The We the People . . . The Citizen and the Constitution program is an extensive educational program developed specifically to educate young people about the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The three-day national competition is modeled after hearings in the U.S. Congress. These hearings consist of oral presentations by high school students before a panel of adult judges. The students testify as constitutional experts before a panel of judges representing various regions of the country and a variety of appropriate fields. The students' testimony is followed by a period of questioning by the simulated congressional committee. The judges probe students for their depth of understanding and ability to apply their constitutional knowledge.

I would like to congratulate the class from Westminister Christian Academy on their exemplary performance at the We the People . . . national finals. I wish these young "constitutional experts" from Missouri the best of luck in their future endeavors.●
