HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 127

Whereas, Louisiana, more than most other states, is keenly aware of the importance of maintaining waterway channels clear for navigation with several major rivers, including the Mississippi River, flowing through the state and is also keenly aware that dredging navigation channels and letting the dredge material merely flow out to the Gulf of Mexico is, in essence, letting Louisiana merely flow out to the Gulf of Mexico; and

Whereas, if the total amount of funds collected from the Harbor Maintenance Tax is appropriated to the Corps of Engineers, those funds could be used to help fund the dredging necessary to maintain the navigation channels open for commerce; and

Whereas, an ancillary use of dredging activity that has become essential to the preservation of Louisiana's coastline is beneficial use of dredge material whereby the material dredged from waterways is then taken and "planted" where it can be used to preserve and grow land in the coastal areas where Louisiana is losing land at an alarming rate; and

Whereas, coastal Louisiana was formed by the depositional processes of the Mississippi River over the past seven thousand five hundred years; and

Whereas, the thick fluvial deposits that comprise the Mississippi River Delta are naturally prone to compaction under their own weight, but if sediment supplies are sufficient, the delta can build and maintain its surfaces as sea level rises; and

Whereas, the land building processes of the Mississippi River have been halted in South Louisiana by a combination of levees which prevent seasonal overbank flooding and sediment deposition, dredged waterways which channel freshwater and sediment to the Gulf of Mexico, and upstream dam construction which prevent sediment from naturally reaching the Louisiana coast; and

Whereas, over fifteen hundred square miles of Louisiana's coastal wetlands and barrier islands have been lost to open water since the early 1930s, and scientists project that another five hundred square miles will be lost by 2050, if current resource management practices continue; and

Whereas, more than one hundred twenty million tons of river sediment that could be used to sustain the Mississippi Delta will be lost to the Gulf of Mexico each year if nothing is done to restore the natural hydrology of the Mississippi River; and

Whereas, prevention of wetland loss in the Mississippi River Deltaic Plain, which comprises most of the southeastern Louisiana coastal zone, is dependent upon restoring flows of fresh water and sediment to the delta; and

Whereas, an international team of scientists convened for the express purpose of advising the state of Louisiana about its coastal land loss problem in 2006 concluded that, "The most fundamental and essential action needed to achieve a sustainable coast is to reduce, to the greatest extent possible, the amount of Mississippi River sediment and freshwater flowing directly into the deep waters of the Gulf. These valuable resources, which originally built coastal Louisiana, can only benefit the coast if they are redirected to inshore and nearshore waters. This would occur naturally if the river were not artificially maintained for navigation along its present course into deep water"; and

Whereas, fully appropriating to the Corps of Engineers the revenue received from the Harbor Maintenance Tax could provide the funds essential to both dredge rivers for navigation purposes as intended by the imposition of the tax and, to go a step further, as authorized by the tax, to use that dredge material for beneficial uses in restoring and
