

Denise and Kyle Marx are parents of Nicholas, a ten-year-old boy with Angelman's Syndrome. Those familiar with special needs children know the demands, but also the tremendous blessings that Nicholas has bestowed on his family. Due to recent events, the need to better understand and treat this disorder has become obvious. Today, Nicholas is in a coma and has only a few months to live after being administered medication that caused an allergic reaction. This happened, in part, because those with Angelman's Syndrome are unable to communicate pain or discomfort and Nicholas was powerless to express the effects that the medication was having on his body. Today, I am asking Congress to make efforts to provide for research so that Angelman's Syndrome can be better understood and treated more effectively.

Angelman's Syndrome is a genetic disorder usually caused by a small deletion of molecules on the long arm of the fifteenth chromosome. In some rare cases, Angelman's can also be caused when a child inherits both long arms of the fifteenth chromosome from the father. The effects of this disease include speech impairment, with minimal or almost no use of words, movement and balance disorder, including a stiff gait and tremulous movement of the limbs, behavioral uniqueness, including excitability, frequent laughter and smiling, flapping movements, and a short attention span. More than 80% of people with Angelman's Syndrome have a delayed or disproportionately slow growth in head circumference and seizures that begin around the age of three. Many other cases include symptoms such as hypopigmentation of the skin and eyes, sucking and swallowing disorders, wide mouth, hyperactive tendon reflexes, sensitivity to heat, and sleep disturbances.

One of the most difficult aspects of Angelman's Syndrome is that the disease is usually not recognized at birth. Diagnosis often does not occur until the child is between the ages of three and seven, when the characteristics become evident. Those with Angelman's Syndrome are born with a normal prenatal history and no major birth defects.

It was only 35 years ago that Dr. Harry Angelman, an English physician, diagnosed Angelman's Syndrome for the first time. The first reports of the disease in North America did not begin to appear until the 1980's. Until very recently, many doctors considered Angelman's Syndrome to be extremely rare and some even doubted its existence. Thankfully, through the Human Genome Project, we have been able to gain a better understanding of this disease. However, we still have a long way to go until we fully understand Angelman's Syndrome.

While we now know that Angelman's Syndrome affects anywhere between 1 in 10,000 and 1 in 30,000, we still have much to learn about the disease and its symptoms. Angelman's Syndrome is only diagnosed through genetic laboratory testing. However, it is often misdiagnosed and mistaken for autism. We need to work toward a better and more comprehensive understanding of the disease, its causes, and the best way to treat it. It is my hope that through research, we can come to understand and effectively treat Angelman's Syndrome and that the medical community will develop guidelines for treating patients with these conditions.

IN RECOGNITION OF JAMES FORSYTH—AN EXEMPLARY ACTIVIST

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, today I ask my colleagues to join me in paying recognition to a true progressive activist, Jim Forsyth. As Jim continues to fight tirelessly for labor, the environment, housing, seniors, and civil rights, he is an ever-present voice speaking out wherever there is injustice or human need.

Jim was born on July 14, 1927, Bastille Day in Brooklyn, New York. After graduating from Williams College, where he joined the progressive movement, Jim came to California's Bay Area to work on the assembly line in General Motors. Jim and his late wife Fran were the dutiful parents of five children.

Jim is a member of several progressive groups and organizations. He is proud to have been a part of the pro-union group, the Plant Closure Project. Jim is secretary of the South Hayward Parish and was in charge of food distribution at the Parish for ten years. He distributed food every Saturday morning and most Wednesday. He is currently secretary of the Congress for Seniors handling mailing and developing flyers—many times at his own expense. Jim also lends his expertise to the California Consumers Health Care Council and the Californians for Justice. In 1967, Jim founded the Progressive Hayward Demos Democratic Club and is the current newsletter editor. His other memberships include the Starr King Universal Unitarian Church, the Federation of Retired Union Members, and Vote Health.

Jim has been a long-time opponent of war as a means of solving economic or social problems. He began by speaking out against the Korean War and continued with the Vietnam War when Jim, Fran, and their children marched in numerous protests.

In all of these groups and activities for elections and social change, Jim Forsyth works tirelessly, willingly, and with enthusiasm. He is proud of his work. This is his life and his recreation. He feels responsible for attempting to make the world a better place for working people.

Jim's friends and colleagues will honor his work on October 19, 2000 at a public ceremony. I join his friends and admirers in thanking him for his years of service and I am proud that he has been my friend for several years.

TRIBUTE TO WORKING WARDROBES

HON. LORETTA SANCHEZ

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Ms. SANCHEZ. Mr. Speaker: Today, I rise to pay tribute to one of Orange County's outstanding community service groups, Working Wardrobes. Working Wardrobes is dedicated to assisting survivors of domestic violence achieve self-sufficiency in their lives.

Working Wardrobes began in 1990 when six Orange County business women decided to initiative a program which would help victims of domestic violence regain their dignity, integrity and self-respect. Over 60,000 women in Orange County are severely beaten each year as a result of domestic violence. This cycle of domestic violence also affects children who are 1,000 times more likely to become abusers themselves.

Through programs such as Career/Life Skills Workshops and Annual "Days of Self-Esteem", survivors are given the extra edge they need to be successful in their search for a career and the confidence needed to make changes in their lives.

Colleagues, please join with me today in recognizing Working Wardrobes for excellence in providing victims of domestic violence with educational programs that have given them a new beginning in life.

CELEBRATING TAFT, CALIFORNIA,
90TH BIRTHDAY

HON. WILLIAM M. THOMAS

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I want to join my friends and constituents in the community of Taft, California in celebrating Taft's 90th birthday. On November 7th, Taft will be 90 years old and the town has come together to celebrate that fact as part of this year's Oildorado Days celebration, entitled "Blowout 2000". It is a proud celebration of the community's history and ties to the California oil industry.

