rehabilitation, and

"(D) the taxpayer is furnished with such information as the Secretary determines is necessary to determine the credit under this subsection.

"(h) HISTORIC REHABILITATION MORTGAGE CREDIT CERTIFICATE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The taxpayer may elect, in lieu of the credit otherwise allowable under this section, to receive a historic rehabilitation mortgage credit certificate, an election under this paragraph shall be made—

(A) in the case of a building to which subsection (g) applies, at the time of purchase, or in any other case, at the time rehabilitation is completed.

(B) Historic Rehabilitation Mortgage Credit Certificate.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'historic rehabilitation mortgage credit certificate' means a certificate:

(A) issued to the taxpayer, in accordance with procedures prescribed by the Secretary, with respect to rehabilitation,

(B) the face amount of which shall be equal to the credit which would (but for this subsection) be allowed under subsection (a) to the taxpayer with respect to such rehabilitation,

(C) which may only be transferred by the taxpayer to a lending institution (including a non-depository institution) in connection with a loan—

(i) that is secured by the building with respect to which the credit relates, and

(ii) the proceeds of which may not be used for any purpose other than the acquisition or rehabilitation of such building, and

(D) in exchange for which such lending institution provides the taxpayer:

(i) a reduction in the rate of interest on the loan which results in interest payment reductions which are substantially equivalent on a present value basis to the face amount of such certificate,

(ii) if the taxpayer so elects with respect to a specified amount of the face amount of such certificate relating to a building—

(1) which is a targeted area residence within the meaning of section 142(i)(1), or

(2) which is located in an enterprise community or empowerment zone as designated under section 991,

(iii) a payment which is substantially equivalent to such specified amount to be used to reduce the taxpayer’s cost of purchasing the building (and only the remainder of such face amount shall be taken into account under clause (i)).

(3) Method of Discounting.—The present value of the amount of interest which may be used to purchase the building under this paragraph (1) and compounded annually, and

(ii) the amount so allowed shall be reduced by the greater of—

(1) the maximum amount of such interest which may be used to purchase the building (and the remainder of such face amount shall be taken into account under clause (i)) or

(2) the amount of the credit so allowed.

(4) Use of certificate by Lender.—The amount of the credit specified in the certificate shall be allocated to the lender only to offset the regular tax (as defined in section 55(c)) of such lender. The lender may forward all unused amounts under this subsection until exhausted.

(5) Historic Rehabilitation Mortgage Credit Certificate Not Treated as Taxable Income.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no benefit accruing to the taxpayer through the use of an historic rehabilitation mortgage credit certificate shall be treated as taxable income for purposes of this title.

(i) Recapture.—

(A) In general.—If, before the end of the 5-year period beginning on the date on which the rehabilitation of the building is completed (or, if subsection (g) applies, the date of purchase of such building by the taxpayer, or, if subsection (h) applies, the date of issuance of such credit certificate), the taxpayer disposes of such taxpayer’s interest in such building, or

(B) such building ceases to be used as the principal residence of such taxpayer, the taxpayer’s tax imposed by this chapter for all prior taxable years with respect to such rehabilitation is increased by the recapture percentage of the credit allowed under this paragraph with respect to such rehabilitation.

(ii) Recapture Percentage.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the recapture percentage shall be determined in accordance with the following table:

If the disposition or cessation described in paragraph (1) occurs—The recapture percentage is—

(i) One full year after the taxpayer—

(1) becomes entitled to the credit,

(2) One full year after the period described in clause (i),

(3) One full year after the close of the period described in clause (ii),

(4) One full year after the close of the period described in clause (iii), or

(ii) during the period described in clause (iv),

(1) Basis Adjustments.—For purposes of this section, if a credit is allowed under this section for any expenditure with respect to any property, including a subsequent property under section (g) and any transfer under subsection (h), the increase in the basis of such property which would (but for this subsection) result from such expenditure shall be reduced by the amount of the credit so allowed.

(2) Denial of Double Benefit.—No credit shall be allowed under this section for any amount for which credit is allowed under section 47.

(3) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section, including regulations where less than all of a building is used as a principal residence and where more than 1 taxpayer use the same dwelling unit as their principal residence.

(a) Tax Treatment of Settlement Trust.—Section 501(c), as amended by section 801(a), is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph: "(29) A trust which—
"(A) constitutes a Settlement Trust under section 39 of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1628e), and
"(B) with respect to which an election under subsection (p)(2) is in effect.

(b) Special Rules Relating to Taxation of Alaska Native Settlement Trusts.—Section 501 is amended by redesignating subsection (p) as subsection (q) and by inserting after subsection (q) the following new subsection:

"(p) Special Rules for Taxation of Alaska Native Settlement Trusts.—
"(1) In General.—For purposes of this title, the following rules shall apply in the case of a Settlement Trust:
"(A) ELECTING TRUST.—If an election under paragraph (2) is in effect for any taxable year—
(ii) such election is made by reason of a contribution to the Settlement Trust made during such taxable year, and

"(ii) except as provided in this subsection, the provisions of subchapter J shall not apply to the Settlement Trust and its beneficiaries for such taxable year.

"(2) One-Time Election.—
"(A) In General.—A Settlement Trust may elect to have the provisions of this subsection and subsection (c)(29) apply to the trust and its beneficiaries.

"(B) Time and Method of Election.—An election under subparagraph (A) shall be made—
(i) on or before the due date (including extensions) for filing the Settlement Trust's return of tax for the 1st taxable year of the Settlement Trust ending after December 31, 1999, and

"(ii) by attaching to such return of tax a statement specifically providing for such election.

"(C) Period Election in Effect.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), an election under subsection (A) shall—
(i) apply to the 1st taxable year described in subsection (B)(i) and all subsequent taxable years, and

"(ii) may not be revoked once it is made.

"(3) Special Rules Where Transfer Restrictions Modified.—
"(A) Transfer of Beneficial Interests.—If, at any time, a beneficial interest in a Settlement Trust may be disposed of in a manner which would not be permitted by section 7(h) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1606(h)(3)) if the interest were Settlement Common Stock—
"(i) no election may be made under paragraph (2) for any taxable year, and

"(ii) if an election under paragraph (2)(A) is in effect as of such time—
"(i) such election is revoked as of the 1st day of the taxable year following the taxable year in which such disposition is first permitted, and
"(ii) if there is thereby imposed on such trust a tax attributable to the product of the fair market value of the assets held by the trust as of the close of the taxable year in which such disposition is first permitted and the highest rate of tax under tax calculation applied for such taxable year.

"(ii) the tax imposed by clause (ii)(II) shall be in effect as of such time—
"(A) TRANSFER OF BENEFICIAL INTERESTS.—If, at any time, a beneficial interest in a Settlement Trust may be disposed of in a manner which would not be permitted by section 7(h) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1606(h)(3)) if the interest were Settlement Common Stock—
"(i) no election may be made under paragraph (2) for any taxable year, and

"(ii) if an election under paragraph (2)(A) is in effect as of such time—
"(i) such election is revoked as of the 1st day of the taxable year following the taxable year in which such disposition is first permitted, and
"(ii) if there is thereby imposed on such trust a tax attributable to the product of the fair market value of the assets held by the trust as of the close of the taxable year in which such disposition is first permitted and the highest rate of tax under tax calculation applied for such taxable year.

The tax imposed by clause (ii)(II) shall be in lieu of any other tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year.
(B) STOCK IN CORPORATION.—If—
(1) the Settlement Common Stock in any Native Corporation which transferred assets to a Settlement Trust making an election under paragraph (2)(A) may be disposed of in a manner not permitted by section 7(h) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1606(h)), and
(2) at any time after such disposition of stock is first permitted, such corporation transfers assets to such trust, clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) shall be applied to such trust on and after the date of the transfer in the same manner as if the trust permitted dispositions of beneficial interests in the trust in a manner not permitted by such section 7(h).

(C) ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), any tax imposed by subparagraph (A)(ii)(II) shall be treated as an excise tax with respect to which the deficiency procedures of such subtitle apply.

(4) DISTRIBUTION REQUIREMENT ON ELECTING SETTLEMENT TRUST.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—If an election is in effect under paragraph (2) for any taxable year, a Settlement Trust shall include in income as provided under subchapter J.

(B) TAX IMPOSED IF INSUFFICIENT DISTRIBUTION.—If a Settlement Trust fails to meet the distribution requirement of subparagraph (A) for any taxable year, then, notwithstanding subsection (c)(29), a tax shall be imposed on the trust under section 55 of its adjusted taxable income for such taxable year.

(C) DESIGNATION OF DISTRIBUTION.—For purposes of meeting the requirements of this paragraph, a Settlement Trust may elect to treat any distribution (or portion) during the 65-day period following the close of any taxable year as made on the last day of such taxable year. Any such distribution (or portion) may not be taken into account under this paragraph for any other taxable year.

(D) ADJUSTED TAXABLE INCOME.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘adjusted taxable income’ means taxable income determined under section 61(b) without regard to any deduction under section 61 or 661.

(E) DETERMINATION OF DISTRIBUTIONS TO BENEFICIARIES.—

(A) ELECTING TRUST.—If an election is in effect under paragraph (2) for any taxable year, any distribution to a beneficiary shall be included in gross income of the beneficiary as ordinary income.

(B) NONELECTING TRUSTS.—Any distribution to a beneficiary from a Settlement Trust not described in subparagraph (A) shall be includable in income as provided under subchapter J.

(F) EARNINGS AND PROFITS.—The earnings and profits of any Native Corporation making a contribution to a Settlement Trust shall not be reduced on account thereof at the time of such contribution, but such earnings and profits shall be reduced (up to the amount of such contribution) as distributions are thereafter made by the Settlement Trust which exceed the sum of—

(i) such Trust’s total undistributed net income for all prior years during which an election under paragraph (2) is in effect, and
(ii) such Trust’s distributable net income.

“(1) SEC. 1117. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS WITH RESPECT TO SAVINGS INCENTIVES.

“It is the sense of the Senate that before December 31, 1999, Congress should pass legislation that includes incentives by providing a partial Federal income tax deduction for income derived from interest and dividends of no less than $400 for married taxpayers and $200 for single taxpayers.

“(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

“(1) under current tax law, small businesses are not deducting the $10,000 in purchases of equipment and similar assets;

“(2) there is bipartisan support for increasing the amount of this expensing provision because it helps many small businesses make the investments in equipment and machinery they need by allowing them to immediately write off the costs of such investments and bolstering their cash flow;

“(3) this expensing provision, however, is not as helpful as it could be for some small businesses because it does not cover their investments in improving the storefront or the building in which they conduct their business;

“(4) in many small towns, the local drug store, shoe store, or grocery store doesn’t have much need for new equipment, but it does need to improve the storefront or the interior.

“(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Senate with broad bipartisan cosponsorship, including the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties;

“(6) legislation to expand the current expensing provision to cover investments in depreciable real property was recently introduced in the Senate with broad bipartisan cosponsorship, including the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties;

“(7) this proposal is also strongly supported by small business-oriented trade groups, including the National Federation of Independent Business, the Small Business Legislative Council, and the National Association of Realtors;

“(8) the Department of the Treasury is currently conducting a comprehensive study of all depreciation provisions and the Department is seeking to “(9) Congress should consider expanding the existing expensing provision to cover investments in depreciable real property in any reform legislation that results from this study or, if possible, in any earlier legislation.

“(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

“(1) many small businesses trying to improve their storefronts on Main Street or investing to upgrade their property would benefit if Congress expanded the existing expensing provision to cover investments in depreciable real property; and

“(2) Congress should consider including this proposal in any future tax legislation.

“SEC. 1129. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING THE NEED TO HELP URBAN AND RURAL AREAS BY PROVIDING INVESTMENTS IN BUILDINGS AND OTHER DEPRECIABLE REAL PROPERTY.

“(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

“(1) under current tax law, small businesses are not deducting the $10,000 in purchases of equipment and similar assets;

“(2) there is bipartisan support for increasing the amount of this expensing provision because it helps many small businesses make the investments in equipment and machinery they need by allowing them to immediately write off the costs of such investments and bolstering their cash flow;

“(3) this expensing provision, however, is not as helpful as it could be for some small businesses because it does not cover their investments in improving the storefront or the building in which they conduct their business;

“(4) in many small towns, the local drug store, shoe store, or grocery store doesn’t have much need for new equipment, but it does need to improve the storefront or the interior.

