TRIBUTE TO JACK JEFFREY

- Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to honor John E. Jeffrey as he retires from a distinguished career of service to the people of Nevada.

I have known Jack since we were teenagers attending Basic High School in Henderson, NV. He is a talented electrician, a compassionate public servant, and a dedicated family man. Jack is also a friend.

Jack’s public service began three decades ago, when he was elected to the Henderson City Council in 1971. Working to expand educational opportunity has been a central tenet of Jack’s career. Fittingly, his first major accomplishment was to successfully negotiate with the Nevada State senate to acquire the first two buildings for the Henderson campus of Clark County Community College.

In 1975, Jack’s influence expanded from City Hall to Carson City, when he was elected to the Nevada State Assembly by a margin of only six votes. “We overspent,” he said when told of the size of his majority, “but I always answered when my opponent said, ‘We wasted money campaigning for the five votes I didn’t need.’”

Jack’s first of many reelections was won by a more comfortable 28-vote margin. His 16 distinguished years in the Assembly include recognition as the Clark County Teachers Association’s “Friend of Education,” and the International Police Association’s “Legislator of the Year.”

Jack’s Democratic colleagues respected him enough to elect him majority whip—a position close to my heart—in 1977, and then chose him as their majority floor leader in 1981.

Jack is proud to have been a tireless advocate for increasing special education funds while he was in the Assembly. He believes special needs students deserve a quality education too, and he worked to make sure there will be opportunities for them.

Since leaving the Assembly in 1991, Jack has continued to fight to improve the quality of life for working people in Nevada. He’s been an active member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 357 all his adult life, and understands the trials and tribulations of working men and women and their families. Jack has been an invaluable asset to Southern Nevada Central Labor Council and to the Southern Nevada Building and Construction Trades Council, and earlier this month he was named “Consumer Advocate of the Year.”

The working men and women in Nevada work in better and safer jobs because of Jack. In fact, all people in Nevada are better off because of Jack Jeffrey. I wish Jack and his wife, Betty, the very best in retirement.

TRIBUTE TO JILL CHARLES

- Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, today I rise to pay tribute to a woman of great dedication, compassion, and courage. Jill Charles, Artistic Director of the Dorset Theatre Festival and a Dorset, Vermont, resident, will long be remembered for the passion she touched as an accomplished artist, a loving mother, a giving mentor, and a dear friend.

It is our good fortune that Jill chose to bring her talent and love of theatre to Vermont. In 1966, she arrived in Dorset to work as an apprentice for Fred and Pat Carmichael’s Caravan Theatre at the Dorset Playhouse. Subsequently, she earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in theatre from the University of Kentucky and was awarded a Master of Fine Arts degree in directing from Boston University. After the Carmichaels retired in 1976, Jill, with co-founder John Nassivera, established the Dorset Theatre Festival.

Jill was well known and highly respected for her work with young artists and for the guidance she provided for hundreds of pre-professional actors, designers and technicians who apprenticed during her twenty-six years as Dorset Theatre Festival Artistic Director. Her interest in the professional growth and emotional well-being of each member of the company was repeatedly reflected in her attention to matters large and small, and in countless acts of personal support and kindness.

A woman whose compassion and respect for others extended beyond her professional endeavors in the theatre, Jill was dedicated to her community and to the many humanitarian initiatives that she held dear. She was a dedicated foster parent for many years, and remained in contact with those children and by those whose lives she has touched.

Mr. JEFFORDS. I rise today to pay tribute to a woman of great dedication, compassion, and courage. Jill Charles, Artistic Director of the Dorset Theatre Festival, will long be remembered for the passion she touched as an accomplished artist, a loving mother, a giving mentor, and a dear friend.

TRIBUTE TO VALDON JOHNSON

- Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, Valdon Johnson is a retired Assistant Professor of English, now Emeritus Professor of English, from the University of Northern Iowa and currently is a regular volunteer in my Waterloo Regional Office.

Although Valdon’s father died when Valdon was about 7, his mother had remarried about 5 years later. Valdon began his college career at Iowa State Teachers College, now the University of Northern Iowa (UNI) in 1950. His studies were suspended while he served in the Navy. He received his B.A. in English in 1958 and an M.A. in English in 1959. His first teaching position was with Webster City Junior College, now Iowa Central Community College. In 1962, Valdon received a Fulbright Award to teach English as a foreign language in Japan before returning to UNI in 1968, where for 26 years, he taught Linguistics and Humanities.

Valdon’s first day in my office was September 24, 1994, his next was November 6, 1995. During the interim, time of about 13.5 months he recovered from a stroke that left him unable to talk. Not withstanding the stroke, he volunteered one to two days per week since. Valdon continues his other interests, which include the Masons and in traveling to the United Kingdom about every year, music (piano & organ), calligraphy, stenotype theory, handwriting analysis and religious history.

On September 24, 2001, Valdon passed away at the age of 80 due to complications of cancer. He is survived by his seven children and wife, McKernan. Patrick McKernan recently passed away at the age of 60 due to complications of cancer. He is survived by his seven children and wife, McKernan, who has been deemed by many as “Mr. Baseball” was best known in New Mexico for his management of the Albuquerque Dukes AAA baseball team.

THE PASSING OF PATRICK McKERNAN

- Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I rise to make a few remarks concerning the recent passing of New Mexico’s Patrick McKernan. Patrick McKernan recently passed away at the age of 60 due to complications of cancer. He is survived by his seven children and wife, McKernan, who has been deemed by many as “Mr. Baseball” was best known in New Mexico for his management of the Albuquerque Dukes AAA baseball team.
However, McKernan was more than just the manager of one of the most successful baseball teams in minor league history. He was also the man who helped pave the way for the success of professional sports in New Mexico. One of Pat McKernan’s key philosophies was the belief that the Albuquerque Dukes were more than a Dodgers AAA affiliate; they were in fact Albuquerque’s very own team. McKernan worked hard to make sure the people of New Mexico knew this.

McKernan’s professional success is highlighted by recognition from his peers: three-time PCL executive of the year, three-time Eastern League executive of the year, 2000 inductee to the Albuquerque Sports Hall of Fame, and recipient of the “King of Baseball” lifetime achievement award. However, one of his most impressive achievements is not illustrated by any award, but by the fact that for more than 20 years, attendance at Dukes baseball games was well above the levels for the rest of minor league baseball.

McKernan’s management made it easy for Albuquerque and the rest of New Mexico to love the Dukes. McKernan went above and beyond the duties of a general manager. McKernan believed that baseball was more than just a game, it could also in fact be used as a gateway to reach out to the entire community. He made it an obligation for Dukes management and players to personally reach out to the community that had so lovingly embraced it. Each Christmas, McKernan dressed as Santa Claus and personally handed out presents to needy children. McKernan showed his humanitarianism and genuine love of his fellow New Mexicans by donating excess food to local homeless shelters following every Dukes home game.

An editorial in The Albuquerque Tribune made a reference to Patrick McKernan and the city of Albuquerque by saying that they seemed almost intertwined in an ineffably charming enchantment. This statement is all too true. Not only did the world of baseball lose a brilliant and capable administrator, but the state of New Mexico also lost one its finest citizens and humanitarians. The citizens of Albuquerque and our state mourn the loss of Patrick McKernan.