Taft is an oil town, pure and simple. From the time of oil's discovery in the area in the 1860s, the area around this small western Kern County community has been the focus of oil production. Some of the biggest producing fields in the lower 48 states are located around Taft, fields like Midway-Sunset, Cymric, the Belridge Fields, Buena Vista and Elk Hills. Kern County, California produces more oil than the State of Oklahoma and the people of Taft do much of the work that makes the county so very productive.

The Oildorado celebration Taft holds every five years is one way the community celebrates its link to energy production and lets its hair down—literally, since there is a beard growing contest. People who work hard producing energy get together to celebrate their commitment to a very tough trade. I hope my colleagues will join me in celebrating their pride in their work and in their town with them.

FUNDING FOR PUERTO RICO
STATUS OPTIONS

HON. GEORGE MILLER

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I was very pleased that the House passed FY 2001 Department of Transportation Appropriations bill which included the President's request of $2.5 million to assist in public education on, and a public choice among, political status options for Puerto Rico. This request was first left out of the FY 2001 Treasury Appropriations bill but the Transportation Conferees saw fit to restore this funding request during their negotiations.

Puerto Rico has been a part of the United States for more than a century. Over the course of this period, the Puerto Rican people have participated in our democracy. Their sons and daughters have fought our wars and their political leaders keep issues that affect Puerto Rico on the surface of our political discourse. Most importantly, the richness of their people and culture have become a part of what is good about America.

After gaining U.S. citizenship in 1917 and eventually adopting their own constitution to increase self-government, the people of Puerto Rico have consistently sought to fully express their political desires through self-determination. In the past 30 years, Puerto Rico has held three plebiscites to gauge the people's preference on a future political status.

Because of their current status, Congress is responsible for assisting Puerto Rico in their status efforts. In 1999, the House Resources Committee issued a bipartisan report that concluded Federal action is needed to establish a process for resolving Puerto Rico's status.

Congress has a responsibility to remain objective and work with the people of Puerto Rico about the status choices. We should ensure that any option put before the voters of Puerto Rico is acceptable to Congress and we should also make certain that the Puerto Rican electorate is well-informed and educated on what each option can mean to their future.

The funding made available to the President in the FY 2001 Department of Transportation bill is a good step toward assisting with any future plebiscite in Puerto Rico. Congress must now be truthful with the people of Puerto Rico on what their options are and in assuring that Congress will stand by those decisions. We must remain mindful that the United States claimed Puerto Rico. There is no "us against them"—they are part of "us." Puerto Rico self-determination will happen and it is our responsibility that within that process we ensure that the residents of Puerto Rico are fully educated on each status option.

TRIBUTE TO CONGRESSMAN TOM BLILEY

SPEECH OF

HON. F. JAMES SENSENBRENNER, JR.

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 12, 2000

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to our distinguished colleague, the Chairman of the Commerce Committee, the gentleman from Virginia, Representative TOM BLILEY. TOM BLILEY has served his constituents in Virginia for over 30 years, both on the local and national levels. His dedication to public service has taken him from the Richmond City Council, to the position of Mayor of Richmond, and then to this House where he has risen to chair this body's oldest committee.

Throughout his legislative career, TOM BLILEY has accumulated a list of accomplishments most of us can barely imagine. For the last six years, he has led one of the most successful, efficient, and constructive committees in Congress. He oversaw passage of the Telecommunications Act of 1996, which brought fairness, competition, and increased consumer choice to the industry. He led the charge to override President Clinton's veto of the Contract with America, at the same time overhauling and reforming the nation's securities laws. Finally, TOM BLILEY led the effort needed to pass the Mammography Standard Act of 1998, life-saving legislation that will ensure the quality of many women's lives for years to come.

These are only a few of the legislative accomplishments we attribute to our colleague from Virginia. They illustrate his commitment to sound fiscal principles, a balanced budget, increased opportunities for individuals and small business owners, and common sense government. More importantly, they are among the reasons that TOM BLILEY's constituents know that they can count on him to look after their best interests.

I know I join TOM BLILEY's many friends in Virginia's Seventh Congressional District, as well as his many friends and colleagues here in the House, in wishing him the best in the years to come. He has served us well, and we will all miss the dedication and leadership he brought to his work.

TRIBUTE TO GWEN SESSIONS

HON. JOHN T. DOOLITTLE

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 17, 2000

Mr. DOOLITTLE. Mr. Speaker, today, I stand to recognize an outstanding public servant in my district. She is a woman who has dedicated her life to not only raising her own four children, but also teaching and nurturing many small children in her community. I wish to recognize my good personal friend Gwen Sessions who was recently named Elementary School Teacher of the Year in the Rocklin Unified School District.

As a kindergarten teacher at Antelope Creek Elementary School, Gwen has touched countless lives for good, both directly and indirectly. She has contributed many hours of behind-the-scenes work by participating in numerous district and school site committees. More importantly, she has earned praise from students, parents, and colleagues for her inspirational style of teaching. She sets clear boundaries for the children and reinforces positive behavior through praise. She is also known for maintaining a well organized yet stimulating classroom that is full of color. In fact, one of her fellow teachers has said, "Her room is a learning lab which exudes personal enthusiasm and warmth. She has an ability to motivate students beyond their natural abilities and helps them reach their greatest potential." As a testament to Mrs. Sessions' involved approach to teaching, one parent has said, "It is not uncommon to find Mrs. Sessions with red painted hands, bright colored clothes, and tiny little hands embraced around her."