“(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Senate with broad bipartisan cosponsorship, including the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties;
(b) Effective Date.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to periods after the date of the enactment of this Act.

“Subtitle B—Loophole Closers

SEC. 1311. LIMITATION ON USE OF NON-ACCRUAL EXPERIENCE METHOD OF ACCOUNTING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 448(d)(5) (relating to special rule for services) is amended—

(1) by inserting “in fields described in paragraph (2)(A)” after “services by such person”, and

(2) by inserting “CERTAIN PERSONAL” before “SERVICES” in the heading.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years ending after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) CHANGE IN METHOD OF ACCOUNTING.—In the case of any taxpayer required by the amendments made by this section to change its method of accounting for its first taxable year ending after the date of the enactment of this Act—

“(A) such change shall be treated as initiated by the taxpayer,

“(B) such change shall be treated as made with the consent of the Secretary of the Treasury, and “(C) the net amount of the adjustments required to be taken into account by the taxpayer under section 481 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall be taken into account over a period (not greater than 4 taxable years) beginning with such first taxable year.

SEC. 1312. LIMITATIONS ON WELFARE BENEFIT FUNDS OF 10 OR MORE EMPLOYER PLANS.

(a) BENEFITS TO WHICH EXCEPTION APPLIES.—Section 791(h)(6)(A) (relating to exceptions to 10 or more employer plans) is amended to read as follows:

“(A) IN GENERAL.—This subpart shall not apply to a welfare benefit fund which is part of a 10 or more employer plan if the only benefits provided through the fund are 1 or more of the following—

“(i) Medical benefits.

“(ii) Disability benefits.

“(iii) Group term life insurance benefits which do not provide directly or indirectly for any cash surrender value or other money that can be paid, assigned, borrowed, or pledged for collateral for a loan.

“The preceding sentence shall not apply to any plan which maintains experience-rating arrangements with respect to individual employers.”.

(b) LIMITATION ON USE OF AMOUNTS FOR OTHER PURPOSES.—Section 791(h)(6)(B) (defining disqualified benefit) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(5) SPECIAL RULE FOR 10 OR MORE EMPLOYER PLANS EXEMPTED FROM PREFUNDS LIMITS.—For purposes of paragraph (1)(C), if—

“(A) a part D of part I of subchapter D of chapter 1 does not apply by reason of section 419(e)(10) to contributions to a welfare benefit fund under a 10 or more employer plan, and

“(B) any portion of the welfare benefit fund attributable to such contributions is used for a purpose other than that for which the contributions were made, then such portion shall be treated as reverting to the benefit of the employers maintaining the fund.".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to contributions paid or accrued after June 9, 1999, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 1312. MODIFICATION OF INSTALLMENT METHOD AND REPEAL OF INSTALLMENT METHOD FOR ACCRUAL METHOD TAXPAYERS.

(a) REPEAL OF INSTALLMENT METHOD FOR AC- CURAL BASIS TAXPAYERS.—

(1) In general.—Section 453 of chapter 1 (relating to installment methods of accounting for sales or other dispositions) is amended by striking the table of sections prescribed by the Secretary, if a constructive ownership transaction is open. Any amount payable under this paragraph shall be taken into account in computing the amount of any deduction allowable to the taxpayer for interest paid or accrued on such taxable year.

(2) AMOUNT OF INTEREST.—The amount of interest determined under this paragraph with respect to a prior taxable year is the amount of interest which would have been imposed under section 6601 on the underpayment tax for such year which would have resulted if the gain (which is treated as ordinary income by reason of subsection (a)(1)) had been included in gross income in the taxable years in which it accrued (determined by treating the income as accruing at a constant rate equal to the applicable Federal rate in effect on the day the transaction closed). The period during which such interest shall accrue shall end on the due date (without extensions) for the return of tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year in which such transaction closed.

(3) APPLICABLE FEDERAL RATE.—For purposes of paragraphs (2), the applicable Federal rate is the Federal rate determined under 1274(d) (compounded semiannually) which would apply to a debt instrument with a term equal to the period the transaction was open.

(4) NO CREDITS AGAINST INCREASE IN TAX.—Any increase in tax under paragraph (1) shall not be treated as tax imposed by this chapter for purposes of determining—

(A) the amount of any credit allowable under this chapter, or

(B) the amount of the tax imposed by section 6601 on the underpayment tax for any prior taxable year.

(5) FUTURE MARKET VALUE.—The amount of any gain or loss subsequently realized on the transaction shall be treated as gain recognized in a transaction where the amount of such gain was treated as ordinary income under subsection (a). Proper adjustments shall be made in the amount of any gain or loss subsequently realized on the transaction.

(6) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to sales or other dispositions occurring on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 1313. GAINS FROM CONSTRUCTIVE OWNERSHIP TRANS- ACTIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Part IV of chapter 1 (relating to special rules for determining capital gains and losses) is amended by inserting after section 1259 the following new section:

"SEC. 1260. GAINS FROM CONSTRUCTIVE OWNERSHIP TRANSACTIONS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—If the taxpayer has gain from a constructive ownership transaction with respect to any financial asset and such gain would (without regard to this section) be treated as a long-term capital gain,

"(1) such gain shall be treated as ordinary income in the extent to which such gain exceeds the net underlying long-term capital gain, and

"(2) to the extent such gain is treated as a long-term capital gain after the application of paragraph (1), the determination of the capital gain rate (or rates) applicable to such gain after section 1(h) shall be determined on the basis of the respective rate (or rates) that would have been applicable to the net underlying long-term capital gain.

"(b) INTEREST CHARGE ON DEFERRAL OF GAIN REALIZATION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—If any gain is treated as ordinary income for any taxable year by reason of subsection (a)(1), the tax imposed by this chapter for such taxable year shall be increased by the amount of the interest determined under paragraph (2) with respect to each prior taxable year during any portion of which the constructive ownership transaction was open. Any amount payable under this paragraph shall be taken into account in computing the amount of any deduction allowable to the taxpayer for interest paid or accrued on such taxable year.

"(2) AMOUNT OF INTEREST.—The amount of interest determined under this paragraph with respect to a prior taxable year is the amount of interest which would have been imposed under section 6601 on the underpayment tax for such year which would have resulted if the gain (which is treated as ordinary income by reason of subsection (a)(1)) had been included in gross income in the taxable years in which it accrued (determined by treating the income as accruing at a constant rate equal to the applicable Federal rate in effect on the day the transaction closed). The period during which such interest shall accrue shall end on the due date (without extensions) for the return of tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year in which such transaction closed.

"(3) APPLICABLE FEDERAL RATE.—For purposes of paragraphs (2), the applicable Federal rate is the Federal rate determined under 1274(d) (compounded semiannually) which would apply to a debt instrument with a term equal to the period the transaction was open.

"(4) NO CREDITS AGAINST INCREASE IN TAX.—Any increase in tax under paragraph (1) shall not be treated as tax imposed by this chapter for purposes of determining—

(A) the amount of any credit allowable under this chapter, or

(B) the amount of the tax imposed by section 6601 on the underpayment tax for any prior taxable year.

"(5) FUTURE MARKET VALUE.—The amount of any gain or loss subsequently realized on the transaction shall be treated as gain recognized in a transaction where the amount of such gain was treated as ordinary income under subsection (a). Proper adjustments shall be made in the amount of any gain or loss subsequently realized on the transaction.

"(6) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to sales or other dispositions occurring on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 1260. GAINS FROM CONSTRUCTIVE OWNERSHIP TRANSACTIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (f) of section 170 (relating to disallowance of deduction in certain charitable meals) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(f) SPECIAL RULE WHERE TAXPAYER TAKES BENEFIT FROM CONSTRUCTIVE OWNERSHIP TRANSACTION.—For purposes of this section, the term 'constructive ownership transaction' includes any transaction (whether or not through an annuity contract or otherwise) where the market value of any financial asset at any time is treated as zero unless the amount therefor is established by clear and convincing evidence.

"(g) REGULATIONS.—The regulations prescribed by the Secretary, if a constructive ownership transaction is closed by reason of taking delivery, this section shall be applied as if the taxpayer had sold all the contracts, options, or other positions which are part of such transaction.
“(II) SPLIT-DOLLAR LIFE INSURANCE, ANNUITY, AND ENDOWMENT CONTRACTS.—(A) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this section or in section 545(b)(2), 550(b)(2), 642(c), 2035, 2106(a)(2), or 2522 shall be construed to allow a deduction, and no deduction shall be allowed, for any annuity contract for which the premium paid by such person is in connection with a transfer of a policy or contract (including any account) held by such person and is paid to any person (other than the life insurance company) described in subsection (c) if in connection with such transfer—

(i) the organization directly or indirectly pays, or has previously paid, any premium on any personal benefit contract with respect to the transferor,

(ii) there is an understanding or expectation that any person will directly or indirectly pay any premium on any personal benefit contract with respect to the transferor, or

(B) PERSONAL BENEFIT CONTRACT.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term ‘personal benefit contract’ means, with respect to the transferor, any life insurance, annuity, or endowment contract under which the transferor is the owner, any member of the transferor’s family, or any other person (other than an organization described in subsection (c)) designated by the transferor.

(C) APPLICATION TO CHARITABLE REMAINder TRUSTS.—In the case of a transfer to a trust referred to inparagraph (E)(ii) of subsection (c), such annuity contract is treated as an indirect beneficiary under any member of the transferor’s family, or any other person (other than an organization described in subsection (c)) designated by the transferor.

(D) SPECIAL RULE WHERE STATE SPECIFIES CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY RATES.—A person shall be treated as owning such contract, and

(ii) such organization possesses all of the incidents of ownership under such contract,

(iii) such organization is entitled to all the payments under such contract, and

(iv) the timing and amount of payments under such contract are substantially the same as the timing and amount of payments to such person under such obligation (as such obligation is in effect at the time of such transfer),

(E) REMEDIAL RULES.—For purposes of paragraph (B), paragraph (C), and subsection (c), regulations may be prescribed as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this section, including regulations to prevent the avoidance of such purposes.

(2) EREMOVING CERTAIN BENEFICIARY ANNUITY CONTRACTS.—If, in connection with a transfer to or for the use of an organization described in subsection (c), such organization incurs an obligation to pay a charitable gift annuity (as defined in section 501(m)) and such organization purchases any annuity contract to fund such obligation, persons receiving payments under the charitable gift annuity shall not be treated for purposes of subparagraph (B) as indirect beneficiaries under such contract if—

(i) such organization possesses all of the incidents of ownership under such contract,

(ii) such organization is entitled to all the payments under such contract, and

(iii) the timing and amount of payments under such contract are substantially the same as the timing and amount of payments to such person under such obligation (as such obligation is in effect at the time of such transfer),

(F) EXCISE TAX ON PREMIUMS PAID.—(1) IN GENERAL.—There is hereby imposed on any organization described in subsection (c) an excise tax equal to the premiums paid by such organization on any life insurance, annuity, or endowment contract if the payment of premiums on such contract is in connection with a transfer for which a deduction is not allowable under subparagraph (A), determined without regard to when such transfer is made.

(ii) for purposes of clause (i), payments made by any other person pursuant to an understanding or expectation referred to in subparagraph (A) shall be treated as payments made by such organization.

(iii) REPORTING.—Any organization on which tax is imposed by clause (i) with respect to any premium shall file an annual return with respect to each such premium.

(2) EXCEPtion FOR ANnuity ConTrACTS.—If—

(I) the amount of such premium paid during the year and the name and TIN of each beneficiary under the contract to which the premium relates, and

(II) such other information as the Secretary may require.

The penalties applicable to returns required under section 6653 shall apply to returns required under this clause, and in such manner as the Secretary shall by forms or regulations require.

(III) CERTAIN TREATMENT.—The tax impended by this subparagraph shall be treated as imposed by chapter 42 for purposes of this title other than subsection B of chapter 42.

(2) SPECIAL RULE WHERE STATE SPECIFIES CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY IN CONTRACT.—In the case of a transfer for which a deduction is not allowable under subparagraph (A), the term ‘charitable gift annuity’ shall not be treated for purposes of subparagraph (B) as indirect beneficiary under such contract if any direct or indirect benefiiciary under such contract is in connection with a transfer of a policy or contract (including any account) held by such person and is paid to any person (other than the life insurance company) described in subsection (c) designated by the transferor.

