

would not help Rutland Fire Clay Company reduce this [asbestos litigation] burden, nor would it help other small businesses with thousands of claims. . . . Under S. 758 costs would be apportioned to Rutland Fire Clay Company equally, and thus higher, than under the current system."

Mr. Martin continues: "The advertisement's heading gave the impression that our family business would be 'ruined' and that our 22 employees would be out of work. The truth is that we have worked out a consensual bankruptcy plan which recognizes the value of Rutland Fire Clay Company and its employees. No jobs will be lost and we will continue to serve the fireplace and home repair markets as we have for 116 years."

Finally, Mr. Martin notes: "our firm in no way assisted in preparation of the CAR advertisement nor did we have any knowledge of it until your office sent me a copy."

I ask unanimous consent that the full text of Thomas Martin's letter to me be printed in the RECORD at the conclusion of my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(See exhibit 2.)

Mr. LEAHY. I have met with Tom Martin of the Rutland Fire Clay Company and corresponded with him about asbestos litigation. Mr. Martin should be commended for reaching a settlement with his insurers and the trial bar concerning his firm's asbestos problems. Unlike some big businesses that are trying to avoid any accountability for their asbestos responsibilities through national legislation, Mr. Martin and the Rutland Fire Clay Company are trying to do the right thing within the legal system.

Mr. Martin plans to lead the Rutland Fire Clay Company from bankruptcy next year as a stronger firm with a solid financial foundation for the 21st Century. I applaud Tom Martin and the employees of the Rutland Fire Clay Company for their efforts.

Mr. President, I am willing to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle and with interested parties to craft fair legislation to help victims and businesses, large and small, affected by asbestos. But exploiting the bankruptcy filing of a small firm in Vermont and using misleading advertisements to promote a flawed bill are not the right ways to advance our consideration of this issue, and they are certainly not an admirable way to attempt to sway opinion in or outside of this body.

I believe the 240 special interest organizations that sponsored this advertisement owe an apology to Tom Martin and the other Vermonters who work for the Rutland Fire Clay Company, and I will remind them of that obligation until they offer that apology.

RUTLAND FIRE CLAY FILES FOR CHAP. 11

HOW ASBESTOS LITIGATION RUINED A FAMILY BUSINESS: 22 EMPLOYEES AND 50,000 LAWSUITS

Asbestos lawyers would have you believe that only billion dollar companies are affected by the asbestos nightmare. But in reality, more than 300 small businesses, as well as large ones, find themselves today enmeshed in the asbestos litigation mess. This spiraling litigation—filed largely by non-sick claimants who may have been exposed to asbestos, as have a majority of all Americans, but have no physical symptoms or impairment—continues to drive firms to bankruptcy or its brink.

Just last week, Rutland Fire Clay, a small family-owned Vermont manufacturer of furnace and wood stove repair cements, was forced into bankruptcy as a result of what it termed "the crushing burden of asbestos related lawsuits."

You should know these facts about the Rutland Fire Clay case:

Rutland Fire Clay, with its 22 employees, is a small, 116 year-old family business, in Rutland, Vermont.

The business was started in 1883 by Rufus Perkins and his two sons and has manufactured, for more than 100 years, a cement material for use in the repair of furnaces and residential wood stoves sold through hardware stores. The product originally contained a very small amount of encapsulated asbestos, although Rutland discontinued the use of asbestos in its products almost 30 years ago.

Since 1984, there have been 50,000 asbestos cases filed against the company, and 37,000 remain pending today—most of these cases involving non-sick claimants.

The company has estimated its liability for current and future asbestos claims at $67 million, with assets of only $3 million.

Thomas Martin, the firm's president, said in a Rutland press interview last week, that if it weren't for asbestos claims, the 116 year-old company would never have wound up in bankruptcy. He described business as "excellent," with the company expecting a record sales year.

The Rutland Fire Clay case is a stark example of what happens in the asbestos litigation world today. Asbestos lawyers continue to draw from an almost limitless pool of potential defendants by targeting, with the touch of a word processing button, small and large companies—many with only a tangential association to asbestos. These "asbestos" defendants include local building products distributors, home remodeling centers, "mom and pop" hardware stores, and other unsuspecting companies who manufactured, or only distributed, products that may have contained nominal amounts of asbestos in a component part of end products, such as forklifts, cranes, gaskets, grinding wheels, lawnmower engines, etc.

While the principal focus of the bipartisan Fairness in Asbestos Compensation Act is, as it should be, on the rights of deserving asbestos victims, we believe that the interests of the hundreds of large and small businesses affected by this national travesty, their employees, pensioners, communities who depend upon them, and their millions of shareholders warrant your support of the Act as well.

EXHIBIT No. 2

RUTLAND FIRE CLAY COMPANY,
Rutland, VT, October 29, 1999.

HON. PATRICK J. LEAHY,
U.S. Senate, Russell Senate Office Building,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR LEAHY: Thank you for sending me the recent advertisement produced by the Coalition for Asbestos Resolution (CAR) that is using our recent bankruptcy filing in its campaign in support of S. 758 and its companion, H.R. 1283.

We presently have over 37,000 lawsuits pending against us and we have approximately $4 million of insurance and $2 million in assets. For small firms such as ours with limited remaining insurance and minimal assets, the burden of claims is indeed crushing as quoted in the CAR advertisement. However, I reviewed this bill and my opinion is it would not help Rutland Fire Clay Company reduce this burden, nor would it help any other small business with thousands of claims. As an example under section 601 apportionment of costs for the ARC are addressed. Potential disputes could easily arise between defendants as to their respective share of costs. Our company cannot afford the expense of litigation if disagreement with the large defendants is the result. In addition, our historical costs per claim processed for defense and indemnity have been very low relative to that of other defendant companies. Under S. 758 costs would be apportioned to Rutland Fire Clay Company equally, and thus higher, than under the current system.

The advertisement's headline gave the impression that our family business would be "ruined" and that our 22 employees would be out of work. The truth is that we have worked out a consensual bankruptcy plan which recognizes the value of Rutland Fire Clay Company and its employees. No jobs will be lost and we will continue to serve the fireplace and home repair markets as we have for 116 years.

Lastly, our firm in no way assisted in preparation of the CAR advertisement nor did we have any knowledge of it until your office sent me a copy.

Thank you,
Sincerely,

THOMAS P. MARTIN,
President.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

At 12:36 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Mr. Berry, one of its reading clerks, announced that the House disagrees to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1180) to amend the Social Security Act to expand the availability of health care coverage for working individuals with disabilities, to establish a Ticket to Work and Self-Sufficiency Program in the Social Security Administration to provide such individuals with meaningful opportunities to work, and for other purposes, and agrees to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon; and appoints Mr. ARCHER, Mr. BLILEY, Mr. ARMEY, Mr. RANGEL, and Mr. DINGELL as the managers of the conference on the part of the House.
