

Harvey went on from his school board position to a brief two years on the East Detroit City Council, before being elected mayor in 1987. Harvey oversaw the city's name transition from East Detroit to Eastpointe. Balancing the city's old community roots with the younger generation's vision of the city's future proved no easy tasks. Under Harvey's guidance, the name change transition went smoothly and the city has gained a new sense of identity.

I have always looked forward to seeing Harvey at every event and civic function I have attended in Eastpointe, and plan on seeing him at many more. Though he may be retiring from office, Harvey will not be retiring from public life. While he will be missed at City Hall, he will continue to be an active part of the community he loves. He will surely remain active in his Baptist Church planning pancake breakfasts and working with the choir. Harvey will remain a friend of the city, either through the youth sports program at the new City Recreation Center or at the Eastpointe Senior Center, both of which he helped create.

Harvey Curley's tenure as mayor has seen Eastpointe through the decade of the 90's and he leaves the city well prepared for the coming century. Please join me in wishing Harvey and his lovely wife, Carole, a relaxing and enjoyable retirement.

TRIBUTE TO TEMPLE B'NAI
SHOLOM IN HUNTSVILLE, AL

HON. ROBERT E. (BUD) CRAMER, JR.

OF ALABAMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 27, 1999

Mr. CRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to an institution in my district that has contributed substantially to the cultural, intellectual and religious enrichment of North Alabama, Temple B'nai Sholom. On November 12, the Congregation B'nai Sholom will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the dedication of its historic synagogue with a special Shabbat (Sabbath) service.

Thirty-two families came together in 1876 in Huntsville to form the Congregation and mobilized, dedicating their synagogue in 1899. I am proud to relay that Temple B'nai Sholom is the oldest synagogue in Alabama in continuous use. The Temple is also the only congregation affiliated with the Reform Movement in North Alabama and South Central Tennessee.

B'nai Sholom ("Sons of Peace"), the chosen name of the Temple, communicates the congregation's commitment to harmony and reconciliation. Temple B'nai Sholom has given to their community in countless ways. As members of the Interfaith Mission Service, the Temple contributes to the cause of religious tolerance in North Alabama. The Sisterhood of Temple B'nai Sholom should be commended for their efforts to raise money for breast cancer awareness and health initiatives through their design and sale of the L'Chaim pins. The Sisterhood designed the L'Chaim pin to symbolize Jewish support for breast cancer victims and survivors.

For a century, the Temple B'nai Sholom's commitment to the reform tradition has bolstered the religious community of North Alabama. Their established presence in downtown Huntsville is a testament to their perseverance and good will. I congratulate the Temple B'nai Sholom, and wish the Congregation a special centennial commemoration.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a man who during his 19 years, has made many outstanding contributions to his community, Reverend Robert Nelson, Jr. Reverend Nelson, Jr. has served as pastor of Bethel A.M.E. He also administers the Bethel Learning Academy, a childcare facility setup to target high school drop outs, low to moderate income families and children with special needs.

Along with his work for the church and the community, Reverend Nelson, Jr. also served his country. He is a three year army veteran who courageously fought in the Vietnam War. When he returned home from his service in Vietnam, he helped establish the Crosstown Fellowship in Crittenden County which holds services in the community every second Sunday. This ministry has helped several hundred families with housing and utilities expenses.

Reverend Robert Nelson, Jr. is the recipient of several awards such as the Arkansas Certificate of Merit for his outstanding service to the people of Arkansas while serving on the Governor's Arkansas Highway Safety Advisory Council. TRIBUTE TO HOWARD J.
RUBENSTEIN ON THE 45TH ANNI-VERSARY OF RUBENSTEIN ASSO-CIATES

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the extraordinary talents and contributions of Howard J. Rubenstein. This evening, some two thousand government, civic, and corporate leaders will celebrate the 45th anniversary of Mr. Rubenstein's firm, Rubenstein Associates, Inc.

Howard Rubenstein has been dubbed by Newsweek Magazine as the "Dean of Damage Control", one of America's foremost public relations consultants. His clients constitute a cross section of influential individuals and organizations, from Disney/ABC to novelist Danielle Steel, from the New York Yankees to the Duchess of York. Rubenstein's brilliance, insights, and innovative strategies have earned him great respect in the United States and around the world.

Mr. Speaker, my profound admiration for Howard Rubenstein is a consequence not of his public relations skills, but rather of his passionate commitment to using his talents for the benefit of his community and his country. His public service has affected a sweeping range of civic and cultural priorities. Mr. Rubenstein is currently an advisor to the New York City Commission on the Status of Women, and he is a member of the City University of New York Business Advisory Board, the board of directors of the Center for Democracy, and the Inner-City Scholarship Fund of the Archdiocese of New York.

Howard has also served on the Mayor's Committee on Business & Economic Development for New York Mayors Abraham Beame, David Dinkins, and Rudolph Giuliani, and he is currently a trustee of the Alliance for the Arts, the March of Dimes New York Chapter, the Central Park Conservancy, and the Police Athletic League. In an era when business leaders all too often fail to demonstrate a devotion to the needs of our society, Howard Rubenstein's contributions stand as a model for all others.

Mr. Speaker, one particular episode stands out in my reflection upon Howard Rubenstein's service to his community. In 1991, the Brooklyn community of Crown Heights exploded in a chain reaction of violence, riots, and ever-mounting divisions between the area's African-American and Hasidic Jewish populations. These disputes divided the city and received national attention, emphasizing the difficulties of racial reconciliation. Responding to a request for his assistance from Mayor David Dinkins and other city leaders, Rubenstein undertook the difficult task of diffusing the tensions between African-Americans and Jews.

He organized a "Peace Conference" in Crown Heights, and then planned a special "Neighbor to Neighbor" event at the Apollo Theater in Harlem. More than 1,300 people—both Jews and African-Americans—viewed a showing of "The Liberators," a film which depicts the liberation of Nazi concentration camps by African-American soldiers. The
