The History Museum for Springfield-Greene County is a valuable asset to the Springfield area. I ask that the Members of the Senate join me in recognizing and honoring the twenty-fifth anniversary of the History Museum for Springfield-Greene County.

NATIONAL ASSISTED LIVING WEEK
Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, today I draw the Senate’s attention to National Assisted Living Week. The National Center for Assisted Living is sponsoring National Assisted Living Week this week to highlight the significance of this service and the hope that it can provide seniors.

Assisted living is a long term care alternative for seniors who need more assistance than is available in retirement communities, but do not require the heavy medical and nursing care provided by nursing facilities. Approximately one million of our Nation’s seniors have chosen the option of assisted living in this country. This demonstrates a tremendous desire by seniors and their families to have the kind of assistance that they need in bathing, taking medications or other activities of daily living in a setting that truly becomes their home.

This year’s theme of National Assisted Living Week is “Sharing the Wisdom of Generations,” and it is intended to recognize the value of sharing insights and experiences between assisted living residents, their families, volunteers and assisted living staff. I think that it is appropriate because it highlights the variety of options assisted living can provide to meet different needs of patients.

Oregon has led our Nation in the concept of assisted living. My State spends more dollars per head to provide assisted living services than any other in our Nation. Assisted living has taken different directions in different States, and I believe offering these choices for consumers is important to provide security, dignity and independence for seniors.

Assisted living will become even more important for seniors and their families as our Nation experiences the demographic tsunami of aging baby boomers. It is buttressed by the many unmet needs of people with disabilities and the elderly who are dependent on their families in care settings in order to assure that they get the level of care that they need.

CONGRATULATING LT. STEVE YOUNG
Mr. VOINOVIĆ. Mr. President, I am honored to stand before you today and congratulate Lieutenant Steve Young, his family and his colleagues with the well-deserved nomination as President of the National Fraternal Order of Police, FOP. As you may know, the 86-year-old Fraternal Order of Police is the world’s largest organization of sworn law enforcement officers, improving the working conditions and advocating the safety of Police Department members in over 2,000 local lodges throughout the United States.

I am confident that with his 25 years of membership in the FOP and his current position as a Lieutenant in the Police Department in my State of Ohio, Lt. Young is an outstanding choice to lead the National Fraternal Order of Police. Prior to being named National President, Lt. Young has proudly and effectively served as both National Vice President and Ohio’s State President.

Further, he has become something of an expert in helping to ensure police officers’ pension plans throughout the country. He also helped to create the Ohio Law Enforcement Retirement Board. He believes negotiation is a critical part of managing and labor in police forces, a model that has since been utilized in 14 other States.

I know that Lt. Young will use his new position to further ensure fair and equal treatment to our nation’s true public servants.

Today, the Heart Failure Society of America is seen by government, industry and the medical community as the authoritative organization on heart failure. The Senate first condemned the HFSA and its work in the area of heart failure in February of last year, designating the week surrounding Valentine’s Day each year as “National Heart Failure Awareness Week.” These medical professionals are dedicated to enhancing the quality and duration of people’s lives.

We are pleased to welcome this group of distinguished individuals to Washington and recognize their extraordinary public service.

THE HEART FAILURE SOCIETY OF AMERICA
Mr. WELLSSTONE. Mr. President, the Heart Failure Society of America (HFSA) is a non-profit professional organization headquartered in St. Paul, MN, that represents the first organized effort by heart failure experts from the Americas to provide a forum for all those interested in heart failure research and patient care.

Today, the Heart Failure Society of America is convening here in our Nation’s capital with over 2,000 cardiologists, cardiac surgeons, internists, family practitioners, research scientists, pharmacologists, nurses, pharmacists and other allied health care professionals who treat heart failure patients for the HFSA 5th Annual Scientific Meeting. At this forum, preeminent professionals will unveil and review the latest developments in heart failure research and clinical practice.

Heart failure is a progressive condition in which the heart muscle weakens and gradually loses its ability to pump enough blood to supply the body’s needs and is frighteningly common but underrecognized. Heart failure affects nearly 5 million Americans. As more people survive heart attacks and live longer with weakened hearts, heart failure is the major cause of death. An estimated 400,000 to 700,000 new cases of heart failure are diagnosed each year. The number of deaths in the United States from this condition has more than doubled since 1979, averaging 250,000 annually. In fact, the death rate from coronary heart disease has dramatically dropped statistically over a similar time period. An estimated $8 to $15 billion is spent each year on the costs of hospitalization due to heart failure, which is twice the amount spent for all forms of cancer.

While there is currently no known cure for heart failure, new treatment approaches may help patients live more normal and fulfilling lives and benefit from a decreased risk of hospitalization.

The HFSA was founded in 1994 by a small, dedicated group of academic cardiologists who recognized that heart failure was on the rise, and that there was no venue for researchers, trainees and clinicians to share ideas about combating the disease. We owe them a debt of gratitude for providing the impetus for exploring heart failure awareness.

The HFSA currently has approximately 400 members. Members are drawn from nearly every country around the world to work together to improve the care of heart failure patients. The HFSA is also a member of the Cardiac Society of America and offers opportunities for the exchange of information and the fostering of scientific research.