(3) SPECIFIC RULE WHERE STATE SPECIFIES CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY RATES.—A person shall be treated as owning such contract, and

(i) such organization possesses all of the incidents of ownership under such contract,

(ii) such organization is entitled to all the payments under such contract, and

(iii) the timing and amount of payments under such contract are substantially the same as the timing and amount of payments to such person under such obligation (as such obligation is in effect at the time of such transfer),

(4) SPECIFIC RULE WHERE STATE REQUIRES SPECIFICATION OF CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY IN CONTRACT.—In the case of a transfer for which a deduction is not allowable under subparagraph (A), the term ‘charitable gift annuity’ shall be treated as met if—

(i) such State law requirement was in effect on February 8, 1999,

(ii) each such beneficiary under the charitable gift annuity is a bona fide resident of such State at the time the obligation to pay a charitable gift annuity is entered into, and

(iii) the only persons entitled to payments under such contract are persons entitled to payments as beneficiaries under such obligation on the time such obligation is entered into.

(G) MEMBER OF FAMILY.—For purposes of this paragraph, an individual’s family consists of the individual’s grandparents, the grandparents of such individual’s spouse, the lineal descendants of such grandparents, and any spouse of such a lineal descendant.

(1) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this paragraph, including regulations to prevent the avoidance of such purposes.

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to transfers made after February 8, 1999.

(3) TREATMENT OF CERTAIN REIT DIVIDENDS.—SEC. 1316. RESTRICTION ON USE OF REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT TRUSTS TO AVOID EX-

TIMATED TAX PAYMENT REQUIRE-

MENTS.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (e) of section 6561 shall be amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(2) TREATMENT OF CERTAIN REIT DIVIDENDS.—(A) IN GENERAL.—Any dividend received from a closely held real estate investment trust by any person which owns (after application of subsections (d)(5) and (J)(3)(B) of section 856) 5 percent or more (by vote or value) of the stock or beneficial interests in the trust shall be taken into account in computing annualized income for purposes of paragraphs (1) through (4) of section 501(a)(3) in the manner similar to the manner under which partnership income inclusions are taken into account.

(B) CLOSeLY HELD REIT.—For purposes of subparagraph (A) and of subsections (a) and (b) of section 170(f)(11)(F), any transfer to or for the use of a closely held real estate investment trust means a real estate investment trust with respect to which 5 or fewer persons (or trusts or estates of such persons) own (after application of subsections (d)(5) and (J)(3)(B) of section 856) 50 percent or more (by vote or value) of the stock or beneficial interests in the trust.

(C) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to transfers made after September 15, 1999.

SEC. 1317. PROHIBITED ALLOCATIONS OF S CORPORATION STOCK HELD BY AN ESOP.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 409 (relating to qualifications for tax credit employee stock ownership plans) is amended by redesignating subsection (p) as subsection (q) and by inserting after subsection (q) the following new subsection:

(2) PROHIBITED ALLOCATION OF SECURITIES IN AN S CORPORATION.—(A) IN GENERAL.—In general, an employee stock ownership plan holding employer securities consisting of stock in an S corporation shall provide that no portion of the assets of the plan attributable to (or allocable in lieu of) such employer securities may, during a nonallocation year, accrue or be allocated directly or indirectly under any plan of the employer meeting the requirements of section 401(g)(2) for the benefit of any disqualified individual.

(1) FAILURE TO MEET REQUIREMENTS.—If a plan fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (1), the plan shall be treated as having distributed all of the assets of the plan allocable to such plan (or allocable in lieu of) to each such individual in violation of paragraph (1) at the time of such allocation.

(B) The provisions of section 4979A shall apply, and

(C) the statutory period for the assessment of any tax imposed by section 4979A shall not expire before the date which is 3 years from the later of—

(i) the distribution of employer securities resulting in the failure under paragraph (1) giving rise to such tax, or

(ii) the date on which the Secretary is notified of such failure.

(3) NONALLOCATION YEAR.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘nonallocation year’ means any plan year of an employee stock ownership plan if, at any time during such plan year—

(i) such plan holds employer securities consisting of stock in an S corporation, and

(ii) disqualified individuals own at least 50 percent of the number of outstanding shares of stock in such S corporation.

(B) ATTRIBUTION RULES.—For purposes of subparagraph (A),—

(i) general.—Section 318(a)(2)(B) shall apply for purposes of determining ownership, except that—

(I) for purposes of applying paragraph (1) thereof, the members of an individual’s family shall include members of the family described in paragraph (4)(D), and

(II) paragraph (4)(E) thereof shall not apply,

(2) DEEMED-OWNED SHARES.—Notwithstanding the employee stock ownership plan exception in section 318(a)(2)(B), disqualified individuals shall be treated owning deemed-owned shares.

(4) DISQUALIFIED INDIVIDUAL.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘disqualified individual’ means any individual who is a participant or beneficiary under the employee stock ownership plan if—

(a) The aggregate number of deemed-owned shares of any individual and members of the individual’s family is at least 20 percent of the number of outstanding shares of stock in the S corporation constituting employer securities of such plan, or

(ii) if such individual is not described in clause (i), the number of deemed-owned shares of such individual is at least 10 percent of the number of outstanding shares of stock in such corporation.

(B) TREATMENT OF FAMILY MEMBERS.—In the case of a disqualified individual described in subparagraph (A), any member of the individual’s family with deemed-owned shares shall be treated as a disqualified individual if not otherwise a disqualified individual under subparagraph (A).

(C) DEEMED-OWNED SHARES.—For purposes of this paragraph—

(i) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘deemed-owned shares’ means, with respect to any participant or beneficiary under the employee stock ownership plan—

(I) the stock in the S corporation constituting employer securities of such plan, or

(II) such participant’s or beneficiary’s share of the unallocated stock which is held by such trust but which is not allocated under the plan to employees.

(ii) INDIVIDUAL’S SHARE OF UNALLOCATED STOCK.—For purposes of clause (i)(II), an individual’s share of unallocated S corporation stock held by the trust is the amount of the unallocated stock which would be allocated to such individual if the unallocated stock were allocated to individuals in the same proportions as the most recent stock allocation under the plan.

(D) MEMBER OF FAMILY.—For purposes of this paragraph—

(i) the spouse of the individual,

(ii) an ancestor or lineal descendant of the individual or the individual’s spouse,

(iii) a brother or sister of the individual or the individual’s spouse, and

(iv) the spouse of any person described in clause (ii) or (iii).

(E) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) EMPLOYEE STOCK OWNERSHIP PLAN.—The term ‘employee stock ownership plan’ has the meaning given such term by section 501(e)(7).

(B) EMPLOYER SECURITIES.—The term ‘employer securities’ has the meaning given such term by section 409(l).

(6) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this subsection, including regulations providing for the treatment of any stock option, restricted stock, stock appreciation right, phantom stock unit, performance unit, or similar instrument granted by an S corporation as stock or not stock.

(b) EXCISE TAX.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4975A(b) (defining prohibited allocation) is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (1), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (2) and inserting “and”, and by adding at the end the following REIT exception:

“(3) any allocation of employer securities which violates the provisions of section 409(p).”.

(2) LIABILITY.—Section 4975A(c) (defining liability) is amended by striking “in one taxable year” and inserting “or in any taxable year.”

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this subsection shall apply to plan years beginning after December 31, 2000.

(2) EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN PLANS.—In the case of any—

(A) employee stock ownership plan established after July 14, 1999, or

(B) employee stock ownership plan established on or before such date if employer securities held by the plan consist of stock in a corporation with respect to which an election under section 1362(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is not in effect on such date, this section shall apply to plan years ending after July 14, 1999.

SEC. 1318. MODIFICATION OF ANTI-ABUSE RULES RELATED TO ASSUMPTION OF LIABILITY.

(a) TRANSFERS TO CORPORATIONS.—Section 351 (relating to transfer to corporation controlled by transferor) is amended by redesignating subsection (h) as subsection (i) and by inserting after subsection (g) the following new subsection:

“(h) TREATMENT OF TRANSFERS OF INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.—

“(I) TRANSFERS OF LESS THAN ALL SUBSTANTIAL RIGHTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A transfer of an interest in intangible property (as defined in section 367(d)(3)) to a corporation (as defined in section 367(a)) by an entity that is not a corporation (other than an estate, trust, or other entity described in section 401(a)(13)) shall be treated as a transfer of less than all of the substantial rights of the transferor in the property.

“(2) ALLOCATION OF BASIS.—In the case of a transfer of less than all of the substantial rights of the transferor in the intangible property, the transferee shall be allocated among the rights retained by the transferor the basis of the intangible property transferred to the extent that such rights had a value equal to the amount of such basis.

“(b) TRANSFERS TO PARTNERSHIPS.—Subsection (d) of section 721 is amended to read as follows:

“(d) TRANSFERS OF INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Rules similar to the rules of section 351(h) shall apply for purposes of this section.

“(2) TRANSFERS TO FOREIGN PARTNERSHIPS.—For regulatory authority to treat intangibles transferred to a partnership as sold, see section 367(d)(3).”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transfers on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 1320. CONTROLLED ENTITIES INELIGIBLE FOR REIT STATUS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 856 (relating to definition of real estate investment trust) is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (2) and inserting “and”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(7) which is not a controlled entity (as defined in subsection (q)) and “(8) Controlled Entity.—Section 856 is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(i) CONTROLLED ENTITY.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subsection (a)(7), an entity is a controlled entity if, at any time during the taxable year, one person (other than a qualified entity) owns—

(A) in the case of a corporation, owns stock—

(i) possessing at least 50 percent of the total voting power of the stock of such corporation, or

(ii) owning a value equal to at least 50 percent of the total value of the stock of such corporation,

(B) in the case of a trust, owns beneficial interest in the trust which would meet the requirements of subparagraph (A) if such interests were stock.

“(2) QUALIFIED ENTITY.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the term ‘qualified entity’ means—

(A) any real estate investment trust, and

(B) any partnership in which one real estate investment trust owns at least 50 percent of the capital and profits interests in the partnership.

“(3) ATTRIBUTION RULES.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) Stock.—In the case of a trust, paragraph (a)(7) shall be treated as if it were paragraph (a)(7) of section 512(b)(13).

(B) STAPLED ENTITIES.—A group of entities which are stapled entities (as defined in section 512(b)(13)) shall be treated as if such entities were an entity described in paragraph (a)(7).

“(4) EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN NEW REITS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘controlled entity’ shall not include an incubator REIT.

(B) INCUBATOR REIT.—A corporation shall be treated as an incubator REIT for any taxable year during the eligibility period if it meets all the following requirements for such year:

(1) The corporation elects to be treated as an incubator REIT.

(ii) The corporation has only voting common stock outstanding.

(iii) Not more than 50 percent of the corporation’s real estate assets consist of mortgages.

(iv) From not later than the beginning of the last half of the second taxable year, at least 10 percent of the corporation’s capital is provided by lenders or equity investors who are unrelated to the corporation’s largest shareholder.

(iii) The corporation annually increases the value of its real estate assets by at least 10 percent.

(v) The directors of the corporation adopt a resolution setting forth an intent to engage in a going public transaction.

No election may be made with respect to any REIT if an election under this subsection was in effect for any predecessor of such REIT.

(C) ELIGIBILITY PERIOD.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—The eligibility period (for which an incubator REIT election can begin) begins with the REIT’s second taxable year and ends at the close of the REIT’s third taxable year, except that the REIT may, subject to clauses (ii), (iii), and (iv), extend such period for an additional 2 taxable years.

(ii) GOING PUBLIC TRANSACTION.—A REIT may not elect to extend the eligibility period under clause (i) unless it enters into an agreement with the Secretary that if it does not engage in a going public transaction at the end of the extended eligibility period, it shall pay Federal income taxes for the 2 years of the extended eligibility period as if it had not made an incubator REIT election and ceased to qualify as a REIT for those 2 taxable years.

(iii) RETURNS, INTEREST, AND NOTICE.—

(I) RETURNS.—In the event the corporation ceases to be treated as a REIT by operation of clause (ii), the corporation shall file any appropriate amended returns reflecting the change in status within 3 months of the close of the extended eligibility period.

