

It is long past time to adopt sensible gun safety legislation.

LEGISLATION IN BEHALF OF VETERANS

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I have sought recognition to comment briefly on legislation acted upon during the first session of the 107th Congress which will make a dramatic difference in the lives of hundreds of thousands of service members and veterans, and in the lives of every American. Four bills relating to veterans benefits now await the President's signature. These bills, coupled with another major piece of legislation adopted by the Congress immediately prior to Memorial Day of this year, will substantially enhance veterans' benefits in the areas of health care, education, homeless assistance, disability compensation, and other areas. They are a testament to the good which can come when House and Senate, Republicans and Democrats, come together to achieve a common end.

The first bill now awaiting the President's signature, the "Veterans' Compensation Rate Amendments of 2001", H.R. 2540, provides a 2.6 percent increase in the rates of veterans' disability compensation and survivors' compensation. The increase, effective December 1, 2001, reflects inflation which occurred during the preceding 12 months, and is the same percentage increase Social Security recipients most recently received. H.R. 2540 will ensure that the purchasing power of compensation and survivor benefits is not compromised by inflation.

A second bill, the "Veterans Education and Benefits Expansion Act of 2001", H.R. 1291, is a comprehensive bill which enhances education, disability compensation, housing, burial, and other benefits that veterans have earned through service to the Nation. The education provisions of H.R. 1291 build on legislation, S. 1114, which I introduced earlier this year, by increasing the Montgomery GI Bill, "MGIB", monthly educational assistance benefit from $672 to $985, a 47 percent increase, over the next 3-year period. With the opportunity to "buy-up" an additional $150 per month in benefits as a result of legislation I authored during the 106th Congress, veterans the potential will now exist for a monthly benefit in excess of $1,100 per month for veterans attending school in the Fall of 2003. Such a benefit level will pay the average cost of tuition, fees, books, room and board, and travel expenses at a 4-year public college or university. These improvements are not just good for veterans; they are good for the Nation. The national security dictates that the services attract well-qualified, highly motivated men and women to serve. As was most recently recognized by the United States Commission on National Security/21st Century, enhancements in Montgomery GI Bill benefits are necessary to attract such recruits.

The "Veterans Education and Benefits Expansion Act of 2001" will further enhance educational assistance benefits by providing needed flexibility to students by allowing veterans to claim benefits on an accelerated basis so that they can pay the significant "up front" expenses of high-cost technology courses. It will also expand distance learning and independent study benefits. Further, this legislation incorporates provisions from a bill authored by Senator THOMPSON to allow certain Vietnam-era veterans the ability to use benefits, and it expands work-study opportunities available to veterans while they're attending college. And it will provide increased educational assistance benefits to the spouses and children of service members killed in the line of duty or who are permanently disabled as a result of service. Finally, this legislation preserves the suspended education entitlement of service members or reservists who had to leave school as a result of being called to active duty, such as a call to active duty participation in Operation Enduring Freedom.

In addition to these improvements in educational assistance benefits, the "Veterans Education and Benefits Expansion Act of 2001" keeps faith with veterans who served in past conflicts by expanding the eligibility of Vietnam and Gulf War veterans for presumptive compensation based on exposures and experiences which occurred during those conflicts. A Persian Gulf War veteran will now be eligible for compensation if he or she has a medically unexplained, chronic, multi-symptom illnesses such as chronic fatigue syndrome or irritable bowel syndrome, in addition to undiagnosed illnesses already covered in law. Further, this legislation gives VA explicit authority to compensate Gulf War veterans for any diagnosed condition. Given the Secretary's December 10, 2001, announcement of the increased prevalence of Lou Gehrig's disease among Gulf War veterans, this provision is particularly timely.

For veterans who served in the Vietnam war, the "Veterans Education and Benefits Expansion Act of 2001" will repeal the 30-year limit on the time period during which a Vietnam veteran must have contracted a respiratory cancer if he or she is to be presumed eligible for compensation based on exposure to Agent Orange. According to a recent National Academy of Science/Institute of Medicine report, there is no scientific evidence which suggests an upper limit can be placed on respiratory cancer latency. Given this, I believe the formerly-existing 30-year limit was arbitrary; this bill removed it. I owe thanks to Mr. Joseph R. Mancuso, a Vietnam veteran from Pennsylvania who was stricken by, and who, very sadly, has succumbed to, lung cancer for bringing this legal anomaly to my attention. This provision is a memorial to him. I just wish the Congress might have acted while Mr. Mancuso was still alive.

