WOMEN’S HEALTH GETS MORE ATTENTION—ASSISTANT SURGEON GENERAL SPEAKS ON ADVANCES

(By Adam Silverman)

Although mammograms are responsible for saving the lives of thousands of women every year, the technology is 40 years old and still misses the crucial early warning signs of breast cancer.

That was the challenge facing Susan Blumenthal, assistant surgeon general of the United States, Thursday, when she was asked to discuss new technology to improve the success of mammograms.

"Some of the same imaging technology used to find tanks camouflaged behind trees can now be used to find cancer cells," she said. Blumenthal was in Greeley on Thursday to deliver the keynote address at a conference about women’s health.

The conference, held at the University of Northern Colorado, featured a variety of panelists who discussed everything from ano-retia to breast cancer to political action.

Blumenthal handed a "report card" on women’s health in the country today: The biggest problem facing women isn’t any one disease, but instead is a lack of focus on women’s health.

"We must address these issues if we want to safeguard women’s health," she said.

The problems stem from the fact that women’s health issues also are political issues, said Raissa Geary, a member of the United States Senate, delivered by one of its reading clerks, announced that the House has passed the following bills, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate:

H.R. 1259. An act to amend the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 to protect Social Security surpluses through strengthened budgetary enforcement mechanisms.

H.R. 1915. An act to provide grants to the States to improve the reporting of unidentified and missing persons.

The message further announced that pursuant to section 334(b)(1) of Public Law 105-220 and the order of the House of Thursday, May 27, 1999, and upon the recommendation of the Minority Leader, the Speaker appoints the following member on the part of the House to the Twenty-First Century Workforce Commission: Mr. David L. Stewart of St. Louis, Missouri.

The message also announced that pursuant to the provisions of 22 U.S.C. 276d, the Speaker appoints the following Members of the House to the Canada-United States Interparliamentary Group, in addition to Mr. HUGH-ton of New York, Chairman, appointed on February 11, 1999: Mr. GILMAN of New York, Vice Chairman, Mr. OBER-STAR of Minnesota, Mr. SHAW of Flor-ida, Mr. LIPINSKI of Illinois, Ms. Slaughter of New York, Mr. UPTON of Michigan, Mr. STEARNS of Florida, Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota, Ms. DANNER of Missouri, Mr. MANZULLO of Illinois, and Mr. ENGLISH of Pennsylvania.