(II) INTEREST.—Interest shall be payable on any tax imposed by reason of clause (ii) for any... taxable year but, unless there was a finding under subparagraphs (C) or (D) of section 6104(e)(1)(B) that no substantial underpayment penalties shall be imposed.

“(III) NOTICE.—The corporation shall, at the same time it files its returns under subclause (I), notify in writing any other shareholders of the corporation whose stock position is, or may reasonably be expected to be, affected by the change in status so they also may file any appropriate amended returns to conform their tax treatment consistent with the corporation’s loss of REIT status.

“(IV) REGULATIONS. —The Secretary shall promulgate regulations providing for the proper administration of this subsection, in addition to any regulations under section 6104(e)(1)(B) that may be necessary to prevent the abuse of such purposes."

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall take effect as if included in the provisions of the Taz and Trade Relief Extension Act of 1998 to which they relate.

SECTION 1402. AMENDMENTS RELATED TO INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE RESTRUCTURING AND REFORM ACT OF 1998.

(a) AMENDMENT RELATED TO SECTION 302 OF THE ACT.—The last sentence of section 3405(e)(1)(B) is amended by inserting “other than a Roth IRA)” after “individual retirement plan”. "(b) AMENDMENT RELATED TO SECTION 1103 OF THE ACT.—Paragraph (6) of section 6103(h) is amended—

SEC. 3. PUBLIC ACCESS TO OFF-SITE CONSEQUENCE ANALYSIS INFORMATION.

(a) In General.—Section 112(r)(7) of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7412(r)(7)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

(b) Public Access to Off-Site Consequence Analysis Information.—

(i) Definitions.—In this subparagraph:

(a) ‘covered person’ means—

(1) an officer or employee of the United States;

(bb) an officer or employee of an agent or contractor of the Federal Government; and

(dd) an officer or employee of a State or local government;

(bb) the incentives created by public disclosure of off-site consequence analysis information for reduction in the risk of accidental releases; and

II) based on the assessment under subsection (I), promulgate regulations governing the distribution of off-site consequence analysis information to a covered person in a contiguous State; and

(bb) allows other public access to off-site consequence analysis information as appro—

(c) ‘official use’ means any use by a covered person of off-site consequence analysis information under this subparagraph (including the regulations promulgated under this subparagraph) which the offense results in pecuniary loss un—less the defendant knew that such loss would occur. The disclosure of off-site consequence analysis information for each specific stationary source shall be considered a separate offense. The total of all penalties that may be imposed on a single person or organization under this item shall not exceed $1,000,000 for violations committed during any 1 calendar year.

III) Applicability.—If the owner or operator of a stationary source distributes consequence analysis information relating to stationary sources located in the person’s State to a State or local covered person in a contiguous State, such covered person may make off-site consequence analysis information under subsection (ii) available to the Administrator, to the extent that the owner, operator, or covered person in a contiguous State makes such information available to the Administrator under this subparagraph (including the regulations promulgated under this subparagraph). The total of all penalties that may be imposed on a single person or organization under this item shall not exceed $1,000,000 for violations committed during any 1 calendar year.

IV) List.—The Administrator shall maintain and make publicly available a list of all stationary sources that have provided notification under subsection (ii)(bb).

(V) Notice.—The Administrator shall provide notice of the definition of official use as promulgated under this subparagraph to State and local governments that would and would not meet that definition, and notice of the restrictions on further dissemination and the penalties established by this Act to each covered person who receives off-site consequence analysis information under subsection (ii) and each covered person who receives off-site consequence analysis information for official use under the regulations promulgated under subsection (ii).

(VI) Qualified Researchers.—

(1) definition of official use means an action of a Federal, State, or local government agency or an entity referred to in subsection (I) or (II) that meets the requirements of items (cc) through (ee) of clause (I) and (II) and subsection (II) of section 113, a covered person that willfully violates a restriction or prohibition established by this subparagraph (including the regulations promulgated under this subparagraph) which the offense results in pecuniary loss unless the defendant knew that such loss would occur. The disclosure of off-site consequence analysis information for each specific stationary source shall be considered a separate offense. The total of all penalties that may be imposed on a single person or organization under this item shall not exceed $1,000,000 for violations committed during any 1 calendar year.

(VII) Read-Only Information Technology Systems.—The system shall not allow the researcher to disseminate, or make available on the Internet, the off-site consequence analysis information under this subparagraph, or any portion of the off-site consequence analysis information, received under this clause.

(E) Prohibition on Unauthorized Disclosure of Off-Site Consequence Analysis Information.—

(I) In General.—Beginning on the date of enactment of this subparagraph, a covered person shall not disclose to the public off-site consequence analysis information in any form, or any statewide or national ranking of identified stationary sources derived from such information, except as authorized by this subparagraph or the regulations promulgated under clause (ii). After the end of the 1-year period beginning on the date of enactment of this subparagraph, if regulations have not been promulgated under clause (ii), the preceding sentence shall not apply.

(II) Criminal Penalties.—Notwithstanding standing section 13, a covered person that willfully violates a restriction or prohibition established by this subparagraph (including the regulations promulgated under clause (ii)) shall, upon conviction, be fined for an offence under section 3571 of title 18, United States Code, (but shall not be subject to imprisonment) for each unauthorized disclosure of off-site consequence analysis information under this subparagraph. The total of all penalties that may be imposed on a single person or organization under this item shall not exceed $1,000,000 for violations committed during any 1 calendar year.
an information technology system that provides for the public of facility-specific off-site consequence analysis information by means of a central data base under the control of the Federal Government that contains information that users may read, but that provides no means by which the computer or mechanical copy of the information may be made.

(12) VOLUNTARY INDUSTRY ACCIDENT PREVEN-TION STANDARDS.—The Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Justice, and other appropriate agencies may provide technical assistance to owners and operators of stationary sources to minimize—

(A) the preliminary findings under sub-clause (I) of clause (iv) of section 112(r)(7)
(B) of the Clean Air Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 7412(r)(7)(B)) or (C) of section 507(c)(1) of the Clean Air Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 7547(c)(1)) if such information would pose a threat to national security.

(13) EVALUATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

(A) in general.—The Attorney General shall submit to Congress a report that contains the results of the off-site consequence analysis portion of the clean air act compliance with certain information submission requirements.—Not later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to Congress a report that—

(1) (a) the preliminary findings under sub-clause (I) of clause (iv) of section 112(r)(7)(B)

(2) (a) the preliminary findings under sub-clause (I) of clause (iv) of section 112(r)(7)(B)

(b) the methods used to develop the findings;

(c) an explanation of the activities expected to occur that could cause the findings of the report under subdivision (a) to be different than the preliminary findings.

(III) AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION.—Information developed by the Attorney General or requested by the Attorney General and received from a covered stationary source for the purpose of conducting the review under subsection (a) that is in electronic form is available to the public without further notice 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(IV) LIMITATION ON REGULATIONS.—The

(A) the methods used to develop the findings;

(B) the results of the review, together with recommendations, if any, for reducing vulnerability of covered stationary stations to criminal and terrorist activity,

(C) an explanation of the activities expected to occur that could cause the findings of the report under subdivision (a) to be different than the preliminary findings.

(II) INTERIM REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of this subparagraph, the Attorney General shall submit to the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the United States Senate, and other relevant committees of Congress, an interim report that includes, at a minimum—

(a) the preliminary findings under sub-clause (I) of clause (iv) of section 112(r)(7)(B)

(b) the methods used to develop the findings;

(c) an explanation of the activities expected to occur that could cause the findings of the report under subdivision (a) to be different than the preliminary findings.

(III) AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION.—Information developed by the Attorney General or requested by the Attorney General and received from a covered stationary source for the purpose of conducting the review under subdivision (a) that is in electronic form, is available to the public without further notice 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(IV) LIMITATION ON REGULATIONS.—The

(A) the methods used to develop the findings;

(B) the results of the review, together with recommendations, if any, for reducing vulnerability of covered stationary stations to criminal and terrorist activity,

(C) an explanation of the activities expected to occur that could cause the findings of the report under subdivision (a) to be different than the preliminary findings.

(II) INTERIM REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of this subparagraph, the Attorney General shall submit to the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the United States Senate, and other relevant committees of Congress, an interim report that includes, at a minimum—

(a) the preliminary findings under sub-clause (I) of clause (iv) of section 112(r)(7)(B)

(b) the methods used to develop the findings;

(c) an explanation of the activities expected to occur that could cause the findings of the report under subdivision (a) to be different than the preliminary findings.
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE August 2, 1999

I appreciate the speediness with which the House acted on this legislation and the support of my good friend Chairman Tom Harkin. Unfortunately, the Senate is forced to act just as quickly on this legislation because of delays created by the administration. In early 1998, I raised concerns to the administration regarding the security risks posed by indiscriminating the worst-case scenario data on the Internet. The FBI agreed with my concerns. Despite the acknowledgment of the risks involved the administration did not cooperate with Congress to fix this problem until the eleventh hour.

Because of the urgency in passing this legislation I have decided that a conference would not be beneficial. While I agree with most of the changes incorporated in the House-passed version, due to the haste of their consideration, I feel the necessity to explain in more detail my view, as the lead sponsor, of one particular provision.

Section 3 of the act requires the “Attorney General, and in consultation with appropriate State, local, and Federal governmental agencies, affected industry, and the public, shall review the vulnerability of covered stationary sources to criminal and terrorist activity, current industry practices regarding site security, and security of transportation of regulated substances.”

In carrying out this provision, I ask the Attorney General, in consulting with the Federal governmental agencies, to work with the Intelligence Community as well as the FBI. If any technical assistance regarding chemicals is needed I direct the Attorney General to work with the Department of Energy facilities, particularly the Hazardous Material Spill Center at the Nevada Test site and the Sandia laboratory in New Mexico. Considering the transportation issues, the Attorney General should consult with the Department of Transportation. In addition, I would like to emphasize that any confidential information or national security information should be closely safeguarded.

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate concur in the amendments of the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

EXECUTIVE SESSION

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate immediately proceed to executive session to consider the following nominations en bloc: Executive Calendar Nos. 202, 205, 207, and 216.

I further ask unanimous consent that the nominations be confirmed en bloc, the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the nominations be printed in the RECORD, the President be immediately notified of the Senate's action, and the Senate then return to legislative session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The nominations were considered and confirmed, as follows:

BARRY GOLDWATER SCHOLARSHIP & EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION FOUNDATION
James Roger Angel, of Arizona, to be a Member of the Board of Trustees of the Harry Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education Foundation for a term expiring February 4, 2002.

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON LIBRARIES AND INFORMATION SCIENCE
Jack E. Hightower, of Texas, to be a Member of the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science for a term expiring July 19, 1999.

NATIONAL FOUNDATION ON THE ARTS AND THE HUMANITIES
Jerry D. Florence, of California, to be a Member of the National Museum Services Board for a term expiring December 6, 2002.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
Alejandro N. Mayorkas, of California, to be United States Attorney for the Central District of California.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume legislative session.

ORDERS FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1999

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate complete its business today, it adjourn until the hour of 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, August 3. I further ask unanimous consent that on Tuesday, immediately following the prayer, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour be deemed expired, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and the Senate then begin a period of morning business until 10:30 a.m. with Senators speaking for up to 5 minutes each, with the following exceptions:

Senator Hagel, or his designee, from 9:30 to 10 a.m., to be followed by Senator Reed of Rhode Island for 10 minutes, Senator Baucus for 10 minutes, and Senator Durbin for 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, further, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in recess from the hours of 12:30 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. for the weekly policy conferences to meet.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE 19085

PROGRAM

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, for the information of all Senators, the Senate will convene at 9:30 a.m. and be in a period of morning business until 10:30. Following morning business, the Senate will resume consideration of the pending disaster relief amendment to the Agriculture appropriations bill. It is hoped that a time agreement can be made so that votes on this issue can take place by tomorrow afternoon.

As a reminder, the Senate will recess tomorrow from 12:30 to 2:15 so that the weekly policy conferences can meet. Further, a cloture motion on the dairy compact amendment was filed today. Therefore, under the provisions of rule XXII, that cloture vote will take place 1 hour after the Senate convenes on Wednesday unless an agreement is made by the two leaders.

