IN RECOGNITION OF THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF SOUTHWEST MISSOURI STATE UNIVERSITY

HON. ROY BLUNT

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 1, 2005

Mr. BLUNT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay honor to an institution that celebrates its 100th birthday this month—Southwest Missouri State University at Springfield, Missouri with campuses in West Plains and Mountain Grove. During that century, Southwest Missouri State University, or SMSU as its students and alumni know it, has left its lasting mark of service and academic achievement on the region, the state, the nation and parts of the world.

Southwest Missouri State University was founded March 17, 1905, in Springfield as Missouri State Normal School, Fourth District. With a faculty of 8, and 173 students in a single building on 38 acres of farmland, the school has evolved into the state's second largest institution of higher learning with 61 buildings and a student population of more than 20,800. The faculty has changed too. The 700-member faculty represents a diverse group of researchers, educators, public servants and mentors in 192 fields of study and offers more than 3,300 classes each year. The school's budget exceeds $200 million and its economic impact is an estimated $2 million per day.

Its library, named after former President Duane Meyer, is a shining example of the growth and sophistication of SMSU. The number of books in the library has increased from 600 borrowed books in 1906 to 842,000 books, 928,000 government documents, 1,040,000 microforms, 35,000 audio-visual items, and 180,000 maps today. This year, the library will add its collection of union archives to its offerings available over the Internet.

SMSU has "opened the door of opportunity" for students who have dared to excel for the past century and distinguished themselves in academics, in research, in public service, and in co-curricular activities and sports.

In 1995, SMSU gained further distinction by adopting a statewide public affairs mission. SMSU has had a profound effect on improving the quality of life for citizens in Springfield, the region, and the state.

March 17, 2005 is "Southwest Missouri State University Founders Day." It is part of a year-long celebration of the school's 100 years of service to Missouri. It is an appropriate celebration to mark the significant contributions the institution has made to the citizens of Missouri and the nation over the past 100 years.

The future looks bright for Springfield campus. It has strong, principled leadership, a dedicated faculty that is actively involved in many communities. The school's research goals are expanding and its student body comes from nearly every county in the state.

The evolution of SMSU followed its name. In its 100 years, the institution has had four names—Missouri State Normal School, Fourth District; Southwest Missouri State Teachers College; Southwest Missouri State College; and Southwest Missouri State University—each name changed to more accurately reflect what the institution had become.

Nowhere is that more evident than in the growing ranks of its alumni that include governors, members of Congress, members of the state general assembly, countless local and municipal officials, teachers, civic leaders and business owners. I am proud to be among the 80,000 living SMSU alumni today.

This school has earned the honor of being called Missouri State University. It is a fitting new name for this institution that has provided excellence in higher education, research and public service across the state and continues to expand its service and reach into more communities. I want to wish Missouri's second largest university at Springfield another 100 years of service to, not only the region, but also the entire State of Missouri.

Go Bears!

RECOGNIZING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF SERGEANT JOSEPH PEREZ

HON. JON C. PORTER

OF NEVADA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 1, 2005

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the contributions of a great American, Sergeant Joseph Perez. I honor him today for his heroism in the fight against our global enemies and in fighting for equitable treatment for all Army National Guardsmen.

As a former member of the Nevada Army National Guard, Sgt. Perez has shown valor and honor in combat in Iraq against the aggression of our enemies in the Global War on Terror. Since his return to the United States, overcoming near-fatal injuries and other odds, Sgt. Perez has taken an active stand to ensure that our returning Guardsmen and Reserves get their guaranteed pay and benefits.

The inspirational story of this brave man is one that deserves notice not just for his bravery in combat, but for his determination to reform inequities in services for their fellow guardsmen and soldiers. I encourage each of my colleagues to diligently work to provide, in an accurate and timely manner, pay and benefits to reserve soldiers who have been injured or have become ill fighting in the line of duty. Our troops deserve that much for the sacrifices they have made volunteering to fight to maintain the freedoms we all take for granted.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great pride and heartfelt gratitude that I salute Sgt. Perez for his bravery and sacrifice. I also honor him for his continued determination to find solutions to inequities in our military.

Tuesday, March 1, 2005

Mr. CUELLAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Jim Powers for his many initiatives and accomplishments as a judge and public servant of Hays County, Texas.

Jim Powers was sworn in as Hays County Judge in 1999 and became the first ever Republican to be elected to the seat. Since taking office, Powers has helped make Hays County one of the fastest growing counties in Texas.

