

I remember that debate so well because they kept saying we cannot find people to take these high tech jobs in the computer industry. I said we should try to, for example, go into the schools in the inner city and offer to pay entire college tuition for any kids who will agree to work for this high tech corporation when they get out of school. I am sure there are a couple hundred thousand kids that would love to have some type of scholarship program.

I said, what about disabled people? We are talking about computer work, after all. How much work has been done by the computer industry to recruit disabled people who can still work with their hands and be able to do that job? Well, nobody had taken that really into consideration, either. But the easy answer is, of course, to hire somebody from the south part of Asia who will come in who is 25 years old, and come in and work for $30,000 less a year than our own people will work or than will cost us to train our own people to come in and do these jobs. In other words, it is no consideration for the Americans at all. None.

Mr. TANCREDO. Reclaiming my time, the gentleman is absolutely correct. Study after study, even from those kinds of institutions that are pro immigration, study after study shows that the people hurt most by illegal immigration into the country are people at the bottom rung of the ladder, people who are working for minimum wage. The millions of people coming in without skills end up competing for those jobs.

Today I heard the report of the unemployment rate, and it is going up. High tech got hit first. Now we are seeing a major increase in the unemployment rate for people with low job skills, people who are often brought to our attention by the other side of the aisle, the homeless rate is going up, the number of people seeking welfare and food stamps is going up. All of that discussion about all those people, but never once have I heard those Members stand up and say we have at least 11 million people in this country illegally who are competing for those jobs. Nobody cares about that because that is part of their voter base.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. If the gentleman would yield, during this time when we do need some working people in these jobs, it is a fact, that is, when wages rise because employers are competing for better workers. During that time period, we might have created a situation where employers needed employees, and that they would have bid to get their services. We might have ended the problem of our own citizens not having health care coverage, for example, because the employers in order to get people to wash their dishes and wait on the tables, maybe they would have had to then offer those workers a health care plan. Maybe they would have had to talk to the people washing the cars and handling the parking lots, maybe they would have had to offer those people a health care plan.

Instead, we let that opportunity to raise the standard of living and help our people get those benefits from the private sector get away, and it ends up a burden on the taxpayer, not only of those other people but of the illegal immigrants as well.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Speaker, as we bring this discussion to a close, I want to let individuals know there is a way to contact us about this issue, especially people who want to know more about the impact of illegal immigration and what they can do about it. This is the e-mail address and fax number. It is a way in which people can get connected to this subject and perhaps help convince their congressman of the need for reform. We desperately need a change. I thank the gentleman for joining me.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, I salute the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. TANCREDO). This issue would not be discussed without the effort put out by the gentleman.