COMMENDING GENERAL WESLEY K. CLARK

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Resolution 169 be discharged from the Armed Services Committee and, further, that the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LUGAR. I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution. Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the resolution be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 169) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

Whereas General Wesley K. Clark has had a long and distinguished military career, which includes graduating first in the class of 1966 from the United States Military Academy at West Point and serving in command positions at every level in the United States Army, culminating in service concurrently in the positions of Supreme Allied Commander, Europe and Commander-in-Chief of the United States European Command;

Whereas General Clark was integral to the formulation of the Dayton Accords;

Whereas General Clark most recently distinguished himself by his tireless, resourceful, and successful leadership of the first military action of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization despite severe constraints; and

Whereas General Clark's record of exemplary dedication, service, and exemplifies what all military officers should seek to emulate and is deserving of special recognition: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That:

(1) the United States Senate commends and expresses its gratitude to General Wesley K. Clark, United States Army, for his outstanding record of military service to the United States of America; and

(2) the Secretary of the Senate shall transmit a copy of this resolution to General Wesley K. Clark.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 9:30 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 7:16 p.m., adjourned until Tuesday, August 3, 1999, at 9:30 a.m.

NATIONAL FOUNDATION ON THE ARTS AND THE HUMANITIES

HON. SAM GEJDENSON OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. GEJDENSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to introduce the Violence Prevention Training for Early Childhood Educators Act.

Students, parents, teachers and members of communities across our country have been grappling with the issue of school violence. There is no magic solution to this difficult matter, there is no single cause that can be addressed to guarantee our schools will be violence-free. However, I believe that to effectively address this issue we must ensure that those who are entering careers in early childhood development and education are properly trained in violence prevention.

The legislation that my colleagues and I are introducing today will authorize the Secretary of Education to award grants ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to institutions of higher learning and other facilities in order to assist them in making violence prevention training available to prospective teachers and those returning for additional professional development. Moreover, the bill will ensure that teachers, school counselors and child care providers are provided with the skills necessary to prevent violent behavior in young children at the very earliest stages. In 1992, Congress enacted legislation which funded similar training programs at Eastern Connecticut State University, University of Colorado at Denver, University of Kansas, University of Minnesota, University of North Carolina, Temple University and a dozen other colleges and universities.

There is evidence that strongly suggests that early intervention and education is effective in preventing delinquency. For example, one study has indicated that when preschool teachers instruct young children about interpersonal problem-solving skills and other forms of conflict resolution, children are less likely to demonstrate problematic behavior, which is effective in preventing delinquency later on. In addition, there is further evidence that indicates that support programs for families with very young children—those under the age of five—are effective in preventing delinquency.

Teachers are on the frontline every day. They need to be prepared to discuss with the children and the entire family how to resolve issues without resorting to violence. I believe we must reinvest in this proven, worthwhile program in order to ensure that our teachers, daycare providers and school counselors have the training they need to combat violence in school and society at large.

I am pleased to be joined in this effort by Mr. KUCINICH of Ohio, Mr. HILLIARD of Alabama, Ms. LEE of California, Ms. CHRISTENSEN of Virginia Islands, Mr. MALONEY of Connecticut, Mr. WU of Oregon, Mr. ETHERIDGE of North Carolina, Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas, Ms. MILLER-McDONALD of California, Mr. SCOTT of Virginia, and Mr. McGOVERN of Massachusetts.

HON. GEORGE RADANOVICH
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Dino Petrucci for receiving the Senior Farmer of the Year Award. Dino Petrucci’s efforts to educate and inspire young people toward agriculture render him deserving of this award.

Dino was born on a farm in Madera and still lives on the property his family cultivated while he was growing up. He attended Howard Elementary School, graduated from Madera High School in 1947, and earned a college degree in Crop Science from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.

During his four years at Madera High, Dino was actively involved in student government and the Future Farmers of America. He was elected Student Body Vice President and Senior Class Speaker. He also served as Chapter President of FFA and won the FAA State Speaking contest.

Petrucci went on to hold numerous leadership positions in various organizations as a young adult. He was elected the State FFA President and was a National Public Speaker at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City. In addition, he served as President of the Crop Science Department at Cal Poly.

Mr. Petrucci was successful in his undertakings on behalf of these organizations and in his academic endeavors. He earned the coveted American Farmer Degree and co-authored a book that was used in school agriculture departments across the state.

After college, Dino began his teaching career in the Ag Department in Victorville. Two years later, he returned to Madera and embarked upon a 29-year career with the Madera High Ag Department. During this time, Dino was actively farming a variety of crops with his brother, Enzo. Dino and wife Peggy were also raising a family of two children and supporting them on their 4-H and FFA projects.

Many of his former students attest that Mr. Petrucci was a committed teacher, giving more hours than were required of him. For fifteen years, he advised the California Young Farmers and was instrumental in the Madera Chapter receiving recognition as “Outstanding Chapter” for many of those years. He also served as State President of the California Ag Teachers Association, and found time to serve as Chairman of the Livestock Department at the Madera District Fair.

While balancing a family and career Dino has made time for community involvement by serving as President of the Lion’s Club, President of Madera Toastmasters, and President of Madera County Farm Bureau. He was also elected last year to serve as a Trustee on the Madera Unified School District Board. In addition, Mr. Petrucci began the MUST Center and served as its Director for two years. This program was designed to teach vocational skills to the underprivileged in order to afford them better job opportunities. Currently, Petrucci is actively involved at Howard Elementary School where he attended as a boy, his children attended, and his grandchildren now attend.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Dino Petrucci for his outstanding accomplishments and service to his community. I urge my colleagues to join me in wishing Dino many more years of continued success and happiness.

HON. GEORGE MILLER
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I submit the following statement into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

On rollover vote No. 344 on July 29, 1999 I mistakenly voted “yea.” I would like the RECORD to reflect the fact that I oppose the amendment and should have voted “nay”. The amendment would prohibit the District of Columbia from spending its own funds on a needle exchange program that has saved hundreds of residents from death and disease caused by the HIV-AIDS epidemic. I support such proven programs and oppose efforts by Congress to intrude into the affairs of the District of Columbia in such a misinformed and heavy-handed fashion.

HON. PETER T. KING
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday August 2, 1999

Mr. KING. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the commitment and selfless dedication one young man, Cormac Hennessy has made to myself, my staff and the people of the Third District of New York. Cormac began interning in my office in the Summer of 1998 and since...
August 2, 1999

that time he has exhibited all the qualities: intel- licent, wit and a certain style that make him truly the son of a Diplomat's Diplomat. In fact, Cormac was an inspiration to those who loved the game of golf, for there was never too dull an assignment or too onerous a task that Cormac did not shirk for the sake of eight-een holes. I am confident that in the care of two truly wonderful people, Pat and Pauline Hennessy, Cormac will amount to something more than the self-proclaimed title of “King of all Interns.” Indeed I am certain that his unsur-passed sarcasm, his indecipherable “Southen” dialect and his unique charm will cause him to rise to the highest levels of leadership and success. I wish him all the best in his future endeavors and I thank him for all that he has done and meant to me.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. ASA HUTCHINSON OF ARKANSAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Mr. Speaker, on Friday, July 30, 1999, I was inadvertently detained and did not vote on rollcall No. 354 or 355. Had I been present, I would have voted “aye” on both.

HONORING JAN DUKE

HON. GEORGE RADANOVICH
OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Jan Duke for receiving the prestigious Milken Educator Award. Duke teaches fourth grade at John Adam’s Elementary School in the Madera Unified School District.

Jan Duke was one of four teachers in Cali-fornia to receive this honor, and one of 160 to be honored nationwide. She is the first from Madera Unified School District to be given this award.

Beyond her role as an exemplary teacher, Jan is a skilled writer and presenter. Duke has written two books on teaching fourth-graders and co-authored, with her husband, a book on teaching individuals to read. She also advises national scholastic book clubs on what literature would be best for children. In addition, she conducts 5 to 20 seminars annually for fourth-grade teachers nationwide.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Jan Duke for her achievements and service to the community. I urge my colleagues to join me in wishing Jan many more years of continued success and happiness.

CONCERN FOR RESIDENTS OF VIEQUES, PUERTO RICO

HON. DAN BURTON OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. BURTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bring to the forefront a very important issue that has not been given the attention it deserves by this Congress. More than 9,000 American citizens, living on the island of Vieques, live in fear. But, it isn’t a fear of drug trafficking. It isn’t a fear of violent gangs or terror- orism either. Our fellow citizens live in fear of our own military, and I would like to explain why.

For more than 50 years, the residents of Vieques, Puerto Rico, an island encompassing fewer than 52 square miles of which the Navy occupies 35 square miles, have had to endure live military ammunition and bombing exer-cises. Vieques is the largest area in the Western hemisphere used for military exercises with live ammunition, and the only place where bombing still occurs near a substantial civilian population. For years, the residents of Vieques have expressed their concerns about the negative impact that the bombing and live ammunition exercises are having on their health and safety. Unfortunately, their voices have not been heard and that concerns me.

On April 19, 1999, the people of Vieques raised their voices once again, this time in de-spair. It was on that date, during routine mili-tary practices conducted by two Navy F/A–18 Hornet jets, that two bombs were accidentally dropped near an observation post manned by civilian security guards. As a result, a security guard was killed and four others were wounded. I believe that if the citizens of Puerto Rico had equal representation in Congress, legis-late concerns for their safety and health would have been better safeguarded.

Since that accident, the Navy has tempo-rarily ceased military maneuvers while an inv-esigation is carried out, and Puerto Rico’s Governor, the Honorable Pedro Rossello, ap-pointed a Commission that investigated the in-cident and reported its findings to the Presi-dent’s Special Panel on Military Operations on Vieques on July 9, 1999. The Governor’s Commission unanimously concluded that it is not possible to protect the people of Vieques, or the environment, from the extreme danger posed by live ammunition testing. The Navy argues that Vieques is a unique site for train-ing exercises with live ammunition, making it essential to our National security. I’ve always worked to protect our National security, how-ever, it should never be achieved at the ex- pense of the personal rights or safety of our own citizens. The only solution may be to end permanently the military’s live ammunition testing on Vieques.

No one in this House would tolerate what the military is doing on Vieques if it were tak-ing place in our Congressional district, and neither would our constituents. Imagine asking your con-stituents to accept, and in return thank you, for having uranium-coated bombs dropped within a few miles of their homes, schools, hospitals, and public parks. Imagine asking your con-stituents to accept having their children attend school near the high explosives capable of provoking the bombast of their communities with live ammunition. Try convincing your con-stituents to accept, and in return thank you, for having uranium-coated bombs dropped within a few miles of their homes, schools, hospitals, and public parks. Imagine asking your con-stituents to accept having their children attend classrooms which reverberate during the school day as live shells explode nearby. No one in this chamber would permit the continu-ation of a practice by our own military that en-dangers the lives of very people we have been elected to represent.

There’s a reality about Puerto Rico, one that is wonderful and abhorrent at the same time. The people of Puerto Rico are truly American citizens, part of America’s great democracy, and that is wonderful. However, the people of Puerto Rico currently lack the single most im-portant tool that our democracy provides, two Senators and a voting delegation in the House of Representatives, and that is abhorrent. It is precisely because the people of Puerto Rico don’t have equal representation in Congress that they need our help now. If they had real representation here, the military would have the proper incentive to solve the problem of live ammunition testing on Vieques. I trust that my colleagues in the House of Representa-tives would agree with me. If this practice were occurring in any one of the fifty States, I know we would all stand together to oppose it. We owe our fellow American citizens in Puerto Rico the same level of respect. They deserve nothing less. In fact, their safety and their lives may depend on it.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly encourage my col-leagues to take a hard look at this issue.

CELEBRATING THE CITY OF LOMITA

HON. STEVEN T. KUYKENDALL
OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. KUYKENDALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the City of Lomita, California. Lomita is celebrating its 35th year as an incorporated city. The City of Lomita is widely rec-ognized for its rustic, small-town atmosphere amongst the larger cities of the South Bay.

Lomita was first established as a German farming community in 1907. The farming com-munity continued to grow throughout the years, and in June of 1964, after several un-successful attempts, Lomita was finally incor-porated as a city.

While surrounding communities have experi-enced tremendous growth, Lomita has re-mained relatively unchanged since incorpora-tion. Lomita’s small town attributes attract young families in search of a safe, close knit community. Lomita is a culturally diverse commu-nity and it also boasts one of the lowest crime rates in the South Bay region. It is an ideal place to raise a family and live the American Dream, and many of its residents are homeowners and small business entre-preneurs.