Powers has been very instrumental in the growth and infrastructure development of Hays County. He was crucial in a $47 million bond issue to improve and make safer the roads in Hays County. Powers also negotiated the Hunter Road expansion project in San Marcos, which is the second major highway project in Hays County for the last 15 years. In addition, Judge Powers was responsible for purchasing 20 acres of land surrounding the Civic Center for future expansion and development.

Some of his other accomplishments include cutting taxes, decreasing the county's debt, increasing the county's credit rating, improving the water system, and making government much more efficient in Hays County.

Prior to becoming County Judge, Powers was a successful restaurateur, author, Vice President of the Dripping Springs Independent School District Educational Foundation, and an Executive Director of Family and Marriage Resources. Powers has always adhered to the basic precept of putting people first and motivating those around him. Throughout the years, this formula has brought him success in business, politics and in his personal relationships.

Currently, Judge Powers resides in Dripping Springs with his wife Maripat Mayfield Powers and their four children. Powers is a member and Deacon of the First Baptist Church of Dripping Springs. I am honored to have this opportunity to distinguish Judge Jim Powers for his lifetime of achievement, and to thank him for his continued commitment to the betterment of our community.

RECOGNITION FOR THE
LOUISVILLE ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN

HON. ANNE M. NORTHUP

OF KENTUCKY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 1, 2005

Mrs. NORTHUP. Mr. Speaker, I would like to recognize the recent accreditation of the Louisville Zoological Gardens by the American Association of Museums (AAM) which was awarded for the excellence of its animal, botanical and non-living collections. Accreditation by the AAM is the highest honor a museum can receive and is a testament to the professionalism and the public service provided to my community and the nation by the Louisville Zoo.

Founded in 1969, the Louisville Zoo has made tremendous strides to become one of the nation's premier botanical and zoological facilities. To achieve its mission of educating the public about the wonders of animal and plant life and raising awareness for wildlife conservation, the zoo currently has over 1,300 animals exhibited in beautiful natural settings, including some of the rarest species found on the planet. It offers state-of-the-art animal care and award-winning exhibits that educate residents and visitors of all ages. Almost 800,000 people visit the Louisville Zoo each year.

In 1980, the Louisville Zoo obtained its first major professional recognition when it received accreditation by the American Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA). In 2003, the AZA presented its Exhibit Award to the Louisville Zoo for outstanding commitment to conservation in the construction of its new, four-acre Gorilla Forest exhibit space which so closely replicated the natural habitats for the gorilla.

Accreditation by the American Association of Museums is a major accomplishment for the Louisville Zoo. It signifies excellence within the museum community and is recognition of the ethical and professional practices employed by the organization.

The process for accreditation is difficult and intensive. Over the period of three years, the Louisville Zoo underwent a thorough self-evaluation, a total audit of all collections, an accounting of business and operating procedures and a review of the procedures and protocols that govern the tasks of plant and animal management. After all this was done, a team of museum association peers conducted an on-site inspection.

As a result of this rigorous review process, very few museums have received this recognition. Only 750 of the Nation's 16,000 museums, or less than 5 percent, are currently accredited and the Louisville Zoo is one of only four institutions in the Commonwealth of Kentucky to receive this honor.

Mr. Speaker, Louisvillians are proud of the achievements of the Louisville Zoo and appreciate the contributions it has made to our community. Recognition by the AAM confirms what Louisville residents have known all along: that the Louisville Zoo provides a first-class experience and education to students and animal lovers of all ages, and it will continue to do so for many years to come. I would like to offer my heartfelt congratulations to all of the Louisville Zoo's staff for this most recent honor.

IN SUPPORT OF THE NATIONAL EATING DISORDERS AWARENESS WEEK

HON. ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 1, 2005

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to recognize the efforts of the Eating Disorders Coalition and its affiliated organizations for promoting awareness regarding the need for education, prevention, and treatment of eating disorders. They are commemorating the "National Eating Disorders Awareness Week" from February 27 to March 5th of 2005, and they have been devoted over the years to educate the community and offer help and support to our population to promote the well-being of patients with eating disorders.

Eating disorders include anorexia nervosa, bulimia, and binge eating disorder, and impact millions of Americans each year. The consequences of these disorders could be devastating to the physical and mental health of those afflicted. Although eating disorders affect mainly females, males can be affected by these disorders. We need to educate the general population to recognize the problem and teach them how to seek adequate help. Prevention should start at an early age, and the best method of prevention should be education and the promotion of healthy eating habits and self-esteem.

Please join the efforts of all those who work hard to fight these serious medical conditions, and recognize the important work that the Eating Disorders Coalition and its affiliated organizations do on a daily basis to promote the health of patients with eating disorders.
