

and I have one of the few joint case-work operations in the Senate. Shortly after I was elected, Senator DEWINE graciously offered to combine our case-work services in an effort to better serve our constituents in Ohio by avoiding duplication of effort and by saving money on staff and office expenses.

To head up this office, MIKE and I asked Jenny Ogle, who had been MIKE's own Director of Constituent Services since 1995, and who had been a caseworker for MIKE from 1982 to 1989 when he was in the House of Representatives. In the interim years, while MIKE was serving as my Lieutenant Governor, Jenny brought her experience to Congressman DAVE HOBSON, where she served as casework manager.

I knew that Senator DEWINE and I were asking a lot of Jenny to run this new one-stop operation, but I was confident, given the great work that she had done for MIKE and for DAVE, that she could handle the load and do it well.

And I was right. For the past 3 years Jenny has been our Director of Constituent Services, and has done an excellent job in ensuring that all our casework is handled properly and in a timely manner.

One of the things that I have come to respect about Jenny is her leadership and interpersonal skills and her ability to reach out and make a difference in the lives of so many people. In fact, she could probably write a book based on the cases she handled personally as well as the cases she "quarterbacked" as Constituent Services Director. Jenny has a unique ability to bring out the best in herself, but more important, she has a real talent for bringing out the best in her staff.

I have often said that the most important work that my office does is outreach to my fellow Ohioans, and in terms of outreach and getting things done for the people of Ohio, Jenny has had a major impact. She can rest assured that her accomplishments are appreciated by me and my entire staff and her influence will continue to be felt for many years to come.

I will genuinely miss Jenny's service because she is a consummate professional. Throughout her career in constituent services in both the House and Senate, Jenny has dedicated herself to helping solve the problems of tens of thousands of Ohioans, many of whom have had nowhere else to turn. She is one of those rare individuals who can honestly say that they have made a difference in the lives of their fellow man.

I am proud of what she has been able to accomplish, and I know that her family is just as proud of her, if not more so. I thank Jenny for her service, and I wish her and her husband, Mike, a happy and healthy retirement together.

PRESIDENT HARRY S TRUMAN

Mrs. CARNAHAN. Mr. President, as you know, the Senate seat I currently hold was previously occupied by a distinguished man from Independence, MO, President Harry S Truman. So it is with great enthusiasm and pride that I take this opportunity to recognize the Grand Rededication of the Harry S Truman Presidential Museum and Library on December 9, 2001.

This weekend, the Truman Museum and Library will open a remarkable new permanent exhibit, "Harry S Truman: The Presidential Years." This compelling installation provides current and future generations with an interactive experience that allows them to fully immerse themselves in the Truman Presidency. Visitors will feel the pressure on Truman and his administration during the formative post-World War II years as President Truman and his advisors debated crucial decisions, such as use of the atomic bomb and recognition of the state of Israel. Those decisions continue to shape the world we now live in. This exhibit comes after the addition of the new White House Decision Center, which opened in October. The White House Decision Center is a replica of the West Wing and provides students with the opportunity to take on the role of President Truman or of his advisors during the Truman Presidency.

Since its opening in 1957, the Truman Museum and Library has remained true to the wishes of President Truman, who felt his papers should be the property of the people and accessible to them. With this directive in mind, the Truman Museum and Library house and preserve White House files as well as papers that document President Truman's life and career. These new projects are just the latest innovative exhibits, seminars, and public programs that have engaged and educated the public for over 40 years.

I commend all who have made this renovation and grand rededication possible, particularly the staff at the Truman Museum and Library. Their remarkable work and dedication to public service exemplify the integrity that Harry S Truman brought to the office of the Presidency. Each day as I represent the people of Missouri in the United States Senate, I am humbled by the honor to succeed this great man and Missouri's own, Harry S Truman.

FATHER MYCHAL F. JUDGE

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I ask for unanimous consent that the following statement, which I was honored to deliver at the funeral mass for Father Mychal F. Judge in New York City on September 15, be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

REMARKS BY SENATOR HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON AT THE MASS OF CHRISTIAN BURIAL FOR FATHER MYCHAL F. JUDGE, O.F.M., CHAPLAIN FOR THE FIRE DEPARTMENT OF NEW YORK CITY, CHURCH OF SAINT FRANCIS OF ASSISI, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 2001

Your Eminence, members of Father Mike's family, especially his sisters Erin and Dymna, his nieces and nephews, members of his beloved Franciscan community:

Father Mike left us one last earthly gift with Father Duffy's homily. That will long be remembered for its humanity, its love, and its humor.

My husband and I first heard of Father Mike during the White House years. We kept hearing about this charismatic Franciscan who ministered to the homeless, to AIDS victims, to immigrants, with perhaps a special touch for Irish immigrants and who loved his firefighters. So we invited him to the White House for our annual prayer breakfast, and because I was so intrigued by everything I had heard about him, and because I knew that in a big event like that I might not get much time to spend with him, I took the hostess' prerogative and put him at my table. What a beacon of light. He lit up the White House as he lit up every place he ever found himself.

We had just purchased our home here in New York so, of course, we first spoke about his love for this city, and he told me the stories of growing up and shining shoes and exploring on his own. And we talked about what drew him to become the chaplain for the fire department and how grateful he was because he felt, as you know so well, that it was a mission he'd been called to do.

On Tuesday, when the worst of evil struck our city, I was heading toward my office at the Senate, and I heard first of the crash into the tower and, like so many people, thought it must have been a terrible accident and, shortly thereafter, the second. As I frantically began making phone calls, we were evacuated because of the third crash into the Pentagon. I called the Mayor and the Governor and the President. And I think for so many people in those initial hours it was unimaginable except for those of you and your comrades who were there in the midst of it. And then I was called and told that Father Mychal Judge had died doing what he was called to do, and all of a sudden the enormity of the tragedy became very personal.

It will take a very long time before any of us can even find the words to express what this cowardly evil act meant and did to people we knew and loved, to our city and to our country. But as a Christian, I think often of another terrible day, a Friday of despair, darkness and death, a Friday that left behind so much pain and hopelessness and yet Sunday was coming and Sunday did come.

As we continue the work of rescue, recovery, rebuilding, reconstruction, we have to remember the spirit, the life, and the love that Father Mike left us. Pulling us one to the other, giving us strength where it seems hard to imagine it could ever come again. And being resolute in our commitment to do everything we can to ensure that not one person that lost his or her life on our Tuesday of death and darkness will have died in vain.

So thank you Father Judge. Father, you gave us so many gifts when you were alive. Gifts of laughter and love. Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, and you came to us. And now you've gone ahead, but you will never be forgotten, and we are grateful for the blessings of your life. Thank you.