The future looks bright for the city of Lomita. Preparations are currently underway for an ambitious revitalization of Lomita’s downtown area to ensure that Lomita maintains its small-town atmosphere.

Lomita has thrived over the last 35 years, and as we enter the 21st century, Lomita will continue to stand out as a small, unique town of the South Bay. I congratulate the City of Lomita and its 20,000 residents on this mile-stone.
HON. LORETTA SANCHEZ
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Ms. SANCHEZ. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to honor Myldred Jones, an Orange County resident, and a great humanitarian, on this her ninetieth birthday.

Myldred moved to California from Pennsylvania with her family when she was four years old. Growing up during the Depression, the Jones family experienced the poverty that affected millions of Americans. Even so, Myldred’s parents, who were also her greatest mentors, would share whatever food they had with other people. Although the Jones’ family was also poor, they seemed to always have enough to give to others.

Early on, Myldred learned the lessons of humanitarianism, of unconditional love, and of providing and caring for others. These gifts were to become the very essence of her life.

Myldred began her career as a high school teacher and, later, became a juvenile probation officer. During World War II, she was one of the first eight WAVES from California. Her military career included duty as a Special Assistant to Commandant 14th Naval District, Assistant Director of the Department of Welfare, and a faculty member on international relations for the Armed Forces Graduate School. She was also the Naval Liaison Officer for both the United Nations and the National Red Cross. When she retired in 1959, she was the director of Social Services of the Navy Relief Society.

After her retirement, Myldred became active in the Civil Rights Movement and marched with Martin Luther King from Selma, Alabama, to Montgomery, Alabama. In 1969, she joined Cesar Chavez on his marches for the United Farm Workers. Her work in the Watts district of Los Angeles earned her recognition from Governor Ronald Reagan, who employed her as a consultant on youth affairs.

Recognizing the need that many young people had for assistance with different problems, Myldred developed the first “hotline” for troubled teenagers. Many of the teenagers were runaways or “throwaways” whose parents had either forced them to leave their homes, or whose parents had left them. With no place to go, the teenagers were in a desperate situation.

Myldred’s deep compassion to help these teenagers, led her to sell her home and purchase another home which could house runaway children on a temporary basis. Out of this need was born the Casa Youth Shelter which has since its inception in 1978, has assisted thousands of “lost youth” find their way back home and into the mainstream of society.

The philosophy behind Myldred’s home for teenagers comes from a belief that all of the children can turn their lives into a success if they have the love and attention which had been denied to them all of their lives.

Housing twelve youths at a time for a period of two weeks, Casa Youth Shelter, has become a safe haven for many youth whose lives were on the line. To this day, Myldred meets each of the youth and talks with them. Myldred is regarded by many as “our own Mother Teresa” for her life has been dedicated to taking care of others who are in need. She is an angel amongst us.

Colleagues, please join me today in wishing Myldred Jones a very happy birthday and also in congratulating her on her life which has been lived to the fullest.

HON. TOM LANTOS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, on July 23, His Majesty King Hassan II of Morocco passed away and his son, Sidi Mohammed ben Al Hassan, assumed the throne of Morocco.

King Hassan II reigned over the Kingdom of Morocco for thirty-eight years after succeeding his father as monarch on March 3, 1961. Under his leadership Morocco has undergone a significant transformation. King Hassan fostered the evolution of a more democratic constitutional government, encouraged tolerance for ethnic and religious minorities in Morocco, and made measurable improvement in respect for human rights.

Mr. Speaker, in the area of foreign policy, King Hassan played an important role personally in advancing the Middle East peace process. He was instrumental in bringing together leaders of Israel and the Arab states on a number of different occasions. It is significant that in September 1993 Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Foreign Minister Shimon Peres stopped in Morocco to thank King Hassan on their return to Israel from Washington, D.C., following the signature of the Oslo Accords on the South Lawn of the White House.

The relationship between Morocco and the United States has flourished under the leadership of King Hassan. Our association with Morocco is long and friendly, having begun in 1777 when Morocco was one of the first nations formally to recognize the Government of the United States of America. Ten years later, in 1787, our two countries negotiated a Treaty of Peace and Friendship, which was the first such treaty concluded by our young nation. The unique relationship of our countries was strengthened and deepened under the leadership of King Hassan.

Mr. Speaker, I know that my colleagues join me in extending my deepest condolences to the Moroccan people on the passing of King Hassan and also in extending to Crown Prince Sidi Mohammed ben Al Hassan our congratulations on his accession to the throne. I wish the new King well as he assumes the awesome responsibility for the welfare and well-being of the Moroccan people.

Mr. Speaker, I want to recognize Rodger Jensen for his dedication to the community and the agriculture industry. I urge my colleagues to join me in wishing Mr. Jensen many more years of continued success.
EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

HON. KAREN McCARTHY OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, July 27, 1999

Ms. McCARTHY of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak in favor of extending Normal Trade Relations to China for the coming year and against House Joint Resolution 57. Extending Normal Trade Relations will maintain our economic relationship with China, the world’s fourth largest economy, and allow us to move closer to agreement on a stable and acceptable plan for China’s international economic engagement.

China today is America’s fourth largest trading partner. In 1998 Americans exported $14 billion worth of goods to China, making China the 13th largest market abroad for U.S. goods, such as aircraft and aircraft parts, fertilizer, and electronic equipment.

My district exports plastic materials and resins, automotive parts, telecommunications equipment, building materials, food and dairy products, agricultural machinery, and pollution control equipment to China. Continued engagement with China enhances future economic opportunities for U.S. workers and businesses. Dan Bunch Enterprises, a company in Kansas City that exports cleaning products to China, has shared with me that they have seen significant increases in available jobs for their company this year as a direct result of trade relations with China, and they expect this trend to continue in the coming years.

Another company in my district that depends on extensive and successful participation in the Chinese market is AlliedSignal. China is one of the top 3 global markets where AlliedSignal is focusing its efforts to grow. AlliedSignal presently has 1,000 employees in China and 60,000 U.S. employees. Among the major products they export to China are commercial aircraft equipment (e.g., engines, auxiliary power units, landing systems, avionics), turbochargers, electrical power distribution transformer cores, fabrics, fibers, and friction materials. AlliedSignal has taken a proactive stance regarding the issue of security, especially cyber security, even going so far as to hire an outside firm to attempt to penetrate their firewalls.

AlliedSignal’s interests in China also promote capitalist and democratic ideals in China. They provide their Chinese associates with comprehensive training in economics fundamentals, as well as major supervisory and managerial fundamental skills training. This training teaches things like delegation of authority, team participation, high performance work teams, priority setting, respect for individuals, and due process under the work rule and plant adjudication processes. They also provide funding for their associates to attend China-Europe International Business School to receive a western style MBA.

Approximately 400,000 American jobs depend on exports to China and Hong Kong, and exports to these countries have more than tripled over the past decade. In 1998, Missouri exported $137 billion worth of goods to China. The most recent statistics from the International Trade Administration indicate that Greater Kansas City’s merchandise export sales to China total $161 million per year, a 151% increase since 1993.

I applaud the extension of Normal Trade Relations with China, which has helped to lift 200 million Chinese out of poverty since 1978. Mr. Speaker, let us continue our efforts toward engaging China in negotiations to reform human rights, worker rights, and international security.

THE SOUTH PACIFIC GAMES

HON. ROBERT A. UNDERWOOD OF GUAM
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, one of the largest regional multi-sporting events in the Pacific, the South Pacific Games, was recently hosted by the island of Guam. The 11th South Pacific Games consisted of roughly 6,000 athletes and officials. Athletes from 22 countries competed in 26 sporting events over a 15 day period in May and June.

Once again, athletes from the North and South Pacific gathered and engaged in various sporting events—a celebration of goodwill, cultural exchange, brotherhood and healthy competition. This year’s competitors represented the geographic locations of Melanesia, Polynesia and Micronesia.

The island of Guam was responsible for all aspects of the organization of the 11th South Pacific Games. Every effort was made to make this year’s Games the most memorable in the history. Organizers developed and implemented a Master Plan that guided the Games to a successful conclusion. The 1999 Guam South Pacific Games Commission consisted of the chairman, executive chairman, eleven board members, and the commission staff. As chairman, the island's governor, the Honorable C. W. Gutiérrez, committed extensive resources and support of the Games. It was all a great success.

Competing on home turf, Guam athletes gave their best performance yet. I would like to commend and congratulate Team Guam for their superb performance, efforts and contributions toward the success of the Games. Participating in regional competitions such as the South Pacific Games strengthens our relations with our neighbors and prepares our athletes for higher levels of competition.

I am pleased to submit for the RECORD the names of the Guam athletes who have distinguished themselves by winning medals in the 11th South Pacific Games.

IN MEMORY OF G. SAGE LYONS

HON. SONNY CALLAHAN OF ALABAMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. Callahan, Mr. Speaker, recently, Mobile, and indeed, the entire state of Alabama, lost a true statesman, a fine public servant and simply put, an overall wonderful human being when my longtime friend, Sage Lyons, passed away earlier this year following a brief battle with pancreatic cancer.

Not only did I consider Sage a close personal friend, but I also looked upon him as one of my political mentors. Even though in age he was a few years my junior, I began my stint in public service in 1970 with my first election to the Alabama House of Representatives, the same year Sage would be elected Speaker of the House. For this reason, and for so many others, I recall with great fondness Sage’s wonderful sense of humor, his strong will, his keen intellect and one of his lasting trademarks, the fact that his word was always as good as his bond.

Mr. Speaker, while Sage’s name may not appear as often in Alabama history as some of our more colorful political figures, the fact is in his quiet, yet very effective way, Sage made many lasting contributions to Mobile and to Alabama, and it is very much an understatement to say his legacy will live on for generations to come. Almost without equal, there are few men who have left such a distinguished mark of public service as did my friend Sage.

Born in Mobile, Alabama, on October 1, 1936, George Sage Lyons graduated first from University Military School in Mobile and later from Washington and Lee University. From there, he proceeded to The University of Alabama where he earned his law degree. In 1962, he returned to Mobile and helped establish the firm Lyons, Pipes & Cook.

Elected to the Alabama House of Representatives in 1969, Sage flourished as a politician. In 1971, at the age of 34, he became the youngest legislator ever to be elected Speaker, a post he held until 1975 when he declined to seek reelection and threw himself back into his legal practice.

But Sage’s ties to the State Capitol in Montgomery did not end with his departure from office.

Throughout both his professional and political career, Sage’s advice and support continued to be sought by people from all walks of life—Republicans and Democrats, blacks and whites, rich and poor alike. It was commonly believed if you had Sage Lyons in your corner, then you had a real warrior on your side.

In 1995, Sage once again answered the call to public service by putting his personal interests aside to return to Montgomery to assist then-Governor Fob James, first as his chief legal advisor and later as his finance director. As he had more than 20 years before, Sage provided a sound voice of reason and lent a steady hand on the ship of state.

In an editorial reflecting on Sage’s death, the Mobile Register wrote: “Alabama has lost a competent, willing public servant. Even more, it has lost a man of integrity, who routinely placed good government over politics and people over political parties.”

Mr. Speaker, on March 5th Alabama lost one of her most giving and gifted native sons. Naturally, his death left a big void in the lives of his many friends and family, as well as his hometown which benefitted so greatly by his involvement in the public arena. Sage is survived by his widow, Elsie, their two children, George Sage, Jr. and Amelia, as well as three grandchildren. They remain in our thoughts and prayers, just as Sage remains in a select group which is clearly among the best and brightest our state has ever produced.

