Unfortunately on Monday night, the Wildcats came up short in their quest for a second national championship. But even in defeat, they displayed the talent and grace of a championship team.

I want to congratulate Lute Olson. I want to congratulate all of the assistant coaches. I want to congratulate the team for its great season, for its unsellish play. You have made University of Arizona alumni like me, the student body of the U of A, the State of Arizona, and fans of basketball, particularly college basketball, all across the country extremely proud. Thank you very much for a great year. I commend you all.

Our hearts and sympathies go with you, Lute. And to the team, bear down.

OVERALL TAX RELIEF

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Graves). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2001, the gentleman from New York (Mr. Grucci) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the chairman of the

Mr. GRUCCI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to join my colleagues to express my tremendous support for providing America's working families with much needed, reasonable and equitable tax relief. This legislative body needed to act comprehensively and quickly to implement a reasonable and fair tax relief package that will benefit our middle-class families, small businesses, and farmers.

In New York’s First Congressional District, where the cost of living is higher than in many regions of our Nation, the tax relief package we have approved will help jump start our local economy and put the money back where it belongs, in the pockets of the hard-working families.

We have helped our families through the Marriage Penalty and Family Tax Relief Act, and the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Act, and our small family businesses and farmers will benefit from our efforts here today to repeal the death tax and all the smaller parts of this tax relief package, we are providing the reasonable and meaningful tax relief that our farmers, our small businesses, and our families have been calling for.

For far too long, hard-working married couples have been unfairly taxed by an average of $1,400 a year simply for the privilege of living inside the institution of marriage. In New York’s First District alone, an estimated 56,134 families will receive significant tax relief under this measure. These 56,134 families could potentially put their savings towards their children’s education, home improvements, a new computer, investments in their future, education, home improvements, a new car, or they will support our small businesses and farmers.

According to the CBO, most marriage penalties occur when the higher-earning spouse makes between $20,000 to $75,000. The current Tax Code punishes working married couples by placing them in a higher tax bracket. The marriage penalty taxes the income of the second wage earner at a higher rate than if the wage earner were taxed as a single individual. This is just simply unfair. The death tax currently taxes up to 60 percent of a family’s farm or business, killing the small family-owned businesses and the stores that line the Main Streets of our downtown communities throughout this great land. These families who own farms on the east end of Long Island and the small businesses that compromise the very fabric of Long Island’s economy have worked hard all of their lives. Working together with their families, they reached for the American dream, paying their taxes all the way along the way and made positive contributions to our society. They should not be penalized by being taxed again in death. That is just simply immoral, unfair, and wrong.

The Economic Growth and Tax Relief Act will give hard-working middle-class families more of their hard-earned money to be used better to offset rising costs for each and every family, costs like a college education for our young people, a mortgage payment, or they will support our small businesses and local economy. These middle-class working families earning $50,000 will see a $1,600 reduction in their taxes. That is a 50 percent cut. A family of four earning $35,000 would see a 100 percent cut. That is fair and that is reasonable.

Mr. Speaker, that is real tax relief for our middle-class working families. This package of reasonable tax relief incentives will leave more money in New York State. New York already contributes about $17 billion more in taxes to Washington than it gets back.

The Economic Growth and Tax Relief Act of 2001 alone will cut that deficit by $9.7 billion.

Now, as a former town supervisor, Mr. Speaker, I know firsthand how reasonable tax relief can help families and our local economy create thousands of new jobs and create millions of dollars of surplus. The hard-working middle-class families of the First District of New York and throughout our Nation should have their tax dollars back. We have accomplished this while we protected and locked away Social Security and Medicare funds and reduced our national debt at historic rates and set aside a trillion dollar contingency fund.

Last of all, Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for working together on these critical initiatives, and I urge my colleagues in the Senate to take swift action.

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG COVERAGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2001, the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. GANSKE) is recognized for the remainder of the majority leader’s hour, approximately 30 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GANSKE. I yield to the gentlewoman from Ohio.

THE U.S. ECONOMY

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I am very grateful to the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. GANSKE) for yielding to me to continue a Special Order that I began last night during this 5-minute segment on the condition of the U.S. economy. I am very grateful for these few minutes just to continue, as I will every evening where I have a chance.

Mr. Speaker, this relates to America’s great need for a new declaration of economic independence and my great disappointment at the debate that occurred in the Congress here in the House last week concerning the tax measures that were before us and then again today, where if we count up the cumulative total of all of these measures we are talking about $3 trillion over the so-called 10-year window. This is an enormous amount of money for a country that currently has over $5.6 trillion worth of debt that we have to pay back, and every year we are paying more and more in the way of interest on that debt.

This year alone we are projected to spend well over $450 billion just on the debt alone.

In addition to that, the United States has the worst-ever current account trade deficit amounting to over $500 billion last year, that essentially requires that we sell our assets or borrow $1.5 billion a day net from foreign interests. Now, the trade deficit is basically about more goods coming into our country than our goods going out. This essentially results from flawed trade agreements that have enabled countries like the People’s Republic of China, that is now holding 24 of our military personnel, to gain perhaps a $100 billion disadvantageous this year from their net exports to this country versus our ability to export into that economy.

So what is wrong with the Bush tax and budget plan? First, the President’s tax and budget plan does not pay down the overall debt. In fact, his budget is based on what I would call wildly optimistic, 10-year projections that, in fact, cause the debt to spiral, particularly when over $3 trillion is being returned in that period to a country that still owes $5.6 trillion.

Now, it is interesting that the 10-year window is used for projections when, in fact, the President is only elected for 4 years and we here in Congress only budget one year at a time. So we cannot use a 10-year window. If experience is a good teacher, as it surely should be, we know that projections in the past have been off by vast magnitudes, sometimes as much as 75 percent in one year.

Now major revenue hemorrhages are going to occur after the year 2005 because Social Security and medical care bills will rise as more people from the baby boom generation begin retiring. The administration budget risks ratcheting up what is already a spiraling debt burden, particularly after 2005. So his proposals threaten long-term economic growth and the long-term solvency of both Social Security and Medicare.

Moreover, the administration’s budget is inherently unfair, because nearly half of the tax benefits go to people earning over $900,000 a year, only the top 1 percent of earners in this country. It is no question in my mind that the President’s powerful allies are setting their own table for slashing corporate income tax rates from 36 to 25 percent, as most corporations, many of them, do not pay taxes even now; none at all. I will be reading into the RECORD, when we return later in the