I should mention a few of this legislation's other important provisions. It increases VA's home loan guaranty to enable veterans living in high-cost regions of the country to afford a home with little or no down payment. It increases burial benefits available to the families of veterans who die due to a service-connected cause, and it increases grants provided to severely disabled veterans so they may purchase an automobile or make modifications to their homes to accommodate disabilities. The legislation also expands outreach and information services for departing service members, veterans, and family members, and it streamlines the eligibility determination process for low-income, disabled veterans seeking non service-connected pension benefits.

A third major piece of veterans' legislation which now awaits the President's signature, the "Homeless Veterans Comprehensive Assistance Act of 2001", H.R. 2716, is an additional step toward achieving the goal of ending chronic homelessness among America's veterans. This legislation would authorize VA to provide grants and per diem payments of up to $60 million in 2002, rising to $75 million in 2003, to entities which provide outreach, rehabilitative, vocational counseling and training, and transitional housing services to homeless veterans. It would expand mental health services, and direct each VA primary care facility to develop and carry out a plan to provide mental health services to veterans who need them. This legislation would also authorize the provision of dental care to homeless veterans by VA in recognition of the fact that such care is a necessary prerequisite if a homeless veteran is to gain, or regain, meaningful employment. Finally, this bill would ensure proper oversight of these programs through the creation of a VA Advisory Committee on Homeless Veterans.

A fourth and final bill which is now pending executive action, the "Department of Veterans Affairs Health Care Programs Enhancement Act of 2001", H.R. 3447, would address a number of critical issues affecting veterans' health care. First, this legislation addresses the looming, and in some places already-present, VA nursing shortage by permanently authorizing the Employee Incentive Scholarship Program, a program which allows VA to provide up to $10,000 per year, for up to three years, to employees engaged in full-time academic studies. Additionally, this legislation reduces the minimum period of employment required for eligibility in the program from two years to one year, and extends authority to increase the award amounts based on federal national comparability increases in pay. Further, in an effort to encourage nurses who have already completed school to come work for VA, the bill would permanently authorize the Employee Debt Reduction Program, EDRP, extend to five the number of years that a VA employee might participate in the EDRP, and increase the gross award limit to any participant to $44,000. The EDRP program allows VA to assist employees with the repayment of education debt, and it allows VA to compete with private sector health care systems that offer similar programs. Finally, this legislation creates the National VA Commission on Nursing, which will consist of experts in the nursing profession as well as economists and education professionals. The Commission will report findings and recommendations relating to nurse recruitment and retention and other nurse employment issues within two years.

The "Department of Veterans Affairs Health Care Programs Enhancement Act of 2001" also contains elements of a bill, S. 1188, which I introduced earlier this year to provide priority access to VA care to poor veterans residing in relatively high cost areas like Philadelphia or Pittsburgh. Currently, VA provides priority access to care, and it waives co-payments, only for veterans whose incomes are below a nationally-determined annual amount. This "one-size-fits-all" formula does not take into account local variations in the cost of living. As a consequence, veterans in high-cost areas, typically urban areas, who are poor by most standards, do not qualify for priority access for VA care. And they must pay the full amount of co-payments charged to other, much better off, veterans. This legislation would relieve much of the burden of co-payments on, and raise the relative priority for VA health care of, these near-poor veterans.

The "Department of Veterans Affairs Health Care Programs Enhancement Act of 2001" also addresses other important health issues. It provides service-dogs, trained to accomplish tasks such as opening doors and retrieving clothing, to disabled veterans. It directs VA to focus its attention on the maintenance of special programs in each geographic region of the country, and it creates a program for chiropractic care in the VA. Finally, this legislation authorizes the construction of a power plant in Miami, FL, that was destroyed over one year ago by a fire that left two employees critically injured.