RECOGNIZING ROBERT HUME BRADY

HON. FRANK D. LUCAS

OF OKLAHOMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. Lucas of Oklahoma, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize one man’s many accomplishments and contributions to the University of Oklahoma and the State of Oklahoma. Mr. Robert Hume Brady was born and raised in Seiling, Oklahoma. He was awarded the OU Regents’ Alumni Award in 1998 for his exceptional dedication and service to the University of Oklahoma and served as an honorary chair of the 100th anniversary celebration of the OU Association’s founding. A 1960 graduate with a bachelor’s degree in business administration, he joined Travelers Property Casualty Corporation in 1963 and today serves as regional vice president. In many of the cities where his career has taken him, he has made the OU presence stronger. He formed the OU Club of New Orleans in 1969, reactivated the OU Club of Kansas City in 1985, and organized the OU Club of Charlotte in 1991. He served as president of the OU Club of Charlotte for seven years and currently is a member of the Board of Directors. He has worked to raise funds for scholarship support to potential OU students and to bring new energy to the OU Club through recruiting and nominating younger members to leadership positions. He continues a long OU family tradition established by his great-uncle C. Ross Hume, a member of the first graduating class in 1898 and one of the founders of the OU Alumni Association in 1899. His grandfather, Dr. R.R. Hume, a member of the second graduating class, was instrumental in the selection of OU’s colors of crimson and cream.

Robert Brady will retire July 31, 1999, after 37 years with Travelers, and he and his wife Betty plan to return to Oklahoma City. Bob started with Travelers in 1963 after graduating from the University of Oklahoma. Further tours of duty included New Orleans, Home Office, Oklahoma City, Kansas City and Charlotte. While in Charlotte, Bob helped make Travelers North Carolina’s leading Independent Agency carrier.

Respected among his peers for his elegance and character, Bob is a colleague, mentor, friend, husband, father and grandfather.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

VAN ARSDALES HONORED

HON. PAUL E. KANJORSKI OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bring to the attention of my colleagues, two distinguished community leaders, Tom and Suzette van Arsdale. My good friends Tom and Suzette will be honored this month by the Luzzerene Foundation for their community service and leadership. I am pleased and proud to have been asked to participate in this tribute. Born in New York City in 1937, Tom van Arsdale grew up in New England. Tom joined the U.S. Army after high school and served in the Signal Corps as a top secret cryptographer for two years before receiving an honorable discharge. Tom began his business career as a teller in a Jersey bank in 1959. Within two years, Tom was a bank officer and within four years, he was a senior executive. While pursuing his career, Tom was also earning degrees from Routon Valley Community College and Edison State College.

Tom’s business acumen gained the attention in the banking world when he assumed the position of President of a troubled New Jersey bank, guided it out of its financial crisis, converted it to a public bank and subsequently sold it to the Dime Bank of New York. Tom continued to serve as the bank’s President and CEO and was named to a directorship of the Dime Bank of New York.

Tom moved to northeastern Pennsylvania in 1990 after being named President and CEO of Franklin First Financial Corporation and Franklin First Savings Bank. After Franklin First was sold to Onbancorp in 1993, Tom continued to serve as its President and was elected to the parent bank’s board until his recent retirement.

Suzette van Arsdale also spent her early years in banking. Born in New Jersey, Suzette rose in the ranks rapidly shortly after beginning her banking career, becoming a corporate officer of one of the Nation’s largest commercial banks. While working full time, Suzette earned a degree in management from Kean University. Tom and Suzette were married in 1966 and now have two children: Thomas Robert, age 12, and Matthew Ernest, age 20 months.

Mr. Speaker, both van Arsdales have been active members of the community. Tom serves on several local boards, including the Luzerne County Community College Foundation, the Committee for Economic Growth, the Wyoming Valley United Way, Wyoming Seminary, College Misericordia, the Central Division of Pennsylvania Economy League, WVIA public radio and television, and the Northeast Philharmonic Orchestra, to name just a few. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association and America’s Community Bankers and a former chair of the Community Bankers Council of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

Suzette has an equally impressive resume of community activity and involvement, currently serving or having served as President of the Junior League, member of the Presidents Council of King’s College, second chair the Wyoming Valley Red Cross, member of the Wyoming Seminary Board of Directors, and as an active member of United Way of Wyoming Valley, Leadership Wilkes-Barre, Family Service Association and the Luzerne Foundation. Suzette has helped raise funds for the Osterhout Library, the Back Mountain Library, the Northeast Philharmonic, the American Cancer Society, the St. Vincent’s South Kitchen, the Catherine McAuley House, the Meals on Wheels program, the Fine Arts Fiesta, and the Theater on the Green at College Misericordia.

In 1998, both Tom and Suzette were honored by Her Majesty, the Queen of England. Tom was invited to the Order of St. John as an Associate Commander while Suzette was given a similar honor by the Queen and also invested to the Cathedral of the Church of St. John by Lord Prior.

Mr. Speaker, I am extremely proud to call Tom and Suzette van Arsdale my friends. In just 10 years, they have both had an enormous impact on northeastern Pennsylvania. I have called on them numerous times to help support community efforts and they have always provided their leadership. More importantly, they have been wonderful friends to me, my wife, Nancy, and to many people throughout the area. I am proud to join with the community in thanking them for their years of service and wishing them the best for the future.

TRIBUTE TO TOM TIPPY, SR.

HON. SONNY CALLAHAN
OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to an important constituent, a fine community and business leader, and a close personal friend, Mr. Tom Tippy, Sr. Tom, who passed away back on March 12th following a long illness, will be sorely missed by his family and many friends, as well as numerous associates throughout the First District of Alabama.

Tom Tippy’s relationship with the people of South Alabama began over twenty-five years ago when, as an executive with Parsons & Whitlemore, he came to the area as part of the delegation sent by the Landegger family to locate a site for the construction of a new pulp and paper facility.

This mill, which became known as Alabama River Pulp, now employs hundreds of men and women from Monroe County and the surrounding area, and it is a testament to the hard work of the entire Parsons & Whitlemore corporate family, as well as the tremendous dedication and perseverance displayed by Tom Tippy and his staff.

Prior to entering the world of business, Tom was a distinguished veteran of the United States Army Air Corps and saw a great deal of service in the Pacific Theater of operations. While serving as a gunner with the crew of a B-24 Liberator in the 5th Army Air Corps, and later as a top turret gunner and flight engineer on a crew assigned to the 90th Bomber Group, Tom exhibited the same qualities of leadership, professionalism and dedication to... his crew mates and his nation that he displayed repeatedly throughout his life. I was saddened, but nonetheless honored, to have an American flag flown over this very building, shrine to democracy throughout the world, which was draped over Tom's casket and pretended to his family at his burial.

Perhaps one of the finest comments on Tom's life was offered by his dear friend and mine, Monroe County Probate Judge Otha
Lee Biggs, when he said, "He wasn't happy unless he was present with the employees of that company. They were a part of his family.
If they needed him, he wanted to be there for him. And, for the leadership he gave to them, gave him their support in return. For he was a man's man and he was a working man's executive."

Indeed he was.

Mr. Speaker, I offer this memorial tribute to Tom Tippy with the belief that his legacy of goodwill, of sound decisions and of always being a man of his word, will continue in perpetuity. Truly, he lived his life with an enthuasiasm toward helping others and in so doing,

I believe he inspired the rest of us to try to do a little better ourselves as we approach our fellow man.

Tom is survived by his lovely wife, Rita;
three sons, Tommy Tippy, Jr., Bill Tippy and Richard Tippy; one stepdaughter, Melanie Lee Ford; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. My condolences go out to each of them.

SPEECH OF
HON. ZOE LOFGREN
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, July 27, 1999

Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to express my opposition to House Joint Resolution 57 disapproving the extension of nondiscriminatory treatment (or normal trade relations) to the People's Republic of China. The continued extension of normal trade relations (NTR) to China will do much to benefit the United States domestically, while engagement with China will do much to benefit the United States internationally. I urge you vote against House Joint Resolution 57.

SUPPORT FOR BULGARIA, H. CON.
RES. 170

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, House Concurrent Resolution 170 outlines our United States foreign policy towards Bulgaria, notes the objectives of our new, post-Cold War relationship with Bulgaria, and points out some of the positive changes now underway in Bulgaria.

Since elections held in April 1997, the government of Bulgaria has committed itself to making progress on badly-needed economic reforms, fair treatment of all of Bulgaria's citizens, including those from its large ethnic Turkish minority, and Bulgaria's eventual integration into the pan-European and trans-Atlantic community.

However, despite Bulgaria's economic reforms, democratization, and progressive forgivness, the breakup of the Soviet-dominated "COMECON" economic organization, the failure of the previous Bulgarian government to adequately address corrupt activities, the imposition of international sanctions on neighboring Serbia and nearby Iraq during most of this decade have placed serious burdens on the Bulgarian economy.

I believe it is important that the United States recognize and commend Bulgaria's efforts to make progress in the midst of its current economic difficulties. House Concurrent Resolution 170 does that and makes it clear that the United States also supports Bulgaria's eventual integration into pan-European and trans-Atlantic economic and security institutions.

Bulgaria is working hard to overcome the legacy of four decades of communist rule and to assume its proper place in the trans-Atlantic community of states. Accordingly, I strongly encourage my colleagues to support House Concurrent Resolution 170, which I believe to be a recognition of our new relationship with this important country. I submit the text of H.
Con. Res. 170 to be inserted at this point in the RECORD.

H. CON. RES. 170
Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring).

SECTION 1. FINDINGS.
The Congress finds the following:
(1) Elections held in April 1997 in the Republic of Bulgaria brought to office a government committed to full economic reforms, discipline in government budgetary and curcency policies, increased foreign, direct investment in Bulgaria, and energetic efforts to combat corrupt and criminal activities that had undermined previous economic reforms.
(2) The Government of the Republic of Bulgaria has worked to ensure the proper treatment of its citizens, regardless of ethnic background, including those of ethnic Turkish background, many of whom were subjected to forced assimilation campaigns and deportation under the former communist regime in Bulgaria.

(3) The Government of the Republic of Bulgaria has made Bulgaria's integration into pan-European and trans-Atlantic institutions, including the European Union and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), the highest priority of its foreign policy, and has undertaken efforts to promote stability in southeastern Europe and the Black Sea region.

(4) The economy of the Republic of Bulgaria has suffered considerable decline due to the disruption of important markets caused by the break-up of the former, Soviet-dominated "COMECON" economic and trade organization, the application of international sanctions on Iraq, and the failure of the Government of the Republic of Bulgaria to confront widespread corrupt activities prior to the elections of April 1997 that resulted in the theft of large sums from both government and industry and that bankrupted many Bulgarian banks.

(5) The economy of the Republic of Bulgaria has suffered as well from the imposition of international sanctions on neighboring Serbia and continues to suffer from the conflict in that country, which has disrupted commerce throughout the region of southeastern Europe.

The Government of the Republic of Bulgaria has recently taken steps to finalize bilateral agreements with the neighboring Republic of Macedonia, recognized by the

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS
August 2, 1999

RESOLVED, That the Congress of the United States hereby designates that approximately 400,000 American jobs depend on trade with China. Nearly all of China's exports to the United States that jeopardize vast numbers of American jobs.

Additionally, the revocation of China's NTR status would likely simply replace Chinese imports with goods imported from its neighboring markets, harming only the American consumer. Let us also remember that over the past decade, American exports to China have quadrupled to $14.3 billion, a large portion of which is made up by high-technology imports produced in locations such as my district in Silicon Valley.

It is also possible that China might soon gain entrance into the World Trade Organization (WTO), an action that might result in the critical and historic acceptance by Chinese markets of American agricultural and industrial products. The chances of opening these Chinese markets would be severely diminished if the United States were to revoke NTR status at this point.

China also plays an extremely important role in guaranteeing regional security and stability from the Korean Peninsula to the Indian Subcontinent. China's constructive efforts for peace between North and South Korea, and its push for restraint by India and Pakistan in the wake of their nuclear tests, highlight the positive role China is capable of playing in the international arena. And our policy of engagement has exhibited some meaningful success; as a result of our policy China has signed the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty and the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty and joined the Chemical Weapons Convention and the Biological Weapons Convention.

China clearly must take substantial steps to improve its record on human rights and democratization if it wishes to be fully accepted by the international community. Yet only further engagement with China will allow the United States the opportunity to advocate on behalf of its own interests and those of the Chinese people. I urge you vote against House Joint Resolution 57.
United States as the “Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia,” overcoming long-standing dispute over the language to be used in those agreements.

(7) The Government of the Republic of Bulgaria has undertaken to reform Bulgaria’s armed forces, adopting a military doctrine to that effect in March 1999.

(8) The Government of the Republic of Bulgaria has undertaken its continuing support for the mission of NATO in supporting democratization and stability across Europe.

(9) As a result of the conflict in Serbia with respect to the region of Kosovo, the Republic of Bulgaria has accepted several thousand refugees from the conflict.

SEC. 2. POLICY TOWARD THE REPUBLIC OF BULGARIA.

It is the policy of the United States—

(1) to promote the development in the Republic of Bulgaria of a market-based democratic government that respects the rights of all of its citizens, regardless of ethnic background;

(2) to support the territorial integrity of the Republic of Bulgaria;

(3) to insist that the territorial integrity of the Republic of Bulgaria be respected by neighboring countries and by all political movements within and outside Bulgaria; and

(4) to support the integration of the Republic of Bulgaria into pan-European and trans-Atlantic economic and security institutions.

SEC. 3. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the Government of the Republic of Bulgaria is to be commended for its efforts to ensure proper treatment of all of its citizens, regardless of ethnic background, particularly those of ethnic Turkish background;

(2) the Government of the Republic of Bulgaria is to be commended—

(A) for its efforts to accelerate the privatization of state-owned enterprises in a fair and transparent process;

(B) for its establishment of a currency board to ensure the value of the Bulgarian currency; and

(C) for its efforts to combat corrupt and criminal activities that undermine reforms and the viability of Bulgaria’s government and industry;

(3) the Government of the Republic of Bulgaria should continue to implement programs that may qualify Bulgaria for entrance into the European Union and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and is to be commended for its continuing support of the NATO effort to ensure stability and democratization across Europe;

(4) the Republic of Bulgaria is suffering the adverse economic impact of the disruption of commerce in southeastern Europe and an influx of refugees caused by the conflict in neighboring Serbia;

(5) the Government of the Republic of Bulgaria should undertake steps to immediately halt any illicit transfer of arms and military equipment that occur in Bulgaria or may cross Bulgarian territory;

(6) the Republic of Bulgaria should play a central role in any effort by the NATO to create a joint peacekeeping military unit involving personnel from throughout the countries of southeastern Europe or in the creation of facilities in support of such a peacekeeping unit;

(7) the United States should join other official creditors of the Republic of Bulgaria in providing Bulgaria with relief from such official debt through rescheduling and, where appropriate, forgiveness.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. NICK J. RAHALL II OF WEST VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, on Thursday, July 29, 1999, I inadvertently voted “no” on rollover vote No. 352, the Moakley amendment to prohibit any funding for the U.S. Army School of the Americas at Fort Benning, GA. As a cosponsor of legislation calling for the closure of the School of the Americas, and having consistently voted to prohibit funding for the School of the Americas in the past, I fully intended to cast my vote in favor of the Moakley amendment, rollover vote No. 352.

TRIBUTE TO HUGH CHISOLM DALE
HON. SONNY CALLAHAN
OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Hugh Chisolm Dale who received the honorary Doctor of Humanities degree on May 15, 1999, from Erskine College in Due West, South Carolina.

Without question, Hugh Dale is one of Erskine’s most loyal alumni, and one of South Carolina’s most outstanding citizens. Erskine awarded him the Alumni Distinguished Service Award in 1972 and the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award in 1987. In addition, he served as a member of the Erskine Board of Trustees for twelve years, and was Chairman of the Board from 1967 to 1969.

While he is naturally proud of his relationship to his alma mater, Mr. Dale has also been a one-man chamber of commerce for his hometown of Camden, Alabama. He retired as senior vice President with the Camden National Bank in 1973, having started with the bank back in 1951. In this capacity, he was often called upon to help lead numerous civic and community events which, in turn, helped the growth and development of Camden and Wilcox County.

Mr. Dale is the son of Hugh Henry Dale and Lillie Packer Chisolm and was born in Camden in 1911. He was valedictorian of the 1928 Wilcox County High School class and graduated cum laude from Erskine with a BA in chemistry in 1932. In 1935, he received a Master of Arts degree, also in chemistry, from Columbia University.

The first ten years after graduation were spent teaching school in Alabama, South Carolina, and Georgia. He then served in the United States Air Force as a preflight instructor during the Second World War, rising to the rank of major. For the five years immediately following the war he worked for the Veterans Administration in Montgomery. After that, he returned to his hometown of Camden, where he has lived ever since.

Mr. Dale is married to the former Margaret Isabel Ware, and they have two daughters, Margaret Caroline Dale Austin and Jane Shelton Dale, both of whom also graduated from Erskine College. He has been a deacon and elder in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, in Camden, where he served for years as its treasurer.

Mr. Speaker, Hugh Dale is a man of the highest moral character, and he has lived his entire life with the aim of serving his fellow man. It is appropriate that Erskine College recognized one of its most outstanding alumni in this way, and it is a tribute for a job well done.

I salute Mr. Dale for his many lifetime achievements, and wish him only good health and God’s Blessings as he continues on life’s journey.

SUPPORT FOR ROMANIA, H. CON. RES. 169

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, House Concurrent Resolution 169 outlines our United States foreign policy towards Romania, recognizes the strides Romania has taken in economic and political reforms since the end of the cold war, recognizes the steps Romania has taken to improve relations with its neighbors and to prepare itself for eventual integration into the pan-European and trans-Atlantic communities, and urges Romania forward in its reforms, despite its current economic difficulties.

Mr. Speaker, although Romania had taken reform-oriented steps early in this decade, the elections of November 1996, the first since 1937 that led to a peaceful transfer of power under a democratic system, provided a fresh opportunity to push reforms forward. These reforms undertaken in the midst of economic hardship made worse by corruption, criminal activities, and the disruptions in commerce in southeast Europe caused by international sanctions and military actions against neighboring Serbia, have a long way to go.

I believe, however, that it is important to encourage Romania to continue with its reforms. I also believe that it should be our policy to support Romania’s eventual integration into pan-European and trans-Atlantic economic and security institutions. In this regard, I note that Romania was the very first country to join NATO’s “Partnership for Peace” program and that it has spent most of this decade working to reform its military and adopt procedures for its military forces that are compatible with those of the NATO alliance.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly encourage my colleagues to support House Concurrent Resolution 169, an important statement of United States support for Romania, for its program of reforms, and for its eventual integration into the trans-Atlantic community. I submit that the text of H. Con. Res. 169 be inserted at this point in the RECORD.

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring).

The Congress finds the following:

19093

19093

19093

19093

19093
(1) Romania has negotiated, agreed to, and ratified an bilateral treaty with the neighboring Republic of Hungary that recognizes the borders of those two countries and provides for the protection of the civil liberties of citizens who are members of national minorities.

(2) Romania has negotiated, agreed to, and ratified an important bilateral treaty with neighboring Ukraine that recognizes the borders of those two countries.

(3) The November 1996 electoral change in the Government of Romania was the first such change under a democratic political system in Romania since 1937.

(4) Romania was the first country to join the “Partnership for Peace” program of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). In January 1994, has since become an active participant in that program, is a member of NATO’s Euro-Atlantic Partnership Council, and has been an active participant in NATO’s Cooperative Partnership Program.

(5) The Government of Romania has worked to ensure civilian control over its armed forces and has begun to implement military reform through force reductions, re-organization of officer ranks, and adoption of NATO-compatible procedures.

(6) Romania has provided military personnel for participation in and support of multinational peacekeeping operations.

(7) The Government of Romania has stated its continuing support for the mission of NATO in supporting democratization and stability across Europe.

SEC. 2. POLICY TOWARD ROMANIA.

It is the policy of the United States—

(1) to promote the development of Romania into an economy and a democratic government that respects the rights of all of its citizens, regardless of ethnic background;

(2) to support the territorial integrity of Romania and to insist that the territorial integrity of Romania be respected by all neighboring countries and by all political movements within and outside Romania; and

(3) to support the integration of Romania into the European Union and into the European Union.

SEC. 3. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.

It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the United States should support efforts by Romania to integrate into the European Union and into the European Union and should recognize the importance of those two countries.

(2) Romania is to be commended for its continuing support for the mission of NATO and for its continuing support for democratic political systems in the region.

(3) the Government of Romania should continue to work to achieve bilateral treaties with the neighboring countries and by all political movements within and outside Romania; and

(4) the United States should join other official creditors of Romania in providing Romania with relief from such official debt through rescheduling and, where appropriate, forgiveness.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. JULIA CARSON OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Ms. CARSON. Mr. Speaker, I was unavoidably absent for one vote on Friday, July 30, 1999, missing roll call vote 355. Had I been present, I would have voted “yea.”

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT A. GUTHANS

HON. SONNY CALLAHAN OF ALABAMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Bobby Guthans a respected leader in his field, an outstanding citizen in our community and quite frankly, as fine a gentleman as I have ever known. On a personal note, I am also pleased and honored to call Bobby Guthans my friend.

Bobby recently retired as president of Midstream Fuel Inc., Petroleum Energy Products Co., and Tenn-Tom Towing Co. As one of the founders of Midstream back in 1974, Bobby helped build a company that soon became recognized around the world as one of the innovative leaders in the maritime industry.

Bobby’s success at Midstream didn’t just happen because he’s a nice guy with a great outlook on life, although he is certainly that.

It was the product of hard work, a good business head on his shoulders and a work ethic and respect for others that is second-to-none. In addition, Bobby, and his lovely wife Barbara Ann, come from the old school who believe “it’s better to give than receive.”

As such, they have volunteered literally untold hours in worthy civic and charitable endeavors, always with the attitude that it is right to give something back to your community and to your fellow man. Both Bobby and Barbara Ann are without peers when it comes to their generosity.

While being a first-class CEO, as well as a wonderful husband, father and grandfather, Bobby has also found time to hold down many important positions of leadership in his industry as well as his community. Some of these include: Chairman of the Board of American Waterways Operators; Chairman of the Southern Region of the AWO; Chairman of the Board of the Mobile Area Chamber of Commerce; Director of the Executive Committee of the Warrior-Tombigbee Development Association; and Director of the World Dredging Association.

In addition, he is on the boards of the Mobile Economic Development Council, the Mobile Industrial Development Board, the National Waterways Conference, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Alabama, the Geological Survey of Alabama and the Navy League of Mobile.

Bobby’s community spirit has not gone without notice or thanks. Earlier this year, the U.S. Coast Guard bestowed upon Bobby its second-highest honor, the Meritorious Public Service Commendation. In addition, he has received the Alfred F. Delchamps, Jr. Award and the National Rivers Hall of Fame Achievement Award. In 1990, the Propeller Club named him Maritime Man of the Year. Bobby Guthans is a native of Mobile and is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute, where he was commissioned as an Army officer and spent the next two years fighting for his country in the Korean Conflict. Today, Bobby serves on the board of VMI, as well as on the board of Spring Hill College in Mobile.

There are few people in the life of Mobile who have given as much, and as often, as Bobby Guthans. Today, Bobby has chosen to spend a little more time with his bride of 40-plus years, their two children, Robert A. Guthans, Jr. and Jean Guthans Wilkins, and their five beautiful grandchildren. But that doesn’t mean he’s going to have a lot of free time on his hands, for Bobby doesn’t know how to slow down. As he recently told a reporter from the Mobile Register, “I’ve got to be doing something. I’m not the kind of person who can spend his days hitting golf balls around.”

Mr. Speaker, that’s good news for Mobile, Alabama. For if you think about all that Bobby Guthans has been able to do for his community, his state and his nation while he was also running a multi-million dollar corporation, just think what he’ll be able to do now that he doesn’t have to show up to work at seven o’clock in the morning.

Mr. Speaker, I salute Bobby Guthans. He’s a good man and a wonderful role model for us all.

THE PASSING OF FATHER PETER LAPPIN

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, August 2, 1999

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I deeply regret informing our colleagues of the passing of one of the most remarkable and accomplished residents of my 20th Congressional District of New York.

Father Peter Lappin, the author of 17 books on Christian theology, has been considered the spiritual leader of the Irish community in my congressional district. He long served as chaplain to the Rockland County Ancient Order of Hibernians and was a longtime supporter of the peace process in Ireland.

Father Peter Lappin devoted his life to the Salesian Fathers of which he was a member. He resided at the Marian Shrine and Don Bosco Retreat in Rockland County for over 25 years. He had first taken his vows as a Salesian of Don Bosco back in 1933, and lived in our Hudson Valley region of New York since 1956.

Father Lappin, who was 88 years young when a heart attack claimed him suddenly yesterday, was born in Belfast. He attended the Belfast School of Technology, the