Finally, I note the enactment of the "Veterans' Survivor Benefits Improvements Act of 2001," Public Law 107-14, which was signed by the President on June 5, 2001. This legislation retroactively increased insurance benefits provided to, and guaranteed additional health care coverage for, the survivors of service members killed in the line of duty. This legislation also expanded health care coverage to the spouses of veterans who have permanent and total disabilities due to military service and to the spouses of veterans who have died as a result of wounds incurred in service. Further, this Act extended life insurance benefits to service members' spouses and children, and authorized, and directed, VA to conduct outreach efforts to contact these survivors, and other eligible dependents, to apprise them of the benefits to which they are entitled. Finally, the "Veterans' Survivor Benefits Improvements Act of 2001," made technical improvements to Montgomery GI Bill education benefits, and make other purely technical amendments to title 38, United States Code.

This first session of the 107th Congress has produced five outstanding bills benefitting veterans. The enhancements contained within them send an unmistakable message to Americans that this Nation values military service and honors those who risk their lives so that we may be free. I complement all those who worked so hard to make these legislative accomplishments a reality.

THE EQUAL PROTECTION OF VOTING RIGHTS ACT OF 2001

Mr. TORRICELLI. Mr. President, when the Voting Rights Act was signed into law over 30 years ago, many thought it was the end of a long journey to recognize that the ideals on which this country was founded were more than just abstract notions. The Voting Rights Act and before it the 14th amendment were definitive expressions by our Nation's government that liberty and equality in theory is only as meaningful as liberty and equality in practice. As my colleague from Connecticut noted yesterday in this Chamber, Thomas Paine captured the essence of our Nation's democracy when he stated that the right to vote is "the primary right by which all other rights are protected."

The immediate consequence of the 2000 elections and its unsettling aftermath was a realization that even 30 years after the Voting Rights Act became law, the Nation's election system was not what people thought it was. The election brought to light many problems with the Nation's voting system, including the impact that outdated voting machines, undertrained poll workers, and poorly-designed ballots can have on an election.

Throughout the past year, Congress and the Nation have evaluated how best to ensure that future elections are ones in which Americans can have faith in the results. I have spent countless hours devoted to the subject. A year ago last week, Senator McCONNELL and I introduced one of the first bills seeking to improve election systems and procedures. Others soon followed with their own ideas about how to best bring about change to what we had learned was a clearly flawed system.

With so much at stake, the process has not been without disagreement and at times it seemed that little would be changed. Both the House of Representatives and the Senate, however, have finally made progress in crafting bipartisan legislation seeking to make elections more fair for all Americans. The House of Representatives has passed legislation supported by a majority of both parties. Yesterday, Senators DODD, McCONNELL, BOND, SCHUMER and I introduced bipartisan legislation to modernize the Nation's election procedures.

The Equal Protection of Voting Rights Act of 2001 represents a balance between establishing national standards for voting and giving States the flexibility to make improvements tailored to their State's needs. First, this bill creates a permanent Federal system of analysis and assistance. This legislation establishes an Election Administration Commission, consisting of two commissioners from each party who will serve 4-year terms. The commission will bring expertise to modernizing elections and provide States and localities with advice for their enhancing voting procedures. This permanent commission was the cornerstone of election reform legislation that Senator McCONNELL and I introduced over a year ago and I am extraordinarily pleased to see it included in this landmark legislation.

Second, this legislation establishes three minimum national requirements for voting procedures to ensure that voting across the Nation is uniform and nondiscriminatory. These minimum national standards include requiring States and localities across the Nation to utilize voting systems that enable voters to verify how they voted and ensure accessibility to language minorities and individuals with disabilities, requiring States and localities to provide for provisional balloting, and requiring States and localities to establish a statewide voter registration list with the names and addresses of eligible voters.

Perhaps most importantly, however, this legislation provides $3 billion in Federal grants for States and localities to update voting systems, improve accessibility to polling places, and train poll workers, among other things. States and communities must show that they comply with the three national requirements to be eligible for the grants. An additional $400 million is authorized for providing early funds so that States and localities can implement some improvements quickly; $100
